Terry Grier Behind-scenes Manager of NDP Campaign

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — For Terry Grier, caught in the upside-down world of politics, it's the nature of the road ahead that counts.

As the New Democratic Party's national secretary, the youthful professional is the behind-the-scenes manager of the Nov. 8 election campaign. And he says:

"I like to know where I'm going."

Symbolic of his approach is a green, loose-leaf notebook which has become his most faithful travelling companion. It's his personal campaign blueprint which he put together last summer while spending a few days with his wife and three sons at a country cottage.

"I can go anywhere with this," he said, holding it up to show a reporter in his simply-furnished office at party headquarters. "I can't do anywhere without it."

Expecting a fall election, he set-down in the notebook everything that had to be done on a variety of subjects ranging from budgets to travel itineraries.

It's getting good use now as the chunky, round-faced organizer co-ordinates what is developing as the most comprehensive campaign ever staged by the NDP or its predecessor, the CCF.

AIM AT FULL SLATE

"This is the key to the whole campaign," Mr. Grier said. "We've got to present the party as a contender in every respect."

In part this means running a full slate of 265 candidates for the first time. Mr. Grier said the objective will be reached or nearly so.

The party has been working vigorously for the last few years to emerge from the limbo accorded a minority group and take its place as a national party along with the Liberals and Conservatives.

Mr. Grier has helped the process along since he took over the secretary's job in 1962. Part of it has involved stimulating membership campaigns by the provincial party organizations.

"We've been hammering it and hammering it," he said. Dues-paying membership, apart from union affiliation, has risen to 70,000 from 50,000.

The Nov. 8 campaign is the second he has managed for the party and he's still only 29, a decade or two younger than his counterparts in the other parties.

He felt his youth was a bit of a handicap in 1963, but not now. He also has a "higher degree of self-confidence". In his ability to handle the job.

He was assistant party secretary for the 1962 campaign—his first—and since—then his black hair has added a touch of grey and it's a little thinner. He also weighs a little more.

RULED BY TELEPHONE

Terence W. Grier, a native of Sherbrooke, Que.—but English-speaking, not French—threw in his lot with the socialist party at the University of Toronto where he got mixed up in campus politics.

He obtained his master's degree from the university in 1960 and joined the party's headquarters staff soon after. Earlier he had spent 1½ years as a research economist with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Now his life is often dominated by his desk telephone on which he does much of his work. He will lean back and answer it with one foot on his desk.

"As soon as you put the telephone down there are two more calls waiting."

His campaign day starts with his 8:30 a.m. arrival at the party's midtown headquarters in an old, converted three-storey brick house. It's an accepted head office style for political parties. The Liberals have theirs in the same neighborhood.

Once at the desk "you don't really get out again" although "I may get home for supper." He has an office at home, too.

"The pressure on your time is such that you don't really get a chance to feel tired. You just keep working."

He sees his campaign role as a co-ordinator in the party's decentralized operation and his desk as the place to fulfil it. Once there, "I try to be organized and keep things nailed down in their proper categories."

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Deseronto Guides and Brownies held a mother and daughter banquet on Monday in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall with approximately 115 in attendance.

Rev. A. Dowdell of St. Mark's Anglican Church officiated at the retirement of the Union Jack and the dedication of the new Canadian flag.

After the delicious pot luck dinner the head table guests were introduced. They were Rev. and Mrs. A. Dowdell, Mrs. G. Lott, Division Commissioner Elizabeth McVicker, District Commissioner Joyce VanVlack, Captains M. Morden and J. Bernhardt, Guider Elaine Parks, Company Leader Marlene Gartland, Brown Owl D. Keech, Acting Brown Owl J. Halpin, Tawny Owl L. Coles and retiring badge secretary M Jackson.

District Commissioner VanVlack welcomed the guests, after which a trophy, awarded to the Guide of the year, was presented to Carolyn Caron by Mrs. Lott, Jo-Ann Punchard received a plaque as runner-up for the coveted position.

A fly-up ceremony was performed for Rosemary Edwards and Kathy Bean who flew from Brownies to Guides.

Religion and Life badges were awarded to Carolyn Wood, Valerie Trumpour, Dorothy Kimmett, and Sandra VanVlack.

Home Nursing badges were won by Valerie Trumpour, Linda Brooks and Sandra VanVlack.

The evening was brought to a close with the singing of taps.

UNEMPLOYMENT UP

LONDON (AP)—The number of unemployed in Britain in mid-October was 316,774, 1.3 per cent of the labor force, the labor ministry announced Thursday. The October figure showed a slight increase over the 315,328 figure for September, the ministry added.

P.M. Defends Integrity of Govt. on TV

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson took to the airwaves Saturday night on the scandals in government issue that has figured so prominently in the opposition's election campaigning.

He said his government has defeated the attempts of the unscrupulous to gain influence in high places and he accused opponents of distorting the facts with "insinuations . . . whispering campaigns . . . which build . . . misrepresentations . . . innuendos".

Mr. Pearson, speaking on the CBC's free-time television series, said the crime-ring killings in Quebec had led to "a disturbing example" of such insinuations.

"The ring operated in areas where is no evidence at all to connect it with bankruptcy cases. Yet you have been told that the killings might have been prevented if a report on bankruptcy received by the federal government had been published and acted on.

"There is not a scrap of evidence to support the charge. The alleged report doesn't even exist. It is pure invention. No, not pure invention; malicious invention."

(Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said in Hamilton Oct. 5 a report on bankruptcies was hidden from Parliament and that there would have been "less possibility" of the Quebec killings if it had been made public.)

In his first major defence of the government's integrity, Mr. Pearson said organized crime had made attempts to influence government—citing the Lucien Rivard case as an example—but "organized crime has failed in those attempts."

'IUNTOUCHABLE VALUABLE'

Some people had believed that justice could be influenced by political contacts. "They were wrong. Justice in fact took its proper course. Lucien Rivard is now in prison."

Two persons connected with the government were involved in the attempts to get him off on charges, the other was forced to resign as Mr. Pearson's parliamentary secretary.

At the outset of his 1,000-word speech, taped in his Parliament Hill office last Friday, Mr. Pearson said:

"In this election campaign some opposition speakers have made charges about corruption in high places. They suggest that the tentacles of organized crime have been allowed to reach into and influence government.

"I want to say two things about these charges.

"First, they are false—some viciously, some hidcrously false.

"But, secondly, there is a genuine and serious problem that I do think exists and has to be dealt with. It is this: As our country has become more prosperous, crime has become a powerful and organized big business.

"In doing so, it has made some attempts to influence the work of government."

Then Mr. Pearson denied that any such attempts have succeeded.

BIRTHS FEWER

OTTAWA (CP) — Fewer births but more marriages and deaths were registered in September and in the first nine months of this year than in the same periods of 1964, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. In September there were 37,779 births, 18,536 marriages and 12,623 deaths, compared with 37,378 births, 16,465 marriages and 11,850 deaths last September. Totals for the first nine months of the year were 322,904 births, 106,437 marriages and 110,859 deaths. Last year the nine - month totals were 347,175 births, 101,943 marriages and 109,795 deaths.

Three Slated For Cabinet Says Dief

By DAVE McINTOSH

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) Opposition Leader Diefenbaker has indicated that if the Conservatives win office Nov. 8 he will invite Douglas Harkness, George Hees and Davie Fulton, among others, into the cabinet.

Mr. Harkness and Mr. Hees resigned from the administration in 1963 in a split over nuclear policy and Mr. Fulton left it to become Conservative leader in British Columbia. All are candidates in the current election.

In a speech before a packed theatre audience of about 1,000 here Thursday night, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals in the 1957 campaign had stated that the Conservatives couldn't form an administration if elected.

He said the Conservatives now have cabinet experience and could form a government after Nov. 8 with experienced men.

Mr. Diefenbaker said ministers left his cabinet in 1963 on questions of principle. Ministers had quit Liberal Prime Minister Mackenzie King's cabinet during the Second World War for the same reason.

NO DEALS

He also said no deals have been made to achieve the restored party unity.

"Deals never will be made as long I'm leader of the party," he added.

One reason Prime Minister Pearson had called the election was that he thought the Conservatives were divided.

"The prime minister says that if the Liberals don't get a majority he hopes another party will. We are going to accommodate him."

Mr. Diefenbaker blasted back at Privy Council President Guy Favreau who said in a Montreal speech Wednesday night that the Conservative leader is a separatist and dangerous to Canada.

GREAT COMPLIMENT

"Favreau says he doesn't like me, and I can think of no greater compliment," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

If it had not been for the stand of the Conservatives in Parliament, Canada would have been balkanized. Canadian unity had been rent asunder and must be restored. For 24½ years federals had enunciated a strange doctrine that Canada is not one nation but a group of associate states.

In outlining Conservative agricultural, social security and finance policies, Mr. Diefenbaker said a government led by him would enact stiffer laws against stock frauds.

He said that if the recommendations of the Porter royal commission had been put into effect by now recent stock frauds might have been prevented.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said that institutions doing bank business should be brought under the Federal Bank Act.

Today he campaigns in Belleville, Lindsay and Port Hope.

Socred Leader Says Dief Running Scared

By WALTER HAYES

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C (CP)—"Gyps, frauds and extravagances" are forcing up the cost of living in Canada and creating hardships for people on fixed incomes, pensions and annuities, T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party said Thursday night.

"We think the Canadian people are entitled to protection against these techniques," Mr. Douglas told about 900 supporters at a campaign rally here.

"No government should sit idly on the sidelines, watching the price of necessities inching its way up. We (the NDP) want to give the people a chance to fight back against misleading advertising, shabby goods and dishonest business practices."

Mr. Douglas said "there are reports of combines milling, combine, the bread combine—that show that the bakers have crooked again and again and that the government —this government and the previous government—have never taken any action upon those reports.

Mr. Douglas said the Consumers' Association of Canada recently tested thermometers advertised as on a par with the standards of the National Research Council.

FAILED TESTS

"Not one of the thermometers passed their simple tests. The advertising was fraudulent. Yet no one was prosecuted for this fraud."

He said the association also examined some fruit juice cans and ink erasers and found them to contain less than their advertised contents — some by as much as four ounces.

Mr. Douglas said a new Democratic government would introduce legislation to protect consumers.

"There will be a prices board to prevent unjustified increases

Living Costs Being Forced Up -- Douglas

in the prices of goods and services which affect our cost of living. There will be strict laws to prevent dishonest packaging.

"There will be a consumers' bureau to work with the Consumers' Association of Canada, testing the products available to Canadian shoppers and making the results of the tests known to the consuming public."

Mr. Douglas said the NDP would pass legislation to force the disclosure of "true interest rates on installment buying. It would also put a ceiling on interest rates charged by finance companies.

Madoc Asks for Proposal On Sewage Disposal Plant

MADOC — The village council has passed a motion asking the Ontario Water Resources Commission to prepare and present a proposal to the village for the construction of a sewage treatment plant as a provincially-owned project, including a rate on a usage basis to meet all costs involved under the provincial program.

The motion was passed at a special meeting Friday. Present were Reeve Thomas Burnside, Councillors Bruce White, T. C. Barton and C. R. Hagerman. Mr. Clarke Rollins, M.P.P, and Mr. McIlmoyle, Department of Highways interviewed council regarding reversion of that portion of the connecting link between Queen Victoria Street and Derry's Garage, to the Department of Highways. Council approved.

It is the understanding of the council the the Department of Highways assume that portion of the road south of Queen Victoria Street until such time as construction is completed.

The village will revert to Standard Time on October 31st at 2 a.m.

Accounts signed by the various chairmans were ordered paid.

The police report was accepted. Council reviewed the year's expenditures. A grant of $25 to the Juvenile All Ontario ball team was authorized.

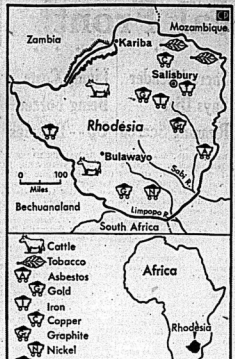
TROUBLE IN PARADISE — Tall, modern buildings, broad, tree-lined avenues and one of the world's most magnificent climates are characteristic of Salisbury, capital of Rhodesia. The rich earth and superb climate encouraged European settlement to a degree exceeded only by South Africa. And like South Africa the country is controlled by whites who are determined to resist African nationalism. (CP Photo)



RICH LAND FACES RACIAL PROBLEM — The dual attraction of a rich land and alluring climate have attracted large numbers of Europeans to Rhodesia. The country is second only to South Africa in the extent of its racial problem. The country is rich in minerals and is a major exporter of tobacco. At Kariba, a hydro-electric project shared by Rhodesia and Zambia holds back the largest man-made lake in the world. (CP Newsmap)

Rhodesia Looks Fine to Visitor, But You'd Better Not Believe It

Rhodesia is a land of rich earth and superb climate. It is also a land of racial tension. In this article a Canadian Press reporter outlines the determination of the minority white population to hold their economic and political advantages.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

SALISBURY (CP)—The visitor who munches tropical steak at Meikles Hotel, then takes a Sunday stroll along Salisbury's broad avenues, may well feel all is well with the world in Rhodesia.

The cloudless azure skies, the expensive gliding cars, the beautiful flowering trees swaying lazily in the breeze, the tall buildings, the emeralds glittering in the store windows—all this is delightful to the traveller's eye.

"Actually, this isn't much of a day," says a Rhodesian companion, obviously spoiled by long exposure to the superb climate. "I hate this wind—it's our winter season, you know."

Rhodesia's rich earth and the climate—healthful and alluring to the white man, unlike many parts of Africa—are, ironically, the very things that helped to breed a snake for this particular Garden of Eden.

For Europeans were attracted in numbers to this land between the Zambezi and the Limpopo rivers and, turning their faces against the tide of African nationalism sweeping from the north, have created a racial problem second only to South Africa.

Joshua Nkomo, Rhodesian African nationalist leader now under restriction, once defined the difference between his abortive struggle and the successful campaigns of Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah, Tanzania's Julius Nyerere and others.

"My African brothers were lucky—they had the tsetse fly and we did not," said Nkomo in a crisp if not strictly accurate summing-up for a London audience. Some low-lying parts of Rhodesia had the sleeping-sickness fly.

One aspect of the Rhodesian case is not this way: "We made this country and without us there would be nothing. We don't intend to be thrown out or to lose the fruits of our labor."

But another view was expressed by a white business executive: "Here we have 220,000 whites who are living better than they could anywhere else, and they're doing it on the backs of 4,000,000 blacks. They mean to keep it that way."

When a reporter commented on the manifest sincerity with which Rhodesians speak on the racial question in private conversations, this executive said:

"Certainly we're sincere. All Rhodesians believe the rest of the world in in a state of temporary madness. Eventually the world will realize we've been right all the time."

The statue of Cecil Rhodes that gazes over Salisbury is, appropriately enough, larger than life size. There are those who say the flamboyant empire-builder and diamond king somehow contrived to stamp his character on the land that bears his name.

After all, there are people alive today who remember Rhodes, who died in 1902. This dynamic adventurer on the grand scale chafed at London's strictures but there is no doubt where his heart lay.

When only 28 years of age he made a will—there were others before he died at 50—leaving his estate in trust to the British colonial secretary. It was to establish a secret society for "extension of British rule throughout the world."

Even Lord Salisbury's Tory government in Victorian England might have blinked a bit at that one. Anyway, the critics say, the British government was never able to control Rhodes and neither has the mother country been able to control Rhodesia, which has been free to do what it pleases in internal affairs for more than 40 years.

Alone among colonies, Rhodesia has been allowed to develop a highly-efficient army and air force, including jet planes, under its own command, without any control from London.

LOYALTY STRAINED

This military might was seen as highly significant in Prime Minister Ian Smith's manoeuvring for independence, and there was considerable talk about whether Britain would use force against its "kith and kin."

Few seemed to ask whether the Rhodesian government planned, if necessary, to use its 12 Hunter and 12 Vampire jet fighters, plus its 12 Canberra jet bombers, against the British, equally "kith and kin."

The questions were particularly piquant since Rhodesia, in Britain's wars, has been among the most loyal of the loyal. Regarding the Second World War Prime Minister Smith, himself a fighter pilot, remarked to this reporter: "We don't want to say better than anyone else, but we reckoned we were as good as most, you see. . . ."

A British diplomat with wide experience in Afro and Africa said privately that English settler groups in Africa, as compared with India, tended to become acutely anti-British in the face of independence movements through a sense of betrayal by London.

This was apparent in Kenya, where settlers waged a hard fight against African nationalism. But unlike the Rhodesians, the Kenyan settlers had no military force under their own local government. Besides, in Kenya the white were outnumbered 100 to 1, while in Rhodesia the ratio is 20 to 1, and in South Africa 5 to 1.

"Rhodesians have evolved what I like to call a method of circular reasoning," said one long-time observer. "They say 'We're too small for Britain to care—Britain would let us go down the drain to please the Afro-Asians.' Yet the very people feel big enough to defy the world on the racial question."

Government figures show more than 94,000 Africans are in domestic service out of a total work force of some 630,000. These servants, nearly one in six of the total, earn an average of £110 annually and it is common for a white tradesman to live in comparative luxury with several servants and a swimming pool.

The 273,000 Africans in agriculture and allied industries earn an average of £87 annually compared with an average of £1,283 earned by Europeans. Asian and colored (mixed blood) workers in the same industries. Observers say many white Rhodesians—particularly women—base their opinions of the "natives" on their experience of domestic servants whom they see constantly.

"This leads to a contemptuous estimate of the ability of the Africans," said an insurance executive who has been 10 years.

"The Europeans develop the 'they' complex. All Africans become 'they' or 'them.' The Europeans forget there are short ones, tall ones, good ones, bad ones, stupid ones, clever ones."

A reporter saw perhaps the pleasantest side of Rhodesian life when he was invited one night to a middle-class home. The hostess, born in Rhodesia, spoke with obvious affection of the Africans with whom she grew up. With nostalgia she told of the elaborate ritual and politeness that accompanied dealings between her mother and African women who came to sell farm produce. This involved inquiries about each member of the family on both sides, in order of seniority, before cross business transactions were finally approached.

It all sounded immensely attractive, but the visitor's feeling was that the good old days have gone forever.

Tomorrow: Racial tension spurs intolerance in Rhodesia.

RHODES STILL DOMINATES RHODESIA — A larger-than-life statue of Cecil Rhodes gazes over Salisbury, the capital city of Rhodesia. Critics say London was never able to control Rhodes and Britain has never been able to control Rhodesia. Rhodesia has been free in internal affairs for 40 years and alone among the colonies was allowed to develop an independent armed forces. The whites are as determined to control Rhodesia as Rhodes was to extend British rule throughout Africa. (CP Photo)

Noted Conservationist Honored in Opening of First Research Station

GUELPH (CP)—One of Ontario's leading wildlife authorities and conservationists was honored yesterday when Canada's first research station for the study of eastern North American waterfowl was officially opened on the banks of the Eramosa River.

The park portion of the Niska Waterfowl Research Station is being named for Frank H. Kortright, president of the Toronto Sportsmen's Show, long - time member of the Ontario Conservation Council and author of a book on North American waterfowl that is used as a text in universities across the continent.

Mr. Kortright has been one of the project's backers and the Sportsmen's Show has provided financial support for the station.

The official opening was conducted by Mr. Kortright and Leslie Frost, former Ontario premier and a close personal friend.

The waterfowl preserve is a 110-acre patch of bog, bush and field on the southern shore of the river where biologists are already probing the secrets of eastern Canada's waterfowl.

ONLY WESTERN FOWL

The only other station of the kind in Canada is the Delta Research Station in Manitoba, which studies northern and western waterfowl.

Biologists, naturalists and wildlife students from several universities are working at the Guelph station, the year-round home of more than 300 wild ducks of 45 species and a stopping-off point for up to 1,000 waterfowl daily during migration.

Some are studying the growth patterns and blood types of young Canada geese. Others are investigating the love - making and breeding habits of various types of ducks. Also under study are the causes of death among ducks, aside from the annual 500,000 kill by Ontario hunters, and the reasons for selection by wild birds of resting and feeding places.

The preserve, started as a private duck sanctuary 15 years ago by Horace Mack, a Guelph industrialist, was presented after his death in 1961 by a group of Ontario sportsmen and business executives. They set up the Ontario Waterfowl Research Foundation.

The station, privately financed, operates under federal law as a waterfowl sanctuary. The resident managing director, William Carrick, says the first three years have been spent erecting pens, planning the site of buildings for laboratory space and turning a section into a public park.

USE FACILITIES

Biologists with the Ontario department of lands and forests are already using the facilities for experiments, and students from the University of Guelph visit the sanctuary to help their studies of ornithology.

No major study of eastern wildfowl has been conducted in Canada up to now, says A. T. Cringan, assistant professor of zoology at the University of Guelph and the foundation's executive secretary.

"If we are to keep enough birds for the hunters and for those interested in wildlife, we must find ways to breed more eliminate some of the fatal diseases, replace habitat that is ruined by urban expansion and find solutions to many other waterfowl problems."

If studies aimed at increasing the production of eastern Canada waterfowl are successful, Mr. Cringan said, the duck hunter should benefit within a few years. The station hopes to begin full-scale wild duck breeding on its property in another year or so, releasing the birds from captivity to bolster the numbers of some of the depleted species.

DENY DOUBLE TIME

COLCHESTER, England (CP)—People who work on Sunday should not expect double pay, says Colchester vicar Ingle Mackett-Cherry in the parish magazine. He says workmen used to be paid double time on Sunday because they were deprived of the right to attend church, but now so few people worship regularly, the extra pay is unnecessary.

United Church, Anglicans to Hold Service

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, will be the scene of a significant worship service this Sunday afternoon, October 24, at 3 p.m.

Described as "A Service of Church Union — In Observance of the 40th Anniversary of the United Church of Canada", the occasion will bring together not only United Church people of Belleville and district, but those of the Anglican communion also. The intention is that in this combined service the congregation will look not only to the past union which brought into being the United Church of Canada 40 years ago, but will also look to the future and the possibility of further church unions. The Anglican and United Churches have already taken initial steps toward the creation of such a union between their two denominations.

The guest speakers for the occasion will be the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Anglican Bishop of Ontario, and the Rev. Dr. Ernest E. Long of Toronto, Secretary of the General Council of the United Church, and one of the original Committees of Ten which drafted the "Principles of Union' which are presently under study by both communions. The service will be conducted by the Rev. V. E. R. Dafoe of Picton, Chairman of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church, and the Rev. Henry A. Davis, Registrar of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church and minister of Bridge Street Church. The service is sponsored by the Belleville Presbytery and the public is cordially invited.

FORMER PILOT STILL FIGHTING — In a field increasingly dominated by full-time professionals, Frank Jones, a 49-year-old Montreal businessman, is taking 2½ months off to act as campaign co-ordinator for the Social Credit Party. There's a Lot of Coffee in Brazil But York West Is Using Bean or Two

By RICHARD JACKSON

TORONTO — They're drinking so much coffee out here in York West, they list going around corners.

Listen only half lucidly and you can hear them gurgle.

So okay, everybody's drinking coffee in every constituency across the country. But in York West its different.

Here its more than an addiction — its a way of life.

"The poor guy," sympathizes Bill Stockwell, campaign manager for Conservative candidate George Hogan, "he's drinking so much coffee, his wife has to pump him out, every night.

"You think Hogan's drinking coffee," snorts Joe Cruden, who's Liberal candidate Robert Winters campaign manager "you should see Bob! Where do you think he got that deep dark tan from — man, that's sea-age."

For some reason, peculiar only to York West, both candidates have gone completely overboard — over the heads in a sea of coffee — for this cup-and-saucer type campaign.

They're logging — and are they logging with the brew — five coffee parties an afternoon and five at night.

They synchronize it with door-knocking.

MOBILE OFFICE

George Hogan whistles into an area in his mobile headquarters, a 17-foot trailer towed by one of his new Pontiacs — to attend a coffee party, and two women, well acquainted in the district canvass the homes along adjacent streets.

"Mr. Hogan's here," they declare joyfully, "and he's dying to meet you."

So when George Hogan, swaying with another half gallon of coffee inside, emerges from the party, there are the two bird-dogging women all ready to take him in tow and steer him to those homes where the housewife has "reacted positively" to the gladsome news that he's "going" to meet them.

"And this," says Bill Stockwell, who is an insurance executive when he isn't managing election campaigns, "is a cool, solid, deep-digging grass roots deal."

The Hogan camp also has Bill Stockwell likes to call "The poor-boy bit" going for them.

But isn't George Hogan, former Dielenbakker campaign road manager, just about the biggest General Motors dealer, the top Pontiac man in all of Metro?

Well, yes, or so they say. Bill Stockwell concedes, then adds: "But how does even a big GM dealership stack up against Bob Winters' Rio Tinto and Brinco operations? Man, in that kind of company we're shaking a tin cup."

To emphasize "the poor-boy bit," Bill Stockwell has rented three vacant stores for George Hogan's triple-split headquarters, and furnished them with old kitchen chairs and deal tables.

SPLASHY ROOMS

"You should see the competition's set up," he says. "Commodious, sumptuous, even luxurious splashy at all that!" "They're running their shop in a set of empty TV studios. Maybe 20 offices altogether. Wall to wall broadloom. Wood panelled walls. The whole wealthy works."

Bob Winters' campaign command post is in the heart of the riding at Bloor and Royal York Road, but Joe Cruden claims it really isn't all that great.

"Adequately roomy," he agrees, "but nothing really fancy." Sure, there are 20 offices, but he's only using seven of them, and only one is broadloomed wall to wall.

"And no Group of Seven prints," he insists, indignantly denying some more of that propaganda being pumped out by that used car dealer" — which is the way he refers to the Toronto Pontiac King George Hogan.

Joe Cruden is a very senior communications company executive, and this is his idea of spending part of his vacation.

How's his man doing in this venture back into the world of active federal politics after eight years of really big-time business?

"Didn't you see it in the papers this morning," he asks, "How they're swooning on their doorsteps when Bob comes rapping his way down the street."

And sure enough that's what the paper said — with quotes too — about how they're fainting with the wonder of it, when, as one of them described it, "You open the door and baby, it's that man with the tan."

But with all kidding aside, says Joe Cruden glowing with satisfaction, "How can a guy like Bob Winters go wrong? That appearance—handsome—go ahead, name me any other candidate half as good looking. And that New England accent he picked up at MIT!

But can't a guy be just too darn handsome? With all the secretly-jealous husbands allergily hissing him like they once did with Clarke Gable?

Well, no, Joe Cruden didn't think so. And anyway, just in case there might be something in the Clark Gable syndrom, he explains, they have Mrs. Winters working with Bob on the coffee party merry go round.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST?

What about the issues? Bob Winters' business and industrial interests seem something of an issue — or at least George Hogan is persisting in trying to make them that.

But George Hogan is insisting that to avoid a conflict of interest, Bob Winters has got to give up his industrial presidencies and directorships.

But couldn't Bob Winters then demand that George Hogan give up his GM dealership?

No, says Bill Stockwell...for George Hogan isn't selling Pontiacs to the Federal Government. And Bob Winters is doing government business with Rio Algom's uranium.

There be a valid point, concedes Joe Cruden, just could be.

But if it is, he says, "We're taking it out of the campaign play with Bob's public promise that there positively will be no conflict of interest".

How so?

"Bob's pledged publicly to let go whatever might be in conflict," says Joe Cruden. "Let go, but not right away. Let go if elected".

Let go what?

Joe Cruden won't say for sure, but allows it just might be Rio Tinto and Rio Tinto, although he insists he really doesn't know.

But as he says now", he says, wouldn't it be kind of arrogant? like saying, OK, we've got the cash, now in the bag?!

So when all the coffee's drunk, how's York West going to shape up?

THIRD CANDIDATE

Well, there's a third candidate, you know, but they say forget it. She's Martha Brewin, daughter of Toronto-Greenwood NDP candidate and MP in the last parliament Andrew Brewin.

She's a grand-daughter of the late A. G. Blair, premier of New Brunswick.

She's a lawyer, and she's the youngest (23) and tiniest (five feet) candidate anywhere in the campaign.

But, they insist, she's an outsider, in both residency and chances.

It's exclusively a Bob Winters - George Hogan go, they swear," unless something goes terribly cock-eyed in York West. Bob Winters has just finished three days of campaigning in his old Nova Scotia riding, and has made a platform pitch in Montreal's Westmount.

And while there has been all kinds of party pressure on him to hit the road, apart from these two excursions, he's been sticking like plaster to York West, and matching George Hogan cup for cup coffeewise.

In sheer gallonage, they're making a mighty contribution in York West to the Brazilian economy.

Maybe they could chalk it up to foreign aid.

Once Malta Spitfire Pilot, Frank Jones Now Directs Socreds' Election Campaign

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Jones, once fought German planes in the skies above Malta. Now he has more prosaic opponents—Liberals, Conservatives and New Democrats.

The 49 - year - old Montreal businessman is co - ordinating his second Social Credit federal election campaign. His first was in 1963 after establishing solid credentials as a party worker. In his cobby-built office in the party's head-office suite in a midtown building, Mr. Jones talked of aerial warfare, individual freedom and party allegiance. All have a political meaning to him.

He flew Spitfires in the Second World War on loan to the RAF from the RCAF. The Vancouver-born combat pilot survived the Battle of Malta in 1942 in which the Germans tried to demolish the British Mediterranean base from the air.

With 400 sorties and 5½ enemy "kills" to his credit, the young Jones came home with the view that "freedom was the most precious thing on earth."

Eventually he settled in Montreal and entered politics, armed with youthful idealism.

TRIED OTHER PARTIES

"I felt it was time to get out and work for the things I fought for."

Mr. Jones had trouble finding a political home for most of the 1950s, starting with the Liberals as a party worker and quitting when they "moved to far left."

He tried the Conservatives, found them wanting, and finally settled on Social Credit, which "believes in the right of the individual."

He views the Nov. 8 election as a "time to be counted for those who are for freedom of the individual and against the state controlling our lives." He said the people in the party have staked their political lives on this principle.

Mr. Jones's voice is a quiet rasp. His face is ruddy, dark hair thinning, and torso a little thick around the middle but trim.

As campaign co-ordinator, he has more than the usual problems of the job. In a field where the full-time professional is becoming the rule, he's taken 2½ months off from his business to handle it.

Even at that he occasionally flies to Montreal to handle personal affairs and keeps in touch by telephone. As a partner in a firm of financial consultants, he classifies himself as "a small businessman."

NO QUEBEC CANDIDATES

Moreover the party has lost its national character with its Quebec-wing defections and is running no candidates in that province. Despite that, he hopes for 150 candidates in the field, largely in Ontario and the West where the party was born.

But he's helped by the decentralized operation which shifts a large part of the campaign load on the provincial party associates.

Mr. Jones is the "inside man" on the campaign. Martin Keiln, the national president of the Social Credit Association, is on the road spurring up provincial and constituency organizations.

This leaves Mr. Jones with his tiny headquarters staff of half a dozen or so to handle such constituency requests as a demand for a speaker 24 hours before a meeting.

He's resigned to being asked for the impossible. Political organizations, he said, are the fields of the enthusiastic amateur and there's bound to be some lack of co-ordination.

When the votes are counted, he will give up his Ottawa hotel room and return to his family in Montreal. He and his wife have an 11-year-old daughter who studies ballet and three older sons. The eldest, 22, is a Canadian navy pilot.

Whatever the outcome, it's a far politer conflict than war.

Mr. Jones recalls that four of his mates were killed on Malta when a bomb struck a van that was to carry them to the airfield. He missed death by moments.

It had just run back to get a scarf or I would have been in the van, "too."

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

As the late Will Rogers used to say "I see by the papers ..." where something should be done to rein these blood-letting, beak-busting moppets who blow their heads of steam garbed in hockey uniforms.

It came from no less than Syl Apps, former National Hockey League great, a member of the Ontario Legislature and chairman of the provincial government's Select Committee on Youth.

The honorable gentleman from Kingston said the OHA, the OMHA and the Toronto Hockey League the other day they "should take a long look at unnecessary roughness in minor hockey."

I wonder where Mr. Apps got the impression that these apple-cheeked tykes, mites, peewees, et al tear up and down the ice with mayhemic gleams in their eyes, sticks held aloft and elbows and knees ready for the launching.

Perhaps that is the case in Kingston and other centres that boast large minor hockey associations. If such, is true then we in Belleville are living in a minor hockey Shangri-La.

I have seen minor hockey played here for two decades or more and I've yet to see blood-thirsty monsters masquerading in moppet hockey uniforms.

True, there have been instances where youngsters, a little carried away in the temper trigger have resorted to rough tactics, a show of fisticuffs and such, but they were nipped in the bud pronto.

I know of at least two such cases. In each the coach decided to let some cold steel add some potential to him the folly of his ways. In both cases roughness never occurred again.

Apps' reference to "unnecessary roughness" could, and probably will be, taken by minor coaches as unfair criticism.

Coaches in minor sports, and hockey in particular where bodily contact is part of the game, are men dedicated to the sport and their youngsters under their figurative wings. They are unsung and unpaid citizens who are giving their time and effort and in some manner try to produce through their favorite sport better citizens of the future.

I have yet to meet one who would condone roughness on the part of his players. I have met some who would readily admit that they would be shrewd belligerency on the ice or deliberately provoked a fight.

Minor hockey referees are cast in the same mould. These, too, are men dedicated to the sport—to be explained by Don Cherry (CFCO Wrecker) that "it would be better if referees would just let the kids fight instead of separating them" is so much hogwash.

It seems to me that Mr. Apps has directed his criticism of hockey's blood-letting and beak-busting at the wrong end of the ladder.

Abolition of roughness is not the cure at the minor level but prevention at pro, "classed" at the National Hockey League and so-called amateur junior and senior plateaus.

Every red-blooded hockey kid in the country has his favorite pro club and worships at the shrine of an individual hero. Some see them "live" — the greater majority—on television. At home they go to the rinks to see the home-town Junior "A" or "B" teams play.

The National Hockey League last year had its quota of brawls. Some of the junior games, both "A" and "B" throughout the province would have made a Viet Cong - U.S. Marines scuffle look like a strawberry social.

Impressionable hockey youngsters often try to emulate their heroes. If Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull or Jean Beliveau does it, then it must be OK. By the same token if its rough stuff it must be all right.

So what do you expect, Mr. Apps?

I do not buy this "unnecessary roughness" in minor hockey because the Ontario Minor Hockey Association has, and always has had any "roughness" situations well in hand. Whenever occasions, and they have been rare, demanded immediate and sometimes punitive measures, they have been forthcoming immediately.

Next month over 400 delegates to the OMHA convention will testify that the association is living up to its aims of "To inculcate in the boys certain ideals; to play fairly under all circumstances, and all conditions; to give opponents a fair chance and not to take unfair advantage; to win modestly and receive defeat with a smile; not to dispute official decisions and hockey for sports' sake and the greatest number."

Leafs Hit Back ★★★★★

Geoffrion Rejects $35,000 Offer

★★★★★ Will Block Lindsay

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion Thursday turned down a $35,000 offer by Toronto Maple Leafs to come out of retirement and the Leafs in turn said they will block Ted Lindsay's effort to rejoin Detroit Red Wings.

Lindsay, who ended four years of retirement last season to play for the Wings in the National Hockey League, wants to do the same thing again.

But he can't because he went on the voluntary retired list last spring, intending to quit for the second time in his career. Now he has to sit out a year.

Lindsay was waived by all other clubs last year so he could rejoin Detroit and although they can't claim him now, any of the teams can keep him from getting off the retired list.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto said Thursday he has no intention of allowing Lindsay to get back into active duty.

"The heck with him," said Imlach. "I remember a few stories where Lindsay made it quite clear that he wouldn't come to Toronto if we drafted him. Now I have no right to say no and it won't cost me a cent."

Geoffrion, now coaching Quebec Aces of the American League, said the offer was to have him return to the NHL as a player and was made by Lead President Stafford Smythe this week. It was for five years.

But he added he had thought "about my affairs and I'm no longer interested in the offer at all."

Sam Pollock, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, said his club has made an official complaint to NHL president Clarence Campbell about the reported offer.

Pollock said the offer represented an encroachment on Montreal's rights. When Geoffrion retired he remained on Montreal list and no other club in the league was allowed to deal with him without written permission from the Canadiens.

But, with the opening of the season Saturday night when Detroit is at Montreal and Chicago Black Hawks play at Toronto, Imlach's mind was on Bob Pulford more than Geoffrion's Thursday.

Pulford reminded the only unsigned Leaf after centre Dave Keon signed a one-year contract. But Pulford said he will sign in time to play Saturday night. Imlach also announced that Lowell MacDonald, the native of Glasgow, N.S. acquired by the Leafs in an eight-player trade with Detroit last May, has been sent to Tulsa Oilers of the Central League.

Riders Host Argonauts

Lark Defeat Wrap-Up For Cats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The magic number is one for Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Eastern Football Conference and they can wrap up first place Saturday afternoon in Montreal against the Alouettes.

The Ticats, with eight victories and four defeats for 16 points, have two more points than Ottawa Rough Riders, second with a 7-5 record. Ottawa is at home to Toronto Argonauts Sunday afternoon.

There are only two games left for each team in the conference, counting this weekends, and it could be all over but the shouting by Sunday suppertime.

The Hamilton-Montreal game will be televised on the CBC eastern network starting at 2 p.m. EST, while the Toronto-Ottawa game, also starting at 2 p.m., will be carried on the CTV eastern network.

The Ticats must lose both their remaining games if they are to be replaced on top by the fund when they reach 65, regardless of where they reside at that time.

Ottawa. A tie is not good to the Rough Riders because they've lost two of their three scheduled games to Hamilton this year and as a result would be bumped to second place and miss the bye into the final round of the EFC playoffs.

COUNTS CONTINUES

Johnny Counts, who returned to active backfield duty with Hamilton Sunday after sitting out several games in favor of newcomer Dave Fleming, will continue in the lineup for Saturday's contest.

Joe Zuger will start again at quarterback, but Frank Cosentino will be available.

Montreal will be without defensive tackle Bob Minihane, who has been sidelined for the rest of the year by a ruptured kidney. Minihane was hurt in Saturday's contest. He will go onto in which the Argos defeated the Als.

Ted Elsby, out two weeks with a knee injury, will take over Minihane's job and defensive end Jim Hargreaves will likely move into Elsby's spot at right tackle.

Montreal has already clinched the third and final playoff berth and is likely to meet Hamilton in the sudden-death semi-final Nov. 6 in Ottawa, unless the Riders replace the Ticats in first place.

The Argos, who have failed to make the playoffs for the fourth successive season, have been two of their last three games and coach Bob Shaw wants to improve that record. Shaw plans to use Pat Brosnan and Pete Warren extensively in the defensive backfield in an effort to shore up the Argos' porous pass defence. Both likely will share the flanker position with Brosnan also play full time on defence.

The Rough Riders' corner linebacker, Gene Shue, is a doubtful starter. He injured an eye in a workout Monday and although doctors say the eye is healing nicely, coach Frank Clair is unwilling to risk further damage by playing him.

Bo Scott, Ottawa's rushing star who sat out Tuesday's game, is due back and "will get a lot of work Sunday," said Clair.

Aces Blank Bears 5-0

QUEBEC (CP)—Gary Bannon recorded his first shutout of the season as Quebec Aces blanked Hershey Bears 5-0 before 3,710 fans in an American Hockey League game Thursday night.

Scorers for the Aces were Bill Sutherland, Don Blackburn, Leon Rochefort, Cleland Mortson and Gordon Labossiere.

Quebec outshot the Bears 33-19.

Only eight minor penalties were handed out—four to each club—in the light-hitting contest.

The attendance figure was one of the smallest at an AHL game in Quebec in almost two years.

Score Was 9-4

Red Wings Thump Petes

HAMILTON (CP) — Right-winger Eddie Hatoum scored two goals and set up two others to lead Hamilton Red Wings to an 9-4 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A victory over Peterborough Petes before 1,554 fans Thursday night.

The loss was the Petes' first in four starts and it prevented them from taking over the league lead.

The victory evened Hamilton's record at two wins and two losses.

Sandy Snow also scored twice for the winners while Bart Cranbury, Gary Wright, Freddie Speck, Brian Watts and Jim Young added one each.

Mickey Redmond had a pair for Peterborough while Andre Lacroix and John Vanderberg shared the others.

Referee Lou Maschio assessed 108 minutes in penalties, including three majors and a game misconduct to each side after a third-period free-for-all.

Hamilton outshot the Petes 35-23.

WINS TITLE

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Francis (Rocky) MacDougall of Sydney won the vacant Canadian featherweight boxing championship Thursday night with an impressive sixth-round technical knockout over Marcel Belleville of Montreal.

U.S. Pair Captures Jump Title

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP-AP) The United States, paced by its husband - and - wife team of Frank and Mary Chapot, evened up the team championship Thursday in international jumping competition at the Pennsylvania horse show.

The team, first husband-and-wife combination ever to compete with the U.S. equestrian team, clinched it in the afternoon with a brilliant one-two finish in the doubles-and-trebles event.

Canada, in one of its best performances to date in the eight-day show, captured third, fourth and fifth places in the fault-and - out behind, respectively, Gail Ross, 22, of Edmonton, on The Hood; Moffat Dunlap, 23, of Toronto, on Grande Dolorelle and James Elder, 21, of Aurora, Ont., on Sabreteal.

Annual Pension Contribution

Players' Body Asks $90,000 A Year

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Football Players' Association has asked the Canadian Football League to contribute $90,000 a year to a pension fund, but it may take a while before it gets an answer.

"There are a lot of complications, particularly with the Canada Pension Plan coming into effect next year," the association's president, Garry Schreider, said in an interview Thursday.

But that isn't the only problem facing the fledgling association which still has not been recognized by the CFL.

"I'm confident we will receive recognition," Schreider said.

"We've been in touch with the league several times and I'm confident they are acting in good faith."

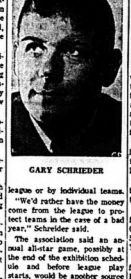
The pension p'an request revealed by Schreider is in an association brief presented to the league last June, but release of its contents has just been authorized.

"We wanted to give the general managers enough time to study it before making our requests public," the former Ottawa Rough Rider said.

TO FINISH TERM

Schreider, elected president at the association's first meeting in May, decided to retire from football during the summer, but the executive asked the young lawyer to finish his one-year term.

The pension plan requested by the players would involve a $300 a annual contribution by each player—a total of about $90,000 for all nine teams—and would be matched either by the league or by individual teams.



GARY SCHRIEDER

"We'd rather have the money come from the league to protect teams in the cave of a bad year," Schreider said.

The association said an annual all-star game, possibly at the end of the CFL regular season schedule and before league play starts, would be another source of revenue. It is with a percentage of both gate receipts and sale of TV rights for the proposed game.

It also wants the rights for the sale of players' pictures to chewing gum, soft drink and cereal manufacturers, a right now held by the league under a clause in each player's contract.

Under the Canada Pension Plan, players will have to pay into the national pension fund 1.8 per cent of the first $5,000 of each player's salary.

A reverse department official said all players will be covered by the plan, even imports who live most of the year in the U.S.The imports also will be eligible to draw benefits from

Another 66 For Casper

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Bill Casper blasted out his second consecutive five - under - par 66 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 132 and the lead at the midway mark of the $100,000 Sahara International golf tournament.

The 34 - year - old Californian shot a 34-32—66 over the 7,069-yard, par 36-35—71 Paradise Valley Country Club course.

The 36-hole score broke the tournament record of 133 set last year by Dick Sikes, whose 72-78—150 Thursday failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

George Knudson of Toronto had a 67 for 140.

Randy Glover, 23, fired a 34-31—65 for 135; Dale Douglass shot a 34-33—67 for 136, and Dudley Wyson, 26, had a 35-33—68 for 137.

Six strokes behind Casper was Jack Nicklaus, who had a 67 after a first-round 71.

Argos Get '66 Prospect

TORONTO (CP) — A first-string defensive tackle with Notre Dame University at South Bend, Ind., would like to play with Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference next year if a knee injury clears up.

Mike Wadsworth of Toronto, son of former Ottawa great Bunny Wadsworth, said he decided this week to play no more football this fall after discussing the injury with his coaches and a doctor.

He says he would like to play with the Argos next season despite advances from several pro teams in the United States.

Tiger Regains Middleweight Crown

Clear-Cut Victory

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jabbing Joey Archer seven scored Sugar Ray Robinson may be the next title opponent for Dick Tiger, the re-crowned middleweight boxing champion of the world.

"I will fight anyone my managers name because I intend to keep busy," the 36-year-old Nigerian said today as he celebrated his clear-cut, unanimous victory over defending champion Joey Giardello at Madison Square Garden Thursday night in their return 15-rounder.

"I was determined to beat Giardello, said Tiger. "Nothing was going to stop me. I went out with all I had from the opening bell. I knew I had him in the first round."

Lou Barson and Jersey Jones, Tiger's American representatives, mentioned Archer, Robinson, light heavyweight champion Joe Torres and junior middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy as possible opponents for Tiger.

Archer, the slick, 27-year-old New Yorker who scored a controversial decision over Tiger a year ago, and Robinson, the 45-year-old, five-time holder of the middleweight crown, are scheduled to fight in Pittsburgh, Nov. 19.

OFFER WIRED

The promoter, Archie Litman, said in Pittsburgh he has wired an offer of $75,000 to Tiger to meet the winner.

A crowd of 17,064 contributed to a $161,964 gate for the regionally televised title fight Thursday.

While Tiger was eagerly looking ahead to possible conquests, Giardello, the 35-year-old ringscarred veteran of 18 years of pro battling was not about through.

His wife Rosalie told him to quit but Joey wasn't ready to once more in a benefit for retarded children at Providence, R.I., Dec. 8. His 11-year-old son, Carmine, one of his four boys, is retarded.

From the opening bell, the muscular, aggressive, perfectly conditioned Nigerian grimly stalked the boxer who had dethroned him in Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 7, 1963.

He bombed Giardello to the body, slowing the champ down, and then worked his punches up. It was a jabbing lead or a thumping right to the ribs that started off most of Tiger's barrages, but it was the jarring, accurate left hooks that shook up Joey consistently and enabled Dick to hammer the champ to the ropes.

HURT IN CLOSE

Referee Johnny LoBianco perzdlitted Tiger to bang away at close quarters when Giardello tried to tie up Tiger as he did in his winning fight at Atlantic City.

Tiger opened a cut over Giardello's left eye in the second round and a slight gash over the right eye in the ninth. By the 11th round he had the fight won, but never could floor the game, strong-jawed American.

Giardello rallied in the last three rounds but it was too late and his looping, light blows never bothered Tiger.

The officials voted for Tiger by the following round scores: Referee LoBianco, 9-5-1; Judge Al Berl, 10-5, and Judge Tony Castellano, 8-6-1. The Associated Press scorecard had Tiger the front, 10-4-1.

The defeat snapped Giardello's victory streak at nine for a nearly three year span. His record now is 96-23-7. Tiger, a pro 14 years, has a 52-14-3 mark.

Giardello weighed the class limit of 160 pounds to Tiger's 158½.

The loser was guaranteed $50,000 or 40 per cent and could make up to $75,000 or 45 per cent of the $167,000. Tiger, guaranteed $15,000 or 20 per cent, may wind up with more than $40,000.

KOUFAX IN TROUBLE, FOR A CHANGE — World Series hero Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, playing in the annual Baseball Celebrity Golf Tournament at Palm Springs, Calif., blasts from a sand trap in the first round. Koufax, a 16-handicap player, fired an 86 to put him well behind the leader, Peanuts Lowrey, who has 67. Sandy took three shots to get out of the trap. (AP Wirephoto)

Help Wanted!

Referees are needed urgently by the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

John Brunette, referee-in-chief of the BMHA, reports that a meeting will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at 224 West Moira for anyone, preferably over 18 years old, interested in refereeing minor hockey in Belleville.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Queen's Birthday won the $3,100 Maple race for three-year-olds at Woodbine Racetrack Thursday.

Ridden by Tak Inouye, Queen's Birthday completed the 1 1-16-mile in 1:46. The Windfields Farm entry paid $4.80, $4.20 and $2.40, and combined with Top Victory for a $22.20 quinella.

In the eighth, Avelino Gomez rode Duby Cat to victory in the 1 1-16-mile race for three- and four-year-olds foaled in Canada. Duby Cat completed the distance in 1:47.4 and returned $4.20, $2.90 and $2.40.

Gaels Meet Blues

Mustangs Seek Revenge

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Western Ontario Mustangs — and head coach John Metras in particular— have some revenge to take Saturday when they play McGill University Redmen to an Ontario - Quebec Intercollegiate Athletic Association football game in London, Ont.

Last year, McGill humiliated Western 56-29 and after the game Metras was hanged in effigy. To make matters worse, the defeat came before a homecoming weekend crowd at Western.

It's again homecoming weekend in London and McGill is again the visitor. But this time the odds are heavily in favor of the Mustangs.

They're leading the four-team conference at the half - way point in the schedule with a 3-0 record while the Redmen are last with two wins in three outings.

In the other Saturday encounter, University of Toronto Blues visit Kingston to play Queen's University Golden Gaels in a game that could all but clinch second place for the Blues. Toronto is second with a 2-1 record and Queen's third with a 1-2 mark.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method
by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

GETTING RID OF SHANKING

There are many causes of shanking, but is, having the ball veer off to the right after it contacts the neck of your club.

One of the most common causes has to do with the plane of your swing. To direct your attention to today's illustrations: Notice the difference? In No. 1, the player's shoulders are too level, his swing is too flat, too much around the body. Consequently, the clubhead will be swung too far away from the body, way out beyond the ball on the downswing.

An upright backswing can eliminate this. As you see me doing in No. 2, tilt the shoulders, so that your left shoulder moves down and under your chin.

In this way, the clubhead will be swung closer to your body once it enters the hitting area.

Third Playoff Berth At Stake
Victory Over Riders 'Must' For Lions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan Roughriders will have to do something they have done only once before in four years if they hope to capture a Western Football Conference playoff spot.

They have to defeat British Columbia Lions in Vancouver's Empire Stadium Sunday. If they don't, the Lions will grab the WFC's third and last playoff berth.

Saskatchewan has won only once of seven clashes in Vancouver since 1960.

The Riders are tied with the Lions for the last playoff spot with 12 points. In the event of a points draw, B.C. would get the nod because of a better record against Saskatchewan this season.

Edmonton Eskimos play the Blue Bombers at Winnipeg Saturday in a battle to be televised on the CBC western network.

Rider coach Eagle Keys said halfback Ed Buchanan, out of action with a broken ankle since the second game of the season, will start in the contest to be televised on the CBC western network.

Offensive end and punter Martin Patt, injured two weeks ago, will be a Rider spectator and middle guard Ian Hagemoen is doubtful. Gene Wlasiuk will handle punting chores.

Victims of three consecutive defeats, the Lions called tackle Lonnie Dennis out of retirement for the stretch run.

Offensive end Jim Carphin and defensive end Dick Fouts, out for two games, will be back. Fouts Thursday was named winner of the Demarco-Becket Trophy as Lineman of the Year in the WFC.

The Bombers could bump Calgary Stampeders out of first place with victories in their last two games if Calgary falls before B.C. in the last regular-season game Oct. 31.

The Eskimos will have a new face in the lineup against the Bombers Saturday — fullback Dalton Hoffman from Houston, Alma of the American Football League. His appearance will allow Butch Pressley to move to corner linebacker.

Flasher Randy Kerbow is due for only limited action on a sprained knee and will be relieved by Norm Thomas or Clarence Eachman.

Ten Pin Topics

By AUS WATKIN

LADIES' PROVINCIAL TOURNAMENT

As far as the writer can ascertain there are only four entries at this time. Many more are needed if the hope of having next year's tournament is to become a reality. You all must know bowlers who might like to go. Don't wait for the other girls to do it, call and arrange a team, get your entry blank and send it in before October 30th deadline. Call Grace Poste if you want to know further details, 962-3429. Let's put Belleville on the Ontario ten pin bowlers' map.

O'KEEFE'S TOURNAMENT

At the writing we still have not had any official word, entry forms etc. just promises. We do know that the singles both classified and open will be rolled at Brunswick Boat during the month of November. Watch for more news of this event.

League leaders as of Wednesday a.m. this week are as follows:

Major "A", Dow Kings 19 points; Men's Classic, Drybarders 54 points; Bowleros, Loewen's Coolers 21 points; Women's Classic, Teasers 17 points; International Hardware Mixed, Four Aces 13 points; Ladies' Wednesday P.M., Paul Kelly's Drugs 16 points; American Optical Mixed, Tornadoes 19; City Hall Mixed, "9" Pins 17; Northern Electric Mixed, Pirates 7; Belleville Mixed, Belleville Auto Electric 16.

As for individual achievements it has come to writer's attention that Winnie McGillivray took the high triple in the Wednesday Afternoon Ladies' League with a neat 546. On Monday night last both triple and single scores for the season in the Men's Major "A" bit the dust as Ron Elliott rolled a tidy 633 and Aus Watkin hung up a 256. In the Northern Mixed League Lou Cunningham's 272 single and Bill Pipe's 658 triple are high for the new season with Barb Stone's 202 single and 530 triple for the ladies of Northern.

BIG TEN (MEN)

1 Bill Philp 206; 2 Toots Holway 184; 3 Jerry Miller 179; 4 Wally Lavergne 177; 5 Aus Watkin 176; 6 Ron Elliott 176; 7 Jim Fraser 175; 8 S. Boyle 175; 9 E. Michaud 175; 10 J. Begley 175.

The above represents the composite averages of players who bowl regularly in one or more league. Next week we will have the ladies' averages.

BOWLING TIP

Just a reminder to all of the league bowlers about lane etiquette. This simply means that the bowler on your right has the right of way, and please do give the other bowlers the courtesy of standing off the approach when waiting for your ball to come back. It doesn't take much time or effort to be a nice guy.

RECALL GOALIE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League announced Thursday they have recalled goalie Marcel Pelletier to play in the opener against Baltimore of the American Hockey League Friday night.

Joey's Wife Says He Will Retire

NEW YORK (AP) — Blood still trickling from a cut over his left eye, Joey Giardello tilted his head back, puckered up to accept a kiss from his wife, Rosalie, and then let her announce his apparent retirement—except for a final charity fight.

Head down, shoulders slumping as he sat on a rubbing table in his dressing room, Giardello at first turned aside questions about retirement, then he called out: "Is Rosalie out there?"

And as a policeman ushered his wife into the hushed dressing room, Giardello continued to talk haltingly about losing his middleweight title to Dick Tiger on a unanimous decision in their 15-round fight Thursday night.

"I was going to have an announcement if I won," said Giardello. "I just couldn't get started. I think I trained too hard. My right was slow, my legs were slow—everything was slow. I wanted to show New York a good fight. I wanted to show New York. . . ."

He suddenly brightened as Rosalie bent over for a kiss and said with a smile:

"My husband's going to retire."

Asked if Rosalie's frank statement really meant an end to his 18-year career, Giardello said:

"You heard her."

Perils of Pauline Series Planned as TV Program

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television producers searching for established books and old feature movies suitable for adaptation into series have come up with some almost esoteric selections. One company is preparing to shoot a pilot program based on The Perils of Pauline, a serial in the days when a movie's sound "rack was the theatre's piano player, and the heroine often was literally hanging from a cliff at the end of an episode.

Another company plans to do something based on the Tom Swift books, beloved by a generation of boys.

One studio failed to sell a pilot for a series about Frank Merriwell, a hard - cover all - American boy who pre - dated Jack Armstrong.

ABC is modernizing Little Red Riding Hood as a special to be broadcast soon. It will retell the story from the standpoint of the wolf. And NBC is planning something contemporary for Jack and the Beanstalk.

The wedding of The Farmer's Daughter, originally scheduled for No. 1, has been postponed five days on ABC network orders.

The Inger Stevens series will switch places with the third episode of Peyton Place after the Oct. 20 show.

The extra Peyton Place episode has made a disposition of showing in the Nielsen ratings. The shift comes after a lot of money and effort has gone into publicizing the episode in which the Farmer's Daughter and her Congressman finally get married — including arranging for Perle Mesta to throw a "wedding reception" in Washington, to be attended by assorted capital big-wigs on the night the broadcast was originally scheduled. The party, ABC says, will go on as scheduled.

Dr. Hughes feels, he eliminated by a fluoridation program. This would give the profession more time to devote to complicated and desirable dental work. Appointments could be obtained with a much shorter waiting period. At the present time dentists cannot meet the demands of the public for adequate dental care.

Dr. Hughes spoke of the objection raised by the general public to the fluoridation of water, but, he said, there was no valid argument to substantiate objections. Scientists and doctors agree on the benefits of fluoridation and the artist quoted statistics to prove his point. He said he would personally contact a program to have Campbellford water fluoridated.

The cost per person in Metropolitan Toronto for fluoridation was approximately 16 cents. In Campbellford he estimated the cost per person would be from 10c to 20c.

Dr. Hughes spoke of the medicare program and said dental care would be a follow up. Such a program, if initiated, would be an inducement for lower income group, who now omit dental care, because of economic factors to take advantage of its service.

MODEL FILTRATION PLANT

J. D. Lee, consulting engineer from Kingston, who carried out the building of the filtration plant in Campbellford a year ago on Tuesday, congratulated the Campbellford P.U.C. officials on the fine system in operation. He said it was a model for any municipality of similar size.

During the evening, at a dinner held in the Masonic Temple, Mr. Lee McGregor, 86, retired now after having served 50 years as clerk of the town, was presented with a long service award by the Canadian part of the American Water Works Association. The presentation was made by Campbellford Commissioner Glen Vandewater.

Another award from the same section was made to Manager James McMullen for 45 years of service on P.U.C. and to Miss Florence Thomas, an office employee, for 25 years' service. These awards were made by the chairman of EOWWA, W. A. Woods of Cobourg, who presided at the dinner.

The Campbellford Chamber of Commerce recognized the delegates to the convention by presenting them with a cardboard key, indicative of paying privileges while in Campbellford.

Four new municipalities were welcomed as members of the EOWWA. They are Newcastle, Hastings, Bancroft and Iroquois.

Fluoridation Recommended To EOWWA

CAMPBELLFORD — At the Eastern Ontario Water Works Association annual meeting held in Campbellford on Wednesday, a local dentist, Dr. D. J. Hughes, spoke on fluoridation. Dr. Hughes recommended a fluoridation addition to the municipal water supply, stating that fluoridation would cut tooth decay. A great part of this time was spent by the dental profession is in the correction of damage to teeth, could,

Drum Beat Helped Tiger To Win

NEW YORK (AP)—An unlistened drum beat helped overturn the world's middleweight boxing title back to Nigeria's Dick Tiger Thursday night after a 22-month absence.

Tiger, who lost his crown to Joey Giardello Dec. 7, 1963, regained it on a unanimous 15-round decision.

On the rim of the crowd, many of them garbed in native African attire, stood an unofficial strategist.

His name is Olatunji, and he, too, is a resident of Nigeria. Throughout the fight Olatunji's drum beat could be heard throughout Madison Square Garden.

"That made me fight better," said Tiger. "The rhythm makes me go better."

"He didn't know I was coming," the drummer said. "But I'm a good friend of his and knew it would help him."

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Tango Lobell, a two-year-old owned by the accomplished stable of Arnperior, Ont., registered a 2½-length victory in the declared sixth race at Garden City Raceway Thursday night.

The victory was the sixth in 14 outings this season for Tango Lobell, who combined with runner-up Mr. Dee Dee for a quinella worth $35.80.

Legal Prince registered his 13th win of the season in the first race while Shadow Stone captured the second for a $16.80 daily double.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Dolly Dale B, seven-year-old pacing mare, skimmed over a sloppy track to win the Preferred Pace, a $1,100 sixth-race dash at the Western Fair Raceway Thursday night.

The four-heat race exacts paid $134 when Bonnie Girl M came in first at 16 and Cinda C Grattan second at $11.70.

"The Magic World of Topo Gigio" Here Tomorrow

"The Magic World of Topo Gigio" is a world of colorful enchantment, of magic and magnificent puppetry, of suspense, excitement and most important of all —of great and endearing good humor.

Topo Gigio, as every television viewer knows, or would know, is the English-speaking little Italian mouse puppet who is so sensational on the Ed Sullivan Network show with his antics Sunday night.

Now, in his first full-length motion picture, in "The Magic World of Topo Gigio," says Ed Sullivan, "really big entertainment for everyone".

"The Magic World of Topo Gigio," is in color of course.

Also in the film, besides Topo, are his delightful girl friend Rosy and his friend Giovannino, probably the most cowardly worm ever to be filmed.

Also important to the films are a number of human actors, there is also a Punch and Judy show, including a kindly old Punch and Judy Puppeteer, and a magician who knows all the tricks.

The magician is the villain of the piece, but Topo in time happily defeats all his skullduggery and even persuades him to be friends with the Puppeteer, after all, they both entertain children.

And entertain children they do, in "The Magic World of Topo Gigio".

Make sure you take your children to see it.

Minto

MINTO — Sympathy is extended to the family of Bert Sine who passed away on Tuesday. The funeral was held Friday afternoon in Salem Church.

St. Thomas' W.A. held a dinner meeting in the hall on Tuesday.

Mr. Arthur Harris of West Lorne, Buffalo spent last week with Mr. Will Joyce.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sarles, Harold, Ross, Jackson, Reed and Ruth were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Watson of Campbellford.

Mrs. George Sine accompanied by her sister, Mrs. R. Dennison and mother, Mrs. Gordon Elliott enjoyed a holiday in U.S.A. last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grass of Belleville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Colden on Sunday.

Mrs. Sidney Reid of Ivanhoe spent the weekend with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hagerman and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hagerman attended the annual ploughing match on Friday at Milliken.

Mrs. Clare Tanner, Miss Edna Tanner, Mrs. Edith Edwards of Stirling accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tanner to the plowing match on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neal of Belleville called on Mr. Mac Anderson, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Edwards of Kingston and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Elliott of Belleville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sarles, Helen, Ross and Ruth Sarles attended the plowing match on Saturday and spent the week-end with Mr. Harold Sarles of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geen and Mr. and Mrs. Mac Mahoney of Lakefield spent the weekend in Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Conboy and family of Oshawa spent the weekend at the Geen home.

Madoc

MADOC — October 10th marked a great day for the congregation of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. A sod-turning and dedication ceremony took place for the erection of new church.

The new building will be built according to a plan submitted by Church Architects of Canada. The exterior will be brick and Angelstone with the use of insulated window, cement blocks and panelling for the interior. The estimated value of the building will be $34,000.

Contractor C. Woods of Belleville has been engaged as the building superintendent. The church will be in the contractor and as much local help as possible will be used.

Rev. Dick Scott of Madoc has begun work on the excavation.

The property on Elgin Street was bought from Mrs. Grace Holland in the fall of 1956. The church was organized in April 1907 and in January 1962 completed payment on its property.

Mr. John Irwin and Mr. James McMechan, representing the trustees, turned the first sod. Mr. Roy Wannamaker and Mr. Grant Bronson, representing the building committee, turned the second sod. The pastor, Rev. W. A. Smith assisted by the Provincial Conference Board of Missions and Educational Conference Director of Directors and Trustees, representated that board in turning the third sod.

RANDALL IN LONDON

LONDON (Reuters) — Stanley Randall, Ontario minister of economics and development, arrived here by air Friday from Beirut, Lebanon. Randall led a 13-member economic mission which arrived in Lebanon on Saturday and held talks with Lebanese officials and industrialists on promoting trade with Lebanon.

The Rural Scene

PICTON — Unless steps are taken to control mice in orchards serious girdling quite often occurs.

Trees can be protected by cleaning up weeds and grass from around the trunk, making use of wire or paper guards and by making use of poisons.

When cleaning up weeds and grass from around the tree it should be remembered not to pull the soil away from the tree trunk. By pulling the soil away, you leave a cavity or depression around the trunk where rain and snow collects and stays unable to drain away. Winter injury may be the result.

Wire guards can be placed around young trees and is a good protection against mouse injury. These guards are made from quarter-inch mesh galvanized wire, eighteen inches wide, cut to a length to give room from several years growth after a slight settling of the soil ends. The guards are best sunk into the ground 2 or 3 inches to hold them firm.

If any signs of mice are found it would be most helpful to set out a poison bait. The cracked corn with the poison bait is one of the best. Commercial preparations are available and directions for mixing your own can be obtained from the Ontario Department of Agriculture Office in Picton.

Ground sprays using endrin have provided excellent control of mice in orchards. With this method all grass and weed cover is thoroughly soaked and special attention is given to the vegetation along the headlands and under the trees. For further information on use, rate of bait is one of the best. Commercial preparations are available and directions for mixing your own can be obtained from the Ontario Department of Agriculture Office in Picton.

The 35th annual Provincial 4-H Inter-Club competitions will be held at the University of Guelph on Friday, October 22nd. Competitions will be held in Dairy and Beef Clubs, Swine, Sheep, Grain, Field Crops, Potato, Forestry, Tractor and Electric Clubs. Prince Edward County will be represented in the Dairy, Potato, Grain, Field Crops and Forestry Clubs. Team members are as follows: Milford 4-H Calf Club — Catherine Walker, Bruce Wilson and Penny Miller, R.R. 1, Milford.

H and A 4-H Calf Club — Ron Rutton, R.R. 1, Belleville and Brian McFaul, R.R. 1, Belleville. Picton Horse and Pony Potato Club — Barbara Doxsee, R.R. 8, Picton and Donald Smith, R.R. 2, Bloomfield. Prince Edward 4-H Barley Club — Peter Green, R.R. 7, Belleville and Leslie Latchford, R.R. 1, Picton. Prince Edward 4-H Corn Club — John Thompson, R.R. 2, Picton and Gordon Welbanks, R.R. 8, Picton. Prince Edward 4-H Tractor Maintenance Club — Alan McCaffrey, R.R. 2, Picton and David Whalam, R.R. 3, Picton.

Interest Low, No Agreement On Store Hours

PICTON — Members of the Picton Retail Merchants' Association showed little interest at this week's meeting to discuss a Santa Claus parade and Christmas store hours. As a result, those present were instructed to let individuals act their own holiday shopping hours, and felt lack of interest means the end of the sponsorship of the Santa Claus parade.

East Ontario Orchestra Gives Concert

PICTON (Staff) — The new Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra presented its first annual concert in Picton Thursday night. The concert was sponsored by the Picton Kiwanis Club.

The orchestra, consisting of over 50 members, was conducted by Stephen Choma and played to a near packed house in the auditorium of Prince Edward Collegiate. The two-hour-long program kept the audience's interest to the very end, when standing ovations were given the performers.

Heading the musicians was the concert master, Mrs. Marion Stratton, who received a beautiful bouquet for her performance. Mrs. Stratton is the daughter of Stephen Choma as the backbone of the orchestra. She began playing the piano at the early age of seven and is now teaching violin in Belleville.

Members of this fine concert orchestra come from all parts of the local territory. It was a surprise to many of the audience that such talent could be assembled in this area from cities and towns as far as Trenton, Belleville, Brighton, Colborne, Wellington, Campbellford, Frankford, Havelock, Batawa and Stirling.

Refrigeration Unit Afire

PICTON — Picton firemen were called to the McFarland Garage, Talbot Street, about 1 p.m. on Wednesday. A large type electric refrigeration unit was afire. The night watchman heard an explosion when the heat blew open a door. The fire was confined to the insulation in the base and along the side of the container. The fire did not spread and smoke damage was reduced by the fire to vegetable bins. The garage is used as a workshop. A short circuit in the electric motor is believed to have caused the blaze.

Plan PC Rally

PICTON — Prince Edward Federal Conservatives will hold a rally this Saturday when the Hon. Walter Dinsdale will be the guest speaker. Mr. Dinsdale is a former cabinet minister and the Diefenbaker government.

Among those attending will be A. Douglas Allenchey, P.C. candidate; Mayor H. J. McFarland, Rod Webb of Norwood; Earl McEwen of Kingston; Lee Grills, Bernard Hepburn, Warden of Prince Edward County; Chris Whitney, MPP," and Miss K. McFarland of Napanee.

Skaters Ready

PICTON — Picton Skating Club is not the only one open in season. It has secured the services of a professional instructor, and 3 group classes will begin on Nov. 4th.

BLACKLIST FIRM

LONDON (Reuters) — The U.S. commerce department has blacklisted a British firm accused of supplying American-made equipment to a country which the United states does not trade, the U.S. Information Service announced. Friday. The firm, Amos (Machinery) limited, is alleged to have been a channel of diesel engines and spare parts to an unspecified country.

Historic Society Talk Outlines History of Household Appliances

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

STIRLING — The washing machine was the first major household appliance to be accepted by the public and it has been on the market since 1877, members of Hastings County Historical Society were told at their October meeting held on Monday night at River Valley School House.

Mr. Charles B. Pearce, retired manufacturers representative for the Westinghouse Company spoke to the group on the history of household appliances, and exhibited examples of the first washers, irons and appliance catalogues.

"Washing clothes was the housewife's toughest job," Mr. Pearce said. The wooden washboard made of maple was the first wash-day aid, and sold in the 19th century for 15c. Zinc, brass, enamelled steel and glass washboards followed, and Mr. Pearce guaranteed to rub the skin off the housewife's knuckles before she finished a big wash.

The first hand operated washing machines were developed by men working in home workshops. If their machines were successful they became manufacturers.

The old-fashioned wringers were a big help to the weary housewife but they lacked safety features and were the cause of many home accidents.

The electric washer as we know it today appeared in 1923, as mass production methods made possible the production of a large number of machines at low prices.

The first really successful electric appliances were small ones, the speaker said. The iron and the toaster first caught the public fancy and today all small appliances are in common use.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. J. C. Wilson, who in his wisdom himself he had been a Westinghouse salesman before having made a rocking washer of galvanized material for his chickens.

OUTLINES R.V. HISTORY

Mrs. Roy Bush welcomed the group to River Valley and gave a graphic picture of the history of the district. The Rosebush, Wallbridge and White families were the first settlers, she said, and their memory is preserved in place names such as Rosebush Landing, Richardson's Point and White's Eddy. Some local farms have had several generations living on the property.

The present River Valley Road was originally called "Pig Street," Mrs. Bush continued, and part of the old footpath from Stirling to Belleville is still in evidence. The old Sager School, built in 1905, registered 25 pupils for its first term, and after, when the present school was built in 1931 on a different site, it was renamed River Valley School. At that time it was dedicated as a church and a school and community centre. Funerals were held in the building until the motor car replaced the horse. The River Valley pioneer cemetery near the school is another landmark of early days.

Mr. T. S. Ransom, president of the society, thanked Mrs. Bush for her remarks. He also displayed recent articles in the magazines "C-I-L Oral" and "Canadian Homes and Gardens" which mention is made of Hastings County Museum and historical landmarks of the Quinte district are pictured.

Mrs. Jack Sargent, museum curator, gave a report of the recent workshop of the Museums Section of the Ontario Historical Society, which she attended at Upper Canada Village, along with two delegates from Hastings County Museum. Mrs. Sargent reported that 89 per cent of the work of a local museum should be in the educational not the tourist field. Conducted tours, informative displays and school exhibits arranged to tie in with the curriculum are the chief function of a small museum, the delegates were told.

Two of the delegates enjoyed a tea hour with Mrs. Minhinnick, consultant on interiors for Upper Canada Village, and Miss Marjorie Dinsette, curator of the Bowman Log House at Wellington. Both women said that the Victorian period from 1880 to 1900 would be of real interest to the local museum, as those were boom days in the County and many of the finest old houses are still in existence. Mrs. Minhinnick suggested that one museum room should contain exposes should be done in Early Canadian furniture and the second room should be of a modern Victorian house for general exhibition to the public.

Mrs. Bush also reported that the delegates attended demonstrations of pioneer implements, crafts, period methods and domestic crafts.

VIEW EXHIBITS

With 70 people present at the meeting which was ably arranged by Mrs. Roy Bush, Homemaker Curator for River Valley Unit and by Mrs. Roy Tucker. These exhibits included articles used in former days for washing and ironing, numerous photo albums and group pictures, a colour table covers, a child's dress, a shawl manufactured at Frankford Woolen Mills, books, newspapers, chairs, kettles and a tin roofed tool house made for Stirling centennial in 1959 by Mr. J. B. Belshaw. On a large desk at the back of the schoolroom, Mrs. Roy Tucker was in charge of the display of the two River Valley Tweedsmuir history books. The school teacher, Mr. G. Bennett, drew a map of the various concessions in Sidney Township, depicting the River Valley community, with its stretches from Oak Lake to Wallbridge Lake and along the Frankford Road. This was examined with interest by the members and Mrs. Bennett was thanked for his work by Mrs. Roy Bush.

Mrs. Jack Bush was the writer of the door prize, an automatic steam iron donated by the Hydro Electric Company and won by Mrs. Arthur Pearce.

Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh was pianist for the evening and refreshments were served by Mrs. Tucker and members. Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. Norman Rosebush and their assistants.

SWISS REPORT DEFICIT

BERN (AP)—For the first time in 13 years, Switzerland will have a national budget deficit. The Swiss Federal Finance Bowels announced Thursday the 1966 budget of 6,000,000,000 francs ($1,500,000,000) includes a deficit of 369,000,000 francs ($90,800,000).

Rhodesia May Be Pulling Back From Rebellion Brink

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — New hope that Rhodesia may be pulling back from the brink of rebellion has been raised with the ready, almost eager, response of Prime Minister Ian Smith to Prime Minister Wilson's offer to visit Salisbury for more talks.

Smith's urgent desire to see the British Prime Minister and the Commonwealth secretary as soon as possible seems to stave off, at least for the moment, by the Rhodesian cabinet, though it was reported in London they had already taken a "decision in principle" on declaring independence.

Smith's "11th hour" plea to Britain to grant independence before Nov. 11 under the existing constitution, with Negro rights guaranteed by an internationally registered treaty, was still causing doubt in Whitehall as to whether the offer was a genuine attempt to find some common ground, or a subtle way of laying the blame for Rhodesia's inevitable action on the British government.

CALLED SMITH'S HAND

Some observers here have called Smith's hand by agreeing to reopen discussions on the constitution. Others, though the British government still firmly insists the 1961 constitution is not open to discussion, see independence without more political progress for the country's 4,000,000 Negroes.

The new talking point still relates to only one of the five British demands — safeguards for independence, ignoring the vital requirement of acceptance by the Africans.

Further hope of progress came, however, with indications in Salisbury that Smith would place no obstacle to Wilson's visit there. Dottonley, the Commonwealth secretary, meeting the detained African nationalists.

Recently some of the best of African nationalist pressure on Rhodesia has come from Nkomo, an apostle of black - majority rule than President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika, and leaders of Rhodesia's exiled nationalists are based.

ALLIES FEARS

In an obvious attempt to allay the fears of white Rhodesians, Nkomo said recently that he leave the Commonwealth if the British government is given independence. He also reply repeatedly demanded Rhodesian Negroes in the meantime for irresponsible talk of violence.

He said both black and white Africans have a deep appreciation of the principles of democratic independence and a planned involvement to wards their implementation," and urged the exiles to go back and work for this constitutional end.

Wilson's acceptance of the weekly idea as at least a starting point for talks indicates his determination to unify British political opinions of all shades behind him. Retailing Boom Spreading Into Autumn Months

OTTAWA (CP)—A retailing boom, with some lines of business reporting sales as much as 22 per cent higher than last year, appears to be spreading into the autumn months.

The bureau of statistics reported today that sales in August by all lines of chain stores were up nearly five per cent from a year earlier.

The bureau also reported that in September, department store sales were nearly 12% per cent greater.

And earlier this week the bureau reported preliminary figures indicating department store sales were nearly 12 per cent greater in the first week of this month than a year ago.

Because department store sales figures can be compiled quickly they are considered a good indicator of trends in retail business, and indicate the pace of consumer spending on goods generally.

Diefenbaker Visits Belleville Twice

Rhodesia Warns Zambia To Keep Out Of Quarrel

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Rhodesia's independence crisis marked time here today pending the arrival Sunday of British Prime Minister Wilson in a bid to break the current deadlock.

But a veiled warning went out Friday night to African-ruled Zambia, Rhodesia's northern neighbor, to refrain from making trouble if Rhodesia seized independence.

Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith said in a message to President Kenneth Kaunda that Rhodesia will uphold existing obligations to Zambia in all circumstances providing Zambia does nothing to harm Rhodesia.

Political observers see this as both a warning to Zambia not to join in any anti-Rhodesian sanctions and an attempt to allay any fears that Rhodesia would retaliate against Zambia if Britain imposed sanctions.

Zambia, closely linked in trade with its southern neighbor, would suffer economically if the Rhodesians chose to crack down.

FACES SANCTIONS

Rhodesia itself faces the threat of economic sanctions by Britain if the Smith government unilaterally declares the colony's independence.

The British government has refused to grant independence unless the 1961 Rhodesian constitution is altered to provide for the transfer of power from the colony's 250,000 whites, who now govern Rhodesia, to the 4,000,000 Negro majority.

Wilson will face the task of making the Rhodesian cabinet rescind or at least delay indefinitely a formal decision to go ahead with a unilateral declaration.

(Detective Superintendent George Williams, a former bodyguard to Sir Winston Churchill, flew from London Friday night to consult on security arrangements in Rhodesia for Wilson's visit.

(London reports said extra bodyguards may be assigned to the prime minister apart from the normal two-man bodyguard flying with him.)

Pakistan Asks UN To Speed Action Enforcing Truce

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—India and Pakistan are expected to swap new charges over violations along their truce line when the UN security council reopens debate on Kashmir, probably Monday.

Pakistan asked for an urgent meeting to speed up council action on enforcing the ceasefire and withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani troops facing each other along the 1,000-mile truce line.

The council president for October, Senator Hector Payso Reyes of Uruguay, told reporters he had informal agreement among the members to hold the meeting Monday.

Secretary-General U Thant announced Friday night that he plans to send a senior army officer to India and Pakistan to seek agreement on a plan to withdraw troops of both nations from the ceasefire line.

Thant said he had proposed the appointment of Maj.-Gen. Syseno Sarmento of Brazil, commander of the UN emergency force in the Gaza Strip.

Thant has described as "precarious" the ceasefire which went into effect after India and Pakistan halted full scale fighting Sept. 22 in compliance with a Security Council order.

Since the ceasefire went into effect, India and Pakistan repeatedly have accused each other of violations, but no major outbreaks have been reported.

WANTS VOTE

Pakistan wants a UN plebiscite in Kashmir to determine which of the two countries should have the state.

India has said repeatedly that Kashmir is Indian territory and that it is too late to hold the plebiscite to which it agreed in 1948.

Once the ceasefire and withdrawal have been implemented, the council is committed to take up the thorny plebiscite issue.

Council debate is expected to bring into the open private differences among the big four over how the ceasefire should be supervised.

The United States and Britain contend that the council's ceasefire resolution of Sept. 20 gave the secretary-general the authority he needed.

The Soviet Union and France insist that Thant needs step-by-step approval from the council as he acts.

Seize Boats Handling Refugees

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard has charged two small boats with "gross violation of safe navigation laws" in transporting Cuban refugees to the United States across the Florida Straits.

A coast guard spokesman announced Friday night that the two U.S.-owned and registered vessels—the Shark Five and the Mistral—were accused of ferrying without a licensed operator and failing to provide sufficient safety equipment.

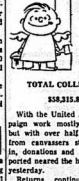
The Shark Five, a 44-foot sloop which brought 34 refugees and a crew of 10 Oct. 14, also was charged with overloading. The 30-foot Mistral, shuttled 20 refugees across the choppy straits the same day.

Besides the two, some 50 other small boats have been impounded and their operations are now being investigated by the coast guard.

Meanwhile, the U.S. continued negotiations with the Cuban government for an orderly movement of some 50,000 or more waiting to seek a new homeland.

The two countries were reported near agreement on an airlift from Varadero Airport, about 95 miles east of Havana, to Miami, but the number of planes was still under discussion.

Friday, a group of 80 refugees reached Key West in a converted patrol boat. It was the largest single group so far as the refugee count in the last two weeks rose to more than 1,200.



TOTAL COLLECTED

With the United Appeal campaign work nearly completed, but with over half the reports from canvassers still to come in, donations and pledges reported neared the halfway mark yesterday.

Returns continue to run ahead of last year. The total reported to date represents almost 46 per cent of the objective. Next week's returns are expected to be large, as reports flood in, and there will be some "mopping up" left to be done in November.

Youth Burns to Death In Shack Near Marlbank

A 15-year-old youth died early today when fire destroyed a shack north of Marlbank where he was camping out with a friend.

Burned to death was Neil Dafoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dafoe, sixth concession Hungerford township.

In hospital is the friend, who tried vainly to rescue him — 17-year-old Clifford Sweet of Marlbank. Provincial Police said he was taken to Belleville General Hospital suffering from burns but was not seriously injured.

Police blamed the fire on a makeshift stove — made from pipe.

The shack was located about a half-mile from Dafoe's home and 500 yards north of a county road. Parents of the boys knew they were camping there overnight.

Sweet awoke about 12.30 a.m. to find the structure in flames. He made several attempts to rescue his companion. However, say police, the Dafoe youth was in a state of shock and in the resultant confusion Sweet was unable to get him out.

It is not yet known if an inquest will be held.

White Mob Attacks 90 Negroes

LINCOLNTON, Ga. (AP)—Fifty Georgia State troopers were ordered here today to try and keep order as Negroes planned a demonstration similar to one which culminated in a violent clash with whites Friday.

A group of whites charged Friday and scattered a file of about 90 young Negroes on their way to a courthouse rally, protesting school segregation.

The whites shouted, "Kill the niggers! Kill them!" as they charged.

Several marchers were struck and kicked but no serious injuries were reported.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference said it planned to bring in civil rights workers from outside the county for the demonstration today.

SCLC leaders announced late Friday they also plan to continue demonstrations in adjoining Wilkes County where school boycotts and courthouse marches have been a daily routine since Monday.

A spokesman said the civil rights group might stage a courthouse march in Washington, the seat of Wilkes County, after the planned demonstration in Lincolnton.

Meanwhile at Washington, a white man tried to run down Negroes returning from another courthouse rally Friday, and 13 Negroes swore out warrants against him. Police Chief Tom Thornton said, "I don't care whether he's black, blue, white or green, what he did' was wrong and we want him."

Vernon Armor of Washington was arrested and released under bond.

Protests Over Viet Nam Not Reflecting U.S. Mood

WASHINGTON (CP)—Demonstrations against the American involvement in Viet Nam stirred passions in the United States to a new pitch this week.

Protests last weekend were well organized and highly publicized, but they cannot claim to reflect much of the national mood.

This is the conclusion to be drawn from available evidence, including the backlash of counter-reaction among students and a large portion of the public.

President Johnson's fear has been that a contrary impression is being registered abroad and this helps explain the shrillness with which he and his supporters greeted last weekend's events.

Johnson reacted by calling in the FBI for a quick study of anti-draft movements and figures such as Vice-President Humphrey and Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach referred loosely to Communist association with unspecified protest groups.

Johnson has been apprehensive all along—and correctly so —that North Viet Nam and China make as much capital as they can out of American protests against Vietnamese intervention.

Even left - wing visitors to North Viet Nam have remarked on the grossly-inflated importance attached by the public to the size of the American protest movement—a misconception used to promote the view that the U.S. in due course will chuck Viet Nam and leave.

Johnson spoke of this publicly and privately last April and May when the academic community was worrying out loud at various teach-ins about growing American participation. Such criticism today, if not satisfies, said the network was not approached by any advertiser or any advertising agency "before or after our decision."

Robert Thomson, national Social Credit leader, said in Flin Flon, Man., the Nov. 8 election will seek nothing because both larger parties have the big entities in the past. He said the Conservative promises this time could have been carried out when Mr. Diefenbaker had a majority.

Mr. Pearson returns to Ottawa today and has no speeches scheduled. Mr. Diefenbaker continues his tour of ridings east of Toronto. Douglas is in his riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam, B.C., Mr. Thomson in the Winkler, Man., area and Credit Leader Caouette in Lac St. Jean riding.

PC Leader Mainstreets At Station

By HARRY MULHALL

Quinte-district Conservatives personally formed square about their national captain this week end.

They not only were standing shoulder to John Diefenbaker — but rubbing shoulders with him as he swung through the district.

Training across the region, Mr. Diefenbaker staged a series of central whistle stops to highlight the campaign challenges of local party candidates in four district ridings.

It began yesterday with a brief stopover in Belleville. The stops up to today have been repeated at Port Hope — for the Northumberland candidate; at Napanee — for Douglas Alkenbrack in Prince Edward-Lennox; at Hastings — for Rodney Webb in Hastings-Frontenac and Campbell — for Northumberland where his own former Cabinet-minister-turned-rebel, George Hees, now is seeking a political comeback as a symbol of party unity.

Tonight, Mr. Diefenbaker speaks at Peterborough before entraining once more — this time for Toronto.

Yet, the most auspicious appearance of the Quinte visit appeared likely to be in Stirling, where the party leader halted late this morning midway between his Napanee-Campbellford jaunt.

Centrally located between Northumberland, Hastings Frontenac and Hastings South, it was an obvious rendezvous point for the Conservatives and their leader to meet the electorate.

The brief Belleville stopover yesterday afternoon presented another aspect of the campaigning party leader to local Conservative supporters.

His previous appearances in Belleville have usually been in the dramatic platform campaigner. Yesterday, he literally left them speechless, switching from dynamic histrionics to an exercise in folk contact.

An estimated more than 250 party supporters turned out to greet their chief with banners and campaign placards, headed by Conservative Hastings South candidate Lee Grills.

They gathered in a raw wind and persistent rain that whipped the platform of the city's CNR station.

The cars carrying Mr. Diefenbaker's campaign party were hitched to the end of the afternoon Montreal-Toronto passenger express, where they could be later conveniently hooked to the campaign special at Port Hope.

When it halted at the station, party knots of the big welcoming party were still standing some distance away outside the station platform.

Once they realized the situation, the supporters made a hurried dash for the rear of the train. Mr. Diefenbaker, however, beat them to the spot. He was already on the platform and greeting nearby individuals when the crowd surged around him.

Among the first objects to catch his attention was a homemade banner strung between two hockey sticks and bearing the device: "Sir, Please Make Us Proud to be Honest Canadians."

As photographers crowded off the train, Mr. Diefenbaker eyed the banner and told the leader: "That's very good. Hold it out there."

Then he moved among the gathering crowd, shaking hands, swapping greetings.

Mr. Grills saluted him with:

Party Leaders Campaign Thousands of Miles Apart

The largest audience of Prime Minister Pearson's campaign Friday night heard him step up his plea for a majority government while thousands of miles away Opposition Leader Diefenbaker pressed with mixed fortunes for a majority government while thousands of miles away Opposition Leader Diefenbaker pressed with mixed fortunes for a majority government.

Mr. Pearson told a colorful rally of 5,000 persons, assembled in the Halifax Forum from across Nova Scotia, that a majority is needed to permit long-term economic planning. There have been three general elections since 1957 and "we don't want another for five years," he said.

Before 900 persons in Lindsay, Ont., Mr. Diefenbaker asked his audience: "Will you entrust them to liberals with a majority so they can do anything they want to?"

The New Democratic Party, angered over the CTV network's rejection of a paid advertisement dealing with misleading advertising, gained support from Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, who said the network's action was legal but unfair.

Eamon Park of Toronto, party president, said he will take the issue to the matter up with CTV officials again.

Majority Govt. Need Halifax Meeting Told

Diefenbaker Shakes Hand Of George Hees

By KEN CLARK

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson climaxed his Atlantic Province election campaign here Friday night by telling a crowd of 7,200 the Liberal government has been unafraid to tackle controversial problems.

"The claim I make for my government is that we have faced up to the tough, difficult problems," he said. "You can't do this without getting into difficulty and controversy."

Warmed up by the way-down east music of Don Messer and his Islanders, the biggest Liberal crowd of the Nov. 8 campaign responded with frequent applause to Mr. Pearson's speech.

He bore down heavily on the need for a majority government to keep the economy rolling. The theme was in keeping with suggestions the Atlantic Provinces suffer from an economic lag compared with the rest of Canada.

It was the first of a planned series of mass rallies for Mr. Pearson as his campaign intensifies with the election 17 days away.

The crowd, drawn from throughout Nova Scotia, all but filled the Halifax Forum.

ANSWERED HECKLER

Mr. Pearson ignored shouted heckling except at one point in the short prepared-text portion of his speech when somebody made a crack about pensions. He stopped reading from the text and launched into his government's social security record.

Then he wound up his speech with his usual attack on the provincial unity and drew frequent applause.

He took a few oblique swipes at the opposition. He accused opposition parties of talk about "gloom, doom, defeat and defeatism" while the economy is progressing at a great rate.

"Yet everything seems to be terrible to the abominable-no-men," he said.

He asked the crowd—some carrying placards — if they wanted a return to the government disunity that "ended in the sordid collapse" of the government in 1963. There was a reference to the Conservative defections from leader John Diefenbaker.

LIBERALS UNITED

Referring to the 1965 campaign return of some of the big defectors, he said the Liberals do not have to manufacture party unity for electoral purposes.

"My colleagues have not joined me on the bridge to take over when the captain goes down with the ship," he said.

The prime minister defended his decision to have the Supreme Court of Canada decide whether the government or the federal government has jurisdiction over offshore mineral rights.

He said if the federal government were awarded the rights, then the federal government should work out a method of developing them with the provinces, possibly giving the provinces control.

Surely the sensible thing to do is to find out from the courts first where jurisdiction lies. If the provinces are awarded the rights, then they will go unchallenged, he said.

Mr. Pearson returns to Ottawa today. He campaigns next week in Ontario and Vancouver, then moves to Winnipeg for another major rally.

Bert Rattray Consecon, Dies In Car Crash

One Prince Edward County man was killed and another critically injured early Friday evening as result of two-vehicle crash on Highway 33 west of Trenton near the Dug-Hill Road.

Fatally injured was Bert Rattray, 55, of Consecon, who died at the scene of the accident. Critically injured was Harold Jenkins, 35, driver of the second car, who was taken to Kingston General Hospital by Rushnell Ambulance.

The accident occurred during a heavy rainstorm when visibility was very limited.

Mr. Rattray was said to have purchased gasoline at a service station near the Dug Hill Road intersection and was proceeding east on 33 highway when his car was in collision with a westbound vehicle driven by Mr. Jenkins.

The father of three daughters, and two sons, Mr. Rattray had lived in Consecon for the past 50 years. She was a members of Bridge Street United Church and also belonged to the Grand International Auxiliary of the CNR.

Candidates Busy in Nor'humberland

This will be one of the liveliest days of the election campaign for candidates in Northumberland.

While Conservative leader Diefenbaker speaks at a rally in Campbellford at 1 p.m. Liberal candidate Pauline Jewett has a heavy schedule of campaigning arranged in the north townships of the riding.

This is the area where the Conservatives "d r a w their strongest support. This morning she was calling on farms and householders in Percy township and later this afternoon she too will be campaigning in Campbellford.

She will make a major speech in Castleton tonight — the centre of Cramahe township, where she will speak on the growth of Northumberland County — a subject that Conservative candidate George Hees has stressed throughout the campaign to date.

Home Grown Potatoes Take Jump in Price

What could be the last of this year's locally grown tomatoes were offered on the Belleville farmers' market this morning with 6-qt. baskets bringing $1.25 and quart boxes 35 cents.

And home grown potatoes also took a jump in price on the market with farmers quoting up to $2.50 per hamper — up 50 cents from last week. Ten quart baskets ranged from 50 to 65 cents.

Hallowe'en pumpkins sold at from 25c to 75c each. Carrots were 50c per basket; cooking onions 50c and table beets 50c. Grade A large eggs sold at 65c the dozen. Dressed ducks brought 60c per lb.

Fancy Grade McIntosh apples sold at $3.50 per hamper. Baskets of Macs, Talmas Greens and Spys sold at 75c with Snows bringing 65c.

East York Organizer 'The Fun One' Where Whipper Billy Performs

By RICHARD JACKSON

TORONTO — This is the fun one. In fact, they really ought to be charging admission here in East York, where Whipper Billy Watson, the gentleman wrestler, and Stephen Otto, the public-spirited barrister, are putting on the swingingest campaign show in all of Metropolitan Toronto. They call this hefty handsome gladiator, is the one having the fun, along with all his friends and admirers.

And who in East York isn't a friend, or who anywhere in Canada isn't an admirer of this well-beloved star of the world of sport now rounding out 25 brightly shining years on the wrestling mat and in the performing of good works, especially among the crippled children.

All of which isn't making it all that funny to Steve Otto, who friends tell me, would like to has been a doer of community good.

The Whip is the Conservative and Steve Otto the Liberal, and the riding's East. In the last-installed parliament.

And, oh yes, there is a third man, the NDP candidate, a clergyman, the Rev. William Smith.

But it's the Whip's show.

"Where," asks Steve Otto wryly, "does a mere barrister, or for that matter, a mere chairman, get off in a popularity contest with a pin-up hero like Whipper?"

Then he answers his own question: "It's like running against the guy on the white charger."

RUNNING FOR LIFE

But undeterred if not undismayed, Steve Otto is running, and hard.

Just like his life depended on it which it does, his political life anyway.

He's at the bus stops in the morning, handing out bus tickets. For free.

Which makes it fun for the voters who ride the buses in East York.

Sounds like it could be an expensive operation, but it isn't all that costly.

The bus tickets are attached to his vote-for-Steve-Otto pamphlet which he distributes, one to a customer, to the commuters, in the queues.

But how many, actually, can you get rid of handing out the free bus ticket and election brochure go a pleasant goodmorning, a handshake and the introductory "I'm Steve Otto, your Liberal candidate; hope you'll read this brochure and vote for me November 8?"

Not many, says Steve Otto, but it's nearly enough for the morning bus rush at any one stop doesn't go much beyond a couple dozen.

Which, if you hustle hard down the line, could run to maybe 60 tickets.

FAVORS FOR LADIES

Steve Otto has another little gimmick.

Favors for the ladies.

Gold-capped vials of perfume, not so tiny either — maybe two inches long by a half inch in diameter.

Good stuff, too, not just cologne but perfume, for Mrs. Shoulders," they call it.

Steve Otto had the thing especially bought up, with his name in gold letters and gold "X" on a red dot stamped on the vial. A cute and entirely acceptable little thing for a lady's purse.

Hands them out with a smile and a pleasant "good evening. I'm Steve Otto," when he goes door-knocking his way through the constituency, and presents them, of course, when he attends coffee parties.

How many has he given away?

Again, at first glance, it could be a costly gimmo.

"But," asks his campaign manager, industrialist Carl Hinch, "on how many doors can you knock in the evening? Of how many coffee parties can you take in over the day?"

How some industrialist, on his own time, is running an election campaign?

RETURNING FAVOR

"I'm returning a favor," explains Carl Hinch.

This spring, he recounts, his wife's "cleaning woman," a new immigrant from The Netherlands and her husband — neither of whom could read English — signed a contract for a "free sample" of siding on their modest two-bedroom bungalow.

Catch was that it wasn't so "free" that they didn't get a bill for $3,000, which, atop their mortgage payments, put them without a trace in a sea of debt.

Steve Otto took the case. Won it for the Dutchman and his wife. There was no fee.

"What are you going to do with a guy like that!" asks Carl Hinch, "when he wants you to run his campaign — you do it, don't you?"

Steve Otto has to go for such stunts as the free bus tickets, and the vials of "White Shoulders," explains Carl Hinch, if only to offset what is a calle "the absolutely fantastic publicity that the Whip is getting."

But it costs a lot more than gimmicks.

For the Whip has only to show his face on a street — and boom — instant crowd of admirers, kids and their moms.

PUTS ON SHOW

The Whip's going through East York like the great-heart of modern pied piper that he is.

"Wanna roast?" squeaks a cheeky eight-year-old.

"Sure do," agrees the Whip amicably, and the next minute he's steaming with pain as the kid reaches maybe one-sixth of the way around his substantial middle.

The Whip puts on a show in the street that must rival his performance in the ring, and the delighted kid goes roaring off to his incredulous and madly jealous pals, "Hey you guys —is see me, and the Whip!"

Ironically, the whip's in the good and capable hands of Miss Mary Sutherland, a business executive and Conservative constituency secretary.

She sees to it that her big, good looking and impressively personable charge is done out in a starched white button-down shirt, blue four-in-hand tie and double-breasted blue suspenders.

Then she hands him over to Steve Douglas, the gravel-voiced sportscaster who trots him along to those interminable coffee parties.

Sometimes Miss Mary Sutherland goes along too, "to see how our boy's going over with the ladies."

But Miss Sutherland, how is he going over?

At this point she is just about ecstatic.

"In York West the Grits think they've got everybody swooning over Bob Winter — and mind you, Bob isn't at all bad, but if you want to see what swooning really is, East York's the place.

"Why right now we're figuring on having an autobahner follow the Whip around to pick up and revive the bodies when he goes door-knocking."

This sounds kind of strange talk coming from Miss Mary Sutherland — who is an entirely proper, if not perhaps even a bit prim sort of a business bachelor girl.

But she's been listening, obviously, to Globe and Mail sports editor Jim Vipond, Steve Douglas, sports writer Jim Coleman, half the sports staff from the Tely and assorted other characters of athletic interests who are all busy in the Whipe campaign corner.

As a matter of fact, the Whip's committee rooms, says Miss Sutherland, seem these days could pass for the sports department at the Globe. Like they say, in East York is the fun one.

Hastings County Jail Called 'Antiquated' by Grand Jury

A grand jury of the Ontario Supreme Court has agreed that Hastings County Jail is out of place in modern times.

The institution, in sporadic facility on the province's penal system, has been cited as a prime example of what twentieth century jails should not be.

The jury evoked the publicity since it is one of the oldest of its kind in Ontario.

The grand jury — impanelled at the start of each assizes to investigate, besides criminal cases, the condition of county institutions — put its findings succinctly.

Its report to presiding judge Mr. Justice H. W. Brooks included this sentence on its inspection of the jail:

"The building and facilities are antiquated."

Otherwise, the jury reported, it found the administration of Governor Albert Therriault in good order with no complaints from the inmates.

The jury also warned that more room must soon be found at the Hastings County Home for elderly and aged citizens.

While complimenting its superintendent Ken Ferris on his work, the jury noted: "It is our opinion that more space will be needed shortly in the very near future.

The jury obviously was impressed by its inspection of the home for retarded children at Plainfield. So much so they believe it worthy of wider recognition and reported to His Lordship: "It would be worth while for a person to visit this place to see first hand the fine work being accomplished."

Will Close Another Stretch Of Pinnacle Street Monday

Belleville motorists are in for even more traffic detours along Pinnacle street before repaving operations are completed.

Commencing Monday morning that part of Pinnacle street between Bridge street and Victoria Ave., will be closed to through traffic in order that the sewer installation may be completed with the least possible interruption.

"We are pushing the contractor for completion of his work as soon as possible," said city engineer Wilbur Purcell and with catch basins still to go in he can get along much faster if there is no traffic interruption".

Pinnacle street between Bridge and Dundas has been closed to through traffic for the past several weeks in this area sewer work is all but completed.

USE PARKING LOT

Despite the closing of Pinnacle street north of Bridge, the two city-owned municipal parking lots will remain in use.

Mr. Purcell said that entrance and exit from the lots will be possible from Campbell and Pattersen streets which will remain open.

While Pinnacle street remains closed, through north-bound traffic will continue to be diverted along Church street.

But just so motorists do not get lost there will be adequate signs along Church street directing motorists to highway routes and also to the municipal parking lots on Pinnacle street.

MacMillans Remanded to December 3

TORONTO (CP)—George and Viola MacMillan were remanded Friday to Dec. 3 on three fraud charges each in connection with the boom-bust cycle in last year of shares of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd.

A special prosecutor, Rod Cormack, said a date for preliminary hearing will be set then.

Mr. MacMillan was president and his wife was promoter when Windfall shares rose to $8.00 from 36 cents on rumors it had made a copper strike and then collapsed to 80 cents when it was revealed no ore had been found on its Timmins property.

Charges were laid against them two weeks ago following publication of the report of a royal commission appointed to investigate the price fluctuations.

John Campbell, former director of the Ontario Securities Commission, was remanded Thursday to Nov. 10 on charges of breach of trust by a public officer in connection with the affair.

Mother of 8 Sent to Jail Until Dec. 22

OTTAWA (CP)—The mother of eight children, convicted of criminal negligence in the starvation-death of one of them, was sent to jail until Dec. 22 Friday.

Sentence of the father, also convicted, was postponed until Dec. 22, the day after the mother's release, to permit him to care for four of the children while she remains at home.

Appearing for sentence before Mr. Justice A. H. Lieff of the Ontario Supreme Court were Muriel, 40, and James Craig. Their three-year-old son Gary died at home last Dec. 17 weighing less than 13 pounds. In his lengthy judgment the judge expressed "great concern" that only Gary's tragic death could force placement of his five - year - old retarded brother, Ralph, in a provincial hospital for retarded children.

The couple had been tryied to place Ralph in a hospital for several years.

Plan Community TV Antennae

A new service designed to enhance television reception in the city will go into effect early next year.

Dr. Gerald A. Morton, publisher of The Intelligencer announced today he has been awarded the licence to establish Community Antennae Television (CATV) in Belleville.

Dr. Morton heads a new company which will have full control of the new operation. Personnel of the company and a more complete announcement regarding the new service will be made later.

CATV will operate from a central control tower to be erected outside the city. The new service will feature television at its best from ten private stations in black-and-white, and color when available, without roof antennae. It will, also, feature FM.

Television stations in Kingston, Toronto, Peterborough, Watertown, Hamilton, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse among others will be featured.

CATV will receive the signals from these stations and in turn will relay them to viewers over a cable network to be established in the city.

Subscribers will pay a modest monthly charge.

The new service has met with success in Ontario and Quebec. In this province 150 systems have been established while over 350 are in operation in Quebec.

Hospital Developments

Meeting the needs of hospitals involves many and varied avenues of service, not only by hospital staffs but by the public through voluntary effort and payment of taxes. But still the problems and the need for still greater effort mount, while means are sought to keep up with the pace of modern hospital developments.

Obtaining sufficient staff is one thing. In this respect we referred recently to Filipino nurses who are helping to fill the gap in area hospitals, including the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital in Picton.

But there are other problems. In Belleville lack of funds to provide adequate equipment to maintain a high standard of diagnosis and treatment will be a serious difficulty in connection with the new addition to the hospital.

In a recent address on this theme to the women's auxiliary of the hospital, board chairman Dr. Meldrum Haig indicated the public may be asked to help out with contributions.

"There should be, and we hope there will be, a public campaign for funds," he said.

Mr. Haig said that because estimates for the additional exceeded approved amounts by "many hundred thousands of dollars," it had been found necessary to eliminate several necessary and essential services. For example, there is currently no provision for administrative offices and facilities. He said the only hope of replacing these facilities "is to accumulate additional funds from all possible sources."

Yet another line of thinking in hospital development is the use of community hospitals in relieving the burden of administrative work, and for storing information on patents, medications and staff assignments. This is a subject that will be discussed further at the annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association on October 25-27.

The problems of hospital care and maintenance are manifold. These are but a few, and in Belleville they will increase when the new addition comes into operation.

More on Quebec

Premier Lesage of Quebec tends to labor the theme of closer understanding between Quebec and the rest of Canada. He harps away on the subject, almost to the point of militancy, regaling captive Anglo-Saxon audiences with the facts of the great Quebec experiment.

Well, we all want to be friends to be sure, but have we not heard the message before? At the laying of the cornerstones of Trent (Peterborough) University's Champlain College he said: "To those who keep repeating 'what exactly does Quebec want?' I ask: "What exactly do you want Quebec to want?"

After posing this riddle, Mr. Lesage added: "What should they have us surrender? What denial of our personality do they expect? Let them imagine my asking them that question with English Canada substituted for Quebec and I am sure that I would ask them, from their feelings, offend their intellect and the legitimate respect of their traditions."

If the Quebec premier continues in this vein we may begin to wonder if he is not suffering from a persecution complex, or a chip-on-shoulder from a sense of inferiority. Mr. Lesage is not very subtle in his approach. If greater understanding is what is needed, and we are all assured that it is, it might be better to employ a public relations firm to do the job all phases of Quebec-Ontario-and-the-rest-of-Canada relations and leave the politicians out of it.

Friendship and accord between peoples should be an easy, natural process. It cannot be achieved by making speeches on public platforms. Such speeches, with their constant emphasis on the divisions that exist, militate against the attainment of what should be a relaxed and natural relationship between all the peoples of this country.

Indian Summer

The autumn season has reached its peak and the countryside in these mellow days of Indian summer has an aspect of rare perfection that is unequalled at any other time of year.

But days are getting shorter and admirers of the countryside in fall have to hustle to see the colors at their best. Before long the trees will be bare, yet a quick trip into the countryside in the hours of daylight remaining after work can be rewarding.

Drive, for example, to the junction of Highways 19 and 33 above Redneersville, then make the steep descent into the village. As the sun goes down and later, at dusk, with lights twinkling along the Bay of Quinte, the panorama is a memorable one.

Or drive to Trenton, then north along the Trenton Skyline. In the stillness of the evening, amid the hill country that marks the region, with the shadows creeping over the canal system it is rather like being in the foothills of the Scottish highlands. And it seems appropriate that one should pass through a community with a Scottish name like Stirling.

It is surprising how much ground can be covered in what is left of the daylight hours, and the rewards at this time of year are considerable.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 22rd, 1945

When a group of grown men — scientists, at that — spend time and taxpayers' money trying to wake up a sleeping seed, it sounds like boondoggling, but it was just such an effort that solved an army problem and gave our Great Plains farmers a new weapon for their eternal war against soil erosion.

The stubbornly somnolent seed was that of Burbloe dendroides, better known as buffalo grass, it had long been known that this tough, tawny grass was an unexcelled erosion fighter; that its closely-woven sod could be depended on in all where many other plants could not even survive. Sometimes it seemed to die out, but in the great droughts, but always came creeping back to blanket the land. The only trouble was that it was tediously slow, spreading normally by its root system. Apparently it seeds seldom if ever germinated.

Then came the terrible drought of 1934-36. In the burnt-black areas agronomists examined the root systems and regretfully pronounced it a dead. But finally the rains came and a few green spikelets poked through the charred soil. And each year there were more. The supposed worthless seed had started growing.

To Your Good Health

Enlarged Lymph Gland No Cause for Alarm

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: When our year-old girl and only 4 feet 10 and so self conscious. Everybody calls me "Sherly" or "Little Jill." Boys never ask me to dance at the school hop so I just stay home and cry or watch TV. Is there any exercise or food for growth? My mom is 5 feet 2, and dad is five feet 9. They say I will grow until I am 21 but I think they just don't want to see me cry. They say I cannot take any shots as they can't afford it. — Little Bit.

"Little Bit," I don't think there is anything that will make you grow faster than the Good Lord intended — no exercises, no special foods. And a shot would be a waste of time and money.

At 15 it is quite possible that you will grow some more, although you will not continue to grow right until you are 21.

But from all the plaintive letters I get from boys who are only about 5 feet or so, I'm sure that girls your size must have been put on earth to make such boys happy.

Dorothy Fisher

Heredity has more than anything else to do with height — so there must have been some short and some tall and some average people for as long as the world has existed.

Anatomy of A Smoker

Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Are you "restless, nervous, extroverted, energetic, impulse seeking, independent and academically oriented toward the social sciences and engineering?"

If so, you probably smoke too much as well.

Or perchance you are "puritanical, conservative, stable, agreeable, dependable, religious and oriented toward physical sciences and engineering"?

Then you probably don't smoke at all.

These at any rate are some of the characteristics turned up by John Pilaun, a Wisconsin scientist at the University of Wisconsin, who investigated the personalities of smokers and non-smokers.

Despite their other admirable traits, and cigarette advertisements to the contrary, men who smoke are, as a group, he says, more feminine than those who don't and are less inclined to participate in sports. Those who smoke may be symbolic ally searching for masculinity.

Other Pilaun contentions you may want to put to your pee and — er, thinkpeabout:

Smokers are better marriage prospects than smokers.

Heavy smokers are more creative than non-smokers.

Among high school and college students, smoking reflects a lack of involvement in the scholastic program and an attempt to obtain satisfactions outside the school environment."

Strictly Personal

Political Extremists Are Blind

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A man I have known slightly for some time accosted me at a party not long ago and asked me, more in tones of puzzlement than of anger, why I have attacked the Birchites and rightists in the column, bracketing them with the radicals of the left.

"How can you compare us with the Communists?" he asked plaintively. "Don't you believe that we truly love our country, that we are dedicated American patriots?"

Of course, I believe it. I told him. The sincerity of the rightists is almost frighteningly self-evident. But "love is blind," I reminded him — not only the love of lovers, but the love of patriots. Simply caring for something does not mean that we automatically know what is best for it: when the lover's sweetheart is sick, he calls the doctor and does not assume that his love can diagnose or cure her.

"I bracket the rightists with the Communists," I told him, "because, despite the 180 degrees of difference in their views, they both share the same mental attitude — what is a semanticists call 'a two-valued orientation.' Permit me to explain what this cumbersome phrase means."

A two-valued orientation means that the person who has it believes that, in certain matters, there are only two possible opinions — a correct one, and a wrong one.

If he hears someone express a wrong view (such as the Communists), he takes the opposite position and assumes that his position is the correct one. It never occurs to him that there are more than two opposite sets of values involved in any significant proposition.

The Communists are guilty of the same two-valued thinking. They are incapable of discriminating among those who oppose them — to the Communists, all opponents are "reactionary jackals" or "tools of imperialism." They do not, and will not, distinguish among liberals, reformists, social democrats, conservatives, or reactionaries.

To the rightists, likewise, anyone who disagrees with them is either a "Communist" or an "unwitting agent" of communism. It is this monolithic viewpoint which leads them to such absurdities as calling Eisenhower a "dupe" of the Communists, as attacking the mental health program, as opposing all welfare measures. If the Communists are for anything, they say then everybody else who is for it (no matter how different the reasons) is also tainted with communism. This sick and narrow logic is what links Communists and rightists in their image, the illogic of the right.

Candidates From Each Party Gamble on $200 Sweeps

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Notes from the Campaign Trail, — Monday's Nomination Day, and while probably something around 1,000 candidates will be in the running, three, four, or even five of that number tried — and failed — to win the lucky draw, the nomination.

More, far more than in any previous election.

Election, they're calling it?

Sweepstakes it more like it!

Just consider the cost of a candidate's "ticket" on the sweepstakes.

A mere $200.

If that's all he wants to spend — and in jthe last few elections there was a small handful who didn't go for another ticket — then that is it, just the $200.

Nothing for committee rooms. Nothing for salaries. Nothing for advertising. Nor for any other of the many expenses that can — and have by the official records — run the cost of a single candidate's campaign over the $50,000 level.

For the basic $200, the candidate buys only the chance to get lucky.

It is a long, long chance, and unless it is the first or second one of the 265 prizes, he's out his $200 — but if he beats the heavy odds and wins then he picks up that annual $18,000 plus all that goes with it, which is plenty.

SENSE-MAKING

It includes, among other things, such fringe benefits as weekly luxury-cruise-to-Canada return trip air fares, car mileage, phone allowances, free mail, railway passes (the last two on "the Family Plan," too), 35-cent hamburgs, tempting $1.25 table d'hote meals, private office and stenographer (handy for researching speeches) and all - expense excursions to New York, paid junkets to Europe and even annual vacations.

A package like this — in payment for a five-day week, seven-month year, with no punching tabs on the actual time worked — isn't all that easy to come by.

So why not take a $200 shot at it?

And that is exactly what more would-be candidates tried this time than ever before—not those who had serious intentions and a fair chance of winning, but the long shots who didn't even a prayer beyond the wildly far-out remote possibility of hitting it lucky.

National Liberal Organizer Keith Davey worked out about the mad rush for the nomination by convention.

With three, four and often five candidates scrambling for the nomination in most constituencies, he figured the odds were in amazement that "it looks like it's about everybody wants to be an MP."

The reason for the stampede, of course, was obvious.

The Liberals are in the downto-earth Mr. Davey, "at $18,000 it's well worth the chance."

Seems like only yesterday that both Liberals and Conservatives had to unite, behind candidates, almost begging for people to take the Party nomination.

In his first campaign as Conservative leader, prior to the Diefenbaker in the 1957 election believed he could end what had been a 22-year domination by Liberal rule. And he had difficulty finding enough candidates to take the fight.

Came the surprise victory and everybody wanted to run in the next election. Better Conservatives, but hardly anybody for the Liberals and their new leader, Lester Pearson, who were all but buried in the smashing 208 - seat Diefenbaker landslide.

Now, everybody wants in the act, and both major Parties have had little trouble in finding good and able men with the best chances, the let's - shoot - for - broke odds of the $200-for-$18,000 gamble.

Even for the tough long - shot nominations in constituencies where chances are slim.

Where the chance are even, some constituencies have been mob scenes, with cloak and dagger overtones.

Like when Brockville Way in Leeds, one of those chancy constituencies that could go — and have gone — either way many times.

John Matheson, Prime Ministerial Parliamentary Assistant for the Liberal and since Leeds is United Empire Loyalist territory, the Party isn't exactly helping him.

So the Conservative nomination was a good scramble.

The Conservative Association old in tradition and deeply entrenched, had its chosen candidate. It looked like a shoo - in. Except that a former news paperman John McLean, quietly working for the nomination, unbeknown had lined up all the young people in the constituency including under-30 convention delegates. Could he make a bid for it, he asked the Association which never dreamed what was happening. Sure they told him, it was a free country.

So he did. And surprise, surprise, He won.

The first battle of the English Civil War was fought 323 years ago today—in 1642 —at Edge Hill, Warwickshire. For the first months the war went in the King's favor, but his superiority in cavalry, and the parliamentary army was confined to the eastern England and London. Cromwell's development of the "Ironsides" turned the scale by 1646, when the King fled to Scotland. Cromwell then beat the Scottish army and the king was captured and executed in 1649. The House of Lords was abolished and England was declared a commonwealth.

Why Such Haste?

Kingston Whig-Standard

It would be interesting to know exactly what the Prime Minister had in mind with regard to the talks in the provinces with the United States on the export of water. His reference to the anxiety of the U.S. suggests that the Canadian Government is under consideration to enter into some kind of agreement and that this country is yielding to that pressure. If we are going to deal at all with this most precious of all resources, we must be somewhat cautious. It is "awfully full". We must be positive, before a gallowsof water is sent on its way south, that all of this country's present and future needs can be met and that there will be sufficient reserves. We must also have some definite policy with the United States is doing all that it can do to protect and to utilize its own water resources, for there seems considerable doubt that such is the case now.

When it comes to the dispostion of our water resources, there is no hurry. We cannot afford to contemplate, for once exported it can never be regained.

Christian Services Held in Aya Sofya

IZMIR, Turkey (AP)—For the first time in 700 years, Christian services have been held in the Basilica of Aya Sofya in the ancient birthplace of the Nicene Creed.

The services were suggested by the Moslem Turks, who hope that Izmir—the Nicaea of old—will be declared a place of pilgrimage by Pope Paul.

More than 300 pilgrims attended the Roman Catholic service conducted by Father Superior P. Angelo M. Beghetto of San Antonio church of Istanbul during the Izmir grape harvest festival.

It was in 325 AD that the Nicene Creed—a simple statement that defined the nature of Christ—was given to the world at the first ecumenical council.

Much later, in 725, the seventh ecumenical council met in the Basilica of Hagia Sophia—which means Holy Wisdom in Greek and is written Aya Sofya in Turkish.

In 1330, the Ottoman Turks captured Nicaea, whose importance was only slightly less than that of Constantinople (Istanbul) itself. The Turks turned the basilica into a mosque. In later years, it became a museum.

SCENE OF FESTIVAL

This Anatolian town, about 60 miles southeast of Istanbul, was a scene of excitement during the three-day grape festival in late September.

Artists painted portraits and landscapes with the green and purple grapes and exhibited them under centuries-old acacia trees in the town square.

Black-turbaned men danced in the square and klased the naked blades of bright bayonets as they leaped and pranced to the pounding of a brass drum and the blast of an oboe.

On the final day of the festival, the music was stilled as Father Angelo, who comes from Padua, Italy, looked out into the roofless basilica at the faithful, pilgrims from Britain, Spain, Italy, France and Turkey.

He spoke of gratitude and love and women lifted their voices in song. Communion, at last, was received.

After the service, the priest shook hands with the governor, the mayor and other town dignitaries.

When the visitors left, the Turks pressed boxes of grapes on them in a show of friendship. Izmir had not seen in seven centuries.

SEEK PHANTOM HOUSE

MAIDSTONE, England (CP) Tourists at this large Kent market town are still looking for a house that no longer exists. The main notice board in the town square has a picture of George Washington's relatives and the town guide book tells them how to get there, but the building was pulled down two years ago. The town council says correcting the sign board would ruin its looks and the first printing of guide books has not yet been sold out.

Bleached Blond Boys Repel These Girls

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old girl who agrees with what you said about that high school boy who put blonde streaks in his hair. This is not just my own opinion, but the opinion of every girl I have talked to today.

We all feel that boys are becoming too feminine. A boy who would streak his hair is repugnant, abhorrent, insufferable, repulsive, nauseating, loathesome, offensive, disgusting and icky.

How can males expect female to respect them if they get themselves up to look like women? Don't they realize their greatest attraction is that they are the opposite sex? You have my permission to print my letter and I hope you do.—THUMBS DOWN ON BLEACHED BLONDE BOYS.

ANN LANDERS

* * *

DEAR THUMBS: Thanks for your views. And now I'd like to remind you girls that your greatest attraction is that you are members of the opposite sex.

Girls who get themselves up to look like boys are repugnant, abhorrent, insufferable, repulsive, nauseating, loathesome, offensive, disgusting and icky.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For the past three days I've received a telephone call between 11:00 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. A cultured voice says, "I think you should know your husband is having an affair with his office manager." Then I hear a click and the party leaves the line.

I've never had cause to suspect my husband of stepping out on me. He comes straight home from work and rarely goes anywhere without me.

His office manager is a divorced woman who is raising three children. She is dignified and reserved and has worked for my husband for five years.

I know I should put these calls out of my mind but I can't. I haven't told my husband because it might upset him. The phone company says they can't trace a call unless the party stays on the line for 20 minutes. I need some guidance. — UNNERVED.

* * *

DEAR UNNERVED: Tell your husband some out has been calling you with a wild story about him and his office manager and you think he should be aware of it. Then get an unlisted phone number.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I asked for your advice four years ago and didn't take it. Today I am writing to tell you I am sorry. When you advise other girls not to force a marriage because a baby is on the way, I hope they will listen to you.

I was only 18, innocent, ignorant and so ashamed of having disgraced my family that I couldn't hold my head up, much less give them an argument. My father went to see Dan's father and they practically dragged him to the justice of the peace.

Our marriage has been a living hell from the beginning. Dan walks in and out of our flat without telling me where he's going. He gets phone calls from girls who think I am his sister. They leave telephone numbers and ask that he call back. I can't count the number of times I've washed lipstick out of his shirts. Dan doesn't care about the baby and says she cries too much.

Our pastor called the situation hopeless and says I should divorce Dan and start life over. If I had listened to you I could have saved four years of agony, and my baby could have had a decent home with both a mother and a father. Please print my letter. It may help someone else. — STUBBORN AND SORRY.

* * *

DEAR SORRY: Unfortunately many people have to get their own lumps. They don't learn any other way. I hope the future holds brighter days for you and the little one. Good Luck.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Evans, R. R. 1, Bellesville announce the engagement of their daughter, Norah Patricia to Mr. Richard William Garrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Garrison of R. R. 1, Corbyville. The marriage will take place at Christ Church, Saturday, November 13, 1965 at 2:00 p.m.

Before her recent marriage, Mrs. William G. Cooney of Kitchener (formerly of Belleville) was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Madeline Jantzi in Kitchener, and at a presentation held at Zellers Limited in Kitchener, where she was employed. The bridegroom was presented with a sum of money by his co-workers at The Intelligencer.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM G. COONEY

Cooney – Lazenby

Tabernacle United Church, Belleville was the scene of a lovely fall wedding on Saturday, October 16, 1965, when Carol May Lazenby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Lazenby of Kitchener (formerly of Belleville) was united in marriage to William Gordon Cooney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon William Cooney, Belleville.

Rev. Morgan McFarlane, minister of the church officiated at the ceremony. Traditional wedding music was rendered by church organist Mr. Clifford Templer who also accompan'ed the soloist Miss Gaye McFarlane in appropriate vocal selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length bridal gown of lace over taffeta featuring a bateau neckline with square neckline and long lily-point sleeves. The tiered skirt of lace was highlighted with appliqued Spanish roses. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a white velvet bow and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Miss Madeline Jantzi of Kitchener, as maid of honor, wore a powder blue street length dress of peau de soie, with an overskirt of organza, and a blue rose headdress of matching material. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white poms. Miss Kathy Lazenby, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She was attired in a sweet pink peau de soie dress similar to that of the maid of honor, and she carried a colonial nosegay of pink and white poms.

Mr. Russell Waugh of Kitchener was groomsman and Mr. Barry Stickle of Belleville and Mr. Kenneth Lazenby of Kitchener were the ushers.

At the reception held at Tabernacle Church Hall the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a pink crepe dress with matching jacket, black and white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, dressed in a two piece golden colored wool suit with brown accessories and a corsage of white carnations sprinkled with gold.

For her wedding trip to Toronto and points west, the bride donned a blue two piece suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations

On their return, the couple will live at 41 Elgin Street, Belleville.

Princess Will Attend WAIF Ball

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movieland's social coup of the year—Princess Margaret at the WAIF ball Nov. 8—fell right out of the royal blue.

The princess herself asked to be invited, says Jane Russell, founder of the World Adoption International Fund group.

Said the actress:

"We owe it all to Sharman Douglas, a charter member of WAIF. She's been pals with princess for years that if ever she came to the United States, she should attend our ball which is really a fun ball."

Sharman Douglas is the daughter of Lewis Douglas, former U.S. ambassador to Britain. As a child, her London playmates were the future Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. All have remained friends and Sharman will travel with the princess on her 20-day tour of the United States.

Club Activities

NAPANEE B AND P CLUB

NAPANEE — At the regular October dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club Mrs. Irene Haig of the Belleville Club spoke on her visit to the International Convention in Washington, D.C., in—July of 1965. The theme of the convention was the problem of education in the world.

Interesting sidelights of the convention were the 25 minute speech of welcome by U.S. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, a visit to President Kennedy's grave, and a concert given by the U.S. Marine Band.

At this meeting, Mrs. Cecil Fretts also reported on her visit to the Provincial Legislature. Representatives of 26 clubs met Mr. Roberts and 12 members of the cabinet. In a very efficient manner, briefs concerning legislation for women were presented to the provincial government.

Church Groups

ST. ANDREW'S C.G.I.T.

The weekly meeting of St Andrew's C.G.I.T. group opened with the purpose. The roll showed seven members and one new member Marryln McCreary present.

The C.G.I.T. group from St Columba was invited to St. Andrew's Hallowe'en party to be held on October 30th. Cheryl Belch made three ornaments for Christmas trays, which were displayed.

After recreation the meeting was closed with the singing of taps.

Former Escort Of Princess Now Married

LONDON (AP)—Billy Wallace, 37, one-time escort of Princess Margaret, was married Friday to Elizabeth Hoyer Millar.

The dark-haired and dark-eyed bride, 32, is the daughter of Lord and Lady Inchyra.

Wallace's mother is Mrs. Herbert Agar, wife of American historian Herbert Agar, a Pulitzer Prize winner and former editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Billy's marriage removed the last bachelor from what was once known as the Princess Margaret set.

Until Princess Margaret wed Antony Armstrong - Jones in 1960, Billy Wallace was her constant escort. She and Wallace had known one another since childhood.

LOVES TEACHING DEAF

HALIFAX (CP)—Jas Killam, a specialist in teaching deaf children, says many more teachers are needed to work with pre-school deaf children in Nova Scotia. Now 24, Miss Killam turned to teaching from physiotherapy and says she never regretted the move.

LEGION L.A. NO. 428

TWEED—On Thursday evening Tweed Branch of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion No. 428 held their regular meeting in the Legion Hall. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Betty Long.

On Sunday, October 24th, the men's branch will have their new colors dedicated at St. James' Anglican Church by the Rev. D. W. Sinclair and the Ladies' Auxiliary have been invited to attend the church service with the branch.

On Hallowe'en a dance will be held in the Legion Hall and the proceeds will be go to the Legion Centennial Fund.

The Auxiliary has been asked to help sell poppies again this year.

The presentation of a talent show was discussed and Mrs. Long is to investigate this further and bring a report to the December meeting.

Donations were made to the C.N.I.B. and the Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants at Plainfield.

The draw prize was won by Mrs. Edna Blake.

Question: . . . back in 1953 or early 1954 you gave a recipe for economy white bread that was started with a sponge and let rise overnight. I used this recipe for years and cannot find it now. I would very much like to have it again. Also recipe for Grapenuts Pudding — Beulah C. W.

Answer: Clever girl Beulah! I gave 4 bread recipes in 1953 and 1954 but because you mentioned the sponge I was able to identify it.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Boiled Pickled Tongue (see Wednesday); Sweet Sour Sauce (see Wed.); Baked Pepper Squash; Brussels Sprouts; Buttered Parsnips and Chinese Lettuce with Chive French Dressing; Pumpkin Tarts with Ginger Whipped Cream; Coffee.

ECONOMY BREAD

(white or brown) (repeated from December 22/53).

Prepare the sponge the night before. 6 cups lukewarm water, 1 package granular yeast, 3 tablespoons margarine, 3 tablespoons salt, 3 or 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup skim milk powder, 6 cups bread flour. Beat those 7 ingredients together well and cover and let stand in cool kitchen overnight. Next morning add 12 cups flour (this will be whole wheat or white flour or a half and half mixture of both.) Knead at least 200 times. If amount of dough seems too unwieldy to knead on one batch, divide it into two parts and knead each separately. Divide into 6 equal parts, and shape each into oval and place in oiled standard loaf pans. Note: To make a fine-textured loaf, just before putting bread in pans, roll each section of dough out with rolling pin, then roll up as you would a jelly roll, and place in oiled pan. Let dough rise, covered, at room temperature until risen above rims of pans, then bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 50 minutes. Top a loaf and listen for a hollow sound to test for doneness. Do not hesitate to overbake bread — especially whole wheat — to be sure it is thoroughly baked. Best of luck to you Beulah and thank you for reminding me of this economical bread recipe.

GRAPENUT PUDDING

Pour 1 cup boiling water or milk over ½ cup grapenuts. Let stand until cool. Then add ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon melted butter, 2 beaten egg yolks, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup floured seeded raisins. Mix well, then fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into baking dish, stand this dish in a shallower dish containing 1 inch of hot water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until set—about 35 to 45 minutes. Let me know whenever I may help again.

Should Return Brand Lacking Lot Number

TORONTO (CP) — Pharmo Products Ltd. of Toronto warned Friday that anyone who has bought a bottle of white medicinal mineral oil (Pharmo brand) which lacks a lot number should return it at once to the seller.'

Company Manager Gordon Dodington said that because of a labelling mistake such bottles contain isopropyl alcohol, a form of rubbing alcohol, which may sicken those taking it internally.

He said his company's products are sold nationally to grocery stores and other outlets, but not to drug stores.

A Life for Living

Man Naturally Desires Conquests of Consequence

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

The russet month of October witnesses the revival of hunting fever among Americans outdoorsmen. A zest for prowling after game rises along with Indian corn and pumpkins. Now the autumn hunting season has opened throughout much of our country.

In some states the bow and arrow season for deer begins some weeks ago, and there and there we find an open season on bear. In some sections of America the season for shooting small game is also under way. Big game can now be taken by gun in most states of the Union and in the Canadian provinces.

Now the taxidermist will be busy mounting trophies brought to them from field and forest. Heads of deer, elk and moose, mountain sheep, antelopes and bears will be prepared to hang in conspicuous places as reminders of the hunter's prowess and shooting accuracy.

But although sportsmen will swat mosquitoes and kill blackflies and trap whitefooted mice that invade their hunting cabin cupboards, none of these will be seen home as trophies.

Hunting wily game has an almost hypnotic effect upon some sportsmen, drawing them into extravagant expenditures of energy, even in the worst weather, because the problems encountered in the hunt challenge their energies, skill and knowledge. And hunting trophies give sportsmen a feeling of significant accomplishment.

But no one ever mounts a mosquito, blackfly or mouse on the wall of his den. Why? Because they do not represent a sufficient conquest.

HUNGRY FOR MEANING

There is a nobility native to human nature that insists upon significance. Man is naturally hungry for meaning. He does not want his deeds to be trivial. As an old proverb puts it: "The eagle does not catch flies." A person may enjoy playfully tinkering with trivialities at times, but he does not want his whole life to be immersed in worthlessness.

When he fails to find high purposes to which he can wholeheartedly give himself, he then lives in a welter of anxiety, fearing that his existence has no importance. He tends to displace symbols of his real conquests over opponents that he considers worthy of his mettle, but he derives no joy from small victories over inconsequential foes. Even a fish mounted in many a hunter's den, but mice never.

Here are some conquests worth making:

Extend the areas of your awareness so that you see and create more beauty and seek more truth about God and man and God's world. Engage in reverence, wonder and worship that stretch the soul, and train your imagination and your compassions in seeking out human need and serving it. Labor and work for victory over selfishness, the worst form of spiritual narrowness.

As the Lord's Prayer suggests, we must learn to say the unselfish "our" rather than the self-centred "my." "After this manner therefore pray ye," said Jesus, "Our Father, our daily bread," "our debts", earn to think of yourself as belonging to others, and of others as belonging to you.

Share the values of life, your goods, your successes, your faith. Accept a share of the burdens of others, their complements, sorrows and woes. Instead of seeing what you can get from life, see how much you value you can add to the lives of others.

MUST INVEST TIME

Learn how to invest time rather than "kill time," living one day at a time, not dragging along the burden of yesterday's failures and regrets or trying to live tomorrow before it arrives. Be victorious over yesterday's days by improving over what you were then. Life's great triumphs are not found in superiority over someone else. The big achievement in business, sports, art and character is to exceed the best you have ever done before. See it today you can add more than heretofore to the sum of good feeling and good deeds in God's world.

Thousands of workmen were employed in building the Hoover Dam (earlier called Boulder Dam) in Colorado. Eighty-one of these laborers died while working there, some in tragic accidents. In memory of these martyrs to progress, who had laid down their lives to improve the life of millions of people, a plaque was posted at the dam. It reads, "They died that the desert might bloom."

We gain significance when we live or die that the world might bloom with righteousness, justice, love, brotherhood, hope and peace.

Picturesque Amsterdam Like Disney-Designed City

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

AMSTERDAM, Holland — What is it about Amsterdam that looks so familiar? Not Rotterdam, certainly. Everything Rotterdam is, Amsterdam isn't.

Copenhagen? No, not really, in spite of similarities. "Venice of the North?" Nonsense, in spite of the canals; there are no canals in Venice.

Cut it, by a name designed by Walt Disney for something to be called "Europe-Land."

Amsterdam is so picturesque, so many-sided and endlessly varied, that it seems to be a summary of what every tourist thinks "European" means. Its skating brown clay-brick houses, with double, single and wooden doors. Each is different, with a different white-trimmed Dutch gables. And each street is different.

The grand houses of wealthy 17th century merchants (no royal palaces here — this was a mercantile Empire) overlook the tree-shaded Gracht-en's Canal; the rich built single wooden row houses, and the very rich had double ones. There are 50 miles of water-ways wandering out and around the Amstel River, illuminated at night by 2,000 ornate lamps, and spanned by 239 graceful bridges, and occupied by docks and 2,000 picture-windowed, lace curtained houseboats — including those of a couple of Philadelphia ladies who run a Ritke restaurant.

Some of the bridges are drawbridges, opening to boat passes, the skipper drops his 30 - cent toll into a wooden shoe lowered on a pole by the attendant. Cars park on the cobbled streets above the canal. Until they built subways, four or five a week inevitably rolled in.

Near the harbor, Europe's busiest, Queen Juliana's Royal Shoe runs by Amsterdam's massive railway station, outside of which most of the city's 800,000 people (for 800,000 people) seem to be packed. The station was a monumental magnificent, fairy-tale pile of 26,000 pilings.

All construction in Holland is on pilings; highways cost twice as much to build as they do in North America for that reason.

VARIED CHARACTER

In patterniess Amsterdam, a city made for endless meandering and easy to get lost in, every nursery, tavern, cobblestone street has a character of its own, with corners made for standing around. A row of pretty cloths of Leidsplein, bearded students line her at the world from the tables of one of Amsterdam's countless sidewalk cafes, while shaven headed freshmen wander by in search of excitement. In the Waronde Djawa Restaurant, Indonesian rijstafels is served by Javanese waiters in the customary manner — 34 dishes at a time, for $4.25 per person.

In the antiques section you can buy valued old Amsterdam prints, authentic and imitation Royal Delft Blue (here's the imitation that authentic around), hammered copper mills jugs and brass charcoal brazier bed-warmers, straight off Holland's farms. There is a Latin Quarter much like Paris. There is a red light district with real red lights, where Holland's traditional picture windows are adapted to the practical purposes of merchandising. And in a sixteenth century building, Amsterdam's first bakery still dispenses rolls.

There are taverns with polished wood and laded-window exteriors, gas lamps and hitching posts, book stalls and herring stands, quiet mews-like courtyards with old churches and stately mansions, silver and curio shops, old alms houses and a royal palace, the Munt Tower and the tower whence Henry Hudson left for Nieuw Amsterdam in 1609.

USE BROWN BRICK

Some things in Amsterdam are newer, among them the great residential areas where the glamorous Amsterdam Hilton stands. But even these buildings are built of the traditional brown clay-brick, carefully designed to blend harmoniously with the rest. Square Amsterdam, nothing else.

The imposing building in the city is the Rijks Museum, a rambling Victorian monster that is one of the few museums in Europe originally designed as a museum building. Among other things, it houses a spate of Vermeers, Frans Halses, and the world's most important collection of Rembrandts — of them (as I excluded are one of his famed self-portraits, his Jeremiah — with every hair in his beard and every vein in his gnarled foot visible — and, of course, what many consider the elder to be the world's greatest painting — his "Night Watch," illumined only by daylight to point up Rembrandt's fantastic mastery of light effects.

It was in a sunny corner room of the old Doelen guards' hall that Rembrandt painted the picture. Guests may still sleep in that room; it is now the Doelen Hotel.

VETERANS CELEBRATE

GLADWYNE, Pa. (CP)—Sister Margaret Schueler was the senior with 65 years service as a Lutheran deaconess, when six deaconesses at a retirement home here celebrated an aggregate of 270 years of church service. They included teachers, a dietitian and a church embroidery specialist.

SENIOR CITIZENS

The Senior Citizens held their meeting in the Recreation Centre, on Wednesday evening with a record attendance.

President Mrs. M. Clapp called the meeting to order and opened in the usual manner with Mrs. L. Adams presiding at the piano.

Four new members were welcomed to the club.

Mrs. J. Calhoun introduced Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Harns, who were recently married. Mrs. Harns received gifts from the gift from the Senior Citizens' Club. Mr. and Mrs. Harns thanked the members.

The draw was won by Mrs. Trotter.

The rest of the evening was spent in euchre, the winners being: ladies, Mrs. E. Jackson, Mrs. B. Wellman; men, Mr. A. Longhurst; men, Mrs. E. Armstrong and Mrs. F. Alker playing as men and Mr. J. Robinson.

Lunch was served by Mrs. G. Nicolson and her committee.

SQUARE DANCING: WESTERN STYLE
(First of Two Parts)

"A nation's character is typified by its dances." — quoted in Mid-Atlantic Dancer.

* * *

Whenever we looked in shop windows of western towns and cities on our way to California some years ago, we noted pretty, gay dresses; the kind with square or low round necks, tiny puff sleeves and yards of material in extremely full skirts, usually trimmed with silver or gold braid or lace.

Since we never, never saw a single one worn, we constantly wondered where, when and who wore them, and at last found the answer when we visited Los Angeles friends. "We've just joined a square dancing group, one of many that are very popular here in the West," said our hostess. "Come, let me show you my dresses, which we girls wear . . . ", and there hanging in a row in her clothes-closet were dresses such as we'd seen in the shops.

Thus it is with interest we learn that square dancing is very popular in Belleville with some 600 members of all ages, who delight to the widely acknowledged efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williamson, 74 Selby Avenue.

"Actually," says Mr. Williamson, "modern square dancing is one of the fastest growing hobbies in North America today, with an estimated ten million persons who participate."

"Is it the same dance as the pioneers once danced?" we asked.

"Not at all. The modern square dance has the basic step and jump style of the old tradition. Instead thousands of extra steps and figures are now taught. The dancers find they receive more enjoyment in not knowing what step is coming next and thus modern square dancing was born thanks to the square dance caller and public address systems."

"Why should these make such a difference?"

"Because for the first time callers could be heard and understood by the dancers."

"Does modern square dancing go by any other name?"

"Well — it is referred to as Western square dancing because it originated in the United States South West, spread gradually eastward over the United States, on into Canada and eastward across all of Canada."

"In western style square dancing the caller, as you can see, is of prime importance. A well-known caller here is Mr. Pierson Cargill, who comes up from Peterborough and the Parry Sound area. Another excellent caller is Norm Nicol of Belleville."

"But dances like 'California Twirl,' 'Bow-de-de' and 'Promenade' are part of Canada's oldest dance — square dancing."

"It's wonderful fun, and beneficial, too, for everyone enjoys it," adds Mrs. Williamson, "and readers will recall her fine painting of a "Circle Four Reelinigs" which appeared in this column earlier this year).

"Nor it's a splendid release from business worries. Many American and Canadian men claim their discovery of square dancing really saved them from mental breakdowns.

"Another strong appeal is its 'nostalgic escapism', for the ruffled skirts flouneing with string ties hark back to the 'good old days,' though the costume is one of the few resemblances to the old-time Canadian square dance."

"A nation's character is typified by its dances" quoted Morris Gross in a recent article on square dancing, and suggests a look at the character qualities stimulated by it. He says:

"If they we give a firm hand clasp to each one we meet in a 'grand right and left'. Second, we have to give to others where it is needed; kindly and tolerant, for we were once beginners.

"Third, we can shake off our inhibitions and bloss with a swing and whirl that pretty little girl and really be light-hearted.

"Fourth, we learn to co-operate with each other, else how could we do a 'Tea Cup Chain'?

"Fifth, and most important, we find that a smile bridges all situations and breaks the ice wherever we go.

"This makes a pretty good list of qualities that should help to bring understanding and co-operation in any group of people, from any nation in the world.

"Wouldn't it be great if Square Dancing was adopted officially as the National Dance in America, for it more truly shows the better character of America than any other type of contemporary dance."

"The most famous picture of square dancing (in Canada)", wrote J. S. Jarvah, assistant director of square dancing in Belleville, 1963, "is the one taken in Ottawa ten years ago, as Princess Elizabeth, wearing a pretty patterned skirt, swung from one partner to another in obvious enjoyment.

"For thousands of Canadians, it came as no surprise that the Princess, four months later became Queen, should 'allemande left' and have a 'promenade right to home'."

TOPS PRIZE POLL

THORNEY, England (CP)—Mrs. Mary Smith, 51, has won 500 prizes in competitions during the last 30 years. Through "patience and perseverance" she has won an automobile, household equipment, jewelry and more than £1,000 in cash.

Club Activities

SIDNEY JUNIOR FARMERS

The October meeting of Sidney Junior Farmers was held in the form of an interesting and informative tour of Hastings County Museum. Garnet Hamilton, explained the uses of the many antiques displayed. The members returned to Alkens' Hall where president Bev. Clapp conducted a short business period. A social hour and a spaghetti luncheon closed the meeting.

BUILD OWN CHURCH

CHORCLEAN, Sask. (CP)—The Salvation Army congregation at this prairie community near Prince Albert provided its own church. Nick Coppens bought a disused church and had it transported 12 miles to the new site, where the congregation of about 100 members repainted and renovated it.

Synod Votes To Accept Women

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Anglican synod of the diocese of Rupert's Land Friday voted to accept women in the synod. At present women can attend the synod meetings but have no vote.

The diocese is the eighth in Canada to vote in favor of inclusion of women. Others are Illuron, Toronto, Qu'Appelle, Yukon, Kootenay, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Of the 41 clergy present here only three opposed women delegates. Of 55 laymen, one was opposed.

Women's Institutes

QUEENSBORO W.I.

QUEENSBORO — The regular meeting of the Queensboro branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Holmes on Tuesday evening, with nine in attendance, with the first vice-president, Mrs. Harry Decair in the chair. Mrs. Ed Holmes was secretary.

After a short business session Mrs. Leslie Holmes read the current events and Mrs. Harry Decair gave an interesting historical paper on the story of Sir Harry Lauder, the famous Scottish singer.

A contest on the different names of soap was put on by Mrs. Ed Holmes.

At the closing of the meeting lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE

POLICIES FOR PEOPLE

WILL BRING A NEW CANADA FOR YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN

● MEDICARE

The Progressive Conservative Party is committed to Medicare. It was a PC Government that brought hospital insurance to Canadians. We will enlarge the same plan to cover all illnesses, including mental illness on exactly the same basis. It was a PC Government that took the first steps to a nation-wide Medicare program in 1961 when it set up the Hall Commission to study health services. If you want a national health plan, including universal Medicare with proper priorities and efficiently managed, vote Progressive Conservative on November 8.

● EDUCATION FOR ALL

Your children will get a full educational opportunity under the Progressive Conservative's "National Policy for Education"—Canada's first. University grants will be more than doubled, technical training will be increased, LOWER TUITION fees and federal-provincial programs for vocational schools—begun by the PC's but allowed to lag—will be stepped up to train our youth for the new age of high skills and automation.

● DEDUCTION OF MUNICIPAL TAXES

As a homeowner, your taxes will be less under a Progressive Conservative Government. Municipal taxes up to $500 will be deductible from taxable income for federal income tax purposes. Rising school costs hurt as an unfair share of the burden on the homeowners, almost to the breaking point. This deduction means a federal sharing of education costs with the provinces and municipalities.

● OLD AGE PENSIONS $100

Our senior citizens will not be left to suffer under the spiralling cost of living. The Canada Pension Plan forgets them. A Progressive Conservative Government will provide $100 per month old age pension—WITHOUT A MEANS TEST. We owe this to those who have built our country.

OTHER SOLID POLICIES FOR PEOPLE AND FOR PROGRESS

- NHA Mortgages on Older Homes to aid labor mobility.
- End of the Sales Tax on Drugs and stop the penalty for being sick.
- Recreational Parks Aid near our cities.
- Consumer's Loss Act to cut the high cost of installment buying.
- Eastern Farm Policy with a food grain agency.
- $4 per hundredweight payments for industrial milk to help dairy farmers.
- Catch insurance for our East coast sailfish industry.
- National Power Grid to tie Canada together.
- "Roads to Resources" to open our frontiers.
- Department of Youth to help young Canada.
- Confederation Conference to strengthen our unique union of provinces and cultures.
- New Life for ARDA to help farm communities.
- Urban planning research assistance to all communities.
- Aggressive foreign trade sales to build world markets.
- Major port expansion to move Canadian wheat and other products.
- End of the 11% Sales Tax on building materials and production machinery which have added to your cost of living.

County Council Endorses Napanee School Addition

NAPANEE — Lennox and Addington County Council, at a special session Thursday, gave tentative approval to a proposal by the Napanee Secondary School Board that an addition be built to the school.

The decision followed lengthy discussion.

First the County Council heard a report from its education committee.

The report was as follows: "The committee met at the County Memorial Building and discussed this matter before meeting with the School Board at the High School. The board along with the principal explained all matters, revelant to the proposed new addition and why the plan presented was the most economical. Your committee met again on October 7 at the County Memorial Building and discussed the information received from the High School Board members and made comparisons with information collected by Mrs. E. Salsbury. The result was three members, were in favor of the proposed addition and the issuing of the necessary debentures. The remaining two members favor amalgamation of the Napanee and District Secondary School Board and Ernestown High School Board. If amalgamation is not possible, four of five members of this committee are in favor of the proposed addition. We recommend that the Warden be asked to call a one day session of County Council to finalize this matter as soon as possible."

Following this report a vote was taken, with a large majority voting to accept the recommendation of the committee.

A resolution to call for a survey to investigate the feasibility of a County Assessment Commissioner was turned down.

The Council then adjourned. Then it was brought to the attention of the council, it in fact, had not made any decision on the school proposal. Council then re-convened and went into a lengthy session on weather or not to build an addition on Napanee School and issue debentures up to $650,000.

OPPOSES ADDITION

Camden Reeve E. Salsbury was definitely not in favor of any addition, he favors building another school and suggested that a decision on this be left over to the December session. He also stated the school board had not taken the proper steps towards obtaining this addition, that it should have gone to the respective councils first and obtained a written resolution from each one stating its wishes on this matter.

Some of the other reeves still favor amalgamation with Ernestown. Reeve Wagar of Newburg, after listening to this somewhat lengthy discussion, stated "amalgamation is for the birds, its out and can stay out. The school board must provide space for the pupils, what are we going to do. We must not allow portable classrooms as there is no grant on these and it would be money down the drain. There must be no further delay, we must face up to the issue right now.

It was moved by Reeve C. Knight and seconded by Deputy Reeve R. Douglas that the county council give tentative approval, subject to the school board obtaining approval from the respective township and municipal councils. On a recorded vote, there were only three nays. Those were from Camden Reeve E. Salsbury, Deputy Reeve Jackson and Reeve Plotz of Denbigh.

RELEASE FISHERMEN

TOKYO (Reuters) — Russia Thursday released 4 Japanese fishermen who had been detained since August on charges of violating Russian territorial waters.

PC Leader

"Hello chief."

Everyone seemed aware they had to meet a deadline. CNR officials earlier had said the train would only halt its scheduled five minutes. Mr. Diefenbaker also apparently was aware of the fact.

The Conservative leader returned to Belleville later and stayed overnight in his campaign train at the CNR station.

This morning, before travelling to Napanee, he spent about ten minutes on the platform, chatting with local party officials, railroaders and the special police guard detailed to the area.

Before climbing back on board he was presented with an apple — it's Apple Day for the Scouts — by 10-year-old Cub Ronald Ludolph.

When the train suddenly shunted ahead he continued his greetings—this time marching along the platform after the coaches, dropping an odd humorous reminder that the train had to leave on time.

Once again the train pushed ahead—and halted—and Mr. Diefenbaker increased his stride amid the crowd.

Without pausing he midway answered a reporter's question on how the campaign was going.

"It's tremendously encouraging in every part of Canada. I've never seen anything since 1957 to equal it," he replied.

Finally, he made the rear observation platform of the train and took in the crowd in perspective as he was joined by his wife.

"This is wonderful," he commented.

He repeated his apology for the fact that the particular train he was riding had to leave on time, then dissolved in spontaneous laughter as someone shouted from the crowd:

"It's the only one that does."

Then the train slowly began drawing out. The stopover had lasted almost 14 minutes.

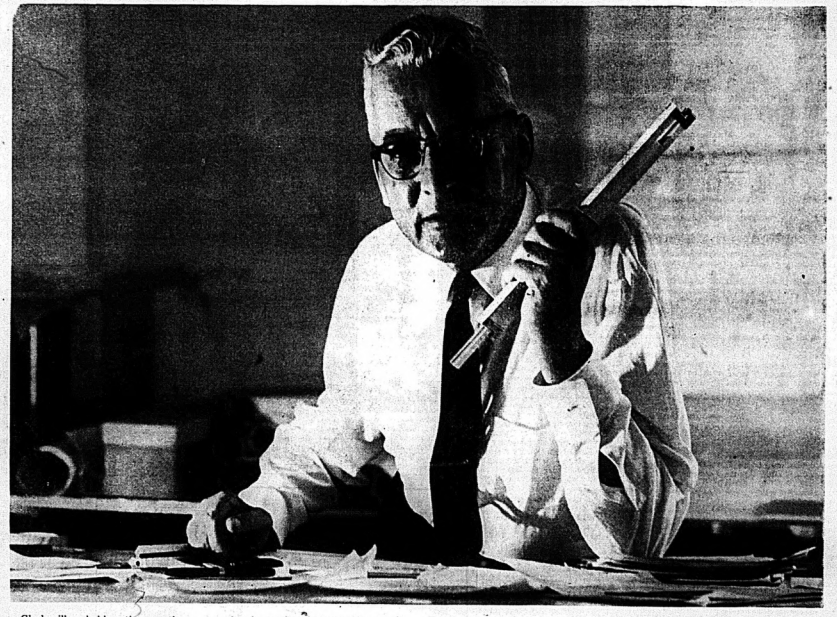
The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Clark Kilgore, a 60-year-old professional engineer who earns $11,000 a year.



Clark will probably retire sometime during the next ten years. This ten years is the transitional period for the Canada Pension Plan and during it, only proportionate retirement pensions are payable. Thus, if Clark works until age 65 and then claims a retirement pension, he will receive $52.08 a month. If he works on until age 67 he will receive $72.92 a month. Should he work until age 70 he will get the full retirement pension of $104.17 a month.

If Clark retires before he is 65 he will be entitled to a proportionate pension which will become payable when he reaches that age. Also at age 65, whether he is working or not, he will receive the Old Age Security pension of $75 a month.

While retirement pensions will be paid on a reduced basis before 1976, survivor's benefits will be paid in full beginning in 1968. Thus, if Clark Kilgore dies anytime after 1967, his wife will receive a widow's pension of $64.06 a month if she is under 65 but over 45. If she is 65 or over, her widow's pension will be $62.50 a month and she will also receive the $75 a month Old Age Security pension. At the time of her husband's death, Mrs. Kilgore will also be entitled to a lump sum payment of $500.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs.

Furthermore, it must be remembered that all Canada Pension Plan pensions and benefits are additional to any to which you may be entitled through your employment or personal planning.

What will the Plan cost you?

If you, like Clark, earn $11,000 a year, you will only pay 1.8% of $4,400, the maximum amount on which contributions are payable. If your earnings are spread evenly over the year you will contribute $15.60 a month until your contributions for the year total $79.20. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

WINTER WORKS PLANNING — Members of the Belleville Winter Works Committee get in some initial planning in lining up projects to provide employment this coming winter. Seated from the left are J. J. MacDonald, Mrs. Dorothy Brown, committee chairman Bon Burr, vice chairman Dan Aitken and Cecil J. Hiuser. Standing are Jack Bush, Jim Staveley, Don Ing, Herbert Pointer and "Brad" Bradley.

PLAN YOUR WINTER PROJECTS NOW!

PLAN TO HAVE RENOVATION, REDECORATION, MAINTENANCE AND GENERAL CLEAN-UP, DONE AROUND YOUR HOME OR PLACE OF BUSINESS. YOU'LL FIND IT PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS IN COMFORT, CONVENIENCE AND ECONOMY TO HAVE IT DONE IN WINTER WHEN MEN AND MATERIALS ARE MORE READILY AVAILABLE. JOBS RECEIVE BETTER ATTENTION SINCE SKILLED TRADESMEN CAN DEVOTE MORE CARE AND TIME TO THEM THAN IN THE SPRING AND SUMMER WHEN THEY ARE BUSY ON LARGER JOBS. OFTEN, IT'S MORE ECONOMICAL TO HAVE WORK DONE DURING THE OFF-SEASON LULL SINCE MANY FIRMS OFFER SPECIAL DISCOUNTS TO INCREASE WINTER BUSINESS. AND DURING THE SLACK MONTHS, THERE ARE FEWER DELAYS IN DELIVERY OF MATERIALS, TOO. YES, WINTER WORK HAS MUCH TO RECOMMEND IT. Municipal Leaders Support Drive

Belleville

BY JOHN R. ELLIS
Mayor of Belleville.

In urging the citizens of the Quinte district to support the winter employment campaign, I think it only fair to give credit to the committee which has worked so very hard on this worthwhile endeavour, and to point out some of the success of their actions.

In the past, the greatest emphasis has always been on the seasonal unemployment of the construction industry. The tremendous success in this field has been particularly heart-warming. Many construction workmen, normally subject to lay-off during the winter months, have been gainfully employed and will be again employed this winter.

On examining the reduced number of persons seeking employment during the 1964-65 season at the National Employment Service, it was noted that a large proportion of the reduction was directly attributed to the "Do It Now" Campaign. This year, with the assistance of the Federal and Provincial governments, the winter house building incentive program will see many more new homes being built in Belleville during the Winter months.

Hastings

BY FRED BECKETT.
Warden of Hastings County

As Warden of Hastings County, I can earnestly recommend your full support of, and participation in, the 1965-66 winter employment campaign which is a program designed to alleviate seasonal winter unemployment in Canada.

The County of Hastings supports this campaign through its municipal winter works projects, thus providing work to men who would probably be unemployed during the winter months. This is particularly true in the cases of unskilled and semi-skilled workers. The success of this campaign is the concern of everyone, because seasonal unemployment costs Canada three hundred million dollars annually in wages and purchasing power.

"Plan Now" to participate in the winter employment campaign and so reduce this annual loss to a minimum.

Remember the smallest job done during the winter months creates employment and a demand for materials. The county benefits when everyone is working.

Prince Edward

BY B. C. HEPBURN,
Warden of Prince Edward County

The winter employment campaign which is operated to combat seasonal winter unemployment in Canada is the concern of each and every one of us. The success of this program depends upon the active participation of both rural and urban residents, as well as that of municipal and business organizations, both large and small.

The reason for supporting this program is very simple — to save as much as possible of the $300,000,000 this seasonal unemployment costs Canadian citizens each year in wages and purchasing power.

The money thus saved could be directed to assist in advancing other urgent projects of national importance.

With these thoughts, as Warden of Prince Edward County, I can sincerely recommend that all of us "Plan Now" to share actively in alleviating this season unemployment problem by "Doing It This Winter". When everybody is working the community and Canada as a nation benefit.

Some of the measures designed to stimulate winter employment and ways in which one can participate in this effort are:

1—Winter housebuilding incentive program.
2—Municipal winter works incentive program.
3—Promotion of farm improvement loans during winter.
4—Promotion of small business loans during winter.
5—Promotion of N.H.A. home improvement loans during winter.
6—By scheduling plant and home repairs or store improvements for the winter months.
7—By remembering that the smallest job creates employment and a demand for materials.
8—By boosting this program by all publicity media — word of mouth, radio, television, newspapers and other printed media.
9—Most important of all — participating yourself.

THIS YEAR WINTERPLAN NOW

Plan now to have those renovations and redecorations done this winter. Skilled men are more readily available—you get the job done when you want it. Materials are more readily available—and you may be able to take advantage of off-season discounts. Government-sponsored Home Improvement Loans, Small Business Loans and Farm Improvement Loans let you borrow through your chartered bank at low interest rates. Be smart. Be a Winterplanner now.

Everybody benefits when winter work is increased

Eddie Albert is Allergic To Monotony, Not Work

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I'm allergic to monotony, not to work," says Eddie Albert, an actor who is determined not to let the drudgery of a television series get him down.

Albert stars with Eva Gabor in Green Acres, another series from the golden-bantam carnery of Paul Henning (Beverly Hillbillies, Petticoat Junction). While the new show apparently follows the same unruffled formula of bucolic humor, it offers one innovation.

"Cross pollinization, you might call it," explained Albert, a self-confessed agricultural terms. He plays a wealthy New York attorney with a deep urge to return to the soil. Accompanied by his urbanite wife (Gabor), he moves to a farm near Petticoat Junction, of all places.

The innovation is that the Junctioneers make appearances on Green Acres.

"That gives us a head start with an established and accomplished set of characters," said Albert. "Also, I think the show should have a strong appeal to the audience. There is a deep basic ingredient in all men: The urge to get close to the soil.

"I've always had it. I have a little garden where I grow vegetables. And I've always wanted to own a small piece of land near the woods—not to make a buck, but to watch things grow."

Albert also appears on every segment of Petticoat Junction.

But that doesn't mean that the work must be monotonous," he mused. "Monotony is within one's self. Certainly Thoreau didn't find it monotonous in his little shed at Walden Pond. And there's no reason a television actor should, either."

A much-in-demand film actor for 30 years, Albert has spent recent times making movies from Nairobi to Kyoto. He and his wife, Margo, have a boy of 14 and a girl of 11, and they welcome the chance to settle down for a while.

PAYS FOR INSULT

PARIS (Reuters) — A Paris court fined novelist Jacques Laurent a total of 6,000 francs ($1,200) for insulting President de Gaulle. The court ruled that in his book Mauriac Sous de Gaulle (Mauriac Under de Gaulle) Laurent "attributed dishonorable and disgraceful feelings and motives" to the French president.

MADOC — Years ago miners gouged the rocky terrain of this district for elusive gold.

A short time ago a few burghers of this mid-Hastings village pushed for—and struck—a motherlode of community spirit.

They wanted to keep up with the county's community "Joneses" by installing an artificial ice plant in their venerable arena.

Scepticism and apparent lack of faith in the community foiled two previous attempts.

A committee headed by Doug Pigden, Glen Nickle and Harry Brown was convinced it could be done. They added members of council and business men to their body.

Pre-decision investigation revealed a second-hand ice plant could be purchased for $6,000. A rough estimate that included "free labor" brought the overall cost to $14,000.

What sceptics there were were won over by the enthusiasm of the committee directorate. At the end of the final meeting (2.30 a.m.), a phone call closed the plant deal.

The word got around. It struck a tremendous responsive note. Within a few days donations amounting to $1,000 poured in from private residents. Some gave as little as fifty cents. Business, industry, organizations were not included.

The fund swelled. The county donated $1,000. The village gave its quota. Business, industry, the professions, and organizations responded. Out-of-village contributions came in.

Today the fund amounts to $9,600. Another $5,000 is needed to put the committee "over the top."

The services of Doug Clarke, an engineer from Toronto, an ice-plant installation expert, were secured.

The initial operation called for the lowering of the arena's 175 by 72 ice surface four feet.

This called for the removal of some 4,000 yards of dirt, besides other excavation work.

It also called for manual labor. It was just around the corner, and in the district.

The response was little short of "wonderful" as Mr. Pigden puts it. Villagers from all walks of life, offices, stores, banks joined the labor corps. Help came from district farmers and adjoining communities.

Every night from seven to eleven, from 25 to 30 willing hands toil with pick and shovel. "White collars mingle with work-shirts.

The last two weeks some 710 man-hours have been registered by the committee. Added to this, at a tremendous saving, are the services of bulldozers, trucks and loaders. All of it free.

Another fine example of community spirit is that of a gravel-pit owner. He will provide free-of-charge the 4,000 yards of backfill necessary after the installation. This roughly is 500 truck loads.

Willing hands will also erect a 40-by-20 building necessary to house special ice-making equipment.

Seven miles of pipe purchased at a cost of $3,000 has been found in excellent condition. Funds are needed for this as well as compressor material and other necessary extras.

Committee chairman Doug Pigden, with Glen Nickle and Harry Brown compose the driving force behind the project. They are ably aided and abetted by Reeve Tom Burnside, former county warden; Councillors T. C. Barton and Bruce White, Arnold Ross, George Devolin, Bud Read and Lyon Empey.

I talked with Messrs Pigden and Nickle in the 35-year-old arena. The building, the scene of many a hard-fought Trent Valley Hockey League battle and the home of more than one village championship team, has undergone many renovations the past few years.

"We spent over $20,000 in improvements, heating the "lounge" and a new front. Installation of the ice equipment will bring us on a par with Tweed, Stirling, Wellington, Marmora and Norwood."

"We expect to be skating within five weeks," he said. "Furthermore we plan a curling club next year. In fact we already have the stones purchased."

"The old building," Mr. Pigden said, "has never been a loser financially. We average $600 annually on the right side of the ledger from hockey, skating, and special attractions."

"The plant was a vital necessity," he said. "The past few years due to the whims of the weather we have never had any more than two months for hockey and skating."

Madoc hockey officials work in close harmony with Queensboro, Cooper, Eldorado and other outlying communities.

"We cannot give too much credit to the people of these communities. They have helped out wonderfully on this project."

Mr. Pigden paid fine tribute to the village residents and others who helped. "It was strictly up to them to aid in cutting expenses—and they came through wonderfully."

"They have done and are doing their share. Now I hope some outside interests will come to our aid with financial donations. They will be greatly appreciated."

Bucs' Law Captures MVP Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Vernon Law, whose ailing pitching arm resulted in his demotion to the minors only two years ago, Friday was named National League Comeback Player-of-the Year for 1965 in an Associated Press poll.

The 36-year-old Pittsburgh Pirate right-hander collected 220 votes in balloting by 261 sports writers and broadcasters.

He was followed by veteran third-baseman Ed Mathews of Milwaukee Braves and Jim Gilliam of pennant-winning Los Angeles Dodgers. Mathews obtained 20 votes and Gilliam 26.

Law won 17 games and lost nine for the third-place Pirates this season. He pitched 18 complete games, including four shutouts, in 26 starts, and his 2.16 earned run average was third best in the league.

Next Three Toss-Up ★★★★★

Canadiens Favored To Finish First

★★★★★ NHL Opens Tonight

The Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens are favored to finish first as the 1965-66 National Hockey League schedule gets under way tonight.

The Toronto Maple Leafs play host to Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings tackle the Canadiens.

All six clubs are in action Sunday with Toronto at Detroit, Montreal at New York against the Rangers and Chicago playing the Bruins at Boston.

Two major factors place Montreal as a winner among the pundits—speed and an injury-free roster.

The three positions behind Montreal should be a toss-up among the Leafs, Wings and Hawks.

The Rangers, with a combination of youth and hustle are expected to be a first-division threat.

The league is getting off to its latest start in 20 years. The 1964-65 season began Oct. 12 and the playoffs ended May 1.

It also marks the 20th NHL season for Red Wing stars Gordie Howe and Bill Gadsby, tying a league record set by former Bruin Dit Clapper.

A new rule this year requires each team to have two goalies dressed for each game.

The return of coach Toe Blake for another season is in itself enough inspiration for the speedy Canadiens.

With the 37-year-old Howe as its nucleus Detroit's power play, which could prove to be the best in the league, includes all-star Norm Ullman, a 42-goal scorer last season, recently acquired veteran Andy Bathgate, Alex Delvecchio and defenceman Doug Barkley.

The best defence and solid goaltending in the league rests with Toronto in veterans Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk.

An improvement for Chicago is that they will not have to rely so much on its all-stars—left-winger Bobby Hull, centre Stan Mikita, defenceman Pierre Pilote and goalie Glenn Hall. The team should click more as a team in its bid to reach first place.

The Rangers are without super stars, but last year their bustling style of play suggested they were shooting for better things than fifth place.

The Bruins are still considered the NHL's weaklisters even though they have a new general manager in Hap Emms, formerly with Niagara Falls Flyers of the OHA Junior A series.

Man O'War Tops Rich Stakes For Grabs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paced by the $112,700 Man O' War at Aqueduct, the $100,000-added Gold Cup at Hawthorne and the $100,000 Selima at Laurel, today's stake races will be worth more than $500,000.

G. H. Pete Bostwick's Nashua ndy at 3-1 is the favorite to grab the winner's purse of $75,000 in the Man O' War stakes.

The 1¼-mile turf course event will have 10 entries but missing will be Kelso, the biggest money winner of them all. With $1,959,254 already in the bank, Mrs. Richard duPont's 8-year-old gelding was expected to try for two million but an eye injury has retired him for the year.

Gray Wilkens Farm's Ampose, carrying 118 pounds, is favored to take the winner's purse of around $70,000 in the Hawthorne Gold Cup at 1¼ miles. Moccasin, Claiborne Farm's Narragansett, unbeaten 2-year-old filly, is favored to win her seventh straight in the $100,000 Selima Stakes, a 1 1-16-mile non-wagering exhibition.

Flag Raiser and Determined Man top the nine entries in the 23rd running of Garden States' Princeton Handicap. A purse of $25,000 has been added to this six-furlong event.

Climax II heads the 11 starters in the $20,000 added Canadian Championship Stakes, a 1¼ mile event for 3-year-olds at Woodbine.

Pam Stable's Switchback, top-weighted at 123 pounds, is favored in the field of 14 in the $30,000 added Turbran Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Francis U. Clique and Peter Piper lead the $25,000-added Breeders Futurity at Keeneland while Defiant Son and Brave Front are the most prominent for the $15,000-added James H. Connors Memorial Stakes at

Riders Need This One Over Argos

Not Selling Short

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

You can bet that coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders isn't taking a victory over Toronto Argonauts for granted Sunday afternoon when the two teams clash in Ottawa.

The Riders, their hopes for a first-place finish in the Eastern Football Conference standings all but wiped out, face a Toronto team that has won two of its last three.

Granted, the two victories are all the Argos have this season but at least Toronto is showing signs of looking like a football team. Argo coach Bob Shaw, a no-nonsense type of individual, has made it clear that he expects continued improvement from his players even though the last-place Argos have no chance of making the playoffs.

The Argos defeated Montreal Alouettes 36-31 last Sunday, but Shaw ran his team through tough drills this week because he felt the players were not hitting hard enough.

Clair, meanwhile, indicated that corner linebacker Jim Conroy won't be ready for the game, which starts at 2 p.m. EDT and will be carried on the CTV eastern network.

Conroy, knocked out of the first game of the season, underwent surgery for torn knee ligaments and cartilage. He was taken off the disabled list last Sunday.

Ottawa's other corner linebacker, Mike Eham, is also a doubtful starter after injuring an eye in a workout Monday. But rushing star Bo Scott, who missed last Tuesday's game, will be back.

She w, anticipating trouble from Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson, the EPC's passing leader, has planned some changes to try and plug a weak pass defence.

He'll have Pat Brosnan and Pete Warren, a couple of offensive regulars, playing full-time in the defensive backfield in hopes that they can knock down some of Jackson's aerials.

In the other weekend game, Hamilton Tiger-Cats seek to clinch first place today when they play Montreal Alouettes in Montreal in a game beginning at 2 p.m. EDT to be televised by the CBC network.

SIGN LEGGIO

WOODSTOCK (CP) —Dino Leggio, star performer in Woodstock Athletics' drive to the Eastern Canada finals last winter, signed a contract with the senior Ontario Hockey Association club Friday.

Bill Casper Dominates Sahara

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Bill Casper continued to dominate the $100,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament Friday, firing his third straight sub-par round, a three-under 68, for a 54-hole total of 209.

The 34-year-old Casper, who opened the tournament with straight 68s, rallied on the last nine when young Randy Glover began applying the pressure.

Casper birdied four of the last five holes after Glover, 23, drew within one stroke of the Californian after the 11th hole.

Glover finished with a 68 for 203 and presumably poses the biggest threat as the pros go into the final round today.

Pro-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus not only failed to gain ground on Casper, but slipped back two more strokes from his second-round margin, shooting a 70 for 208.

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 70 Friday and now has a 210 total. Stan Leonard of Vancouver missed the cutoff mark of 146 Thursday when he shot a 74 for a two-round total of 151.

Alone in third place was Bruce Crampton with a 66 for 206.

Bobby Nichols had a 68 for 207, and tied with Nicklaus were Tommy Aaron, 65; Billy Maxwell, 69, and Dale Douglas, 72.

Meet Skins, Giants

Cards, Browns Need Tie-Breaking Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Loyle Nawlin Humphrey has done it seven National Football League seasons what it normally takes a regular quarterback about one afternoon to do.

But now it finally is Loyle Nawlin Humphrey's turn to see what he can do in one afternoon as a regular.

For Humphrey, better known as Buddy, most likely will start in place of the injured Charley Johnson when St. Louis Cardinals battle winless Washington Redskins Sunday.

Johnson, the league's most prolific touchdown passer this season, has a bruised left shoulder and is a doubtful starter. So, Humphrey will receive possibly the biggest chance of his career.

The game is a big one for the Cardinals, who need a victory to retain at least a share of the lead in the Eastern Conference. They are tied with Cleveland Browns, who play New York Giants. The leaders each have a 4-1 record.

Humphrey, who played for Los Angeles Rams and Dallas Cowboys before going to St. Louis in 1963, has thrown 45 passes in his career and completed 18 for 216 yards and one touchdown. His latest performance came last week against Pittsburgh Steelers when he took over for Johnson and completed the two passes he threw.

"I'd like to find out sometime if I'm good enough to play," Humphrey said.

In other NFL games Sunday, Western Conference leader Green Bay Packers play Dallas Cowboys, Detroit Lions are at Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Rams battle Baltimore Colts, Minnesota Vikings play San Francisco 49ers and Pittsburgh Steelers go against Philadelphia Eagles.

The American League schedule also has San Diego Chargers at New York Jets tonight and Denver Broncos at Buffalo Bills, Kansas City Chiefs at Houston Oilers and Boston Patriots at Oakland Raiders Sunday.

In playing Cleveland, the Giants have a great opportunity to take a giant step forward. They trail the leaders by one game but have yet to play one of the league's stronger teams. In this one they come up against league-leading rusher Jimmy Brown.

Green Bay, the only unbeaten NFL team, goes after its sixth triumph against a Dallas team that continues to experiment with its quarterbacks. The Packers have the league's top passer, Bart Starr, to offset the strategy.

Detroit's main task will be to stop Chicago's Gale Sayers, the one game in five starts. Minnesota halfback who exploded into four touchdowns last week. The Lions also must recover from their performance last week when they blew an 18-point lead against Green Bay. Baltimore should remain on top of the Packers' heels against Los Angeles, which has won just one game in five starts. Minnesota and San Francisco will be fighting to maintain some hope in the western race.

The hapless Steelers will be seeking their first victory of the season against the Eagles, who fell short of pulling off a come-from-behind victory over New York last week.

Flyers Whip Hawks

Marlies Edge Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins were last in the National Hockey League last season, but their two farm clubs in the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association are right on top this year.

Niagara Falla Flyers moved into a first-place tie with Oshawa Generals Friday night by edging Kitchener Canucks 3-2 on Dennis Black's goal at 16:56 of the third period.

The Marlboros withstood a late rally by Kitchener to record their second victory against one loss. The defeat left Kitchener tied for third with Peterborough Peies, each with two wins, a loss and a tie.

The Rangers, playing at home before 2,447, blew a 2-1 lead. Terry Caffery scored twice for the Marlboros and Jim Keon and Mike Byers got one each. Bill Hway, John Barber and Don Luce scored for the Rangers.

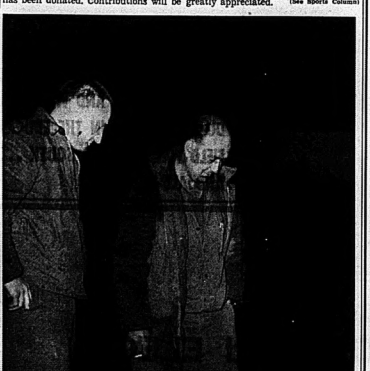
Leads Women's Open Golf

PHOENIX, Ariz. (CP)—Shirley Engelhorn shot a two-under par 70 Friday for a one-stroke lead after two rounds in the $11,000 Thunderbird women's open golf tournament.

Her 36-hole total of 145 put her one up on Marlene Hagge and Judy Torluemke.

Margie Masters of Ottawa had a 79-77—156 total.

A BANG-UP EFFORT — Dick Jones readies a dynamite blast in the Madoc Arena where excavation work is going on for the new artificial ice plant. Cost of the new plant has been reduced to a minimum because of the fine community spirit shown by villagers and others. The total outlay is $14,000 of which $9,300 has been donated. Contributions will be greatly appreciated. (See Sports Column)



"IT'S COMING FINE" — Artificial ice equipment is being installed in the Madoc Arena. Committee chairman Doug Pigden and director Glen Nickle inspect the excavation work which lowers the ice surface four feet. All manual labor and machinery work has been donated by village and district residents. Officials expect ice to be available within four or five weeks. (See Sports Column)

Muirhead Sparks Aces Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets were rained out of a possible victory Friday night in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association western division.

The Hornets, 7-1 losers to Kingston Aces, had planned to fly four defencemen and a goaltender to Kingston. But bad weather grounded all flights from the airport near Galt.

Goaltender Harold (Boat) Hurley, meanwhile, sparked Guelph Regals to a 3-1 decision over Woodstock Athletics in Woodstock.

The games were the first of the season for Kingston and Guelph and the wins left them tied for second place, four points behind leading Oakville. Galt is winless in five starts and Woodstock hasn't won in three outings.

Kingston, a new entry in the league this season, got a pair of goals from Stu Muirhead and one each from Morley Hunt, Lorne Ferguson, Charlie Convary, Pete Weston and Jim Gebhardt. Al Stitt scored the lone Galt goal.

Quinte Drubs Brighton

By ROBERT SNEPJELLA

Quinte Secondary's senior football team flattened their remaining opposition to the Bay of Quinte rugby crown by trouncing Brighton 50-1 yesterday afternoon at Brighton. Only a handful of home-town fans braved the cold weather and a steady sprinkle of rain to witness the annihilation of their team.

Next Thursday the Saints face the second season play in contest against Napanee. A win over the latter will give Quinte an undefeated season (five victories) and also an unofficial share with the Collegiate finals.

The winners routed Brighton with an awesome offence backed by a strong defence. Quinte has collected 105 points and allowed only 29 in their four wins.

Grant Vandervoort, the speedster on whom much of Quinte's success depends, scampered around the end and scooted 65 yards to score moments after the game had started. The convert, first of six conversions, was booted by Paul Whalen.

Later in the quarter Mike Shoniker sped 75 yards for a touchdown on a wingback reverse to give Quinte a 14-0 lead.

Shoniker slashed through for another T.D. early in the second quarter on the same play and the Quinte field-day was well underway.

Vandervoort added another six points to the Quinte total when he ran 103 yards to score on a electrifying play.

Bob Moon took a screen pass and raced along the side-lines for 63 yards until he reached the goal line, and Quinte led 35-0.

Late in the first half Harold Townsend boomed a kick-off into the Brighton end-zone for a single.

Bill Leslie bulled his way over the goal line for the first of his two touchdowns in the second half.

Brighton managed to kick their single soon after, but Leslie's second major dampened any aspiration for more scoring.

Brighton defeated Quinte 21-13 in an exciting Junior contest earlier in the afternoon.

Defeat Trenton 11-5

BCI Gridders Win Pair

By DAVID TEMPLER

The BCI Collegians swept to their first double-header victory last night on a very muddy and wet Trenton high school gridiron. The Seniors squeaked a 14-13 decision and the Juniors out-scored Trenton 24-5.

At the three-minute mark in the first period the Belleville Collegian squad scored a major in a fine punt by Ron Walsh. This early point proved to be the deciding factor in the close ball game. Both teams, playing lethargic ball, had little success in aggression until a series of driving off-tackle plays by Kirk Lightfoot positioned Bill Hallam to lunge for the major.

Soon after Trenton found life after long runs by Witriak and Crandal set the ball deep for a touchdown.

In the second half Trenton pulled ahead for the first and only time in the game after a touchdown by Robertson and a convert by Witriak.

Despite the cold and slippery ball, BCI's quarterback, Bill Hallam, connected with Ron Walsh on a down and out swing pass. Walsh dashed fifty yards to tie the score at thirteen all.

In the closing minutes of the game a quick kick by Ron Walsh gathered a rouge for the winning angle.

In this game both teams had a little difficulty adjusting to the frigid playing conditions but in the second half solid tackles and better blocking were evident.

For Trenton Witriak and Robertson led the attack.

Excellent defensive play by Brian Smith and Garry Lucas of BCI supplemented the great efforts by the scorers.

Steven Ling sparked the Juniors 25-7 victory with two touchdowns. Ron Shiefle scored for Trenton.

Three Seek Crack At Tiger

NEW YORK (AP) — Two world champions and a leading contender personally challenged re-crowned middleweight champion Dick Tiger to title fights Friday as boxing bosses were bubbled with excitement following the rousing success of the Tiger-Joey Giardello fight.

Offers were made by Joey Archer of Hartford, the contender who beat Tiger a year ago, and by welterweight champion Carmen Griffith of New York and Italy's Nino Benvenuti, the undefeated junior middleweight king.

With a big grin on his face, the 36-year-old Tiger said at a press luncheon today: "I think my managers will listen to the offers and then we shall see."

The only top fighter under the consideration is Giardello, who lost the title to Tiger by a decisive margin in their 15-rounder before a roaring crowd of 17,964 paying $161,964 at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Moira S. S. defeated Napanee H. S. 35-0 in a Quinte COSSA football game last night.

Napanee took advantage of a Moira fumble with a short, a long drive from their own end moved into an early lead. The major was scored on a quarterback sneak by Erik Polson and the convert was missed to give Napanee a six point lead.

From this point Napanee took control of the play and Don Forbes with excellent running moved into two touchdowns for them. The converts on both were good and the score at the end of the half stood at Napanee 20 Moira 0.

Napanee's domination continued to the end of the game and Chris Moore scored two more touchdowns for them. One was converted and the final score was Napanee 33 Moira 0.

The only bright spot for Moira in the second half was the brilliant offensive efforts of John Chandler.

Moira's Junior Trojans remained undefeated by toppling Napanee 13-6 in a gruelling battle.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Bev Kingston, 27 - year - old driver from Port Elgin, Ont., scored his 417th victory of the season Friday night at Garden City Raceway by guiding Tyedean to a first-place finish in the featured eighth race.

The victory was the seventh in 12 outings for Tapdean, a six-year-old pedaling who won by 1½ lengths through the shoo over favored Kinton Colby.

Driver Ron Feagan of Goderich, Ont., moved closer to his 200th victory of the season by winning behind Diana Hunter in the fourth race. The victory was Feagan's 173rd.

Weaver, owned by Nora Litt and the Black Creek Stable of Stratford, won the first race and combined with Wilmington Belle, owned by Garland Van Allan of Kemptville, Ont., winner of the second, for a daily double worth $23.80.

The quinella paid $20.80 when Orford Abbe won the sixth race and Peack Pick finished second.

HULL, Que. (CP)—Guy Lafrench and Claude Miville provided the excitement at Connaught Park Raceway Friday night as they each drove three winners.

In the first, Larush took Model Mac across the finish line to pay $4.80, $2.10 and $2.40. Dan Mac won the second, paying $5.20, $4.60 and $3.50; while Miss Poka Hanover was third and paid $13.30, $7.30 and $4.40.

Miville's wins came aboard Felipa in the fourth, $16.60, $6.60 and $3.10; Miss Corporal driven by the eighth, paying $7.70 and $4.50, and Ive's Hope in the featured ninth race returning $4.50, $3.70 and $2.70 on a $2 wager.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The first dead heat win of the fall sulky season here was recorded in the eighth race Friday night when American Girl A and Silver Laird sped to the Western Fair Raceway finish line together.

American Girl A paid $3.40 and Silver Laird $3.10 for a time of 2:13 3-5 on a sloppy track.

The daily double returned $169.20 after Gay Glazy won the first race at $7.00 and Wee Goldie Child the second at $12.40.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Favored Apache Gun had to finish fast to capture the featured eighth race at Windsor Raceway Friday night.

Apache Gun trailed leader Reeds Millie, a 60-to-1 outsider, and pulled ahead in the stretch when Reeds Millie faded.

Odds-on favorite Ruth Grace on the all-weather surface of the new track, in its second night of a 10-day harness meeting.

The quinella in the seventh race amounted to $56.30 when Rocky Senator finished first ahead of runner-up Apache Girl.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Hawk Hanover shared honors equally after twice being the defeated favorite to claim the $3,000 Peter Provenzano Memorial Invitational Trot at Batavia Downs Friday night.

Sister Q, owned by Alex and Connie McDougall of Lambeth, Ont., won the first race for her third victory in five starts here this season.

Panasiuk Wins Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., won the annual tournament between the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association and its honorary directors in heavy rain Friday, shooting a three-over-par 74.

Tied for second were Ken Duggan and Johnny Herrick, both of Toronto, with 75s.

Clippers Defeat LA Blades

How can a nine-team league play five official games the same night?

This happens today when four American Hockey League teams oppose four other league opponents, and Cleveland of the AHL faces Los Angeles of the Western League.

The two minor professional circuits have an interlocking schedule for the first time this season.

And in the first interlocking game, played Friday night at Baltimore, Md., American League Baltimore Clippers handed Los Angeles Blades a 5-3 defeat.

Following a first-period 1-1 deadlock in which goals by Baltimore's Dave Creighton and Los Angeles' Bill Orban forced the tie, the Clippers broke the game open with a three-goal outburst in the second period.

Offer Chuvalo Million

TORONTO (CP)—Irv Ungerman of Toronto said Friday he has been offered $1,000,000 to have Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo fight the winner of the November title fight between heavyweights Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson.

But Chuvalo, also of Toronto, must first defeat Ernie Terrell of Chicago, holder of the World Boxing Association version of the heavyweight title. They meet Nov. 1 in a 15-round title bout at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Ungerman, who manages Chuvalo, said he received the offer in a telegram from Leon Gruber of Detroit, who wants the Chuvalo-Terrell winner to meet the Patterson-Clay winner in a bout to decide an overall world champion.

SENTENCE EX-68 MAN

TRAUNSTEIN, West Germany (Reuters)—A former SS (Elite Corps) lieutenant, 44-year-old Hans Josef Bachot, was sentenced to 3½ years in prison Thursday for killing a Bavarian priest and a butcher who tore down the Nazi flag in the last days of the second World War.

Assault Charges Dismissed

NEW YORK (AP)—Assault charges against two members of American Football League's San Diego Chargers were dismissed Friday with a warning by Judge Robin Levy "to confine your enthusiasm in the future to the gridiron."

The two, Walter Sweeney, 24, a guard, and Edward R. Seman, also 24 and a defensive halfback, were charged with felonious assault against James P. Collins, a city fireman, following a heated bar room discussion about football early last Monday.

Lupinette Given Third Term

BMBA Had Record Year

The Belleville Minor Baseball Association gave Hy. president Lupinette a third term of office at the annual meeting Thursday night.

Other members of the executive are Cy Coulson, first vice; Fred Roberts, second vice; Floyd Bell, third vice; Bert Lang secretary and John Emerson treasurer. Norm Carter officiated at the election.

The association was told it was in a healthy financial condition following minor baseball's biggest and best year.

E.O.B.A. first vice-president Richard Ellis presented the Association with the three trophies collected by tyke, pee wee and bantam all-star teams this season. In addition, Floyd Bell made a presentation to Russ Soules on behalf of minor sports in Belleville.

The business part of the meeting involved some lengthy discussion on a number of topics.

It was decided that the association would not affiliate with Parks Board with regard to badly needed playing facilities for minor baseball in the East Hill.

The association will also send a delegation to meet with the Parks Department regarding the possibility of constructing a clubhouse at the Parkdale diamond.

All agreed that this was a necessity and that the idea in mind have established a building fund for this purpose.

B.M.B.A. representatives will attend the conference to be held on October 30 at Quinte Secondary School regarding recreation in this city.

Several amendments to the constitution and by-laws governing minor baseball in the city.

Your Car

Use Lights To Check Faulty Starter

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Years ago, when the self-starter failed, the motorist could always resort to hand cranking. Today, the starter is one of the car's most dependable parts.

Troubles that occur in the starting circuit are more often due to some other condition, such as a weak battery, loose or corrosion-crusted connections or a defective switch. Occasionally, in extremely cold weather, heavy engine oil is to blame for little or no cranking.

Before you check over the starting system, turning on the headlights may give you a clue. If the lights go out as you crank, check for bad connections, particularly at battery terminals. Dim the lights remain bright while the starter refuses to operate, an open circuit is indicated.

If the lights grow very dim and you know the battery is in good condition, you have good reason to investigate the starter, although abnormal engine resistance is a possibility.

R. E. writes: "At traffic lights, my '53 sedan runs in moving forward, even on an upgrade, unless I hold down the brake pedal."

Assuming you have automatic transmission, excessive engine idling speed is the probable answer.

* * *

A.U. asks: "In the winter tune-up special, our service station includes brake fluid change. Are there different grades of fluid for summer and winter?"

All approved brake fluids are for all-weather use. There is one grade for all temperatures.

E. McC. writes: "My left front tire is a different type (and newer) than the right front. Could this be causing the steering wheel shimmy I've been experiencing for several weeks?"

It certainly could. Put keep in mind that it's only one of a dozen possible causes.

JAM TRAFFIC

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters)—Sydney's rush-hour traffic came to a halt Friday night as 400 anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators sat down in the middle of a busy city intersection. Australian troops are fighting in South Viet Nam. Fifty-three persons were arrested and charged variously with assault, resisting arrest and causing an obstruction.

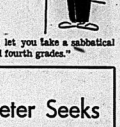
Successful Living

Hopeful Dieter Seeks Slimming Advice



DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: Please! Help! I need a book on diet, and a book on isometric exercise. I'm 28 — weigh 185 — and have had seven miscarriages and three full term pregnancies in six years, so I don't feel very peppy. Normal weight is 135.

I feel depressed, hopeless, but am on birth control pills now, and I feel that maybe — just maybe — I have a chance of getting back that figure and that cheery outlook on life. My husband says he'll keep me on my toes about diet and exercise.

My doctor says I should lose weight, but gave me no plan to go by and I need one to be consistent (plus prodding from "Pa"). If you have any ideas besides diet and exercise, do tell!! — HOPEFUL HIPPA.

* * *

DEAR HOPEFUL: Lucky woman to have a husband who will help you lose. I did, a spot-reducing exercise sheet and some low-calorie menus.

It's the day-to-day program that shows results. Make up a chart showing what you should be able to lose two pounds a week and feel fine all the time. When you lose twelve pounds, you'll be a whole size smaller. That should lift your spirits. Reach for an apple instead of a cookie.

(Note to readers: The above leaflets are available to anyone writing in and enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and ten cents for each leaflet requested.)

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My sister is getting married and would like me to be her maid of honor. She has two bridesmaids. Her gown is white satin covered completely with white lace. Her bridesmaids are wearing blue brocade dresses. The best man and groom are to be in dark suits.

She would like me in a red boucle suit and the partner to me in a red jacket and either white or black pants. We think this will look out of place or fade to the extreme from the bride. Is the suit in the wrong material? Should it be the same material as the bridesmaids only a different color? — MAID OF HONOR.

* * *

DEAR MAID: With you and your "partner" in red, the guests would think you were going to a fire. It simply wouldn't do.

Your dress is preferably in same pattern and material as the bridesmaids' but perhaps of a different color tone; either contrasting or a deeper shade of same color. And I can't imagine who your partner would be, if it isn't the best man. (The leader of the band?)

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am a girl of 21 and have been corresponding with a fellow from my home town. We have only been "close friends" — never anything more than this. Within the period of five years, I've only seen him twice.

I value his friendship very much even though there is someone else. Last week I received a short letter saying that he felt it was best that we stop corresponding and gave no explanation. Since I wish to keep his friendship, what would you suggest I do? — PUZZLED FEMALE.

* * *

DEAR PUZZLED: Give up. A one-way pen pal is no satisfaction.

You say you have someone else. Do you want to know something? So has he, or I'm a monkey's aunt!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: When I was in the hospital my oldest daughter, 15, did the housekeeping. She is an excellent housekeeper. My son is 12 and is by now the most experienced dishwasher in Canada. So the task of keeping house was also in charge of my three-and-a-half-year-old daughter. Fortunately they are both fond of their little sister.

If they only would stop picking at each other or bickering about nothing at all! They wouldn't do what they I am out of earshot, but my hearing is definitely not impaired.

We depended so much on our two oldest when I was in the hospital and they never let us down. They may have been bickering during my absence but that didn't bother me. When my husband and I got home that night the house was tidy and supper on the table. When he left after supper to visit me he knew that he would come home to a tidy kitchen and that the baby would be in bed. It was much for the so-called "irresponsible" teen-agers. We wouldn't have known what to do without them. — BETTER NOW.

* * *

DEAR BETTER: Do you want jam on it? There must be some high class co-operation between those two, despite not-quite-of-earshot bickering. Let them bicker. They'll grow out of it.

* * *

(Longer, fuller replies wept privately to those correspondents who enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelop.)

POVERTY DISFRANCHISES AFRICANS — A majority of Rhodesia's African population lives in villages like this one. Theoretically, Africans, who out number whites about 20 to one, are allowed to vote. But even lesser representation requires the African voter to have an annual income of $700. Most earn less than $500. (CP Photo)

RHODESIA CLAIMS RACIAL PARTNERSHIP — White Rhodesians say their country maintains a policy of "racial partnership" not to be compared with racial separation in South Africa. While it is theoretically possible for an African to become prime minister lack of income and education keep most off the voters' roles. Above, African school children play during a recess. Some 120,000 African children began school this year but fewer than 60 will graduate from high school. (CP Photo)

Racial Tension in Rhodesia Produces Growing Intolerance

Rhodesia's rightist government has the backing of the white minority but remains sensitive to criticism of its policies. A Canadian Press reporter describes the atmosphere in the tense African country.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

SALISBURY (CP) — Racial tension has resulted in a growing spirit of intolerance in Rhodesia, say critics of Premier Ian Smith's rightist government.

The same critics concede, however, that a new election now would show 80 per cent of the electorate—which virtually means whites — in favor of Smith's policies.

In discussions about the political atmosphere, comparisons are made with the McCarthy era in the United States.

Several Rhodesians in conversation with a visiting reporter said it is generally accepted that telephones are tapped by police.

"I wouldn't get too disturbed about that," a newspaper editor commented. "I understand some of our best bugging equipment comes from Canada."

Reminiscent of McCarthyism is the statement by one member of the government that Communists are deliberately using Christianity and religion generally to subvert the people and undermine the standards of civilization which Premier Smith repeatedly says the white rulers are trying to uphold.

African nationalist parties have been banned and the government has asserted control over the state radio and television stations.

A nationalist newspaper owned by Canadian Lord Thomson was closed two years ago.

REPORTER CHARGED

A charge was brought against a newspaper reporter who discovered that business organizations had warned Smith in a secret report that a unilateral declaration of independence would be disastrous economically. The charge was laid even though the reporter's story was not published.

Despite pressure, however, newspapers continue to criticize the government. And there are individuals who also criticize it.

Rt. Rev. Kenneth Skelton, an Anglican bishop, has attacked the idea put forward by the premier that Rhodesia must remain under white rule at least as long as necessary to ensure government "in civilized hands."

"A society in which one European marriage in five ends in divorce cannot talk too glibly about standards," the bishop said. "It bears a suggestion of moral sickness."

Europeans number 220,000 in a total of more than 4,000,000. Britain insists that constitutional guarantees must be provided for the African majority before independence can be immediate. Independence was granted. Smith has demanded has threatened unilateral action in the wake of his unsuccessful negotiations in London.

Practically every Rhodesian premier in recent years has been a step to the right of the previous one and no one doubts that this is strictly the result of the racial question.

DISORDERS FEARED

One school of thought holds that this can be attributed to upheavals in The Congo and elsewhere, which struck fear in the hearts of white Rhodesians as to what would happen with the advent of African nationalism here.

The opposite line is that this is a matter stressed by whites as an excuse for delaying handover of rule to the black majority.

Chad Chipunza, chairman of the opposition United People's Party and a member of the Rhodesia legislative assembly, said Europeans are merely using the Congo bogey as a frightening example to maintain their privileged position.

The Rhodesian idea is to attract to the country, put in the face of general criticism. One target is the now-famous speech of Harold Macmillan, then British prime minister, who warned a South African audience five years ago about winds of change" sweeping the black continent.

A Rhodesian information department handout discusses the speech in these terms:

"They have been destructive winds, winds which, ripping backwards down the African continent, have topo civilization apart at the seams leaving bare the maggots of opportunism which bore their way deep into quivering human misery.

"Today the fights are going out in Africa. The newly-independent states now cover some 90 per cent of Africa's land mass and although there are some where democracy has survived and statesmanship lives on, more and more are degenerating into fascist slums propped up by international dolles."

SOME WANT APARTHEID

Similar ideas were expressed in more moderate and perhaps more convincing terms by Sir Roy Welensky, an opponent of Premier Smith and former prime minister of the now-dissolved Central African Federation, which linked Southern Rhodesia, now simply Rhodesia, with Northern Rhodesia, now independent Zambia, and Nyasaland, now independent Malawi.

"It is no overstatement to say that in the last five years somewhere between 200,000 and 300,000 people have been murdered in this part of Africa," said Welensky, referring to the Congo, Rwanda, Burundi, Zanzibar and other scenes of conflict.

"The Macmillan Cape Town speech seemed to presage these events which have had a tremendous influence on this part of the world."

There is no doubt that the arrival of refugees from The Congo in Salisbury and its sister town of Bulawayo four years ago—at one time there were 8,000 in Salisbury alone—had a traumatic effect on Rhodesians.

While Rhodesians take pride in saying that theirs is a policy of racial "partnership" not to be compared with the apartheid or racial separation in South Africa.

But David Butler, leader of the Rhodesian Party which was eliminated by Smith's Rhodesian Front in an election last May, said there is a hard core within the government who want to introduce the "full rigors of apartheid" in this territory. He expressed a widespread fear.

Unlike South Africa, Rhodesia does not segregate hotels or restaurants but owners of such places can—and do—establish an effective color bar.

The signs on lavatories in Salisbury movie houses say "Europeans only — all - racer toilet upstairs." In South Africa, these places are labelled flatly "white" or "non-white."

BLACKS HANDICAPPED

Rhodesia is different from South Africa in that theoretically at least a black man can become premier of this country, if he can acquire the necessary education and wealth and can induce sufficient voters to place for him.

The facts of education and economics dictate, however, that this is not going to happen in the foreseeable future and Smith has said it will not happen in his lifetime. He now is 46.

The voting register, under the 1961 constitution, is divided into A and B rolls. To qualify as a voter a man or woman must have an annual income of more than $2,000 or own property worth $4,500, or achieve certain levels with a lesser economic status.

The B roll is designed primarily for Africans. It provides them with lesser representation in the legislative assembly in return for smaller qualifications — income of $700 a year or ownership of $1,300 worth of property, or having reached the age of 30 with income or property ownership in excess of $1,000. Most Africans earn less than $500 a year.

C. S. Davis, secretary for African education, said Rhodesia from the beginning adopted the attitude it was better to educate as many students as possible, rather than concentrating on a few as is done in some other African countries.

But the result is a drastic "weeding out" of students between primary and secondary school grades. While some 120,000 African children began school in the lowest grade this year, fewer than 60 will graduate from high school.

Tomorrow: Rhodesian opposition split.

TURN TO GAS FUEL

The use of natural and coal gas in Britain is expected to increase by 75 per cent during the next five years.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Lazier spent the holiday weekend in Wheeling, West Virginia, crossing into the States by Buffalo and crossing back at Ivy Lea.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Weese and Miss Shirley Weese attended anniversary services in Empey Hill on Sunday and later were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Scramith.

Mrs. William McLaren and Mrs. Elliott Embury, recent patients in Belleville hospital, have returned to their homes.

The October meeting of the U.C.W.O. was held at the home of Mrs. Newton Demille on Thursday evening. The date for the annual church supper was set for November 24th.

The Sunday church services on the Shannonville circuit were taken by laymen of the congregation. Mr. John McCullough of Lonsdale conducted the worship service; Mr. Tom Hinchey of Shannonville gave the sermon while men of Melrose composed the choir at each appointment.

John English returned to Waterloo on Sunday afternoon, having attended the commencement exercises at Moira Secondary School on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Grant McLaren attended the fourth annual rally of the United Church Women of East Hastings Region, held at Halloway church on Tuesday.

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — On Saturday evening over 20 friends of Mrs. Clifford Barber, representing the community of Mountain View journeyed to her new home in Belleville and gave her a surprise party. Her two daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fox and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kingston were also present.

After everyone had assembled Mr. Seymour Hamilton, expressed thanks for all the help Mrs. Barber had given in the community and expressed to her everyone's wish for happiness in her new home. Mrs. Barber was presented with a drawer set from her friends at Mountain View. Several of the ladies served coffee and refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

The Golden Years

Weather Not Important In Picking Retirement Spot

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Well, the hurricanes have finally done it!

"For two years I opposed my husband's plans to set up our retirement home in Panama City, Fla. I couldn't change his mind. I gave up. Then when the storms began building up in the Caribbean in September he grew concerned. He said maybe I had been right all along, and he would be willing now to move where I might choose.

"So I am somewhat on the spot. Can you suggest an area where we can be free of the awful whims of nature? . . ."

The best answer to this, probably, is for the lady to contact the rocket boys at that giant NASA centre down in Houston, Tex., and ask how are things on the moon. So far as is known there is no place in North America where nature hasn't been slapping people around. Or won't tomorrow.

Weather continues to be one of the great issues of people going into retirement . . . right up there alongside Motherhood and the Flag. It doesn't belong there, in the first place it does not matter much to retired people after a while. In the second, they can't do anything about it, anywhere.

Nelson P. Foster, who was going to whip weather when he retired three years ago — and didn't — has made quite a study of the matter.

VIOLENCE EVERYWHERE

"Just look at what would have happened in 1965 alone to anybody who is afraid of nature's violence, as I was," he says. "There were some terrible floods that swept down from Minnesota, through Iowa and Illinois. There was the severe water shortage in New York and New Jersey, which is not exactly violence but is hardly fun. There were those floods out in the Northwest. There were hurricanes. And do you remember those tornadoes that swept across from Kansas to Michigan, killing and destroying all the way? . . ."

According to Mr. Foster, a couple looking for safe weather for retirement had better not read the daily news reports on weather across the continent. "If they do they'll wind up climbing into a hole. There simply is no area where violent weather hasn't hit, or probably won't hit if you'll wait long enough."

He mentions weather forecasts have greatly improved. "All that means is that now you have two days to worry about what's going to hit you, instead of two hours as formerly."

EASY TO ADJUST

Mr. Foster has found that people in any given area have learned how to manage pretty well against the weather hazards common in that area. "Along the Gulf Coast and in Florida they know how to board up their houses and dig themselves in for a hurricane. In Southern California they know they don't have to build their homes on a hill that is going to slide into a ravine. On the rivers that flood they have learned how to set up houseboats on a hill instead of in the bottoms. The long-time natives in any area of the country have a lot of savvy about outwitting the ravages of nature that come to their own backyard. So go on and move where you want to . . . and ask the natives how to keep from getting killed . . ."

There are disasters, of course. Earthquakes, flash floods, tornadoes, tidal waves, electrical storms and such can kill you quickly. So can a truck at the corner of Elm and Main Streets as you go to the market tomorrow.

"Weather, in general, is a lot of nonsense in retirement." Mr. Foster believes. "Largely because you don't have to brave it at 8 a.m. or wait until 5 p.m. to flee from it, as working people do.

"As for the hot and cold of it, or the wet and dry of it — you'll hardly notice after a year and a half. You're one of these odd things called a human being, you can, and do, adjust to anything."

PELTED WITH EGGS

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP). Shouting anti-Yankee slogans, a small crowd pelted a visiting U.S. Marine Corps band with rotten eggs Thursday. The band kept playing.

Mr. A. C. Ashforth, former president and general manager at head office of The Toronto-Dominion Bank will give an illustrated travelogue entitled "Inside Russia" when he visits Bellleville next Thursday evening.

He will be guest of honor at The Bellleville Lodge, A. F. & A. M. No. 123, "Ladies' Night" to be held in the Masonic Temple.

Mr. Ashforth is prominent in church and Masonic circles and an active vital force in Canadian business life.

His first hand knowledge of Russia comes as the result of extensive travel inside Russia during the past year.

An Open Letter to the Voters of Hastings-Frontenac

Dear Friends and Neighbours:

In asking for your support on November 8th, you are entitled to know something about the man for whom you are asked to vote.

I was born in Saskatchewan in 1907, the son of pioneer Scottish farmers from Ontario. I am a retired lawyer, living in the riding and can devote my whole time to the needs of the citizens of this riding. I am a graduate of the university of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School with an M.A. degree. Mrs. Cadwell and I own and operate the Madoc Art Centre, a non-profit educational organization on No. 7 Highway, east of Madoc, Ontario.

In 1955-56 I was appointed a special legal advisor to the Canadian Peace Commissioners in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. Lester Pearson, the present Prime Minister was then in charge of the Department of External Affairs. In 1957, I resigned to write a book, "Communism in the Modern World" which is an independent commentary on the strategy and tactics of the Communists in the plan for world conquest. I have owned property in the riding for the past 15 years and know something of the problems and difficulties of the people of this riding.

In 1940-45, I served in the armed forces. I am a life member of the Canadian Bar Association, Past President of a Canadian Legion Branch, member of the United Church of Canada, County of Hastings Historical Society, Kiwanis International, A.F. & A.M. and the Land O' Lakes Tourist Association.

I am proud to be a Canadian and thankful for the opportunity of serving you. By choosing me as your member you can be assured that Hastings-Frontenac will improve economically to the benefit of all, and that, as a resident of the riding that I will always be available to serve your needs.

Yours faithfully,
ROY CADWELL,
LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

Target Pfft So Gemini 6 Flight Off

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — (AP) — The Gemini 6 mission of astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford was postponed indefinitely today when the Agena spacecraft — their rendezvous and docking target — failed to achieve orbit.

At 11:55 a.m. EDT., mission control at Houston announced that Agena had plunged back to earth in the Atlantic and the Gemini 6 mission was scrubbed.

An Atlas rocket blasted off on schedule at 11 a.m. EDT to propel the Agena toward an intended orbit. The Atlas worked beautifully during its five-minute burning time and the Agena separated as planned.

However, mission control centre reported there was "a dramatic loss of telemetry" six minutes, 20 seconds into the mission, at the time the Agena was to have ignited its engine to drill itself into orbit.

When the Atlas lifted off, Schirra and Stafford were in their crewmed spacecraft atop a Titan 2 rocket on a pad 6,000 feet away. They watched the blastoff of their intended target satellite on a television monitor mounted in front of their spacecraft window.

If successful, it would have been the first time two objects have been brought together in space and would have put the United States over a significant hurdle on the path to the moon. Space scientists must perfect the docking technique before committing men to moon voyages.

Gemini Program Director Charles Mathews said:

"The Gemini 6 mission is three times more complex than anything previously completed in the Gemini program. Even with the confidence we have in the rockets and spacecraft, we consider it a difficult mission."

Plans for the flight were full of "ifs".

—If Agena entered a wide-elliptical orbit beyond the correction capability of ground signals, or if it did not achieve orbit, the astronauts would not be launched. This is what happened.

In that event, the Gemini 6

Four Given 30 Years For Arson

QUEBEC (CP)—Four men, three of whom were implicated in Quebec's "golden gym" killings, were sentenced Saturday to a total of 30 years in the penitentiary by Judge Gerard Simard.

A fifth man, also implicated in the killings, Jean-Jacques Gagnon, a 33-year-old Montreal accountant, will be sentenced by Judge Achille Petitpres Nov. 26.

Pleading guilty to separate charges of arson, conspiracy to commit arson, fraud and receiving a stolen car were Orilla Boulet, 52, Andre Lamothe, 41, J.-Eugene Berube, 47, and Fernand Quirion, 43.

Moise Darabaner, a 43-year-old Quebec City businessman, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy to set fire to L'Hotel Beau Rivage in suburban Neuville and to a charge of arson. He will appear at a preliminary hearing Oct. 29.

BURIED BODIES

Boulet, sentenced to 10 years after pleading guilty to charges of arson and conspiracy to commit arson, admitted earlier he buried the bodies of Alberic Bilodeau, the former owner of the St. Joseph de Beauce hotel which Boulet had set ablaze, and those of Redempteur Faucher, 47, and Paul Brie, 44, all of the Quebec City area.

Diefenbaker Brings Political Sunshine to Four Ridings In Whistle Stop at Stirling

By HARRY MULHALL

STIRLING — Treading beside a railroad track under forlorn skies, Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker brought political sunshine to his supporters from four neighboring ridings Saturday.

The greatest campaigner of his generation was in top form as he moved among a crowd of about 400 rallied to this village by constituency organizers.

And the appearance of the one man who might somewhat illy have upstaged him turned out to be anti-climactic.

George Hees, the trade minister who turned rebel in 1963 against Mr. Diefenbaker and whose election bid in Northumberland has been propagandized as symbolic of new Conservative party unity, was one of the four district candidates at the CNR station here.

When announced a week ago this was expected to be the first real confrontation of Mr. Hees with his old party chief whose crumbling cabinet he had dramatically quit two years ago.

However, Mr. Hees Friday night turned up at a Port Hope meeting and greeted Mr. Diefenbaker in person. While reports later claimed the Conservative leader first appeared reluctant to do so, he nonetheless was photographed shaking Mr. Hees' hand.

The incident removed the drama from their meeting here and ensured the centre stage spot for Mr. Diefenbaker when his campaign train halted at the small country station, nearly 40 minutes late from Napanee.

NEVER FAR AWAY

Nonetheless Mr. Hees was notably never far away from his chief throughout the half-hour stopover.

Dressed in a loose brown check overcoat with a neatly-rolled umbrella at times resting on his shoulder, the candidate for rural Northumberland had the appearance of a rusticating guards officer, as he moved easily through the crowd awaiting the campaign train.

He was the first aboard as it drew to a halt.

He joined briefly with Mr. Diefenbaker for photographers then followed the party leader down into the crowd. With other candidates — Lee Grills (Hastings South), Douglas Alkenbrack (Prince Edward - Lennox) and Rodney Webb (Hastings - Frontenac) — scattered through the gathering, Mr. Hees kept close behind Mr. Diefenbaker.

There was only one public comment on the meeting.

Just before the train pulled out and both men stood on the observation platform, someone shouted:

"Shake hands with George, John, and show you've really buried the hatchet!"

If he heard it, the remark drew no reaction from Mr. Diefenbaker.

In a brief speech before departing the Conservative leader commended Mr. Grills and Mr. Webb for support since the Stirling area was within both their ridings. He said he would be speaking for Mr. Hees and Police expected a rash of Negro demonstrations. They threw up tight security precautions at Salisbury airport, where thousands were expected for the arrival of Wilson and Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley after an overnight stop at Cyprus.

Police patrols also were beefed up in the city's Negro townships. Four Negroes were arregied Sunday for waving anti-government banners.

Police Will Dig in 3 Picnic Places Expecting to Find Children's Bodies

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The hunt for Britain's Moorland murder victims won a powerful boost today with identification of three photographs showing children on hillside pichics. Police said the pictures provided "vital information."

Police were due to begin digging at the three picnic places in the expectation of finding bodies. In two weeks of intensive search on the desolate pennine hills they have turned up two bodies, one a girl aged 10 and one a boy of 12.

They are certain that two more children lie buried amid the bogs and rocky outcrops of the western and southern slopes of the Pennines. And they believe at least four others may soon be discovered dead. All have vanished without trace from their homes in the Manchester suburbs which are the headquarters of the hunt for bodies.

The photographs were among a batch of 20 seized by police from a luggage office at a Manchester railway station.

The places on them were identified by hikers and shepherds who know the moors, who responded to a weekend appeal for help.

Other photographs still have to be identified. But of three already "fixed," a senior officer said:

"This vital information has given us a tremendous step forward."

Four mobile police stations operated on the moors at the weekend sifting reports from persons who had noticed suspicious activities during the last few years.

But at mid-day Sunday police called off search operations because they were hampered by ghoulish sightseers.

Many of the Sunday sightseers arrived by coach. Some took young children to gape at a grave where the body of a 10-year-old John Kilbride was found Thursday.

The body of 10-year-old Lesley Ann Downey was found Oct. 16. The child had been missing since last Christmas. A man and a 23-year-old girl have been charged with her murder.

Two Elect Jury Trial On Charges

More than 30,000 pounds of cobalt were shipped from a Peterborough scrap yard to a U.S. buyer, a preliminary inquiry on charges involving looting of a government cobalt stockpile was told this morning.

Before the court were Irving Moldaver, 50, owner of Peterborough Scrap Metal Company, and William Regan, 70, demolition superintendent at Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, where the stockpile was located.

Both men pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiring to steal government cobalt between September 1963 and March 1965. They requested trial by judge and jury.

FOUR OTHERS ACCUSED

They were charged August 12 along with four Belleville men who will stand later before preliminary hearings.

They are Samuel Vigodda, 70, and his son, Leonard Vigodda, 22, both of Marsh Metals and Minerals, Belleville; and Bernard Boulter, 25, Belleville, and Herbert Marsden, 46, of Marysville, both laborers.

Among the first witnesses at today's hearing before Magistrate R. C. Jackson was Joseph Rafter, representative of Standard Testing Laboratory, Belleville, New Jersey, a company which carries out analyses of materia's proposed for purchase by U.S. buyers.

Mr. Rafter said his company was retained by Groma Metals Corporation in the U.S. to run tests on material up for sale by Peterborough Metals.

In October 1964 he met Mr. Moldaver at the latter's scrap yard in Peterborough and took samples for analysis from various drums of metal. Among them were 22 drums which Groma Metals had advised him would contain samples of stellite — an alloy containing cobalt.

Laboratory tests later reveal ed the material was actually 90 per cent cobalt.

Mr. Rafter said he could not recall ever informing Mr. Moldaver of the fact. The laboratory report was sent only to the Groma people.

SUPERVISED LOADING

In February he returned to Peterborough and supervised the loading of 64 drums of scrap aboard a CNR freight.

Among them were the 22 drums of cobalt, which the court was later told, weighed in excess of 1,000 pounds each.

Mr. Rafter said he did not inquire about the origin of the metal and the operation appeared a typical transaction as far as he was concerned.

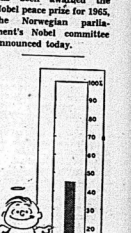
UNICEF Awarded Peace Prize

OSLO (Reuters) — UNICEF, the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, has been awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1965, the Norwegian parliament's Nobel committee announced today.



Total: $59,292.84.

United Appeal Headquarters reports that as the total reaches the half-way mark, only 45 per cent of the calls have been reported in. There are still some very large areas to be heard from.

A great deal of activity on behalf of the Campaign is being carried out in many areas, and United Appeal Headquarters asks for reports as soon as possible.

The CNR made further returns today, and with their campaign still going, they have collected over $3,000.

Anyone wishing to make a donation directly to the United Appeal Office may do so by mailing or bringing their donation in to United Appeal Headquarters, 180 Front Street, across from the City Hall in the old Ontario Intelligencer Building.

Anglican, United Church Members Meet in Service

By J. HENDERSON

A service of worship in observance of the 40th anniversary of the United Church of Canada was held by the Belleville Presbytery at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday afternoon, at which a large number of clergy, and those interested in church unity were present.

The special speakers, for the occasion were: the Rev. E. R. Long, B.D., secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, whose theme was "Church Union Then and now," and the Right Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Ph.D., Bishop of Ontario, who chose, "An Anglican Looks at Church Unity." The minister of the church, the Rev. Harry M. Davis, introduced both speakers, mentioning that this was a meeting that would be remembered for years to come.

A NEW WAY NEEDED

Dr. Long began his talk by stating that it was on Thanksgiving Day, 1925, that the two denominations had united, the Methodist, Congregational and the Presbyterian; that they were pioneers; that there was need of a new way to live out in life the prayer of Jesus for those who believe in Him, "that they may be one as we are; that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in Thee; that they also may be one in us"; that we cannot represent God in us aright until we realize the Gospel in the life of the whole church. The church fathers knew that they had to live in God's will, that only then could fullness of life really be.

Great trawall preceded the church union of the Times was a divided spirit with great difficulties. The test came to western Canada; the great depression with practically a famine in the western provinces; resources dwindled, United union was needed to keep salaries lasting, the churches united. In 1929 there was a debt of $2,000,000, later wiped out.

MANY CHURCHES BUILT

"Canada's population nearly doubled; there are new challenges; new communities have sprung up; the United Church has met its obligations; it has built 650 new churches and church halls, and there are twice as many members as 40 years ago."

Dr. Long emphasized the need of self examination upon the Gospel. We must realize and see what the "faith once delivered to the church means to us. We thank God for what He has done; but we have left undone what we ought to have done, and done what we ought not to have done." The United Church is not a perfect church, but a continuation of the human element in the church. We must be aware of the needs of the Gospel in these changing times, and we, under God, equip it to minister.

"Unity and efficacy belong together. We are now confronted with unions. Within the past 40 years we have been a united and a uniting church. Shall we not unite with those of congeneress of 40 years ago, that we may be better enabled to live out the revelation within the church? God has greater things yet for the church. He will look for a blended people what is His work."

NOT COERCE

His Lordship, Bishop Evans, expressed his appreciation in being invited to the meeting of the United Church to take part in this 40th anniversary, and to give his impressions on the union of the Anglican and United Church. In beginning his address, he mentioned that at an Anglican meeting in Vancouver it was decided the Anglican Church was not to seek to coerce the United Church from the Anglican viewpoint or to coerce the United Church to which, outwardly, appeared to have been painlessly achieved.

HUMILITY NEEDED

His Lordship then gave a resume of the Anglican Church from its inception down to the present. The Anglican Church in England, which were strong; but the church was weak. In 1547 all were made members as Anglicans. Something has happened since 1925; the world has broken up, and the church was a divided spirit with great difficulties. The test came to western Canada; the great depression with practically a famine in the western provinces; resources dwindled, United union was needed to keep salaries lasting, the churches united. In 1929 there was a debt of $2,000,000, later wiped out.

Clifford Neale, Truck Driver In City, Burned

JVA LEA, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Water Resources Commission continues to make tests today on St. Lawrence River water into which 3,000 gallons of carbolic acid was spilled Friday.

C. G. Scuth, a commission spokesman, said Sunday night no tainted water had been detected at Brockville, Prescott, Cardinal or Cornwall on the Canadian side of the river.

New York state officials found traces of the acid at Morristown, Ogdensburg and Massena, but the situation was dissipating. No significant increase in the pollution level was detected.

Effects of the acid would depend on how diluted it became in the river and how fast the current carries it downstream from this community, 25 miles east of Kingston.

SPILLED IN CRASH

The acid spilled into the river following a car-truck collision here Friday. Acid from the tanker trickled into the St. Lawrence through drainage ditches.

Clifford Neale, 47, of Belleville, driver of the big truck, was in critical condition in Kingston early today with severe acid burns to his arms and face.

Brako Gavas, 27, of Toronto, the car driver, was in satisfactory condition with possible leg and back injuries.

The accident occurred on Highway 401 here. A warning was issued to area residents Saturday after the acid was water fit for if they noticed any unusual taste or smell.

Police officials said there was little danger of anyone being poisoned because if water became contaminated with acid, so foul to the taste it would be unlikely that anyone would drink it.

Hallowe'en Again Linked With UNICEF

Last year a total of $2,653 was collected here, on Hallow'en and by BCI and Moira students.

NOTICE RE: GARBAGE AND RUBBISH

In the interest of a cleaner Belleville and to clarify certain matters pertaining to the collection and disposal of garbage and rubbish, City Council passed By-Law No. 7921 late last year and entered into a new five-year garbage collection contract. The new contract provides for the collection of rubbish such as grass cuttings, trimming from shrubs, garden roots, etc., as well as normal garbage, provided it is placed out for collection in a proper manner.

The by-law requires every householder to provide enough receptacles to contain all their garbage and rubbish and specifically prohibits the placing of rubbish on City streets except in proper receptacles on the garbage collection day. However, rubbish that will not fit into such receptacles will be collected provided it is cut or folded into pieces not more than three feet in length and securely tied in bundles.

The receptacles permitted by the by-law are polyethylene or paper bags manufactured for use as disposable garbage bags, metal or other suitable watertight containers not larger than 12 gallons in size and equipped with handles and properly fitted covers. Closed cardboard cartons loaded not heavier than fifty pounds may be used for dry garbage, but where you are respectfully requested not to use same during wet weather.

All householders are respectfully requested to obtain and use the proper receptacles noted above at the earliest possible date, if they are not already doing so.

To assist you with the disposal of the garden rubbish the City will collect same during the leaf collection work, if it is placed in a pile at the street at the time the leaves are being picked up. Please do not place out rubbish or other leaves after the streets have been cleaned. If you miss our collection you should place your rubbish in your garbage receptacles for collection.

Children's Aid to Have Full-time Department to Help Unmarried Parents

The Children's Aid Society here will establish a department to work full-time with unmarried parents. This action was approved at the monthly meeting of the society's board of directors, held last week.

"In the past, for purely financial reasons, our services to unmarried parents have been carried as a part of the case load of our workers in the child protection field," said Bruce Kerr, local director. "Although there has been little criticism of our operation by our government supervisors, any criticism we have received in the past few years has been directed against this area of our operation. I am of the opinion that with the impending changes in our administration, the time has come for us to establish a department staffed full time, with a worker in charge, who will become, eventually a specialist in this field."

It was moved by Alderman Thomas Reilly, and seconded by Rev. W. P. Healey, that the department be established and staffed. The motion carried.

The president, Dr. Sydney C. Rose, presided. Thos. R. Colden, the treasurer, reported receipts for the first nine months of the year amounted to $149,288 as against expenditures of $141,723. Mr. George Wishart stated he had received an inquiry as to why the Society was participating in the current campaign of the Belleville United Appeal, and responding to reports, "the Society was to receive full financial support at government level in 1968." Mr. Colden stated that since the inception of the United Appeal, the Society has operated one year behind and that the funds received from the 1968 campaign would be available pay for services already given.

Mr. Stanley Wiggins gave an interim report of the work of a committee, comprised of the president, the local director and Mr. Oriel Griffiths, to investigate participation by the Society in the Ontario Municipal Employees' Retirement System. As of the beginning of the year all future employees for whom the Society is to provide retirement benefits must be enrolled in the OMERS plan. Mr. Wiggins stated that Mr. Griffiths and he planned to meet with the staff to discuss with them whether or not they would prefer to transfer to the OMERS plan or remain with the existing annuity plan.

151 IN WARD CARE

Bruce Kerr, the local director, stated that there were one hundred and fifty-one children in the ward care of the Society "considerably fewer than one might expect for a society serving more than 96,000 people." During the month of September seven children have been admitted to care; five from Belleville, one from the County of Hastings and one from Trenton. Of this number five were born to unmarried parents.

He stated that Mrs. J Thompson, the head of the Society's Adoption Department, had attended a three day meeting at Sundridge, Ontario, sponsored by the Adoption Resource Exchange, a clearing house for adoptable children and persons seeking to adopt, operated by the Ontario Department of Public Welfare.

Mr. Kerr said that more than one hundred children had been discussed by the adoption workers of the twenty-five Societies represented. As a result, a good number of placements were arranged. The Sundridge meeting was attended by workers from Eastern Ontario, Northern Ontario and Metro Toronto. A similar session for workers from Western and Southern Ontario is held at London. Group meetings held a minimum of twice a year. So far this year the local Society has placed fifty children in adoption.

Mr. Kerr asked the Board to approve the appointment of Miss Eileen R. Studd to the staff, effective the first of November. Miss Studd is a graduate of McGill University where she majored in psychology. In her final year she was awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for post graduate study. "Shet", said Mr. Kerr, "she has chosen to enter the field of social work instead". Events Will Decide

The Globe and Mail has made an interesting point with regard to rumors of possible Canadian participation in the Vietnam conflict. Canadians will be foolish, the newspaper said editorially, "if they view either charges or denials as anything more than meaningless bombast."

It went on: "Whether or not Canada is drawn into the Vietnam war will depend not upon what politicians say during an election, but upon the forward thrust of history."

And who can deny the wisdom of that observation? "Until events have written that history we cannot know what it will be," the Toronto journal said. "It is possible that the war in Vietnam will escalate, that it will diminish, that a basis for truce will be found, that crises elsewhere will divert international attention."

The newspaper continued: "It is conceivable that the situation could be so changed—by, say, the outright intervention of China—that Canadians would feel duty-bound to join the United States on the field of battle. It is even more conceivable that the United States, feeling isolated and even the moral censure of the world, will bring pressure upon Canada to give at least token support to its activities in Vietnam. This sort of pressure Canada would be morally required to resist. Yet, if we honestly recognize our dependence on the United States, our position as a compellable ally, we must also recognize that it might be impossible to resist."

At the moment these are hypothetical questions, but it is not difficult to contemplate a day when they might be transformed into reality. Said Pope: "Political wisdom is to make wars. Events make them. It is beyond the power of any politician to promise the Canadian people that Canadian troops will not go to Vietnam."

As historic proof it cited President Woodrow Wilson's promise to the American people that they would not become involved in the First World War, a similar promise by Roosevelt with regard to the second big conflict (a few months later they were in it) and concluded: "And that noted dove of the last American election, President Johnson, has been transmuted into a wonderfully convincing hawk."

Health of a Nation

Americans tend to be morbidly concerned about their health. Thus, every now and again magazines come out with lurid and detailed accounts, accompanied by photographs and diagrams, of what goes on under the surgeon's knife.

U.S. News and World Report, in its current issue, goes into some detail on gall-bladder surgery, of the kind recently undergone by President Johnson.

The magazine also gives a brief medical history of the president, indicating that he is a hardy individual in the Texan tradition. He survived a serious heart attack ten years ago, as well as a variety of other ailments over the years.

Back in 1937 the president underwent an appendectomy. Then, in 1942, while serving as a naval officer in the South Pacific, he contracted bronchiectasis. First noticed on high-altitude flights, the disease made him susceptible to heavy colds and pneumonia. He also experienced kidney trouble.

Despite rigors, President Johnson seems to be making good recovery from his most recent operation, and it may be hoped he will be completely restored to his former vigor.

Area Project

The announcement that a new film, Maribank Calcium and Chloride Co. Ltd. is to develop extensive marl deposits in the area of the same name, Maribank (north of Deseronto) is good news for this region.

Details of the project, published in this newspaper last Friday, indicated that an initial order for the supply of pharmaceutical raw materials to a New York firm is worth about $12,000,000.

New uses for marl (a crumbly soil consisting mainly of clay, sand and calcium carbonate, traditionally used as a fertilizer and in making cement or bricks) include the manufacture of pharmaceuticals, potash and liquid carbondioxide.

The deposits have been worked before, and at one time there was a plant at Maribank which used marl for the production of cement. Since then the scope of the mineral's use has widened to include the products listed.

The new operation will see a processing plant erected on the site, and by spring it is expected that up to 60 persons will be employed.

The renewed interest in the deposits, said to be the finest of their kind on this continent, holds out the prospect of new prosperity for this region.

Tipping was once the aristocrat's way of showing his lordly pleasure with his humble servant. Nowadays it's a big business running into the millions.

Waiters and waitresses, for instance, share a $200,000,000 national tip each year, depend on tips for the largest part of their income. In New York, their average salary is $15-$8 a week.It ps boost this to $35-$55 a week. Night club waiters whose customers are in a free-spending mood, often take in as much as $70 in tips. Doormen at hotels, night clubs and smart-est houses also come in for a share of the millions Americans spend on tips each year, and so do bartenders in the higher priced bars. A bartender at the Stork Club in New York tells of the customer who paid a $10 check with a $100 bill and told him to keep the change.

Backs U.S. Action
Hamilton Spectator

Because they usually disturb the peace in the process, we usually read more about peace-demonstrating against the American action in Viet Nam than those who do something to support it.

Out in California, Mrs. Zita Keller is preparing an open letter to the American forces in Viet-Nam. It tells them the more-it-is-attacked the more Americans in the United States do not reflect the feeling of the majority of citizens.

With more and more people signing the letter daily, it is already 42 feet long.

This action is commendable.

We hope Mrs. Parker gets just as much publicity as the militant California demonstrators.

But we wonder just how she intends to "bring the letter to the attention of each American fighting in Viet Nam"?

Had Heart Attacks, How Long to Live?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: The husband of a very good friend had two myocardial infarctions within a week. I understand it is very unusual for someone to have two of them and live, not that I doubt what she told me. Under the circumstances, how long can he live? — Mrs. F. C.

* * *

There are multiple kinds of heart trouble. A myocardial infarction means that there has been an interruption or shutting off of blood circulation to a part of the heart muscle. Like any other muscle in the body, the one that makes the heart beat has to have good circulation. If a muscle in the foot lost its circulation, that muscle would die. If it is the heart muscle, the situation is much worse, because the heart muscle is vital to the whole body.

Blood vessels serving the heart muscle form a large network. Compare the network to the roots of a large tree. You can chop off one set of roots and the tree survives. Cut all the roots, and the tree dies.

It is so with a heart attack. Where was the infarction? (That is, where was the circulation interrupted?) If only a small branch of the network was damaged, the patient may not realize that he has had a heart attack. This happens rather frequently.

When the interruption is higher in the arterial network, a whole section of smaller branches will be cut off. A massive infarction means that a large section has been affected.

But now massive is massive? How big is big? Did the second attack affect the part of the network that had already been damaged, or a whole new section?

Repeated heart attacks can occur. Usually, however, a single place is involved, and afterward the body gradually develops, to some extent as it can, and over a period of time, secondary networks to bypass circulation around the damaged point.

* * *

Therefore, Mrs. M.C., it is impossible to answer unless we know where the first and the second infarctions occurred, and how good the rest of the heart was to begin with.

How long can the patient live? Who knows? With two infarctions in a week, he has had a dangerously serious experience. One is bad enough. But, although the odds are overwhelming against him, with luck and care and if he develops new networks of circulation to bypass and replace, he might outlive all of us.

Don't forget, the famous marathon runner, Clarence De Marr, had a weak heart as a boy. He had, in fact, an infarction. Maybe more than one. But after his death doctors discovered that over the years he had developed new networks of circulation. He could run 30 miles, or whatever the distance happened to be, and beat his opponents.

Exceptional? Certainly! But possible? Yes. It happened. So don't ask me to predict. Nevertheless, the longer your friend's husband lives, the more chance he has to keep on living.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: What about men shaving under their arms to help prevent perspiration odor? Is it harmful in any way? — Mrs. C. L. H.

No, it's not harmful. Some men do, even though most don't. It does cut down odor appreciably, however.

* * *

Note to "Ruddy": Since you are the father of five children, it strikes me that you are a pretty good man, and I think you are torturing yourself with feelings of inferiority that you don't deserve.

* * *

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," showing how, by self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Henry V's English army defeated a far stronger French force at the battle of Agincourt 550 years ago today—in 1415—at the end of his first short attempt to restore the Continental empire of his ancestors. The battle confirmed the popularity of the 28-year-old king and became one of the proudest moments of English history. Shakespeare's play, Henry V, includes the battle and runs together two separate expeditions to France. During the latter, Henry married Catherine, daughter of the insane French king, and fathered the weak - minded Henry VI.

1885—Hostilities in Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta confirmed prohibition.

Bill to Curb Billboards

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

On its "consensus" theory that a beginning is better than nothing, the Johnson administration has agreed to changes in the roadside beautification bill now before the senate.

The changes were promoted by the junkyard, billboard, scrap iron and auto industries who preferred no beautification bill at all, but evidently they are glad to get a bill that will work, even with the alternations.

To the billboard interests the administration conceded that advertising signs would be regulated within 660 feet and not 1,000 feet of roadways. The 660-foot figure now applies only to interstate highways in a few states; in the future, apparently, it will be applied to all federal-aid highways, which is a considerable gain.

Both the billboard and motel groups wanted state legislatures to decide where signs would be allowed. So they got what they surrender on this; the Secretary of Commerce rather than state legislatures will write the standards.

The junkyard and scrap iron lobbies asked for compensation for removing or screening junkpiles within 1,000 feet of the roads. They will have to pay the first $1,500 of cost and the federal government pay ation beyond that. This arrangement seems fair.

If the Senate passes the measure in its present form, the most oppressive advertising alleys and junkyard tones should cease to be a feature of the nation's main highways by 1970.

Forty years have been spent in making a mess of many of these roads. Five years for cleaning them up would be a legislative bargain.

Constable's Impact as Author

Thomas Bertram Costain achieved the sort of success in writing that most writers only dream about. His story is all the more appealing because he won his success rather late in life. He was 57 before he published his first novel, which success poured in upon him. In the next 23 years he wrote 25 books. He died in Florida at the age of 80. He saw some of his books go into first printings of 100,000, even 250,000.

Costain his life critics. Some of the things they said against him were true. He was a popularizer. But his achievement has to be judged within his own aims. He was a newspaperman who turned novelist. "I still think of myself," he said, after great popularity had come to him, "as a reporter who happened to learn that John O'Hara's weekly newspaper column had been read by the paper that hired him. Such mistakes arise from a common confusion in terms. There is really no such thing as a "writer," generically speaking. Instead, there is a man who can write fiction, poetry, plays, articles, and so forth. Very few of them can do it well in more than one form.

O'Hara is a admirable short story writer, within his limits. His limits are admirable, as a list. There was absolutely nothing he could not write a column of analysis and comment that would have and merit whatever; and his novels, however are notoriously inept at this.

So great an author as Henry James failed in his future at writing plays. His immense talent for novels and short stories forsook him utterly when he took to create living dramas; his ventures were, quite properly, booed off stage.

And so brilliant a playwright as Bernard Shaw was equally a failure as a novelist. Of the five of them, all monumentally unsuccessful, before he abandon by failed he found his career and turned to theatre.

Thomas Mann, a novelist of heroic proportions, turned also a preacher of common sense when he wrote about the political and social nature. Lewis Carroll was, of course, magnificent, in the stories for which he tried serious verse, or the moralizing of a story like "Sylvie and Bruno," he became unbearable.

Conan Doyle, as every one knows, came to hate Sherlock Holmes so much that he killed him off; he was convinced that when he wrote about spirits was his main contribution to literature. But Holmes is immortal while the spoon reads Doyle's other books.

Oscar Wilde was a writer that his reputation would be of it seconds rate if not worse — had some eternal value; but it is in comedies, like "The Importance of Being Ernest," and his fairy tales, that he owes his fame. His poems have fallen into justifiable neglect.

W. S. Gilbert looked with scorn upon his libretti for the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas which Sullivan composed, musically thought they were too good for the form they were best at.

The term "writer" is a misleading as the term "athlete" — for who would send a boy to ball catcher to run in the big hurdles?

Candidates' Gall

Ordinary citizens often are surprised, or perhaps a mis amused, by the unmitigated gall displayed by many politicians during election campaigns. This is in evidence on every front as the campaign permeates from party leader down to the lowliest candidate for the smallest constituency. Electors should be a bit sceptical, enough so to separate the wheat from the chaff. If any leader or candidate, shows him self too irresponsible, he should be rejected. Gall is the definition of degree, the most irresponsible should be shunned most.

French Tradition in North America

La Tribune, Sherbrooke . . .

A few years ago we saw the future through the prism of the past, satisfied with having been able to survive in the Anglo-Saxon society that surrounds us. We attached great importance to our traditions, even to the point of refusing to adapt them to the needs of our times.

We hesitated, we were afraid of re-evaluating everything so as to take a step in the direction of progress because we underestimated our strength and because we took a kind of pleasure in exaggerating our weaknesses.

For generations, we had been trained to look only to the past. This was almost inevitable under the circumstances. We lacked scope because of having thought in terms of the parish, rural life and tradition. Our horizons barely extended beyond the village where the church steeple attracted us as a lighthouse beacon.

It is within this context that the miracle of French survival in North America took place. Rare indeed are peoples which, like ours, almost without help from the outside, were able to live and grow as we did.

Two factors must be taken into account to explain this phenomenon: first, our determination to survive as a separate and distinct ethnic entity, and second the political constitution that allowed us to remain true to our racial origin. Take away one of these two formal conditions and the other loses its reason for being.

The awakening that now is taking place in Quebec is still more remarkable because we were absent for generations from large undertakings and were not turning out men who could get us out of our rut in these sectors.

Coming slowly out of history it is agressive, without compromising on the essential points, to guard against hesitations, without using short techniques and ways of thinking which will make easier our economic emancipation and intellectual advancement. We were almost in an unsafe world where sight would be lost of the realities of the society in which we live, that is to say, of the Anglo-Saxon fact. There is no longer any question for us of keeping our past rigid and inflexible, but rather of flexibility bringing about those reforms without which society will always remain more than doubtful.

Costly Political Gimmick

St. Thomas Times-Journal . . .

The Saskatchewan Government is following the lead of other Western provinces in initiating an annual grant to home owners of $50, payment of which will begin next year. Premier Ross Thatcher said in making the announcement that he hoped the initial amount will be periodically increased as the finances of the province permit.

Although the money will come, Mr. Thatcher said, from additional revenues from resource and industrial development, it will amount next year to something in the neighborhood of $10 million. British Columbia has a similar tax-relief system in which payments are made in proportion to the size of the owners' municipal and school tax payments. The Manitoba Government rebates to property owners 50% of municipal school taxes up to a maximum of $50.

It is a weird kind of giveaway game that is difficult to understand. Regardless of what

John O'Hara At His Worst As a Novelist

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials carved out a modest advance but the remainder of the market was lower in the morning session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Trading was heavy.

In the industrial list, Hayes Steel, an auto parts maker, jumped 2¼ to a high of 26 while Moore Corp., a business form manufacturer, was ahead ¾ to a record 82¾. Massey-Ferguson backed on ⅝ at 35¾, Aluminium was at 31¾, Burns Foods ¼ at 21¼ and B-A Oil ¼ at 29½.

Uraniums continued to decline in the base metals list. Denison, which dropped sharply late last week, was down ¼ to 37¼ while Rio Algom dipped ¼ to 18½. Pine Point, the big lead-zinc producer controlled by Cominco, was ahead 2½ to 86½ and its parent company ⅛ to 49¼. Gains of ¼ went to Brunswick at 16¼, Campbell Chibougamau at 5.10 and Mattagami Lake at 19¾.

Golds eased fractionally, but the Canadian was up 25 cents to 6.00.

Among golds Madsen Red Lake dipped 10 cents to 2.62 in profit taking. It was up 37 cents Friday.

The index, industrials were ahead .11 to 168.81. Golds fell .05 to 156.43, base metals .22 to 94.84, western oils .10 to 102.09 and the TSE index .06 to 158.82. Volume at 11 a.m. was 625,000 shares compared with 618,000 at the same time Friday.

Diefenbaker Addresses Large Crowd at High School

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford C.N.R. railway station, silent for some years to passenger service resounded on Saturday to the enthusiastic cheers which greeted John Diefenbaker when he arrived by train to address a meeting in the town of Campbellford on Saturday afternoon.

Headed by a band and majorettes the procession arrived at the Campbellford and District High School where already an overflow crowd had filled the auditorium. About 700 people were present to hear the leader of the opposition speak in favor of Northumberland candidate George Hees.

On the platform with speaker John Diefenbaker and George Hees were other past and present members of parliament both Federal and Provincial, Mrs. Dorothy Downing, Women's National Organizer; Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton and Campbellford Mayor Morley Tanner.

FIRST SPEAKER

First speaker to introduce the program was past M.P. Ben Thompson, he stated the Conservative party had a heritage which would transcend political parties and work for unity and economy in the best interests of Canada as a country.

Mr. Thompson introduced past member of parliament Mr. Harry Bradley, who in a rousing speech first paid tribute to John Diefenbaker, stating Mr. Diefenbaker had brought a surge to an election in Northumberland, speaking in Cobourg some years ago and could do so again, then introduced the Northumberland candidate, George Hees. Mr. Bradley said George Hees was a native of Northumberland county having been born on his father's farm in Hamilton township in 1914. He attended Trinity College in Port Hope, University of Toronto, post graduate at Cambridge, in sports had played on the Grey Cup team, served overseas in World War II.

Mr. Hees was a member of parliament for 13 years, had been Minister of Transport and Minister of Trade of Commerce where he carried out a tremendous sales program for Canada and in 1964 became president of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

In closing Mr. Bradley said George Hees made a courageous and right decision when he decided to again enter political life; that Northumberland needed George Hees, Canada needed George Hees.

Mr. Bradley having taught high school in Campbellford for a number of years, his address was particularly well received.

ADDRESS BY GEORGE HEES

Mr. Hees in his address stressed the need in Canada of a new and expanded Industrial Trade Crusade similar to the one carried out by the Conservatives between 1960 and 1963 to find new markets for industrial products and to provide more jobs for Canadians. Also an Agricultural Trade Crusade as necessary.

In addition, Mr. Hees stressed the need of a policy to enable people living on pensions to keep abreast of the sharp rise in the cost of living, also a policy to relieve the home owner of the disproportionate share of the cost of education and thus encourage more people to build and own their own home.

Mr. Hees stated such policies will be introduced by a Conservative government under John Diefenbaker if the coming election places the Conservative government in power and called on John Diefenbaker.

TALK BY CONSERVATIVE LEADER

In his address Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated the policy he outlined the previous evening in Port Hope and again in Campbellford. He said he was speaking on behalf of Mr. Hees who had been his colleague for a number of years.

Diefenbaker spent the first part of his address criticizing the Liberal government under Hon. L. B. Pearson. He stressed the Quebec situation of arson and bankruptcies and struck hard on the theme of morality in government. He described as untrue Mr. Pearson's claim that to raise old age pensions to $100 per month would cost the country $850 million per year. He claimed the raise of $25 per month would cost only $350 million, moreover some of the cost would be returned in the form of taxes, thus reducing the cost to $250 million.

BONUS TO RE-ENLISTS

A new plank was added to Mr. Diefenbaker's program when he promised to provide a bonus to service men who re-enlist. This would be less costly than training new military personnel.

Criticism was also made of the removal of the crown from the coat of arms. He charged the government with undertake dealings.

In regard to the Conservative party farm program, Mr. Diefenbaker promised the dairy industry $4 per hundred for industrial milk, to incorporate acreage payments in Eastern Canada as had been done in the west, to introduce crop insurance to keep ever decreasing farm population on the farm, and to set up agricultural schools financed by the Federal government.

MAKE PRESENTATIONS

Presentations were made, a sheaf of red roses to Mrs. Diefenbaker, corsages to other ladies on the platform.

Mrs. E. Irwin, County Women's chairman, thanked Mr. Diefenbaker and a presentation was made to him of a ten-pound cheese by Miss Marta Battaglini, the Northumberland Dairy Princess, and to Mr. Hees material from the Campbellford Cloth Company, by David Robertson, president of Seymour Young Conservatives. All flower presentations were made by little Miss Donna Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Irwin.

Tea was served at the conclusion.

'Apple Day' Brings $1,095

Boy Scout Association officials in the city today expressed their appreciation to city and district residents who last weekend contributed more than $1,000 to the Scout Apple Day fund. The amount collected was $1,095.

Scouting officials said the Apple Day money would be used in the scout training and scout promotion in the city.

Sweden accepted about 1,000 refugees from camps in Europe and Morocco late in 1965.

Political Opposites Seen at S. A. Rally

The Salvation Army weekend congress here brought out some political opposites.

Among the saluting party at a Saturday marchpast was Walter Dinsdale former northern resources minister in the Diefenbaker Cabinet — and also a Salvation Army bandmaster.

But the saluting base was at city hall - right across from the Liberal committee rooms of Robert Temple MP.

Mr. Temple, stopping into the rooms spotted Mr. Dinsdale and dropped across the street to renew acquaintances. The two members of the last parliament stood chatting and laughing on Front Street and introducing their friends.

Mr. Dinsdale noted in a reporter he wouldn't be attending an evening Salvationist congress, but Mr. Temple was scheduled to speak anyway.

"Bob's deputizing for me," he said - and both politicians enjoyed the joke.

Intent of the humor probably was on the fact that Mr. Dinsdale later took off his uniform, went to two political meetings and dutifully criticized the government, which included such men as Mr. Temple in public life.

Meantime, Mr. Temple addressed the big Salvation Army rally at Belleville Collegiate where he praised the work of Salvationists — who include such men as Mr. Dinsdale in private life.

The time we could spend trying to look different, we spend getting better.

We're not saying it's wrong to look different every year. Quite a few people do it. And they're very successful at it.

It's just that we'd rather put our time and money into getting better every year. Making improvements.

As you probably know, change is against our principles. Take the front of the Volkswagen, for instance.

We could have taken the time to fuss about with fat fenders and big, chrome-covered grilles.

But we kept the sloping nose you're used to. So you can still see a lot of road.

What we did do with our time is add another defroster vent below the front windshield. So you see a lot of road more clearly in rainy or snowy weather.

Our attitude was just about the same at the back of the VW.

We didn't spend our time dressing it up with fancy fins. We just lifted up the back hood and made our engine bigger. It's got 8½ more horsepower this year. And it's still just as economical.

And we did some other things to the Volkswagen that we wouldn't have had time for if we'd played with the styling.

Like improving the door locks. Adding a four-way emergency flasher. Installing automatic safety locks on the front-seat back rests. And brightening up the interiors with attractive new colors.

Why not visit a Volkswagen dealer and see just how much time we've spent getting better this year?

You'll see quite a difference.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES E. GRAHAM JR.

Graham – Sweet

Eastminster United Church was the scene of the marriage of Sharon Elaine Sweet, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sweet of Belleville and James Edward Graham Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Graham of Belleville on Saturday, October 16, 1965 at 2.00 p.m. Rev. A McDowell officiated at the ceremony and the organist, Mrs. C. H. Rennie accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Glen Elmy, in two selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white peau de soie gown with a lace chapel train falling from the waist to a point at the back. The lace bodice had long lily point sleeves. Her full shoulder length tulle illusion veil was caught to a crown of brilliants and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses.

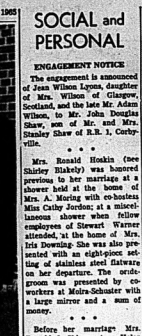
The bridal attendants, Mrs. Bonnie Mullin, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Patricia Perrinton of Belleville, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Brenda McNeil of Toronto, cousin of the bridegroom, were dressed identically. They wore full length turquoise sheath dresses of organza over taffeta with scooped neck-lines, elbow length sleeves and lace trains bordered in taffeta falling from the waistlines. Their headdresses were of matching flowers and lace and they carried nosegays of gold and bronze mums. The flower girl, Cathie Moore, cousin of the bride, wore a full length dress of organza over taffeta with a turquoise cummerbund. She carried a basket of gold and bronze baby 'mums.

Mr. Robert Lockwood of Brighton, cousin of the bride, groom, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Adrian Mullin of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Don Larson of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom. Kevin McCaughen of Toronto, cousin of the bride, acted as ring-bearer.

At the reception at Club Canara, Mr. John Moore, uncle of the bride, acted as master of ceremonies. To receive the guests, the bride's mother wore a pastel pink crepe sheath dress with pink and white accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a brown lace over champagne taffeta dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For her wedding trip to Montreal, the bride chose a cranberry red silk knit dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

On their return, the couple will live at 42 Meadowvale Crescent, Belleville.



MR. AND MRS. DONALD J. SKINNER

Skinner – Ross

Pink and white gladioli formed the background setting in Holloway Street United Church, when Catherine Helen Rita Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ross, Belleville, was united in marriage to Donald James Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Skinner, Rev. Oscar Wagar performed the ceremony and Mr. Angus Macleod, church organist provided traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length semi-fitted dress featuring a lace bodice with scalloped neckline and long fitted sleeves and a skirt of peau de sole. An elbow length veil flowed from a cluster of beaded peau de sole flowers. She carried a bouquet of shaded pink and white carnations.

The bride's younger sister, Debby Ross was her only attendant wearing a pale turquoise street length dress of satin taffeta brocade with train. Her accessories were white and she carried a nosegay of white and pink 'mums centred with pink roses.

Mr. Paul Boyd was groomsman, while Mr. John Smith and Mr. John Skinner were the ushers.

At the reception held at the bride's home at 18 Applewood Drive, Mrs. Ross received the guests wearing a two-piece turquoise suit of wool crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother, who wore a two-piece grey wool dress, cherry red hat, black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Lake Placid and North Eastern New York State, the bride chose a two-piece navy and black tweed suit with matching cape, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner for the present will reside at 18 Applewood Drive, Belleville.

Device Will Help Solve All Problems

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto-developed "device is going to help solve many of the problems of deaf babies, the Ontario Speech and Hearing Association was told Friday.

Dr. John Scott of the University of Toronto told the annual meeting that the device, developed at the university, can test the hearing of new-born children.

Called the Cat, the device costs about $3,200 for a simplified model and is designed for use in small hospitals.

Dr. Scott said detection of hearing defects at an early age is important because of a tendency toward speech blurring as the child grows older.

P. W. Kitcher, of the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville said the device would "help give our problems."

U.C.W. Meetings

EGGLETON U.C.W.

MADOC JUNCTION — Mrs. Harlow was hostess for the October meeting of the Eggleton United Church women on Thursday afternoon, with 18 ladies and one child in attendance.

The president opened the meeting with a Thanksgiving meditation and prayer, after which the program convener, Mrs. S. Frost, took charge.

The selected Scripture lesson was given by Mrs. C. Fitchett, and Mrs. Howard gathered the thank-offering, which was dedicated with prayer by Mrs. Harlow.

An invitation from Mount Pleasant U.C.W. to attend their sale and bazaar was read by the secretary.

A letter was read from Mrs. Pierson regarding the extra fall supply bale.

Mrs. Harlow reminded members of the Hastings East Regional Rally to be held at Hallowell United Church on October 19th.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley reported on visits made and cards or remembrances sent out.

Three interesting readings on Thanksgiving were given by Mrs. S. Frost, Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. B. Stapley.

Mrs. M. Clancy contributed a solo with guitar accompaniment.

All enjoyed the study on Trinidad presented in dialogue form by Mrs. M. Clancy and Mrs. F. Stapley.

Patches from the travelling apron were removed and $24.75 received.

The November meeting will be held at Mrs. F. Stapley's home with the program to be prepared by Mrs. C. Bridges.

The president thanked the program convener and all attending and taking part. Mrs. Prest expressed thanks to Mrs. Harlow for her home.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Bridges.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, and a social half hour enjoyed.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD HOSKIN

Hoskin – Blakely

Standards of white gladioli and yellow 'mums formed the background setting in Christian and Missionary Alliance Church on Saturday, October 16, 1965, when Shirley Mae Blakely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Blakely was united in marriage to Ronald C. A. Hoskin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoskin, Plainfield.

Rev. C. L. Broadhurst, minister of the church, officiated and Mr. W. Leonard as organist accompanied the soloist, Mrs. W. Leonard, in several vocal selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta with a slightly scooped neckline with appliqued lace on the bodice. The full flowing skirt was also enhanced with Swiss lace appliques and highlighted at the back with a chapel length flow-ing train. A bouffant veil of silk flowed from a cabbage rose headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white commercial 'mums and yellow Sweetheart roses mingled with ivy.

Miss Cathy Jordon of Belleville, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaid Miss Rose Marie Blakely, sister of the bride were identically attired in floor length sheath style turquoise over taffeta gowns featuring elbow length sleeves and a flowing detachable train. The waistlines were accented with a wide band of matching lace. They wore matching cabbage rose headdresses with veils. Each carried a semi cascade of yellow baby 'mums. The little flower girl, Miss Kathy Caverely, niece of the bride, wore a floor length dress of white peau de soie with fitted bodice and slightly flared skirt. She wore a turquoise head band with yellow Sweetheart roses and carried a basket of white 'mums and yellow roses.

Mr. Harry Smith was groomsman, while Mr. Garry Blakely, brother of the bride of Scarborough and Mr. John Hoskin, uncle of the bridegroom, Plainfield, were the ushers.

The reception was held at Club Canara where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue crepe dress with matching Alencon lace jacket, blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations and yellow Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a soft teal blue crepe sheath with Alencon lace bodice, pink and black accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, then south around the lake, the bride chose a powder blue and white all wool suit with matching blue feathered veil hat and gloves, black patent shoes and purse and a corsage of white 'mums and pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoskin will reside at 129 Herchimer Avenue, Belleville.

Women Make Best Family Court Judges Meeting Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Women make the best juvenile and family court judges, says Mrs. Marjorie Hamilton, judge of Simcoe County juvenile and family court.

Judge Hamilton is attending the annual meeting of the Association of Juvenile and Family Court Judges of Ontario.

"In my opinion, it is an advantage for a juvenile and family court judge to be a married woman who has been a housewife, and is the mother of children," she said in an interview.

Female judges have a more maternal approach, and therefore, a deeper understanding of how the child perceives the adult world she said. "They have a keener insight into the problems of family life."

She said: "We're a lot wiser than a man. A woman can't put anything over on another woman."

Judge Hamilton is not a lawyer but she was the first woman mayor in Ontario at Barrie. She was asked to take her present position in 1953 because of her previous welfare work and public service.

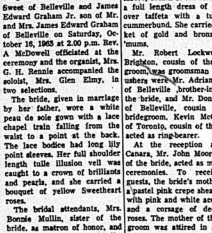
'I COUNT'

When approached about a job on the bench, her first reaction was: "Oh, I couldn't." But the local bar association assured her that juvenile and family court judges use 99 per cent common sense and one per cent knowledge of law, which can be gained through study.

Mother of three and grandmother of six, Judge Hamilton feels that it is the duty of every citizen to serve the community in which he or she lives. Judge Hamilton carries out her responsibility by sitting on the bench of the juvenile and family courts in the Barrie, Orillia, and Midland area.

Judge Hamilton says "we don't have enough facilities. In Simcoe County at least, we have prisoners because the institutions can't keep the children long enough." There are not enough institutions and existing ones are overcrowded and understaffed.

Judge Hamilton hopes for more general knowledge about the young offender and community support. To gain this, she says that the press should be allowed into hearings. "We're too protective in our family courts."



BRAIN OR BRAWN .....

Dear Susanna: Last year you gave us a wonderful idea for a gift for our grandson when he was graduating from public school. In your letter you said that no student of English should ever be without our Thesaurus that is. Well, we presented him with one, and he was delighted. Apparently the principal of their school had recommended that they each acquire one. In fact, we see he almost every bit as much as he does and often wonder how we ever managed to express ourselves vividly without it.

Now I'm coming to you in the hope that you will have a unique suggestion for his younger brother who is in grade six. He is mad about sports and although I would like this present to be something that would help him with his school work (especially arithmetic) I'm afraid he will be disappointed if I give him a book or other academic item.

Am I making life too tough for you with this request, Susanna? —Nan and Gramps

As the man says, the impossible takes a minute or two longer — but we're not beaten. In fact I know of a wee lad with just such a conflict of interests. The gift of a stop watch (the cut-rate kind) nearly made him hysterical with joy. He and his friends time everything they do from swimming to bike riding, which is fine, but here's the bonus. He also times himself doing a certain set of problems or several questions in mechanical arithmetic. He now has a new respect for mathematics, and to everyone's delight, mathematics is gaining a new respect for him. — SUSANNA

SLITHERY, ISN'T IT?

Dear Susanna: A coat of liquid wax on the inside of new or freshly washed metal waste baskets will help to keep particles from sticking. This application also gives the basket a protective coating against the inroads of rust and stains. — No Name

Dear Susanna: Quite by accident I happened to rub my stainless steel sink with a dry synthetic sponge. It shone beautifully. —M. Clendinning

(If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

University Women Hear Talk on Soviet Education

Mrs. Anatoly Dolhitsyn, wife of an attaché of the Russian Embassy, was the guest speaker at the October meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District. Mrs. Dolhitsyn, a graduate of the Moscow Pedagogical Institute of Foreign Languages, spoke on "Education in the Soviet Union".

The speaker said that, when the Soviet Union came into existance in 1917, that 76 per cent of the population were illiterate, but that this was corrected by 1939. Education was first made compulsory in the 1930's, and at the present time the eight-year course beginning at seven years of age is compulsory. It is hoped that by 1970 the ten-year course comparable to a completed Canadian secondary school education, will be compulsory.

After a survey of education in the Soviet Union in 1956, the curriculum was redrawn to combine technical and labor training with general education to end the one-sided theoretical nature of existing education.

The state-operated, co-educational schools provide for continuity and make education accessible to all citizens. The schools, separated from any church influence, are operated on a strictly secular basis. The education budget is double that of any other government budget.

The state provides free education at all levels, from nursery school to university, and pays stipends to students who maintain high scholastic achievement.

Besides the universities in 240 cities, there are many institutes for specialized studies. Moscow University has 30,000 students. Of every 10,000 persons in the Soviet Union, 144 are students. Seventy per cent of the teachers are women.

In the regular schools the teaching of a foreign language is begun in the fifth year, but there are 70 special schools where this teaching is begun in the second year, allowing the students to specialize in English, French, German or Spanish.

Much is done to adapt regular curriculum and methods of instruction to the needs of handicapped and retarded children.

The Soviet Union, by means of delegations and exchange visits, is in contact with educational systems in 80 countries of the world.

Mrs. Dolhitsyn was introduced by Mrs. Douglas Burr and thanked by Mrs. F. H. Bellstedt.

During the preceding business meeting the president, Mrs. R. E. Barrett, drew attention to the fact that the club had been well represented by various members at different conferences recently. Mrs. F. H. Bellstedt and Mrs. R. N. McBride attended a seminar on Continuing Education for Women held at Trenton recently.

Mrs. J. E. Pugh was the club delegate to a Council Meeting held in the Federation of University Women held at Sudbury. Mrs. D. M. Curzon and Mrs. R. N. McBride were members of a panel on Continuing Education for Women held at a regional conference in Cornwall in October. Mrs. Boggs, of the Belleville Club, as Provincial Director of Eastern Ontario, organized the meeting.

Mrs. R. K. Jeffrey has been appointed to the Women's Advisory Committee of the Department of Economics and Development.

WEEKDAY LUNCH DISHES

Herewith is a promise being kept. Many months ago I said I would give you more weekday lunch dishes? Here is one - delightfully luscious! - or spaghetti. But what in the world does Cufondly mean? It is a hybrid word made up of syllables from cu/card, fon/due and soufflé. The recipe was designed for use service in restaurants during Lent in 1962. It became so popular that it is a daily feature in one large restaurant in Toronto.

I have reduced it to serve 6 people. It will bolster your ego to bring delectable casserole from your oven to your lunch table when the children come home from school at noon. If your husband comes home for lunch too, all the better.

MONDAY
Dinner Menu

Baked Lamb Loaf; Curry Sauce; Duchess Potatoes; Parsley Buttered Carrots; Cole Slaw with Chopped Chives and Parsley, Garlic Mayonnaise; Grape Soup with Nutmeg Custard Sauce; Tea.

CUFONDLY MACARONI OR SPAGHETTI (serves 6)

Cook the macaroni or spaghetti in the boiling salted water until tender—13 to 15 minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water to separate pieces. Heat together to scalding point, the milk, butter or margarine, onion, green pepper, parsley and salt. Remove from heat and add crumbs and cheese and mix gently. Stir a little of this mix into the beaten egg yolks, then stir this back into the hot cheese mixture. Add mac aroni. Fold in gently the stiffly beaten egg whites, being careful not to break them down. Butter bottom of large soufflé dish or 3 individual casseroles. Pour into 1 small casserole, and turn soufflé mixture into it, filling 2/3 full. I recommend that you stand these on a large shallow pan containing an inch of water. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes (for large casserole) or about 25 to 30 minutes for smaller dishes. Serve at once.

Note:—If desired, if you have a family, divide mixture into 3 or 4 individual casseroles, and 1 small casserole as suggested. Bake and serve the individual casseroles for first meal, freezer-wrap and freeze small casserole for second meal. To reheat small casserole, it should be taken from freezer, placed in shallow pan containing hot tap water, and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. It does not requ# but it is good.

ROSLIN — The October meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. Bates, Roslin.

Thank-you notes were read from two members.

Arrangements were made to hold a bake sale at Fargey's store in Roslin on October 16.

A card party is to be held in the hall on November 6.

Mrs. H. Sills gave the motto on agriculture. A poem was read by Miss Phyllis Sills and Mrs. Norman White, convener for agriculture, gave highlights of the plowing match.

The guest speaker for the evening, Mr. T. Keilty of Thomasburg, spoke on vertical integration and how it affected the farmer and his family. He said that today a warning has been given on over-expansion. Integration has been encouraged and is feared.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Harrison, when the guest speaker will be Dr. A. Hoesin, Roslin.

LATTER DAY SAINTS W.D.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Department of The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints met at the home of Mrs. S. C. Elsie, 41 Northwood Crescent on Tuesday evening.

The worship period, using the theme "The Everlasting Gospel", was conducted by Mrs. W. G. Cannift, assisted by Mrs. K. Wease, Mrs. Jack McCurdy and Mrs. S. C. Elsie.

The lesson from the book "Modern Women in a Modern World," by Clifford Cole, was taught by Mrs. McCurdy.

The business meeting convened by Mrs. S. C. Elsie in the chair. As a money making project, it was decided to continue the money apron and the travelling food basket again this year. The year books were handed out and completed.

Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed. In the Bible quiz game prizes were won by Mrs. W. L. Cannift and Mrs. Jack McCurdy.

ST. MARGARET'S W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Margaret's W.A. was held recently at a regional conference in Cornwall in October. Mrs. Boggs, of the Belleville Club, as Provincial Director of Eastern Ontario, organized the meeting.

Mrs. R. K. Jeffrey has been appointed to the Women's Advisory Committee of the Department of Economics and Development.

Nurses Being Forced Into Malpractice Says Pamphlet Being Issued

TORONTO (CP)—Registered nurses are being forced into malpractice in the majority of Ontario hospitals," says an 800-page pamphlet of the Committee for the Advancement of Professional Nurses.

"It is malpractice for a registered nurse to dispense drugs," says the publication now in the mails to nurses, doctors and all members of the legislature.

"Yet supervisory staff nurses are forced to do this daily because hospitals fail to provide the required services of a pharmacist at all times. Nurses are told, 'the Ontario Hospital Services Commission does not allow us sufficient funds'. . . ."

Ruth Bolduc and Le Roux, chairman of the committee formed in January, 1964 to work within the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario for reforms in the profession, said in an interview the paper is being circulated because "we want the nurses to know what's going on." The Ontario Hospital Services Commission does not allow us sufficient funds'. . . ."

Mrs. Le Roux said the committee had not been set up to wreck the RNAO but individuals are still understaffed, there is a down-grading of the profession, nursing educators are being coerced to accept objectionable lower standards for the schools of nursing. . . ."

SAYS IT'S 'MESS'

The pamphlet's front page says the nursing profession in Ontario "is in a mess" and as a result nurses eventually may become "nothing more than cheap hospital help."

Patients may suffer or die as a result, it adds.

The pamphlet also says:

—The College of Nurses and the Registered Nurses' Association are collaborating in an arrangement with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and the health department to control nurses' pay, working conditions and education;

—A four-year nurse-training course advocated by Health Minister Matthew Dymond will turn out non-professional nursing technicians;

—That while such a course will help alleviate a nursing shortage, graduates will not be recognized by the nurses' groups in other provinces;

—Within five years the Ontario public will suffer a decline in the quality of nursing care.

Christian Life Theme Of UCW Regional Rally

East Hastings regional rally of United Church Women was held at Halloway United Church on Tuesday, October 19th, 1965. Mrs. Ralph Sills, vice-president of the region, presided. In the opening session Mrs. Sills welcomed all attendees and introduced the theme "Everyday Christian Living," featured a prayer and a fresh perspective on life. For a few moments we should cast off the frustrations of earth, bound thinking and detach ourselves deliberately from moments, days and problems, she said.

Mrs. Alan Lott of Bethel Zion church, presided at the piano throughout the day.

Mrs. Grace Cranefford of Napanee, presented methods and helps on Bible study. Using a theme "Jesus Christ and the Christian Life," she illustrated the use of some accepted methods of devotional and social aids, lecture, and discussion.

Mrs. A. Bennie of Picton, brought the stewardship message with the use of charts. Charts and graphs are used in the work of the church, and Tithe and Above gifts can be used for a college in Jamaica, and a new boat to replace the "Thomas Crosby" on the Pacific coast.

Mrs. Frank Smith of Newburgh, Belleville Presbyterial president, addressed the women and brought greetings, using as her topic "Check This Blueprint." "In life we must have a plan and a purpose. We always wanting to direct us, to guide us, to sustain us. Check your blueprint," she said.

Report of the School of Mission held at Albert College, Belleville, given in modern form with Mrs. D. Tunmon, Mrs. K. Pierson and Mrs. G. McLaren, (substituting for Mrs. John English) taking part.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy, literature secretary, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Good of Stirling, presented the literature in an interesting skit.

A dinner was served by Hallowayladies in the church hall.

A brief worship service opened the afternoon session. Mrs. H. Pierson of Wellington, supply secretary, spoke briefly on supply and welfare and how gifts are appointed at Alderville and Portage La Prairie.

Highlight of the afternoon session was the panel on citizenship and social action, introduced by Mrs. K. Weaver. Mrs. Seldon Homan spoke on "Politics and Religion," Mrs. Frank Hodgen spoke on "Slum of the Dollar," Mrs. H. DeClair on "Youth and the Boiling Seas," Mrs. G. Swan on "The Hungry World," with Mrs. F. Smith as moderator. Following this was a short drama depicting evils of our day, and showing a gambler's elation and deflation.

The congregation participated in community singing, with the call to worship given as a solo by Mrs. Arnold Dilts of Plainfield. Mrs. Ralph Sills read short Scriptural passages based on fellowship and service. This effective worship service brought a profitable and informative day to a close.

The women of the Thomasburg United Church extended an invitation to hold the 1966 rally at their church.

Ann Landers
Girl's Double Gives Her a Hard Time

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 22, a secretary with a problem that is driving me nuts. There's a girl in town who bears a striking resemblance to me. She's a model — the kind who is on call any hour of the day or night. She will pose in various states of dress or undress if the price is right. And finally, she entertains at stag parties as a so-called exotic dancer.

Whenever anyone says, "You look awfully familiar," I get the shakes. I imagine men are nudging each other in elevators and whispering behind my back. This terrible thing is giving me a complex.

When someone says "Haven't I seen you ANN LANDERS before?" shall I tell them about my double and explain that I am a respectable secretary with no sidelines? Help! Help! — CARBON CRISIS.

DEAR CRISIS: Concentrate on letting people know who you are rather than who you aren't. In spite of the striking physical resemblance your manner of speech, dress and general behaviour should easily distinguish you from Miss Double Exposure.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our neighbor died yesterday. We were not close friends but she was a pleasant woman and we were sorry.

My husband and I went over to pay our respects and this is what happened. The woman's son pulled my husband off to the side and asked if we intended to send flowers. My husband replied "Yes." The son said, "We'd rather have the money instead. Mother's illness cost a lot and the funeral will be expensive, too. Do you mind giving me a cheque to help us out?"

My husband was dumbfounded but he took $10 out of his billfold and handed it over.

When we got home he told me about it and I blew my top. My husband asked me to write and get your opinion. He doesn't like anything so terribly wrong with it. Do you? — A. STONISHED.

DEAR A.: I see plenty wrong with it. Friends should not be asked to pitch in to help defray hospital bills and funeral expenses. Your neighbor's son is a clod and I'm sorry your husband fell for his pitch.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Jack and I have been married 14 years. We have six wonderful children.

Jack's parents are people of means. They own a great deal of valuable real estate. The home we live in belongs to them and we live here rent free. His parents even insist on paying the taxes. Jack's three brothers and their families also live in homes owned by their parents.

Jack is a fine, intelligent man and I have great respect for his judgment. His parents feel they can run our lives, dictate what he must do in his work, and they also try to take over the disciplining of our children.

Dozens of times I've wanted to tell my in-laws where to head in but I've kept quiet for my husband's sake. I would live anything if we could live our own lives. But how? — YG. T.

DEAR YG. T.: When you decide you want to lead your own lives so badly that you are willing to start paying rent, you will take the first step toward independence. Your in-laws feel justified in running your lives since they are keeping the roof over your heads. If it's my opinion you want, here it is: You'd be happier in a broom closet over a bowling alley. So move already.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don't," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Glimpse of 21st Century Is Given Quinte Graduates By Commencement Speaker

Valedictory Address

Thomas Muskiluke, a 1965 graduate of Quinte Secondary School said now a student at Waterloo University, delivered the valedictory at Quinte's graduation exercises Saturday. The content of his address following Mr. Reid, our distinguished guests, faculty, parents, and friends. We have reached a crossroad in our lives. For some of us it is the beginning of a completely new educational experience and for others it is the end of our formal education. Even while we stand here in eager anticipation of the future we find ourselves, especially in these familiar surroundings, reminded of our happy years at Quinte Secondary School.

"About five days ago, when we first entered Quinte, this evening was but a date in the future. Now that we've begun high school we gained many friends and have learned through the many new experiences placed before us.

"Quinte has always offered us a great variety of extra-curricular activities which have proved to be beneficial to most us. Not only on the team but also in the bleachers have we learned to understand the meaning of the word "sportsmanship." From our experience in clubs at Quinte we have learned to get along with others.

"During our high school days we have had two successful dramatic productions: "Annie Get Your Gun" and "The Boyfriend." We have also had a variety of talent shows. Some of us have participated in these to help make them a success.

"When our school was under construction we had a great number of difficulties to overcome. Many of us had classes in our portable classrooms, which at one time served as hen-houses. Since we were forced out of the gym that year we had our physical education classes in the swimming pool at Top's Motor Hotel throughout the winter. I can recall always running out of the dressing room with towels wrapped around them in order that they would not miss their next class. This is just one of the many examples which show the true living desire to learn found in all Quinte students. We will never forget the view of Mr. Reid yelling: "Either you hurry up and get out of there, girls, or I'll come in."

MANY REMEMBRANCES

"Also everyone remembers our school spirit and the various formals at which both staff and students alike have enjoyed themselves. All these things have made a deep impression on our memories. However throughout high school the classroom has been most important to us. We have received that education for which we sought admission and a training that will stand us in good stead throughout our lives.

"Now that our high school years have come to an end we have an obligation to ourselves, our parents, our schools, our fellow man, and our country. It is an obligation to make life better by choosing from our accumulated store of knowledge those things, which are good and helpful and worth preserving. All of this very naturally turns our thoughts to those who have played such an important part in our individual successes.

"On behalf of the members of this graduating class I would like to thank Mr. Reid for the excellent leadership that he has given Quinte since its opening. We are pleased to see that he has recovered from the illness which he suffered during the last school term.

"We are also proud of our Quinte District High School Board. It is they who are responsible for making schools like Quinte possible.

"We would like to extend a note of gratitude to Mr. Hayman, who has served very efficiently as Vice-Principal, during year he worked especially hard to make things run smoothly at Quinte.

"How much has it meant to us, confused and bewildered as we have been at times, to know that in members of the staff we would find interested listeners and counsellors, even though we have been difficult on many occasions.

"We owe them a debt of gratitude that can only be repaid over a long period of time. They may never realize their full and beneficial influence; but we shall never forget their kindly and thoughtful advice.

PARENTS THANKED

"Although we owe a great deal to those who make a school function we must not forget the rather large part played by our parents. We thank them for the patience, understanding, and encouragement they have given us.

"At this time I would like to say a few words to those who will be taking our places in future years. Put all you can into your high school life and your rewards will be great. It is our sincere wish that all the delightful and valuable experiences, which have been ours will in due course be yours.

"Tonight, however, all of this lies behind us as we face the future: a future which has many faces. We must now say good-bye to this institution that we have all learned to respect and love. We are just ready to reach for that ,goal toward which we have been striving so earnestly. I wonder if we can quite fully the responsibility that is ours. Our school has established for itself an enviable reputation and ours is the responsibility to maintain...that high standard.

"Each of us will now attempt his chosen task in life. We must now go out into the middle of the stream of life and face the dangers, the hardships, and the disappointments that are pushed around by the force of the water.

"In spite of this, we shall face the future with optimism, with courage, and with determination. Our ambitions will no doubtedly take us far afield, but wherever we may be, we shall profit by the principles and precepts acquired during our association with Quinte Secondary School.

The 21st century, the neglect of human relations and the challenges of being future leaders were the themes of an address given by E. A. Orr, Superintendent of the Secondary Education, Bay of Quinte District High School Board, to the parents and students at Quinte Secondary School's Graduation Exercises Saturday evening.

Mr. Orr spoke to the over 200 students gathered at Quinte to receive their various diplomas, scholarships and other prizes.

The speaker told of General Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board of the Radio Corporation of America, who says of the 21st century that there will be homes run by finger touch, with 30 years of light heat and cooling power buried in a suitcase - sized battery in the basement, freight shot across the continent by missile; food enough for all harvested from the sea and out of space; rain at the push of a button; and man working only two hours a day.

Mr. Orr said: "Recently I passenger in a taxicab noticed a sign with she wording. All that it said was "Be Courteous." I asked the driver what he thought about the sign and he replied, But I think it means you've got to be courteous."

"I admit," Mr. Orr continued, "that this applies to us all but we, perhaps we also seen nothin' yet.

NO ROOM AT BOTTOM

"Even today there is no room at the bottom of the ladder in occupational skills. Those who are not being left by the roadside are those people who can demonstrate their ability to learn new skills and are able to see ahead.

"To the degree that we have taught you to be resourceful, to be adaptable, to be willing to roll with the punch, and to think for yourselves, we have provided you with the type of education you require as you face the 21st century."

The speaker's second theme was that in our "things-centered and science-minded society of the 20th century we have tended to neglect human relations, ethics and morality."

Many of the next generation are being saddled with problems resulting from this neglect. And these problems will only be solved when each of us recognizes that he is indeed his brother's keeper. We have rugged individualism, whether it be a personal or national one, cannot lead to anything but the destruction of democracy. Concepts of service, sacrifice and sensitivity to others must be given a prominent place in our philosophy."

NEED A PURPOSE

The third theme was that many persons do not know where they are going and consequently seem to care.

"What is your purpose in life? Are you convinced that you have a mission in life that no one else can fulfill? Or are you content to go along with the crowd?

"Ladies and gentlemen in the 1965 graduating class of Quinte Secondary School, you who will live in the 21st century. I challenge you tonight, yes, I dare you, to be done with lesser things and to become the leaders, the thinkers, the doers, the men of power and action, the men who will step out from the crowd and lead your generation to better and higher living."

L. F. Reid, principal of Quinte, also addressed the graduates briefly and extended a cordial welcome to all in attendance.

"Those who have graduated," he said, "have cast a great deal of credit upon themselves and their families, their friends, their parents, their homes and their community.

"I have two suggestions to offer to the graduates tonight; one, if you ever consider some project, some activity, don't be dissuaded from it just because someone said it was impossible; and two, this: when you are talking to anyone about anything that is important, you will never go wrong if you speak but rather you will say, "That is an interesting question. I will find out."

BRINGS GREETINGS

C. R. Rowe, Chairman, Bay of Quinte District High School Board brought greetings from the board to students and parents from the Board.

Rev. Quinte School orchestra and all girls choir, added considerable color to the ceremonies.

There were a great many "surprises" in the presentation of graduation diplomas, and one graduate, Joseph Rabel, hobbled to the stage on crutches to receive his diploma.

Thomas Muskiluke was valedictorian of the class.

Mr. Orr delivered the invocation.

The following received graduation certificates:

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are considering doing some extensive travelling and we are concerned about costs, driving, motels, meals, etc. Do you have a standard rule to follow as how to keep costs down, or how much it would cost a day for two people just on travelling, not counting the fringes? — L. J. M., Belleville

ANSWER: One problem that continues to plague the traveller is figuring what a car trip will cost. He can't get fare quotations for his destination as he could if he went by plane, train or bus.

Best way to estimate your costs is on a per day basis, starting with a base figure of $30 for one couple travelling an average of 300 miles a day, staying at motels along the route.

This figure, breaks down this way: $7 for gasoline and oil, $10 for accommodation, $11 for meals and $2 for miscellaneous expenditures. Two couples making the same trip in one car could cut this cost by about $10 per couple — because gasoline price would remain more or less constant and they could usually find a motel where a better rate would be given for a group of four.

But say $30 a day was out of the question for you? Do you have to forget about the whole thing? Not really. There are several ways of cutting costs.

Millions of North Americans have already discovered the one way which slashes both meals and accommodation costs to a small fraction of the above. They've joined the camping ranks, cooking their meals for the same price they would pay at home and cutting their accommodation costs to from 50 cents to $2 a-night once they have paid for their equipment.

Camp grounds have sprung up all over the continent and its easy to get their locations. In Ontario, for example, the department of tourism and information will supply a complete guide to sites in the province free. The Ontario Motor League issues members with a campground directory locating sites across the continent, and such commercial publications as "Camping Maps of Canada" are sold for as little as $1.

Another way to slice costs is to stay at guest houses. Accommodation may be $5 a night this way, and even less in the Maritimes where almost every town has a guest house. You can find their addresses in larger centres through the yellow pages in the phone book, and resort areas such as Cape Cod have guest houses listed in their vacation guides.

But getting back to the couple paying $30 a day, they can figure the cost of the trip from, say here to the west coast along the Trans - Canada, simply by knowing that Vancouver is almost 3,000 miles away. Doing only a leisurely 300 miles a day would cost them a total of $600 for the return trip, not counting those inevitable souvenirs and such things as nightlife splurges. If they did 500 miles a day, their travel costs would be substantially less despite their gasoline costs rising to about $22 a day from $7.

The saving would be in motel costs — a total of about $120 rather than $200.

Larger families can often make deals with motels so that only a small extra charge is made for children. But remember meals' costs will still work out to about $5 a person, unless their children are very young or you eat plenty of picnic lunches. One thing you can't count on saving on is the $2 for miscellaneous (i.e., things you hadn't counted on) expenses. You'll spend at least that much extra on any trip.

SCOUT LEADER ENDS GLOBE TROTTING — The underdeveloped nations of Africa and South America provide the best field for expansion in the international Boy Scout movement says retiring director D. C. Spry. Gen. Spry, 52, has travelled the world on behalf of scouting in the last 12 years as director of the Scouts' World Bureau. He went into the organization after the Second World War.

Scouts' World Bureau Head, Gen. D. C. Spry, Is Retiring

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—For years a tall, lean Canadian with a trim moustache and military bearing has travelled the world on behalf of the boy scouts.

Now D. C. Spry, the major-general son of a major-general, has put down his suitcase and called it a day as director of the scouts' world bureau. His duties end officially Oct. 31.

He held the scout movement's top professional job for 12 years and was Ottawa director for two years before that.

Deputy Director R. T. Lund becomes acting director and a special committee has been set up to choose a permanent successor.

The 52-year-old Gen. Spry steps out of scouting and into private business as president of a property investment and development firm.

"It's a completely new life for me," he told an interviewer in the seventh-floor midtown Ottawa apartment he shares with his wife, the former Elizabeth Forbes of Halifax whom he married in 1939. They have a son, Toby, 19, away in school, and a daughter, Mrs. David Gowing of Toronto.

A soft - spoken, ruddy - faced, youthful - looking grandfather, Dan Spry embarked on his first career in 1931 when he quit part way through his course at Dalhousie University, Halifax, and joined the army. He was following in the footsteps of his late father, Maj. - Gen. D. W. P. Spry.

GENERAL AT 31

The young Spry went into the Second World War as an infantry lieutenant. Before it was over he was a major-general at 31, youngest in the Allied forces.

He saw a lot of the war. From brigade commander in Italy he rose to the command of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division for the 1944 push through France and Germany.

After helping repatriate Canadian troops at war's end, he served as vice-chief of the general staff before leaving to start his second career.

The Canadian boy scouts' organization approached him to take the job as chief executive commissioner and he accepted. He helped the Canadian movement through post-war reorganization, then went to the suitcase job of international scouting.

During his tenure membership doubled and now stands at more than 10,000,000. Gen. Spry predicts the growth will continue but says "we're holding a mirror to ourselves to see how we need to adjust to changing conditions."

Whatever expansion occurs will not bring the Western-oriented scouts into Communist countries, however. Scouts are not permitted in Iron Curtain countries. The Cuba movement was shut down by Fidel Castro.

So - called underdeveloped countries in Africa and elsewhere provide a good field for expansion and Gen. Spry says some ask the bureau to set up scout organizations as an informal educational adjunct to the school system.

NEED FLEXIBILITY

"You have to have an elastic program to fit the needs of each country," he says. The needs of a boy in the jungle had to be met and the scout bureau tried to "bend the program" to do it.

But from Gen. Spry's farewell message in his report to the 20th world conference it's evident the safe and simple virtues remain scouting's foundation stone.

He asked scout leaders to "ensure that boys become men who have faith that good overcomes evil, that confidence conquers fear and that love and compassion illuminate m a n ' s roadway to peace and happiness."

In pursuit of the ideal and in the more practical work of raising funds, Gen. Spry has averaged 100,000 flying miles a year from the bureau's headquarters in Ottawa.

It was moved here from England in 1957 partly to emphasize the neutrality of the movement in world affairs. The bureau was in London during the Suez crisis when British troops went into Egypt. This placed the bureau in the capital of one of the belligerents.

Travel has always been part of Gen. Spry's life. He was born in Winnipeg Feb. 4, 1913, received some early education in England, attended Western Canada College in Calgary, the city where he got into the scout movement, and later attended Halifax Academy before entering Dalhousie.

His new job will involve some travelling but he'll no longer spend six or seven months a year on the road. It may even leave more time for fishing, hunting and collecting stamps. Back trouble has ended such earlier recreations as skiing and mountain-climbing.

C. of C. Urges Members to Push Voting

MARMORA — Ron Stephens, vice-president, presided at the October dinner meeting of Marmora Chamber of Commerce, held at the Royal Hotel on Monday. He advised that Mr. E. P. Cheasson from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Montreal, will be visiting Marmora on Thursday, November 11th, and arrangements will be made for members of the local Chamber to meet with him on this date. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has requested members to stress in every possible way to "vote as you like, but vote."

Members voted to award a $100 scholarship, to a grade 13 student at Marmora High School. This is one of the projects formerly undertaken by the Kiwanis Club.

Christmas lighting of the streets will again be looked after by the Chamber of Commerce and Leith Stetson agreed to act as chairman.

Guest speaker, introduced by Mr. Stephens, was Mr. Stan Shippman, secretary-manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. He spoke of the many phases of Chamber of Commerce work and stated that the Ontario Department of Education will sponsor courses from the community Chamber of Commerce on such subjects as business management and marketing. He further stressed the importance of everyone having a good interest in his own community and said that the local Chamber of Commerce is dependent on volunteers to help them in their activities.

He was thanked by Leith Stetson. A short question and answer period followed.

Arden

ARDEN — Mr. and Mrs. James Grant and family of Oshawa spent the weekend with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rogers of Kingston visited the latter's mother, Mrs. Ivan Ferrier and Mr. Ferrier on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Loyst of Toronto spent the weekend at their cottage at Big Clear Lake.

Mrs. Merrick Newton and daughter Ruthie called on friends in Tweed Friday.

Mr. James Thomas of Oshawa visited friends here recently.

Mr. Patrick Gregor of Camp Petawawa is spending some time with his aunt, Mrs. Laura Martinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson and son Allan of Belleville spent the holiday weekend with Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Loyst.

Mr. and Mrs. John Truelove of Perth spent Saturday with the latter's son, Mr. Ivan Ferrier and Mrs. Ferrier.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Van Ness and daughter of Belleville visited the former's sister, Mrs. Ethnell Hayes recently.

Mr. James Thompson has returned home after spending three weeks with friends at Timmins.

BLAMES PLANS

TORONTO (CP) — A social worker says a clause in the Ontario and federal medical care plans prevents thousands of Canadians from obtaining psychiatric help. Dr. Frank J. Rubenstein of Colorado State College said in an interview both plans have a clause that states payment for psychiatric services can be made only to licenced physicians, preventing psychologists and psychiatric social workers from obtaining remuneration for services.

Opposition to White Rule Reduced by Africans' Split

Disunity among Rhodesia's African nationalist leaders is a major stumbling block to prospects for black rule in the country. This story by a Canadian Press reporter sets forth the differences between the moderate and extreme nationalist positions.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

SALISBURY (CP) — Rhodesia's African leaders, jailed and outlawed, say discontent is growing among their people who outnumber the white rulers by 18 to 1.

But the African leaders' are split among themselves, which is one of the reasons why they have been unable to mount a serious assault on the regime of Premier Ian Smith.

And Smith, asked about this obstructing tendency among the Africans, told me:

"This is a fact that you have got to recognize as part and parcel of Africa—tribalism. Certain phenomena come about blissfully and they think they can introduce Western civilization like that. Africa works in Africa—my God, they have another thing coming."

Josiah Mooses Gondo, 50, leader of the opposition United People's Party in the Legislative Assembly, countered in another interview that moderate and extreme nationalists are working for the same thing and he sees signs of them getting together.

LABELLED STOOGE

Both nationalist parties—ZAPU and ZANU, both names based on Zimbabwe, ancient name for the Rhodesian region —now are banned and their leaders in detention, restriction or exile. George Nyandoro, secretary - general of ZAPU, reached in neighboring Zambia, said Gondo is a "stooge."

Gondo, butcher and one-time school teacher, is the first black African to be leader of the opposition. He was catapulted into the position after Smith eliminated all white opposition last May in an election.

He moved into the office previously occupied by David Butler, chief of the swamped Rhodesian Party, and inherited a white secretary whose salary is paid by the government formed by Smith's Rhodesian Front.

Gondo doesn't sound like a stooge but he makes remarks verging on political suicide by criticizing the Africans themselves as well as the whites. He declined to estimate how long before majority rule may be expected but added:

"I can say that if at the time of the 1961 constitution the Africans had responded and registered on the voters roll . . . the time would have been much shorter than I now have begun to expect."

IMPOSED BOYCOTT

This was a reference to a boycott imposed by Joshua Nkomo, ZAPU leader now under restriction, following the adoption of the new constitution which opened a limited path to the polling booth for Africans.

Yet Gondo said flatly the protection of his people's rights will be achieved not by "a piece of paper"—the constitution—but by extension of the right to vote. The constitution could be revoked or changed later by a white Rhodesian government after attaining independence from Britain.

Smith's threats to make a unilateral declaration of independence, said Gondo, might win the sympathy of South Africa and Portugal but "I doubt whether it will win us any friends among other countries."

"I don't believe that any new

Josiah Mooses Gondo is leader of the opposition United People's Party in the Rhodesia Legislative Assembly.

Rhodesia's leadership is endeavoring to seek will be in a position to take the quantities of sugar and tobacco we have been selling to the Commonwealth countries."

In this Gondo was referring to the Commonwealth preference extended by Britain, Canada and other countries which would be lost by UDI.

"We have great fears as to what this government might do," Gondo declared. "The feeling among the people is one of disappointment and confusion."

Nyandoro, 38, interviewed at Lusaka, capital of Zambia, detailed that Chinese advisers have taken a hand in the ZAPU movement although some of its publicity has a Communist ring and Smith claims it is inspired by Peking.

Nyandoro maintained that 18,000 persons are in jail, in detention or under restriction in Rhodesia and that 25 men are awaiting execution. Detention, he said, means that a man was subject to prison laws but did not have to work to prison rules. Restriction simply meant that a man must stay in a remote area, as now is the case with Nkomo.

Asked when the Africans might rise against the Smith government, Nyandoro replied: "It's already happened. There are these 25 men waiting to die."

Gondo — interviewed earlier —reflected none of these extreme views but indicated especial intolerance from "other side filled him with dismay.

"About two years ago my shop was wrecked by an African mob because I did not go along with Nkomo," he said. "Ironically, about the same time I was turned away from a white hotel and told to eat in a back room when I was busy helping Sir Edgar Whitehead (then leader of the opposition) with a campaign of racial partnership."

Tomorrow: Vast irrigation scheme transforming bushland.

Key Figure In Sex Scandal Is Married

READING, England (Reuters)—Christine Keeler, key figure in a sex-and-security scandal which rocked the British government in 1963, is married and wants to start a "fresh life," she told reporters Saturday night.

Miss Keeler, 23, married James Levermore, a 24-year-old engineer, at a registry office here in a secretly-arranged ceremony Friday.

She was associated with War Minister John Profumo at the same time as she was seeing a Russian naval attache in 1963. Profumo resigned his post after denying in the House of Commons rumors of impropriety with the chestnut-haired model.

Dr. Stephen Ward, a 50-year-old London society osteopath who introduced Miss Keeler and Profumo, committed suicide after he was found guilty of vice charges involving Miss Keeler and Mandy Rice-Davies, who was then 18.

Miss Keeler and her bridegroom spent the weekend together at a small bungalow in East Berkshire. With them was her stepfather, Ted Hulah.

"We're very happy and the whole family approves of the wedding," she said. "Now I want to put the past behind me and start a fresh life."

Citizens Vote In Liquor Plebiscite

CAMPBELLFORD — Monday October 25, the citizens of Campbellford will be asked to vote on whether or not lounges and dining lounges where liquor may be served can be established in Campbellford.

Two ballots are to be marked. One is "Are you in favor of the sale of liquor under a lounge license for consumption on licenced premises?" The other is, "Are you in favor of the sale of liquor under a dining lounge licence for consumption with meals on licenced premises?"

This appears to be a quieter campaign than previous ones. Leaflets have been forwarded to citizens outlining the two sides of the question. Douglas Maybee, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, heads the campaign for the "wet" supporters, while Dr. D. M. Smith and M. Sayers of St. John's United Church with William Nicholas of Campbellford Baptist Church, head the "dry" campaign.

Those in favor of a "yes" vote, say a better economy for the town will result because of increased buying by tourists who could buy liquor in Campbellford rather than going elsewhere. The argument appears to be that if they want liquor they will buy it, if not in Campbellford, then in other centres.

The "dry" argument is based on a human welfare basis. Its supporters claim fewer accidents from drinking drivers, fewer alcoholics, fewer broken homes and neglected children, will result if the citizens vote "no."

The decisions has been left to the conscience of the general public. Monday's poll will decide the issue.

spacecraft would be removed from the rocket and replaced by the Gemini 7 vehicle, which is being made ready for a 14-day flight in December. Gemini 6 would be rescheduled in February when another Atlas-Agena can be ready.

—If Gemini 6 were 40 seconds late getting off the pad, the linkup with the Agena would be postponed to the fifth orbit. If the delay were more than 100 seconds, it would be put off until orbit No. 6. A 270-second delay would push it off to the 16th orbit Tuesday and automatically make it a two-day mission.

—If the two vehicles fail to unlatch after being joined, the astronauts would trigger explosive bolts to break the connection. Should this fail, they would have to attempt a dangerous re-entry with the 7,000-pound Gemini capsule—2,000 pounds of it fuel—attached.

Liberals Practice Divide and Rule Formula Dinsdale Tells PC Workers

By HARRY MULHALL

The Liberal government has played "fast and loose" with national unity and helped create a crisis in Confederation, Walter Dinsdale, northern affairs minister in the Diefenbaker government said here Saturday.

The Liberals were also attempting to brainwash Canadians over this fundamental election issue in their call for majority government, he told a meeting at the Hastings South Conservative committee rooms of Lee Grills.

"The Liberals practice a divide-and-rule formula. They play one part of the country off against the other," he charged.

"Before their formula was to hold Quebec solidly and split the rest of the country," Mr. Dinsdale added.

"We have never played fast and loose with national unity for the sake of party or political expediency."

Had the Conservatives wished to perpetuate themselves in power they would never have formulated such programs as northern development. Instead they could have concentrated on one of the big central provinces.

"It's going to be in Ontario in 1965 where the election is going to be won," he warned party workers.

In 1963 the Conservatives came out of the province with 28 seats to the Liberals' 52.

"This in 1965 is going to be reversed," he added, predicting a Conservative win of 50 seats.

The Liberals, charged Mr. Dinsdale, "also helped to create or intensify a crisis in Confederation by bringing in subjects (to Parliament) that divide us rather than unite.

GIVES EXAMPLES

An example was the national flag, although he did not propose to debate that issue, said Mr. Dinsdale.

"A (political) party only exists in Canada in order to serve the nation and not to be served by that nation," he said.

Yet Mr. Pearson had called the election against the serious advice of political commentators.

When a prime minister follows such a course "he is more interested in his party than he is in the welfare of his nation and that's not good enough —and the people will deal with that at the polls when it comes on November 8th."

Harking back to the disintegration of the Diefenbaker cabinet in 1963 Mr. Dinsdale said he was proud to be a member of a party where men resigned over a difference of opinion.

"These men chose the only honorable course under our parliamentary institutions — they resigned."

Yet, there were three Cabinet members in the Pearson government who should resign. SAYS PEOPLE CONFUSED

"I don't understand it; and no wonder the people of Canada are confused and no wonder so many are uncommitted."

"You can't have a strong government unless you have a strong leader and Mr. Pearson is not a strong leader," he said.

Mr. Dinsdale charged there was "a shadow of scandal hovering over the highest court in the land." It could not be dispelled "until the Prime Minister, as is his responsibility, removes those men who are responsible."

TRIED ANIMALS FIRST

The first translusion of human blood was made in England in 1818, after more than 150 years of unsuccessful experiments with animal blood.

500 Greet J. Diefenbaker At Station

NAPANEE — Mr. John Diefenbaker whistle stopped at the Napanee station Saturday morning to be greeted by Mr. D. Alkenbrack MP for Prince Edward-Lennox, Norris Whitney MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox, Earl McEwen P. C. candidate for Kingston and old colleague of Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. George Tustin former MP for P. E. L. along with a crowd of about 500 people.

Mrs. Elwood Brown, president of Lennox Ladie's Progressive Conservative Association presented Mrs. Diefenbaker with a lovely corsage as she stepped from the train. Mr, Diefenbaker and his wife pressed through the milling crowd of people with many from Prince Edward County to shake hands with as many as they could and took special time to visit the workers on the railroad. His intended stay was for 30 minutes but lasted for over 40 minutes.

Mr. Diefenbaker returned to Belleville and thence to Hastings, Campbellford and to a rally in Peterborough Saturday night.

After the meeting the crowd gathered at the Dupdas St., committee rooms of Doug Alkenbrack to be served tea and coffee.

WOMAN WARDEN WINS

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Tessie Gregg, Bruce County's first woman warden and reeve of Lion's Head, defeated Reeve Ernie Greer of Kincardine Township in the county's annual plowing match Saturday. They were the only contestants in the event for county municipal officials.

Where do you stand on the Canada Pension Plan?

Mr. Richard
To be honest, I haven't really given it much thought.

Interviewer
Well, it is going to affect nearly everybody in Canada, one way or another, whether you are self-employed, or are working for someone else.
Of course, each case can vary as to benefits and amount of pension.

Mr. Richard
Where can I find out how these things fit together? Sounds pretty complicated.

Interviewer
Call your nearest Mutual Life of Canada Representative. He's qualified to show you exactly what benefits you can expect.

Mr. Richard
I know I'll get a pension at 65. I'm not sure it will be enough.

Interviewer
You can make sure. For example —the addition of a retirement Income Plan from The Mutual Life could well make the difference between just "getting by" —or really enjoying your retirement years.

A note to the prominent Canadians who insist that Bell should be owned by Canadians.

They've overlooked one small point. Bell is already 93.6% Canadian-owned.

People who are uneasy about foreign control of Canadian companies needn't worry about Bell. For the fact is, the ownership of Bell is overwhelmingly Canadian. Of 208,000 shareholders, over 203,000 are Canadian residents, and they hold 93.6% of the total shares. The little tag line you see at the bottom of Bell advertisements means just what it says. And since it's important that people know the facts about one of Canada's most important public service companies, we'll go on putting it in. Here it is again.

SAFE
UNQUESTIONABLY! OIL HEAT

Fuel oil is non-explosive.
You could actually extinguish a lighted match in it with complete safety.
And this is only one of the reassuring advantages of oil heating.

Non-explosive heating oil burns only when atomized and ignited inside the sealed combustion chamber of your furnace. You have no worries about safety, or about interruptions in your fuel supply. Safely stored within your home you have your own oil supply, automatically maintained by the oil dealer of your choice, who gives you personalized, no-cost service. All modern fuels are safe, of course, if handled with proper care. Oil, however, is safe under all conditions.

Less cost—continuously! Depending on where you live, you can save $50 or more every year on fuel bills by choosing oil instead of gas—and save much, much more by choosing oil instead of electricity.

A home with safe, clean, dependable oil heat is a more valuable home. Insist on oil heat when you buy or build.

Clean—extraordinarily! Dark streaks above vents and radiators occur with all systems—oil, gas, electricity—but not because of the heating fuel. The cause is dust and grime entering the house and circulating in heated air.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The Excellfers of sport have set a table in Toronto this weekend that should attract the gourmets of athletics from Aklavik to Bali-Bali.

If you like hors-d'oeuvres of pigskin, soccer garnished with Italian and Argentinian sauces, hockey under glass topped off with punch a la Terrell Chuvalo, this is your dish.

If you can wangle passes through a "trigger" of the Toronto Rifles; an attache of the Italian or Argentinian consulates; a nose-rubber of Imlach, Clancy or Smythe and a pinochle pal of one of the beak-busters' sparmates, you're in the clear.

Otherwise if you're four-coursing this banquet of bang, bash, body-check and bump, you'd better draw heavily on the mother-lode in the trust company, the spouse's cookie jar and Junior's piggy bank.

If you're one of the tax mountaineers who grab entertainment exemptions from the revenooeers, put down the tab of three nights in a downtown Muddy York inn. Put it down any way.

Then there's the cost of the normal intake of food. Cocktail-lounging, night-clubbing, perhaps a spot of pub-crawling, and other post-event high jinks will widen the hole in the wallet.

Tuck away a couple of half-century notes in the secret compartment. One of these will get you a spot at the Chuvalo - Terrell embroglio so close to the combat you'll be able to tell which are the principals used their daily splash of deodorant.

The other "fifty-spot," I'm told, will get you a location in Varsity Stadium on Sunday with Toronto soccerdom's Italian and Argentinian aristocracy, not to mention many of the hometown blue-bloods.

I am told the tops for the Toronto Rifles - Newark Bears Continental Football League scheduled for Maple Leaf Stadium Friday, October 29th, is $7.50. Most know the tab at Maple Leaf Gardens for the Saturday night brawl between the Leafs and Detroit Red Wings (If you can get your place).

But you can "Scrooge" on the tabs if the family exchequer cannot afford throne-side chesterfields. You can hit the highway and spend part of the luns' bill at wayside service stations. You can "night-club" it in the back seat of the family jalopy with the radio and a hamburg.

You can get a pigeon's-view of the fisticuffs which is billed "for the heavyweight championship of the world" from the Garden's rafters for a measly five-spot. You can see the hockey tilt from the same spot for decidedly less.

Be that as it may. Toronto this weekend is offering perhaps the most elaborate sports extravaganza unequalled as a package on the continent.

In capsule form it is this: Friday, Toronto Rifles versus Newark Bears, Maple Leaf Stadium; Saturday night Red Wings and Leafs at the Gardens; Sunday 2.00 p.m. international soccer featuring Italy's first division contender Napoli playing Independiente of Argentina, a finalist in this year's world cup matches.

The icing on this sports cake is the heavyweight battle between Canada's George Chuvalo and the United States' Ernie Terrell at the Gardens Monday night.

So it's each to his own or if you can stand the financial traffic—all for one.

I haven't heard much "street talk" here about the fight but city soccer fans are agog over seeing two of the highest priced stars in the history of the game.

They are Sivori and Allaflni, two stars on Napoli's team who were recently purchased from Juventus, a first division club in Italy for (get this) $450,000 and $400,000 respectively.

And this was a strictly cash deal—not a Mahovlich million-dollar myth.

Soccer Game Postponed

The Kingston District Soccer League "B" Championship game between Parsons Cleaners and Batawa scheduled for Saturday was postponed because of wet grounds.

The game has been rescheduled for Zwick's Island Saturday Oct. 30, kickoff at 4 p.m.

The Canadiens, last year's Stanley Cup champions, blasted Detroit Red Wings 8-1 before 14,803 fans at the Forum Saturday night.

Hull scored three goals to help Chicago Black Hawks down Toronto 4-0 at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday.

In Sunday's games, the Canadiens defeated New York 4-3. Chicago overpowered Boston Bruins 6-2 and Detroit blanked Toronto 3-0.

At Montreal Saturday, Jean Beliveau and Bobby Rousseau each fired two goals for the Canadiens and assisted on two others.

Dickie Duff, Gilles Tremblay, Jean-Guy Talbot and Jacques Laperriere scored singles. Laperriere also had three assists.

Bruce MacGregor scored Detroit's lone goal.

In New York Sunday, Montreal capitalized on Ranger penalties for two quick goals in the third period for their second straight victory.

The Canadiens got goals from John Ferguson, defenceman Terry Harper and right wingers Yvan Cournoyer and Claude Provost. New York scorers were Lou Angotti, Bob Nevin and John McKenzie.

Hull, who scored 29 goals last season, scored twice in the first period and once in the final stanza as Glenn Hall chalked up the first shutout of the season Saturday. He was called on to make 21 saves while Johnny Bower, in the Leaf nets, handled 25 shots.

Chicago's fourth goal was scored by right wing Ken Wharram.

Wharram and Doug Mohns scored two goals each for Chicago's second win while centre Bill Hay and Hull netted singles. Boston's goals were scored by Ron Stewart and Ed Westfall.

Roger Crozier, who was in the Red Wing nets against Montreal Saturday, was in between the pipes Sunday as Detroit blanked the Leafs.

The Wings scored in every period on goals by Paul Henderson, Norm Ullman, last season's leading goal-scorer, and Andy Bathgate.

Argos Nip Riders; Cats Clinch Top

Edge Larks 6-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts managed only one field goal in their first four 11 Eastern Football Conference games, but they've booted six in their last two outings and used them to defeat Ottawa Rough Riders 17-15 Sunday in Ottawa.

The Argos, losers of their first nine games but winners in three of their last four, came from behind in the final 15 seconds on a field goal by John Villnas.

It was the third field goal of the afternoon for Villnas, who also kicked three the week before.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats locked up first place and a bye into the EFC finals by defeating Montreal Alouettes 6-2 Saturday in Montreal.

The results left all four positions in the conference decided with Ottawa second, Montreal third and Toronto last.

About all that remains to be determined in next weekend's windup games is the individual scoring championship duel between kickers Moe Racine of Ottawa and Don Getty of Hamilton, who are battling for the honor, Racine leading with 74 points and Sutherin second with 68.

ALS PLAY RIDERS

Montreal plays at Ottawa Saturday and Sunday Toronto is at Hamilton. Afterwards, the Als and the Rough Riders prepare for their sudden-death semi-final in Ottawa Nov. 6, the winners meeting the Ticats in a two-game, total-points series for the right to represent the East in the Grey Cup game Nov. 27 in Toronto.

A crowd of 13,487 sat in 40-degree weather and saw Villnas kick his three field goals and convert Larry Key's second touchdown. Dave Mann's 40-yard single accounted for the other Toronto point.

Ron Stewart crashed over from the two in the final quarter and Whit Tucker hauled in a pass from Russ Jackson in the second quarter for Ottawa touchdowns. Racine converted both. Bill Cline added a single on a punt.

Toronto waited until the final minute before pulling it out. They tied the score 14-14 on Mann's single but the Riders went ahead 15-14 on Cline's single with less than a minute to go. A pass interference penalty which the Argos protested to no avail set up the Rough Rider score.

LISKE HITS BROSNAN

But the Argos marched right back and set up the winning goal when quarterback Pete Liske hit flanker Pat Brosnan with a 35-yard pass. Villnas then made good on his third field goal attempt.

Ottawa picked up 22 first downs to 21 for Toronto. The Riders rushed for 172 yards'and completed 14 passes for 173 yards. The Argos picked up 190 yards rushing, and completed 15 of 26 passes for 183 more yards.

The Ticats accused of lacking scoring punch, got all they needed Saturday on a single by Joe Zuger, a 32-yard field goal by Sutherin and a two-point safety touch. Montreal's points came on a pair of singles by Charlie Baillie, who was trying for field goals but kicked wide.

Before the game, Commissioner Terry Evanshen received the Grues Award as the outstanding rookie in the Eastern Football Conference's Bernie Faloney received the Jeff Russel Trophy as the player best combining sportsmanship and ability.

Faloney had his trophy presented for football championship and quality for a Nov. 7 clash with the Manitoba champions.

Clippers Vault Into Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore Clippers vaulted into first place in the American Hockey League's eastern division Sunday night, displacing Quebec Aces by beating them 6-2 after having drubbed Springfield Indians 3-1 Saturday.

Springfield, meanwhile, held Providence Reds out of a first-place tie by beating them 6-4 while Hershey Bears edged Buffalo Bisons 2-1 in other Sunday games.

Saturday, in an interlocking game, Cleveland Barons fell 5-2 to Los Angeles Blades of the Western League while Providence edged Hershey 3-2, Pittsburgh Hornets bounced Buffalo and Quebec hammered Rochester 5-2 in the 6-3 series.

Their loss to the Clippers was the first of the season for the Aces, who had Baltimore 10 points to nine. Providence is another point back in the standings.

In the Sunday game, Ken Schinkel set the pace for the Clippers with two goals while Ted Taylor, Dave Balon, Gerry Bill Knibbs and Larry Keenan scored the others. Quebec goals went to Bill Sutherland and Gord Globensteer.

Howie Menard and Brian Smith scored in the final four minutes to give Springfield their first victory in five starts after Wayne Larkin had tied the score for Providence, who also took their first loss of the year.

Packers Unbeaten; Browns Grab Lead

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even with their usually mighty ground attack way under par, Green Bay Packers won their first five games this season, mainly because Bart Starr was the National Football League's leading passer.

Starr was stopped by Dallas Cowboys a stiffened similarly—30 for 20 for 64 yards, thrown back nine times for 62 yards.

Sunday, but Green Bay made it six in a row, beating the Cowboys 18-3 by cashing in on two fumbles and an interception.

Starr hit on only four of 19 attempts for 42 yards. He was thrown for losses five times for 32 yards by the quick Dallas defense.

Rookie Craig Morton of the Johnny Unitas, striking a more positive note, capitalized on a second chance and led Baltimore to a 35-20 win over Los Angeles Rams as the Colts kept on the Packers' heels in the Western Division. They're now 5-1, with their lose loss to Green Bay.

Jimmy Brown put on one of the most magnificent performances in his career in a 33-14 Cleveland victory over New York Giants that put the Browns all alone at the top in the Eastern Division.

Washington Redskins gave the Browns an assist as they won for the first time this year, 24-20 over St. Louis, dropping the Cardinals out of a tie for the division lead. Cleveland is 5-1, St. Louis 4-2.

Pittsburgh Steelers supported their first victory, edging Philadelphia Eagles 20-14; Chicago Bears kept coiling with a 38-10 romp over Detroit Lions, and Fran Tarkenton led Minnesota on a last-half rally that carried the Vikings over San Francisco 49ers 42-41.

Bombers Blast Eskimos

Sasky Riders Oust Lions

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Defending champion British Columbia Lions bowed out of the Western Football Conference playoffs Sunday, a day after last year's underdogs, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, kept their hopes of a first-place finish.

The Lions were dumped 30-14 by Saskatchewan Roughriders before a record Canadian Football League crowd of 37,788 fans at Vancouver.

At Winnipeg Saturday, the Bombers recovered from a 24-point barrage in the first 18 minutes to overpower cellar-dwelling Edmonton Eskimos 40-24 before 18,104 fans.

Saskatchewan's victory gave them the third WFC playoff spot and 25 points in the standings. Calgary Stampeders lead with 22 and Winnipeg has 20. The Lions have 13 points and the Eskimos 10.

For first place, the Bombers need a win over the Stampeders at Calgary Wednesday and a Lions win over Calgary at Vancouver Sunday. The Bombers would take over because of a better record against Calgary. Slaughter fullback George Reed picked up 259 yards to take the WFC rushing lead from fullback Lovell Coleman of Calgary. He scored a first-quarter touchdown

Halfback Gord Barwell romped for a 102-yard touchdown on Saskatchewan's first play from scrimmage. End Jim Worden and flanker Hugh Campbell also went over, Jack Abendschan converted all three and scored a field goal.

Halfback Willie Fleming and flanker Peter Kempf scored touchdowns for the Lions and Kempf converted both.

At Winnipeg, halfback Dave Ramsey sparked four Winnipeg touchdown drives and scored one himself after the Esks built up a fast lead on two converted touchdowns, a safety touch and a conceded kick.

Halfbacks Leo Lewis and Ken Nielsen, quarterback Kenny Ploen, flanker Billy Cooper and end Farrel Funston scored the other Bomber touchdowns.

Tackle Norm Winton converted both.

Eskimo quarterback Bill Redsell and halfbacks Howie Schumm and Jim Thoms scored touchdowns. End Tommy - Joe Coffey converted all three.

The Roughriders, steered by quarterback Ron Lancaster who clicked on eight of 12 pass attempts, grabbed a 20-7 lead in the first quarter and were ahead 27-7 after the first half. The third quarter was scoreless.

Generals Take Over Top

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Generals grabbed first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series during the weekend, holding Toronto Marlboros to a 4-4 tie Sunday after dumping London Nationals 8-2 Saturday.

The games gave them nine points on three wins and three ties, one point ahead of Niagara Falls Flyers, who scored their fourth straight victory Sunday, 5-2 over St. Catharines Black Hawks.

In other Sunday games, Montreal Canadiens defeated Peterborough Petes 3-1 while Hamilton Red Wings battered Kitchener Rangers 6-2.

The Generals had to come from behind for their Sunday tie after Terry Caffrey, Mike Corrigan and Doug Dumbrille scored for Toronto. Bob Black drove in two Oshawa goals and Bobby Orr and Doug Sanford one each before Mike Byers brought Toronto back even late in the third period.

The games gave them nine points on three wins and three ties, one point ahead of Niagara Falls Flyers, who scored their fourth straight victory Sunday, 5-2 over St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Leeds Replaces Sheffield

LONDON (Reuters) — Leeds United, runner-up in both the English League championship and Football Association Cup competition last season, went to the top of the English League's First Division on goal average Saturday.

It was 21-31 Stoke to displace another Yorkshire team, Sheffield United, from first place. Sheffield United lost 2-0 to Wolverhampton Wanderers, who moved up to third place from fifth.

Leeds now has 19 points from 13 matches; Sheffield United 19 from 14; Burnley 19 from 13, and West Bromwich Albion, which is fourth, has 18 points from 14 matches.

West Bromwich won 3-0 at home against Liverpool, Football Association Cup holder, which held third place before the match.

The man who put Leeds United on the victory path was Mike O'Grady, the £30,000 ($90,000) wing half obtained from Huddersfield last week. He scored after 36 minutes and centre-forward Alan Peacock increased the lead three minutes later.

SNAP UNBEATEN STREAK

Sheffield United's loss was its first defeat in 11 games. Goals by Gordon Harris and Andy Lochead got the Burnley goals.

Woolwich Arsenal Wanderers continued a recent fighting recovery in the Second Division by holding division leader Huddersfield Town to a 1-1 draw on the Town's ground. Huddersfield, Coventry City, Manchester City now have 19 points each, but are placed in that order on goal average.

Highlight of the Scottish program of the league cup final between traditional rivals, Celtic and Rangers, which attracted a crowd of 107,000 to Glasgow's Hampden Park.

Celtics 2-1 win did not reward it with a game to be remembered. Too much robust play throughout the match was the main reason the result was the reverse of last year's final, in which Celtic lost 1-2 to Rangers.

Two penalty goals gave Celtic a 2-0 interval lead.

In the Scottish First Division, Kilmarnock won 4-1 at Motherwell to displace Rangers at the top of the table with 18 points from eight games. Rangers and Dundee United each have 12 points from seven matches.

Arbroath heads the Second Division with 16 points, one ahead of Dumbarton.

Rifles Defeat Rebels

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Charleston Rockets wrapped up the Western Division title of the Continental Football League on Sunday night by defeating Fort Wayne Warriors 14-7.

The Rockets clinched their 11th straight victory against no losses this year to become eligible for the league championship game in Charleston Nov. 26 against the winner of the Eastern Division.

In other weekend games, Philadelphia Bulldogs, leading the Eastern Division, defeated Norfolk Neptunes 28-24, Toronto Rifles defeated Richmond Rebels 45-21, Newark Bears downed Wheeling 23-9, and Hartford Charter Oaks tied over Providence Indians 20-3.

College Rookies Pace Wins

By MIKE EATHET

Getting his chance to play for Gakland, Fred Biletnikoff caught seven passes for 118 yards and was instrumental in four scoring drives as the Raiders defeated Boston Patriots 30-21 in an American Football League game Sunday.

He caught an 18-yard pass from Tom Flores as the Raiders drove for their first field goal, caught 12, and 21-yard passes from Dick Wood as Oakland put two more field goals on the scoreboard, then latched on to a 12-yarder that led to the Raiders' first touchdown and a 16-0 lead.

Bo Robinson, meanwhile, caught five passes for 35 yards in his debut for Buffalo Bills, who rode Jack Kemp's aerials to a 31-21 victory over Denver Broncos that boosted their Eastern Division-leading record to 5-2.

In the only other Sunday game, veteran George Blanda passed for five touchdowns and Jack Spikes kicked a game-winning field goal with 17 seconds left in Houston Oilers' 36-35 triumph over Kansas City Chiefs.

STILL UNBEATEN

Western Division-leading San Diego Chargers, the league's only unbeaten team, brought its record to 5-0-2 by walloping new York Jets 34-0 Saturday night behind the running of Paul Lowe and the passing of John Hadl.

Casper Sweeps Sahara

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Bill Casper completed a four-round, sub-par sweep of the $100,000 Sahara golf tournament Saturday as he shot a final-round 69 for a 72-hole score of 269 and won the $30,000 top money.

The 34-year-old Californian went into the final 18 holes with a three-stroke lead and made it hold up, despite a damaging two-stroke penalty on the ninth hole.

The surprise of the day over the par 36-35—71 Paradise Valley Country Club course was Billy Martindale, whose round of 68 matched the Nevada desert weather- and brought him second place and $12,000.

Former U.S. Professional Golfers Association champion Bobby Nichols closed with a 66 and took the third money way worth $7,500.

Young Randy Glover, Casper's amateur threat throughout the tournament, finished with a 71 and a tie at 274 with Doug Sanders, who closed strong with a 65.

The pre-tournament favorite, Jack Nicklaus, who never seriously threatened during the four days, closed out with a 68 for 276 and a tie with Tommy Aaron, who also had a 68.

Australia's Bruce Crampton had a 71 for 277 and George Knudson of Toronto shot a 69 for 279.

RMC Wins Track Meet

KINGSTON (CP)—A record-setting throw by Dave Dorman in the discus event gave Royal Military College of Kingston its third straight Ottawa-St. Lawrence Athletic Association track and field championship Saturday.

Dorman added two inches to the old discus mark with a throw of 126 feet to win the meet for RMC.

Dorman set two meet records and Chris Williamson of Bishop University set three. Dorman also topped his own pole vault record of 11 ft. 6 in. with a jump of 12 ft. ¼ in.

TIE BLUES

KINGSTON (CP) — Queen's University Golden Gaels defeated University of Toronto Blues 3-0 in Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association rugger action Saturday. The win enabled Queen's to tie the Blues for first place.

Blues Win Track Meet

WATERLOO (CP) — University of Toronto won the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association track and field championship Saturday with a solid 34-point margin over McMaster University.

Toronto won five events and finished with 66 points. McMaster, with three firsts, had 32 points.

University of Western Ontario also had five firsts but managed only 48 points for third place. Following were University of Windsor with 30 points, McGill with 23, Queen's with 22, Montreal with eight, Guelph with six and Waterloo none.

National Soccer

TORONTO (CP) — Bruce Smith scored two goals in the first half Sunday to pace Hakoah to a 3-2 victory over Ukrania in the opening game of a best-of-three series for the National Soccer League championship.

Lefkos got Hakoah's other goal. Jackie O'Neill and Ken Battle scored for Ukrania.

The two Toronto teams resume the series Tuesday.

Mustangs Blast Redmen

Gaels Blank Blues 31-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A pair of shutouts featured Ontario - Quebec Intercollegiate Athletic Association football action Saturday as Queen's Golden Gaels whitewashed University of Toronto Blues 31-0 and University of Western Ontario Mustangs bombed McGill University Redmen 20-0.

Three players rushed for more than 100 yards as the Gaels stayed on the ground for 408 yards of their 487-yard offense against Toronto—Jamie Johnston going 150 times, Doug Cowan 108 and Bayne Norrie 103.

Johnston, Norrie, Larry Ferguson and John Gordon scored touchdowns, three converted by Larry Pancoe, and Ferguson added a pair of singles.

The Gaels' other two points came on a safety touch when Toronto's second quarterback, Vic Warniak, was trapped behind the goal line.

The victory pulled Queen's into a second place tie with Toronto, both with two wins and two losses, while Western has a 4-0 record and will be looking for its first win after four losses.

Geo. Royal Wins Rich Stakes

TORONTO (CP) — Johnny Longden doesn't often make predictions, but he did just before he rode Vancouver-owned George Royal to victory in the Canadian Championship Stakes at Woodbine Race Track Saturday.

Longden, a 58-year-old winner of 6,021 races, predicted George Royal would win.

The victory was the first in four starts in Eastern Canada for five-year-old George Royal, purchased for $2,000 in a package deal as a yearling by Ernie Hammond and Bob Hall, both of Vancouver.

It was George Royal's first triumph since he won the $100,000-added San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita, Calif., last March.

The victory was worth $35,800 to the winner and boosted George Royal's career earnings to $191,787.

Brave Lad, owned by F. E. Dixon Jr., of Philadelphia, finished second a half length back and Ribot's Fling, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Bryce of New York City was third.

Time of the race was 3:05 2-5.

RMC BEATEN

SUDBURY (CP) — Helmut Malmisto and Hugh Deegan each scored two touchdowns Saturday to lead Laurentian University of Sudbury to a 31-0 victory over Royal Military College of Kingston in an exhibition football game.

Shots Count, Not Saves

TORONTO (CP)—Goalkeeper saves—calculated by subtracting goals scored from number of shots on goal—are no longer part of the official record of National Hockey League games.

Fans this season will be told only the number of shots on goal by each team.

Ron Andrews, NHL public relations director, says the change was to "clear up inconsistencies in our statistics." The figure for goalkeeper saves was misleading because it included some stops made in the crease by other players.

Perry Mason Is Improved But Competition Is Stiff

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Perry Mason is having a tough time this season, with Bonanza competing on one network channel and a feature movie on the other. The night-owl CBS show deserves a better fate, too, because by this season's standards, it's generally a darn good show.

Before each of the last few seasons started, the word went out that efforts were in progress to simplify the story lines. Truth to tell, Perry Mason for the last two or three years often was difficult to follow to any logical conclusion.

But this year, things are a lot better. Sunday night's episode — of a quality with two seen earlier—was a good example. The first part of the show established that a fellow was an obvious fortune hunter preparing to marry an innocent widow with a nice little ranch. He was even preparing a will in his favor to be signed when they were married.

WIDOW DEPARTS

The fine widow slipped some poisoned lemonade and departed.

The problem, of course, is to try to figure out in advance which of the other characters will jump up and admit the crime in a court room scene. Sunday night's murder worked out to a sensible, logical conclusion at the end.

In addition to remaining a mystery show which emphasizes the puzzle and not fights, gun play and slugfests, the show has another plus. Nobody has to bungle in check; everyone plays to murder, game straight, and it should be added, Perry always comes through on schedule.

It apparently is the last year of the series and it is a show that we'll miss when it goes.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Bobby Reid, a Michigan saddler, survived a claim of foul Saturday to win the third edition of the Fort Erie Stakes at Garden City Raceway.

Overlooked in the betting at 8-1, the five-year-old entry from Reid Ballentine's Bad Axe Stable, raced to a 2¾ length victory, paying $18.60.

Bobby Reid fashioned a new track record, covering the mile and five-sixteenths mile replacing the 2:36 4-5 clocking set by Betsy Herbert in 1961.

Ronald Filion, an eight-year-old trotting mare, combined with Crystal Hal for a $26.80 daily double.

Lyndon Almer, from Max Webster's Rockton stable and Sonny Creed returned a $27 quinella.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Horses from the Certified Stables at Rexdale, Ont., won both divisions of the featured Preston Springs Racing Association pace at Western Fair Raceway Saturday night.

Ron Feagan of Goderich drove both winners, bringing Stoney Burke home first in the first division and handling Margie Wick in the second division. Purse in each division was $1,600.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Philip Brian paced off a 2:04.3 mile Saturday night, fastest time of the season at Windsor Raceway, to win the featured $4,000 Provincial Pace.

Philip Brian returned $4, $3 and $2.40. Trotwood Bob, second by 4½ lengths, paid $4.80 and $3 and Gold Step was third at $3.90.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Rebel Land Harry, a four-year-old pacer, captured the two-mile trot and pace Saturday night in race at Connaught Park Raceway Sunday.

The brown gelding, owned by Stella Church and Mildred Williams of Cambridge, N.Y., paid $10.80, $5.80 $4.00, and ran the two miles in 4:42 2-5.

Saturday night Joe Dares and Hal's Fence returned the featured eighth and ninth races.

Joe Dares won the eighth in 2:12 3-5, paying $10.90, $7.00 and $4.70.

Hal's Fence won the ninth in 2:10 4-5 and paid $7.00, $4.30 and $2.90.

Morality Code in Movies Now Said Loosely Enforced

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the film industry ready to abandon its self - censoring production code?

The answer is no—despite a flurry of news stories last week that Hollywood was preparing to scuttle the code, to leave individual review of each film on its merits of taste and morality.

But the movie companies are definitely headed in the direction of a smaller, less stringent code which could be administered with greater elasticity.

The matter of morality on the screen has been a touchy one since earliest days of films. A prolonged assault in The Kiss (1896) outraged the moralists. Protests have continued to the present day (Elvis in Girl Happy, and What's New Pussycat) and are likely to go on as long as there are movies.

But moral attitudes have changed since 1933, when the major portions of the production code were adopted.

BANS REMAIN

Although the code has been altered—the most recent changes was in 1956—the basic provisos are the same. No profanity, no nudity, no glorification of crime, sin, adultery and so on. Anyone who has seen recent films knows that the code now is loosely enforced.

For a year and a half, the major companies that comprise the Motion Picture Association of America have objected to dating the code to meet today's standards.

"There is absolutely no truth to the reports that we are planning to abandon the code," said a spokesman. "The discussions, which may continue for some time, concern the possibility of cutting down the code to more general statements. That would permit more flexibility to judge each film on its merits, without making specific restrictions."

The 1956 changes were prompted to a large degree by a pair of 20th Premingers films that were denied code seals: The Moon Is Blue, which featured forbidden words like "virgin" and "seduced," and The Man with the Golden Arm, which depicted drug injection.

MAY BE CAUSE

The cause celebre of forthcoming code revisions may well be The Pawnbroker. The Rod Steiger film featured brief shots of nudity which is specifically banned by the code. But the code administration made an exception and hands a seal to The Pawnbroker because of its artistic merit.

Some observers feel this is a hypocritical situation. Obviously the code is not realistic when exceptions can be made.

The film industry moves slowly, and it may be months, even years, before actual practice can be formulated into a revised code. But the change seems inevitable.

WW this mean a flood of salacious movies?

Probably not. Although some racy films can make a quick dollar, the biggest moneymakers (My Fair Lady, Mary Poppins, The Sound of Music) are those the entire family can enjoy. And there is evidence from the failure of Kiss me, Stupid and other films that the public is getting fed up with tasteless, lurid movies.

"The Train" Stars Burt Lancaster In Exciting Action-Packed Story

"The Train," starring Burt Lancaster in an-epic drama of the French resistance during World War II, is holding over today and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre.

Starring Burt Lancaster in the United Artists release are Britain's Paul Scofield, who is making his screen bow, and Frenchman Jeanne Moreau.

Filmed entirely in France, "The Train," re-creates many of the actual incidents, that plagued French Railway patriots against the Nazis during the War. The picture also shows one of the most spectacular sequences ever filmed, the bombardment of a railroad yard filled with a munitions train ready to go to the front. The explosion was created by Lee Zavitz, who supervised the burning of Atlanta in "Gone With the Wind". The sequence has been called, "The Million Dollar Minute," because that is what it would have cost had it been filmed in Hollywood.

Over 4,000 pounds of TNT, 2,000 gallons of gasoline, sacks upon sacks of cement and enough electrical wire to light up a fair-sized city were required to set off the explosion.

"The Train" is recommended for action fans of all ages, and is based on a true incident recorded in Rose Valland's book "Le Front de L'art," which relates her experience as curator of the Jeu de Paume museum during the Nazi occupation of Paris.

MONDAY

GEMINI COVERAGE

The networks plan to go on the air at 6 a.m. with Gemini 5 programming, to telecast the prelaunch activities and launch of the Atlas Agena rocket, which will be used in the Gemini VI rendezvous mission. The actual launch time of the Gemini-Titan 6 flight will be announced by Walter Cronkite, Chet Huntley, David Brinkley, Frank Mc Gee.

If the rocket laughings went as scheduled this morning, the network plans voice coverage of the spacecraft's 17 revolutions and scenes of the Gemini 5 man, prelaunch activities and launch. Plans include the use of newsmen in the Cape Kennedy and remote mode of the space vehicle. Gemini 5 will be the longest manned spaceflight to date and the Gemini progress reports, continuing through the weekend, are scheduled.

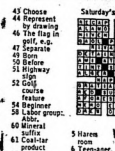
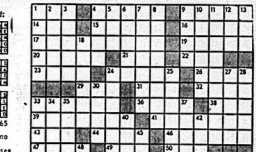
Saturday's Puzzle Solved:





10/25/65

Be quiet within. Answers you need are forthcoming.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are never happy unless creating. But don't permit yourself to be tied up with red tape. You would do well in advertising, publicity fields.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: New moon highlights financial news — and accents partnership proposals. Consolidation discussions due to take place among important executives.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For October 26th

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Generosity is accented by New Moon position. Give and receive . . . be magnanimous. Avoid petty actions, persons. Spiritual advisor speaks words of wisdom. Listen!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): New Moon stresses public relation or service efforts. Emphasize humor. Apply light touch. Do more listening than asserting. A time to get acquainted . . . see people.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You can now grasp opportunity to improve home situation. This could come about through discussion with knowledgeable individual. New Moon position opportunity work, health!

CANCER (June 21—July 22): New Moon spotlights change, dealings with members of opposite sex. Be aware of needs, expressed by younger persons. Keep promises. Stick to principles. Welcome creative opportunity.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Family, home conditions may require personal attention. Avoid needless delay. Future could depend upon cooperation gained now. Be meticulous where details are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Relations with kin, neighbors spotlighted. Forces apt to be scattered. You may try to do too much at one sitting. Key is timing. Pace yourself. Get sufficient rest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Important that you evaluate responsibilities. Favorable revision possible. Be perceptive. Seize opportunity when you recognize it. Don't balk if proposal requires short journey.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): New Moon in your sign stresses personal appearance, unusual publicity. Your love of mystery is satisfied. You could become part of a delightful intrigue. Be ready!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Help to handicapped individual may be requested. Be sympathetic. Heed principles of golden rule. Fine for working with organization, visiting those confined.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Interests in this highlighted by new moon. You can shine at special affair. Your intuition now works overtime . . . you sense what people are planning, thinking. Follow through on bunch!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): New Moon position accents prestige, community activity. A time to think big . . . be expansive. Give your best. Your popularity rises. Many are able to recognize your abilities.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Planning for future proves constructive. You could receive valuable information through message or call. Day to relax.

So Is A Good Job.

We have one that offers an above average starting salary, plus a terrific income to match output. But, just because we're choosy, it doesn't mean you will be mature, creative, and have a pleasing personality. Flexibility and English spoken and written. A car is necessary. She will be employed by a firm with an unequaled benefit program.

We're particular about whom we hire, right to deal with our customers. Why not be particular about your job? Write first letter of application if this position interests you telling us about your qualifications, address and phone number to:

FEATURES UNLIMITED

You will find endless features in this lovely 6 bedroom rising home located on a lot almost 2 acres in size. Situated on Highway 62 North of Foxboro. The living room and spacious dining room have wall to wall carpet and drapes. The 2 full baths have ceramic tile floors and the kitchen cupboard and double stainless steel sink. The bedrooms are also located on the ground floor, a separate entrance leads to the lower floor recreation room with room for touching two pressure systems and a full basement. Oil heated and in addition to all this, a 3 bedroom apartment with separate entrance and heating system makes the maintenance of this desirable property low. Full possession is available low and terms are available to a suitable purchaser.

RIVERSIDE

We have just listed one of the newest and most attractive developments in the Belleville area, near Corbyville. Located on a lot 80 x 175 feet is this 3 bedroom Angel Street bungalow. Well kept and clean in every detail, even to a full recreation room with a wood or storage separated by a Screen-ette, and a large lot with room for a garage. An ideal location for a retirement home.

PARADISE REGAINED

Milton wasn't thinking of this when he described Paradise in the above lines, but you will get the beautiful view of the Bay of Quinte beneath the stately trees surrounding this 4 bedroom brick home with 1½ baths, a full basement and a frontage of 300 ft. and the entire grounds are fenced for separation, in addition, a guest cottage with a bedroom and bath is also on the property. Priced to present state, leaving lots of room for decorating and modernization, ably priced at only $19,500.

Successful Living

Money Handling Ought To Be Shared Task

DEAR DORIS: I am a supervising housekeeper in a hospital up until two years ago. Dad was living and looked after the finances, and when he died we had over $5,000 in the bank. Now I have a $600 bond and that is all.

After sitting down and listing stock I find I have given away clothing and different things for over a thousand. Funny part is that most of these people do not bother with me any more. At one time they would drop in usually at meal time.

Could you please give me some ideas how to manage my finances? If I just know where to start! I have lately moved into cheaper quarters and have cancelled an insurance policy, which is that money lost. — DORIS CLARE TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED: You and many another have found themselves with an empty purse simply because the dear departed never took the trouble to share the money handling. Your $3,000 looked like a fortune; but when you bought friends with gifts, it melted away. Then they melted away too.

O.K., so start over again. You are working, and need to fit your salary into a budget which will allow a little for fun and frills, but not all of it. You can still have a lot of individual thing which just can't be done by letter.

The family agency in your area could help you budget; so could your bank. There is plenty to be read about it in your library. The important thing is, you know you need help and are willing to seek it.

*

DEAR DORIS: What can I do about my little girl's diet? She is nearly three. It takes an hour and a half to get even a little food into her. — I'M STUMPED.

DEAR I'M: Don't panic, or she'll stall even more. She eats in proportion to activity.

General rules are: (1) Nothing between meals — especially sweets or soft drinks! (2) Give small helpings — especially of new foods. (3) At an early slightest sign of independence let her use her spoon to feed herself, even if she makes a mess. (4) Praise her for a cleaned-up plate. (5) Provide some finger foods, like raw carrot strips, which are interesting to chew on and easy to handle. (6) Let her off the hook after 15 minutes, regardless of what's left.

Then relax, and plenty of sleep 'are essential to a small child's healthy appetite.

DEAR DORIS: Being from Europe, I often wonder if the invitation so frequently extended by acquaintances of my husband is valid. I mean the ones which go "You must come and visit us any time."

These people have never come to see me, but I don't want to give offense by seeming unfriendly. — NEW CANADIAN.

DEAR NEW: I have my doubts about such invitations. If you have reason to think the suggestion is sincere, the best response is something like: "We'd love to. Just name the day." If they follow through, accept.

It just could happen that the person inviting you is also somewhat tentative and shy; and needs this encouragement. It could turn out to be a new adventure in friendship on both sides; and we all need friends.

Relief Force Reaches Camp Despite Ambush

SAIGON (AP)—A South Vietnamese relief force drew near the besieged Plei Me camp today after beating off a Viet Cong ambush.

About 250 guerrillas were killed in the abortive ambush at Plei Ya Dran, a U.S. military adviser said by radio. Government casualties were reported light. The Viet Cong kept up sporadic mortar fire against the camp. Two special forces camps at Plei Me, 210 miles northeast of Saigon and about 17 miles from the Cambodian border. The camp's 300 Montagnard tribesmen and 12 U.S. advisers have been under attack since last Tuesday.

The relief column, spearheaded by armor, was apparently well prepared for the ambush before the government forces left Pleiku, 25 miles north of the camp.

USE AIRLIFT

Advance elements of South Vietnamese infantry were airlifted Saturday to take up a position flanking an estimated 600 guerrillas believed massing for an ambush.

The flanking manoeuvre, plus heavy firepower and bombing and strafing by U.S. jet planes, appeared to throw back the guerrillas.

In other action, a guerrilla force estimated at battalion size inflicted heavy casualties on a South Vietnamese Army unit Saturday as it came ashore in boats southwest of Saigon, in the Mekong Delta.

Aboard the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division said they killed or wounded 21 Viet Cong in the central highlands.

Diefenbaker And Hees Meet On Platform

By DAVE McINTOSH

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and George Hees, his former trade minister, embraced on a campaign platform at Campbellford Saturday.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was a great pleasure to speak on behalf of Mr. Hees, Conservative candidate in Liberal-held Northumberland who resigned from the cabinet in 1963 in a policy split with Mr. Diefenbaker and returned to private business.

"The creepe hangers in the Liberal party have their answer once and for all," Mr. Diefenbaker said after a ringing introduction from Mr. Hees before a full auditorium crowd of some 600.

Later, at a press conference, Mr. Diefenbaker was asked whether Mr. Hees would be offered a cabinet post if the Conservatives form the next government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said cabinets aren't selected before elections.

Then he added that the most outstanding persons are chosen — but that one difficulty in Canada is that racial and regional considerations in selection of cabinet ministers often preclude some men being appointed.

DIEF 'VERY HAPPY'

Asked previously whether all difficulties with Mr. Hees had been patched up, Mr. Diefenbaker said he is "very happy" that Mr. Hees has returned to public life.

He had been "very happy" to join with Mr. Hees and make clear that party unity had been established everywhere in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke to an arena crowd of some 3,000 here Saturday night. There was some booing, soon drowned out by applause, when he was introduced as "Canada's Sir Winston Churchill" and "the greatest living Canadian of the decade."

Mr. Diefenbaker outlined a Conservative national development policy and said northward-flowing rivers in Northern Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba would be diverted southward in a 20-to-40-year project to make water now wasted in the Arctic available to future generations of Canadians. A Conservative administration would not export water resources to the United States.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said power resources on the Nelson and Peace Rivers and Churchill Falls would be fed into a national power grid. An industrial complex would be undertaken on James Bay.

Big Scale Rallies Set For Pearson

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson's election campaign has entered a new and final phase with a series of big-scale rallies in widely-separated cities from Montreal to Vancouver.

It's intended to be the climax to a campaign that has called for the Liberal leader to start and close with small rallies and build up to a mammoth crescendo.

The Liberal strategy contrasts sharply with that of Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, who has been running hard from the start. NDP Leader T. C. Douglas also mounted a vigorous early campaign for the Nov. 8 vote.

First of the mass Liberal rallies had a crowd of 7,000 in the Halifax Forum Friday night. It was by far the biggest of the Liberal campaign.

Liberal organizers now are pointing to the second, set for the mall in the Yorkdale shopping plaza in the Toronto suburbs.

Next on the list is a Friday night affair at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver. then comes the fourth of the series in the Winnipeg Civic Auditorium the following Monday.

Mr. Pearson does it again the very next day at the Palais du Commerce in Montreal.

HEADS FOR HAMILTON

His itinerary beyond that has not been made public, but it is understood he'll wind up with a rally in Hamilton. Choice of Hamilton is in keeping with the high-priority label the Liberals have placed on southwestern Ontario.

The prime minister makes his second foray into the region Tuesday, appearing in London and Wallaceburg, before moving to Toronto for the major rally.

Mr. Pearson starts out the week with a return visit to his home riding of Algoma East today where television personality Joel Aldred is his Conservative opponent. In the Northern Ontario riding, Mr. Pearson will visit Blind River and Elliot Lake.

The Halifax rally ended Mr. Pearson's maritimes campaign. He had visited the other three Atlantic provinces earlier.

Real Caouette Predicts 50 Quebec Seats

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)— Creditiste Leader Real Caouette left the Saguenay-Lake St. John region Sunday after a three-day sweep that brought him a total of 2,250 listeners.

Speaking to four packed meetings, he reiterated his main themes of Liberal party scandals, the danger of socialism and communism to Canada, recognition of the French "fact", and of Quebec's place in Canada.

He said that the present struggle in Quebec is be'ween the Liberals and the Creditistes. The Progressive Conservative and New Democratic Parties were of negligible importance in Quebec.

Mr. Caouette predicted a tightening of credit very shortly, and compared this to a similar situation in 1958, when John Diefenbaker was in power. He said that this was one of the reasons why Mr. Pearson had called for the election.

SEES SQUEEZE

He said this credit squeeze by the chartered banks would cut the purchasing power of Canadians by as much as 20 per cent.

At Jonquiere Saturday he claimed the Canadian and U.S. governments had recently concluded a "secret agreement" to send Canadian troops to Viet Nam where "the Americans were fooling themselves powerless to dictate the course of the war."

Mr. Caouette said that it was in order to honor this agreement that Mr. Pearson wanted a majority government.

He predicted a Creditiste sweep of 50 seats in the Nov. 8 federal election.

More Scandals In the Offing Says Thompson

By ALLEN SACKMANN

WINKLER, Man. (CP)—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson climaxed a whirlwind Manitoba tour Saturday night by telling a nominating rally in this farming community that scandals are not an issue in this campaign but predicting more are in the offing.

"Watch your newspapers Monday and Tuesday—there's more to come," he told 600 persons who waited more than an hour because Mr. Thompson's motorcade was delayed.

He would not elaborate on his prediction, saying that political scandals are not a campaign issue but the result of Canada's archaic system in which parties rely on "an outdated, corrupt political machine that survives on patronage" for funds.

To counteract patronage, Mr. Thompson proposed that political donations should be made income tax deductible, similar to donations made to churches and charitable organizations.

"Why can't we put it on top of the table, rather than try to hide it," he asked.

URGES STATEMENTS

Mr. Thompson also advocated that political parties should be required to publish a financial statement of income and expenditures for elections as a means of curbing corruption.

"Candidates have to make a statement so the same thing should apply so the parties."

He criticized Opposition Leader Diefenbaker for using scandals in the campaign when he had had an opportunity to get to the root of the problem himself.

"Why didn't he clean it up ("patronage system) in his own organization when he had the chance?

Mr. Thompson attacked both old line parties for election promises which, if implemented, would cost the Canadian people an estimated $6000,000,000.

PROMISES COST MONEY

"Six billion dollars worth of promises to buy your vote but remember, any promise a politician makes has to be paid by you."

He added that Mr. Diefenbaker had an opportunity to implement his promises.

"Everything he says he's going to do, he could have done from 1958 to 1962 when he had the largest majority in Canada's history and there wouldn't have been a thing we could have done about it."

Mr. Thompson criticized the Canada Pension Plan and the proposed medical care program which, he said, would be "stuck down our throat" if a Liberal government is elected."

Both are necessary measures for the protection of people unable to protect themselves, Mr. Thompson said, but he objected to the comprehensive and compulsory features of both.

Rolling Drum Touched Off Cobalt Probe

The first preliminary hearing into charges involving disappearance of a vast stock of government cobalt from a Deloro warehouse, today heard how an empty barrel set off an international police probe.

J. C. (Pat) Houston, manager of Deloro-Stellite, Belleville, told of checking the federal stockpile May 4 at the warehouse on the property of the parent company, Deloro Smelting and Refining, when a drum, which should have contained cobalt, rolled beneath him.

He said he had gone to the warehouse with William Regan, demolition superintendent at the site, who was helping him count the stacked drums containing the cobalt in shot form.

"I started to walk across (the barrels) and I found one was empty. It rolled under my feet."

He said he then began tapping the entire stockpile and discovered more empty drums.

ONLY 21 FILLED

Investigations later revealed only 21 of 268 drums stored in 1958 were still filled with cobalt.

The company official was among the last of 22 witnesses called by Crown Attorney John Pringle to testify on charges of conspiracy to steal against Harold Morton Adams of Peterborough scrap metal dealer.

Four Belleville men, also charged in connection with the cobalt disappearance, will go before a preliminary hearing November 8.

The present hearing, before Magistrate R. G. Jackson, is expected to wind up today after testimony from Inspector G. A. Dingeld, of the OPP's Criminal Investigation Branch, and chief police investigator in the case.

Monday, a total of 17 witnesses were called with those developments:

CNR freight manager George Wheeler of Belleville, testified a carload of scrap metal shipped from Peterborough to the United States this year in a freight car, which openly mentioned cobalt or its residues on its consignment.

Ray Cornell, 20 years, a truck driver for Moldrem, claimed his employer gave him a key to the stockpile warehouse in the fall of 1963 when he removed the contents of drums stored there.

Andrew Edison Baumbour, 31, laborer on the truck driven by Cornell, first testified Regan had handed him a key to the warehouse key, then admitted to defence counsel he was assuming that.

Cornell said he and Baumbour made a number of trips to the site at the area where the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company was being dismantled after going out of business.

Sometime in the fall of 1963 they transferred the contents of drums piled in the converted substation to a truck and drove them to the Peterborough West Canada Metal Company's yard. He gained admission to the storehouse with a key.

"From whom did you get the key?

$400,000 Taken In Robbery

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police traced the faint track today of a resourceful gang of international thieves who blasted open a Brinks vault with a cannon and looted it of $400,000.

Burglars, whose tracks apparently have criss-crossed the Canadian border, hauled a 30-millimetre cannon into the Brinks Incorporated office here during the weekend and shot their way through the two-foot-thick vault walls.

In grabbing the vault's contents, the thieves got only about $100,000 in cash or negotiable securities, a company spokesman said.

They also passed up $100,000 in coins, he said.

Police said the burglars mounted the cannon—which the armed forces use in aircraft or as an anti-aircraft weapon—on a homemade mount and blasted the vault walls with 30 rounds.

They said passersby now recall hearing explosions from in the vicinity at about 3 a.m. Sunday, but the time of the robbery has not been established.

Police asked authorities in the northeastern United States and Canada to watch for four men in a truck, possibly bearing Canadian license plates.

The FBI said the robbery resembled a similar burglary attempt in Quebec Feb. 20.

THE SAME GANG

A Quebec police official said today it appeared that the same gang was at work in both cases.

In Quebec, a team of safecrackers left behind $1,500 worth of equipment in Brinks offices after tripping an alarm accidentally.

The burglars had a radio tuned to police wave lengths and got away minutes before police arrived.

They left behind a 10-foot-long anti-aircraft cannon equipped with a silencer, police said, and scores of 20-millimetre shells, nitroglycerin, dynamite, an electric drill, a gas mask, hooks and crowbars.

In mid-August, another attempt on the vault there failed when a truck driving down a back lane by chance caved in a section of a 67-foot-long tunnel approaching the wall of the vault. Police said an expert in electronics had disconnected the alarm system.

In the Syracuse robbery, police said they found four unused bottles of nitroglycerine at the scene along with gas masks, acetylene torches, the expended shells and unused rounds.

After blasting through the concrete walls, the burglars used a torch to carve a masked hole through three inches of steel casing.

NO CIGAR — The three top men at Manned Spacecraft Centre Mission Control are a dejected-looking group after decision to scrub Gemini 6 flight after loss of the Agena rocket. Space 'Detectives' Seek Cause of Agena Failure

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. space agency pushed ahead today with plans for the 14-day Gemini 7 flight scheduled in December while engineering detectives sought the cause of the failure of the Agena rocket that wrecked the Gemini 6 rendezvous-and-docking mission Monday.

There also was some second guessing on whether the modified Agena should have been fired for the first time on a mission as important as Gemini 6.

The Agena failure wiped out an intended chase across the sky by astronauts Walter M. Schirra and Thomas P. Stafford. They had planned to catch and hook onto the Agena in a vital rehearsal for later man-to-the-moon flights.

But their launching was called off when the Agena apparently exploded or broke apart six minutes and 10 seconds after launching.

"We'll have a better go at it next time," said Stafford.

"Next time" will be at least four months off, possibly six.

Robert Seamans, associate director of the space agency, and Robert Gilruth, head of the manned spacecraft centre, said the failure will not delay the over-all goal of landing the first Americans on the moon in 1969-70, but sources indicated they could go as early as Dec. 2.

The earlier date would be possible because the Titan II already has been thoroughly checked for Gemini 6.

But plans for the six remaining Gemini shots now are disorganized.

All are to be Agena rendezvous-and-docking shots, emphasizing the importance the space agency places on perfecting this manoeuvre. All but Gemini 6 involve walks in space by one of the astronauts.

A major question raised by the Agena failure was why this relatively new rocket had not undergone a more thorough testing program.

The rocket which failed Monday was a greatly modified version of an earlier model Agena that had logged a 90-per-cent success rate in placing more than 135 U.S. payloads in space.

The commander, had been scheduled for launching about Dec. 10, but sources indicated they could go as early as Dec. 2

Cobourg Strike Violence Cancels Expansion Plans

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Violence against the strikebound Winchester-Western arms plant here has led the company to abandon plans for a $600,000 expansion program, M. R. Mallory, plant manager, said Monday night.

Shotgun blasts ripped out plate-glass front doors at the plant Saturday night and fire broke out in a boxcar loaded with high-grade walnut for gun stocks. The fire burned itself out before serious damage resulted but gasoline-soaked rags were found in the boxcar.

Mr. Mallory said the expansion program was to be carried out next year but the company is no longer interested.

He said the company was reluctant to expose itself to the "kind of violence perpetrated recently in the strike."

More than 160 members of the International Association of Machinists (CLC) have been on strike against the plant since Sept. 28.

UNION BLAMES HOOLIGANS

The union said in a statement the hooliganism was the work of outsiders. The union local had been instructed before the strike started not to condone violence.

The local union executive said pickets left the plant at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, immediately before the shooting incident.

The union originally asked for a 40-cent-an-hour increase over the present wage of $1.85 an hour, but lowered demands after a conciliation meeting. Officials said the union now is asking for a 30-cent-an-hour increase.

Mr. Mallory said "we are not interested in talking to the union at the present time."

In another incident Saturday, a can of paint was dumped over the hood of a car owned by Ernest Gallagher of Cobourg, a non-striking plant foreman.

With Winchester Western Canada Ltd. of Cobourg reported to no longer interested in that centre's expansion plans, a member of the Belleville Industrial Commission was scheduled to go to Cobourg today with the view of interesting the firm in locating in this city.

Today Belleville Industrial Commissioner Ernst Koslar and a member of the local commission had gone to Cobourg to contact the president of the company, Michael Mallory, and to offer aspects of location in the Winchester plant locating in Belleville.

Nominate 1,013 For Election

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They're off and running, officially, for the Nov. 8 federal election—1,013 of them.

The surprise of nomination day Monday was the last-minute rush of hopefuls trying for a seat in Parliament. They brought the number of candidates to within 10 of the record 1,023 in 1963.

Fewer than 1,000 candidates were expected for this election, third in the past four years. To Sunday, only 981 had been nominated or had declared their intention to run. Most of the 32 added starters...Monday were in Quebec.

This will be the lineup facing Canadian voters:

Liberals	265
Progressive Conservatives	265
New Democrats	255
Social Credit	87
Creditiste	76
Communists	12
Independents	53

Only the first three parties listed have a chance of forming a majority government. To gain an over-all majority in the 265-seat House of Commons—and to elect a Speaker—a party must have 133 seats.

Thant Asks UN Admit Red China

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—UN Secretary - General U Thant called again today for the entry of Communist China into the United Nations, saying this Peking regime could enable the world body to contribute significantly to progress towards disarmament.

Conclusion of a nuclear non-proliferation treaty is "the most urgent task" facing the UN, he said. Thant warned that the nuclear powers—the United States, Britain, France, Russia and China—could grow to 10 or 15 members in the next few years.

"At that time, the world will have to face the grim prospect of a really terrible annihilation," Thant said in an interview recorded for the Japan Broadcasting Corporation.

The UN would "be able to coordinate significantly towards the progress of disarmament" only when "the one nuclear power . . . outside the United Nations . . . can be involved in discussions on disarmament."

He made that obvious reference to China in arguing that the UN "must enjoy universal membership."

China Buys Wheat

TORONTO (CP) — A senior officer of the federal department of trade and commerce said here today that China and Canada soon will sign a contract for large-scale purchases of Canadian wheat.

He said the deal, not yet concluded, probably will be about equal to 1963's sale of 187,000,000 bushels, worth about $336,000,000.

He denied earlier reports that the sale was for 223,800,000 bushels estimated to be valued at $402,000,000.

The Star says Trade Minister Sharp has confirmed that China has signed a contract for "huge purchases" of Canadian wheat.

Mr. Sharp, here to address a political meeting in his Toronto Eglington riding for the Nov. 8 federal election, said Monday night he would give details on the sale Thursday when he is scheduled to make an official announcement.

The Liberal minister said deliveries in China would be similar to arrangements made in 1963. In that contract, 25 per cent down was required from China.

Earlier Monday Dow Jones of New York news agency confirmed reports in trade quarters that China and the Canadian wheat board had concluded three - year agreement for 223,800,000 bushels worth an estimated $402,000,000.

Police Car In Collision Four Die

VAL d'OR, Que. (CP)—Four men, including a police officer, died in a collision between a police car and another vehicle near this northwest Quebec community Monday.

The victims were Guy Renaud, 25, a traffic officer with the Quebec Provincial Police here, and Ronald Gaudreault, 22, Fernand Allaire, 19, and Gilles Denault, 18, all of Val d'Or, 240 miles northwest of Montreal.

A second officer, Paul Brunau, riding with Renaud in the police car, was injured, but was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital today.

The QPP said the police vehicle was en route to the scene of a reported accident when the head-on collision occurred on the two-lane highway.

Hospital Social Service Facilities Said Essential

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Morrow, president of the Canadian Association of Social Workers, said Monday hospitals should be judged on how well they are equipped to help patients, families, personal as well as medical problems.

He told the annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association his organization is preparing a draft to the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation.

The draft will suggest that a hospital's social service facilities be made a factor in accreditation, the process of rating a hospital on its methods, plant and personnel.

An associate director, Mr. Morrow said later that about 90 per cent of Ontario hospital beds and 85 per cent of all Canadian beds are in accredited hospitals. Many of the smaller hospitals don't apply for certification.

Mr. Morrow said doctors are becoming more convinced of the importance of social services in hospitals.

In other addresses Ontario hospitals were criticized for wasting manpower through high staff turnover caused by low wages, harsh discipline and poor communication between administrators and rank and file workers.

The criticism was made by Albert G. Hearn, Canadian vice president of the Building Service Employees' International Union (CLC), and Lloyd H. Sharpe, a director of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

Mr. Hearn said despite some gains, hospital employees are still among the lowest paid.

Mr. Sharpe said common Ontario labor rates of about $2.15 an hour—or $374 a month—are $19 more a month than a Toronto staff nurse's basic salary of $355.

Britain May Offer to Finance Education of Rhodesian Negroes

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith and British Prime Minister Wilson held the first session of their new round of talks on the independence crisis today and Smith described it as a "good meeting."

Britain hopes to prevent Rhodesia's white-minority government from carrying out its threat to seize independence unilaterally.

Earlier, 300 Negroes clapped and waved to Wilson as he drove to the Rhodesian leader's residence for the session, which lasted two hours and 20 minutes.

The talks were aimed at breaking a deadlock in the protracted struggle over this whitesruled African colony's future.

The two leaders met informally Monday night at a dinner given by British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs shortly after Wilson and his Commonwealth secretary, Arthur Bottomley, flew in from London.

All signs pointed to a tough and possibly lengthy series of meetings ahead for Wilson with the colony's minority white government and African nationalist leaders.

Britain has refused Smith's demand for independence and insists that the government provide guarantees for eventual Negro majority rule.

Reports circulated here that Wilson would put forward some new proposal to persuade the Smith government to step back from the brink of a unilateral declaration of independence.

The sweetener in such a plan might be massive British financial aid to speed Negro education and so help more of the colony's 4,000,000 Negroes to become eligible to vote.

The Smith government, put in power by Rhodesia's 220,000 whites, is demanding even closer toward a unilateral declaration of independence since Smith's failure to get an acceptable formula for legal independence in earlier talks in London.

The British government has insisted that independence could be granted only by a government commanding the support of the people as a whole.

At a crowded press conference after his arrival for Salisbury airport, Wilson said his task was "to break what we in us all recognize is a deadlock between two governments."

He reaffirmed his view that a unilateral declaration of independence would be a tragedy.

Wilson already has warned Rhodesia that it would impose strict economic sanctions if it seized independence.

Intense Negro feelings on the independence issue were immediately made clear to Wilson. Some 5,000 Negroes met him at the airport of which angered as sy.

The 10-mile route from the airport to government house was lined with Negroes.

Wilson said that during his visit he hoped to see detained. African nationalist leaders Joshua Nkomo and Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole. Nkomo is at a restriction camp 400 miles from Salisbury and Sithole is held about 90 miles fro mthe capital.

Plan Community Seminar On Recreational Programs

On Saturday, the first Belleville Community conference on recreation will be held at Centre Secondary School, commencing 9:30 a.m. and continuing until 1 p.m.

The conference is designed to assist the Belleville Recreation Committee in establishing a framework for future development in the field of leisure time activities.

Conference theme is "Program and Facilities - Are They Adequate?" It is hoped that this question will be answered at this conference, along with many other questions that will be posed in discussion groups.

All people in the city who are remotely interested in recreation are cordially invited to attend and take part in the discussions. This will be the time for citizens to air their views and constructively criticize recreational programs and facilities.

The opening of the conference will take place at 9 a.m. with Mayor J. R. Ellis officiating. At 9:15 a.m. there will be a film presentation entitled "Our Role in Relation to the Recreation Committee". Each panel member will explain this as it relates to his particular function.

Panel members are Mr. L. G. Doran, Director of Parks, Recreation and Arena; Mr. A. E. Orr, Superintendent of Secondary Schools; Mr. J. L. Anderson, business assistant, Belleville Public School Board, Mr. R. N. Kerr, local director, Children's Aid Society; and Mr. D. W. Maddocks, district representative, Community Programs Division, Ontario Department of Education. It is anticipated there will be questions from the floor.

At 10.15 a.m. delegates will be assigned to five discussion groups according to their age - group interests. There will be questions set for these groups to discuss and answer. The age groupings in which delegates will be asked to participate include 5-13 years, 14-19 years, 20-30 years, 31-59 years and 60 years and up.

Tells Rotarians Of Plans for TV Ministry

Rev. Harold Burgess, minister of Howard Park United Church in Toronto and Belleville Rotarians Monday that he hoped his late-night question-and-answer program on CKWS-TV Kingston would help throw light on the kind of simple questions most people have on their minds but are afraid to ask of their ministers.

Mr. Burgess said he was not presuming to sound like God, but he believed that in 22 years in the ministry he had heard "at least 90 per cent of the questions that people are likely to ask."

He said the program had been made possible mainly by interested laymen and women from Kingston and Belleville presbyteries, in the belief there were questions people wanted to ask but did not know where to go to find the answers.

"The church is accessible, available and interested in these questions," he said.

In a reference to church attendance, Mr. Burgess (who was ordained in Belleville 22 years ago) said there were more front and back doors that did not open on Sunday than did. "A lot more stay at home than go to church."

Of Pope Paul's recent visit to New York, Mr. Burgess said that, through the medium of television, probably more Protestants saw the Roman Catholic mass than ever before. "They saw a very fine, thoughtful and holy man manifesting true Christian concern, and came to realize that perhaps Christians are not heathens, and that differences come later."

Mr. Burgess spoke of Pope Paul's concern for people of all shades of religious and political beliefs and referred to his conversations with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and other representatives of the Communist bloc.

He said such media as television were God-given. They enabled ministers to speak to large numbers of people as individuals. He compared this with the translation of the Scriptures into many languages through the medium of printing, a factor so interrelated with the Protestant Reformation that one could not be taken away without the other.

Ben Corke introduced Mr. Burgess and he was thanked by Newton Thompson, President. Ernest Burnham presided.

Govt. Policies Outlined by Robert Temple

The resurgence in business and industry in Belleville and other centres of Hastings South is the culmination of the federal government's economic policies effected over the last two years Liberal candidate Robert Temple told a meeting of Belleville voters last night.

"Of interest to the city people is the expansion taking place at the American Cyanamid plant," he said, "explaining that the company anticipated adding a third shift to its operation in January, which meant employment for another 35 or 40 people. It was a significant fact, he pointed out, since industry has a tendency to slow down in the winter months rather than increase activity and in this particular instance run at full tilt."

Mr. Temple noted unemployment had struck a nine-year low while government deficits had almost disappeared and it was now apparent that parliament for the first time would report a balanced budget. "Another credit on the administration's ledger was the 10 per cent reduction in personal income tax," he said. The auto pacts agreement is a stimulant to the Canadian car industry and its subsidiaries far more beneficial than anticipated," he concluded.

Investigator Put on Spot By Klansman

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional investigator found answering an accusation from himself in the senate today of the principal man being investigated—imperial wizard Robert M. Shelton of the Ku Klux Klan.

Donald T. Appell, chief investigator for the House of Representatives committee on American activities, takes the stand to explain under oath a conversation he had last week with Shelton in the dining room of a hotel.

Shelton, who had been promising for days to throw "a bombshell," called a press conference in his hotel suite Monday.

It provided about the only fireworks, the committee questioned relatively minor Klansmen from North Carolina who declined to answer questions.

When he was on the witness stand last week, Shelton said, "I was questioned by Appell in such a way, and as part of a deviltish conspiracy, to make it appear that I directed Klan funds to my personal use."

But "a few hours after my appearance before the committee ended, Appell walked over to my table in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel and, after offering a halfhearted apology for the manner in which I had been treated commented, 'Bob, you're kinda 'we know that you are clean, and had not been taking Klan money or failing to report your income tax.'"

At first Appell shrugged off Shelton's allegation, but later declined to comment. But later, as the pressure grew for some kind of statement, Appell said he "did have a conversation with him (Shelton)." However, he added, "the story referred to here is not truthful."

The only point clear it up, Appell said, was for him to appear before the committee "so that he can tell under oath the substance of the conversation."

Russia Claims Thant Exceeds His Authority

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—In a Security Council session highlighted by a verbal battle between Russia and the United States, disagreed Monday night over how far Secretary-General U Thant can go to prevent a revival of the Indian-Pakistan war.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko charged that Thant had exceeded his mandate by sending extra observers to patrol the 1,000-mile ceasefire line between the two neighboring enemies.

Fedorenko said the Security Council alone could decide how many observers should be deployed in the area and how their mission should be financed.

He proposed that a three-month deadline be set on the UN peace mission to the subcontinent which is headed by Maj.-Gen. Bruce Macdonald of Edmonton.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg replied that Thant had followed the wishes expressed by the council request that he exert every possible effort to obtain compliance with its resolution calling for a ceasefire and withdrawal of both armies.

"My government has no quarrel concerning the actions of the secretary-general in carrying out the terms of the resolutions," Goldberg declared.

He said the U.S. "emphatically rejects" any assertion that Thant should have got council authority for his action.

He said it was up to India and Pakistan now to comply with the declarations of the council. He called on both governments to do so in order that peace could be restored.

India walked out of the council after Pakistan accused the Indians of atrocities in Kashmir reminiscent of Nazi horrors in the Second World War.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto warned the council that "we will not allow India to carry out these monstrous acts." If the UN fails to act, he said, Pakistan will take a hand, regardless of the consequences.

Indian Foreign Minister Sardar Swaran Singh had said earlier in the day that his delegation would not take part in the council debate—which Pakistan had requested—if Kashmir was brought up. The Indian minister insisted that Kashmir was an internal matter outside council jurisdiction.

North Hastings Needs Tourists Says Liberal

BANCROFT — Increasing the number of tourists in Hastings-Frontenac as a means of furthering the income of businessmen in the riding was discussed with members of the Bancroft Chamber of Commerce at the Bancroft Hotel on Thursday, by Roy Cadwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac.

Mr. Cadwell, who formerly was with the Department of External Affairs, said that in other countries of the world which did not have the natural advantages of this district, they had, nevertheless, developed centres of interest for tourists.

"What is needed in this riding in a planned Centennial National Park that would attract tourists to this area," he said. This riding is within an overnight's driving distance of 50,000 people. It has the finest scenery in Canada and yet it has not even one planned tourist attraction, Mr. Cadwell said. This is another example of how this riding has been neglected by both Conservatives and Liberals. As a member of the Land O' Lakes Tourist Association, and living in the area, he was prepared to do something about this.

In answer to a question by one of the chamber members as to whether this would compete with Algonquin Park, Mr. Cadwell said, "One tourist attraction always helps another, and what would happen would be that tourists would visit both parts and the businessmen of the area would benefit because of this."

In discussing his plan for improving the economic conditions of the people of the riding, Mr. Cadwell declared a planned tourist attraction, more industries, aid to farmers under the Agricultural ARDA, and a housewife's allowance of $20 per month would benefit every businessman in the riding.

Four Area Ridings Ready For Election

Official nominations for the Nov. 8 federal election held yesterday brought no changes in the four area ridings, of Hastings South, Hastings - Frontenac, Prince Edward - Lennox and Northumberland.

In Hastings South, Returning Officer William VanTassel reports Lee Grills, PC; M. Hoskin, NDP, and Robert Temple, L, filed nomination papers.

In Hastings - Frontenac there will also be three candidates, Roy Cadwell, L; Ron Prout NDP, and Rodney Webb, PC., while in Prince Edward - Lennox Douglas Alkenbrack PC; Jack Owens NDP and Lloyd Woolsey, L, will contest the riding.

Further west the Northumberland riding is being contested by George Hees PC; Pauline Jewett L, and Ian Reilly NDP.

Public Works Will Start Leaves Collection Nov. 1

The collection of leaves and garden rubbish will be commenced by the city public works department on Monday, November 1st, according to city engineer Wilbur Purcell.

On the city's East Side, leaf and rubbish collection will start next Monday, while on the West Side, the collection will start Nov. 8th.

Under the terms of the new city garbage collection by-law, rubbish such as grass cuttings, trimming from shrubs, garden roots and so on will be collected by the garbagemen — provided it is placed out for collection in a proper manner. This means that it must be placed in proper receptacles or securely tied in bundles of not more than three feet in length. The by-law specifically prohibits the placing of rubbish on the city streets.

Garbage receptacles permitted under the by-law are polyethelene or paper bags manufactured as disposable garbage bags and metal or other suitable watertight containers not larger than 17 gallons in size and equipped with handles and properly fitted covers. In dry weather closed cardboard cartons not heavier than 50 pounds are permitted.

Army Private Still Sleeping From Sickness

OTTAWA (CP)—An 18-year-old army private from Pembroke, Ont., and Camp Petawawa, entered his seventh day of unconsciousness Monday, a victim of sleeping sickness.

Warren Wesse remained on the "seriously ill" list in hospital.

Pte. Wesse lapsed into unconsciousness Oct. 19. He had been bitten several times by insects, one of which doctors believe may have carried the disease during a weekend visit with his parents at Frankford near Belleville.

Two Cabinet Ministers to Support Jewett

BRIGHTON — In the wake of a Conservative rally at Campbellford Saturday, that saw P. C. leader John Diefenbaker and his former Trade and Commerce Minister, George Hees, exchange insurances in support and acceptance of each other's position in the 1963 Conservative crisis, two Liberal cabinet ministers will appear in the riding this week in support of Liberal candidate and former M.P. Pauline Jewett, as a Northumberland county continues to hold the national spotlight in the final countdown days of its last election.

The riding is slated to disappear in the proposed redistribution plan announced in June.

Solicitor General Hon. L. T. Pennell will be speaking in support of Dr. Jewett at a Liberal rally in Campbellford on Tuesday night. Transport Minister J. W. Pickersgill, named by former Quebec Social Credit M.P. Dr. Gerard Ouellet as being involved in the pledge of support of Six S.C. M.P.'s in the 1963 election, will speak at Brighton Saturday and will speak at a major party rally in Brighton Saturday night.

Speaking at an informal "Meet Your M.P." meeting in Castleton, the entire Cramahe township, Saturday night, Mrs. Jewett defended the record of the Liberal Government since 1963 and fielded questions from the 30 men and women present in connection with scandals involving Liberal M.P.'s and federal farm policies and social security programs.

Dr. Jewett said, in answering a question about mounting costs of farm operation, that higher price supports would not help smaller farm operators.

The focus should be, she said, on the 70 man in the middle, in the efficient farm range" those who have less than $25,000, get less than $2,500 in income, she said. "Forty per cent of Ontario farmers are in the low income category. This is far too high." On the question of farm machinery prices she said "more effective enforcement of the combines law, not discrimination by the government."

She referred to a suggestion by a county farmer that the government "ties its foreign aid program by purchasing used tractors when a farmer needs a new one and sending the used one to a country such as Nigeria, needing farm machinery" as being one she felt had much merit.

Pulp, Paper Companies to Hold Seminar

Safety in pulp and paper manufacturing is the main theme of an all-day conference in Belleville today.

Members of the Eastern Ontario Branch, Ontario Pulp and Paper Makers Safety Association, hosted by Miller Brothers Limited of Trenton, gathered at the Belleville Armories today for the seminar.

The business meeting was followed by a safety film, then H. B. Gault of Domtar Pulp and Paper Company, Cornwall addressed the group on "What One Mill Has Lone About Safety."

A tour of American Optical Company will be followed by a dinner and meeting at the Hotel Quinte tonight. Guest speaker at the dinner is Ron Beith, general manager, Miller Equipment Company.

Representatives are attending from Domtar Pulp and Paper, Cornwall; International Cellulois, Hawkesbury; Domtar Newsprint, Trenton; Strathcona Paper Company, Napanee; Canadian International Paper Company, Hawkesbury; E. B. Eddy Company, Hull, Quebec; Pembroke Shook Mills, Pembroke, and of course, the hosts, Miller Brothers, Trenton.

Air Commodore R. J. Lane Goes to France

TRENTON — Air Commodore R. J. Lane, Commanding Officer at Air Transport Command at Trenton, is to be transferred early next year to No. 1 Air Division at Metz, France, it was announced today.

Air Commodore Lane will be succeeded by a former commanding officer at Trenton, Air Commodore G. G. Diamond, 50, now of Vancouver and Ottawa.

18 Generators Reported Stolen Said Obsolete

TRENTON — Theft of 18 surplus jet aircraft generators from a warehouse at No. 6 Repair Depot, has been reported by station commanding officer, Group Captain C. R. Thompson.

The generators are obsolete and had been declared surplus and were up for disposal. The generators were of a specialized type using 28 volt direct current and were used only on jet aircraft.

When new, the generators were worth about $5,000 but are of considerably less value as scrap.

PARADE SHAPING UP

The Santa Claus parade, set for Saturday, November 27, is shaping up, according to a Chamber of Commerce spokesman.

Entries to date include the Trenton Citizens' Band, two RCAF bands, majorettes, the Quinte Pipe Band, four floats and Santa has the day marked on his calendar.

Most interesting sounding float to be entered is "Topsy-Turvy Land" by the Odeon Theatre Company.

Harlem Cage Team Pressed To Win Game

TRENTON — The Harlem Diplomats, surprisingly, beat out the Trenton High School teachers and alumni at a basketball game held in the high school gym last night by the small margin of 52 to 45.

A crowd of students and other spectators cheered on the home team.

Dr. Pauline Jewett Gives Resume of Work in Riding

TRENTON — Dr. Pauline Jewett, MP for Northumberland in the last Liberal government, and running for a return to office in the Nov. 8 election, told an enthusiastic crowd of supporters in the town hall at Wooler last night that the county did not necessarily need new industry at this time, but did need a comprehensive system of training along technological lines, and retraining of older workers, on a case in point, Dr. Jewett spoke of the dearth of carpenters for the jobs available at the site of the new minimum security prison at Warkworth, now under construction.

Dr. Jewett said that expansion of existing technical training centres was needed, as well as new training centres, so that men did not have to leave their homes and families while retraining.

Miss Jewett said one had only to look at the record of the former Progressive - Conservative government under John Diefenbaker and the Liberal government to decide which had brought real prosperity to Canada, Whereas the PCs had backed out, leaving a large deficit, the Liberals now had a people in public life had to lead lives which were above suspicion.

"The subject should not be discussed with inuendos and slanted headlines," she said. "If the opposition wants to discuss allegations, they should bring their facts out into the open and discuss them sanely and sensibly."

Returning to her own riding, Dr. Jewett said that every fifth home she had visited had a medical problem "in some of homes," she said, "this could be described as a "crushing" problem. She said that the Liberal-sponsored medicare would bring adequate treatment of sickness and necessary medicine to people in the community. Older persons receiving the old age pension would benefit particularly by this, she said.

Dr. Jewett said that when she first started campaigning in her riding, she had felt a personal reserve on the part of the people she had served for the past two years, her optimism arose, and she now felt confident of a personal victory and a victory for the Liberal government, which had served the people of Canada well and faithfully.

Arch Masons Visit Thornhill

TRENTON — On Saturday, twenty-five officers and companions of St. Mark's Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, No. 26, of Trenton travelled by bus to Thornhill, Ont., returning a fraternal visit of St. Patrick's Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, No. 145, on October 20th.

Ex. Comp. Sid Woodward, formerly of Trenton, who was presiding officer of St. Patrick Chapter in 1962, and Comp. C. Lowcock, a former Trentonian, were among those welcomed by the visitors.

The Trenton members were taken on a tour of principal places in Toronto and a tour by guide explaining the various features of the Toronto City Hall and Nathan Phillips Square.

At the Masonic Temple at 6 p.m., a sumptuous dinner was provided. At 7 p.m. members adjourned to the lodge room where Bro. Arthur Charles Keates of St. Patrick Chapter received the Most Excellent Master degree by the Trenton degree officers and Companions.

Ex. Comp. W. Turton officiated with Ex. Comp. Angus McDonald as M.C.; Ex. Comp. Art Jackson as S.W., and Ex. Comp. George Little, J.W.

Ex. Comp. M. A. Searle of St. Patrick Chapter congratulated St. Mark's Chapter for the very excellent manner the degree was exemplified.

Ex. Comp. Nostrand Sprague of Trenton, who was First Principal in Trenton in 1938, and who has been a member of St. Patrick Chapter, Thornhill, since 1928, and permanent representative in Canada for Grand Chapter, R.A.M., New Hampshire, was present.

Local Election Scene

A letter on this page today suggests with tongue-in-cheek candor that a little bit of scandal might give the election more impact on the local scene.

Certainly the candidates in Hastings, Mr. Grills and Mr. Temple, are not given to mud-slinging or to raising dark hints or red herrings that might subtly cast doubt on the ability or integrity of either gentlemen, in a manner that would tend to sway the vote one way or another. Where personalities are concerned, nothing more than a few gentle digs have been poked on either side.

Nor has there been any heckling, or even much in the way of a cheer for either candidate. Perhaps, they should take to the street corners as in the elections of old and brave the cool October air and see if they can engender more interest among the somewhat apathetic electorate. This way they might get a boo or a cheer, or be heckled, but everyone would be the better for it.

Globe and Mail columnist Scott Young said last week that almost every time one picks up a paper these days "there is a report that this or that Canadian, usually a politician, had been booed in public."

Candidates Grills and Temple, we suspect, have not yet been subjected to such indignities, and it is clear that columnist Young does not think highly of the practice. Rather he suggested, "why not a cheer, once in a while?"

"For one thing," he added, "it would shorten the speeches."

In any event, whether to cheer, persecute to boo or heckle, is a privilege of the electorate. When candidates encounter this sort of thing they know they are being heard.

Klan's Influence

The strength and influence of the Ku Klux Klan in the deep south is such that men can get away literally with murder.

Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, a Detroit civil rights worker, was murdered in Alabama last March, shot through the head from a passing car by someone wielding a .38 pistol.

Three Klansmen were arrested and one of them, a 21-year-old auto mechanic accused by an FBI informer of firing the fatal shot, has just been acquitted by a Haynesville, Alabama, jury.

This, despite what little we know of the south, and with the sinister power of the Klan affecting every phase of life there, no other verdict was to be expected, even allowing for a skilled defence which produced witnesses to say the accused man was seen in Selsomer, 125 miles from the murder scene, less than an hour after the shooting.

The two other Klansmen indicted for the Liuzzo slaying are to be tried. However, with Friday's acquittal on the books, the outcome is virtually a foregone conclusion.

Won Against Odds

Nineteen-year-old Karen Craig's selection as Miss Ottawa Rough Rider is a crie of triumph over misfortune.

Three years ago the pretty Carleton University sophomore was almost killed in a car accident. Her neck was broken, her skull fractured and her left cheek bone broken.

Today, you could not know she had been so gravely injured. No blemish marks her youthful good looks.

Miss Craig hopes to take her responsibilities as Miss Ottawa Rough Rider in her stride and does not think they will interfere with her history studies.

"I have always had extra activities, so I don't think this should hurt my studies," she said, adding that she would like to teach and travel after graduation.

In her short span of years, Miss Craig has shown she can take the rough with the smooth.

Militia's Success

Members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment are to be congratulated on successes in recent training exercises.

Twenty-seven members of the regiment's militia unit finished first in an initiative and leadership patrol competition at Camp Petawawa recently. In their prize-winning patrol through dense bushland they were led by Lieut. Michael Evans, Belleville, and Sgt. Dan Krystia of Trenton.

The Hasty Pess' success follows their win in the area command competition two weeks ago.

These developments on the local regimental scene reflect the high standard of training the militia is receiving here. As Lt.-Col. Kenneth Willcocks, commanding officer of the Hasty Pees, put it, in referring to the Camp Petawawa success: "They bested the 'enemy' and won out with high marks."

Charles' Education

Globe and Mail

England and Scotland have each had the opportunity to contribute to the upbringing of Prince Charles and now it is Australia's turn to confer upon him the benefits of his own rigorous education system. If Canada's turn should come next, what could we offer that would stand a young prince in good stead?

The canoe-and-compass kind of experience could be tough-ening ,but does this faithfully reflect life among young Canadians today? If the objective, is a well-rounded education, a couple of weeks' residence in Toronto's Yorkville area would be more practical—and possibly, in his own peculiar way, a lot more enlightening.

Gad, how wildly revolutionary can you get!

Danger in Aspirin Is Not in Choking

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Mrs. C., in Texas, sends me a clipping about a year-old child who choked to death on an aspirin tablet. And she is correct in recognizing this as a danger, but she then jumps to some conclusions that don't fit. She writes:

"Over 1,000 children died in 1964 from taking aspirin tablets, which used to be hard and were easily swallowed. More recently in an advertisement a picture shows how tablets now disintegrate the minute they reached the throat. . ."

I'm afraid Mrs. C. is adding 2 and 2 and getting 22. Just the opposite. raises some important points.

Yes, hundreds of children die from aspirin — but not from taking just one tablet. In their innocence, they eat a whole handful or a bottleful. In such relatively huge quantities aspirin (as well as a lot of other things) becomes a poison. Statistically, aspirin kills or endangers more small children than any other single poison.

Why? Several reasons. Almost everybody keeps aspirin in the house. Used properly, it is one of the safest medicines known. It doesn't burn like acid, or smell or taste offensive like many common poisons found in the home.

Perhaps some babies think the tablets are candy. Or they have seen adults take aspirin, and what babies see done, they try to do.

DOSAGE AND SIZE

But dosage is based on size. One tablet, for a 15-pound baby is an overdose. It is not safe for a 150-pound adult. A handful of tablets is the equivalent of 10 handfuls for an adult, a massive and too often a lethal dose.

To save lives of children we have to keep aspirin and every other medicine locked up out of reach. Such things as simple iron compounds for anemia can be deadly, too, but they aren't found in as many households.

As to struggling on a tablet, yes, it can happen, but it isn't because the tablet disintegrates too quickly. The opposite is the case. Any small, solid object, if a child gets it in the windpipe, can be deadly. A baby's windpipe is very tiny. That is why croup for example, is such a mean ailment for a baby. Only a little swelling of the tissues can shut off a large percentage of the windpipe's cross section, and the baby struggles to get any breath at all. At the age of two or three years the windpipe has grown enough so that the same amount of swelling does not obstruct as large a proportion of the air passageway.

For safety, don't let a small child have anything hard, and of a size that can get into the windpipe. I've warned from time to time against letting the little ones get hold of peanuts, popcorn, or chewing gum. The same goes for anything of similar size, whether candy, peas, beans, buttons, beads. Or pills, including aspirin tablets.

A bit of soft food, or something that dissolves or disintegrates very quickly — as be coughed up by the child. Something hard can become so firmly lodged in the windpipe that no air can get past.

If aspirin needs to be given to a baby, the safer way is not in tablet form at all. Crush the tablet (or more usually just part of a tablet) and mix it into a spoonful of milk.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Some time ago my friend had her tubes tied, but someone told her she could still have a baby by artificial insemination. I think this is all mixed up. — Mrs. P. D.

Yes, it is all mixed up, because artificial insemination can almost possibly be effective after the tubes have been tied.

Poor Service Is Fact of Modern Life

By SYDNE YJ. HARRIS

One of the most distressing contradictions in our affluent society is the appalling lack of good service — even though the number of service workers in the country has, for the first time in history, passed the number of production workers.

It is becoming increasingly harder to find a good carpenter, a reliable plumber, a competent electrician, a skilled craftsman in a dozen different lines. We are not turning out enough of these people, because their occupations do not have status in our eyes.

The situation is even more desperate in regard to cooks. The state of public cooking in America is shockingly low. Not one restaurant in 50 even tries to rise above mediocrity in its cuisine. Good cooks are hard to get—and bad cooks are hard to get.

In Europe, however, a talented cook has nearly professional status. He is long and carefully trained, usually has a high esprit de corps about his work. A superior cook is looked up to, not down at, as in America.

Another case in point is barbers. The only decent haircuts I have ever had in this country have been at the hands of foreign barbers. The American barber is trained too fast and sloppily; he wields his clippers like a lawn-mower and has no concept of the delicate art of shaping hair with a straight razor.

MORE

Another critical shortage is in the area of auto mechanics. In this most motorized country in the world, whose very economic survival depends on the production and sale of millions of cars a year, our auto-owning population is victimized by incompetent help and interminable delays in getting the simplest repairs made. Americans, by and large, do not want their sons to become cooks or barbers or auto mechanics, carpenters or repair men. We are infatuated with the myth of the white collar job, even though they often pay worse and offer less work - satisfaction than a craftsman can obtain.

An even more dangerous consequence of our entrapment in the white collar delusion is our difficulty in recruiting policemen of above - average intelligence and character. Not only is the pay low and the risk high, but the social status of the American policeman is far down on the scale.

These are the people we need most, however, even in the computerized society of the future. There is no point in having 19 appliances in the affluent household, if there is no one to repair them. Or the most bountiful food supply in the world, if our cooks barely know a souffle from a spoonful. The affluent civilization seems to be strangling to death on its own unfulfilled demands.

Leaders Seek Reassurance In Sure-fire Strongholds

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Notes from the Campaign Trail, — Who likes Mike?

Or follows John?

Who, in short, votes for whom?

Ask the Backroom Boys, they'll tell you.

Claim they have the correct answers, too, and maybe they have, since Liberal and Conservative alike, they tally, duplicating or confirming each other.

These Organization Men in the command posts of both camps have added it up from calculations based on the last two elections.

The last two, because the 1962 and '63 votes were both close.

Too close, since both Prime Ministers, first Diefenbaker and then Pearson, finding it impossible to do politically profitable business with a minority Parliament, called early elections — early that is, on the basis of what used to be any Government-five-year term of office.

The Backroom Boys didn't bother punching cards for the computers on the basis of the '57 and '58 elections, for each was a freak.

In '57, the political clock finally had run out, after 22 years on the Liberals.

TOWN AND COUNTRY

Infinitely weary and perhaps even unwell, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, unaware of his Party's deep inner rot, stepped, helpless, as his ancient Government, inherited from Mackenzie King, tottered to its collapse. John Diefenbaker, then still untested in his new leadership, capitalized on dissatisfaction with the pieces, scarcely gathered up enough to put together a minority Government with Jean who had been in the Opposition wilderness since '25.

Then in '58 Quebec Pearson stood amid the still uncleared ruin of the previous year's Liberal disaster, and gathering a and even more uncertain new leader, and unable to do anything for the province that was the Diefenbaker avalanche.

But '62 and '63 were different.

* *

All but stand-offs.

And just what the political statisticians ordered for Backroom post-mortems.

These inquests produced the same basic formula for both Conservatives and Liberals.

Essentially, they determined, the two elections had split the vote almost racial and, more oddly, age lines.

STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS

It was among the English provincials in the rural areas, the towns and smaller cities, and the Ukrainians and others the Conservatives each time found their warmest support.

The Liberals were weakest among Catholics, French - Canadians and the various large and growing ethnic groups in the larger cities, particularly the massive "Metro" area of Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

And where, of course, the Conservatives were weakest, the Liberals, except for a handful politically offbeat backwoods Quebec, were strong.

The result was Quebec gave the quarter of their votes, swinging a shade short of 40 percent of their ballots to each Liberals.

Other big special population groups in which the Conservatives showed strength were the university students and the out-of-college types, the labor unions and the first-time voters.

The over-21 and under-25 were Liberal, the 30 and 40-year - olds split about evenly between the two, and the 50-year bracket leaned three to two for Pearson, while the over-50 vote was a Diefenbaker monopoly.

The young vote is the growing and potentially changing one. The old vote is diminishing, but solid as a rock.

By 50, claim the Backroom Boys, people have all the jobs they need. The reflex is Conservative and the ballot is marked accordingly.

Odd, in the face of this, has been one aspect of the itineraries of the leaders. Each, when off the platform, has shown a special preference for a special group of voters — those too young up to the university crowd. He makes his best pitch personally to the campus. Diefenbaker courts the elderly and shines his brightest in the Homes for the Aged.

You'd think each man would go where he needs the votes most. But no, each goes instinctively to reach for reassurance where the welcome is warmest.

Too Vague

Vancouver Province

Premier Lesage's visit to B.C. is becoming a memory of a friendly compatriot whose demands for French - Canadian partnership were a little too vague to arouse much comprehension or enthusiasm.

Local Campaign Lacks Color

The Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It is certainly a matter of regret that we haven't been able so far to whomp up any local political scandal to put any zinger in the local campaign.

Certainly the persons living in Quebec have had a much more interesting time of it.

Contrary to Mr. Diefenbaker's apparent belief, we more you lambaste a political opponent as being crafty and given to bribery and pecuniary corruption the more the public is inclined to react against such criticism.

The obvious reason is that the public has always failed in political matters to associate virtue with efficiency, although it may well be wrong in appreciatively believing the converse also to be true.

No doubt this bit of political wisdom is appreciated by Mr. Grills and Mr. Temple who have wisely refrained from any but the most gentle public treating indulged in by such persons as Dr. Marcoux.

Certainly the career of that old rascal Sir John A. Macdonald and his great popularity at the polls makes it evident that the public even likes to believe that the man who can bamboozle both the opposition and the public at the man to vote for as the more efficient politician.

The only sensible solution is for the Liberals to invent some more scandals about themselves preferably one in Ontario, and for Mr. Diefenbaker to openly admit that he has been secretly stealing from the public treasury for years.

There is no reason why Quebec should take any advantage of this bit of political wisdom and why we can't have a more colorful campaign both here in Ontario and in Hastings South.

There must be something that both Bob and Lee can admit to that isn't completely virtuous.

Yours for a more colorful campaign,
Kenneth G. M. Ross.

Union Denies Claim by Reds

Editor,
The Intelligencer

A Canadian Press wire story out of Montreal which appeared in your paper on October 21 quoted William Kashtan, identified as leader of the Communist Party of Canada, that labor can expect 90 per cent of its labor force to be out of work within 20 years.

The story then said: "Mr. Kashtan said the figure of 90 per cent was provided by the research department of the United Automobile Workers' Union."

Kashtan may well have said that, but for your information the research department of the United Automobile Workers' Union wouldn't provide Kashtan or the Communist Party with the time of day. You should have known that. It is to be hoped that your readers do.

The argument in favor of an ombudsman for Canada is almost unanswerable. Perhaps the government is wise to move carefully. But it should not be so careful that there is what amounts to an indefinite postponement.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were slightly higher in light morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials led the way ahead. John Inglis traded heavily and climbed ½ to 7¾ while Canada Iron Foundries "A" stock was ahead the same amount to 25½ in light dealings.

On the active list, Algoma Steel dipped ¾ to 64, Moore Corp., a recent favorite, ¼ to 82 and Oshawa Wholesale A ¼ to 27.

Base metals were fractionally easier with Brunswick falling ⅛ to 16, Denison Mines, which gained 1⅛ monday after announcing a 25 cent dividend to bring 1965's payout to $1.25 from last year, fell ¼ to 39¾, Rio Algom was off ¼ to 19¼ and Campbell Chibougamau cents to 4.55.

The gold group was quiet, but the index recorded a gain of 0.08 at 30.81 due to an advance of 1 to 21 by Campbell Red Lake.

Speculative mining issues and oils were extremely quiet.

On index, industrials were ahead .31 to 168.84 and the TSE index .26 to 159.06. Base metals were off .24 to 85.69 and western oils .08 to 102.73. Volume at 11 a.m. was 564,000 shares compared with 625,000 at the same time Monday.

Base metals turned in a strong performance Monday in a mixed market.

Denison paced metals higher with a gain of ⅛ to 39¼. The issue climbed after the company announced a 25-cent dividend payable Dec. 15.

Rio Algom climbed ¼ to 19¼ while Pine Point, the big lead-zinc producer, was ahead ¼ to 8¼. Campbell Chibougamau gained 25 cents to 5.10, Brunswick ¼ to 16¼, Matagami Lake ¼ to 19¼ and Craigmont ¼ to 12.

The industrial index fell .17 to 168.53.

Price Brothers was off ½ to 37½, MacMillan, Bloedel ¼ to 27¼ and Dominion Tar ¼ to 2 1965 low of 18. Abitibi climbed ¼ to 11¼.

Bank of Nova Scotia dipped ⅛ to 73¼, Algoma Steel ¼ to 64¼ and CPR ¼ to 68¾. Moore Corp. touched a record high of 83¾ before settling at 82¾ with a ¾ gain.

Golds were higher with Dome ahead 1¼ to 41 in light turnover. Giant Yellowknife racked on ¼ to 13½.

United Buffadison was up 3¼ to 30 cents.

On index, golds gained 1.65 to 158.73, Dome metals .85 to 81.93, Western oils were off .38 to 102.81 and the TSE index .07 to 159.23. Volume at 11 a.m. was 2,556,000 shares compared with 2,662,000 traded Friday.

Political Leaders Pour on Fuel as Voting Time Nears

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

With the finish line in sight, Canada's political leaders poured on the fuel Monday and gave the appearance of being everywhere at once as they treated voters to the greatest variety of exhibits since the campaign began.

On stages, television and highways, at press conferences and coffee parties, they discussed beauty contests, trade agreements, wheat sales, old-age pensions, education and, naturally, scandals.

Meanwhile, nominations for the Nov. 8 election closed Monday with 1,013 hopefuls officially in the running for the 265-seat House of Commons. This compares with a record 1,035 in the 1963 general election.

Both the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives entered a full slate of 265, the New Democratics nominated 255, or 23 more than in 1963, Social Credit have 87 candidates and the Creditistes 76. There are 19 Communists and 53 independents.

Going into the second last week of the campaign, Prime Minister Pearson began with his last pre-election public meeting, then flew into his Algoma East constituency to say that the public is being deceived by promises to increase the old-age pension by $25 a month out of contributions to the Canada Pension Plan.

This has been promised by the Conservatives, but Mr. Pearson told 600 persons in Elliot Lake that no money can be taken from the pension fund. And without the consent of the provinces.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker was in the Toronto area Monday and he was reported to have told Conservative members of the Ontario legislature that he expects to form a minority government after the election. He was said to have predicted a gain of 18 seats in Quebec.

Mr. Diefenbaker who squeezed in a speech to a service club, held a press conference and a night rally at Richmond Hill, 25 miles north of Toronto, where he said a Conservative government would allow a special tax deduction for private gifts to universities. He told about 1,500 people that the Liberal government, which "bends before every breeze," produced two flags, two pension plans and two laws—one for the rest of us and another for the fellows like Rivard, Banks and the rest."

The leaders of the major parties were joined in Ontario Monday by Social Credit Leader Thompson, who continued to his out at the alleged efforts to have six Social Credit MPs give their support to the Liberals after the 1963 election.

"SKULDUGGERY AFOOT"

"The lowest form of political skulduggery," he told reporters in Ottawa.

Mr. Thompson said he has been kept informed on the work of Guy Marcoux, his former party whip, who is conducting an investigation into "the affair of the six." The six MPs are alleged in a pamphlet that Transport Minister Pickersgill and others took part in encouraging the six to sign a statement in support of the Liberals.

Indications Fulton-Favreau Formula May Be Shelved

By GERARD ALARIE

QUEBEC (CP) — Indications are that the Fulton - Favreau constitution - amending formula, the subject of heated vocal opposition by Quebec's opposition Union Nationale party, will be shelved at least temporarily.

The formula has been the subject of public controversy in Quebec for several months, and Premier Jean Lesage, who said earlier this year he would promote the formula, said recently he is not yet ready to say "yes or no" to it.

It was developed by three different federal governments over a four-year period with the cooperation of all provincial governments. A year ago, it received the unanimous approval of all Canadian premiers at a special federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

The formula was first presented to the public in 1960 by Davie Fulton, then Conservative justice minister. Its purpose was to allow Canada to break the right to amend the Canadian constitution to Ottawa from London.

The first draft of the formula was amended in 1964 by Guy Favreau, then Liberal justice minister, and approved by provincial representatives.

At Charlottetown in 1964, during a constitutional conference held while Prince Edward Island was celebrating its centenary, the prime minister and the premiers unanimously agreed the constitution must be "repatriated."

NEEDS UN APPROVAL

The Canadian constitution is made up of several sections of the British North America Act, adopted in 1867 by the Parliament of the United Kingdom, and can only be amended with its approval.

The Fulton-Favreau formula, if passed by the Canadian government and approved by that of the United Kingdom, would eliminate the powers which the Parliament of the United Kingdom has over the Canadian constitution.

The bill to amend the Canadian constitution, after adoption of the formula, would be in the form of an address to the Queen.

The Fulton-Favreau formula has received the approval of all provincial legislatures except that of Quebec.

Premier Lesage said last Friday in the legislature that the holdup is caused by the issue of the method of amending the constitution and that he is not yet ready to approve the formula.

Will Probe Lake Ontario Gulls' Deaths

GUELPH (CP) — A department of the new wildlife diseases and virus research institute at this University of Guelph will investigate the cause of death of hundreds of herring gulls along the shore of Lake Ontario.

Dr. Lars Karstad, head of the wildlife diseases division, said Monday the fish pathology department will receive fish from the department of lands and forests in a study of the deaths.

"All we know is that the dead seagulls we examined had DDE, "a metabolic breakdown product of DDT (a pesticide), in their liver tissues," he said.

"Since seagulls are fish-eaters, we naturally assume the fish may have been the poisoning factor."

Search Moves Into Third Day For Missing

TOBERMORY, Ont. (CP) — A search moved into its third day today for four Toronto underwater photographers missing since Saturday when they set off to explore the wreckage of a 19th-century steamboat which sank in 1903 off the Bruce Peninsula.

High winds and rough seas have hampered the search so far.

An aerial search of islands where the party might have sought shelter from the heavy seas turned up no trace of the men Monday.

Missing are Prof. Eric Deane, 61, of the University of Toronto geology department; Thomas C. Nicholson, 26, a draftsman; Ario Gatti, 41, an artist and designer; and Peter Macfarlane, 39, an executive producer with Toronto television station CFTO.

A helicopter swept over eight islands and along the west coast of the Peninsula Monday, while four conventional aircraft flew over a large section of Georgian Bay.

PREPARED FOR SHIPS

Heavy seas and winds as high as 40 to 50 miles an hour prevented participation of surface craft in the search Monday.

Conservation officer Merrett Marr, who took part in Monday's helicopter search, said if the boat had not sunk it might be as far as 25 miles out on Lake Huron by now.

The missing men set out Saturday to explore the sunken wreck of the Newago off Cove Island, four miles from here. Experts place it about 60 miles north of Owen Sound.

When they left the wind was calm and fishing vessels did not leave harbor. The men were in a 16-foot aluminum boat driven by a 40-horsepower motor and loaded with skin diving and underwater photographic equipment.

Paul Peacock, a youth who helped the party load their gear and in the bow was well down in the water as the men left harbor.

Miss K-T. Horn Will Address Canadian Club

Members of the Canadian Club of Belleville and District will gather at Sir Winston Churchill School this coming Friday evening, at 8.15. They will be privileged to hear Miss Kahn-Tineta Horn, a Mohawk Indian of the Six Nations Iroquois Confederacy who lives at Caughnawaga Reserve, Quebec.

Until the age of Miss Horn was prepared herself ideently for what she felt was her Crusade in life - to improve life for the Indians. She has chosen as her topic "The Indian Awakes A New Frontier."

Miss Horn was an excellent student, attended Sir George Williams University, was elected Carnival Queen there (the first Indian ever so honored). She always worked while studying. She studied economics for almost a year in Europe and travelled in Mexico, United States and Canada. Two years ago she came forward in television appearances, radio broadcasts, newspaper and magazine articles with revelations of the pressing conditions of the Indians - and what is going to happen to them.

The speaker, who describes herself as an Indian fighting and struggling for her people, has spoken widely in the United States and now wishes to speak to Canadians and make them aware of the cost of delaying action, the great expense of doing nothing, and the urgent necessity of facing the problems of the Indians which will presently make Canada 25 per cent Indian within 100 years.

Miss Horn prepared herself with nearly 10 years of study, and then commenced full time work for Indian Welfare at her own expense just two years ago.

Back From Germany, Will Speak Here

Special services this coming weekend at the Salvation Army Pinnacle Street Belleville Corps will be conducted by Major and Mrs. Cyril Fisher, who recently returned from Germany. The Major has been in charge of the work of the Salvation Army, with the Canadian forces in Germany, and on Saturday at 8:00 p.m. will show colored film slides of the work among the Canadian forces and their families. Prior to his appointment in Germany, Major Fisher was in charge of the Belleville Corps.

Argues Errors Made in Trial Of Minister

TORONTO (CP)—The lawyer for Russell D. Horsburgh claimed Monday that a whole series of mistakes were made at the trial of the United Church minister convicted a year ago of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Charles L. Dubin of Toronto argued before the Ontario Appeal Court that trial judge at Chatham made some "startling" findings and "completely fundamental errors" in dealing with the evidence of teen-agers who testified or were encouraged to leave them at Chatham's Park Street United Church between July, 1963, and June, 1964.

He was convicted on five charges by Judge W. H. Fox in juvenile court and sentenced to a year on each count, the terms to run concurrently. Mr. Horsburgh, who has been free on $2,500 bail pending appeal, now is in jail at Chatham for the duration of the appeal court proceedings that began Monday.

According to Hoy

By Claire Hoy

Hail the Conquerors !

Now that the National Hockey League season has opened, and taking into account that I am already an unacknowledged expert in the field of sport, (i.e. my prediction, in writing, that the Hamilton Tiger-Cats would finish first in the east and Calgary in the west — the matter of handing the Grey Cup to Hamilton is a mere formality now) I feel it only proper at this time to offer my predictions for the hockey season.

Knowing full well that some will disagree with me — I mean some even scoffed at my Tiger-Cats, I can only say that anyone, if they dare, can laugh at my hockey predictions. But when these predictions prove to be accurate, I will stand for no alibis.

And the day of reckoning is sure to come.

Enough preamble!

Toronto Maple Leafs, those artful hockey maestroes under the wing of Mr. Imlach, will win the Stanley Cup.

If you are still reading this column — many no doubt, not having the courage to face reality, probably choked to death on the last line — then you are no doubt a very realistic, capable, intelligent and wonderful person. Either that or you are trying to discover if the whole thing is for real.

That Toronto will win the Stanley Cup (this year) is not in doubt. There are no ifs and no buts.

With a moment's reflection I am sure you will.

The but is this: But they will not finish the regular season in first place. Rather, they will bide their time, doing as well as they must, all the while setting the other teams up for the kill in the playoffs.

As I write three gems of wisdom, I hear some yelling and screaming, and I even hear even gnashing of teeth, from certain persons in this editorial room. The same persons who cheered for Ottawa's Roughless Rooters, and one who even had the audacity to say the B.C. Lions (hah, hah, hah) would win the Grey Cup.

These same persons, as if they have not committed enough errors, are yelling that the Montreal Canadiens will win the Stanley Cup. As they have already demonstrated their inaccuracy as predictors, I choose to ignore their fruitless protests and press on with the business at hand.

It has been brought to my attention that the Montreal Canadians managed to cop the cup (that's sports talk!) last year.

However, I remember one year when it snowed in July, all of which goes to show that flukes will happen.

So much for Montreal. Besides, even though I must admit they will probably finish first in regular season play.

Chicago!

Nobody said Chicago! Well, for a team with only four big league hockey players, they did not fare too badly last year. But that was last year. They should finish second or third and battle it out with the Leafs for the playoff spot, where they meet Montreal in that bracket, in which case they would win. (They cannot keep choking up forever.)

Detroit, first place finishers last year, can hope for no better than third or fourth. They traded away half of their hockey players during the summer — a trade which strengthened Toronto and ensures them of victory.

Oh, I almost forgot Boston and New York. New York looked good in exhibition games, and may give the fourth place club a battle, but Boston — well Boston is even with their new management, they are in sad shape. However, there is something to be said for the Bruins because it takes a strong team to hold up the rest of the league.

Now you are saying that I am biased. Well, that is a terrible thing to say — even if it is true.

When it comes time for the Stanley Cup,
Who will be there to lift it up?
The Maple Leafs, my friend! Hurrah!
The magnificent team that's dressed in blue.

NOTE: My predictions are subject to change if the Leafs continue with their weekend showing and fail to score a goal all year.

Personal Contact Important

TORONTO (CP) — Personal contact may be the most important patient rehabilitation work hospital volunteers do, the annual convention at the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario was told Monday.

During a panel discussion on new trends in volunteer services in rehabilitation, Mrs. Gerry Ostrower, a Toronto therapist, said the volunteers may even be able to persuade an elderly, chronic patient to take an interest in life when she had given up.

Retiring President Mrs. William Smolkin of Perth said the Ontario association now includes 304 auxiliaries. The St. Catharines General Hospital Auxiliary celebrated its 100th birthday this year, the Tillsonburg District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary its 40th.

Mrs. Smolkin said 76 hospitals now have teen-age volunteers programs.

Mrs. R. L. R. Moore of Burlington was the IAA line as active membership of 23,150, a nominal membership of 68,187. "They raised $1,000,133, more than half of which was spent on equipment for hospitals. About $134,000 went to assist nurses, technicians and nurses' aid and more than $38,000 on education.

WEDDING

ACKERMAN — WOOD.

A candlelight marriage service, performed by Rev. J. M. MacKnight in Calvary Temple on Saturday, October 23, 1965, at 7:00 p.m., united in marriage Lois Evelyn Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wood of Belleville, and John Ross Ackerman of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ackerman of Shaken Bay, Ontario. Miss Carolyn Brown of Peterborough played the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Diane Leach of Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie, with a semi-full skirt falling from a fitted waistline and a detachable train of peau de soie attached at the shoulders. The bodice featured a scooped neckline and lily point sleeves. Her headdress was a halo with matching braid from which fell an elbow length tulle veil, and she carried a white gardenia on a white Bible.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Barbara Bailey of Belleville, sister of the bride as matron of honor, Miss Merlin House of Belleville, Miss Sharon MacMahias of Orillia and Miss Shirley Harrison of Peterborough, as bridesmaids, and Miss Diane Ackerman of Galt, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, all wore floor length gowns in gold peau de soie with matching elbow length gloves and headpieces. They each carried baskets of mint green mums and baby's breath with gold.

The bridegroom's attendants were his brother, Mr. Robert Ackerman of Galt, as groomsman, and Mr. Donald Hartwell of Scarborough, Mr. Garfield Hayborne of Toronto, cousin of the bride, and Mr. David Quigley of Peterborough as ushers. Master Gary Hartwell of Belleville, nephew of the bride, acted as ring-bearer.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Wood received the guests, wearing a navy blue dress with suit with black accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Ackerman was attired in black floral silk jersey dress with black accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

For her wedding trip to western Canada, the bride chose a cherry red wool crepe suit with white hat and gloves and a corsage of white gardenias.

On their return, the couple will live at 815 George Street North, Peterborough.

U.C.W. Meetings

AFTERNOON UNIT

THOMASBURG — The regular meeting of the Afternoon Unit of Thomasburg UCW was held in the church hall on Wednesday afternoon with 12 present.

The leader, Mrs. Stella Doughty, read the scripture, Mrs. Nettie Morton read the Scripture. This was followed by an interesting discussion on Thanksgiving given by Mrs. H. Vance.

A committee was appointed to plan for the turkey supper on Nov. 3rd. An invitation was received from Bethesda UCW to attend a bazaar and tea on Nov. 10th.

Mrs. Edna Grills presented an interpretation of a chapter from the study book, the theme of which was "The Chosen People."

Mrs. Lillian McTaggart and Mrs. Stella Doughty served lunch.

PM'S WIFE DISLIKES CAMPAIGNING — Mary Pearson, wife of Prime Minister Lester Pearson, doesn't like campaigns. She feels uncomfortable in crowds where her frankness and wit are often misunderstood but is an avid listener when her husband is speaking. It was agreed to again have a dollar doll with Mrs. Shirley Smith acting as convener. Mrs. Doris Paquette to convene the Snow Queen contest.

The draw prizes were won by Mrs. Doris Paquette, Mrs. Shirley Andrews and Mrs. Pauline Hughes.

Mrs. Pearson's Frankness Makes Her Misunderstood

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — When you ask Maryon Pearson a question she doesn't beat around the bush wondering how a prime minister's wife should reply. She has a disarming tendency to be herself.

There is no automatic "I love it" in reply to questions about what it's like being the wife of the prime minister. Nor are there any "it's so lovely being here" responses when Mrs. Pearson would rather be somewhere else.

Her frankness, coupled with a sharp, sometimes tart, wit, has tended to generate some criticism among the vote-conscious hierarchy of the Liberal party. And some Opposition strategists fairly glow with glee when Mrs. Pearson says something they consider loses than prime ministerial.

In print, Mrs. Pearson's sharp comments appear harsher than when she utters them in the confines of a small room. The bare quotations don't carry the twinkling eyes and the warm smile that usually accompany them.

The result, many of her friends think Maryon Pearson is one of the most misunderstood women in Canada.

She has been accused of being "very private" — although she doesn't quite know herself what that means—of being mysterious, dull and disinterested. Her sense of humor has been described as overly-caustic, cutting and razor-sharp.

LAUGHS EASILY

The Canadian people generally, says one friend, don't really know Mrs. Pearson. "And they have to get to know her in large crowds- where she feels uncomfortable."

Her shyness and hearing about the "public Mrs. Pearson," a reporter approached an interviewer in her hotel suite with consider a b l e trepidation. She didn't appear to be an easy person to talk with. But the fears proved to be a massive misconception.

Maryon Pearson, away from the hub-bub of politics, is a warm, mild - mannered grandmother whose laughter bubbles out at the slightest provocation. Any interviewer who sits in it reated at herself, not at others. If her public frankness appears unnecessarily blunt, her conversational f r a n k n e s s appears warmly honest.

"Do you enjoy the role of a prime minister's wife?"

"Yes, I do enjoy many aspects of it. I do miss not having our own things around us. The furniture is all government-owned in Sussex Drive, and even the things in the cottage belong to the government. Our own things are in storage, and I do long to have them around us."

Another thing she dislikes is being recognized everywhere she goes. Shopping has lost most of the fun.

"I'll go into a store, ask for something, and the girl will say just a moment, Mrs. Pearson.' I feel a lot more relaxed when I can shop incognito."

DISLIKES CAMPAIGNS

She has also found that some of her casual friends stopped phoning her when the Pearsons moved into the official prime minister's residence. "My close friends haven't changed, of course, but others who used to call occasionally now feel that I am too busy. I have to call them."

Mrs. Pearson does not like election campaigns, and she was glad that her daughter, Mrs. Walter Hannah of Toronto, made some trips with the prime minister during the present campaign.

She is an avid listener when her husband is speaking, and occasionally will whisper to him from behind. She prefers not to be publicly recognized, and elaborate introductions embarrass her.

"She would have every right to complain," her husband has said. "When she married me, she expected a quiet life as the wife of a history teacher—I was her teacher and I think she married me to get through her final year. She did get through that year, but how she got through the last 40 I'll never know."

If Mrs. Pearson feels like smoking on the platform, she'll put a cigarette in her black holder; if she feels like powdering her nose, she'll do that too.

One of her ambitions is to travel through the Yukon Islands with her husband, without having to worry about schedules, hats and public appearances. "I'd love to spend a whole month doing that."

But travelling for the sake of travelling doesn't appeal to her. "I just hate packing and unpacking."

Mrs. Pearson loves the weekends she spends with her husband at their Harrington Lake cottage, where she can romp around in shorts and bathing suit, sitting in the sun or read historical novels. She tends to dote over her nine grandchildren, and the best weekends for her are when all nine are at the cottage, shut off from the public eye.

Superstitious Slaves Strangers to Logic

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old boy who needs your help. Yesterday my mom and dad started talking about why they can't sell our house. Finally my father said, "I know the reason. Ever since Robert got that rattlesnake tail with 13 rattles things have gone from bad to worse around here. It has brought us bad luck."

Then he went to my room and threw out my rattlesnake tail.

Mom and Dad have always been superstitious about the craziest things but it didn't interfere with me or my life until now. I don't care if they knock on wood all day long or drive backwards for 10 miles as a black cat won't cross their path, but throwing out the best thing in my whole collection is just too much. How can I help them stop being superstitious?—ROBBED ROBERT.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ROBBED: People who are hung up on superstitions do not respond to logic. They are slaves to practices they believe will protect them against bad luck.

You and I know that throwing out your prized rattler tail won't help your parents sell their house. What they ought to do is put the house in the hands of a first class real estate agent and keep their fingers crossed — oops, I mean hope for the best.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Lately I notice a lot of widows have been writing in and asking where all the eligible men are hiding. I speak from experience when I say some of those "eligible men" should be left in hiding.

My husband died in 1955 and I got a feeling sorry for myself. I must have been crazy, Ann. I owned my own home, drove a new car, had a very nice income and money in the bank. I had lovely trips and did as I pleased.

Then Fancy Dan (five years my junior) came along. He sent me roses, telephoned me three times a day and made me feel like a queen. Naturally, I married him six months later and here's the way it is now:

He owns me $10,000 which he lost on a phony oil deal. The household bills are for 35 people and he criticized her ironing. A son he forgot to tell me about turned up and has been living in my home for three months, waiting to be drafted. I sit at the dinner table like the ten of them talk past me like I was a wax dummy or something. If you print my letter don't use the name of the city. Just sign me — HAD IT GOOD AND DIDN'T KNOW IT.

DEAR DIDN'T KNOW IT: You made a poor selection, Lady, and I'm sorry it happen the first time around the track, too. Some widows find the happiness in a second marriage that they didn't find in the first. Like I said — it's all a matter of selection.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I went with Fred he cracked his knuckles a lot but it didn't bother me except when he did it the movies or in church. He was always very nice about stopping when I asked him to.

Now that we are married I find that Fred can also crack his toes and it drives me crazy, especially at night. He also cracks his nose and his jaws.

I have tried to crack mine but it doesn't work. I can't crack anything. This is a funny thing for a bride to be writing about, but honestly, Ann, I wish I could do something he can't do. Any suggestions? — NO TALENT THELMA.

DEAR THELMA: Yes. Have a baby. It will also give you something useful to do with your time and energy. A married woman who can't think of anything more important to complain about needs a project.

MENU Magic from the TEST KITCHEN

Breakfast Special

Eggs turn their sunniest sides up when they're served with Processed Canadian cheese. Just fry them as usual, in little butter over low heat. When they're almost cooked, sprinkle about 2 tablespoons shredded processed cheese over each egg. The cheese will melt while the eggs finish cooking.

Hot Waffle Sandwiches

Here's an idea you'll be interested in, if ours is a home-for-lunch family. Top hot waffles with a slice each of Processed Cheese, tomato and parsley cooked side-bacon. Slip under the broiler until the cheese is bubbly and crisp, then serve immediately. We use frozen waffles when we're in a hurry.

At Dinner Time...

Give cooked rice instant glamor by mixing in shredded Canadian Cheddar Cheese and chopped onions. Delicious with creamed seafood dishes!

Perfect Potatoes

Leftover mashed potatoes become creamy good when mixed with half as much shredded Cream Cheese. Flavor to taste with finely-chopped onion, Worcestershire sauce, a pinch of dry mustard, salt and pepper. Form into rolls, coat with crushed cornflakes and bake in a 350°F. oven 20 to 25 minutes. Good, this time of year, served with fried tomatoes and cold meats.

Tomato Tricks

Speaking of tomatoes, those beautiful beefsteak ones are good for broiling. Just cut them into thick slices; top with a thin slice each of Processed Cheese, tomato and parsley cooked side-bacon. Slip under the broiler until the cheese is bubbly and crisp, then serve immediately. We use frozen waffles when we're in a hurry.

After the Game

The football fans will be cheering in your corner when you serve them hot hot cheese-y chili after the next game. Start with your own favorite recipe ... we know you all have one. Then just before serving stir in a generous amount of shredded Processed Cheese. Processed Cheese melts quickly and adds a special flavor to this hot and hearty favorite.

Hot Rolls

Next time you open a package of refrigerator butterflake rolls, brush them with melted butter and roll in grated Canadian Cheddar Cheese. Then tuck them into muffin pans for baking. This gives them a delicious eating treat's wonderful with salads or casserole dishes.

37 Women Candidates Nominated for Election

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lenore Andrews has no children and is politically a Liberal. Hazel Braithwaite has four sons, two daughters and 21 grandchildren and is a New Democrat.

The two women are poles apart on the family and political levels, but they have something economical in common—loyalty to people who tough party leaders.

Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Braithwaite are among 37 women candidates for the Nov. 8 federal election when nominations closed across the country Monday.

While they have plenty of feminine company in the political arena, no other woman candidate has a more formidable task.

Mrs. Andrews, a physiotherapist before she settled down with her doctor husband in 1934, is one of three candidates opposing Conservative Leader Diefenbaker in the Saskatchewan constituency of Prince Albert. Mr. Diefenbaker captured the seat in a bonerie in the last general election by nearly 15,000 votes.

Mrs. Andrews has plenty of political history in the family. Her father and mother sat in the Saskatchewan legislature. Both her grandfathers and one great-grandfather were elected to the United States House of Representatives.

AGAINST THOMPSON

Mrs. Braithwaite, associated with Canadian socialism for about 20 years and co-owner of a cafe at Sylvan Lake, Alta., is pitted against Robert Thompson, head of the Social Credit party, in the riding of Red Deer.

Mr. Thompson won the seat in 1963, beating three other candidates. The New Democratic Party standard-bearer, Paul A. Jenson, ran fourth.

The 37 women candidates are six fewer than the number who ran two years ago.

The NDP fielded the most women, 16. Liberals and Progressive Conservatives each named eight, Social Credit three, Communists one and independent one.

Four women won seats in the Commons in 1963 and all are seeking re-election — Conservative Jean Wadds in Grenville-Dundas, Liberal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh in Niagara Falls, Liberal Pauline Jewett in Northumber and, all in Ontario, and Liberal Margaret Konantz in Winnipeg South.

Two other women, Liberal Margaret Rideout in the New Brunswick riding of Westmorland and Eloise Jones in Saskatoon, won byelections. Only Mrs. Rideout is seeking re-election.

Most women candidates are in Ontario and Quebec, where a total of 21 were named. The Atlantic Provinces have three, all in New Brunswick—Miss Rideout, 42, Emelia Nugent, 32-year-old newcomer for the NDP in Restigouche-Madawaska, and Liberal Dorothy Dearborn, 38, making another bid in Royal. Mrs. Dearborn lost in 1963.

A break in tradition is a certain Mrs. Smith in Ontario, where a member by the name of Casselman has been elected for nearly 44 years.

Mrs. Waddle was Jean Casselman when she was first elected for the House in a 1958 byelection caused by the death of her first husband, A. Chair Casselman, who had been the riding's member from 1921 except for one three-year break.

On becoming an MP, Mrs. Casselman joined her father, Hon. Earl Rowe, in the first father-and-daughter parliamentary team in Canadian history. Mr. Rowe was member for Dufferin-Simcoe, 31 continuously from 1925 until his appointment in 1962 as lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

The tall, attractive Mrs. Casselman is the married name of Robert-Wilson Waddle, a Toronto broker.

OPPOSES JUDY

Another Ontario candidate is Jean Douglas, beaten by Miss LaMarsh, 40, in 1963, who is Liberal another stab for the Conservatives in Niagara Falls. Miss Jewett, 42, is running in Ontario's other Northumberland—George Hees, former Conservative transport minister, in the Toronto area.

There is a daughter-father team in Toronto area. Magtha Bresin, 21, is running for the NDP in York West in her first try in federal politics. Her father, Andrew Bresin, seeks re-election for the NDP in Parkdale.

Also in Toronto is Felicity Cochrane, 36-year-old mother of four who is making her first election in Parkdale for the Conservatives. She was stricken with polio when she was two and overcame the crippling disease.

Her opponents are Stanley Haidasz, Liberal member of the last Parliament, and Ralph Dye of the NDP.

One of the 12 Communist candidates is Jeannette Walsh, a clothing-factory worker running in Montreal St. Henri. She has been beaten in seven previous attempts to take a Commons seat.

British Columbia's five-woman entry includes a Chinese - Canadian. Mrs. Gladys Chong, Conservative in Vancouver East. She lost in the riding two years ago.

ORIENTAL CHICKEN LIVERS

Congratulations to the thinking cooks in this audience. It is no mean feat to combine nutrition and economy but there are determined Canadian cooks who do it constantly.

Without being too roughshod, for years and years I have tried to coax unbelievers to serve organ meats at least once per week. I have given here recipes for liver casseroles and pates, sherried and curried giblets, grilled hearts and giblets, sweet 'n sour gizzards, braised and savory beef hearts, and sweetbreads. It warms my heart when you girls write urging me to give more of the same for health or economy, but often it is because you and your husbands and families like them so much.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Scotch Broth; Cufondly Macaroni or Spaghetti (see Mon.); Tossed Greens with Roquefort Dressing; Apple Crisp; 10% Cream; Coffee.

Today Oriental Chicken Livers is my choice and it is so good I want you to try it now and pigeonhole the recipe to use again at your Christmas or New Year's party buffet. This is original so be the first to serve it to your crowd. My recipe serves 4 people for obvious reasons, so you will have to double it to serve 8.

ORIENTAL CHICKEN LIVERS (serves 4):

8 fresh chicken livers (approximately ½ pound) cut in halves, 8 canned water chestnuts cut in halves (see below), 1 clove garlic (at room temperature), 1/3 cup soy sauce, ½ teaspoon curry powder, ¼ teaspoon powdered ginger, 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion or green onion flakes.

Spread out in a long row the halves of bacon on the counter or board. At one end of each, place one half chicken liver, one piece of water chestnut. (I bought one 10-oz. can of water chestnuts for 39c and used the leftovers combined with green beans as a vegetable at another meal.) Roll them in the bacon but as you roll they tend to slip out, so angle or spiral your rolls a little to keep them enclosed. Place rolls open side down in shallow baking dish, large enough to accommodate 16 of the rolls in a single layer. Repeat until you have 16 rolls in dish. Mix together the soy sauce, curry powder, ginger and onion and pour evenly over all rolls and let stand to marinate at room temperature 2 or 3 hours. Carefully tip off excess soy sauce and pour it over rolls again. Add the water chestnut, soy sauce and discard it. Bake liver rolls at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 deg. and bake 10 or 12 minutes longer — until bacon is crisp and liver is just set. This was a smash hit served on rice with some of the pan sauce spooned over. Or it could be served at a party buffet.

Soprano Builds Career Despite Her Blindness

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Lorraine Jackson is a soprano who is building a career as a soloist and voice teacher despite the handicap of total blindness.

And one of her pupils is an eight-year-old girl who also has a handicap, cerebral palsy.

"I can't do a lot to teach a child who is eight years old that I believe that this child can benefit from instruction," says Miss Jackson.

"She can't do every thing other children can but she has an interesting voice, and this can be an outlet for her just as a game of baseball might be for another child.

"The handicapped child is a special child with special problems. I can help this child develop a sense of rhythm and I can make it easier for her to sing."

Miss Jackson began studying music seriously about 16 years ago at the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford, and earned her Grade 10 music certificates in both voice and piano.

"But that wasn't enough for me. I'm a glutton for music," she said in a recent interview.

She became an associate of the Royal Conservatory of Music and got her licentiate in singing from the University of Toronto, taking first-class honors every year.

Her music scores were available in braille, others were transcribed. She took notes in class with a braille slate.

She now teaches privately at home and at Huronia Hall for the Blind, and also goes to Toronto once a week to continue studying. She has given several recitals and was soprano soloist in a production of The Messiah.

Miss Jackson is thankful for the fact that during the first 17 years of her life she had partial vision. But she also gives her parents much credit for her success.

"My parents never made me feel different from any other child. I used to play on the street with them and do everything I could. Perhaps that's why I have fewer complexes than some blind people do. They didn't pamper me and make me feel different."

The Experts Say
Only Responsible Patients Should Wear Contact Lenses

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Since American poet Dorothy Parker wrote "Men don't make passes at girls who wear glasses," some short-sighted women have been going around in a blur.

That is, until contact lenses began to be widely available.

The modern contact lens, a tiny dot of plastic which fits over the cornea, can be worn comfortably and for long periods of time if it is properly fitted under the medical supervision of an eye specialist.

But eye doctors say contact lenses can permanently harm your eyes if scrupulous care is not taken.

Two Canadian ophthalmologists, Dr. David M. Warner and Dr. John A. Pratt-Johnson of Vancouver, say use of contact lenses should be restricted to responsible patients who are willing to follow doctors' orders.

The doctors write in the current edition of Canadian Nurse, official publication of the Canadian Nurses Association, that there are two chief causes of permanent reduction or loss of vision resulting from contact lens wear.

The first is infection of an abrasion (a scratch or tiny cut) on the cornea, resulting in corneal ulceration.

"This ulceration may produce scarring and permanent diminution of visual acuity (acuteness). Cases have been reported in which the eye has been lost."

Secondly, the doctors warn that chronic over-wearing of a contact lens, whether it is well-fitted or not, may result in permanent damage to the cornea.

The eye must be allowed to adapt to the lens gradually, and the wearer must try to wear the contacts every day for slowly - increasing lengths of time.

"Patients who are not adequately instructed regarding this possibility and who, for any reason, stop wearing their lenses for a week and then resume wearing them all day, may precipitate central corneal ulceration.

"The wearing time in such a situation should be increased gradually as if the patient had never before worn lenses."

Dr. Warner and Dr. Pratt-Johnson suggest that the dangers of contact lenses can be minimized by taking the following precautions:

—A complete eye examination by an ophthalmologist is essential before contact lenses are used.

—If the lenses are not fitted by an ophthalmologist, then an examination by an ophthalmologist to ensure that the lenses are safe from a medical standpoint is necessary at the completion of the fitting.

—Patients should seek immediate advice from an ophthalmologist if their wearing time becomes reduced, if the vision becomes partially blurred, if they experience persistent pain or increased watering of the eyes, or if a white patch, however small, appears on the cornea.

—Scrupulous attention must be paid to keeping the lenses clean, and particularly in the case in which the lenses are stored.

Student Group Apologizes For Action

LONDON (AP) — A student group apologized Monday night for a prank in which five male students raided Princess Anne's school and two of them claimed to have sneaked undetected into her dormitory while she slept.

The apology, to Elizabeth Clarke, headmistress of Benenden's school, where the 15-year-old princess is a resident-student, came from the London and district students' charities committee. They stressed that the students' action was unauthorized.

The five students, all in their 20s, who broke into the school during the weekend, declined the use of their names when they related their escapade to the newspapers. They said they pulled the stunt to publicize student charity week.

KEEPS UP HAIR RULE

MONTREAL (CP) — Retired actress Olga Kristi, in Canada since 1955, believes her long hair ensured both luck and admirers during her professional career in Czarist Russia. Now her six-year-old great - granddaughter Natalie carries on the tradition with a chestnut pigtail a yard long. "It tickles my knees but I really don't mind," she says, with an eye to the future.

C.G.I.T. Group Lists Officers

FRANKFORD — The C.G.I.T. reorganization meeting was held last week in Rose Lowery Hall.

The meeting was opened with the theme purpose and theme hymn. A lively singsong was led by Miss Susan Chase. The C.G.I.T. plans to have a candy table at the annual U.C.W. fall bazaar.

A committee was chosen for initiation for new members and organization followed.

The new executive is president — Sharon Dafoe; vice-president — Janie Sharp; recording secretary — Brenda Payne; treasurer — Linda Dafoe and corresponding secretary — Kathy Moran.

The leaders are Mrs. Carey King, Miss Sandra Gray and Mrs. Arnold Sickle.

Mrs. King, assisted by Miss Sandra Hall, led in a devotional period. The theme of the worship was "Our Purpose".

Crookston Couple Wed 60 Years

CROOKSTON — Mr. and Mrs. John La Chappelle of Crookston celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary recently. They attended a diamond wedding Mass in The Sacred Heart Church in Madoc, celebrated by Rev. F. J. O'Neill, and attended a dinner at Blue's Hotel.

In the evening, a reception was held in their honor in the township hall, where they were at home to their many friends and relatives. The couple were the recipients of gifts, cards and a telegram from the Queen. The evening was spent in dancing. Refreshments served included an anniversary wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. La Chappelle were married on October 9, 1905, in St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church in Tweed, by the Rev. Father Quinn. Their attendants were Miss Mary O'Coin and David Latonne, both of whom are now deceased. Following their marriage the couple lived in Tweed district for about 25 years before moving to Crookston where they now reside.

Both are enjoying good health and are able to care for their home and do their household duties. They have eight children living—three girls and five boys. They are Mrs. Vincent (Marie) Baker of Foxboro; Mrs. Stewart (Irene) Ray of R.R. 6, Belleville; Mrs. Ronald (Olive) Rivers of Tweed; Bernard at home; James of Foxboro, Joseph of Madoc, Roy of Stirling, and Maurice of Erinsville. There are 21 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Women's Institutes

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The Mountain View Women's Institute held an entertaining October meeting at the home of Mrs. Ross Fairman and Miss Loretta Fairman of Belleville. There were 22 members and three visitors present.

The correspondence was read and delegates were appointed for the various meetings. They are Mrs. A. Wallbridge, Mrs. W. Barber and Mrs. F. Molley. October 30th was chosen as the date for the rummage sale.

The topic for the meeting was "Fall Fun". Mrs. E. Motley was convener and she introduced Dr. Loynes of Belleville, who gave an interesting talk on diabetes. He used charts, pictures and drugs to demonstrate his remarks.

Mrs. Grant Minaker thanked Dr. Loynes and presented him with a gift from the Institute.

Mrs. W. Burkitt presented Mrs. Clifford Barber with a cup and saucer from the Institute; Mrs. Barber has recently moved from the community.

Mrs. A. Wallbridge thanked the hostesses for their hospitality and also Dr. Loynes for his part in the program.

The meeting was closed and the hostess assisted by her daughters, Miss Loretta Fairman and Mrs. J. Best and Mrs. Ed. Hall, served refreshments.

Mental Health Assoc. Deals With Personality

The iceberg theory of personality development was expounded by a professor of social work at the second in a series of lectures, "Meet Your School Age Child," sponsored by the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Jack McDonald of the School of Social Work at the University of Toronto told a group of 70 parents, meeting in Education Hall at Belleville General Hospital on Monday night, that, "one-tenth of personality shows, the other nine-tenths is hidden. If a ship sails too close to an iceberg," he said, "its hull rams the submerged nine-tenths. If we run up too sharply against an individual, we are likely to strike that part of personality that is submerged."

PERSONALITY GROWTH

"Personality growth is never complete," he continued, "A person can be mature in one area and grossly immature in this. This accounts for much of our peculiar behavior, and gets us into jams.

The end result of the personality growth parents nurture in their children is maturity, the achievement of self or ego, he said. The ego acts as a filter to strain out rebuffs, rejections and disappointments.

People express their personalities by their behavior. A child's behavior serves a purpose. It is never meaningless, no one does something for nothing, and reason alone seldom determines what a child, or an adult, does.

As examples, the professor cited Hitler and Napoleon. They were, he claimed, insecure personalities. They tried to solve their childhood problems through their behavior in adulthood.

"I believe in luck," Mr. McDonald said. "The child born in wartime cannot have the same personality as one born in times of peace. The child born during the depression of the 1930s failed to get the same opportunity for development as one born during the affluent 1950's and 60's.

During a question and answer period, Mr. McDonald got down to the practical aspects of child rearing. Parents, he said, should set limits in the home on what a child can and cannot do. Firm rules governing mealtime behavior, bedtime, cleanliness and similar matters should be made, but the rules should be flexible enough to allow some variation for exceptional circumstances. "If limits are set on home behavior, you don't have to worry about what your child is up to outside the house," he said. These "anchor points" give a child stability and a standard of values to apply to situations he encounters at school and on the playground.

"That type of behavior about which a parent has a real conviction will never be a problem. It's when you aren't sure how you feel about your child's actions that trouble arises," he warned the parents.

In conclusion, the professor offered this solace to concerned parents: "So much of raising children is just living with them. You feel almost helpless while it lasts, but it's mostly a matter of common sense."

The third lecture in the series will be given next Monday night in Education Hall by Mrs. Urquhart of the Toronto Board of Education.

Toronto Changes To Be Small But Liberals Will Lose Seats

By RICHARD JACKSON

TORONTO — Starting from nothing this time, the Conservatives have everything to gain in what for years, traditionally was Tory Toronto with its 18 Commons seats.

And the Liberals, starting with almost everything, have much to lose.

In the campaign committee rooms of both parties there's agreement on two things only: Conservatives gains and Liberal losses there may be, but they will be small.

When pushed, the Liberals reluctantly concede they could lose two.

The Conservatives don't have to be pressed to confidently claim they'll take four.

Split the party difference and it comes out three.

Fighting to hold the 16 they won last time, the Liberals are edgy about Scarborough where their previous winner, Maurice Moreau pulled out, leaving them with an untried freshman against the young Conservative veteran Frank McGee.

And they're not risking many Liberal bets on Stephen Otto, their champion from the last election in York East where the Conservative, William Watson seems a sure and perhaps easy winner.

For Mr. Watson is a wrestler, the renowned Whipper Billy, and, as they ruefully put it, even in Liberal committee rooms, Mr. Otto is "only a lawyer".

And by the same token, Rev. William Smith, the NDP candidate, earnest and energetic though he may be, is "only a minister".

Whipper Billy is locally famed for his good community works and as a farewell to the ring plans one last glorious grunt and groan in Maple Leaf Gardens after the election "and my victory," for the Crippled Children and other charitable causes.

Competing in this humanitarian field, Mr. Otto talks about all the things he did to help the House of Commons page boys. And while, in truth, he did plenty for them, the entire block and Parliament Hill are in Ottawa with no great local do-gooding appeal in East York.

Apart from their "sure winners," Frank McGee and Whipper Billy, the Conservatives the gains with party president Dalton Camp taking Trade Minister Sharp in Eglinton, and former Diefenbaker campaign road manager, wealthy automotive dealer George Hogan bumbling ex-St. Laurent cabinet minister and millionaire industrialist Robert Winters in York West.

The Liberals, of course, are laughing themselves sick, claiming, when able to catch their breath between all the ha-has-ing, that the proposition is so preposterous as to be positively funny.

Where is the NDP in all this?

Enthusiastic and hard at work.

Talking of adding two seats to the pair they won in '63.

The Liberals are admittedly nervous that they might just contribute York South where their Marvin Gelber could lose to David Lewis, the man he beat two years ago.

Mr. Lewis has been campaigning since the turn of the year, and is getting a helping organizational hand from his son, Stephen, an Ontario MLA, and a young hustler who has proved he can roust-out the vote.

But if the Liberals lose York South they could even the score in Danforth where Dr. Tim Reid, 29-year-old assistant to the president of York University, a former pro football star, a Rhodes Scholar and a handsome hunk of man is being given "a chance" to block Reid Scott in his run to hold his riding.

The NDP chances haven't been helped by current demonstrations—the beard-and-beat crowd against the war in Viet Nam.

For a former NDP candidate David Middleton has popped into the headlines and the news—photos with his appeal to Canadians to "sabotage" industrial plants producing supplies and equipment for the U.S. forces in southeast Asia.

This has only served to highlight the anti-American image of the NDP in an area where literally hundreds of U. S. branch plants from Niagara through beyond Oshawa and up Kitchener-Waterloo way in booming southwestern Ontario provide thousands of families with their bread and butter, split level hodles and second cars.

Expo '67 Will Have Uki Monster Built by Sculptor

MONTREAL (CP) — Vancouver Island has Cadborosaurus, Okanagan Lake has Ogopogo. Expo 67 will have Uki.

Uki (the Iroquois - Huron 'term for monster) will be a two - headed, fire - breathing creature constructed of steel by Toronto sculptor Gerald Gladstone.

Unlike British Columbia's two fabled monsters, reported seen only irregularly, Uki will rise at timed intervals from the lagoon adjoining the grounds of the Canadian Pavilion at the 1967 world's fair in Montreal.

Volcanoes marking the monster's lair will begin emitting fire and smoke as the heads rise slowly out of the lagoon. They will continue erupting as the dragon-like body emerges from the water and the 12-foot-long necks are lifted to height of 20 feet.

After submerging, the monster will be concealed in a 30-foot-long trench dug into the bottom of the lagoon.

CONSULTS OTTAWA

The 36 - year - old sculptor designed Uki as an entertaining outdoor feature for the Canadian Pavilion after discussions with Thomas Wood, creative director for the federal government's participation in Expo.

Gladstone describes the kinetic sculpture as a complete departure from his other works, some of them controversial, which include massive metal creations for Canadian airports, government and other buildings.

The monster's entire body and extremities will be fashioned from hundreds of plates each one shaped as part of a cone or sphere. They will be made of stelelogy, a new metal that rusts then seals itself against further rust.

Metal components will be formed by Gladstone at his studio in Georgetown, Ont., near Toronto. Sections will be moved to Expo 67 for erection in the summer of 1966.

A specially - designed hydraulic apparatus will raise the beast out of the lagoon and concealed machinery will activate its long neck. Natural gas will provide the fire and smoke for the volcanoes and flames for the monster's breath.

Most of Milk Jars Now Accounted For

TORONTO (CP)—Almost all 820 jars of plain malted milk powder suspected of containing a toxic substance have been accounted for, Mills Marx, vice-president of the Borden Co. Ltd., said Monday night in an interview.

The largest shipment — 38 cases of 12 jars each—was sent last May to Vancouver, he said.

"Only about three cases, or 36 jars, are still unaccounted for there," Mr. Marx said.

Mr. Marx made his comments after Larry Devlin, western regional director of the federal food and drug branch, said in Vancouver the powder "is sparing no one."

"If you use it, you'll get sick," he said.

However, Mr. Marx said "we have pretty well got all ... off the retail shelves and out of the stores and warehouses" in Vancouver, Edmonton, Kitchener-Windsor, Rexdale, Ont., and Montreal.

Costs $6,500 to Feed Baby Until Its 18th Birthday

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A modern child today eats about $6,500 worth of food between infancy and his 18th birthday. . . . His parents also have spent more than $2,200 to clothe him during those years.

Clay dolls are supposed to bring good luck in Japan. . . . They often are presented as gifts to newlyweds.

Household hints: Eggs will stay fresh in the refrigerator longer if they are washed in lukewarm suds.

If you think Big Ben is the name of the clock in Westminster Hall in London, you're wrong. . . . The name applies only to the clock's 13½ ton bell. . . . Whenever a British king or queen dies, the age of the monarch is solemnly intoned by Big Ben.

Quotable notables: "I would rather live in a world where my life is surrounded by mystery than live in a world so small that my mind would comprehend it."—Harry Emerson Fosdick.

RECORD MARRIAGE

How long can a marriage last? . . . The record—87 years—is held by Sir Temuiji and Lady Nariman of India.

They were wed at the age of five in 1910. . . . He died in 1910.

One of the conjectures of the ages is what Jesus Christ really looked like in life.

What were His features?

Was He short or tall, slender or powerfully built? . . . No one really knows for sure.

The reason He is pictured as bearded is that it was the custom in His lifetime for all Jewish men to wear beards.

Why do men relax?

One study showed that four out of 10 do so unwillingly because of ill health.

Folklore: If you hear a cricket chirping in your home, expect cold weather soon.

A dream about the dead is a sign you will hear good news from the living . . . When the devil appears on earth, he usually takes the shape of a black cat, a black dog or a black pig . . . If your nose itches, you soon will have a quarrel.

Gourmet's paradise: Oskar Davidson's restaurant in Copenhagen believes it has the longest bill of fare on earth.

Its menu, stretching nearly four feet, lists 177 dishes.

Chamber and Service Club Members Hear Candidates

PICTON (Staff) — A combined meeting of Picton service clubs and the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce was held at the Royal hotel Monday night to hear the platforms of the candidates for the forthcoming election. Only two of the three candidates were present, Lloyd Woolsey, Liberal, and A. Douglas Allenbrack, Progressive Conservative, for the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox.

Head table guests were introduced to the meeting by Past Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis, Carl Reid, who also took over from president of Picton Kiwanis Club, Carl Boyd, to chair the meeting for the candidates.

Each of the two candidates was given twelve minutes to express this views and policies while the introductions were not to exceed three minutes.

First to speak was A. Douglas Allenbrack who outlined the party's agricultural program, and promised more agricultural rehabilitation and development act projects. He also promised an eastern feed grant board to assure farmers of feed grain at reasonable prices, development to forage bands, protection of water resources and crop insurance for protection from drought and flood. On his own, he said he will work for income tax redemptions for money spent on wells and assistance for cheese factories and canning factories which produce for export.

Lloyd Woolsey, introduced by Dr. Lloyd Dockrill, said that when the Liberal government took over in 1963 that there was a chaotic condition at that time. He said that there was a division of leadership and high unemployment.

"It has been stated," said Mr. Woolsey, "that a minority government is good for Canada and I agree." If any country is rolling today, he continued, since the Liberal party took over, we are a fine example. "We have achieved the lowest unemployment rate, on record and last year we came close to balancing our budget. We have expanded our country's great national product to possibly a greater degree than even the U.S." We have re-established ourselves in the councils of the world."

"The integration of our defence forces has set an example for the rest of the world, and other countries are watching us very closely. Today we have a more united Canada than we had in 1963."

Following the speeches of the candidates members of the clubs were allowed to present written questions to the candidates.

Conservatives Hold Rally For Candidates

PICTON (Staff) — A large crowd attended Saturday night's Progressive Conservative rally in Picton despite poor weather. Guest speaker for the occasion was the Hon. Walter Dinsdale a former Cabinet Minister with the Diefenbaker government. Present on the speakers platform for the meeting were, Norris Whitney M.P.P. Hon. Walter Dinsdale, former Minister of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources; George Tustin, former M.P.P. Lou Spencer, of Hastings County; Mayor of Picton, H. J. McFarland; A. Douglas Allenbrack and Mrs. Allenbrack and Warden for the County of Prince Edward, Barney Hepburn.

Allan Anderson, president of the Prince Edward Association was chairman for the meeting and introduced platform guests. Mayor H. J. McFarland welcomed visitors to the Town of Picton and brought greetings from the Hon. John Diefenbaker and George Hees. Jim Bird was called upon to introduce A. Douglas Allenbrack and described him as an old Tory campaigner. Mr. Bird said, the present government has tried to govern but with such inapt and such scandal. The introduction was also interrupted by L. Nethery, Crown Attorney, who said that he had gone to school with Mr. Pearson, "He was a nice boy, a smart boy, but he didn't know how to run a Government then, he doesn't know now and he never will," stated Mr. Nethery.

Mr. Allenbrack in his talk, laid out the Agricultural Program and policy and how it would affect the Prince Edward County farmer.

His reference to the Liberal Government Mr. Allenbrack said, "already we have heard of scandals in the Liberal party. The Dorion report was not properly named contained Mr. Allenbrack, it should be called the "Liberal Report" or the Dorion report of Liberal scandals." Mr. Allenbrack was also the guest speaker Mr. W. Dinsdale.

Mr. Dinsdale during the speech referred frequently to the Liberal Government as being "accident prone and scandal-ridden." The hard core of Liberals are the true gentlemen skilled in their art, but civil servant-bureaucrats", he said. "They have entered politics by the back door, without grass roots in their ridings. They have not lived in and been a part of the communities they represent. They are a group of bureaucrats trying to do the job of politicians, it can't be done."

He said the Liberals have put forth a measure plan which has never been discussed in the House of Commons. "They are ignoring the highest body of public opinion in the world."

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Picton Monday night played host to four new members of the nursing staff of Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital who recently arrived from the Philippines. The four young ladies presented the costumes from the costumes from their native land and much interest was shown by the local women for their colorful dress. Shown left to right are Purita Lorenzo, Menina Acuna, Clarita Flores, Purita Uriarte.

Army Personnel Intimidated --MacDonald

TORONTO (CP)—Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, said Monday that army personnel at Camp Petawawa are employed to intimidate Liberty of Canada Bell, four in Renfrew North by-election workers.

On the other hand, Mr. Hopkins had frequently been seen distributing literature to personnel at a base shopping centre, Mr. MacDonald said.

Nine More Executed In Burundi

BUJUMBURA, Burundi (Reuters)—Nine more men were executed in this central African Monday to complete the hanging of 24 persons convicted of participating in an attempted coup against the government in last week's postponed coup, it was announced tonight.

Seven executions took place Monday morning and two more in the afternoon. The nine men executed were all members of the Hutu tribe which outnumbers the Tutsi tribe by about six to one. Hutus have been in the majority in the government since the coup.

Mr. Dinsdale said, "I am not going to appeal before the coming election to get support for the Liberal Government on the basis of being "accident prone and scandal-ridden." The hard core of Liberals are the true gentlemen skilled in their art, but civil servant-bureaucrats", he said.

Marcoux to Tell Wagner Bribery, Perjury Evidence

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Guy Marcoux, who claims to have evidence of perjury and bribery involving a group of Social Credit members of the last Parliament, is expected to meet today with Justice Minister Claude Wagner in Quebec City.

Mr. Wagner said Monday he was told Dr. Marcoux tried to reach him at Quebec City during the day. Mr. Wagner was in Montreal at the time.

The justice minister, who plans to fly to Quebec today, said "the message I received is that Dr. Marcoux will wait until I get to Quebec City before he contacts me again."

Dr. Marcoux, Social Credit member for Quebec Montmorency in the last Parliament, told the RCMP in Ottawa Sunday that he had evidence of perjury and bribery in connection with the actions of certain Social Credit members.

He was told the matter came under the jurisdiction of Quebec province and that he should see Justice Minister Wagner about it.

Sunday night, Mr. Wagner said he had written Dr. Marcoux two weeks ago asking him to come forward if he had any evidence "which could be of use in our present inquiry." He said he had had no reply from Dr. Marcoux.

Dr. Marcoux recently published a pamphlet in which he alleged that offers were made to solicit the support of six Social Credit members to keep the Liberals in power after the 1963 election.

Uranium Future Looks Bright Says Pearson

By DAVE McINTOSH

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Leaning comfortably on the lectern, notes cast aside, the Liberal candidate in Algoma East —Prime Minister Pearson— talked about national and local issues to a crowd of about 600 in the community hall here Monday night.

But he talked mostly about a subject which is both national and local—the future of the uranium industry.

It is national because it bears on Canada's foreign policy. It is local because here—at least in the one-time uranium boom town whose population has slumped to 7,000 from 27,000 and whose producing mines have sagged to two from 11.

Mr. Pearson didn't promise all immediate upswing in the industry but he did say: "The future of uranium looks bright."

He said the government's five-year stockpiling program has been helpful. There is still industry and that when the program expires the industry will be in a far better position.

TALKS SUSPENDED

He said he understands commercial negotiations between the Canadian company and the French atomic energy commission for the sale of uranium have been suspended pending a successful conclusion of negotiations between the Canadian and French governments.

"I assure you we have not, by any means, given up hope that this deal will come to a successful conclusion.

"But to do so we must reconcile our international obligation not to sell uranium except for peaceful purposes to assure that the spread of nuclear weapons is not facilitated.

"We must reconcile this obligation with our policy of building up markets for uranium for peaceful purposes in France and in other friendly countries."

At another point, Mr. Pearson said Canadians are being deceived when they are told the old-age pension can be raised by $25 to $100 a month at once out of contributions made to the Canada Pension Fund. Money from the fund will go to the provinces and can't be used directly by their central treasuries.

"When you are told that money from the fund can be used to increase the old-age pension, I say it can't be done," Mr. Pearson declared.

Mr. Pearson dined with neither Opposition Leader Diefenbaker nor the Conservative party in the constituency.

Mr. Diefenbaker is advocating a pension increase to $100 to be financed out of the pension fund.

LIBERAL PLAN FAIREST

The prime minister said the fairest plan to supplement old age pensions on the basis of need as established by the province is the best and fairest way to deal with the matter.

It was 17 years ago Monday—Oct. 25—that Mr. Pearson was first elected as a member and his constituents greeted him with a rousing rendition of For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

Mr. Pearson said there must be a strong central government to establish a fair economy. This was not so easy when the government was weak in Parliament. Viewed, he said, from a majority.

Canada is "one political state," Mr. Pearson said.

He also said there will be no export of Canadian water to the United States in the immediate future.

"It may be that, in the long-range future, a surplus of Canadian water resources will enable us to do some negotiating for exports with our neighbor, to the advantage of Canada.

"It is something that can be considered in the future but only after we have worked out a national water resources policy."

Mr. Pearson campaigns today in London and Wednesday in Toronto.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John H. C. Riley, assistant business manager of the Toronto Star, was elected Monday by more than 200 newspaper business executives as president of the Institute of Newspaper Controllers and Finance Officers.

Will Establish 'Just Society' Says Douglas

By JANE BECKER

EDMONTON (CP) — T. C. Douglas told a near - capacity audience in the Edmonton Salem Pavilion Monday that Canadians are "fed up" with the old-line parties and the NDP, if it forms a government will establish a "just society."

The NDP leader scored the federal government for "stalling our public life with scandals and allegations of corruption," and for watering down his original medical insurance proposal to a "tin-cup brand."

Mr. Douglas was introduced as the "intellectual champion of Canada, pitted against two paper-weights who didn't show up." Wrestling matches are often staged in the 2,800-seat pavilion.

He was applauded frequently particularly when he said an NDP government would lower the voting age to 18 from 21 and when he said Canada should be able to find $15,000 to pay university tuition fees."if we can find money for guns and war."

He had no hecklers and was given a standing ovation before when he entered the pavilion after he finished speaking two hours later.

The NDP, fielding 255 candidates in the election, is out to win history — could give Canada "the best government it has ever had, if I do survive or mine," Mr. Douglas said.

HONEST PEOPLE NEEDED

"There is nothing mysterious about providing good government. All you need are honest people, with common sense, who know what they want to do and who have the courage to go there."

An NDP administration, he said, would ensure a just society—equal treatment for everyone before the law, equal opportunity and security for all Canadians, and universal, government - administered medical insurance.

In a hard blow at unaccounted-for election contributions, Mr. Douglas said they are behind every case of real or suspected corruption in the last few years was the suggestion of political contribution to one of the "old-line parties.

"If we are going to grapple with the task of securing honest government, we are going to have to limit election expenses and force disclosure of the source of election contributions. It is still true that he who pays the piper calls the tune."

He said the NDPis the only party committed to a medical insurance recommendations of the Hall commission.

The Liberals, he said, have gone back on two of the original "inalienable" conditions of a federally-supported medical insurance scheme. They would allow private companies to administer a plan without guaranteed universal coverage.

The Liberals want to put out-sport anything more than the tin-cup medicare Premier Manning has foisted on Alberta, Mr. Douglas said. He estimated that such a scheme would cost the average individual $200 to $300,000 a year in administration costs and profits.

Socred Leader Denounces Liberal Tactics

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson flew back to his home constituency of Red Deer, Alta., early today after his first day of campaigning in the Ottawa area.

In the capital and in nearby Smiths Falls, Mr. Thompson roundly denounced what he called efforts to have six Social Credit MPs pledge their support to the Liberals after the 1963 federal election.

"Such actions are not those of persons dedicated to integrity," he said at Smiths Falls.

"The lowest form of political skullduggery," he told reporters in Ottawa.

Even if no criminal offence was involved, there was the matter of corrupting six members of a political party to break faith with their electors, he said.

The pledge of support given by the six Social Credit MPs would have given the Liberals a majority vote of 135 in the Commons. However, the six remained loyal to their party and won re-election.

Mr. Thompson said he has been kept informed on the progress of Dr. Guy Marcoux, a Quebec Social Credit MP who in the last two Parliaments who has been conducting a personal investigation into the latter.

PUBLISHED CHARGES

In a recently - published pamphlet, Dr. Marcoux alleged that Thompson Minister Erik Nielsen and others participated in having the six sign the statement in support for the Liberals.

If Mr. Pickersgill had played a role in the affair, he should resign, said Mr. Thompson. The prime minister should apply his code of ethics to Mr. Pickersgill, as he had to Yvon Dupuis, the former minister without portfolio who resigned under pressure after allegations he accepted $10,000 in connection with a race track franchise.

At Smiths Falls there he was a guest at a coffee party for William Hooper, party candidate in Lanark, Mr. Thompson said in reply to a question that former co-leader Real Caouette wouldn't be asked to come back if Social Credit formed a government after the Nov. 8 election.

Mr. Thompson said he had nothing personally against Mr. Caouette who along with 12 other Quebec Social Credit MPs broke away from the party after the 1963 election to form the Creditiste group.

Mr. Caouette's views were not those of Quebec, said Mr. Thompson.

Mr. Thompson told a Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting in Ottawa that the proposed Canadian Bill of Rights if the Liberals is costly, inefficient and violates freedom of both the individual and the provinces.

He called instead for a voluntary, prepaid plan which would be subsidized by the federal government but administered by the provinces.

SIGN MORE COUNTRIES

A record total of 60 countries now have signed up for Expo 67, the Montreal World's Fair.

Minority Govt. Predicted by Diefenbaker

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker unveiled another item in his party's education platform and predicted a Conservative minority government after Nov. 8 during a busy Monday tour of Toronto and district.

He told an election rally in this community 15 miles north of Toronto that a Conservative government would allow a special tax deduction for private gifts to universities.

He said the Pearson government had produced two flagrant violations of election laws—one for the rest of us and another for the fellows like Rilett, Sinks and the rest."

The crowd overflowed into the corridors and into the street outside the hall. It did not put a cease to cheer him.

Several students in the gymnasium gallery, waiting impatiently for the, Conservative leader's arrival, chanted "We want Lester." Some folded posters of Donald Martyn, Conservative candidate in York North, into paper darts and hurled them at spectators below.

One sports fan threw a New Democratic Party poster on a window from the outside, knocked and disappeared in the crowd.

But after Mr. Diefenbaker arrived 45 minutes late—delayed by traffic congestion caused by the unexpected turnout—he paid little attention to hecklers.

Hartley Dean and his two Conservative leader addressed Conservative members of the Ontario legislature for about 5 minutes. He told them he expects to form a minority government after the election.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the party would gain 13 seats in Ontario and did not specify how many it would pick up in Ontario, although he did say that they would gain seats.

After the meeting, Mr. Diefenbaker held a press conference at which he announced that a federal government appoint a transport controller to speed up the movement of grain from the Prairies to Vancouver.

Prairie farmers are facing an international marketing crisis because of the "Pearson government's dilly-dallying on this issue."

Mr. Diefenbaker left Toronto on a midnight train for Quebec City where he is scheduled to address a rally tonight. He then goes to the maritimes for the rest of the week.

BUS CRASH KILLS 13

WARSAW (Reuters) — Thirteen persons were killed Monday night and several were injured in a Dutch bus crash at Siwierzyna, western Poland. Though the bus and its two drivers were Dutch, most of the passengers were Poles returning to their homes after visiting relatives in Britain, the Polish news agency said.

Call for American Halt in Bombing North Viet Nam Gets Little Help

Rolling Drum

key?" asked Crown Attorney John Pringle.

MADE THREE TRIPS

"Mr. Moldaver," replied Cornell.

He said they made three trips with drums from Peterborough and filled a total of 32 drums from the contents of the warehouse.

The method used was to transfer part of the contents from a warehouse barrel to a drum on the truck. They would then carry the metal in buckets until the drums were filled.

The drums stayed in Moldaver's scrap yard in Peterborough until early this year and there was no attempt at concealment, Cornell testified.

There was no attempt at secrecy during the operation.

"If anybody had come along they would have seen you?" asked Moldaver's defence counsel Robert Cartier.

"That's right."

Cornell said he made many trips in the fall of 1963 to pick up scrap at the Deloro site and there were other personnel on the gate at times besides Regan.

LEFTED BRIDGE

The drums inside the warehouse were lifted on a hoist fastened to a beam in the ceiling before the contents were removed.

This summer he read that police were investigating the Deloro stockpile looting and later noticed officers around Moldaver's yard, and had a conversation with his employers.

He later broke with his wife, and quit Moldaver's employ.

Baumhour was immediately subject of intensive cross-examination by both Mr. Carter and Lorne Murphy, counsel for Regan.

He said while he and Cornell removed some of the contents from many barrels in the storehouse they did not replace it with any substitute materials.

He denied asking Mr. Moldaver for any money other than his wages when he quit July 5.

On July 6 he was interviewed by police.

"Do you know why they came to see you?" queried Mr. Murphy, counsel for Regan.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"Why?"

"Mr. Regan called them," said Baumhour.

He then said after quitting Moldaver's employ he went to see Mr. Regan the same day, could not locate him and saw him the following day "because I wanted to know for my own curiosity."

"You were trying to play policeman?" asked counsel.

"No sir, not really," answered Baumhour. He added he was "just sticking my nose into something that wasn't my business."

"I suggest to you you went to Mr. Regan for a rake-off," pursued Mr. Murphy.

JUST ASSUMING

"Just assuming?"

"Yes," answered the witness. The first witness called yesterday was OPP Constable Charles Rowsome, who photographed the scene of the looting.

He said there were 268 barrels in the warehouse when he was first called to the scene May 6. Only 21 barrels were filled with cobalt; two were partially full; 70 were empty, and the balance were filled with cobalt, rock or sand.

"There were no fingerprints on any of the 268 drums" added the officer?

TESTS WERE HIGH

Charles Perry, analyst of the Standard Testing Laboratories, Belleville, New Jersey, who ran tests for Groma Metals on scrap up for purchase by Peterborough Metals, said samples turned up 99 per cent cobalt among the lot.

No copies of the test were sent to Moldaver as far as he knew, only to Groma Metals. Bertoli Wolff, owner of Groma, was a customer of his "and dealing," he said. Moldaver's counsel, Mr. Carter, queried the contents of two letters sent the laboratory by the Groma company. One was quoted as saying the Groma company did not want the analysis revealed to Peterborough Metals unless permitted by Groma. The other requested some of the samples be held back since Groma might need "a little bit for ourselves."

Mr. Perry said his company "very often" got the request to retain some of the samples from processing since clients might wish to show them to their own customers.

United States Customs agent Adam J. Olszewski testified he picked up a cobalt sample from the laboratories which was later transferred through fellow agents Irvine Weinstein and Eugene Reily - also called briefly to the stand - to OPP investigators.

The contract setting up the stockpile in 1955 at Deloro was explained by Joseph C. Devlin, materials officer, Department of Defence Production.

Mr. Devlin said the stockpile's security was the responsibility of Deloro Refining and Smelting and quarterly reports from the company up to April this year showed the cobalt intact.

George Mantle, employed to supervise sampling and packaging of the cobalt when it was being refined at Deloro in 1957-58, said he supervised its storage but had no contact with the stockpile after that.

Clayton Clemenger, who worked on the electric furnace refining process, said the cobalt was transferred to the old by-product Strategic Air Command, called publicly for harder bombing blows at the North, while accepting Hanoi.

ATTITUDES HARDEN

Despite the bombing, on sign has been evident that the North Vietnamese are softening; the reverse seems more likely.

The Washington Post has provided an incidental footnote to the sternity of peace initiatives so far from whatever source, suggesting in a story from New York that those who have undertaken sabotaged efforts to strike up a dialogue in Hanoi by Blair Seaborn, Canada's special representative—with India and Poland — on the International Control Commission formed to supervise the truce envisaged by the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam.

The newspaper recalls that Seaborn's efforts in the North were made public in Ottawa and that last June 17, nine days later, Johnson got in the act. At a press conference, Johnson read from what he called a classified report by an unnamed person to argue that Hanoi was intransigent. The report was speedily pinned on Seaborn and the Washington newspaper says Seaborn's "cover" was exposed and his usefulness ended as a go-between.

It says that Seaborn is being transferred but Canadian officials say he has completed the normal 18-month term on the control commission. That is the reason for his leaving, they say.

Canada Will Mint Special $20 Gold Piece

OTTAWA (CP)Canada will mint a $20 gold coin to commemorate the 1967 centenaries of Confederation, Finance Minister Gordon announced today.

He said the $20 gold piece and its companion, a $10 piece, for normal circulation will be produced by the Royal Canadian Mint.

Each coin will carry a representation of the Queen on its face, and the Canadian coat of arms on its back. The coat of arms now is used on the back of the 50-cent silver piece.

Mr. Gordon said in a statement the $20 gold piece will not be available separately, but only apart of a complete set of 1967 coins mounted in a leather case.

Remember this number...

67...you'll remember this wine!

Queen 'So Very Sweet' Beatles Are at Ease As They Receive MBE

LONDON (CP) — The Queen smilingly honored the Beatles at Buckingham Palace today by pinning the insignia of the MBE over their youthful hearts at a royal investiture.

"She's great," they chorused afterwards to reporters.

Admitting they were nervous, John Lennon said:

"But she was so very sweet, and she put us completely at our ease."

The full name of the Beatles' honor is:

The Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, but better known as the MBE.

Precisely at 11:45 a.m. the four Beatles — Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr—entered the great gilded throne room of the palace.

WEARS SILK DRESS

Standing on a dais dressed in an apricot-colored silk dress, the Queen looked at the popsinging quartet with a big smile.

Then at a signal from an usher, they bowed their mopheads, took four paces forward, halted before Her Majesty, and bowed again.

The Queen hung the silver medal, with its rose-pink ribbon, on hooks attached to their lapels. George Harrison was first.

"It's a pleasure to give you this," she told him.

Of McCartney the Queen asked: "How long have you been together now?"

He replied: "Oh, for many years."

Ringo Starr, the group's drummer, interjected: "40 years."

The Queen smiled broadly and asked him: "Are you the one that started it?"

"No, I was the last to join," Ringo replied. "I'm the little fellow."

DANCES LITTLE JIG

Ringo's wisecrack — and a little jig he danced to the music of the band while waiting to approach the dais—marked the only times the Beatles broke through the traditional dignity of the occasion.

After receiving their medals, the four shook hands with the Queen, stepped back together in unison, bowed, and walked into an adjoining gallery. The medals were awarded for "important services to the British Empire.

One elderly courtier, looking at the Queen standing beneath a velvet canopy in the ballroom built for Queen Victoria, murmured audibly: "I wonder if she (Queen Victoria) would have been amused today?"

While things were quiet, serene and even courtly inside the palace, several thousand screaming teen-agers charged the strong squads of constables guarding the great palace gates. They were politely but firmly restrained.

The most violent scene was when the Beatles departed.

Screaming hysterically, a girl in a red sweater and red jeans, jumped in front of the car. A police inspector dragged her back—just in time—out of the path of the car which braked sharply and came to a halt.

With this, other girls stormed the police lines, and for several minutes there was bedlam. And the Beatles' car was stuck in it.

Several girls fainted, others sobbed hysterically and chanted: "Long live the Queen, long live the Beatles."

Prime Minister Wilson announced the award of the MBE to the Beatles June 11.

Traces of Acid Found in Water At Brockville

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Traces of carbolic acid were found Monday in this city's water system.

The acid was spilled accidentally Friday in a car-truck collision on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway near Ivy Lea, 25 miles west of here. The acid seeped into the St. Lawrence River through drainage ditches.

G. R. Phillips, chairman of the public utilities commission here, said the tainted water was not dangerous to humans but had an offensive taste and odor.

Meanwhile, in Kingston, Harry South of the Ontario water resources commission, said tests of samples showed parts of acid for each billion parts of water. The acid is poisonous to humans in a solution of 50 parts of acid to each billion parts of water, he added.

Inland water near the scene of the accident will be contaminated for a year, he added, and already the bodies of hundreds of pike, carp and perch have been spotted in the St. Lawrence. The fish were killed by the acid, he said.

Truck driver Clifford Neale, 47, of Belleville remains in critical condition in hospital at Kingston with severe cid burns to his legs and arms.

Library Board Sponsors Open House

DESERONTO — Deseronto Public Library Board held an open house, October 21 for the members of the town council and the Board of Education. In spite of the inclement weather a good number attended.

Mrs. Ross Sexsmith the chairman of the Library Board greeted the visitors and gave a short resume of the work which had been done in the library in the past and outlined plans for the future.

The guests browsed around to look at the new reference books, replicas of sculpture which have been added to the collection and old pictures of high school classes. A great deal of reminiscing was done over these pictures with everyone trying to recognize as many faces as possible. On display also was a minute book from the Mechanics Institute, dated 1885, which also lent books to the public.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson gave a travelogue, illustrated by films, of their recent trip to Mexico, and also showed films of their son's trip to British Columbia and California. Both films were colorful and interesting and were enjoyed by all present.

The evening was brought to a close with refreshments served in the reading room, which has a very warm atmosphere with its reading lamps and large easy chairs.

Mrs. H. Toppings, Mrs. W. Jackson and Mrs. E. Vandervoet served the lunch.

OPEN TALKS

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The West European and Canadian ambassadors Monday began a two-day, closed-door meeting to discuss U.S. policy in Europe. Main topics will include the present dispute in the Common Market and a European voice in the strategy of a possible multi-lateral nuclear force in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Chinese Communist Leaders Looking Spry And Confident

Reuters' Hong Kong correspondent Ian McCrone is on a three-week, 4,000-mile tour of China. Here is another of his articles.

By IAN McCRONE

PEKING (Reuters)—The top men in China's elderly Communist hierarchy look spry and confident.

Chairman Mao Tse-tung, portrayed as the spiritual as well as temporal leader of the nation, is chubby and deliberate.

In his early 70s, he remained standing the full two hours at National Day celebrations this month, waving to the massed marchers from the Tien An Men Gate (gate of Heavenly Peace).

The previous evening he attended a state banquet, eating, drinking and smoking with Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Sihanouk.

Aides hovered at both elbows as Mao walked slowly down the floodlit steps after the dinner. But he made his own way out.

Premier Chou En - lai, 67, thin-grey-haired, crew-cut and handsome, was one of the spotlighted figures at the airport when Sihanouk arrived.

NOT SO BOUNCY

Not so bouncy is the white-haired head of state, Liu Shao-chi, who, as the other Communist leaders, wears well-tailored light-grey or powder-blue uniforms. He is in his 60s.

First prize for stamina should probably go to the burly foreign minister and vice-premier, Chen Yi, 64.

The bull-voiced former marshal of the army astonished foreign correspondents in Peking recently with a non-stop, four-hour press conference.

The only pauses he took as he chain - smoked his way through the questions were breaks for translation.

The average age of the collective leadership is more than 65 and the party chiefs make no secret of the fact that they will not see the full fruits of their revolution.

But nowhere in any of half-a-dozen of China's big cities or in the surrounding countryside did I hear any whisper of what might happen when Mao goes.

PRESENCE DOMINATES

Everywhere his presence dominates the scene, usually in the tangible form of a portrait in factory boardroom and peasant cottage, always in the reverent references with which the cadres punctuate their speeches.

Mao and his gospel are given credit for everything—the correct socialist line, the discovery of a production short-cut, even the successful rejoining of a severed hand.

Earlier this month, I was told in Shanghai that by obeying Mao's dictum on the use of collective wisdom, workers had solved a problem of making engine blocks.

Lacking alloy steel, they began experimenting with top-grade casting steel and, after several failures, their combined efforts were successful.

In the same city, a brilliant young surgeon, Dr. Chen Chang Wei, paraded two of his patients at the No. 6 teaching hospital.

HAND SEVERED

One had had his hand severed at the wrist. The other had lost an arm above the elbow. Chen performed the operations which restored the severed parts.

After explaining the technical details, the 35-year-old surgeon said:

"I think that the successful rejoining of these limbs was due to the correct line of the Chinese Communist party under the leadership of Chairman Mao, who had urged us to learn from the wisdom of the masses.

"I just did my part. I was able to undertake responsibility for the operations because of the education I got under the loving care of the people."

That's how it came through in translation. When questioned, Chen explained that he had been inspired by Mao's teaching that China should be able to do not only what the West could do but what the West could not.

Chen said that the operations had been a collective effort, as did the descriptions of them, in medical journals.

Canadian Visitor Finds Russians Hospitable to Ornithological Group

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Lavonia Stockelbach. A frequent visitor to Belleville, Mrs. Stockelbach has travelled widely and contributed many articles to The Intelligencer on her visits overseas. Recently she made a world tour by plane, in the course of which she visited the U.S.S.R. with a party of Canadian ornithologists.

By LAVONIA STOCKELBACH

It has been said that in travelling one receives from a foreign country only what one takes to it. It could mean that your geography has been spott, as hour after hour you try to find on the maps all the queer names on your tickets, you arrive in a state of ignorance and sometimes leave in almost the same state.

Then you search your library for the histories of the foreign lands, but they all seem to be written in fine print, something so many of us are prone to disregard. Interest in history has declined, but can one afford to throw away the wisdom of the past? I could not, so I learned in the heart of Kashmir and in the Republics that make up Russia; in the India where there are so many gods and goddesses and in Russia where there is said not to be even one.

But wait do they mean by that? The French said the same at the time of their Revolution. Perhaps, they merely meant rebellion against a corrupt clergy. It is all too deep for a layman.

However, one prepared to enter that vast country without fear or favor, to take our places in the "largest and swiftest plane" in the world. (Looking from one's place towards the far end of the plane, it seemed a city block away) but of the speed no one could enlighten me, though it took five hours to go by S.V.054 from Delhi to Moscow. Five hours of comfortable sitting, interesting talk, in English, with Russians, and some food.

ON THE RUSSIAN PLANE

The first great astonishment was to see the young girl stewardesses, no caps on their heads and their faces washed! It was easy to believe that the billion dollar beautician industry of U.S.A. had not yet come to grips with U.S.S.R!

Nor were the girls apparently under any stress to make us feel that suddenly we had met some dear friends. A de a r friend popping suddenly on one right out of the stratosphere can unbalance one. It happened that as usual I asked for an aisle seat and was placed beside a Russian who said he couldn't speak English, and next to him a lady who could speak it well. She was Mrs. E. D. Osaminina, grade representative of the USSR in India, and was returning from Calcutta.

She quite naturally wanted to know how I was there on my way to Moscow. When I told her I was on tour with a Canadian group going around the world to study the birds of Japan, Thailand, India, U.S.S.R. and Lapland as far north as the Arctic circle, was she? I'm not startled and translated that to the Russian gentleman who was not interested.

The maple leaf on my tie and miscellaneous attached to my person established my identification and the craziness of Canadians. How we loved birds so she also liked birds. Why? Because they were useful, and I liked them because they were birds.

NO BIRD EMBLEM

It seems Russia has no national emblem chosen from the fowl of the air. To place opposite their bear we had the beaver. I must go to the zoo in Moscow, said she, where I could see hundreds of birds and animals. It was implied that there I surely would learn much. I did not say no but I had begun to be bored by the birds and flocks of India and preferred people.

But I did appreciate the hospitality of Russia to us as ornithological guests, allowing us almost to sink the plane with the weight of photographic equipment, and tape recorders to take home with us records of the bird songs. The only forbidden thing was to photograph the planes in the air ports.

We swallowed all that each other had to say, aided by copious drinks of tea and coffee, leaving she wrote — in red ink — a charming compliment (I think it was) comparing me to a cosmonaut by name Tereshkova, and so we arrived in Moscow.

Someone has said that Moscow is not a town, it is a province. It seemed unending, and without bounds. A first visit was to be to the Kremlin, where some time ago a man in authority had put up a placque announcing that religion was the opiate of the masses. It would have been much more cheerful if he had said a cup of tea. Though both are habit forming, opium is in many ways objectionable while tea confuses flowing quite pleasantly.

There is much good to be said for Russian cookery, once you get used to the surprises. The first time I was served buttermilk at the beginning of breakfast I was astonished but soon noticed that it had in it little specks of real butter. It was ages since I had seen that. Usually at home it was something between custard and junket. Tea was not served until the end of the meal. Jam was served with the omelet and then came bread, good bread, and butter and cheese, and after that the tea was welcome. Some wanted fruit juice but that was rare in Moscow — rarer than caviar — which I saw only once and that was the salty kind for the American trade, and put on frankfurters which was not to the American taste. It was awful; one taste was one too many, and one slightly hoped that the rich, rich Karl Marx was secretly terribly unhappy where he rested now in England.

The Kremlin court-yard is so dull and ugly as not to be worth bombing; the Duma was not in session; the museum full of the glory and pageantry of the pre-assassination days. I retired; losing myself four times before I found the way out, but did see the "largest cannon that had ever been" in the courtyard. It had never been used, lack of cannon balls I understand. Where was Napoleon?

The first pleasure in getting in to the bus to take us down to the Ukraine was to see a Canadian flag hanging over the driver's seat. It was good to see the Saints Patrick, George and Andrew of the Union Jack and the coat-of-arms of Canada in its place. The whole flag with its back drop of beautiful blue sky was a glorious sight. It danced along with us and at the end of the tour, I pointed out that it was looking a bit tired so when I took it to take home as a souvenir. But, the surrogate said "no". Why? Why? It would look fine in my room now. I had for some good many years politically disgruntled Russian friends, and a Russian lecturer who never really was a spiritual asset, but had no time to take part with a work force was still contrary all over the world trying to kill the dragons of evil, all of them, and were once in a while having enough success to keep him from being forever hoping justice did converge.

RUSSIAN PATRON SAINT

What other lovely Saint, Andrew, whose life could almost make you desire Constantinople, the earthly capital of his martyrdom, to make good your quest, is, as was the saint's wish, of India. The Christian apostle had preached in Scythia along the Black Sea as far as Kiev. He was crucified on a cross now still standing in Patras, Greece, which, on the former Greek Royal Family of Russia, appeared in royal blue on a white ground.

The festival is November 30th. I do not know when he became patron saint of Russia, nor how or when he became the Saint of Scotland.

We learn that Christianity came to Russia by way of Constantinople, and not Rome, which Rome, which may account for some of the differences in the faith and for the hold on the people, breach of Christianity. We met in the lounge of my hotel, Moscow, a group interested to see three Churchmen of the orthodox faith standing close by discussing something quietly and earnestly and looking so dignified and handsome in their beautiful simple black costumes. Maybe, there is no God in Russia but there seems to be room and welcome for His ministers.

Says Papers Prove Peking Behind Revolt

By RICHARD MYERSCOUGH

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—Malaysia radio Monday quoted two Indonesian newspapers as saying documents have been found at the Chinese Embassy in Jakarta proving Peking's complicity in the abortive Oct. 1 Indonesian coup.

The radio named the papers but gave no information about the purported documents.

It also said the new Indonesian army chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Suharto, had delivered a firm endorsement of President Sukarno's call for an end to racialism and demonstrations in the country.

The president's plea was an apparent reference to anti-Chinese demonstrations throughout the country in which Moslems and the military have been implicated since the violent pro-Communist coup attempt.

The radio quoted Indonesian broadcasting stations as saying arrests were being made in unions connected with the Indonesian Communist party, started his career as a tin miner.

"I'm The Manager" ★★★★★ ★★★★★ "Not The Coach"

Chicubs Name Durocher Poppa Bear

By JOE MOOSHILE

CHICAGO (AP) —Leo Durocher, the man who coined the phrase "nice guys finish last," has lost none of his brashness or self-confidence despite a one-year layoff from baseball's managerial pictures.

Immediately after Chicago Cubs of the National League announced Durocher had been signed to a three-year contract Monday, the Lip popped off:

"Anyone who makes a deal with me is going to be a loser because I'm going to get the best of it."

In reference to the Cubs' plight of 19 straight second-division finishes, Leo chortled, "All that is going to change as soon as possible."

In less than 45 minutes, the man who managed three pennant winners, swept a four-game World Series from Cleveland in 1954 and was once suspended from the game for one year, laid out his plans for the Cubs, who finished eighth last season in the fifth and final year of experimentation with rotating coaches.

HE'S BOSS

The 59-year-old Durocher lost no time in showing who is boss. When Cub vice-president John Holland announced the hiring of Durocher, a press release was handed out which stated: "There is no immediate announcement as to Durocher's title."

Asked about this, Leo snapped back, "Well, if they haven't given me a title, I'll give myself one. I'm the manager and the only manager. Don't ever call me coach."

Durocher's stormy career as manager began with Brooklyn in 1939. He led the Dodgers to the pennant in 1941 and six years later was suspended for one year by then commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

Durocher returned in 1948 but in midseason he was fired by the Dodgers and hired by New York Giants, replacing the late Mel Ott. He won pennants with the Giants in 1951 and 1954 and topped the 1954 season with the famous four-game sweep.

Durocher was asked about his 10-year managerial layoff, and he answered: "The diamond is still the same size, and you still need to score more runs than the other team in order to win."

Orr Tops Junior Scorers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's easy to see why Oshawa Generals are in first place in the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association: Their star defenceman, Bobby Orr, is the scoring leader.

The Generals have played more games than seven of their eight rivals in the circuit. In three contests last week Orr picked up six points to run his season total to 13.

Orr, considered by most observers a sure-fire bet to make the National Hockey League with Boston Bruins by next season, has four goals and 11 assists.

Second is Oshawa centre Danny O'Shea, who also had six points during the last week for 12 points on five goals and eight assists.

Three players are tied for third with 11 points each: Terry Caffery, Toronto Marlboros, six goals and five assists; Doug Shelton, St. Catharines Black Hawks, seven goals and four assists, and Andre Lacroix of Peterborough Petes with four goals and seven assists.

Goaltender Duncan Wilson of Niagara Falls Flyers has the best goals-against average with a mark of 2.00 in two games while the Flyers' other netminder, Bobby Ring, has a 2.50 goals mark in two contests.

Oshawa goalie Ian Young also has a 2.50 mark in six games.

In 11th Or 12th Round

Chuvalo By Knockout - - Zivic

TORONTO (CP) — Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, former world welterweight champion, Monday called George Chuvalo to knock out Ernie Terrell in their World Boxing Association heavyweight championship fight here Nov. 1.

Zivic, 52, who also held the title of "king of the sex of dirty fighting," said that despite the WBA champion Terrell's jab and a six-inch edge in height, Chuvalo will "wear him down with body punching and soon him around the 10th or 12th round."

"I'm not trying to take any credit away from Terrell," said Zivic, who earned $500,000 in 309 professional fights. "The guy is good and he has an excellent left jab.

"But if Chuvalo puts the pressure on him, works to the head for five or six rounds and then switches to a body attack, he should wear Terrell down and knock him out."

Adopting Zivic's tactics would be a switch for Chuvalo, whose style during his nine-year professional career has been to work to the body from the start and then switch to the head late in the fight.

One of Chuvalo's weaknesses has been his failure to get out of the way of a left jab. The nine losses he suffered were almost all against standup boxers.

Zivic suggested Chuvalo could evade Terrell's left jab by adopting a style of bobbing and weaving.

Zivic's presence is an added inspiration to Chuvalo since Zivic is the only Croatian fighter in the history of boxing to win a world title. Chuvalo is also, Croatian.

The winner of the Chuvalo-Terrell fight may meet the winner of the Nov. 22 bout between Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson for the "undisputed" world championship.

Grudge Match For Top

Bombers Clash With Stamps

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers will ride into McMahon Stadium Wednesday night on the crest of their hottest winning streak this season, hoping to catch up with Calgary Stampeders, leaders in the Western Football Conference.

The Bombers, who won six of their seven games since Sept. 19, trail Calgary by two points and still have a chance at first place, although they'll need B.C. Lions' help to nail it down.

Wednesday's clash-also will be a grudge match for the Bombers—they were humiliated 37-7 in Calgary Sept. 6. The Bombers won the first game here 19-6 Aug. 11.

"They are the best team in Canadian football today and we have to play better than we have all year in order to beat them," says Winnipeg coach Bud Grant.

The Bombers will go into Calgary with virtually the same lineup they had Saturday when they defeated Edmonton Eskimos 40-24. The only doubtful starter is guard Ted Kolosovich who suffered strained knee ligaments in the first quarter.

The Bombers haven't won a game in McMahon Stadium since 1963, but have a chance to tie for first place in the WFC if they beat Calgary and if B.C. does the same in the last regular-season game in Vancouver next Sunday.

The Bombers then would be awarded first playoff spot on the basis of their season's record against the Stampeders.

Alleged "Tampering"

Campbell Opens Probe

MONTREAL (CP)—National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell has scheduled a meeting today with Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion as the first step of an investigation into alleged "tampering charges" against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Geoffrion said last week that he had been offered a five-year, $55,000 annual contract by Stafford Smythe, Leafs' owner, to return to the game as a player.

The former Montreal right wing star retired from Canadiens as an active player 18 months ago and was placed on the Habs voluntary retired list.

He is starting his second season as coach of Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League and cannot return as a player without permission of Montreal Canadiens, who still hold rights to him.

Sam Pollock, Canadiens' general manager, said last week he had filed an official protest with Campbell over the alleged tampering incident.

Juniors Play Exhibition Wed. Night

The Belleville Junior "B" hockey team will play an exhibition game with the City League All Stars at Memorial Arena tomorrow night starting at 7.30.

There will be no admission charge.

The youngsters have been going through a gruelling training camp under Stu Muirhead and they'll get their first taste of organized action tomorrow night.

They open the "B" schedule here Friday night with Cobourg, the opposition. They play their first away game in the lakeside town Monday night.

RICKE ILL

NEW YORK (AP) — Right wing Billy Hicke of New York Rangers has pneumonia and will be sidelined at least two weeks, the National Hockey League team said Monday.

Plan City Hockey League

A telephoned message to the sports department yesterday announced a meeting to form the "Belleville Hockey League" will be held in the Belvedere Hotel Thursday night starting at eight o'clock.

The meeting is scheduled for the hotel lounge room on the second floor.

The "voice" said that all interested in the formation of a city league will be cordially welcomed.

CHECK KUBEK

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Kubek of New York Yankees, sidelined for long periods with an assorted ailments last season, will undergo a physical examination at Mayo Clinic today.

Forwick Western Top Rookie

REGINA (CP) — Ron Forwick, a defensive end who came to Edmonton Eskimos from Edmonton Huskies, today was named winner of the Dr. Beattie Martin Trophy as the outstanding Canadian rookie in the Western Football Conference this season.

Forwick took 15 of a possible 25 votes for first place and was well ahead of runner-up Gerry Shaw of Calgary Stampeders in the voting by sportswriters and broadcasters in the five WFC cities.

The trophy, donated by a former president of Saskatchewan Roughriders, was won last year by flanker Billy Cooper of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

There were six flags on display—two inside the building and four outside—and all of them were provincial flags, a Red Ensign bearing the crest of Ontario.

The Canadian flag flew at Maple Leaf Gardens the latter part of last season, but was removed this season on orders from the Gardens management.

John Bassett, chairman of the board, did not want to discuss the matter and told reporters they would have to ask Leaf president Stafford Smythe since it came under his jurisdiction.

Imlach Unworried

Says Leafs Lethargic

PUNCH IMLACH

TORONTO (CP)—Punch Imlach, coach and general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, isn't quite ready to push the panic button despite two straight shutouts suffered by his club during the weekend.

The Leafs lost their first game of the 1965-66 National Hockey League schedule 4-0 to Chicago Black Hawks here Saturday night and 3-0 to the Red Wings at Detroit Sunday.

Asked whether he intends to demote anyone to Leaf farm clubs before meeting Boston Bruins here Wednesday, Imlach said:

"It's much too early for anything that drastic. You don't panic because you've been shut out twice. That's happened to us before and it will happen again. And, if I did make changes in personnel, it would not affect our so-called big guns, the guys who've supposed to get our goals."

He said his club wasn't working hard enough.

"The guys are letting themselves get pushed around. They don't seem to want to win as much as the other guys. You have to give until it hurts to win in this league."

King Clancy, Imlach's assistant, pointed out that when Leafs were beaten on opening nights in the past, they "always finished strong."

Could Toronto continue along the same path, Imlach may be forced to call up centre Peter Stemkowski and winger Eddie Shack from Rochester Americans of the American League. These two changes can only be made, however, after both players have spent two weeks in the AHL.

Fans Show Unflagging Interest

TORONTO (CP)—Failure to fly the Canadian flag at the opening game of the National Hockey League season at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night has drawn hundreds of protests.

The Gardens switchboard reported it was besieged by hundreds of calls Monday.

There were six flags on display—two inside the building and four outside—and all of them were provincial flags, a Red Ensign bearing the crest of Ontario.

The Canadian flag flew at Maple Leaf Gardens the latter part of last season, but was removed this season on orders from the Gardens management.

Dennis Hull of the Point Anne Hulls (Belleville is now a suburb, sports-wise of the Cement City) may be destined to spend his hockey career in the shadow of his gifted brother, Robert Marvin Hull, but the 20-year-old Hawks' sophomore is going to occupy a huge chunk of that shadow.

DENNIS HULL

Dennis is one of that rare coterie of NHL players who made a direct jump from junior hockey to the big time.

A Chicago writer says he found the leap just a bit too much for his skating ability.

Manager Tommy Ivan and Coach Billy Reay realized this and tried to get him to their Central League farm in St. Louis. However, he'd been signed to a pro contract after the draft session and had not been on the Hawks' protected list.

This meant, the story says, that after the first six games of the regular season the Hawks had to get waivers from the rest of the league before he could be sent down.

When his name appeared on the waiver list the Leafs' Imlach and two other managers put in claims. Thus Dennis was forced to spend his first NHL season in relative idleness. But not enough action to score ten goals but his skating ability wasn't sufficient to overcome his lack of experience and Reay couldn't give him any more work.

There was speculation that Dennis would be given a year of seasoning with a minor club this season because the Hawks were free to send him out without waivers.

But Dennis had other ideas. He gave all he had, and raised railbirds' eyebrows during the training camp with his spirit and desire.

This caused Billy Reay to say, "Dennis will be with us. We might have thought of sending him down but he's worked so hard and shown so much improvement that there wouldn't be much point to it."

It doesn't mean that the 6-1, 190-pound Dennis has suddenly developed into a gifted hockey player. Reay says his skating—particularly his take-off speed —has picked up. But there are still a lot of rough spots. The potential is there, though, and it is starting to develop."

The younger Hull's biggest selling point, says the Hawks' brass, is his terrific shot which some regard as being better than brother Robert's blazing blasts.

"All he has to do is learn to wait for the good chance to fire that thing," Reay is reported as saying. "He may get three good chances some games and at other times he may get none, but he has to be patient. And when he does fire he gives most goalies the sweats."

Dennis is willing enough to handle the defensive chores at left wing, but Reay insists he doesn't realize the full importance of checking his wing.

"That will come, though," says the Hawks' coach. "Goals are the big thing for any kid coming into hockey. But the good ones learn that games are won by defensive play. And Dennis is going to be a good one."

"It might have helped if he could have spent last year in the minors," the story's quoted Reay. "It's a tough jump from junior hockey to the National League. But he may have gained something from being around big leaguers, after all."

Jackson, Henley Eye EFC Honors

Passing, Punt Returns

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As the Eastern Football Conference heads into its final weekend, Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders and Garney Henley of Hamilton Tiger-Cats are almost assured of being top honors in two statistical departments.

Catastrophe will have to strike Jackson next Saturday when Ottawa cods its schedule at home against Montreal Alouettes to keep the star quarterback from winning the passing title.

And Henley has the punt return championship all but locked up as the Ticats play their final game of the schedule against Toronto Argonauts Sunday in Hamilton.

Montreal quarterback Bernie Faloney's chances of catching Jackson for the passing title are slim because he has had 28 of his aerials intercepted, far more than Jackson's 12. Otherwise the two are close. Jackson leads in touchdown passes and average gain and is second in all other departments. Faloney is tops in completions, total yards and completion percentage and second in average gain.

Henley has run 42 punts back 585 yards, far ahead of second place Ed Learn of Montreal who has 328 yards in returns.

Bill Wayte of Hamilton has a good chance to win the title for pass interceptions. He has picked off seven so far, two more than Henley and Bob Baldwin of Ottawa.

UP FOR GRABS

But the races in the remaining departments—scoring, rushing, pass-catching, kickoff returns and punting—are wide open.

Place-kickers Moe Roche of Ottawa and Don Sutherin of Hamilton are both after the scoring crown with Racine in the lead with 74 points, six more than second-place Sutherin.

Jim Dillard of Ottawa has a 10-point lead in rushing over Leon of Toronto in running. Dillard has run 726 yards and Thelen of Toronto is running. Dillard has run 726 yards and Thelen 516 yards while Bo Scott of the Rough Riders has gained 672 yards.

Dick Shatto of Toronto leads in kickoff returns with 14 for 374 yards. Scott is a close second with 13 for 361 yards. Dick Cohee of the Ticats has run back 12 kicks for 316 yards.

Tony Pajaczkowski, Montreal's rookie star, leads Ottawa's Ted Watkins in pass catching. Ev-Tommy Grandeau, Montreal's rookie star, leads Ottawa's Ted Watkins in pass catching. Evergreen has caught 28 passes for 402 yards and eight touchdowns. The title is decided on number of passes caught.

Joe Zuger of Hamilton has led the EFC in punting all season but he's going to have to be sharp to stay on top. He has averaged just one more yard on each of his 329 punts than Dave Thelen of Toronto. Zuger's average is 44.7 yards and Mann's is 43.7 on 124 punts.

Three Share Lead Hawks, Habs Top Scorers

MONTREAL (CP) — Following the first weekend of skirmishing in the ice-fast 1965-66 National Hockey League season, the top names on the scoring list belong to last two teams.

Statistics released today by NHL headquarters show players from Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks—last season's Stanley Cup finalists—dominating the list of point-getters.

Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, got 12 goals from 10 different players in two weekend wins, while Chicago had 10 goals from four forwards in two games.

Right winger Bobby Rousseau and defenceman Jacques Laperriere of Canadiens are joined at the top by Chicago's Doug Mohns, all with five points.

Bobby Hull, the Hawks' all-star left winger, and Jean Beliveau of Canadiens, were next in line with four points each. Hull had four goals and the Montreal captain had two goals and two assists.

Chicago's veteran netminder Glenn Hall and Detroit's Roger Crozier each recorded shutouts. Hall is on top with a 1.00 goals against average, while Canadiens' Gump Worsley has a 2.00 count.

A minor, a five-minute major and a 10-minute misconduct in the third period of Friday night's game in New York put Rangers' defenceman Arnie Brown at the top of the penalty parade with 17 minutes.

College Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fullback Art Freese of the University of Western Ontario increased his scoring lead to 11 points over Gerry Sternberg of the University of Toronto last weekend in Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association intercollegiate football when Western drubbed McGill 30-6.

The Mustangs' place-kicking specialist booted two converts and a field goal to give him 41 points while Sternberg, held scoreless in Toronto's 31-0 setback to Queen's University Golden Gaels, remained in second place with 30 points.

Freese also moved into first place in the rushing department. He has carried for 363 yards and a 5.7 average.

He took over the rushing lead from Gaels' Helio Lilles, on the sidelines for an indefinite period with a leg injury.

Three other Queen's players shared ground-gaining honors in the Toronto game. Bayne Norrie at fullback and halfbacks Doug Cowan and Jamie Johnston combined to muster 382 yards.

Johnston picked up 156 yards on 20 carries, Norrie 117 on 11 tries and Cowan 104 on 18 attempts.

Backs Classic With Gold Bars

Maynooth Gives Soccer Sugar Daddy

By IAN MacKENZIE

TORONTO (CP)—Four years ago Joe Peters was introduced to professional soccer. Today he is willing to gamble $120,000 on a single game.

It involves bringing two of the world's top teams — Independente of Argentina and Napoli of Italy—to play an exhibition game in Toronto's Varsity Stadium Sunday, Oct. 31.

Despite the cost, the wealthy 34-year-old Toronto real estate dealer doesn't regard it as a gamble. To him it's an investment.

"I believe it can be put over," he said in an interview. "I don't start out a thing thinking it will be a failure."

To back up his words, he produced eight gold bars worth $120,875.20 at a press conference called to announce details of the game.

Ticket prices are $4.50, $7.50 and $15 and he'll need a turnout of about 19,000 to break even. He says more than 10,000 worth of seats have already been sold, mostly among Toronto's big Italian population.

Peters, stocky with brown, crew-cut hair and a staccato manner of talking, says he wants to educate the public and especially youngsters in the finer points of soccer.

INVESTS IN FUTURE

"Making money on this game isn't the primary object," he said, "but put on a first-rate soccer game for the public; this is an investment in the future."

And as president of Toronto Italia of the Eastern Canadian Professional Soccer League, he hopes this investment will pr off in increased support for the team and by encouraging youngsters to take up thesport.

Peters, father of two young boys and a girl, got into soccer his first professional game after he bought a season ticket when the Italia team was formed in 1961.

By the end of the season he was deeply involved in the game and today he owns more than 85 per cent of the shares in Italia.

He is also known as a go-getter in the business world.

A native of Maynooth, Ont., he tried his hand at numerous jobs after leaving school before he entered the real estate business in Toronto "because it offered a challenge and I was my own boss." Fourteen years later he owns one of the largest firms in the city.

He tried his hand at a variety of sports, taking up a new one when he became bored.

BOXED AS AMATEUR

He was a competent amateur boxer who has a role in the World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight between Ernie Terrell of Chicago and George Chuvalo of Toronto Nov. 1—and made a name for himself racing sports cars in Eastern Canada and the United States before turning to soccer, which he regards as an outstanding game for youngsters.

"It's one of the greatest sports for kids. You don't have to be 250 pounds to make the team. What it's an advantage to be small and agile. And you can equip a whole team for the cost of equipping one football to play Canadian football."

A director of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, Peters is also concerned with the game on a country-wide basis. He is chairman of a fund - raising committee designed to give the sport a major boost.

Toronto is going to have soccer teams in the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg in 1967 and at the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968. There's absolutely no reason why we can't compete with the best of the world.

"But we have to start at the grass-roots level, and that's what we're working up to now."

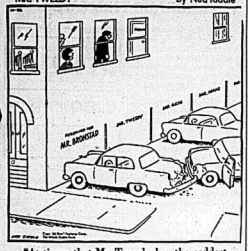
Koufax, McDowell Win ERA Honors

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle



"At times, that Mr. Tweedy has the saddest expression in his eyes."

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-handers Sandy Koufax and Sam McDowell captured major league baseball's earned run championships in 1965, the final averages showed today.

Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers' star, led the National League for a record fourth straight time. McDowell was the first Cleveland Indians' pitcher to win the American League crown since Mike Garcia in 1954.

Yielding only 76 earned runs in 336 innings, Koufax posted a 2.04 earned run mark in the final statistics compiled by The Associated Press. McDowell had a 2.17 average on 66 earned runs in 274 innings.

Koufax surpassed the National League mark he shared with Grover Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia Phillies, who paced the circuit three straight years starting in 1915.

Koufax also tied the major league mark set by Lefty Grove of Philadelphia Athletics. Grove won the AL winner four straight seasons, beginning in 1929.

The past season, Koufax won 26 games and lost eight. He pitched eight shutouts, including a perfect game against Chicago Cubs, and established a major league record by staking out 382 batters.

McDowell (17-11) paced the AL in strikeouts with 325.

Juan Marichal, San Francisco Giants right-hander, was the runner-up to Koufax in the NL with a 2.14 mark. Vernon Law of Pittsburgh Pirates was third with 2.16 followed by Jim Maloney, Cincinnati Reds, 2.54; Jim Bunning, Philadelphia Phillies, 2.60, and Bob Shaw, San Francisco, 2.64.

Eddie Fisher of Chicago White Sox was second in the American League with 2.40.

Sonny Siebert of Cleveland was third at 2.43. Then come George Brunet of California Angels 2.56, and Pete Richert of Washington Senators, 2.63.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Hasty Widow, owned by H. G. Pascoe and R. M. Cross of Burlington, Ont., scored an upset over seven rivals in the fifth race at Garden City Raceway Monday night.

Winner of only one of 21 previous starts this year, the four-year-old pacer edged Goldie Elgin W. in the stretch for the victory and returned $48.90, $12 and $6.

The daily double of Woodland in the first race and Prince Blue Vic in the second paid $14.60.

Bobby Direct won the sixth race and combined with runner-up Belle Richards for a quinella worth $118.20.

Coach Admits It

Success Defeated Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions couldn't learn to live with success.

Dave Skrien, the head coach, admits it; Herb Capozzi, the general manager, hopes they can learn from it.

From the Western Football Conference title in 1963 and a Grey Cup triumph in 1964, the Lions fell to fourth place in the five-team league in 1965.

"You have to learn to live with success," Skrien said. "We didn't."

Neither he nor Capozzi would make excuses for the team's dismal 1965 showing which saw the Lions lose to every club in the country except Toronto Argonauts, the last-place club in the Eastern Conference.

Said Capozzi: "The hardest thing in the world is to coach champions. This should be a learning stage for us.

TO BE BETTER

"I think that over 1966, 1967 and 1968 we're going to be a better club for having gone through this season."

Capozzi, like Skrien, wouldn't publicly criticize anyone.

"When a team loses, there are 32 players, three coaches and the management who must share the responsibility."

B.C. lost all hope of making the playoffs when they were beaten 30-14 Sunday by Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Most widely heard criticism of the 1965 Lions is that the team was to comfortable; that nobody was fighting for his job.

To this, Capozzi says:

"Maybe. In the future we'll have to take a much closer look at the people we sign to long-term contracts."

Canada-wide Sale of Cars Up in October

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says Canada-wide sales of 1966 model cars for the first three weeks of October have exceeded the expectation of dealers.

The newspaper says most dealers credit a buoyant economy with the last start for the sales of new models, introduced Oct. 1.

Canadian dealers sold an estimated 13,000 cars during the first 10 days of October, a drop from the 15,700 sales sold during the corresponding period last year. But the decrease, the newspaper says, is misleading because General Motors of Canada Ltd. and American Motors (Canada) Ltd. lost a week by unveiling their new cars Oct. 7.

A Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. spokesman was quoted as saying Ford's sales for the first three weeks ran 10 per cent ahead of 1964, Chrysler Canada Ltd. sold 3,274 cars during the first 20 days, 100 more than it sold for the same period last year.

Eastern Canadian dealers reported a big customer demand, but dealers in Western Canada were more reserved because the take longer for a full line of cars to reach them from the factories, the newspaper says.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Jimmy Grattan, four-year-old son of Steinway Grattan and Miss Grattan Chips, captured the $1,370 featured Preferred Pace in the ninth race at the Western Fair Raceway Monday night.

Installed as second choice and betting by the crowd of 2,332, returned $7.60 and was clocked in at 2:08 2-5, fastest mile of the night.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Markland, a 7-5 favorite, won by 1½ lengths in the $1,500 feature race at Windsor Raceway Monday night.

In the sixth, Cyclone Hanover raced past Masqueraders Boy by some 25 miles south of Pierlou sits astride a main Viet Cong supply route.

Attack on Camp Is Renewed By Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP)—New fighting broke out at Plei Me in South Viet Nam today as the Viet Cong attacked with mortars and frontier villas and penetrated to within 20 yards of the camp's outer perimeter.

A U.S. military spokesman said there were some casualties at the special forces camp 210 miles northeast of Saigon, but he did not say how many.

A strong U.S. and South Vietnamese relief force had lifted a seven-day siege of the camp but had not extended control in the area—the southwest—and thus's where the Viet Cong struck today.

U.S. jets swarmed in and hammered the Viet Cong, but at one point the guerrillas reached within 20 yards of the triangular camp's southwest perimeter before they were driven off.

The strength of the attacking force was not known. An informant said Monday reports indicated that a regiment of North Vietnamese regulars had been thrown into the fight.

The Viet Cong offensive against Plei Me began last Thursday and apparently was designed to clear a supply line from Laos and North Vietnam.

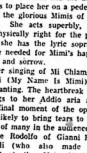
At the Belle

THIS "LA BOHEME" ON FILM WOULD PLEASE PUCCINI

Frank Morris, Motion Picture critic of the Toronto Globe, speaks of the Warner Bros. motion picture screen production in color of Puccini's "La Bohemo" in the following glowing terms:

The film of the La Scala production of Puccini's La Boheme is a glorious musical experience that, in my recollection, has never been duplicated on the screen. We have had filmed opera before, notably actual performances of the Salzburg productions of Don Giovanni and Der Rosenkavalier, but for sheer sound and fidelity to the opera itself, the La Scala movie stands supreme. Franco Zeffirelli, who designed and directed the production, has contributed greatness, inspiration and, above all, a sense of ensemble in the acting. The conductor, Herbert von Karajan, makes the Puccini score glow with full-throated sound, and the color photography is excellent. Under the circumstances, it is safe to say that even people acquainted with the unhappy romance of Rodolfo, the poet, and Mimi, the seamstress is matchless in its outpouring of joy and sadness.



MIRELLA FRENI

Above all, it demands a great Mimi, and the cast has one in Mirella Freni, who made her debut at the Met in that very role. Miss Freni has the attributes to place her on a pedestal with the glorious Italians of the past. She acts superbly, she is physically right for the part and she sings the lyric soprano role needed for Mimi's happiness and sorrow.

Her singing of Mi Chiamono Mimi (My Name Is Mimi) is enchanting. The heartbreak she brings to her death aria and the final moment of the opera are likely to bring tears to the eyes of many in the audience.

The Rodolfo of Gianni Raimondi (who also made his debut at the Met with Miss Freni) is less satisfactory. He is stolid to look at and stentorian rather than ardent in his singing of Che Gelida Manina, but he has a fine voice nevertheless. Matched with someone less peerless than Miss Freni, his drawbacks might not seem so apparent.

The other roles are excellently played, particularly Rolando Panerai as Marcello, the painter. Adrian Martino is a seductive Musetta and Ivo Vinco as Colline, the philosopher, makes a little gem of his Coat aria in the last act.

The camera work in the production is admirably discreet. Zeffirelli has not tried to move it around too much, instead, he has focussed it on the main points of action.

Ardently recommended.

"La Boheme" in color will be presented at the Belle Theatre in Belleville Wednesday and Thursday, November 3rd and 4th — twice daily at 2:00 and 8:30 p.m.

Many Dollars Went Down Drain as Flight Scrubbed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The three major U.S. television networks had a touch morning Monday. First upset the publication of the second national Nielsen ratings of the new season. Then the Gemini 6 flight was scrubbed.

It is hard to say which event caused the most turmoil in network headquarters. The cancellation of the space mission meant that literally hundreds of thousands of dollars went down the drain as crew personnel and equipment had been deployed widely to cover an event that never came off.

The Nielsen report may have had even more money riding on it. This is an estimate of the size of television audiences achieved by projecting viewing choices of a sample of some 1,200 homes with instruments to reflect accurately the preferences of all 51,000,000 TV-equipped U.S. homes.

The A. C. Nielsen Company reported that during the two-week period ending Oct. 10, the three most popular programs were, first, the Sunday broadcast of the World Series, followed by Bonanza, NBC's ratings champ of last season, and then the Saturday World Series game.

It also reported that a CBS variety show that made the Ed Sullivan's own show and Gomer Pyle, in which Nabors stars. Other programs that made the top ten were NBC's Get Smart, ABC's Breakfield and CBS' Red Skelton Show and The Lucy Show in that order.

The individual network research departments add up their respective Nielsen ratings and divide it by the number of shows to achieve an average. In this competition, both CBS and NBC agreed that they were tied with an average of 16.8 while ABC trailed with 17.0. ABC had no immediate comment.

The top 10 shows included three special broadcasts but only one new series — Get Smart. The ratings failed to hold either Peyton Place or Beverly Hillbillies, both strong contenders in recent seasons.

The public may look upon ratings as a popularity contest, but the networks know that sponsors and their advertising agencies make important buying decisions based on the findings.

Robt. Redford Builds Home In Mountain Hideaway

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Every once in a while there comes along an actor in whom the studios have such faith that they put him in a series of starring roles before the public has seen him.

The latest happy fellow to enjoy this treatment is Robert Redford. He now is being seen in Situation Hopeless, But Not Serious, a Gorman - American film which Redford feels was a mistake—but not serious.

He is more sanguine about the two following films; Inside Daisy Clover (Natalie Wood, Christopher Plummer) and The Chase (Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda). When I saw him, he was poised to leave for Biloxi, Miss., to again co-star with Miss Wood in Tennessee Williams' This Property is Condemned.

And just how is this chap Robert Redford?

He is a local boy who doesn't like it around here any more. Circumstances have changed since he was born in Santa Monica and grew up in Van Nuys. Not for him is better, Bel Air.

"You used to be able to find things in Los Angeles when I was a kid," he laments. "Now everything is swallowed up."

SATISFIED WITH FILMS

But unlike most actors who come to Hollywood from Broadway, Redford harbors no harkering to return to the stage. He won the movie jobs for his role in the comedy Barefoot. In The Park. He was in the play eight months and after the first few months he was ready to climb up the movie walk.

The place he likes best is neither Hollywood nor New York but a cramped mountaintop in Utah where he has built his own hideaway.

"It's 45 miles from the nearest town," he says, his blue eyes glowing as he pictures his place. "I found it when I was hunting once, and I decided I had to have it. Later I found that it was owned by a bunch of sheep-herders and I had a devil of a time getting them to sell it.

"But they did, and I built the house myself. It's a series of A-frames that allow a 180-degree view of the surrounding mountains. We can see storms forming on one side while the other side is bright sunshine."

Whenever film schedules allow, he takes his wife and two young children there and enjoys the mountain life. This has caused dismay among his associates. "But, boy, you goats Lang around town," they tell him. He doesn't think so.

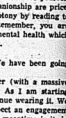
Successful Living

Bedridden Child Must Have Variety of Toys

DEAR DORIS: Could you suggest ways to keep a sick child occupied? My four-year-old has a heart ailment which will keep him in bed for six months. — MOMMY.



DORIS CLARK

DEAR MOMMY: Get a sturdy bed tray with a wide surface for him to work on. Give him simple puzzles, crayons to draw and color with, a squeaky toy, something cuddly. Don't expect any one thing to occupy him for long.

Have changes handy. Modelling clay in a box he can reach, building toys, blunt-ended scissors and some magazines he can cut up; all are basic things provide variety.

Since he will be in bed a long time, put something in the room he can own and watch grow: a pretty plant, or goldfish. A cheap record player and a supply of nursery rhyme records can add to his fun-in-bed — and can help you to keep him there!

None of these things give you leave to remove yourself for any long period. Your love and companionship are priceless to him now. You can break the monotony by reading to him, or helping him work a puzzle. Remember, you are building peace of mind and the kind of mental health which will minimize relaxation and heal his heart.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am 17. Rob is 19. We have been going steady for a year.

I have worn his signet ring on my finger (with a massive thickness of adhesive tape) since grade 11. As I am starting work, I feel it is rather foolish to continue wearing it. We often speak of marriage but I don't really expect an engagement ring until after my 18th birthday; but in the meantime is it, in your opinion, necessary for me to break it to Rob?

I have spoken to Rob about this many times and he wants me to continue wearing it, and is set in his ways.

I am very much in love with him and I am sure he loves me. — RING BEARER.

* * *

DEAR RING BEARER: Rob sees this ring as a promise to him. My anxiety is that you are making this promise too early. Choices at 16 and 17 have far too slim a chance for success.

Apart from the age question, and granted your conviction and his of undying love, there is reason you shouldn't wear his signet ring until he can afford an engagement ring. If you feel immature wearing it, well, you are.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My husband plays in an old time band every Friday and Saturday night. Every Saturday night after the dance the band all goes to breakfast and he doesn't get home till four a.m. I would not mind once in a while but I can't stand this every week.

I love to dance myself, but I hate to go by myself. I have tried going with him but I just have to sit around at these house parties as I don't know many there. My husband don't like to go anywhere unless he is playing the fiddle.

A lot of people don't think I have a husband as they never see us together. I stay home on Saturday nights now and cry until he comes home and every time I say anything he tells me to get a hobby. That is not what I want. I want a husband to go out with. Also, my husband drinks at these dances and he flirts with the women when he is drinking. — NO FUTURE.

* * *

DEAR NO: Well, there's no future in a regular Saturday night crying jag, that's for sure.

I make no excuse for your neglect; but if a gal wants her husband's loyalty she does well to go where he is, when he's having fun. Try sprucing up; take a few extra vitamins and get into the competition. You don't have to remain a stranger to your husband's friends.

You can be the one he flirts with.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: In April 1965 the judge declared my husband dead after seven years of absence. My lawyer told me and showed me the letter which said there was $2,000 coming to me. I haven't received a penny yet and he tells me I may not get anything. I am entitled to that money because it was his pension money and in my name in case of death.

I was told that he may leave it to someone else if he is not dead and they might claim it after he dies. It seems to me there is no coming back now that he was declared dead by the law. Could you please tell me what I might get? — AM I A WIDOW?

* * *

DEAR AM I: Just because a court says so doesn't mean your husband is actually dead. When a judge makes this type of judgment he does so for a specific purpose, which is always stated. A person might be declared dead so that his surviving partner could marry without being termed a bigamist. Or so that he or she might collect insurance.

If the second case applies and the "dead" man turned up, the judgment would protect the insurance company which paid out the money.

Pension money paid by provincial law to a widow is usually far more than the amount you mentioned, and this should be coming to you before anything else goes to anybody. Go back and ask your lawyer to explain things better.

* * *

(Are you both in doubt about the proper etiquette to use for your special occasion? Ask Doris, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for her reply.)

Malta Seeks Own Foreign Affairs Policy

By JOHN EARLE

VALETTA (Reuters)—Malta, a tiny island nation of 320,000 inhabitants, is feeling its way toward its own foreign policy as the first anniversary of its independence approaches.

Until independence was declared last year at midnight of Sept. 21, the Maltese had little chance of making their mark on the international scene. For years they had been ruled by the British, and before that by the knights of Malta.

Now Malta is a member of the United Nations and of its dependent bodies and has joined the Council of Europe, the Economic Commission for Europe and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

A big question mark is still the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which maintains an important naval headquarters here, under a British admiral, Sir John Hamilton.

To regularize the position, the Maltese government would like to join the organization. But, say diplomatic sources here, France would veto such a move. The issue may come up in the political arena in the future.

HAVE MILITARY HISTORY

The Maltese feel themselves strongly European. They have a long history as a military bastion of Christianity against Islam, and this year are celebrating the fourth centenary of the Great Siege, when they beat off the Turks.

The present government would like to have as friendly relations as possible with Italy, the island's nearest neighbor. It was also studying the possibility of economic links with the European Common Market—until the French boycott paralysed the market.

At the same time, being geographically poised midway between Europe and Africa in the middle of the Mediterranean, Maltese officials find themselves taking an unaccustomed interest in Mediterranean stability, in the problems of the Arab world, and in crisis points such as Cyprus and Israel.

Malta now has diplomatic missions in Britain, Australia and the United Nations.

Plans have been approved to establish non - residential missions to the Vatican, Libya and France. After that will come envoys to Washington and Rome.

TRANSFORMING THE DESERT — Construction workers push a canal through arid semi-desert country in southeast Rhodesia. About 100 miles of concrete-lined canals have been built to irrigate a wide variety of crops. The canals are part of a 25-year project to transform 800,000 acres or about one-quarter of Rhodesia. Planners rank it as one of the biggest projects in Africa, ranking with the Aswan High Dam in Egypt. (CP Photo)

Rhodesian Irrigation Scheme Transforms Desert to Farms

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

HIPPO VALLEY, Rhodesia (CP)—"This earth was dry as dust, semi - desert stuff. Now when we show it to a visiting farmer, he wants to get down and eat the ruddy stuff."

That was the earthy way in which Barry Day, 49, general manager of Hippo Valley Estates Ltd., described a transformation taking place in this southeast corner of Rhodesia, near the Portuguese Mozambique border.

A large-scale irrigation scheme is turning the arid southeast corner of Rhodesia into productive land for crops. The 25-year project is expected to give the country's economy a tremendous boost. The transformation taking place is described in this story by a Canadian Press reporter.

A vast irrigation scheme is causing arid bushland to burst into bloom in the Lowveld, the lowest-lying and hottest section of Rhodesia on the outer edge of the tropical zone.

Hippo Valley is one section of the development in which the irrigation potentialities of the Sabi and Limpopo river valleys are being exploited in a scheme with key importance in Rhodesia's economic—and political —future.

"All this was bushland 18 months ago," said Day, gesturing toward a field of lush sugar cane. "We cleared 200 to 300 acres a day."

Officials took a reporter on a tour of the 100 miles of concrete-lined canals that carry water from a series of dams—the Kyle dam alone is 207 feet high—that irrigate everything from cane to orange trees.

"It's our biggest development by far since the Kariba dam unleashed the power of the Zambezi River on the border between us and Zambia," said P. J. Stanbridge, 34, planning officer for the Sabi - Limpopo Development Authority.

Over-all development of the region of 890,000 acres covering one-quarter of Rhodesia is the responsibility of the authority, which has a considerable degree of autonomy.

"It's one of the biggest projects in Africa, ranking with the Aswan High Dam in Egypt," said Stanbridge.

A total of £350,000,000 is expected to be spent in a 25-year phased program in the joint enterprise of government and private investment.

"We will be authorized to go overseas to raise capital," said Stanbridge, mentioning such countries as Italy, West Germany and France as well as Britain. Canada also was a possibility as an investment source.

Population of the area now is about 100,000 but "we expect the total irrigation scheme will support a population of 1,500,000, mostly Africans, at a reasonable standard of living," said Stanbridge.

"We see the construction of a dozen town-ships, roads, railways."

The Sabi-Limpopo story is the sort of frontier yarn beloved by Rhodesians who take pride in recalling their pioneer days of derring-do. It started 50 years ago when Tom MacDougall, a tough Scots immigrant, formed the idea of growing sugar on the Lowveld although the crop requires a humid climate and the area receives only 16 inches of rainfall a year.

MacDougall and a group of unskilled Africans, wielding picks and shovels, cut an eight-mile canal, sometimes through sheer granite kopjes, or hills. Hippopotami sometimes interfered with their work and lions sleng through the day in their vegetable patches. MacDougall's feat led to larger-scale efforts that began at nearby Triangle 25 years ago and, late eight years ago.

Climbing the huge, bottle-shaped baobab trees—"cream of tartar" trees—that serve as lookout towers for fires, you can observe large sections of the 45,500 acres already under irrigation.

Day said it is hoped to feed 70,000 cattle on byproducts of the crops which besides sugar cane include cotton, wheat, tobacco, fibre products, beef, citrus and soybeans.

Stanbridge predicted the area would compete with Kenya in export of high - grade coffee and with Tanzania in seed beans.

A visiting reporter found pollution and the racial question to be the chief topics of discussion in Rhodesia. But these subjects were hardly mentioned during a day spent in this basking area of airstrips, construction sites, sugar plants and distilleries.

"We never talk about it," said one hawk - eyed official, John Salt, driving his car at breakneck speed over a molasses-wetted road.

"Oh yes," he added with a smile. "There was one thing. I showed a movie to the Africans one night of a raid on a Cuban sugar factory. Some people here thought this wasn't wise — it might give the natives ideas, you know.

"And the Africans did make trouble. They complained because I didn't show a Western instead. We love Westerns here."

Canada Rated World Champion In High Living, Montreal Night Life Cheapest

LONDON (CP) — Canada is the Western World's most affluent country and enjoys a moderate cost of living compared with other industrial nations, two British newspaper surveys indicate.

A "table of affluence" published today by The Daily Express rates Canada "the world champion in high living." The rating is based on a system that relates good living to the percentage of households possessing central heating, refrigerators, cars, telephones, washing machines and television.

A Financial Times survey on the cost of living in 25 major world cities, also published today, shows Montreal is a place of moderate costs compared with such cities as Tokyo, New York, Paris and London.

The international affluence table in The Express, based on statistics from eight countries, shows Canada top in all six categories—75 per cent of Canadian homes with central heating, 96 per cent with refrigerators, 75 per cent with cars, 89 per cent telephones, 86 per cent washing machines and 93 per cent television.

The United States is second to Canada in all categories but central heating, where Sweden is second. Other countries in the survey are Britain, Italy, France, West Germany and Switzerland.

Britain ranks third in possession of television sets and washing machines, fifth in telephones and seventh in central heating, refrigerators and cars.

Italy ranks last of the eight countries in all but the television and washing machines categories, where France is bottom of the league.

The Financial Times table, an annual survey designed as a "rough guide" for British businessmen travelling or posted abroad, compares prices for set commodities and services.

It compares the monthly rent for a three - room furnished apartment; the cost of a designated shopping list of groceries; the price of a top-rated hotel room; the bill for an evening of specified activities on the town; the price of a designated man's wardrobe, and the bill for a weekly service —a charwoman for 20 hours, the weekly laundry and dry-cleaning one suit.

Of eight directly comparable items, the cost in Montreal is in the lower half of the 23-city table for all but clothing and service.

Only Paris and Brussels price a normal weight lounge suit, good - quality shoes and shirt higher than the $126 listed for Montreal, London and New York. The weekly bill for charwoman and laundry service in Montreal is given as $33, with only New York and Stockholm more expensive.

In the key categories of rent, food and clothing, the most expensive cities are Tokyo, Paris, New York, Mexico City, Stockholm, Rome, Helsinki and London. Comparable figures for Montreal are about one-third of Tokyo's cost rating and two-thirds of London's.

A night on the town for four persons—pre-dinner drinks, orchestra theatre seats, dinner at a fashionable restaurant, cabaret at a night club and 15 miles in a taxi—is less expensive in Montreal at $81 than in almost any other major city, the survey indicates.

A similar night out in Tokyo would cost $270, in New York $253, in Paris $235 and in London $150, the survey shows.

36 Die In Flaming London Plane Crash Ends 3rd Try To Land In Fog

LONDON (CP) — A British domestic airliner exploded in flames on its third attempt to land in shifting fog at London Airport early today, killing all 36 persons aboard.

"We could see a sheet of flame which seemed to stretch the length of the runway," said one airport employee. "We could see people among the flames but they were obviously dead."

The plane, a four - engined Vanguard turboprop designed to carry 139 passengers, was landing at 1:23 a.m. after a flight from Edinburgh. Operated by British European Airways, it carried 20 passengers, one a child, and a crew of six.

A spokesman for BEA said most of the passengers and crew were Scots. No overseas visitors were aboard. Four hours after the crash all the bodies were recovered.

The plane, on a cheap night flight, circled three times in the shifting fog for an hour before the pilot tried for a landing through one of the clear patches.

MADE THREE TRIES

Twice he almost landed but both times he had to lift off again. Two minutes after another plane landed safely, a third attempt was made to "talk down" the turboprop.

But eyewitnesses said the fog closed in again. The plane's engines were heard revving up just before touchdown, but instead of lifting off again it hit the concrete, burst into a mushroom of flames, skidded nearly a mile, broke in two and hit a workshop at the end of the runway.

Airport driver Kenneth Plessey said the airliner split in two with the wings going in opposite directions. "The people in it didn't stand a chance," he said.

Airport officials said visibility on the runway at the time of the crash was 550 yards. But as fire engines and ambulances raced out, it quickly closed into less than 100 yards and several times to zero as fog patches rolled over the No. 1 runway.

Fire Lieutenant Ted Hopkins said the wreckage was strewn

Boat Found On Shore, 4 Missing

TOBERMORY, Ont. (CP) — A 10 man ground party was to search Tues day and Lucas Islands 15 miles off the northern tip of Bruce Peninsula today for four Toronto men missing since Saturday.

They were found boat was found washed ashore 15 miles south of this bruce Peninsula community Tuesday.

Missing are Prof. Eric Deane, 61, of the University of Toronto; Thomas C. Nicholson, 26, a draftsman; Arlo Gatti, 41, an artist and designer; and Peter Macfarlane, 38, an executive producer with CFTO-TV, Toronto.

The search, co-ordinated by the RCAF search and rescue centre at Trenton, Ont., and aided by an RCAF Otter aircraft, a helicopter, police, university students and local residents, has already covered 20,000 square miles around this community, 60 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

NO CONTACT

The 16-foot boat, used by the men on a diving expedition, and its 40-horsepower outboard motor were found intact on the rocky shore of Deadman's Point. A scuba - diving mouth piece, a weight belt, screwdriver and empty plastic bottle were found in the boat. A gasoline tank was found on the shore 50 feet away.

If the boat had been upset, the small articles would have been dumped out, a search official said.

The men left here at 1 p.m. Saturday, wearing full scuba equipment to photograph the wreckage of the 175-foot steamboat Newago, which sank about one mile offshore in 1903.

Flt.-Lt. E. E. Blanco of the RCAF said Tuesday night there are no plans yet to call off the search.

Regan Set Free, Moldaver Charge Changed To Theft

A Peterborough scrap dealer will now stand trial for alleged theft of cobalt from a government stockpile at Deloro — after being freed of a conspiracy charge in the same case.

Irving Moldaver, 51, was immediately arraigned on the new charge after he and William Regan, 71-year-old demolition superintendent for the Deloro Mining and Smelting Company, yesterday were released on the conspiracy count at the end of a preliminary hearing.

Crown Attorney John Pringle then rose and pressed the new charge of straight theft against Moldaver, and offered evidence given at the preliminary in support of the charge.

Moldaver's defence counsel agreed to waive another hearing but submitted the Crown had not sufficient evidence to prove the charge.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson upheld the prosecution's case and Moldaver elected trial by judge and jury.

He was released on the $10,000 property bail originally posted August 12 on the conspiracy charge.

Regan also has a second count of conspiracy standing against him and this will come up for preliminary hearing with similar counts involving two Belleville scrap dealers and their two employees November 8.

The four charged are Samuel Vigodda, 70; his son Leonard, 27, operators of Markel Metals and Minerals; Bernard Boutter, 28, Belleville, and Herbert Maracle, 40, Marysville.

Yesterday the conspiracy count against Regan and Moldaver was dismissed after their lawyers successfully blocked testimony from the chief police investigator on possible statements made by both accused.

Magistrate Jackson upheld the arguments of lawyers Lorne Morphy and Robert Carter that any statements concerning the accused made by them to Inspector G. A. Duguid of the OPP Criminal Investigation Branch were inadmissable.

The inspector first interviewed Moldaver May 7 and Regan some time later. The conspiracy was charged to have occurred between September 1963 and February 1965. Therefore, both defence lawyers argued and quoted legal precedent, that at the time of questioning no conspiracy in fact existed.

Magistrate Jackson agreed with the argument after wryly commenting: "Direct proof of conspiracy is impossible. It's

Bogus $20 Bills Passed in City

A spate of bogus buck-passing in Belleville today brought urgent police warnings for city businessmen.

To date about a dozen counterfeit $20 bills have turned up in the city — and police fear more may be yet lying around undiscovered.

The counterfeit discoveries are only part of a province-wide operation by counterfeiters, Detective Inspector Harold Reid said.

"It's general throughout Ontario right now. It extends clean through from the Quebec border to Sault Ste. Marie.

These are the serial numbers on the phoney bills so far turned over to city police:

L— 2849072
M— 4338597
B— 0500313
U— 9754338

The bills have been passed indiscriminately among city stores — from chain operations to cigar stores.

The majority have been discovered only when bank deposits were made by merchants.

"These things might have changed hands a half-dozen times before they came to light," said Inspector Reid.

The first counterfeit $20 turned up about two weeks ago — the last only yesterday.

Police Dogs Maul Crowd As Wilson Sees African

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Police today used smarting-eyed biting German shepherd dogs to control excited crowds of Negroes who gathered in the centre of Salisbury while British Prime Minister Wilson met an African nationalist leader.

Newspaper men saw a Negro policeman with a vicious-looking black dog give the animal a free leash to jump at groups of persons who refused to move on.

The dog bit several persons in the leg and tore the coat from a man's back.

The scenes took place as Wilson, who flew to Salisbury Monday in a last-ditch bid to head off self governing white-ruled British colony from seizing independence, met at government house with restricted nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo.

The arrest for incitement of a colored (mixed race) family outside a night club — wife and teen-age son — nearly sparked off a full-scale riot.

Reporters saw at least four persons arrested and several others mauled by dogs as police dispersed the crowd of several hundred Africans outside government house.

Some of the demonstrators held widely-printed signs with slogans including "Africans must rule now," "we want out country — take away (prime Minister Ian) smith now and suspend the constitution" and "Wilson: One man, one vote in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia)."

Half an hour after the arrests, only a few persons remained in the area of Government House and police guarded approach roads over a diameter of about a quarter of a mile to prevent a recurrence of the demonstrations.

Earlier helicopters brought Nkomo and some of his supporters to the meeting with the British Prime Minister.

It was believed to be the first time Nkomo has been in Salisbury since he was served with a four-year restriction order a little year ago. He lives in restriction in a remote area at Gonakudzingwa, near the Mozambique border.

A British official said it was not yet known when Wilson would see the other African nationalist leader, Rev. Ndabaningi

Books, Records Seized in Police Raids Linked With Montreal Bankruptcy Cases

TORONTO (CP)—Books and records were seized by police Tuesday from 10 businesses and the homes of four businessmen in a series of raids which Police Chief James Mackey linked with a Montreal bankruptcy ring.

The raids eliminated investigations begun last April into fraudulent bankruptcies, arson, burglaries and insurance fraud in the Toronto area.

Chief Mackey said the raids were connected with a Montreal bankruptcy ring but not with the ring that recently killed four of its members in Quebec and buried their bodies in quick time.

Deputy Chief Joseph Thurston refused to name companies or individuals but under questioning said "there's a relation" between the Toronto investigation and rackets in Quebec.

"We don't know whether we have any evidence involving fraudulent bankruptcies," he added. "We won't know until we examine books and records."

A police source said, however, that hundreds of thousands of dollars could be involved.

Detective Inspector Arthur Wishart said in an interview that any fraudulent bankruptcies involved would likely be on a small scale.

He would not hint at the extent of investigations in other parts of Ontario.

The Toronto investigations originated from a claim by the Quebec justice department last year that a fraudulent bankruptcy ring was operating in Quebec, Ontario, New York City and South America.

Police here arrested two Toronto brothers last December in connection with the bankruptcy of Montreal Wholesale Co.

The men, Miklos Koves, 40, a partner in Acme Import Co., of Toronto, and Sandor Katz, 40, were charged with conspiracy with a member of persons in Ontario and Quebec to defraud creditors through bankruptcies.

However, they jumped bail in Montreal in April and disappeared. Police say they know their whereabouts—both are in foreign countries.

The raids Tuesday were made during the morning and after noon by 26 detectives of the Metropolitan Toronto police fraud squad accompanied by nine accountants.

The attorney - general's department retained the accountants about a year ago to help Toronto police in their investigations. Since then more than 30 companies have been investigated.

Fraudulent bankruptcies in Ontario stood at $30,000,000 by mid - summer, compared with $71,186,000 for the whole of 1964, Quebec showed $21,460,000 in bankruptcy liabilities in 1964.

Lucien Mercier, internal auditor of the Quebec revenue department, said the Quebec government lost $5,400,000 in taxes through bankruptcies between Jan. 1, 1959 and Feb. 1, 1965.

"Wild" Use of Antibiotics In Food Worries Medical Men

TORONTO (CP)—Amounts of antibiotics and pesticides being used "widely and wildly" in food is becoming an "increasing worry" to doctors, the Ontario Medical Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. Harding Le Riche of the University of Toronto epidemiology and biometrics department addressed the dietetics section of the association and listed these dangers:

—It is possible to sensitize a person to penicillin from the penicillin in milk."

—Autopsies on humans have revealed DDT in body fat, showing that "we are permeated with the stuff."

—Most meat is infected with salmonella, a bacteria which caused an outbreak of food poisoning in Canada last year.

Dr. Le Riche suggested that hospital bacteriologists examine swabs taken from both fresh and cooked meat, particularly poultry—"you would be surprised at what you would find."

He recommended thorough cooking of leftovers, as well as meats and custards. "I am not an advocate of the undercooked steak," he said.

"General sanitary supervision of hospital kitchens tends to get neglected," he said. He added: "The hospital bacteriologist and the local health inspector should take more interest in hospital kitchens."

He said that "although hospitals are not the pest houses they once were, they could be if doctors and nurses don't watch infection control." Every hospital has staphylococcus-harboring carriers. Good ones admit they do and bad ones pretend they don't."

Belleville's Water Content Of Algae Always Highest For Any Centre in Province

Belleville water consistently has the highest content of odor - producing algae in the Province of Ontario, Gerald Hyde, Chairman of the Belleville Utilities Commission, told the regular meeting of Kiwanis Tuesday that the Commission is aware of this problem and is working to correct it.

"Each week, the 900 water departments in this province must send a sample of raw water to the Ontario Water Resources Commission in Toronto for testing.

"Belleville consistently has the highest algae content.

"Right now, men from the O.W.R.C. are testing our water, trying to eliminate the problem. It is not a consistent problem though because there are so many different algae, each with its own specific problems.

CARBON HELPS

"The only thing that has seemed to helped, and I stress, seemed, is the use of carbon with powdered carbon. However, to do this would cost $700 a day, an expenditure of $250,000 per year, almost as much as it costs now to run the entire water operation.

"To use powdered carbon would double the water rates and we still are not absolutely certain the problem would be overcome.

"We plan to build a test plant to treat a sample 100,000 gallons each day. It will cost money, but in the long run it will save us thousands of dollars because of the more economical methods which will be discovered to combat the problem.

"Another aspect of the problem," Mr. Hyde said, "is that water pumped out of the pump house today (Tuesday) won't arrive at my house or your house until Friday or Saturday. By the time you use the water and find a certain condition in it, that condition may be gone from the tap and another kind of algae may be present."

EXPLAINS PUC

Mr. Hyde reviewed the work of the Belleville Utilities Commission. He said: "Many persons in the city do not understand the duties and workings of the Commission."

The speaker explained the Commission was formed for Hydro only in 1930 and in 1937 the Water Department was added. Along with those two aspects, the collection of sewer rates has since been added to the Commission's duties.

"It's strictly a business," Mr. Hyde said. "Unlike municipal government, where taxes are the main source of revenue, here you pay for what you use. Everyone pays their fair share for what they use out of the total.

"The Commission is unique in a way because it can not make a profit or lose. It must operate exactly even. It is mandated by the board to do every year, so we work on a five-year period. We try to be as accurate as possible in estimating costs and revenues over a five-year period in order to break even.

REASON FOR GARAGE

"The Commission decided to build the new garage and service centre at College and Sidney because right now, when a crew wants to go out and do something, they must make five different stops to pick up equipment.

"Obviously a business can not operate efficiently when men have to make five stops to get out on a line job. The ultimate aim of the Commission is to have all our operations, including administration, under one roof by our new building.

Construction will start in January in order to take advantage of winter works, and should be finished by the end of March.

FLUORIDATION SOON

Other business on hand for the Commission is the 24-inch feeder main for the perimeter of the city — this will help with the problem of lack of water pressure in the city's perimeters; asbestos and accident insurance for employees — it has been the Commission's policy to pay full wages for sick days, but there were so many sick days last year that a new system had to be initiated; and fluoridation.

On fluoridation, Mr. Hyde said, "It is almost ready. We are just waiting for one piece of equipment. The holdup is caused because we had a problem of finding space for the tanks. However, fluoride will be in our water very soon."

Temple Meets With Indians On Reserve

Mohawk Indians on the Tyendinaga Reserve were warned by Liberal candidate Robert Temple last night to disregard stories spread by some opposition people that they would lose their treaty franchise by voting on November 8. He called the threats absolute untruths and nonsense urging constituents to make certain they went to the polls in the forthcoming election.

Naturally Mr. Temple appealed to the residents on the Reservation to vote for Liberal candidates, but said they use the ballot, they are rightfully entitled to under the democratic regulations of the candidate they preferred. The council house where Mr. Temple spoke was the setting for a euchre party sponsored by the Hastings South Liberal Association.

In continuing his remarks Mr. Temple explained Medicare and Canada Pension Plan benefits vide by universal coverage. "We are determined no Canadian should be left behind in the cause of illness, he commented, adding I am proud to be a member of a party so concerned with the study courses in Toronto on Oct. 26th.

In referring to new enthusiasm displayed by business people he told them they had a good example of improved employment conditions right on their own doorstep. He drew attention to the fact that statements at Point Anne belching out smoke around the clock in contrast to the 1958-62 period when there was little work available. "Don't let them tell you it's just the U.S. economy," Mr. Temple said. If they insist on saying it however I'd reply: "Well, it's have more of that kind of luck," he suggested.

Lands, Forests J. M. Taylor Is Promoted

J. M. "Jim" Taylor, Chief Forester, Tweed Lands and Forest District, was recently promoted Regional Forester at Kemptville.

He will take charge of the new Regional Office to be opened in Kemptville. Mr. Taylor's position will be responsible to head office, Toronto, for the Forest Districts of Lindsay, Lindsay, Pembroke and Kemptville.

Mr. Taylor has served with the Department since 1935 starting out as an Air Engineer and pilot stationed at numerous bases throughout Northern Ontario, followed by a period as Park Superintendent and pilot at Algonquin Park, then dietary service during the 2nd war. After the war he was promoted to the position of District Forester at Gogama, then Gerraldton and came to Tweed in 1956.

He will be replaced at Tweed by Norman Patrick who held the dual offices of assistant District Forester and pilot in the Wildlife Supervisor in the Kemptville District. Mr. Patrick started as a seven-year-old with the war as district biologist at Kemptville and before his recent promotion to District Forester held Fish and Wildlife Supervisor positions in Swastika and Sault Ste. Marie districts before returning to Kemptville as assistant District Forester in 1963.

In keeping with the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are held, a large representation of District staff gathered at the Tweed-Hungerford Community Centre on Friday evening, October 22nd, to wish them well. During the evening Mrs. Shirley Mumby and Mrs. Marion Devolin of the stenographic staff and Mr. Hugh Dornan, Senior Conservation Officer, presented numerous branches to the guests of honor.

Site Excavation for New Hospital Now Under Way

Site excavation for the new multi-million dollar extension to Belleville General Hospital is now well underway — and at the same time roughly two thirds of the hospital parking has been taken over by the contractors materials and equipment storage.

General contractor for the big hospital project is Robertson-Yates Corporation Ltd. who have sublet the excavation contract to Lightfoot Construction Ltd. of Belleville.

Lightfoot is doing the main building excavation, as well as watermain and sewer installations and curbing and paving.

Dirt from the building excavation is being pushed to the south toward the railway track where the ground level is being raised to provide for hospital parking when the construction project is completed.

At the same time a new temporary parking area is being provided on what was part of the lawn between the present hospital and Dundas Street.

This week the old boiler house south of the hospital disappeared in one smashing blows from a big iron ball swung from the end of a crane boom. The old boiler house chimney was toppled thanks-giving week.

Community Activities

The Belleville District Committee held its annual meeting in the Memorial Centre Thursday evening with seven auxiliaries represented. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Arthur Fort. Mrs. Fort welcomed the ladies and a one minute's silence was observed in honor of the past president, Mrs. P. Gelsthorpe, who passed away recently.

The ladies were reminded of the District Council annual meeting in Kingston, November 27, 1965, at St. Thomas Parish House. Anyone interested in attending is welcome to attend this meeting.

Mr. A. Glover brought greetings from District Council and reminded about the urgent need for Blue Cross Plan 11.

The new officers for the District Committee are as follows: Mrs. Thomson, president; Mrs. Ed Panos, vice-president; Mrs. C. Lynch, vice-president; Mrs. Ed Whitney, treasurer; Mrs. A. Jordan, secretary.

Mrs. Thomson thanked the ladies for the honor bestowed on her and the officers were installed by A. J. Glover.

Mr. A. Glover introduced Mr. G. Brennan as guest speaker of the evening.

Mr. G. Brennan gave a very interesting talk on the Scout Movement. He said that it is and what it does. The Scouts are going to pick up bottles, paper and baskets on November 6, 1965, and in December, 1965, the Boy Scouts holds it meeting the first Monday of every month at 146 Dundas Street East and are interested in helping or in Scouting is welcome to attend this meeting.

Would all members of the Scouting movement and friends save used stamps as they are capped Scouting and send them to Mrs. Harry Thomson or Mrs. B. Panos or Mrs. C. Lynch.

Mrs. Thomson announced the

Mrs. J. Gadd thanked Mr. G. Brennan, Mr. C. Hunter thanked the ladies of the 14th for their hospitality.

Mr. A. Glover moved that the meeting be adjourned. A lovely lunch was enjoyed by all.

7th BELLEVILLE CUBS & SCOUTS

The leaders and cubs of "B" Pack, 7th Belleville, observed Fire Prevention Week recently by visiting the Belleville Fire Hall. The group split up into parties of five and was given a conducted tour of the vehicles and premises by the firemen on duty. Duties of firemen and useages of equipment were thoroughly explained to one and all. The tour was followed through the Group Committee and Bruce Diamond of the Fire Dept.

Cub and Scout Apple Day (Oct. 22-23) proved to be a success in spite of the inclement weather. The Scouts bore the brunt of the rainstorm on Friday evening and again towards noon on Saturday. A lot of work, such as procuring the apples and bags, polishing the apples, mapping out the areas to be visited and arranging transportation was involved and the acme but should not go unmentioned.

Each year the boys decorate their baskets and one member of each Pack is awarded a prize for the basket most representative of the occasion. Basket judging this year was carried out by Group Committee Chairman"Neil Britton", Mrs. Arthur Marshall and Mr. K. Huntley. Cub Blair Stokesbury of "A" Pack and Cub David Sullivan of "B" Pack were each awarded a compass for their efforts.

By means of a prearranged plan a Mrs. "X" was given a slip of paper to be returned by the Cub parking area to the group. Cub Dick DeDoer of "B" Pack visited Mrs. "X" on Apple Day and received the paper which was exchanged for a jackknife as his prize. Refreshments were served in the Bay School Auditorium of Queen Elizabeth United Church helped to warm up the chilled cubs and scouts returning from their Apple Day duties.

Hungerford P.C. Workers Hear L. Grills

A meeting of the Progressive Conservative party workers in Hungerford township, held at the home of Bill Mason on Tuesday evening, was addressed by South Hastings candidate Leo Grills who dealt with party policy and local issues in his talk to the 50 people in attendance.

"Mr. Pearson called this election for purely selfish party reasons, when in fact it is the interests of the country as a whole," he said, "feeling that the party was not united and that this would be his best chance to win. Well, the events of the past few weeks have clearly indicated for all to see that our party is united and eager for the fray and I gained particular confidence as a result of the visit of our chief here last week and being in the official party at the great rally held in Cobalt here last Saturday. In calling an election for November 8th, Mr. Pearson no doubt forgot ignoring the opening of the hunting season and the inability of students and tourists generally to vote but he is finding his calculations to have been a misstep.

Mr. Grills went on to outline his personal efforts in the campaign to date, which have included the touring of many factories in South Hastings where it is self evident that the earlier efforts of the Diefenbaker government in promoting a sport trade have made possible booming business and the putting of new men to work. A man who plants the tree does not always pick the fruit and this is abundantly true in our case. The policies of our government from 1957-63 made possible the greatly expanded foreign trade business which we currently enjoy in this country and for which the present government takes the credit. Nevertheless it was under the Conservatives that the first great wheat sales were made to Russia which ultimately resulted in the disappearance of over 700 million bushels of wheat from our surplus storage and which the previous Liberal government said couldn't be sold."

Accompanying Mr. Grills to the meeting was South Hastings riding association president Jack Ireland, who praised the workers for their efforts in the past and looked forward to even better results in the forthcoming contest.

Clarke Rollins, East Hastings provincial member, was present to pledge his full support to Mr. Grills.

IN MEMORIAM

MATTERSON — In loving memory of a dear mother, Marjorie Matterson, who passed away five years ago today, October 27th, 1960.

Life's sweet memories linger fondly,
Loving thoughts will always be,
Memories bring regrets and sorrow,
But the hardest thing is loved you most,
Are the ones who never forget.
— Sadly missed by son George, daughter-in-law Ila and grandchildren.

PRINGLE — In loving memory of a dear husband Maurice Henry Pringle who passed away 8 years ago today, October 27th, 1957.

Sweet memories linger fondly,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So he passed on quietly and gently,
And whispered "Peace be Thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of Glory
By the valley of rest so fair,
Sweet memories of a dear one gone before.
We will meet our loved one there.
— Lovingly remembered by his wife and children.

PEARCE, Hattie — In loving memory of a dear wife, Edna Julia Bowers Pearce, who departed two years ago, October 27, 1963.

Time has not dimmed your face,
Though her smile is gone forever,
And her hand I cannot touch,
I have no sorrow to recover,
For memory I loved so much.
Her memory is dearer than ever,
Sad and lonely I am part,
God has her in His keeping,
I have her in my heart.
— Your loving husband George.

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Johnston who passed away October 27th, 1959.

In our hearts your memory lingers fondly,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
— Bruce, Chris and grandchildren.

Rotary Club To Build Pool At High School

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Rotary Club voted at Monday night's meeting to adopt a recommendation of the Board of Directors that the club build a swimming pool in the high school.

Overall cost of the pool is estimated at $50,000, of which the club now has $15,000 on hand. The club hopes to have the remainder—or a large portion of it—assured before May of next year, and the pool ready for use by September of next year. This will be the club's Centennial project.

The decision to build the pool at the high school was arrived at because existing walls in the school addition could be used and dressing rooms, showers and locker facilities already at the school could be used, thus reducing the projected cost considerably.

So that the pool may be available to every citizen of Trenton, the pool would be operated under the jurisdiction of a committee comprised of members of the Board of Education, the Trenton Town Council, the Recreation Committee, the Rotary Club and member of the public at large.

Maintenance for the pool would be supplied by janitorial staff at the school, thus affecting another saving.

Mayor James MacDonald has been told of the Rotary Club's decision, and the matter will probably be brought up at the first council meeting in November.

Heavy Docket For Magistrate In Police Court

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday, William Gordon Macdonald pleaded guilty to being in charge of a motor vehicle while his ability was impaired by alcohol, and was fined $75 and ordered to pay $4 costs.

W. G. Weston, defence lawyer, said that his client, who is 61, suffered from an asthmatic condition, was on welfare and had a wife who was also ill. Mr. Weston asked for time for his client to pay the fine.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills agreed and gave Mr. MacDonald two months in which to pay, a fine of $10 on another charge of failing to report ownership of a motor vehicle, will also be delayed for the two months.

A charge against James Spence, charged with joy riding, dangerous driving and speeding, was enlarged until Nov. 30, with the Defendent being free on bail.

Ronald Wayne Perry, 18, pleaded guilty to the theft of car accessories, total value of which was close to $100. A similar charge brought against Wayne Hugh Currie, 16, was enlarged until the youth can get advice from his relatives or a lawyer. The case will come up again in next week.

Sandy Henry, charged with creating a disturbance by fighting in the streets, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty on the evidence and fined $25; ordered to pay $20 costs and $15 restitution to Joseph Cannon, an innocent bystander, whose eye glasses were broken in a "scuffle" between the accused and John Gannon in front of the Quinte Hotel on Oct. 1.

John Gannon said he was "jumped on" from the back by the accused. A Miss Marie Murter, who had been in the company of Gannon, told the court she had struck Henry with her fists, after her companion had been knocked to the sidewalk.

George William Bowman, 16, charged with passing a cheque on which he admitted forging the name of an acquaintance, was given a two year's suspended sentence; ordered to pay $5 court costs and $5 restitution. The cheque, for $10, had been used to buy a sweater, but the sweater was not damaged, and has been recovered.

PREFERS JAIL TO FINE

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Gregory, 28, wife of convicted Dick Gregory, was sentenced to five days in jail Tuesday after she refused to pay a $25 fine for obstructing traffic during a civil rights demonstration. Mrs. Gregory pleaded guilty to the charge, but said she would rather be jailed than pay the fine.

Three Injured, Damage Heavy In 3-car Crash

TRENTON — Three persons were injured as the result of a three-car accident at the corner of Fourth Ave. and Bleecker St. West, on Tuesday.

Injured were the drivers of each car, 18-year-old Sheila Ann McDonald, 65 Leopold St., Trenton who suffered a bruised left knee; Grace Marie Robinson, 34, of 35 Fifth Ave., bruised left arm and Terrence Weston asked for time for his client to pay the fine.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills agreed and gave Mr. MacDonald two months in which to pay, a fine of $10 on another charge of failing to report ownership of a motor vehicle, will also be delayed for the two months.

A charge against James Spence, charged with joy riding, dangerous driving and speeding, was enlarged until Nov. 30, with the Defendent being free on bail.

Ronald Wayne Perry, 18, pleaded guilty to the theft of car accessories, total value of which was close to $100. A simi. charge brought against Wayne Hugh Currie, 16, was enlarged until the youth can get advice from his relatives or a lawyer. The case will come up again in next week.

Sandy Henry, charged with creating a disturbance by fighting in the streets, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty on the evidence and fined $25; ordered to pay $20 costs and $15 restitution to Joseph Cannon, an innocent bystander, whose eye glasses were broken in a "scuffle" between the accused and John Gannon in front of the Quinte Hotel on Oct. 1.

John Gannon said he was "jumped on" from the back by the accused. A Miss Marie Murter, who had been in the company of Gannon, told the court she had struck Henry with her fists, after her companion had been knocked to the sidewalk.

George William Bowman, 16, charged with passing a cheque on which he admitted forging the name of an acquaintance, was given a two year's suspended sentence; ordered to pay $5 court costs and $5 restitution. The cheque, for $10, had been used to buy a sweater, but the sweater was not damaged, and has been recovered.

PREFERS JAIL TO FINE

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Gregory, 28, wife of convicted Dick Gregory, was sentenced to five days in jail Tuesday after she refused to pay a $25 fine for obstructing traffic during a civil rights demonstration. Mrs. Gregory pleaded guilty to the charge, but said she would rather be jailed than pay the fine.

Hold Business College Graduation

Graduation exercises were held at The Ontario Business College, on Saturday evening. The principal, Mrs. O. Annetta Brown, welcomed these her old students, their families and friends, who had gathered for the distribution of diplomas and certificates.

Especially welcome was the former principal, Mrs. Charles Spilling of Hamilton who pointed out the value of proficiency in office training.

Mr. Frank Leach, co-principal of the college, told the successful graduates that they had 18-K gold diplomas, no too pure to be too soft, but pure enough to do the job. "You have now reached the bottom rung on the ladder," he told them, "may you continue to climb to success."

The diplomas were then distributed to the graduates, for the completion of stenography, secretarial, senior secretarial, bookkeeping and commercial education courses. Certificates went to many others whose courses were incomplete. All these were presented by Mrs. Brown and other members of her staff.

Refreshments were provided by the present students and dancing was enjoyed.

Canadian Tire Moves House To Make Way for Addition

Canadian Tire held a "house moving" today.

And if you were driving down North Front Street this morning and saw a house going by, then you don't have to worry — you may even cancel that hurried appointment you made early after with the optometrist.

There is nothing wrong with your eyes — a house did pass you.

The house, moved from 39 Harriet Street, by Building Mover Sanford Miller of Cherry-ing Place, was being moved to accomodate a large - scale addition to the Canadian Tire store.

Eric Emerson, a mechanic at Canadian Tire, bought the house and had it moved to Holloway. The house beside it, which was also adjacent to Canadian Tire, was purchased by Jack Allin and moved to Gordon Street last week.

Doug Boulton, general manager of the Canadian Tire store here explained: "We've outgrown ourselves in this store. There are over 20,000 items on sale here, and in order to display that many items properly, a store must have room."

"We are well aware that we have been too cramped for a long time, so we bought the two houses adjacent to our property on Harriet Stree.

"The expansion will be better for us and for the shopping public. There will be more display area, new offices a mezzanine across the back and an expanded warehouse area."

The new addition will be a two - storey affair, adding another 6,000 square feet to the store. Work is expected to start shortly. Tenders have been called and officials are just waiting to complete the plans.

"We will take advantage of the winter works program," Mr. Boulton said, "and the expansion will provide employment for local men.

"We've got so much to show people. We just lack the space right now. However, the expansion will correct that situation."

Union Offers $200 Reward For Information

TORONTO (CP)—A $200 reward was offered Tuesday by Local 788, International Association of Machinists (CLC), for information leading to the arrest of persons involved in acts of violence Saturday against an arms plant of Winchester-Western Canada Ltd. in Cobourg, Ont.

Alex Reith, international representative of the union whose members are on strike at the plant, said that if the individuals responsible for the dynamite blasts and the boxcar fire are union members, the executive assures their membership will be cancelled.

"Every effort will be made on our part to see that they will never again work in a shop where the machinists are bargaining agents," said Mr. Reith.

Meanwhile, Mayor Jack Heenan ordered police to keep an extra watch at the plant.

ISN'T INTERESTED

On Monday, following the incidents, Company President Michael Mallory said the firm was no longer interested in a $600,000 expansion in the town.

More than 160 union members have been on strike since Sept. 28. The union had reduced its original 40 - cent - an - hour increase demand to 30 cents an hour.

Price reduction came after a conciliation meeting. Workers now receive $1.95 an hour.

Talks have broken down since the last meeting in October. Mr. Mallory said Monday the company was not interested in meeting with the union. Mr. Reith said Tuesday night he had no idea when negotiations would resume.

Douglas Adams New President Kiwanis Club

TRENTON — At this week's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club, a new executive, for the 1965-66 season, was elected.

President-elect is Douglas Adams, manager of the Royal Bank; vice-president, Ben Kreese; secretary, Frank Hall; treasurer, Ray Murray. Immediate past president is Fraser "Babe" Jones who will carry on until the new president is installed.

Three new directors were elected: Walter Scott, John Gimpel and Dr. D. H. Bunt.

Dr. Pauline Jewett will speak to the club Thursday night. Dr. Jewett is the Liberal candidate for the Nov. 8 election in Northumberland County.

LONG NIGHT SETS IN

VARESE, Italy (AP) — The long winter night began Thursday night for the village of Cremanaga. It won't see the sun again for 2½ months. The village on the Italian-Swiss frontier is in a deep valley whose western cliffs cut off the fall winter sun from late October until mid-February. Most of the 300 villagers move up the valley to a section where the mountains are lower and the sun shines in.

Mayor Ellis Will Address Graduates

Graduation Exercises will be held this Friday evening at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Mr. J. R. Ellis, mayor of the City of Belleville, who will address his remarks especially to the 170 graduates of grade 12 and the 60 honor graduates of grade 13.

Also to be honored will be a large number of scholarship, bursary and award winners.

Speaking on behalf of the graduating class will be valedictorian Kenneth Taylor.

Parents and friends of the graduates and award winners are cordially invited to attend and it is expected that the auditorium will be filled to capacity for the traditional and colorful ceremony.

Record Earnings Reported by General Motors

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp., world's largest manufacturing firm, Tuesday reported record earnings of $1,538,000,000, or $3.36 a share, for the nine months ended Sept. 30.

The earnings were produced by record sales volume of $14,958,000,000.

Sales of cars and trucks also were at a record level of 3,301,951 units for the nine-month span.

Third quarter results also were at high levels, officials reported. GM earned $264,000,000 in the third quarter and earnings per common share were 91 cents a share. Earnings were up 18 per cent from the $222,000,000 earned in the 1964 third quarter, when per-share earnings were 77 cents a share. Sales totalled $3,743,000, up 14 per cent from sales of $3,291,000 in the corresponding 1964 period.

The GM earnings kept the giant auto maker well in the forefront of corporations of all kinds in terms of earnings. Its only close rival is American Telephone and Telegraph, which reported earnings for the nine months ended Aug. 31 of $1,316,000,000.

Other records hit by GM during the nine months included worlowide employment of 725,554, compared to 675,741 last year and worldwide payrolls of $2,988,000,000, against $2,485,000,000 in 1964.

Cheddar Cheese From Selby Wins Award

LONDON (CP)—A Canadian cheddar cheese has won a double trophy at Britain's annual royal dairy show, emerging as the best cheddar made anywhere in the Commonwealth.

The cheese, made by a factory in Selby, Ont. won the Hindsine Challenge Trophy and awarded for the best cheddar in the Commonwealth excluding Britain, and the Hansen Trophy for the best creamery-made cheddar from any Commonwealth country.

The judging, completed on the eve of the four-day show which opened Tuesday, was conducted mainly on flavor and texture.

At Selby, 25 miles northwest of Kingston, 46-year-old Clifford Hughes, who owns the Selby Cheese Factory, said:

"We've been very lucky in the last six years in winning prizes. Last year we won three trophies, including the Lovell and Christmas Trophy, in the Glasgow dairy show in Scotland."

He said his factory, with 12 employees, makes some 2,000,000 pounds of cheddar a year, most of it being sold through the Black Diamond Cheese Co. in Belleville.

"We also won all the prizes in the British Empire dairy show at Belleville in 1962," said Mr. Hughes, whose two sons, 19 and 21, help him in the business.

He has been making cheese since 1942, following his father, who also was a cheese manufacturer.

Says Diabetics Should Limit Their Families

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Persons suffering from diabetes should limit their offspring to no more than two, an Ontario expert on the disease said Tuesday night.

Dr. J. R. Ralph McKendry, director of the diabetes hospitalient centre at Ottawa Civic Hospital, said the diabetic gene — hereditary material which determines the predisposition of a person to diabetes—will become more prevalent in the population.

He told a meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association that 25 per cent of Canadians now are believed to harbor this disease and it is becoming increasingly difficult for a diabetic to avoid marrying into a family with existing diabetic tendencies.

Governments should encourage certain groups of their citizens to limit production of offspring who will have less than average prospects of good health, the doctor added.

Peace Prize for UNICEF

The award of the Nobel Peace Prize to an international humanitarian organization is becoming something of a tradition. The 1965 award goes to the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the second UN group to be so recognized and the ninth time in all that an international humanitarian organization has received the award.

The world certainly has need of such humanitarian endeavor, and perhaps UNICEF's greatest recommendation is its pooling of the talents and resources of many nations in the task of alleviating poverty and hunger among the needy children of the world.

Originally established in 1946 as the UN International Children's Emergency Fund to help war-stricken children in Europe and Asia, its mission later became world-wide and in 1963 it became a permanent organization of the United Nations.

Hallowe'en this year will surely take on fresh significance for the children. UNICEF is the organization for which the youngsters collect their "trick or treat" pennies at the end of this month.

Water Resources

In downtown Toronto, on Avenue Road, there is a memorial to Sir Adam Beck. Erected by the city corporation and the Toronto hydro-electric commission, the memorial is one that goes largely unnoticed amid the busy flow of traffic. Yet it is one which might be regarded with some interest by anyone from the prime minister down.

Water is in the news, with the possibility of it being exported to the United States to relieve a shortage there. However, Prime Minister Pearson has acknowledged that Canada must be "awfully careful" before allowing any surplus to go south. This country's own progress depends to a large extent on abundant supplies of water, and that is reason enough to exercise caution in conserving it.

We wish to return to Sir Adam Beck and the memorial in Toronto. The explanatory text on the concrete slab indicates it was erected "in grateful commemoration of the public service of Sir Adam Beck, whose labors have ensured that the citizens of his native province, under co-operative municipal ownership, shall enjoy the benefits of low-cost electrical energy derived from water power resources to serve the industrial and domestic needs of the province of Ontario."

This province will continue to reap such benefits, as will other parts of Canada, only so long as water and the hydro power derived from it is available.

Hallowe'en Approaches

Hallowe'en is just around the corner and the children will be making their rounds once again. The challenge of "trick or treat" is one that few households can resist. Young and old enjoy this time, when the youngsters dress up as witches and goblins flit around in the mists of the late October night.

Too often, though, the fun that the young folk have on this occasion is spoiled by the actions of a few. Groups of teenagers have been known to use the occasion as an excuse for riotous behavior and vandalism.

A Belleville resident has sent us a letter on this theme, complaining of conditions in previous years. The letter is unsigned and for that reason cannot be published, but it serves to show that the true spirit of Hallowe'en—as an occasion primarily for the very young members of the community—be spoiled by the activities of other young people acting in an irresponsible fashion.

Plans for 1967

Centennial projects have been pushed somewhat into the background lately, what with the spate of election activity. From Cornwall, however, comes word of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission's plans for 1967.

They include a military tatoo by the RCMP, a golf tournament featuring international stars at the new course near Upper Canada Village, a regatta on Lake St. Lawrence for boats from surrounding clubs and a lacrosse game at Crysler Memorial Battlefield Park.

Also scheduled is a week-long Girl Guide convention for 2,000 Guides, as well as the establishment of a theatre under canvas, which will be an annual attraction at Upper Canada Village.

It is good to see interest in the Centennial year being maintained. It is drawing closer all the time and advance planning of this nature is essential. The St. Lawrence Parks Commission is setting a good example in this respect.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 27th, 1945

Probably residents of the district are due for some warm weather before the winter sets in if blooming of fruit and plants can be taken as a criterion. Little Joyce Lott of Tabernacle on her way home from school on Wednesday picked a quantity of second growth wild raspberries and taking them home she had enough for her mother to make an apple and berry pie. The little girl brought evidence of her find to this office. The berry is perfectly formed and of good taste despite the lateness of the season.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring" have nothing on a St. Lawrence apple tree on a farm on R. R. 7, Belleville. The tree is now bearing its second crop of bloom and is out in all the beauty of spring blossom. The owner says that this natural novelty occurs very rarely.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., and Mr. D. E. K. Stewart have formed a partnership for the practice of law in Belleville, Madoc and Tweed.

The Rev. Dr. Bingard, rector of Christ Church, was the special preacher at a service in St. George's Anglican church, Trenton, last evening. The service was in connection with the meeting in Trenton of members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Rural Deanery of Prince Edward.

From our file copy at this time in 1855: "Mr. James Colquhoun, florist, has commenced the erection of a two-storey building on McAnnany Street."

Treadmill

Ottawa Journal

The doctor who can persuade Mr. Johnson to stay in bed a while and enjoy a long convalescence deserves one of his country's highest decorations. It is not only that the President needs to conserve some of his physical resources, extraordinary as they appear to be. A man in high office should have time to renew his mind: time for contemplation and time for silence.

The same principle applies on this side of the border — to key civil servants as well as political figures. These men should all occasionally step off the treadmill before their judgment and health soften under pressure.

Sniffing Salt Water No Help to Sinuses

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there anything beneficial in sniffing into the nasal passages a palm full of warm water mixed with about one-quarter teaspoonful of salt? I have sinus trouble. — V. K.

* * *

V. oppose indiscriminate sniffing of salt water into and through the nose. This is no personal prejudice on my part. It is the result of a great deal of observation, thought and study by many physicians.

The practice can be harmful, and the possible benefits are small or non-existent.

We have known for a long time that salt water has a feeble antiseptic action. We also know that a good many of our natural body fluids are slightly salty — tears, and blood and nasal secretions.

If we have a sore throat, from some transient infection, we can gargle with a slightly salty water — as hot as can be tolerated — and it does some good. This may be because the germs that cause the sore throat. But the greater benefit is simply that the water, here hot and salty, rinses the throat without irritating it. Make the water too salty, and it irritates the throat tissues instead of soothing them. (For this purpose, a quarter teaspoon of salt in a full glass of warm water is about right. More than that is irritating.)

* * *

Now let's get back to the nose — and sinus trouble. A quarter teaspoon of salt in "a palmful" of water is far too much. Try even a less salty solution and can do more harm than good.

Why? Because sinus trouble is primarily a matter of the obstructed flow into and out of the sinuses, the sinuses being, really, the sore caves or caverns which connect into the nasal passages.

True, a severe cold and its associated germs and inflammation may swell the tissues so the entrances to the sinuses are clogged. But when chronic sinus trouble exists, one must look for other signs. Pale cats (like growths) in the nose, or allergies, or an old injury to the nose, so that the septum or partition between the nostrils, is bent out of shape and partially clogs the sinuses. Chronic infection, such as diseased tonsils, can be the root cause, too.

Hence, while the obstructed, irritated entrances to the sinuses are being developed (as they will) some infection, clearing up the infection won't correct the basic trouble. And until we correct the basic trouble, we won't make much progress.

Thus mildly antiseptic salty water won't get at our real problem at all. What is worse, the snuffing of the water tends to spread germs to new locations faster than it suppresses them.

If, as in your case, V.K., your trouble is sinus, tackle the underlying problems instead of hoping salt water will do it. I've given you a general dea of sinus trouble, but if you want some more details, send for my booklet "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive a copy, write to me in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing 30 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Molner: Will I put on weight if I stop smoking? I am on the chubby side and gain easily. — Mrs. S. A.

It is thought that the reason some people gain weight when they stop smoking is because they start nibbling — candy, peanuts, or almost anything. They are, in a way, substituting one habit for another—eating for smoking. Also appetite is improved and you eat more. Keep that in mind, and you can avoid gaining just because you stop smoking.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oct. 27, 1965 . . .

Michael Servetus, a Spanish doctor, was burned alive at Champel, near Geneva, 412 years ago today—in 1553 —for heresy. His denial of the theological doctrine of the Trinity and of the eternity of Christ's existence made him a heretic to both Catholics and Protestants and he had escaped from the Inquisition only three months before the Calvinists seized him. At the time of Servetus' execution, the Swiss law provided only for banishment and not death as the maximum penalty for religious offences.

1806 — Napoleon captured Berlin.

1870—General Bazaine of France surrendered Metz with 173,000 men to the Prussian army.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — a British submarine sank four German vessels in the Baltic Sea; fighting at Dvinsk on the Eastern Front continued for the 50th day.

Pew Was Chilly Spot In Old Days

The Times, London, Eng.

Churchgoers, allowing thoughts to stray from strictly devotional paths, have been known on a chilly morning to pity their ancestors whose pews were like ice chests. Even with the restraints of up-to-date fuel experts available, a service can still sometimes be a penance. How much more severe the ordeal must have been in years when the only heating appliance to raise money could lend to the installation of central heating. But the latter is recent without the ingenuity of those who went before us. A correspondent of the lyrical-pagan magazine The Field has just shown how the forefathers of East Brixoe in Norfolk tackled the problem.

Their old Free Gospel church was on the top floor of the building and the lower floor was used as a sheep house. Before a church meeting took place it was usual to fill this ground floor with a flock as that animal body warmth rose and made the congregation above "reasonably comfortable even in the severest weather." What the sheep thought of it is not on record. They are a patient race and can claim to give much more than they get from man. They are fleeced for the benefit of his wardrobe, in youth or age, they reach this table. So, as conscripts of a live central heating they may have been glad enough to huddle together out of the wintry wind. Worse might have befallen them.

They are not alone in being put to this use. Lord Garderstone, and eighteenth-century Scottish judge, is said to have had a live pig to warm his bed. Many a stable lad has been grateful for the comforting heat from his horses. Beds are made more cozy by the presence on them of dogs whose owners do not regard such nocturnal sharing of space as unpleasant. What should be described as mutual service. Each partner to it is a beneficiary. The dog stretched out determinedly in defence of his fair ration of Ashenarsum and enjoys an elderdown at least because he knows his owner is in his basket at night. Cats go one better for themselves, insinuating their way into the warmth of bed by a lap and staying put there, even though its owner makes plain that the self-made guest is unwelcome. Cats, of course, are a law unto themselves. A congregation would have little hope of sitting through a decorous service if the heating arrangement came from a room below crammed-filled with cats.

Women and the Election

Oshawa Times

The national director of women's activities for the New Democratic Party, Eva Latham, has protested that women were seldom nominated as election candidates when the party stood a fairly strong chance of winning the constituency. Even widows who held their husband's ridings for the party in byelections were often passed by when the next election came round, she said.

The suggestion is that men will let the women do the dirty work for them in unpromising campaigns but will stop in themselves when the opportunities look good. It is true that regardless of the allegiance paid to equality, surprisingly few women are found in governing bodies. Only five women, for instance, sat in the 265-seat House of Commons and as a consequence one woman was included in each of the cabinets of the last two governments.

Women are playing increasingly important roles in party campaigning and organization. They demonstrate keen awareness and comprehension of the issues the country faces. There is no reason for the lack of representation, unless, of course, women themselves, insinuating their way into the warmth of bed by a lap and staying put there, even though its owner makes plain that the self-made guest is unwelcome. Cats, of course, are a law unto themselves. A congregation would have little hope of sitting through a decorous service if the heating arrangement came from a room below crammed-filled with cats.

Tax Men Caught A Capone

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

If the United States is to crack down on the Ku Klux Klan leaders who are under investigation along with their whole order, it once more looks as if the internal revenue department will have to do the work. The tax men got Al-Capone when the FBI couldn't in perhaps the most memorable example.

Certainly the current congressional investigation is making no yards trying to get KKK leaders to talk. Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton has been very polite in admitting his identity and refusing to give any information at all.

For he has been able, like so many before him, to invoke the fifth amendment to avoid revealing more than his name and address.

Strictly Personal
When Is a General Not a General?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the strange vagaries of the English language cropped up again last month, in a dialogue between the U.S. Attorney General Katzenbach and the Attorney General's office of the State of Washington.

The knotty question confronting these legal eminences was: Should an Attorney General be addressed as "General"? The man from the State of Washington protested against the practice, saying, "I can think of no other title composed of several words which, when shortened, retains the modifier and omits what is modified."

The two members of the President's cabinet who are not addressed as "Mr. Secretary" are the Attorney General and the Postmaster General. What title of honor can be given, if any, should be applied to them? It does seem absurd to call them "General"; but it is also absurd to call them "Postmaster" and "Attorney"; while their full titles are too long for ordinary use.

And what about the Consul General of U.S. foreign posts? Should he, too, be called "General"? That seems as silly as calling a Lieutenant Governor "Lieutenant," a Chief Justice "Justice," or a Provost Marshal "Provost."

In the case of the Vice President of the U.S. Senate, handy word "Veep" was devised by Dear Abbie, and rapidly became a boon to harried ad-libbing writers. This kind of shorthand — called an "acronym," which is formed by using the initial letters of the words in a title — has been enormously useful in referring to such groups as UNESCO and NATO, and has even been adopted commercially by such companies as SOCONY and MONY.

As General — oops, Attorney General — Katzenbach pointed out, the modern word "Sheriff" comes from the medieval "shire reeve" who, as steward of the shire (or county), and the words were combined to make one new term.

Actually, the military title "General" is itself a shortening of the phrase "General Officer," but as at the other extreme of the military scale, the word "private" is shortened from the full phrase, "Private Soldier."

Although the British have a Postmaster General, as we have, Americans seem fonder of spreading them around. In England, surgeons are referred to as "Mr." rather than "Dr.," while college teachers are not universally called "Professor," as they are here. What Meeker called "the use of the honorific" is widespread in American society, and men happily accepted "Colonel" all their lives who served for two months in a war 40 years before. Except in hereditary titles, we enjoy passing around new ones as we go along.

Success—Then A Let-down!

Letter in Windsor Star
By "Disappointed Shopper"

As the mother of three boys, I had pretty well resigned myself to knowing that if I bought their clothes in Canada, my sons would not look as sharp, in dress anyway, as their cousins who live in Detroit.

Nevertheless I thought it was my duty as a Canadian to buy Canadian, consoling myself with the thought that the Canadian goods, if they lacked something in style, would be sturdier, and that I was helping my country.

Now I'm mad, as the result of something that happened last week.

Finally, after years of searching, I discovered last spring a type of boy's trouser that matched U.S. goods in everything — style, durability, range of color and size, etc. I was a proud Canadian that day. My boys were proud — and smart — Canadians all summer.

Last week, with the boys back at school, I went to the store to get more of the same. I was prepared to sign a testimonial for the manufacturer of the store or anyone else who asked.

No soap! Discontinued line! Sorry, no orders!

That's what the store told me. The manufacturer had stopped making that particular line of trousers. there were lots of other varieties and brands, but nothing like the one I had so confidently expected to buy.

They could give no reason for not having that particular style available, except that the manufacturer had discontinued the line. Thinking it over, my own anger had cooled, I wondered if this particular line had been too durable. Was it impossible that the manufacturer didn't want to continue making such a product because it lasted too well and cut down the market for future sales?

It's just possible, I figure, that the American practice of artificial obsolescence has invaded the Canadian clothing manufacturing business.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were higher on the Toronto Stock Exchange today in the busiest first hour of trading since Aug. 16.

By 11 a.m., 1,256,000 shares had changed hands compared with a mere 564,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Boosting the volume was a speculative mining issue, Jelex, which turned over more than 500,000 shares in advancing 7 to 28 cents, d'Elona was ahead 5½ to 36 cents and Nisto 4 to 34 cents. Wilroy was off seven cents to 1.85.

Base metals were strong with Pine Point ahead 1¼ to 86⅝. Isco up 1 to 99, Steep Rock 22 cents to 7.10, Camiros to 49½, Denison ⅝ to 40⅝, Rio Algom ¾ to 19¼ and Mattagami Lake ¼ to 19.

Industrials moved ahead behind Moore Corp. which gained ½ to 84½, a 1965 high. Hawker Siddeley gained ⅝ to 6⅝ and Bell Telephone ¼ to 58.

Canadian Breweries was up ⅛ to 8 in active trading. Carling Breweries was also busy. Sudbury it will close its Fort Worth, Tex., continuous brewing plant after only 10 months of operation. The market in the south-western United States was inadequate to support the $10,000,000 plant.

In western oils, Canadian Export Gas added eight cents at $2.24.

On index, industrials were up .30 to 169.47, golds .02 to 159.49, base metals .73 to 86.66 and the TSE index .36 to 139.66. Western oils were down .23 to 102.69.

Industrials gained modestly in light trading on the exchange Tuesday.

The industrial index, a measurement of investor sentiment, rose 0.36 to 169.47, as base metals added 0.73 to 86.66 and golds 0.02 to 159.49. The TSE index was up 0.36 to 139.66. Western oils were down 0.

Ann Landers
Young Boy Has Earned Right to Privacy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My friend seems to think it is improper for my 12-year-old son to undress in my presence at bedtime. Sometimes the boy takes his clothes off in front of me and doesn't think a thing of it. At other times he develops streaks of bashfulness and asks me to leave the room, which is O.K. I always oblige. There's no way of telling how he's going to feel about this from one day to the next.

ANN LANDERS

And while we are on the subject, what about a mother undressing in the presence of her 12-year-old son? I have never made a point of hiding when I dress or undress because I don't want my son to grow up thinking the human body is something to be ashamed of. What are your views? — NO FIG LEAFER.

* * *

DEAR NO FIG: Most 12-year-old boys want privacy and they deserve it. You are wise not to make an issue of it when your son develops "streaks of bashfulness."

You should be wanting privacy, too, Mother. Disrobing before a boy of 12 is a form of subconscious seduction. No point of covering up should be made to small children, but by the time they are 12 years old children should not see a parent of the opposite sex parading around nude.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I make my home with my daughter who was widowed two years ago. She needs me badly because I take care of her three children while she works.

I just learned the terrible truth about something I have suspected for almost six months. My daughter is having an affair with her supervisor. He is a married man with a family.

My religion has always meant a great deal to me. I feel that I am offending God by living in a home where there is shameless sin. I could manage financially if I took a room elsewhere, and I think perhaps I should do just that. It would be difficult to leave the children but at least I would feel right with my conscience. I read the Bible every night for comfort but I cannot find the answer to my problem. Can you help me? — TORMENTED MOTHER.

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: Keep reading. When you come to the line, "Hate the sin but love the sinner," put a bookmark in that place and read it every day.

If you leave, your daughter would have to hire a housekeeper. Your grandchildren would be the losers — and so would you. Stay where you are needed.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please do us teen-age girls a favor and publish this in the paper.

How can a girl who isn't especially beautiful keep a fellow interested without letting him get away with murder. My cousin who has gone steady with five different guys in his short time is to let a fellow make slow gains. Her system didn't work out very well. She is now in the Florence Crittenton home for unwed mothers. Somebody made a few gains she hadn't planned on.

Another girl says it's best to let the boy know from the first date that good conversation is all he is going to get because boys respect girls who draw the line from the very first. Maybe she is right but she sure stays home a lot.

I am not an extremist. I believe that the best policy is to stay in the middle of the road. What do you say? — PUSSY CAT.

* * *

DEAR PUSSYCAT: Get out of the middle of the road, kiddo. That's where most of the accidents happen.

That girl who stays home a lot has the right idea. When she does go out it will be with the right kind of fellow. The girl who feels she must resort to intimacy in order to keep a boy interested admits she has nothing else to offer.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry ... Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SIMPLIFIED CHEESE CAKE

A fellow press clubber and I were returning home on a bus and had a rare opportunity to discuss a press club Christmas party we were planning. She said she had a marvellous recipe for cheese cake which would serve twelve to sixteen people, but it called for two pounds of cream cheese. I said if she would make two of them for this party the cost would be 12 pounds in Eastminster United Church, Belleville.

* * *

That is the trouble with cheese cakes — the cost mounts and they are time-consuming to make.

Recently a new packaged cheese cake has appeared on the Canadian market. The package contains one envelope of cheese cake filling and one envelope of graham cracker crumbs for the crust. This cuts down on the several steps necessary in making a cheese cake from scratch and simplifies cheese cake making for amateurs.

I made up this packaged cheese cake and served it to six people for Sunday's dinner and it was a declared success. I finished my cheese cake with a glazed fruit topping to create a party air (see below).

NOTE:

As you know, cheese cakes are made in a spring form pan because they are turned out right side up. These package amounts make a medium-sized cheese cake and are insufficient to fill a standard spring form pan. So I used my medium-sized pan with removable bottom from my set of three graduated Christmas cake tins. It measures 6¼ inches in diameter and you may use a nine-inch pyrex pie plate.

SIMPLIFIED CHEESE CAKE
(serves 6 — easy for amateurs; satisfactory for experts):

1 package Royal cheese cake filling and crumbs (both envelopes in one package), 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, ¼ cup melted butter (or margarine), 1½ cups cold milk, 2 teaspoons grated fresh lemon rind (or 1 teaspoon bottled lemon juice).

Make the Crumb Crust first; Combine envelope of fine graham cracker crumbs with melted butter (or margarine) and the granulated sugar, stirring well. Butter spring form pan or pie plate and press crumb mixture against sides and bottom. If spring form pan is used crumbs need only reach 2" up the sides. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for five minutes (or simply chill crust well without baking but I recommend baking). Cool crust.

Make Filling: Measure cold milk into beater bowl and add contents of cheese cake package envelope and lemon rind. Beat (at low speed) until smoothly blended, then beat (at medium speed) for three minutes. Pour into cooled crust, smooth top and chill, preferably three or four hours, or overnight. This is now ready to serve. If spring form pan is used, carefully run knife between crust and sides to loosen them and transfer cheese cake, resting on bottom of pan, to serving plate

If desired cover with glaze: mix together dry, 1 teaspoon arrowroot flour (or cornstarch) and 3 tablespoons sugar. Stir in ½ cup boiling water and 1 teaspoon lemon juice and cook, stirring until thickened. Remove from heat and add ½ teaspoon yellow food colouring. Let this cool down to warm while you apply fruit to top edge of cheese cake. I cut one small banana into twenty thin slices and five maraschino cherries into twenty slices and overlapped them all around edges. Carefully spoon glaze all over exposed surfaces of bananas and cherries and cover entire top with glaze. If some drips down sides it is all the better. Let this glaze chill before serving.

Women's Institutes
PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — Seven members and one visitor of Pine Grove Women's Institute visited the school for retarded children in Belleville.

The principal of the school met the members and invited them into his class room to see some of the work the senior pupils are able to do.

The women were asked to join the pupils in their assembly where they sang songs and did action songs, also. They visited the other classrooms to view the pupils' work and activities. Some of the children attend school only in the morning while others remain all day.

The members had their lunch at Johnny's Restaurant.

In the afternoon they toured C.J.B.Q. radio station and The Intelligencer building. The day was planned by Mrs. Harry Coulter, convener of health. Mrs. Don Irish and Mrs. Ivan Clare drove their cars for this occasion.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

King George Home and School Association held its first regular assembly meeting in the school auditorium last Monday evening. There was an excellent attendance.

President Mrs. H. McKibbon extended a warm welcome to parents and teachers, October is membership month and Mrs. McKibbon reminded parents, and urged all to obtain their memberships from the treasurer. The objects of Home and School Associations were outlined. UNICEF will once again be sponsored, with the Home and School issuing the boxes to the upper grades.

Oral French classes are continuing this year.

Mrs. McKibbon introduced Mr. L. McQuaid, principal, to the parents. Mr. McQuaid, while new to King George School, is not a stranger to the city. He was born in Bloomfield and educated in this area and has taught in other schools in the city.

Mr. McQuaid expressed his pleasure at meeting so many parents and asked for continued co-operation with Home and School Associations.

Mr. McQuaid introduced his staff, stating as he did the subjects being taught by each teacher. He briefly outlined the unit and rotary systems and stressed their advantages to the students. Mr. McQuaid issued an invitation to any parent to attend the Friday morning assembly, all classes, with the exception of kindergarten, take part in this.

Room count was taken with the banners being awarded as follows: junior, Mrs. Salter; senior, Mr. Helliwell.

President, Mrs. McKibbon thanked Mr. McQuaid and asked him to introduce the guest speaker, one of his staff, Mrs. Salter, kindergarten teacher.

Mrs. Salter's subject was "A Day in Kindergarten."

First she gave a brief outline on the history of kindergarten and the part is plays in the child's life.

Mrs. Salter stressed three points, first, it gives emotional stability and children learn to participate in group play. Secondly it develops an early love of school, Thirdly it helps develop their potential to the fullest for their age.

Mrs. Salter outlined their program for the day. Upon entering class they have a free play period, in which they may paint, crayon, use blocks or the playhouse. This period develops the first three goals mentioned. Then is clean-up time, each child doing his share in putting away the toys. When this is done they form a circle and group experiences may be shared or a story read. From these the theme for the day is developed, if it has been chosen they may enact the story out. Rest period follows and lunch is eaten.

Mrs. Salter suggested fruits rather than sweets be brought.

Mr. R. Nix thanked Mrs. Salter for a most interesting talk.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments served.

Collectors Share Interesting Hobbies

DEAR DORIS: I sent some slips of my Calla Begonia to the lady in T. and I got a lovely letter from her, also a box of candy and a book of stamps. I thought it was very kind of her. I send so many slips to folks who ask for them and I generally have to write and ask if they received them. Never a thank you. Such a difference in folks!

I have a friend who collects salts and peppers and I collect shoes. I have over 150, all kinds: glass, wood, silver, china, etc. I don't bother now; I have too many to dust. I have a cupboard full, and I'am past 81.

DORIS CLARK

My sister collects elephants and has over 100; some very lovely made from ivory. I had a girl here visiting my girl, from Newfoundland, and she collected sweaters. She had 38. Her father travelled all over the world on the big boats and always brought her one from places like Japan and China.

I have a little wooden shoe over 200 years old. At one time it had a tiny slide cover. My mother always kept her rings in it. We never knew what it was for and when my girl visited the Old Curiosity Shop in England she saw one like it. She asked what it was used for and they said it was a very old snuff box.— COLLECTOR.

DEAR COLLECTOR: Delightful! Many famous people collect things — some very odd ones. It is a hobby full of possibilities for fun and fact-finding about countries and civilizations. I'd guess that your dust-collecting shoes have made many good friends for you over the years!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My husband left me for another woman. He pays support for the children.

I still love him and am a nervous wreck. I see her face every time I close my eyes. I feel I should let him go and not tear myself apart the way I do but when he comes up to pay me I start to cry and it ends up I say something nasty or he does.

Can you help me? I'm quite sure he will not change. If it weren't her it would be someone else. My lawyer suggests a divorce. — TORN APART.

* * *

DEAR TORN APART: Take yourself in hand. If you can't see him without crying — don't see him! He can deposit your payment in the bank. This would be a relief for him too.

Whether divorce is the answer, I couldn't say. But I do know there is a future for you. Seek personal guidance and start looking forward to what may be, instead of backward at what has been.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I want to know what to do with a girl friend who always betrays me. I've tried to get rid of her but she still comes back and bothers me.

I really believe she's retarded, because she is constantly on the alert for boys and talks nothing sensibly. All she ever says is speaks about mostly is sex.

She tries to get dates for me as a favor. But I know she really wants me to get into trouble. I'm 15 and I'm not really that hatch over boys but I do care for them now and then.

She's been driving me so crazy these past months that I just can't take any more. Also, she's been engaged and she's only 15 too. Please help me before she's able to control me.— DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Does a consuming interest in sex indicate retardation? Drop your conlving pal. If she is "able to control you," I'm going to think you are retarded too. Better take your mother into your confidence and get her to help you find some other friends.

Not in Campaign, I Just Go Along Olive Diefenbaker Defines Role

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—"I'm not in this campaign, I just go along."

That is how Olive Diefenbaker describes her role in the Nov. 8 election campaign, the fifth she has been through since she married John Diefenbaker in 1953.

Although she is the first to deny it, Mrs. Diefenbaker has been very much in any political battle her husband has waged.

Political strategists of all parties say her vote-winning charms are formidable. They only have to see her in action to understand why.

At a political rally in an overheated hall, or on a chilly railway station platform, she is usually only a few steps behind Mr. Diefenbaker, shaking hands with people he may have missed in his progress.

"How do you do, I'm Mrs. Diefenbaker," she says softly, with a warm smile. That smile and the homey sort of warmth she exudes, along with an uncanny memory for names and faces, all go toward making this attractive woman in invaluable campaign asset.

On a whistle - stopping tour of Quebec early in this campaign, reporters noticed her chatting comfortably in French to people at railway stops. She is modest about this talent, but she is about everything else.

"I enjoy speaking French, but am a bit self-conscious about it," she told an interviewer. Both the Diefenbakers read French and Mrs. Diefenbaker says she knows French grammar better than English grammar.

HER CHARM IS CAMPAIGN ASSET — Warmth, charm and an uncanny memory for names and faces make Olive Diefenbaker a valuable campaigner for her husband, John Diefenbaker, leader of the opposition. Although slipped discs in her back make travel painful and fatiguing she insists she loves campaigning. Above, Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker are shown in one of their rare moments of relaxation at Stornoway, official residence of the opposition leader. (CP Photo)

NOTES FOR HUSBAND

One of her habits in a campaign is slipping her husband quickly - written notes.

While the subject of most of these notes remains a mystery, reporters one night in 1963 got a clue to the sort of information they contain.

Mr. Diefenbaker, then prime minister, was in the midst of a speech at Sydney, N.S., when his wife handed him a note. He stopped for a moment to read it, went on with his speech, then paused to look at it again.

Peering out at his audience he explained: "My wife's sent me a note, but I can't read it, so I guess I'll have to leave that out of my speech."

Turning to his wife, he said puckishly: "You'll have to write more legibly: one bad writer in this family is bad enough—The crowd had a good chuckle.

Later it was learned the note read: "Over the fireplace at home we have a painting of Cape Breton."

Mrs. Diefenbaker, whose father was a Baptist minister from Canning, N.S., had known that tidbit would have been a nice touch in a speech to a Cape Breton audience.

Few people realize what degree of strength are needed to maintain the gruelling pace of the 70-year-old Opposition leader.

"We are both very strong people, and we love to campaign," Mrs. Diefenbaker says.

Travel is all the more fatiguing for her because she has a number of slipped discs in her back. This forces her to wear an uncomfortable steel brace which is often painful, but even her closest friends have seldom heard her complain.

HUSBAND COMES FIRST

She shrugs off all questions about herself. "Why don't you ask about my husband. He's the important one."

This has been her philosophy since she married John Diefenbaker Dec. 8, 1953, in Toronto. Both had been married before. His first wife, the former Edna Brower, died of leukemia in 1951. Her first husband, Harry F. Palmer, a Toronto barrister, died in 1936.

In recognition of his wife's contribution to his career, Mr. Diefenbaker told a political picnic at Oakville, Ont., this fall:

"Without a wife, the ways of public life would be difficult if not untenable."

A former school teacher, she has found it easy to meet and talk to people in all walks of life. But she has spoken in public rarely.

One such occasion was at the emotion-charged annual meeting of the Conservative party here in 1964 when her husband's leadership was being openly questioned.

She urged 600 members of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association to unite behind a singleness of purpose, and to their cheers added:

"It isn't always easy to be the leader, or the leader's wife, but this is one of the moments which makes it porth while."

In an interview early in this election campaign, she expressed the same thought:

"There is little time for relaxation, for I have a tremendous number of letters to write. But even though campaigning is an exhausting business, I'm having a wonderful time.

"There are so many days when all the hard work is worth while."

Susanna's Family Fare

KNIT A TWEED SUIT

Dear Susanna: The idea of using plastic picks from hair rollers for planning knitted sets comes together before sewing is ideal. The blunt picks hold firmly, are easy to find in the yarn and will not scratch during fitting.

More about knitting. To obtain an interesting tweedy effect, knit 1stread in a contrasting color along with the yarn.

If you or a younger member of your family find pleasure in cutting out clothes for little fashion dolls, but don't wish to attempt the trouble of hemming them, simply outline the edge of each piece with clear nail polish to prevent fraying. — Mrs. E. Steen

Hurray, for telling us how to say nay to fray when working with clothes for those peaky, but gorgeous, miniature dolls! — SUSANNA

HANDY SPICE BAGS

Dear Susanna: I love to pickle, and be it eggs or chicken, tha's are on my list of pickling musts. It seems that I'm constantly in need of handy spice bags. Finally I went out and bought a couple all ready made up in the form of a pair of child's small white socks. All they need is to be tied with string after the spice is in them, and they can be washed and re-used for this purpose indefinitely. —I. B. C.

Since pickling is your passion, you deserve this small indulgence. — SUSANNA

Number of Ladies' Clubs Promote Projects at Fair

By ANN RUEBOTTOM

OTTAWA (CP)—A number of women's clubs here hope to raise about $1,000 each through various volunteer projects at the Ottawa Winter Fair, being held this week.

In one of the most imaginative projects, members of the Association Missionnaire Elizabeth Bruyere are selling handmade items, crocheted table cloths and table decorations to help the missionary work of the Grey Nuns of the Cross.

Sister Joseph Henry, interviewed while looking leather goods, said they are also planning to open Ottawa's first doll hospital.

The Ottawa Historical Society has a history display to counteract "all the whirl-bang of television", said its president, Mrs. W. F. C. Anderson. It is also trying to preserve to add in its centennial projects. One is to provide a memorial to Col. By, founder of Ottawa.

Various local branches of the Federation des Femmes Canadiennes Francaises (federation of French - Canadian women) are also represented. The organization is selling preserves to support its parish work.

The seven - year - old annual project of the Ottawa branch of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is to serve apple pie and cheddar cheese. Proceeds rair d at the IODE booth, a popular one at the fair, go towards the group's centennial project. The group hopes to provide a welfare loan fund for the city.

Apples, cider and Christmas cake are being sold by the local Zoota Club, the sister club of Rotary International.

The club operates a low-cost home for retired businesswomen of modest means, and contributes to two international projects. These are the Hamidiah Trade - School for Girls in Iran, and the Amelia Earhart Memorial Scholarships for women in aeronautical engineering.

Colorful handwoven rugs are on display in the Union Catholique des Fermieres (Catholic rural women's union) booth. The Victorian Order of Nurses is there selling candy, and UNICEF Christmas cards.

Tea and homemade cookies, made by the members of local women's institutes, are served in attractive surroundings. Donations received from visitors go towards the club's work in the home, school, and community.

Mink . . . glamor with beauty. Various Natural Shades.

PRICE WILL SURPRISE YOU.

A deposit will hold your choice.

Capt. Thinks Women Are Stronger Sex

VANCOUVER (CP)—The captain of the Russian freighter Sorsha believes that if the world's women want peace, they can get it.

The captain thinks women are the stronger sex, and as boss of a tough crew she is living proof of her point.

Captain Anna Schetsina, one of the few women skippers of blue-water vessels, has held captain's papers since 1935.

In a speech to the Quota Club, a business women's organization, she said:

"We are from different countries, with different systems, but we women all want peace, not war.

"All my life I have worked with men, not women, and I feel women are the stronger half of the population.

"If all the women of the world want to say 'War, no!' all the world can live in peace."

The club members gave Captain Anna a cake and a miniature totem pole. She took time off to speak to them while her ship was loading in Vancouver harbor.

B. and P. Club Hears Report Of Seminar

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club held its monthly dinner meeting in the Belmont Club Rooms and all enjoyed a tasty roast dinner.

Mrs. Dorothy Ellis introduced the head table guests. One of these was Mr. Connell, teacher at Quinte Secondary School who spoke briefly on the United Nations seminar which was held at Queen's University in Kingston, this year.

Mrs. Shirley Woodcox introduced the guest speaker Miss Leslie Gardner, a grade 13 student who was sponsored by the Club to attend the seminar. One hundred students attended in June of this year, when "South East Asia" was the theme of the seminar.

Miss Gardner told of the lectures given each day and of the proceedings carried out just like the actual United Nations. She also told of the entertainment which was planned and of the tour through the Royal Military College.

The highlight of the seminar was the speech given by the High Commissioner from India.

Miss Gardner expressed thanks to the Club for the privilege of attending this most interesting session.

The business meeting followed conducted by the president Marie Huffman. Reports were given by Mrs. Goodchild, Brown and Mrs. Irene Haig who were observers at the International Congress held this year in Washington. Mrs. Shirley Woodcox who attended the regional meeting held in Napanee also gave her report.

Mrs. Charlotte Lockyer thanked Miss Gardner on behalf of the club.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD G. REID

Reid – Chambers

ROSLIN — Bethel-Zion United Church was the scene of the marriage of Helen Louise Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chambers, of Hallowayy, and Donald Glenn Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reid of Moira, on Saturday, October 23rd, at 1:30 p.m. Rev. G. Goodall of Plainfield officiated at the ceremony, and the organist, Mrs. Allan Lott, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gordon Foster in two selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de sole over taffeta. The fitted bodice was lace trimmed with softly scooped neckline and long fitted lily-point sleeves. The full flowing skirt was also enhanced with Guipure lace appliques and the small waistline was accented with a large bow at the back. Her fingertiered finger tip veil of scalloped net was caught to a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink Sensation roses and ivy.

Miss Betty Holden as maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Marjorie Reid, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Joan Chambers, sister of the bride, were identically attired in street length ice-blue dresses of chiffon over lace and carried crescent bouquets of bashful blushing tinted blue 'mums.

Mr. Harold Reid was his brother's groomsman, while Mr. Jim Bailey and Mr. Clarke Maxwell were the ushers.

The reception was held at the Bethel-Zion Church hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a floor-length gold wool flannel suit with brown accessories, and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a two-piece dress of rose-beige crepe, lace trim, with lace jacket and beige accessories and corsage of tinted 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and western points the bride chose a jade green wool suit, black accessories and corsage of tangerine carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid will reside at 288 William Street, Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN LESTER WARD

Ward – Coles

Rev. Roy E. Vessey was the officiating clergyman in College Hill United Church, recently, when Brenda Edna Coles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Coles, Belleville, was united in marriage to John Lester Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ward, Picton. Traditional wedding music was provided by organist, Mrs. G. Blakey, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. D. Elias in two appropriate selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length bridal gown of nylon organza over taffeta featuring a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace with a scalloped neckline dotted with seed pearls and crystalettes, and long lily-point sleeves. The full skirt was highlighted at the hemline with Chantilly lace gathered at the front with a Chantilly trimming. The back of the skirt was enhanced with tiers of lace. A four-tier elbow length veil finished from a double crown of seed pearls and crystalettes. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses mingled with white baby 'mums.

Miss Karen Butler as maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Rosemary Ward and Miss Nancy Lou Middleton of Belleville as well as the little flower girl, Miss Teresa White, cousin of the bride were identically attired in floor length red velvet dresses. The bodices were accented with round necklines and elbow length sleeves with the waistlines highlighted with white velvet cummerbunds and accented at the back with a large white bow and long streamers. Their headdresses were red velvet rosettes encircled with puffed tulle and netting. Each carried a nosegay of white 'mums and red Sweetheart roses. The flower girl carried a gold and white basket with similar flowers.

Mr. Dalton Metcalfe was the groomsman, while Mr. Vaughn Long and Mr. Albert Coles were the ushers.

For the reception at the Belleville Shrine Club the bride's mother received the guests wearing a turquoise jacket dress of pure silk shantung featuring a Chantilly lace bodice with matching colored hat of ostrich feathers, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a jade green crepe dress in Empire style with round neckline and cap sleeves, with matching flat and gloves, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points in the United States, the bride chose a pink all wool two-piece suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward are living at 70 Lewis Street, Apt. 3, in Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL E. RICHARDSON

Richardson – Roraback

Joan Elizabeth Roraback, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley D. Roraback of Belleville, and Paul Edmund Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Richardson of Whitby were united in marriage by Rev. Harry M. Davis in Bridge Street United Church on Saturday, October 23, 1965, at 3.00 p.m. Mr. Alec Gordon was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sheath gown of white silk organza with bolero jacket. Bodice and elbow length sleeves trimmed with bands of Guipure lace. The full length skirt was trimmed with the same lace and she wore a tiered silk illusion veil held with a crescent of pearls. Her bouquet was of white gardenias.

Mrs. J. R. Young, matron of honor, and Miss Pauline Haugh and Mrs. Neale McLean, bridesmaids, wore formal sheath gowns of opera green with scoop necklines and elbow length sleeves. The Empire bodices of velveteen in matching green enhanced the peau de soie sheath skirts. Their wedding ring headpieces were of matching velveteen and they carried arm bouquets of white Commercial 'mums. The flower girl, Miss Jayne Harris, niece of the bridegroom, was dressed in a white floor length gown of dotted nylon over taffeta with a full skirt, bolero jacket and cap sleeves. A velveteen sash of opera green encircled her waist and she carried a basket of white palm 'mums.

Mr. Bernard Bradshaw acted the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. J. Richard and Mr. James Harris.

At the reception held at the Belleville Shrine Club, the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a copen blue sheath dress of Chantilly lace, blue accessories, and a white cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in a sheath dress of metallic brocade in shocking pink with black fur trim. She wore a corsage of a pink cymbidium orchid.

For her wedding trip to Northern Ontario, the bride chose an imported wool crepe suit in shocking pink with black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

On their return the couple will live at 319 Adelaide St. West, Oshawa.

Med. Secretaries Form Association

A meeting of the newly formed Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Secretaries Association was held at Bridge Street Hall, last Wednesday evening. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Mae Cathcart; vice - president, Mrs. Leeann Bryant; secretary, Mrs. Marion Dempsey and treasurer, Mrs. Mary Hatfield.

The executive extends an invitation to all secretaries connected with the medical profession both paid and unpaid to join with them. Any further information may be obtained by calling 968-6161.

Sister Maysell Sills, introduced her husband, Mr. Roy Sills and family. Sister Sills was presented with a bouquet of red roses from her husband.

Sister Empey, N.G., honored the Past Noble Grands present with a solo sung by Sister Dorothy Webber, Quintena soloist.

Sister Joyce Fisher, D.D.P., spoke briefly on the importance of an open installation, which gives the family and friends of the officers an idea of the work of the order. Other distinguished guests spoke.

SECURE NEW OFFICERS

The Quintena guard of honor formed an escort for the return of the new officers. Outside Guard of honor consisted of Verna Oliphant, Barbara Blakley, Shirley Hall, Marion Harwood, Valetta Shore, Betty Bailey, (Rebekah flag bearer) and Barbara Sister. Sister Irene McMartin, P.N.G., assisted by Bro. Bruce Prindle assembled the guard of honor members for the grand march to the upper hall, where Sister Cress Cronk, P.N.G., was in charge of seating the guests for the banquet, prepared by Sister Betty Clark and Ethel Ostrom and their committee.

The head table setting was a centrepiece of pink roses with crystal candlesbra. The favors at each place were in keeping with the District Deputy's motto.

Appreciations were expressed, bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

Quintena Rebekahs Install New Officers

On Tuesday evening an open installation of Quintena Rebekah Lodge officers for the 1965-66 term was held in the I.O.O.F. hall, which was beautifully decorated with the lodge standards of fern and 'mums.

A large number of family and friends of the officers being installed gathered in the club room. Sister Mary Plumpton, P.D.D.P., was receptionist, assisted by Sister Cress Adams, P.N.G. These guests were escorted to another room for the opening.

The Noble Grand, Sister Bernice Hall, welcomed and introduced the following distinguished guests: Sister Joyce Prisher, District Deputy President, District No. 4, escorted by Sister Clara Ironside, L.S.N.G.; Sister Isabell Martin Jr., Deputy Marshall and Installing Staff of Ceremonies, Thomasburg, escorted by Sister Irene McMartin, P.N.G.; Brother Wesley Farell, District Deputy Grand Master of Madoc District No. 45, escorted by Sister Cress Adams, P.N.G. Lady Irene Anson of Belleville, Past President of the Ladies' Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant, escorted by Sister Bessie Boldrick, P.N.G.; Brother Alvin Miller, Deputy Grand Warden, Brother Carl Boyle, Noble Grand Belleville Lodge No. 81, and Mrs. Boyle. Other guests were welcomed from Tweed, Trenton, Odessa, Picton and Lamdon, Ontario.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Trimming baby's nails can be a chore at times, especially if he's a confirmed fist clencher. Two clever-mother suggestions that may prove just right for you:

If you might try stopping them right after a meal, when you're now one's drowsy, his fingers relaxed.

If baby's a steady sitter, try placing him on your lap in front of a mirror for the manicure. Self-reflected glory is absorbing.

Vegetable review with two special points of view. Introducing a variety of vegetables at an early age serves a two-fold purpose. It helps build good eating habits when food acceptances are most easily established. It provides a wide range of vitamins and minerals. Gerber Strained Vegetables are notable for garden-fresh colours and natural-flavour goodness. Like all Gerber Baby Foods, each one is "custom-cooked" according to its own requirements to preserve the utmost in precious food values.

Substitute plan. If your baby should occasionally rebel at a vegetable, why force the issue when you can easily substitute another with similar nutritive values? Mixed Vegetables for Sweet Potatoes, or Squash for Green Beans, for example?

Beauty course. Whenever you give baby his oil or lotion beauty treatment, snitch a few drops for the backs of your hands. Wonderfully satinizing, also helps keep cuticles soft.

Smile center. Grins galore are usually in store for you when you top off baby's main course with a Gerber Strained Custard occasionally. Delicately flavored and delightfully smooth, any one of them will make a happy ending for a baby meal. Made with egg yolks and other good ingredients, they're wholesome as can be. Vanilla, Butterscotch, Orange or Cherry Vanilla. P.S. For a flavour bonus, top with a dollop of any Gerber Strained Fruit. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Is it that nagging backache again?

If it's backache that's bothering you, it could be an early sign of kidney trouble. Instead of guessing at the cause, Doan's Pills can help bring you relief. Doan's Pills stimulate the kidneys to help restore their healthful excretion of backache. Then you feel better and rest better. You can depend on Doan's Pills. Ask for Doan's Pills and save money.

Meet Ray Ward
an important man . . . at Food City!

Ray is one of our courtesy boys — looking for a special item Ray will find it for you — want your groceries carried to your car — Ray is there to help and, of course, will pack your order in your car. Sure, Ray goes to school and helps out nights and weekends at FOOD CITY but he is well trained to pack groceries properly.

Heavy to light as we say in the grocery business — one day we expect Ray will be a very prominent citizen in his community. Who knows, he may even decide to stay in the grocery business and become Manager one day. Right now though, he is part of our team at FOOD CITY and very important to us and, of course, to our customers. Like we always say, people, price and quality are the happy differences at FOOD CITY!

Sixteen bodies were scattered between the point of impact and the main wreckage. The charred bodies of the other victims were found in the front half of the plane.

It was the first fatal crash for a passenger - carrying Vanguard, which since 1961 has been BEA's workhorse on domestic routes.

It also was the worst in the history of London Airport, regarded as one of the world's safest. The last fatal civil aviation crash there was 12 years ago, Oct. 31, 1950, when a BEA twin-engined Viking from Paris crashed in fog and killed 28 persons.

Inspector Duguid was the last of 22 witnesses called before the two-day hearing by the Crown and told the court he received from Moldaver July 15 a key which fitted a lock allegedly securing the Deloro warehouse where 208 drums of federal government cobalt were stored.

RECORDS SEARCHED

He also told of searching Moldaver's offices and removing a file of correspondence with the Grems Metals Corporation with head offices at Miami Beach.

A check of bank records showed Moldaver had transferred more than $50,000 from the Toronto Dominion Bank to the Imperial Bank of Canada in Peterborough in early July.

Bob Smith, accountant with the Toronto Dominion Bank at Peterborough, identified a letter of credit received February 13 from Grems Metals to Moldaver's account.

It was payment for a consignment of scrap shipped earlier that month and its itemized entries quoted 32 drums of cobalt shot at $1.20 U.S. funds for a total of $43,100 (U.S.)

The final day of testimony also heard from J. C. (Pat) Houston, manager of Deloro Sieltite — a Belleville subsidiary of Deloro Smelting, where the cobalt was stored—and the man who first discovered the metal was missing May 4.

He said he went to the warehouse with a friend identified only as Anderson, and Regan, who was official guardian of the property.

He had brought a key from Belleville with him but it did not fit the warehouse lock at Deloro. The three men then returned to Regan's gatehouse office to look for the right key.

The key was missing from a filing cabinet in the office and Regan hunted around his desk and selected some others.

The manager picked up a hacksaw and the trio then returned to the warehouse. The hacksaw was useless and Regan tried one of the keys he had selected.

"While it didn't fit the lock it did open the lock," said the manager.

He discovered the disappearance of the cobalt when an empty container rolled under him as he stepped across the stacked drums counting the stockpile.

He immediately changed locks, turning the original one over to OPP detective sergeant Lloyd Lyle, of Belleville, the first senior investigator to arrive on the scene.

Later, in the hearing, Inspector Duguid produced the key allegedly received from Moldaver and fitted it to a lock identified by ebe Deloro Sieltite manager as that removed from the warehouse.

Colleges 'Exciting' Proposal

WINDSOR (CP) — Within 15 years there will be more students enrolled in Ontario colleges of applied arts and technology (community colleges) than in universities, Education Minister William G. Davis said Tuesday.

He told delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Public Schools Trustees Association that the new concept in post-secondary school education is potentially the most exciting development on the educational landscape.

A board of regents, he said, will be appointed in the near future to determine locations for several of the new colleges throughout the province.

More than 100 communities have applied for consideration as possible locations.

WON'T BE COPIES

"An essential feature of these colleges will be that they are not to be facsimiles of American junior colleges. We want them to be indigenous to meet our own particular needs," Mr. Davis said.

They will, he added, reflect the character of the area in which they are situated, and they will offer a wide variety of programs of varying length, including day and evening work-experience programs for adults as well as young people.

"Our aim is to have them strategically spread across the province so that all parts of Ontario are served fairly and according to need. They are not to be considered as second class universities as they will play a major role in the country's economy."

Most courses will be of two years duration and will be open to Grade 12 graduates or mature students who failed to graduate but are 19 years old or more.

Wilson, who arrived here Monday in an 11th-hour bid to avert an illegal seizure of independence by Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority government, also was scheduled to meet former Southern Rhodesian prime minister Garfield Todd today.

Todd, an opponent of unilateral independence, was restricted to his farm, 265 miles away, a week ago in his prepared to leave for Britain to attend a teach-in on the Rhodesian crisis.

Todd's wife said he was being allowed to go to Salisbury for the interview with Wilson.

Northumberland Voters Hear Foreign Policy Talk

CAMPBELLFORD — Foreign policy entered the hotly contested Northumberland County election campaign Tuesday night with firm statements by a Federal Cabinet Minister, Liberal Candidate Pauline Jewett that Canada will not be sending combat troops to fight alongside U.S. forces in their efforts to subdue the Viet Cong.

Speaking in support of Miss Jewett, who represented the riding in the last Parliament as Solicitor General, Hon. Lawrence Pennell said, "There is no intention of Canada sending troops to Viet Nam."

In her address to the meeting, attended by about 300 in School auditorium, Miss Jewett said, "It is not the policy of the Liberal Government to send any troops (to Viet Nam) at all except if requested to, under the U.N., as part of a peace corps. Personally, I am unalterably opposed to any contribution of troops. We should put our efforts to what we can do on the supervisory control commission and what we may be called on to do if a UN peace-keeping force is bound to being. If it came to a vote, I would have to vote against it," she said.

Mr. Pennell who won the South-Western Ontario riding of Brant-Haldimand for the Liberals in 1963 said, "Northumberland will be the centre of the nation's attention November 8. I see the modern South from the Montreal Stock Exchange meeting the same fate as a more illustrious predecessor," in reference to Conservative Candidate George Hees.

He said that in representing Northumberland, Miss Jewett had contributed youth, energy and intelligence to Parliament. She ranks with the first three or four intellects in the House of Commons and has served the riding and Canada with distinction."

DEFICIT GREATLY REDUCED

Mr. Pennell said, "The issue in this election is, can we maintain the momentum of our economic growth." The Solicitor General who prior to his cabinet appointment served as Finance Minister to Walter Gordon said the Liberal Government had reduced an "inherited" budgetary deficit of $700,000,000 to a projected personal income tax across the board by 10 percent."

Mr. Pennell strongly emphasized the point of a "New Canada" policy of the Liberal Party. "This means," he said, "new economic growth. A sense of national purpose and identity and security for older citizens to meet the aspirations of our people."

He said this was being accomplished through "tax incentives and grants to aid industries that are prepared to undertake research and development. The basic job of a government is to keep the economy moving forward. We are now asking for the authority to meet this responsibility. The decision confronting voters is a majority government or a majority opposition.

The skills of our labor force must keep pace with the needs of technology. Basic things are a mobile and trained labor force and the opening of doors to new markets. Then we will be able to take advantage of our opportunities," Mr. Pennell said.

EXCITING CAMPAIGN

During her address, Miss Jewett said "Maybe it's because I like a run uphill, but I've never had more fun in this campaign. There is lots of challenge and it's exciting." She said she was confident of the outcome and that it would be "a Liberal in Northumberland and a Liberal majority in Canada. Otherwise, an awful lot of people are kidding me," she added.

Miss Jewett who has been conducting at "what's your beef' and "are there any questions you would like to ask" campaign throughout the county, said she was impressed with the variety and kind of questions being asked and cited the question about Canadian involvement in Viet Nam as being an outstanding example. It was asked by a Campbellford textile worker.

Talking Son of Talking Dad, Gilles Caouette Seeks Seat

CAOUETTE'S SON TRIES FOR PARLIAMENT— Gilles Caouette (right), 26-year-old son of Creditiste Leader Real Caouette, is making his third try for Parliament November 8, in the rural constituency of Labelle, northwest of Montreal. Gilles says the local organization asked him to run and his father gave the nod. But he says he's strictly on his own as a candidate. (CP Photo)

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP)—The teenage years of affable Gilles Caouette were filled with talk of politics, economics and life.

He talked at school and college. He talked at home, and there he was matching words with a formidable orator who has been the big influence in his life — Real Caouette, his father.

Now Gilles Caouette, 26, is married, himself the father of two boys, and an engineering technician by profession.

But the love of fervent talk remains and has led him to stand in a tough district as candidate for his father's party, Le Ralliement des Creditistes, in the Nov. 8 election.

The younger Caouette says he's strictly on his own and was, moreover, very much his own master in two previous campaigns he waged as a candidate under his father's leadership.

Thinner of face and frame than his celebrated parent, he is about the same height—five-feet-eight—and plunged with the same intensity into the election campaigns he staged in 1963 and 1964.

SWITCHED RIDING

Those were fought in the long-time Liberal district of Montreal Laurier and against a redoubtable opponent. The current campaign also has shaped up as a rugged one, involving the tightly-contested rural constituency of Labelle, northwest of Montreal.

For his baptism of fire two years ago, the voluble young man—who worked, then as now, with an electrical company in Montreal—took on Lionel Chevrier, a seasoned member of the Liberal hierarchy and now Canada's high commissioner in London.

Mr. Chevrier won the 1963 fight with relative ease, though Mr. Caouette ranked second among four candidates.

The year after, Mr. Chevrier was off to London and a byelection to choose his parliamentary successor saw Mr. Caouette defeated again.

This time Mr. Caouette numbers ex-Senator Henri Courtemanche among his opponents in Labelle. The seat was won for Social Credit—which the Ralliement supersedes in Quebec—by 319 votes two years ago.

At that time, Gerard Girouard was the hairbreadth winner over Gaston Clermont of the Liberals, who is campaigning again in the same cause. It was 6,951 votes to 6,632 in the four-way 1963 race.

CHANGED PARTY

Mr. Girouard switched to the Conservatives last year and now is the Tories' flag - bearer in Hull, Que.

Mr. Courtemanche, a former state secretary, resigned from the Senate in 1961 after being criticized by a Quebec royal commission for fees he received from a Montreal hospital.

Mr. Courtemanche entered the Labelle race as an independent Conservative against the official Tory, Gerard Vermette, and Noel Decoste of the New Democrats, as well as Mr. Caouette.

Of Gilles Caouette, his father once said:

"My son can take care of himself. But he is my son and I'll certainly speak up for him."

But the campaigning son, who has a sister and a brother, insists his father, 48, had nothing to do with the selection of the Creditiste candidate for Labelle.

The local organizers asked him to run there, says Gilles, and he agreed, with his party leading father then giving the nod.

"Farmers and woodsmen in Labelle are having rough times, young Mr. Caouette contends.

STUDIED AT LAVAL

He says he has much to offer them because the Social Credit doctrine, as taught by his father maintains that "the human being is the most important thing and the economy should be geared to the human being's needs."

Like his father, Gilles attended the Roman Catholic Sacred Heart College in Victoriaville, Que., then went to St. Louis College in the Caouette home town of Rouyn, a northwestern Quebec community.

Later came studies at Laval Institute of Technology in Montreal and eventually with the Northern Electric Co. Ltd.

His work is concerned with the steel that goes into supports for electrical lines.

Gilles Caouette at school and college was never a public debater but he thrived on conversations riddled with ideas.

Any ideological problems were brought home to Real, in those years a garage - owner just climbing toward political prominence.

The young Caouette has two other heroes besides his father —Napoleon and the late French-speaking Canadien nationalist, Henri Bourassa. These days he has what he calls "a good sensitive critic" in the person of his wife.

Reluctant Candidate Sparks Interest in Cariboo Riding

By STEPHEN SCOTT

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) Whatever the outcome of the Nov. 8 federal election, the Cariboo constituency probably will be remembered best for the Affair of the Reluctant Candidate.

Not that other things haven't happened in the vast riding that covers northeastern British Columbia—it has hit new ranges regularly since Prime Minister Pearson visited it on his pulse-taking western tour before announcing the election.

But Fred Atkinson's New Democratic Party nomination, his withdrawal, disappearance and eventual acceptance is the most novel.

Next to it is the timely story of the harassed returning officer.

Apart from those stories the constituency provides an interesting exercise for those brave enough to predict elections.

This boom city is the population centre of a riding into which thousands of workers are pouring to work on construction of everything from pulp mills to the gigantic $700,000,000 Peace River Dam near Hudson Hope, 170 miles north of here.

The riding extends about 500 miles south from the Yukon border and is 280 miles across at its widest point. The number of eligible voters has jumped to about 48,000 from 43,000. Most of these are in the Prince George area where three pulp mills are being constructed within 10 miles of the city. But there is also lumbering throughout the riding and considerable farming and oil and gas production in the Peace River.

LEBOE VETERAN MP

Social Creditor Bert Leboe has held the seat since 1953, with the exception of four years when a Conservative was carried in on the Diefenbaker sweep of 1958.

His opponents all feel they have excellent chances to upset him.

They are: Mr. Atkinson, 53, of Prince George, business agent for the Beverage Dispensers and Culinary Workers Union (CLC); Peter Runkle, 39, Conservative, chartered accountant from Peace Coupe and candidate last election; Arthur McClellan, 53, Liberal Dawson Creek lawyer.

In the 1963 election Mr. Leboe defeated the Liberal candidate 9,235 to 8,543. Mr. Runkle had 8,304 and the NDP candidate 4,461.

Mr. Atkinson was nominated early in the campaign. He withdrew after receiving telephone calls complaining he had been a party member for less than a year and should not accept the nomination.

He disappeared—he said later he was visiting union members at construction camps — when national leader T. C. Douglas visited Prince George. Members of Mr. Douglas's staff spent much of the day fruitlessly looking for him.

He reappeared again some days later, said the matter was cleared up, and the NDP had a candidate again.

TIMES CONFUSE

Returning officer Holger Enemark got more publicity for the area over his riding's confused voting times. Chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay helped straighten out the situation.

Two times are used in the constituency, Mountain and Pacific. To add to the confusion, the Pacific zone changed to standard from daylight time in the middle of two days set aside for advance polls. The Mountain zone never left standard time.

To make sure all persons vote within the same period Nov. 8, the Pacific zone goes to the polls between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. while voters in the Mountain zone will vote between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The Liberals say Cariboo is one of their four "high-priority" ridings in the province. They imported economist Russell Brink, successful provincial election campaign manager in Vancouver, to run the campaign here. Mr. Brink says most Social Credit support is in the rural areas while the Liberals are strong in the urban areas.

The Conservatives, Liberals and NDP say Social Credit is losing support federally. Liberals and Conservatives discount each other and the NDP and say Social Credit is the party to beat. The NDP sees growing support from the laborers who have moved into the area.

Social Credit is not worried.

Elmer Nelson, Mr. Leboe's campaign manager, says the Social Credit provincial government is responsible for the boom in the north. Electors will not forget that, he says, even in a federal election.

Lapland Reindeer Delight Canadian Ornithologist

Lavonia Stockelbach, the author of the following article, has been a frequent visitor to Belleville and has contributed many articles to The Intelligencer on her travels. Recently, she completed a world tour with a group of ornithologists, and in this article, gives her impressions of Lapland.

By LAVONIA STOCKELBACH

Though the visit to Finland and to Lapland beyond the Arctic Circle had been the main anticipation of the bird watching tour, it was sad to bid adieu to the mighty Himalayas and to Kashmir, so soon to be fought over, and to see the last of U.S.S.R. with its many problems unsolved and seemingly unsolvable.

As Andre Gide, writing back in the 30's said, one must remember the natural unpredictivity of the Russian people. But he optimistically though that the "New generation of keen and ardent youth would change all that." How could they? When from earliest childhood they have been taught what they should know and think and believe. One seldom maintained that "A few years ago, Germany, the United States and England had something to teach us, but now we have nothing to learn from foreigners. So why should we learn to speak their language?"

That attitude I had come across a number of times. A "superiority complex" in a person is a nuisance you can run away from, but how to escape a nation so plagued? Perhaps the appearance of what appears to be a social strata may do something towards smother of their arupt reversals.

All they ask for is for an enthusiastic approval and for no criticisms whatever. Other nations have had similar conceited ideas. The downward path is easy.

But I hope some day to meet again a few Russian people with whom it was a great delight and fun to talk, but there were not many of those.

ARRIVAL IN FINLAND

Now that was past, and we flew the short distance from Moscow to Helsinki in Finland. It is hard to understand why Finland should be included under the term Scandinavian. Its language has not the slightest connection or similarity with Danish, Norwegian or Swedish but certainly the good manners, the food, and the culture have.

So we got up to Lapland, to the land of the midnight sun. There it stuck up in the sky above the horizon. It was in one place when we tried to go to sleep; it seemed to be in exactly the same place when we rose in the morning. Joshua's son stayed still for only the whole of one day with the moon for company. But in this northland, the situation lasted for days, so everybody is used to it.

A dear old lady in the group made sure that the black curtain was drawn completely over the window.

She did not want to see that sun, she only wanted to go home, where the sun was for the go all the time even when you didn't see it. She was American. Perhaps she had been brought up on the Bible and had an alcoholic fear of the staying of so many people at but the honk of the motor car horn, as if a poor reindeer had caught a sore throat travelling through the earth fumes and had no cough drops handy.

Just why I had always thought reindeer were the color of our deer or moose I do not know, but these had so much white or slightly tarnish white on the underparts and limbs, white on the jet black hoofs and muzzle and around the eyes. Its back is a clove brown, with white the whites and dalicate tans in it. The antlers are fascinating ly complex. Those of the females are slightly smaller and a herd of them is a remarkable a and unforgettable sight.

On reaching the farthest north we crossed by ferry into Norway and came to Hammerfest, where could be found a restaurant with coffee and real Danish pastry.

There was little difference to be observed in the shore birds down by the water. They were very much like those in Denmark. It was not really cold but it was chilly enough climbing the hill against a stiff breeze in order to see more closely an odd looking tiny - modern church at the top. But once inside it was well worth the effort. The lofty ceiling, (no balcony) the cheerful light, the perfect proportion, combined to give one such a feeling of satisfying peace that one recalled there was such a spirit as civilization.

LEAVE 5,000 HOMELESS

COLOMBO (AP)—About 5,000 persons were made homeless Tuesday by heavy rain squalls that lashed the southern half of Ceylon for 48 hours without letup. Several thousand acres of rice land were destroyed.

that dramatic staying of the sun. Variety has its charms for when visiting near the equator, while in the Congo it was tedious to watch the sun rise over the mountain at 6:26 every morning day after day, and go down plop! every evening, and then it was dark. What happens to the sun, crossing from San Francisco to Tokyo, I could never discover, but it was a disconsolate for awhile to be able to remember whether it was yesterday, today or tomorrow.

WELCOMES CIVILIZATION

After the various small difficulties on the way, Helsinki and its surroundings seemed civilization and it was heartily welcome. Soon we were on our way by plane and bus farther north. The first reindeer I saw stood in the middle of the road to have a good look at the oncoming bus. It slowed down. Soon we saw more and more of the creatures in the fields beside the road. They were lovely large beasts, quite able to handle the heaviest loads of Christmas toys for the children. There could hardly have been a more fortunate choice for the association with the merry Christmas gift giving. It will be more pleasant to look forward to this coming Christmas and again really believe you hear the bells a-tinkle and

Plant Manager Wins Fight With Red Boss

MOSCOW (CP)—What happens when a factory manager and the plant Communist boss can't get along together? This is a case where the factory manager won the battle.

At Orenburg, 750 miles south-east of Moscow, K. M. Kartashenev, a grain factory manager, found himself at loggerheads with A. I. Korolev, the party secretary.

The outcome of the ensuing tug-of-war in its own small way perhaps says a lot about the growing power of technocrats in Soviet society.

Korolev, storage chief at the factory, came to feel that Kartashenev was turning the factory into his own private estate, oppressing workers and punishing good Communists because they criticized him.

So the party boss began inciting workers. He told them "We have to fight against the administration."

One payday Korolev didn't receive a bonus, as he should have. The mistake was later corrected by Kartashnev. Another time Korolev did not receive his proper sick pay.

He concluded that the omissions were intentional, that the manager was intriguing against him and persecuting him. In turn, he began insulting the administration.

BOTH UNDER FIRE

The feud could not be kept secret. More and more people took sides. Korolev was attacked, and the factory's chief engineer demanded that he be excluded from the party. The meeting did exclude him but Korolev was later reinstated by the town's party organization.

However, in the end Korolev was unceremoniously booted out of his job at the factory, even though many workers thought the manager was at fault and 23 actually signed a letter to this effect.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, reporting the episode, supported them to the extent of scolding Kartashnev for not having a heart-to-heart talk with Korolev before the situation got out of hand.

"It is an unworthy story," admonished Pravda.

For party functionaries at the factory level the moral of the story may be: Think twice before tangling with the boss. Russia needs him and his kind today more than ever—and he knows it.

Latest London Luxury Hotel Overlooks Kensington Palace

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — The latest luxury hotel to open in London, the Royal Garden in Kensington, has a unique if horrid attraction it can't advertise—its next-door neighbor is Princess Margaret.

After the Hilton furore two years ago, when members of Parliament protested that the skyscraper hotel's panoramic view of Buckingham Palace grounds invaded the Queen's privacy, the Royal Garden has chosen to be reticent about the fact that its upper-story rooms overlook Kensington Palace, the mellow red brick 18th-century home of the Queen's sister and her husband Lord Snowdon.

A hotel official conceded the Snowdons "were not very happy" when construction began on the 14-storey hotel, but said the building was not high enough to peek into the royal apartments.

Ironically, the Royal Garden is built on land leased from the Crown. The site, on the edge of Kensington Gardens and the tree-lined road of embassies that Londoners call "Millionaires' Row," was formerly occupied by an older hotel, bombed during the Second World War, and by the Empress rooms, a noted nightspot of the 1920s.

Apart from having the palace next door, the huge slab-sided hotel, set at an angle to busy Kensington High Street, can boast what is probably the finest view of open parkland in London.

The vast wooded expanse of Kensington Gardens, with the Round Pond and its model yachts and the winding Serpentine lake, unrolls below the bedroom windows—a rustic scene unspoiled by the roaring streams of traffic that cut across the Hilton's view of Hyde Park.

The $5,000,000 hotel, built largely of Italian granite and Greek marble, is something of a showcase for contemporary British artists who have been commissioned to do murals and paintings for the various rooms.

A spectacular contribution to the decor comes from Canadian artist David Partridge, whose shimmering copper-and-silver ceiling mural of hammered nails in the crimson-walled roof restaurant was described by an art critic at the opening as the most striking and successful work of art in the hotel.

Ohio-born Partridge, who served in the RCAF and became a Canadian citizen during the Second World War, sometimes describes himself as a "frustrated cabinet maker." Examples of his unusual "nail configurations" are on permanent display in London's Tate Gallery and the Victoria and Albert Museum as well as Ottawa's National Gallery and the Library of Congress in Washington.

Top-priced apartment among the Royal Garden's 800 bedrooms and suites is the $165-a-day royal suite, a lush pad consisting of a 30-foot drawing-room carpeted in azalea pink and furnished in Empire style with two double bedrooms and no fewer than four marble bathrooms, equipped with gold-plated fittings. Butler service is thrown in.

Elsewhere in the hotel, single rooms start at $14 a day, doubles—all of which face the park—at $22.

IT'S A GOOD LIFE FOR PASQUALE — Pasquale Capozzi, owner of a winery, a luxury hotel, a shopping centre and property all over B.C.'s Okanagan Valley, started his career in Canada by losing his first four jobs in 40 days. The road up — to about $8,000,000 — started when he took over a failing grocery store in the B.C. interior. Success came as a grocer and after that came the winery. The winery prospered after a 15-year struggle and provided the base for further investment. Two of his sons help manage the business and the third, Herb, is general manager of the B.C. Lions. (CP Photo)

Cap Capozzi of Kelowna Fired From Four Jobs, Makes Fortune in Winery

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Pasquale walked along the CPR tracks, fired from his fourth job in 40 days and thinking, in Italian, "There must be a better way of making a living."

The year was 1907 and he had been on the frontier only a few months. He had come from Italy to Nelson, B.C., lured by tales of untapped wealth.

"I used to get excited seeing former friends from Santo Stefano del Sole (a small town near Naples) who had gone to North America and come back in their new and flashy black suits to tell us about the great life they had found," says Pasquale (Cap) Capozzi.

"I wanted to join them."

Today the rotund and shinypated Capozzi owns a giant Canadian winery and a luxury hotel in Kelowna, property spotted over 150 miles of B.C.'s Okanagan Valley, and the most modern shopping centre in the province's interior.

But as a young Italian immigrant, Capozzi was anything but a smashing, overnight success. His first four jobs were with Canadian Pacific Railway section gangs. He lost them all because he was inefficient.

"I had never done a day's work in Italy," he says. "I was the only boy to carry on the Capozzi name. My father had four brothers—all with no sons. "I was spoiled all my life."

TOOK PRIDE IN TOOT

His fifth job, as an all-round helper in a CPR shop, lasted a bit longer but he lost it during a strike.

"The happiest moments of my whole life came on that job—I had to toot the whistle three times in the morning to call the other men to work.

"I've never done anything that made me prouder."

Today, Cap has much to make him proud.

He has three sons who have helped make Capozzi Enterprises a throbbing, dynamically successful business.

Joe, 43, and Tom, 37, live in Kelowna and manage the winery, hotel and shopping centre.

Herb, 40, is general manager of the Grey Cup champion B.C. Lions of the Canadian Football League.

"None of us makes a move without completely discussing it with all the others," says Capozzi. "If it wasn't for my boys I wouldn't have what I have today."

Another source of pride is his daughters-in-law. Joe, Tom and Herb have one thing in common —they all married beautiful girls and that has led to another of Capozzi's prides: his 10 grandchildren.

Assets of the various Capozzi undertakings now total close to $5,000,000—a long way from the day Pasquale set up in his first business venture, taking over a store that failed at an interior mining camp.

TACKLED WINE-MAKING

After three years he moved from the Kootenay Mountain area to the lush Okanagan Valley, setting up a grocery store.

As the store grew—and with it the Capozzi bankroll — the young businessman decided to act as an agent for the area's farmers.

Both businesses flourished until government regulations forced him to decide whether to install modern equipment, establishing a packinghouse, or to drop his agency and concentrate on the grocery store.

The store won out but it was not long before he was approached with a plan to make wine out of apples.

He went next door, to a hardware store, and talked to the proprietor about the proposition.

W. A. C. Bennett, who would in 1962 become provincial premier, thought it was a good idea.

Calona Winery was formed in 1931 with the teetotalling Bennett as president and Capozzi a director.

They found apples didn't make fast-selling wine. They reverted to grapes and struggled along for nearly 15 years before they began to prosper.

With that prosperity came new investments—primarily in land—but eventually the hotel, the shopping centre and then expansion of both hotel and winery.

China More United Than Ever Says Writer After Tour

Ian McCrone, Reuters' correspondent in Hong Kong, sums up in the last of a series of articles his impressions of China, garnered during a three-week, 4,000-mile tour.

By IAN McCRONE

PEKING (Reuters) — China today, more unified than ever, is bolstering higher its new wall of self - sufficiency against the outside world.

A better - fed, better - clothed and better - housed populace is being told to rely on its own efforts for everything.

Willingness to expand trade with friendly countries and buy overseas if the price is right still is expressed in high places.

But the mood of the country, set by the workings of 75-year-old Communist party chairman Mao Tse - tung, is: "Let us match all that foreigners can do then achieve what they cannot."

All that the elderly Communist leadership promises its flock of some 700,000,000 is a good life decades hence—something the leaders themselves are unlikely to live to see.

Statements that China now trades with 120 countries and territories and wants more two-way trade on the basis of "mutual advantage and mutual respect" are somewhat offset by:

—The intensity of the drive for self-sufficiency in agriculture, light and heavy industries, chemicals, petroleum and raw materials.

—A foreign policy which this year has seen a lessening of support for Peking in a number of African countries, setbacks at the Afro-Asian conference in Algiers, the anti-Communist campaign in Indonesia and reverses for the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

—The needs of a huge unsatisfied home market, coupled with a limited range of exportable goods to pay for heavy imports.

The new great wall makes sense to the average Chinese ill informed on international affairs.

He sees himself surrounded by the hated "U.S. imperialists" and their allies on three sides and faced by the Russian "revisionists" on the fourth.

Children are being indoctrinated from the nursery upward.

A fantastic number of people —perhaps 200,000,000—who have never seen an American in the flesh, are being forced-fed a monotonous anti-U.S. diet.

The Chinese leaders are determined to try to prevent the children of the revolution—the generation born after 1949—from accepting the concept of "rich communism."

Attacks on the Russian revisionists are made in parallel to the anti-American campaign.

One high official said:

"We are determined to carry on our revolution. So we are bringing up the younger generation to be the successors to the revolution."

DIFFICULT TO JUDGE

Just how far China has actually progressed in the 16 years since the Communists overthrew the Kuomintang government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is a state secret.

The secret is kept by the ban on travel throughout the country and the refusal to disclose any meaningful production statistics.

From the carefully conducted tour I was given, it was not possible to make a complete or accurate judgment.

The attitude of "time is on our side" is most apparent. But what I saw generally, from crops to clothes, from meals to machinery, from take-home pay to trac- -t, was considerably better than I had expected

English-speaking S. Africans Politically Confused Group

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP)—The most politically confused South Africans are the English-speaking people who comprise roughly 40 per cent of the republic's white population of 3,500,000.

Economically they are still the most powerful and culturally the most advanced. But politically they are inept and disoriented.

It is nearly five years since South Africa left the Commonwealth and became a republic, yet their loyalty to the British idea lingers.

They still talk about Elizabeth as the Queen, and England is still regarded as their spiritual home. Thousands of English-speaking South Africans aspire to visit or work in London.

At the same time they never want to live anywhere else but in South Africa and they think of themselves as better all-round South Africans than the Afrikaners.

This dualism is one of the key reasons for their political impotence and confusion and Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, always the shrewd tactician, is wringing every political advantage out of the situation.

What he and his Nationalist party leaders are saying to English South Africans is: On this continent of black and white conflict, we really belong together. The old Boer-Briton antagonisms are dead and buried. The only thing that matters is white unity. The one reality is that the whites will survive only if they become one white South African nation.

At the same time the Verwoerd government has virtually destroyed any foreseeable possibility of political compromise between whites and non-whites. English-speaking South Africans who saw themselves as the bridge in such a compromise, or as a buffer between the two extreme groups, now find they have no role to play except perhaps to hang on to what they have, watch from the sidelines and avoid any positive responsibility for whatever might go wrong.

The Nationalists on the other hand are accepting responsibility — a frightening responsibility—and will continue to accept it. In this way the Afrikaner is more realistic than the English South African. There is no dualism in his political soul. South Africa is his one and only home, spiritually, physically, and has known that if he wants to keep it that way he must to do something.

So he has chosen the course of apartheid (race segregation) and no one can say he is not sincere about it. But he would feel much happier and safer if he could persuade his English compatriots to go along with him. And the Nationalists are wooing the English South African left and right.

The fascinating question is: Can the English-speaking South African accept the Nationalists' invitation and still be true to himself, and if he accepts will the Afrikaner Nationalist really accept him as an equal?

The strength of Afrikaner nationalism has always been its exclusiveness. "Purified" is the word that best describes it. Allow English - speaking people into its inner circles and this exclusiveness will be broken down.

The point is that there is a mystique about this exclusiveness that dare not be lost without endangering Afrikaner nationalism itself. The Afrikaner sees this mystique as the guarantee of his survival, for it involves his Calvinism, his language, his culture and racial character. These things are precious to him.

So the dilemma of the Nationalists in their search for English support is that they cannot surrender this mystique and they dare not even share it.

As for the English, they find themselves politically isolated and powerless to do anything about a situation that embarrasses them. Their opposition to apartheid up to 1961 was vehement if not always constructive, but in those days South Africa was in the Commonwealth and they felt the consolation of belonging to a greater and more understanding brotherhood.

But when the break came they found themselves alone in a republic with the Nationalist government firmly entrenched and the prospect of a new nationhood that carried with it the shame of apartheid.

This is still their dilemma. Most of them are deeply disturbed by apartheid and would rather not share the burden of its disgrace. But to go along with Afrikaner nationalism, which is uncompromising, would mean just this.

Also they are aware of the fundamental differences between the two groups—different attitudes and outlooks, different languages and values and often irreconcilable natures and mentalities.

These differences have been encouraged by the government and have caused deep social cleavages. Between the Afrikaner and the English there is far - reaching separation in universities, schools, churches, commercial organizations, banks, automobile clubs, residential areas, even boy scout, girl guide and first aid organizations.

Even so, the English-speaking South Africans are wavering. In their new isolation they too are beginning to think about survival.

The Nationalists are playing on this fear in the hope of winning over the English vote in next year's general election. If by then, the black-white conflict in Africa has sharpened, English South Africans might just about be ready to accept Dr. Verwoerd's invitation.

But whether this would achieve real unity or secure ultimate white survival remains to be seen.

Will Work 24 Hours a Day Throughout Year at Marlbank

Production at the Marlbank marl deposits, scheduled to get underway sometime next spring, will be a year-round, 24 hours per day operation, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Paul Bourdon, whose firm, the Marlbank Calcium and Carbonate Co. Ltd., announced last week that it would spend several million dollars in development work and construction projects, said production would be a continuous operation and indicated that the potential of the operation was almost unlimited.

He said the quality of the Marlbank marl had been assayed by the Industrial Minerals Division of Ontario as being 98 per cent and that engineers would be able to improve the quality to over 99 per cent.

VARIED USES

Mr. Bourdon said his firm would be the first in Canada producing calcium carbonate and that the firm's product would have a wide range of uses, other than as a base for pharmaceutical products.

Other uses for marl include the manufacture of explosives, paints, soaps, toilet preparations, electrical insulation, linoleum and floor tile, rubber goods, leather, paper, adhesives, poultry feeds, chemicals and gypsum.

In addition by - products of the plant operation will be used for the manufacture of fertilizer and for other uses.

There will be full time chemists at the plant doing research work with the view of determining still other uses for the plant products.

Plant operation will be semi-automatic and will require approximately 60 workers.

Paul Bourdon, (right), president of Marlbank Calcium Carbonate Co. Ltd., goes over company plans with Liberal candidate Robert Temple who assisted company in locating at Marlbank.

The initial phase of the plant consists of about 8,400 square feet will be built this winter. However, this will be added to and ultimately is expected to cover about 140,000 square feet. The plant will be fully air conditioned for the de-hydrated product which will be shipped by transport in 70 - pound paper bags.

Mining of the marl itself will be a slurry operation with water being used to dissolve the marl, which is then pumped into the plant for processing.

Processing of the marl will result in quantities of hot water which in turn will be utilized for winter time operation on the marl beds. The hot water will be used to dissolve the marl -- under the ice.

Spotlight Seat

3 Opposition Candidates Lost Deposits Last Election

WESTLOCK, Alta. (CP)—Liberal Dave Hunter is staking his political life in one of Canada's largest constituencies Nov. 8 but the friend he must beat isn't concerned.

"Dave's a personal friend but I never look over my shoulder when I'm running," said Jack Bigg, a rugged ex-Mountie who has represented Athabasca constituency for the Progressive Conservatives since 1958.

The Social Credit and New Democratic parties also have candidates. All three opposition candidates lost their deposits in the 1963 vote.

For Mr. Hunter, 53, personable auto dealer from Athabasca, the election could be his last if he loses.

He became Alberta Liberal leader in 1962, and saw his party's strength in the legislature rise to three from one. He was unable to win a seat himself on two tries—in his home constituency of Athabasca in the 1963 provincial general election and in a byelection the following year in Three Hills. Social Credit won both.

BACKED BY HAYS

Mr. Hunter resigned last March to enter the federal field, a move he said had been prompted by months of urging by Agriculture Minister Harry Hays and others.

He started campaigning in April 23 after he was nominated at a meeting addressed by Mr. Hays.

Mr. Bigg, 53, a University of Toronto law graduate who has never practised law, resigned as an RCMP sergeant in Westlock to run in 1958 as a Conservative candidate in the far-flung constituency which had voted Liberal in five consecutive elections.

His winning margin of 6,658 votes over a Liberal opponent in 1963 was the widest in three general elections.

Social Credit candidate Joe Van Hauwaert, 59, of Grand Centre, Alta., came to Canada from his native Belgium at the age of 18. He now operates his own construction business in Grand Centre. He and his wife Rose have one son. Mr. Van Hauwaert has not run in a federal election previously. He is the former mayor of Grand Centre, losing by one vote in this month's civic election there.

NDP candidate Peter Forman, 30, is a baker in the family bakery at Cold Lake, Alta. He is single. This is his first venture in federal politics.

Both Mr. Hunter and Mr. Bigg put great emphasis on foot work in reach the estimated 14,000 households, scattered over 52,000-square miles—one quarter of Alberta.

Athabaska stretches from about 20 miles north of Edmonton to the Northwest Territories border, about 438 miles, and runs about 160 miles at its widest part.

The candidates use charter aircraft to reach remote spots in the north but will count heavily on 10 campaign forums sponsored by the Farmers' Union of Alberta in the southern agricultural regions.

The constituency is mainly agricultural but Liberals estimate there are 1,200 employees at the giant oil sands development near Fort McMurray who have never voted before in the area.

There are an estimated 6,000 Indians on 20 reserves, several Metis colonies and about 1,800 French - speaking households. Main population centres include St. Paul, Athabasca, Westlock, Lac la Biche, Bonnyville and the big RCAF station at Cold Lake.

291 Candidates Seeking Seats In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario, a vital field of battle for federal elections will have 291 candidates scrambling for its 85 seats in the House of Commons Nov. 8.

Late entries by independents and the Social Credit party swelled the total as nominations closed Monday, but the total fell short of the 331 candidates who ran in the 1963 general election.

In the dying hours before nominations closed, Social Credit came up with six additional candidates, independents five and the New Democratic Party one. One independent, nominated earlier, withdrew.

Ontario has more seats in the 265-seat Commons than any other province and the two main parties — the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives —demonstrated their interest by naming a full slate of candidates.

The New Democratic Party nominated standard-bearers in every riding except Lambton-Kent. Social Credit named 19, a far cry from its 68 in 1963. The others are made up of 12 independents, three Communists, two independent - Conservatives and one Creditiste, the only candidate of that breakaway Social Credit group outside Quebec.

The Liberals not only are contesting every seat but they are sending some big guns — the prime minister, eight cabinet ministers and former cabinet minister Robert Winters—into the fray.

PEARSON HEADS LIST

Prime Minister Pearson leads the Liberal list by seeking re-election in Algoma East against television personality Joel Aldred, a Conservative, and NDP candidate Walter Stuart.

Then come External Affairs Minister Martin in Essex East, Solicitor - General Pennell in Brant-Haldimand, Finance Minister Gordon in Toronto Davenport, Trade Minister Sharp in Toronto Eglinton, Defence Minister Hellyer in Toronto Trinity, Health Minister LaMarsh in Niagara Falls, Works Minister McIlraith in Ottawa West and Revenue Minister Benson in Kingston.

Mr. Winters, 55-year-old former Liberal public works minister defeated in the Nova Scotia constituency of Queens-Lunenburg in 1957, is bidding for a political comeback in York West where his chief opposition is expected to come from George Hogan, a top executive in the Conservative organization.

The Conservatives are not without their high-powered political ammunition.

George Hees, former trade minister in the Diefenbaker government, seeks election in the eastern Ontario riding of Northumberland.

In Ontario riding, just west of Mr. Hees's constituency, Michael Starr, former Conservative labor minister, is aiming to retain his seat in the Commons.

ARRAY STRONG

Also battling to retain his seat is former health minister J. Waldo Monteith in Perth. Frank McGee, former Conservative minister without portfolio, is making an attempt to recapture his seat for York-Scarborough, the largest riding in Canada.

Thirteen women are in the running—five New Democrats, four Liberals and four Conservatives.

Miss LaMarsh tops the list and will fight it out with four other candidates, including Conservative Jean Douglas, whom she defeated in 1963.

Pauline Jewett, a Liberal, seeks to retain her seat in Northumberland against Mr. Hees and NDP candidate Ian Reilly, while Conservative Jean Wadds in Grenville-Dundas is matched against Liberal John Palmer and Rene Benoit of the NDP.

The three Communists are headed by Canadian party leader William Kashtan, running in Toronto Davenport against Mr. Gordon and two other candidates. The other two are Bruce Magnuson in Essex East and Thomas Morris in London.

The sole Creditiste in the province is Raymond Berthiaume in Glengarry-Prescott.

University Enrolment Increase Crowds New College Buildings

By CAL HOLLOWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Enrolment in Canadian universities this year increased nearly 18 per cent over 1964-65. And, despite the addition of new campus buildings, generally most colleges are crowded and for many there appears little relief in sight.

The Association of Universities and Colleges estimates that 301,000 students will cram into the country's halls of higher learning, compared with 178,200 last year.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that tuition fees and accommodation costs have risen at several universities — notably in Eastern Canada—but more high school graduates than ever are struggling for enrolment.

Reasons for the continuing academic population explosion vary across the country. They include the general growth of population, the boom in post-war babies, the opening of new universities and availability of student loans.

Douglas Chevrier, registrar of the University of Manitoba—which increased its enrolment by 2,000 to 12,000—says there is a "growing realization that something beyond high school is desired to meet competition in society."

The established, larger universities continue to expand at an expected pace — generally about 10 per cent each year—but new colleges are expanding more rapidly, far out-growing projected figures.

Nearly all of the 32 universities surveyed reported arts and science courses the most popular; education and engineering were next.

Several universities have added new courses.

Cost of living on or off the campus has remained steady in general, averaging about $700 for room and board during the 7½ month academic year. Costs are slightly lower in the Atlantic provinces and the Prairies than elsewhere, despite an increase this year.

A general arts or science course averages about $500 for tuition fee. Room and board, books and other expenses would bring the cost of a university year to between $1,400 and $2,000.

Most universities reported shortages in on-campus accommodation and a few had problems finding suitable off-campus housing for students.

'Export Of Water Not Negotiable At This Time' Says Resources Minister Laing

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) —Resources Minister Laing told a group of water pollution control experts Tuesday Canada now is in no position to negotiate with anybody about export of Canadian water.

He said at the annual banquet of the Canadian Institute of Pollution Control Canadians should make sure they have enough water for all their own future needs before they think about exporting it to other countries.

"Export of water is not negotiable at this time and I don't know when we will arrive at a time when we can say we have enough water for all time to come."

Mr. Laing's speech, the highlight of the institute's three-day conference here, was heard by more than 300 engineers, scientists and elected officials from all levels of government.

It was his strongest statement to date on the water export question, which has become an issue in the federal election campaign.

ACCUSED LIBERALS

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Oct. 12 the Liberals appear to be willing to "sell the plug on one of our most vital resources" and promised a Conservative government would propose a national water resources program.

Prime Minister Pearson said in a television broadcast Oct. 15 his government is planning talks with the United States on the possibility of exporting or diverting Canadian water south of the border.

Meanwhile, Mr. Laing had expressed criticism of an American proposal, the North American Water and Power Alliance, which would provide the western United States with Canadian water.

Three days after his television appearance, on Oct. 18, Mr. Pearson said there was no difference between statements he and Mr. Laing had made about possible export of Canadian water.

The prime minister said he had been talking about long range possibilities of exporting water, while Mr. Laing was criticizing a project being proposed for the immediate future by one U.S. group.

Mr. Pearson added that there would be no export of water in the immediate future—at least not until Canada's short and long-term water needs were provided for.

Mr. Laing made no direct reference Tuesday night to the $100,000,000,000 scheme, which was originated by the Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Los Angeles and New York.

But he left no doubt in the minds of his water-conscious listeners he believes Canada's water needs must come first.

"There are no such things as continental resources," he said.

He suggested the United States might not need to consider importing water if it starts using its own resources properly.

Mr. Laing quoted Raymond Nace of the United States geological survey, water resources division, as saying in a recent symposium on water quality that the U.S. is not running out of water, but "running out of ways to avoid paying the bill for adequate water works and rational management."

Earlier Tuesday, the Pollution Control Institute had its own policy statement to make about water resources.

In the first such statement issued in its 25-year-history, the institute said Canada's future national survival is at stake unless firmer controls are immediately placed on the discharge of waste into Canadian waters.

The statement, endorsed by members at the annual business meeting, read in part:

"National survival, in terms of future urban, industrial, and commercial growth and prosperity, compels the protection of all water resources from discharges of pollution wastes and other substances, or from any acts which cause unreasonable impairment of water quality and adversely affect their highest level of usefulness."

It said responsibility for adequate treatment and control of wastes to overcome pollution must be shared individually and jointly by industry and local, provincial and federal governments.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Weatherdon entertained her parents from Halifax over the weekend.

Milton Akey and the leaders of the 6th Belleville Cub Pack Group, took the Pack to the Sportsmen's Show at the Armouries on Friday evening. The boys found the displays interesting, and some even went back the second time. They especially liked the Conservation display of snakes and pells and the films of wild life.

Sympathy is extended Mrs. Charles Sedore and her family on the death of her brother, Mr. Charles Stinton of Madoc. Mr. Stinton lived in Point Anne at one time.

Sympathy also goes to the Polisuyko family in the loss of Mr. Peter Polisuyko, former employee with Canada Cement.

Miss Carolyn Chisholm and Mr. David Kingston were married on Saturday in St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville, and are on their honeymoon in New York City.

Mr. Fred Stinton was the recent guest of his sister, Mrs. Charles Sedore.

Mr. William Spafford has been transferred to Montreal. The office staff and foremen held a party for him and presented him with a gift.

Mrs. Amab Akey spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Mabel Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey and family were weekend guests of Mrs. Leonard Reid and family of Rossmore.

FRIENDSHIP GROUP

The members of St. John's Friendship Group held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. James Harwood on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Nina Fournier led in the opening prayers. The treasurer, Mrs. Clara Green gave her report. Mrs. Ruth Henderson read a written report on cards she had sent to members of St. John's who had been, and are still in nospital. The next meeting is to be hostessed by Mrs. Mary McKendrick.

Discussion followed regarding a euchre to be held in St. John's Parish Hall early in November. It was noted that St. League are sponsoring a euchre in the Club House on October 27th.

The president closed the meeting, with prayer and Mrs. Harwood served refreshments.

PLAN ROAD REPORTS

TORONTO (CP) — Up-to-date information on road conditions will be available at 19 highway department offices across the province beginning next Monday, Highways Minister C. S. MacNaughton said Tuesday. The service continues until spring.

The Political Front

Not Enemy Of Quebec Says Diefenbaker

By BEN WARD

QUEBEC (CP)—John Diefenbaker declared himself as a lifelong defender of French-Canadian rights Tuesday night and hit out at political opponents who he said have termed him "an enemy of Quebec."

"Remember, they said I didn't dare to come into Quebec . . . that I would be as welcome as pestilence," he told an audience of about 1,000 crammed into the downtown Durocher Centre.

"It has not been like that, not at all."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he challenges anyone to point to a single word or deed by his Conservative party during the last eight years that could be construed as detrimental to French-Canada.

It was the Liberals who had placed Quebec "in a position of restriction and isolation."

The Conservative leader began his address to a regional convention by reading an 850-word French text outlining the party's election platform.

He drew loud applause with references to increased aid to farmers, higher pensions and improved grants for universities.

It took him 15 minutes to complete the French text, which was followed by a half-hour of English, almost completely devoted to national unity and his record on French-Canadian rights.

ATTENTION WANDERED

Audience attention wandered during the last half of his English remarks and there was a loud buzz of conversation from the rear of the hall.

Shortly before Mr. Diefenbaker arrived at the rally a minor scuffle broke out on the front steps involving a small group that waved placards reading: "Diefenbaker Is a National Unity."

For the first time in the campaign the Conservative chief made no references to the Rivard affair or other government scandals.

There was no heckling during his speech.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that in the last few days the Liberals have launched "malicious and mendacious attacks" against him on the issue of English-French unity.

"It shows that somebody is getting frightened," he said.

He said he showed himself to be "your greatest friend" when he alone opposed the proposed formula for amending the constitution. It was a formula that would have placed the constitution in a straitjacket and denied forever any increase in French-Canadian rights.

Because of his stand that formula now was "as dead as the dodo, even though nine provinces supported it."

Mr. Diefenbaker was preceded by a variety of seven preliminary speakers including Raymond O'Hurley, defence production minister in the former Conservative government, and Guy Dorion, son of the judge who conducted the Rivard inquiry. Mr. Dorion is the party's candidate in Quebec South.

CROWD BOOED

During Mr. Dorion's remarks the crowd booed and hissed a reference to Leon Balcer, former transport minister who broke with Mr. Diefenbaker earlier this year to sit as an independent in the Commons.

The Conservatives were blanked in this region in the 1963 election with the five Quebec City area seats dividing between Liberals and Social Credit members.

At Montreal Monday morning, Mr. Diefenbaker said his party will win 20 extra seats in Quebec in the Nov. 8 election. They took only eight of the province's 75 ridings last time.

He travelled by train from Montreal to Quebec, making seven brief stops along the way to deliver brief speeches in French and shake hands with well-wishers gathered on station platforms. A total of about 600 turned up at the seven points.

Today Mr. Diefenbaker flies to Fredericton, travels by car to Saint John, N.B., for a night rally and then flies to Prince Edward Island, where he is due after midnight.

Pearson Dwells On Auto Pact, Farm Policy

By DAVE McINTOSH

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP) Prime Minister Pearson put in a 16-hour campaign day Tuesday, making three speeches—unusual for him—in southwestern Ontario where the Liberals hope to pick up seats Nov. 8.

He dealt mainly on farm policy and the Canada - United States auto agreement in speeches at London, Sarnia and Wallaceburg which totalled 67 minutes. He also spoke, sometimes in a folksy manner, sometime emotionally, on his favorite themes of majority government and national unity.

About 400 persons jammed a downtown hotel dining room in London for Mr. Pearson's noontime speech. About 50 persons, including a girl carrying a placard saying We Do Not Want a Picture with the Asphalt, filled the city council chamber at Sarnia for the afternoon chat at the prime minister in the afternoon.

Some 1,200 persons crowded a school auditorium for his 40-minute evening speech here in Lambton-Kent riding, won by the Conservatives with a 24-vote majority in 1963.

The Conservatives also held London and three neighboring constituencies of Middlesex East, Huron North and Oxford in the last Parliament. Lambton West, in which Sarnia is situated, is held defended by the Liberals.

In Wallaceburg, 50 miles northeast of Windsor, Mr. Pearson said: "The basic goal of my government's farm policy is to have the farmer produce a at laving at least as good as the average industrial wage—which is at present is about $4,200 a year."

URGES PROMOTION

One way of achieving this would be vigorous promotion of the exports of specialized farm products and areas in the same way as grain had been sold abroad.

Mr. Pearson announced that some $4,000,000 will go out to sugar beet growers soon as support payments for the 1964 crop.

For 1965, the government would raise the support level for sugar beets to bring the price up to $14.35 per standard ton from $13.72 in 1964.

Mr. Pearson said he wished he had been in Saskatchewan when the $400,000,000 wheat sale to China was signed "but I think they (the farmers) got the message without me."

The government would not be coerced against farmers, both East and West, received a legitimate return for their work and produce. Farmers were producing and selling more than ever before but not all of them were sharing proportionately in this progress.

Mr. Pearson said there will be more "exciting" technological developments in southern Ontario as a result of the Canada-U.S. auto agreement.

20,000 NEW JOBS

Already 20,000 new Jobs had been created in the auto industry, production was up and car prices were down.

The agreement was no longer an issue in the campaign as fan as the Conservatives are concerned, he said. Only a few weeks ago the government had been bitterly attacked and Canadians had been told that the $50,000,000 tariff reduction for manufacturers was going into the pockets of the big car corporations.

At Sarnia, near the U.S. border, Mr. Pearson said Canada must maintain its own identity but also maintain good relations with the U.S.

At London, the prime minister said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's proposal to pay an old-age pension increase out of result in "breaking up" of the the Canada Pension Fund would result in "breaking up" of the pension plan.

He said he was "amazed" at the Conservatives' accusation of personal vilification against Mr. Diefenbaker by the Liberals.

"If there is one thing I have tried to avoid, it is this kind of abusive attack," he said. "I don't believe in it."

Today, Mr. Pearson campaigns in Toronto.

BIRDS STAND OUT

Pigeons and doves are the only birds which can drink water without raising their heads at each swallow.

Will Not Join Any Coalition Says Caouette

HULL, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, leader of Le Ralliement des Creditistes, said Tuesday night his party would not join in a coalition with another party to form a government after Nov. 8.

Speaking before 400 persons at an election rally for Creditiste candidate Marcel Clermont, Mr. Caouette said the Liberal and Conservative parties "will arrive soon to nose and the group of 50 Creditistes from Quebec will arrive between the two noses. Believe me, they will have to pay attention to us."

Mr. Caouette referred to what he described as Liberal party publicity showing himself, Social Credit Leader Thompson and former Social Credit supporter Guy Marcoux in a picture with the caption: "The Love Affair is Over."

"Why don't the Liberals show a picture of Pearson, Dupuis, Roufeau, Rivard and Basks with the same caption!" he asked.

Mr. Caouette said it is not Mr. Pearson or any other personality with whom he is concerned "but with a system that is not allow us to live as free man beings in a country as rich as ours. There is nothing that big business cannot do and it is big business that we are attacking."

He said that since Confederation, Hull has been treated like a poor relation compared to Ottawa, as has the rest of Quebec, and this "is good reason to elect us to represent you at Ottawa."

Mr. Caouette said the Creditistes would maintain their position in Parliament and that "it is time for us to take our re-possibilities and place in Confederation . . . with the old parties we would lose our identity."

Fast Action Promised by NDP Leader

By JIM NEAVES

SASKATOON (CP)—Fast action on water conservation and pollution problems facing Canada was promised here Tuesday by NDP Leader T. C. Douglas.

Mr. Douglas, speaking at a rally in a church hall attended by more than 1,800 people, said the NDP advocates an immediate inventory of the country's natural resources in co-operation with the provinces. The inventory would provide "a permanent foundation for a national plan of resource management."

The party is preparing plans for the engineering projects which will be necessary in a country faced with different areas of surplus to areas of deficiency.

"We plan a crash program to study water pollution, particularly in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence area."

The NDP leader said the Liberal and Conservative parties lack "the slightest understanding of the crucial decisions which must be made in the management of our natural resources." Natural resources are limited and must be conserved.

Mr. Douglas said the signing of the Columbia River treaty proved Canada must have a government at Ottawa that will treat natural resources as a precious heritage and "not as a bargain counter for a few dollars or a few votes."

SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Earlier Tuesday Mr. Douglas told more than 400 University of Saskatchewan students that neither old-line party is aware Canada has entered the age of scientific revolution.

He said the revolution involving automation and cybernation could accomplish great things if properly managed and planned for.

"It can banish poverty and want and secondly can improve the quality of life. . . . It could produce goods and services to help poverty-stricken areas the world around."

He told one student during a question period Canada has "failed to do its duty" as a member of the International Truce Commission in Viet Nam.

"A New Democratic government would reconvene the Geneva conference and, while absolutely opposed to sending troops to Viet Nam, we would be prepared to send men as part of an international police force in Viet Nam."

At a press conference Mr. Douglas said he was pleased at the announcement of a new sale of wheat to China but the sale emphasized the "almost-hypocritical attitude" of both Prime Minister Pearson and Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker.

"They boast so much about making these sales to China and yet persist in the myth China doesn't exist. Surely Canada should end this humbug and should recognize China diplomatically and vote for her admission to the United Nations."

Mr. Douglas spoke in Hamilton tonight.

WELFARE PAYS

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Wilson Head, director of planning for Toronto Social Planning Council, said Tuesday that a man with six or seven children and a Grade 6 education can live better on welfare than on the salary from any job he can get.

Dr. Head told a group of social workers that society's adaptation to social change is far behind its adaptation to technological change.

Little United Opposition To Re-election of de Gaulle

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The political opposition in France seems to be going out of its way to provide President de Gaulle with new reasons for his contempt of the old-line parties.

With less than six weeks to go before France's presidential elections, the opposition parties once again are plunged into the old practice of making interparty alliances and bargaining for position which de Gaulle so frequently derides in his public statements about the pre-Gaullist era.

At stake is the leadership of France for the next seven years. While the opposition is unanimous in seeking an end to what is commonly called the "regime of personal power" under de Gaulle, it has made few strides in its attempts to unite in practical opposition.

A classical example of the continuing division came during the weekend at the national convention of the Radical party, a centrist group whose voter-losing support has dwindled since de Gaulle's arrival in power in 1958.

After hours of debate, the Radical delegates ended up supporting two separate candidates for the presidency.

To satisfy middle-of-the-road elements, the party expressed appreciation for the "significance and value" of Centre party candidate Jean Lecanuet but in the same breath it called on its members to work for the election of left-winger Francois Mitterand.

As the other pledges of support thrown to various candidates in recent weeks, the Radical party action falls under the heading of shadow boxing as long as de Gaulle remains silent.

If the 74-year-old general decides to contest the Dec. 5 election, the chances of his opposition could prove to be mere academic exercises.

Recent public-opinion polls indicate de Gaulle's popularity may be slipping, but even his bitterest opponents recognize that he can cut sharply across party lines in any voting. Hardly a single party in France can claim to guarantee more than half of its members' votes against de Gaulle in a ballot.

Thus, while the Communist party has officially swung behind left-winger Mitterand, creating a "united front" of the left for the first time since the 1940s, many nominal members of the party could be expected to vote for de Gaulle if he runs because of sympathy with his foreign policy.

Disappointed voters also are proving a disappointment for opposition planners. One small party of university students found almost half of them to be Gaulle admirers and several left - wing youth organizations have rebelled against the "expedient" of joint Communist and socialist support for Mitterand.

CANADA'S FIRST NATIONAL PLAN FOR EDUCATION

Our greatest resource is our human resource—the genius, the skills, the cultures, the dreams and the ideas that are distinctively Canadian. A Progressive Conservative government faces squarely the need to develop this resource, and the importance to our country that our young people be trained to build for tomorrow.

We will bring massive assistance to the entire field of education from coast-to-coast. Your son and daughter will have a better chance for the education they deserve.

- LOWER TUITION FEES
  Canada's first "National Plan for Education" means doubling of federal grants for universities, and a start at lowering tuition fees. It will assist new building and provide more money for medical, medicine, science and the humanities.
- VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS
  Hundreds of thousands of young Canadians received technical and vocational skills through Progressive Conservative assistance to vocational school construction across Canada. This program has lagged. A Progressive Conservative government will put new life and new enthusiasm into this program, so that your children will have a chance. Canada needs their help.
- AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS
  A Progressive Conservative government will aid in the construction of agricultural school facilities across Canada, and help our young farmers to receive the training they must have to face today's scientific farming economy.
- HOMEOWNERS TAX DEDUCTION
  As part of a national plan for education, a Progressive Conservative government will immediately allow a deduction of municipal taxes up to $300, from taxable income, for federal tax purposes. Rising school costs have put an unfair share of tax burden on the homeowners—almost in the breaking point. This deduction means a federal sharing of educational costs with the provinces and municipalities.
- DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH AFFAIRS
  A new federal department will be formed to coordinate the many federal activities in youth affairs.

THESE ARE OTHER SOLID POLICIES FOR PEOPLE

- Confederation Conference
- End of 13% Sales Tax on building materials and production machinery
- Old Age Pensions $100 monthly
- Medicare—Complete health plan
- Farmer's Loan Act to cut the high cost of instalment buying
- National Trade Grid
- "Roads to Resources" to open new forests
- New Life for ARDA
- Livestock Insurance
- Eastern Farm Policy with a feed grain agency
- $4 per hundredweight payments for industrial milk
- Major port expansion
- NHA Mortgages on Older Homes
- End of Sales Tax on Drugs
- Urban Planning Research
- Recreational Parks aid
- Urban Renewal Expansion
- Czech Immigrants for East Coast Saltfish
- Aggressive foreign trade sales

Reds Continue Fight With Church But New Persecution Said Unlikely

BUDAPEST (AP) — Westerners here see no new wave of religious persecution in Hungary, but the contest between the Communist government and the Roman Catholic Church continues.

Fears of a new campaign against Hungary's Catholic Church spread because of the arrest of a number of priests for giving "unlawful religious instruction" and for "plotting against the government."

Thirteen priests were convicted recently and sentenced to terms ranging to eight years imprisonment. The priests had no support from the bench of bishops, which in fact made no protest over the arrests and the subsequent sentences.

Hungarian law permits two forms of religious instruction: Voluntary religious instruction in public schools by priests, and catechism classes held in church buildings.

There is a third, tolerated form—that of visits by priests to the homes of believers to give religious instruction. The Hungarian authorities claimed that the sentenced priests not only gave such instructions but conspired against the regime.

Attendance in religious instruction in the schools has fallen off sharply. In elementary schools, the percentage dropped from 30 per cent of all pupils in 1956-57 to 15 per cent in 1964-65. In the secondary schools, attendance was always less than one per cent and dropped to 0.03 per cent in 1964-65.

There is no overt Communist pressure. On the other hand, the government does nothing to counter the widespread belief among the country's 6,000,000 Roman Catholics that if they enter their children for religious instruction in school this might keep them from admittance to universities or getting good jobs later.

Another deterrent is that religious instruction is given either before school classes or immediately after. Children attending religious classes therefore have to get to school earlier or leave later.

Austria's Cardinal Franz Koenig, who has twice visited Hungary as a special emissary of the late Pope John and of Pope Paul, said the situation of religious instruction still was unsatisfactory and one of the problems yet to be solved between the Vatican and the Hungarian government.

The other is the case of Hungarian who sought asylum in the U.S. legation in Budapest when the Soviets smashed the 1956 Hungarian uprising. He still is there.

No solution of the Mindszenty problem is in sight. Cardinal Mindszenty has said he would leave for Rome only as head of the Hungarian Catholic Church. Cardinal Koenig said the Hungarian government would allow him to leave Hungary only "as a convicted man."

Blues At Montreal ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Bruins Host Toronto

Habs Seek 3rd Win; Leafs First Goal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rod Gilbert, star right winger for New York Rangers, of the National Hockey League, may be able to rejoin his team tonight when the Rangers meet Montreal Canadiens at the Forum.

And in tonight's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs will be looking for their first goal of the season when they take on the Bruins in Boston.

The 24-year-old Gilbert, who scored 25 goals and 36 assists last season, has been bothered by a back ailment and was originally scheduled to remain in hospital this week.

However, he was released from hospital in New York Sunday and skated without pain Tuesday.

Gilbert, a native of Montreal who went to the Rangers via Guelph Juniors four years ago, played with a steel corset brace during the exhibition season.

LOSE HICKE

The Rangers, who dropped a 4-3 decision to Canadiens at Madison Square Garden Sunday night, have lost the services of forward Bill Hicke, stricken with pneumonia.

Hicke, traded to New York by Montreal for Dick Duff, will be out of action for at least two weeks and probably longer. He entered a New York hospital Sunday.

The Canadiens will try to make it three victories in a row when they take on the Rangers.

The Montrealers also defeated Detroit Red Wings 8-1 Saturday.

Montreal coach Toe Blake expressed general satisfaction with the way his club bombed off Detroit and with their overall performance in New York.

He said the Rangers gave Canadiens a hard time for the first 10 minutes and it was goalminder Gump Worsley who kept Montreal in the game then.

Ed Giacomin, the promising goaltender acquired by the Rangers from Providence Reds of the American League in the off-season, will be making his first appearance in Montreal.

Giacomin, 26, made several big saves against the Canadiens Sunday.

ROD GILBERT

The powerless Leafs were blanked 4-0 by Chicago Black Hawks Saturday in the season opener and Detroit shut them out 3-0 Sunday.

The Bruins were beaten 6-2 in their season opener Sunday against Chicago.

Injuries may force Bruin coach Milt Schmidt to do some shuffling with his forward lines for tonight's game.

Centre Murray Oliver was forced to retire from practice Monday with a bruised hip and forward Ed Westfall banged his shoulder when he crashed into the boards.

Oliver is expected to be ready to face Toronto, but Westfall's status is doubtful.

There's nothing wrong with the Belleville Junior "B" hockey team that a couple of items won't cure.

To wit:—a few bucks in the bank and two or three buckaroos on the club's firing line.

"We thought of getting players from pro clubs' junior farm teams but it is a financial impossibility. We haven't any money and could not meet the necessary commitments for players of this type," said team manager Stu "Snipe" Matthews.

"The club this year will be home-brew in the strictest sense of the word," remarked the "Snipe" in a dressing room confab last night.

Signed with the club thus far, according to the general manager are: Larry Stewart, Peter Fleming, Carl Boomhour, Harold Townsend, Ray Maracle, Bud Pringle, Grant Hagerman, Steve White, Bob Moon and Doug Potts. Bob Boyle is expected back from the training camp wars while Bob Ethier is also expected to play.

Wayne Grant will play for the club and is awaiting his release from the Napanee management. This, Matthews said, will be forthcoming in time for the Friday night opener.

Arrangements have been made with the Belleville Minor Hockey Association to have Don Mulr, R. Summers, Dewey DuValle, John Smith and S. Scott play with the "B's" but on their minor hockey certificates. Other minor players are under consideration.

The squad last night showed beneficial results of the hard training they've been getting at the hands of the pro-tem coach, Stu Muirhead. I'm told he has been named the permanent mentor but the report lacks confirmation.

They'll get their first chance at teamwork tonight when they meet a team of City League All-Stars in an exhibition tilt at the arena. Starts 9.30. No admission.

The management hopes to bolster its finances with a draw or a pooy. This venture proved a success a year ago and Matthews, Bell, Lavety, et al, hope it will repeat itself. The draw will be made on December 15th at a home game. Tickets should be on sale shortly.

While the team brass waxes optimistic and states the team will be as good as that of last year—but admits a three-or-four player reinforcement up front would not come amiss, the B's get their real test here Friday night when they meet the Cobourg Cougars.

According to reports from the lakershore town, the "B" representatives are a well-trained, well-coached bevy of juveniles who have been playing together since they were weaned.

It was the opinion of many Cobourg hockey men and the newspaper's sports columnist that the team was not yet ready for the jump from juvenile to Junior "B". OHA representatives, too, were of the opinion a season in Junior "C" ranks would be a great help towards readiness for the "B" division.

But it appears, the team brass felt differently. They were of the opinion their youngsters would make a fine showing against such veteran "B" squads as Kingston, Peterborough and Belleville, also the newly-formed Oshawa club. They demanded entry to Junior "B" ranks—and got it.

It wouldn't be wise to tell them short. If memory is correct Trenton came up with a starry juvenile squad a year ago that met and defeated the best "C" teams in the district and gave one or two "B" squads a stiff run for their roses.

However, at the risk of being dubbed a traitor it looks from here like a battle for the honors between Peterborough, Kingston and Oshawa, the clubs with well-loaded feed-boxes.

So far the Oshawa Crushmen appear to have the edge. They defeated Trenton 4-2 and 11-3 and tied Kingston 5-5 in the Limestone City.

Ball Stars Check In For Repairs

NEW YORK (AP) — Their long season finally completed, baseball players are beginning to filter into hospitals across the country, having various aches and pains cared for.

The famed Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., is the busiest with three players already checked in.

Wes Parker, first baseman for the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, joined American League batting champion Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins and shortstop Tony Kubek of New York Yankees at the clinic Tuesday.

Parker will undergo a series of allergy tests and have x-rays taken of his shoulder. The rangy first baseman also plans a routine physical checkup.

Oliva, who batted .321 and won his second straight batting crown, will undergo surgery Friday on the middle finger on his right hand. The injury, which frequently caused Oliva to lose his bat after missing pitches, involves an overgrowth of bone caused by repeated injury to the knuckle.

Kubek suffered through the worst season in his career last year, batting .218. The veteran infielder was troubled by a sore left shoulder through much of the campaign and will undergo examinations at the clinic.

Trainers In Near Fight

Gloves Touch Off Verbal Battle

CHECKING TECHNIQUES — George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, checks fighting techniques on film at his training headquarters near Toronto where he is preparing for fight November 1 against Ernie Terrell, World Boxing Association heavyweight champ. Fight will be in Maple Leaf Gardens.

TORONTO (CP) — The two columen persons on Tuesday's pre-fight medical examination and glove try-on for the Nov. 1 World Boxing Association heavyweight championship fight were Ernie Terrell and George Chuvalo.

Everyone else connected with the fight—managers, trainers and the promoter—engaged in some choice bickering over the gloves to be used for the 15-round bout.

Things went smoothly when Dr. Thomas Phommefeldt, Ontario Athletic Commission physician, pronounced the champion Terrell of Chicago and the challenger Chuvalo of Toronto physically fit.

Then the gloves were brought out and the verbal battling began. At one stage, Sam Solomon, Terrell's trainer, invited his counterpart in the Chuvalo camp, Theodore McWhorter, to step out into the corridor and settle the argument with fists.

"I'm objecting to these gloves right now," said Irving Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager. "The thumb is sticking out too far and they are too wide across the front."

DO IT OVER

Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner and former WBA president, said another glove try-on would be held when more gloves arrive from New York.

McKenzie said Ontario officials would be used. Their names will be announced 90 minutes prior to fight time.

McKenzie also announced that the fighters had been fined $500 each for arriving 20 minutes late for the medical.

"We changed the date and time to accommodate the fighters," said McKenzie. "If they arrive on time for the weighin next Monday, the money will be returned."

Chuvalo, who expects to weigh 207 pounds for the fight, said Terrell's x-inch edge in height and seven-inch pull in reach didn't bother him.

"I've fought a lot of fighters who were taller than me and had a longer reach," he said. "But the closer I stay to them, the better."

Terrell has been guaranteed $45,000 or 35 per cent, whichever is greater, as his share of the purse. Chuvalo will get $45,000 or 25 per cent.

Aces Whip Clippers, Grab Lead

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces trounced Baltimore Clippers 6-3 Tuesday night and regained first place in the American Hockey League's Eastern Division, one point ahead of the Clippers.

Bill Sutherland set the pace for the Aces with two goals. Other scorers were Don Blackburn, Jean-Guy Gendron, Noel Price and Gordon Labossiere. Baltimore marksmen were Don MacDonald, Ray Cullen and Ted Tayler.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Veteran right - winger Ken Schinkel of Baltimore Clippers has moved into the American Hockey League scoring lead.

Statistics released Tuesday show Schinkel has collected 10 points on five goals and five assists, through Sunday's games.

Ed Hoekstra of Quebec and Ray Cullen, Baltimore, are tied for second place at eight points.

Hershey's Bruce Draper is the loop's bad man. He has collected 21 minutes in penalties.

Roy Edwards of Buffalo bisons is the top goalie with a 1.75 goals-against average.

Another Award To Koufax

NEW YORK (AP)—World Series hero Sandy Koufax virtually shut out the opposition in winning the September poll for the annual Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year Award, it was announced Tuesday.

It was the second successive monthly triumph for the great pitcher of Los Angeles Dodgers, putting him in an enviable spot to become the first to win the $10,000 diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt twice. Sandy won the belt in 1963.

The 29-year-old southpaw who hurled the fourth no-hitter of his career last September, received 71 first place votes and 227 points. Willie Mays, slugging centre fielder of San Francisco Giants, w s second with eight first place votes and 52 points.

Soccer Loop Will Expand Next Year

TORONTO (CP) — The National Soccer League will be expanded next year into two divisions, league president Bill Boytchuk said Tuesday night.

"We've got eight teams to join the league next year, and I think they'll be accepted. We will have a first division and a second division with promotion and relegation just like they have in other countries."

Mr. Boytchuk said the eight teams will include two from Toronto, one Polish-sponsored, and one each from Hamilton, Oshawa, London, Kitchener, Sudbury and Welland.

Knicks Blow Hoop Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Knickerbockers are an improved club this season but they haven't quite forgotten how to blow a basketball game.

The perennial doormats of the National Basketball Association had a seven-point lead over Los Angeles Lakers with barely four minutes to play Tuesday night but surrendered nine straight points and eventually lost 104-102.

Baltimore Bullets got a 27-point performance from Don Ohl to defeat Detroit Pistons 117-96 in the only other game played.

Bombers Fused For Stamps Battle

Must Win Tonight

CALGARY (CP) — The 1965 version of Calgary Stampeders is basically the same as the 1964 model but a few new wrinkles have made the Stamps a better club, says coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Grant's Bombers meet the Stampeders here tonight in a game that could decide who gets first place in the Western Football Conference.

An improved offensive line probably gives Calgary quarterback Eagle Day better pass protection than last year, Grant told a press conference Tuesday. "Frank Rudd at offensive end certainly is good going deep.

"I don't know if they have any more plays than they did last year but they throw a greater variety of pass patterns. They seem to have the ability to take advantage of defensive lapses or weaknesses.

"They've been the most consistent team in the Canadian Football League all year. They have won more games and have had no soiling streaks—we lost four in a row."

Stamps, leading the WFC with 22 points, could wrap up first place by defeating or tying the Bombers, who with 20 points in second place need a win over Stamps and a defeat of Calgary by British Columbia Lions in Vancouver next Sunday to finish first.

For Jerry Williams' Stampeders, a first-place finish would be their first since 1949. Last year the Stamps finished second behind Grey Cup champion B.C. Lions, who this season dropped to fourth place.

For the Bombers, a first-place finish would be their first since 1962. If they tie the Stampeders in final standings, they will earn first place because they have defeated Calgary in two of three season games between the two clubs.

Tonight's game is the last of the schedule for the Bombers.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have locked up the third playoff spot with 15 points, tangle with Edmonton Eskimos in Edmonton Saturday in the last season game for both teams. Edmonton has 10 points and last position.

CREDITS DEFENCE

Grant says the primary reason for the Bombers' improvement over their dismal record of one win, a tie and 14 defeats in 1964 is a revamped defence. "While not taking anything away from his offence, Grant notes his defensive squad has eight new players.

The Bombers have taken come-from-behind victories in three of their last four games. Williams says the Bomber offensive line "has been overrated by a lot of defences."

Bombers have not won a game in McMahon Stadium since August, 1962.

Heffner Heads Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Heffner was named manager of Cincinnati Reds Tuesday by the same man who gave him a job as a minor league bone in 1947.

Bill Dewitt, president of the Reds, made the announcement that the 54-year-old Heffner had been picked to succeed Dick Sisler for the next two seasons. Financial terms were not disclosed.

The announcement was no surprise, however. Heffner generally had been tabbed as the new manager ever since Sisler was released on Oct. 4 after the highly-rated Reds folded in the closing week of the season and wound up fourth.

For the last two seasons, Heffner, a former major league second baseman, had been a coach with New York Mets.

Mets' Pitcher Jerry Davis, Hamilton junior here for speed—an item that figured prominently in Los Angeles Dodgers' National League and World Series victories.

THREW UP TONS

The Costa Rican volcano of Irazu threw up 80,000,000 tons of volcanic sand in its 1964 eruption.

Mays Extended Two National Records

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants extended two National League records in winning the circuit's slugging title for the fifth time in 1965, the final averages disclosed Tuesday.

The veteran outfielder hit .645, his highest mark in 10 years, figures compiled by the Associated Press showed. He led in 1964 with .607, 1954 with .667, 1955 with .659 and 1957 with .626.

The past season, Mays collected 360 total bases in 558 times at bat. Among his 177 hits were 21 doubles, three triples and a major league high of 52 home runs. It was the 12th straight season in which the Giant star compiled at least 300 total bases, extending his own league record. He lifted his career slugging average four points to .593, another National League mark.

Carl Yastrzemski of Boston paced the American League with a .536 average. Runner-up to Minnesota's Tony Oliva in the batting competition, Yastrzemski had 362 total bases, including 45 doubles, three triples and 30 homers. He is the first Boston player to lead the American League since Ted Williams in 1957.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee was the runner-up to Mays in the National League. The Braves' outfielder had a .560 average on 319 total bases in 570 at bats. His extra base hits included 40 doubles, tops in the league, one triple and 32 homers.

WILLIAMS WAS THIRD

Billy Williams of Chicago Cubs was third with .552. He had 356 total bases, only four less than Mays. Frank Robinson of Cincinnati finished fourth at .540 followed by Willie McCovey San Francisco .539 and Deron Johnson, Cincinnati, .513.

Slugging averages are computed by adding the total bases accumulated on all hits and dividing the figure by the number of official times at bat.

Tony Conigliaro of Boston, the American League home run king with 32, and Norm Cash of Detroit tied for second in slugging behind Yastrzemski with .512 marks. Then came Leon Wagner, Cleveland, .495 and Oliva with .491.

Zoila Versalles of the Minnesota Twins had the most total bases in the circuit, 308. His slugging average was .462.

The major league record for highest career slugging average is .692 set by Babe Ruth. Lou Gehrig, for many years Ruth's teammate with the Yankees, holds the big league standard for collecting 300 or more total bases for the most consecutive years. Gehrig did it for 13 straight seasons, one more than Mays.

SUBMIT ENTRY

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto athletic directorate voted unanimously Tuesday night to submit an application to the Canadian Union of Students asking it to consider the university's hockey team as a possible Canadian representative at the World Student Winter Games at Turin, Italy, in February.

Nationals Defeat Red Wings

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Nationals won their first game in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league Tuesday night with an 8-6 victory over Hamilton Red Wings before 4,100 fans.

Stan Allan paced London with three goals. Centre Neil Clark scored a pair and Darryl Edestrand, Dave Gorman and Bob Cook fired the others.

Brian Watts scored twice for Hamilton, Sandy Snow, Bart Crashley, Jim Niekamp and Fred Speck each added one.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Bob Stansell's pace-defence paid off Tuesday night at Garden City Raceways as he won his first race in Canada behind Willie Dew.

It was the tenth try at the meeting for the 48-year-old expatriate Canadian, who captured the driving title at the recently concluded summer season at Detroit's Wolverine Raceway.

Willie Dew paid $31.60 for his win and clicked with Kinna Art in the first race for a $100.40 daily double.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The Michigan ... owned Scotchcaper squeezed to a photo-finish victory in the sixth race at Windsor Raceway Tuesday night.

The horse, owned by G. W. and J. Abraham of Highland Park, Mich., paid $9.30.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Pat McGregor, a five-year-old horse who didn't get to the races until this year, romped to a three-length win in the featured 2600 sloth race at the Western Fair Raceway Tuesday night.

Tampering Probe Continues

MONTREAL (CP)—Ron Andrews, publicity director of the National Hockey League, issued a terse, one-sentence statement following a 75-minute meeting Tuesday between league president Clarence Campbell and Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion.

"A meeting with Mr. Geoffrion has taken place and there is nothing to announce at this time except the investigation is continuing."

The league president is investigating allegations against Toronto Maple Leafs' owner Stafford Smythe.

Geoffrion alleges that Smythe made him an offer to return to hockey as a player but league rules do not allow negotiations directly with a player without prior consent of the parent club in this case Montreal Canadiens.

Chinese Claim Record Tied

TOKYO (AP) —Communist China's new sprint sensation is a 27-year-old veteran who writes poetry and is versed in the Chinese classics.

That was the picture painted Tuesday by the New China news agency of Chen Chia-chuan, who was reported to have tied the world record of 10 seconds flat last Sunday in the 100-metre dash.

The world mark for 100 meters is shared by Armin Harry of Germany, Harry Jerome of Vancouver, Horacio Esteves of Venezuela and Bob Hayes of the United States.

The New China agency said Chen wrote a poem, carried in Chinese newspapers, each line of five characters, which said:

"A real man does not fear hard training.

"Aiming high for his country.

"A man will not stop at 10.1 seconds."

OMB Hears Argument Over Loan by City

KINGSTON (CP)—A loan of $65,000 to give Kingston a live theatre would add $1.20 to the average Kingston tax bill for the next 10 years, the city's clerk-comptroller, T. J. McKibbon, told an Ontario Municipal Board hearing Tuesday.

The hearing, which heard 19 briefs in the opening four hours Tuesday, is to decide whether to give OMB approval to city council's decision to make the loan for the theatre.

A public application for funds has been under way for four years but was $60,000 short of the $262,500 needed for the project.

The appeal started after Kingston theatre supporters prevailed on council in 1962 to save an 86-year-old theatre used in later years as a cinema. The city had bought the building for back for off-street parking.

Members of council have been trying to get the project under way by Nov. 1 to take full advantage of the federal winter works subsidy.

The hearing resumes today.

NAMED ASSISTANT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Kerr, award-winning director of professional and non-professional theatre in British Columbia, has been named assistant to Sir Tyrone Guthrie to produce the Parliament Hill centennial spectacular in July, 1967.

AT THE PARK — Bicyclist . . . A bear does some free-wheeling on Main Street in one of the hilarious scenes from Metro Goldwyn-Mayer's "Zebra in the Kitchen." Jay North, Martin Milner and Andy Devine star in the new Iron Town color production, telling the story of a boy who lets all the animals out of his city's zoo. On the same bill is the double bill is "Gunfighters of Casa Grande", also in color, starting Thursday at the Park Theatre.

Godfrey Finding It Hard To Play Doris Day's Father

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Arthur Godfrey is making his movie debut under great difficulty. He is required to portray the father of Doris Day and he does not feel at all like the father of Doris Day.

Godfrey ruminated over his problem when he reported for lunch after a rough morning on the set of Glass Bottom Boat. It is a dilemma that might give pause to the most methodical of method actors.

"Oh boy," he sighed. "I did a scene six times this morning, and I still don't think I got it right."

Although Godfrey may not look as tough he could have fathered Doris — navy a grey hair has invaded his rusty thatch — it is chronologically possible. He admits to being 62, which makes him 20 years older than Doris.

Aside from the difficulty of the father - daughter relationship, Godfrey is enjoying his first fling at film acting.

Even at 62, Godfrey has no notion of slowing down his pace, "Shucks, that's what keeps me young," he said. "There's nothing in life I like better than doing a show."

DOING FOUR SPECIALS

More movies? He'd be delighted. Television? He's doing four specials this season. Also, Everett Freeman, co-producer of Glass Bottom Boat, is testing to him about a series.

Last year he played Never Too Late on Broadway, and that sharpened his appetite for the theatre. He is considering a New York run in a new play called The Girl In The Freudian Slip. He would play a psychiatrist.

When all is said and done, Godfrey's great love is radio. "Why, there's more money in radio nowadays than there was in the old days," he said.

Godfrey has been on radio for 36 years, 31 of them with CBS.

TICKETS TO GO ON SALE FOR LA SCALA "LA BOHEME"

Tickets for the Warner Bros. presentation, in Technicolor, of the renowned La Scala opera company production of Giacomo Puccini's immortal "La Boheme" are now on sale at the Belle Theatre.

Two matinee and two evening performances of the internationally acclaimed production will be given on Wednesday and Thursday. Matinee performances begin at 2.00 p.m. and evening performances at 8.30 p.m. Reserved specific seat locations will not be reserved, each ticket holder will be guaranteed a seat.

Herbert von Karajan was musical director and conductor. Franco Zeffirelli was stage director and set designer. Marcel Escoffier designed the costumes. Gianni Ralmondi, Mirella Freni, Adriana Martino and Rolando Panerai head the singing cast.

The Warner Bros. presentation captures the complete musical and dramatic ranges of the brilliant La Scala production of "La Boheme" and has newly developed sound equipment and recording techniques.

The Warner Bros. Actual Performance Series will follow "La Boheme" with a similar presentation, in early 1966, of Sir Laurence Olivier in "Othello," a Technicolor-Panavision version of the Shakespearean tragedy in the British National Theatre's interpretation that has been hailed as the greatest ever staged.

Students Are More Eager To Pick Fight Than Talk

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — At the conclusion of Tuesday night's Town Meeting of the World on CBS, Charles Collingwood, who moderated the turbulent session, wondered how well university students of London, Paris, Belgrade and Mexico City had communicated with the panel in the United States — or how well the panel had communicated with them.

It was an apt summary of the hour of "global dialogue" — really global wrangling. The students did communicate to the American television audience their intense disapproval and suspicion of the United States position in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic without once criticizing Communist aims and activities.

Representing the U.S. were former president Eisenhower, UN Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Solicitor-General Thurgood Marshall. Judging from the way the students sneered at the faces of the London students, bursts of applause from elsewhere to the Americans' explanations of policy, it did not do their cause any less idea of bringing together via satellite all these people sounds better than it works out to be. Most of the students seemed far more eager to pick a fight or make a speech than ask questions.

U.S. defenders usually stuck to general answers that most often were too broad that they hardly satisfying even to the American television audience.

NBC's Dr. Kildare Tuesday night started a new story with fascinating, even frightening, implications. It involved an artificial kidney required by the hospital, an experimental machine which may save the lives of uremia sufferers. It can be used on only five patients — while there are more than 20 patients who need its help if they are to survive.

The dramatic problem is to decide which of these are to be saved — which came close to home because there is such a machine, as well as other life-saving medical equipment which is not available to all who could benefit from their use.

A committee was confronted with the job of picking four out of 12 who would certainly die without the machine's help. But, irritatingly, the full hour was over and we won't know who was tapped until next week.

Stripper Is Auctioned Off To Students

TORONTO (CP) — Libby Jones gave a lecture at the University of Toronto Tuesday, or did she?

Nobody seems to know for sure, especially the 500 students, 94.5 per cent of them males, who came to hear, or rather, see her.

Libby is the star of a downtown burlesque show. She's also a college graduate. The students asked her to speak on "The Economic Exploitation of Over - Developed Areas."

Anyway, after the lecture, Libby was auctioned for $107. The winners were a syndicate of students, one of whom will have a date with her.

The bidding, naturally, was hectic. "Hey, your mother will kill you," someone shouted when a student at one point bid $75.

"I'm trying to communicate," Libby said through whistles during her lecture. Someone asked what contribution burlesque makes to the sexual revolution. "I don't think we're contributing a darn," she said.

The atmosphere was all academic, except for the time Libby's garter strap slipped inadvertently.

The whole thing was staged to raise funds to aid students in underdeveloped countries.

Appeal Court Holds Decision On Minister

TORONTO (CP)—Without receiving proffered new defence evidence, the Ontario Court of Appeal reserved decision Tuesday in the appeal of Russell D. Horsbrugh against his conviction on charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency while United Church minister at Chatham.

Horsbrugh, 45, was sentenced to a year in prison on five counts of encouraging sexual intercourse among young members of his Park Street United Church congregation after confession in juvenile court last year. He has since resigned from the ministry.

Defence counsel Charles L. Dubin of Toronto sought permission Tuesday to refer to affidavits made since the trial by two of the 14 Crown witnesses who had testified that Mr. Horsbrugh abetted them in harder sexual acts in the church building.

The lawyer did not indicate their contents specifically but said they "put in question" the veracity of Crown witnesses. He said that, while he did not put much credence in the affidavits, they were evidence of his claim that the trial evidence was contradictory.

SAYS DANGER SHOWN

"More than anything, they are illustrative of the danger of dependence on this kind of evidence," he said.

While Mr. Dubin did not press hard for introduction of the affidavits except as an alternative to his other arguments for acquittal of the former clergyman, Crown counsel Clay Powell asked that they be admitted and that the court also hear personally the two youngsters who gave them—a boy and a girl.

"The allegations in the affidavits go to the root of the case," he said, "and cannot help but raise a doubt." Since there was "some doubt" surrounding them—including the question of whether they were completely voluntary—the signatories should be called in the interests of justice.

After hearing all arguments—both on the affidavit question and the merits of the appeal—Chief Justice Dana Porter announced the court was reserving judgment on both issues. It appeared the court might decide to hear the affidavit evidence later, or it could hand down a decision without going into it.

Water Keeps Trickling in as an Issue in Election Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The voters who became confused over the nuclear issue in the 1963 election, probably never thought that clean, clear ordinary water would become just as confusing 2½ years later.

Water didn't start out as an issue in this campaign, but somehow it keeps trickling in. And it isn't as clear anymore.

The issue is whether Canadian fresh water should be exported to the water - hungry United States. At various times since the election campaign began, there has appeared to be some conflicting statements within individual political parties.

Tuesday, Resources Minister Laing said in a non-political speech in Ottawa that "export of water is not negotiable at this time and I don't know when we will arrive at a time when we can say we have enough water for all time to come."

Prime Minister Pearson said Oct. 15 that his government is planning talks with the U.S. on the possibility of exporting Canadian water.

This prompted Conservative Leader Diefenbaker to say that the Liberals appear willing "to pull the plug on one of our most vital resources." A Conservative administration would not export water, he said in Peterborough Saturday.

On the same day, Alvin Hamilton, former agriculture minister in Mr. Diefenbaker's government, said in Windsor, Ont., that Canadian water could be used as a bargaining lever to bring more U.S. industry to Canada. He suggested that by agreeing to divert water across the border, the U.S. will spend $100,000,000 in Canada moving that water.

While the statements appear conflicting, the political leaders involved have said there is no internal party differences. Mr. Pearson says he has no immediate plans to divert water; he was talking about long-range possibilities. Mr. Hamilton has said his proposals are hinged on Canada retaining all the water it will need for the future.

Meanwhile, New Democratic Leader Douglas plunged into the water issue Tuesday night at Saskatoon when he said the government's handling of water resources is a "terrible and tragic example" of its failure in leadership. He said Mr. Pearson talks of selling "vast quantities" to the U.S.

An NDP government would make an immediate inventory of the country's natural resources, he said, along with a crash program to study water pollution. "We are going to get plans ready now for the great engineering projects which will be necessary in a few years to divert water from areas of surplus to areas of deficiency."

In a change of pace Tuesday, Mr. Pearson was in Ontario delving into the problems of agriculture, while Mr. Diefenbaker was in Quebec declaring himself a lifelong defender of French-Canadian rights.

"Remember, they said I didn't dare come to Quebec," Mr. Diefenbaker told an audience of about 1,000 in Quebec City. ". . . it has not been like that at all."

He challenged anyone to point to a single word or deed by his Conservative party that could be construed as detrimental to French-Canada. It was the Liberals, he charged, who placed Quebec "in a position of restriction and isolation."

Marcoux Passes Over Number of Documents To Justice Minister

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Guy Marcoux passed over a number of documents Tuesday to Justice Minister Claude Wagner, and the Quebec minister promised action by his department.

Mr. Wagner said that criminal complaints will be brought if the documents are found adequate basis for such action.

Where the documents are not sufficient for the lodging of a complaint, then the provincial police will make an investigation on the basis of whatever information they afford.

Dr. Marcoux, who was a Social Credit MP in the last Parliament, was reported in Ottawa to have told the RCMP Sunday that he had evidence of perjury and bribery concerning a group of former Social Credit MPs.

Acting Federal Justice Minister Pennell said Dr. Marcoux was told the matter came under Quebec provincial jurisdiction. He said Dr. Marcoux planned to get in touch with Mr. Wagner.

HAS MEETING

Mr. Wagner made his Tuesday statement after a one-hour meeting with Dr. Marcoux, who now is an independent candidate for re-election in the federal constituency of Quebec Montgomerency.

The minister, who met with the doctor at justice department headquarters, declined to describe the documents he had received.

Asked by a reporter if there were any criminal complaints to be laid prior to the federal election Nov. 8, Mr. Wagner said:

"I set aside all questions of elections and electoral campaigns because this is a factor that has nothing to do with the justice department."

He added:

"If we think a complaint should be lodged tomorrow, we will do so. If we think a 10 or 15-day investigation would be called for, we would give it that."

ISN'T SURPRISED

Asked if he was surprised by the documents handed him by Dr. Marcoux, the minister said that "for a year I've learned never to be surprised by anything."

A reporter asked if the documents are "serious," and Mr. Wagner replied, "Dr. Marcoux wouldn't have come to see me if they weren't serious."

He said "I would imagine" Dr. Marcoux is still under police protection. Action on the documents, he went on, would begin "as soon as possible."

Dr. Marcoux said the meeting was "very satisfactory" and he smiled away most questions thrown at him by the journalists.

He published a pamphlet early this month in which he alleged there was a "deal" between the Liberals and some Social Creditors in 1963.

The pamphlet concerned the statement of support made by six Quebec Social Credit MPs—now Creditistes—toward a possible Liberal government after the indecisive 1963 general election.

The statement, later repudiated by the six, put forward qualified reasons for supporting a minority Liberal government.

Despite his general silence, Dr. Marcoux said prior to his Tuesday meeting that there was no "direct pressure" to have him refrain from publishing the pamphlet.

He said he received no money offer himself for non-publication and that no "threat of death" was made against him in the event of publication.

Grills Charges Liberal Method Coldly Callous

Hastings South Progressive Conservative candidate Lee Grills last night blasted the Liberal Government for its "mismanagement of armed forces integration," and called integration "a headless monster."

Speaking to about 200 persons at a rally and dance in the Trenton Legion Hall, Mr. Grills said, "Nothing in the history of the Canadian armed forces has shaken the individual serviceman's morale than the mismanagement of integration."

He accused the government of "total disregard of the individual" and callous and ruthless methods of chopping away careers, and total disbandment of reserve units."

SUDDENLY RELEASED

"Airmen and officers with long and honorable service were suddenly released. For months all ranks knew that releases would be made, for the Minister of National Defence made frequent press announcements of the sweeping reductions to be made.

"No official word was given to the individual — they had to sit and wait! The serviceman waited until the fateful letter arrived from the Minister, but signed, not by the Minister, but by the Chief of the Defence Staff, but by a Navy officer.

NO CHANCE TO PLAN

"The individual chosen had no chance to plan ahead or to begin the organization necessary to obtain employment," Mr. Grills said. "He was given three months to clear out. Many were served notice while serving overseas. They were unbumped, family and baggage,

Find Four Diving Suit Clad Bodies

WIARTON, Ont. (CP) — The bodies of four Toronto underwater photographers were found Wednesday in Lake Huron off Deadman's Point, 35 miles northwest of here, but mystery still surrounds the circumstances of their deaths.

The four—Prof. Eric Deane, 61, University of Toronto; Peter Macfarlane, 38, an executive producer at CFTO-TV, Toronto; Thomas C. Nicholson, 26, draughtsman, and Ario Gatti, 41, artist and designer — left Tobermory, 60 miles north of Owen Sound, in a 16foot boat Saturday.

Flown to this community, 16 miles north west of Owen Sound, the bodies were to be examined for cause of death—

Meanwhile, investigators were attempting to find out what happened to the men. This much is clear: All bodies were clad in diving suits, at least one wore a life jacket, but none were wearing underwater breathing apparatus.

Their battered, water - filled aluminum boat, found Tuesday on Deadman's Point, contained an underwater respirator, a diver's weighted belt, a screwdriver and an empty plastic bottle—evidence that the boat had apparently not capsized.

5 Ecumenical Council Decrees Formally Proclaimed by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul and the Vatican ecumenical council decreed today a drastic overhaul of the government of the Roman Catholic Church and bound their church's 500,000,000 members to a new and friendlier approach to Jews and other non-Christians.

Meeting in the splendor of St. Peter's Basilica, the 65-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff and 2,200 prelates from around the world formally proclaimed five decrees previously approved by the council.

The decrees were proclaimed on the seventh anniversary of the election of Pope John, who brought the council into being. And the Pope and the bishops promulgated as many council decrees as were approved in the first three sessions of the assembly that John convened.

One decree, entitled On the Relation of the Church to non-Christian Religions, declares that the Jewish people as a whole "cannot be charged" with the crucifixion of Christ. Ordering a new course in Catholic relations with other non-Christians, it alludes to the Christian-Moslem wars of the crusades and "urges all to forget the past."

The longest decree, a 10,000-word document entitled Concerning the Pastoral Office of Bishops in the Church, endorses a synod or senate of bishops to advise the Pope and urges a reorganization of the predominantly cuperservative Vatican Curia—the central administration of the church — to make it more representative of the entire church.

A third decree, On Christian Education, suggests that parochial schools be included in any subsidies given to education by the state.

The other two decrees deal with the modernization of priestly training in seminaries and of life in religious orders.

With their promulgation the decrees were made public for the first time since the council started work on them. However, most of the essentials had become known during the lengthy council sessions of debate and voting.

In the decrees on the bishops and Christian education, there was much more than had been revealed, earlier.

The council fathers said in the decree that the Curia departments should "be reorganized and better adapted to the needs of the times, regions, and rites especially as regards their number, name, competence and secular methods of procedure, as well as the co-ordination of work among them."

As expected, the decree calls for a more international representation in the Curia, which has been largely Italian. But it had a surprise, saying that diocesan bishops—those living outside Rome—should also "be chosen as members" of Curia departments.

Such bishops presumably would continue to head their dioceses outside of Rome, unlike present Curia members, who take up residence in the Italian capital.

The decree also says it would be most advantageous if Curia departments "would listen more attentively to laymen who are outstanding for their virtue, knowledge and experience."

Another key section of the decree urges an end to the practice of submitting episcopal nominations to civil authorities in some largely Roman Catholic countries before the Pope announces his appointments.

It also proposes a reorganization of diocese boundaries, the resignation of aged or infirm bishops "either at their own initiative or upon the invitation of the competent authority," and efforts by bishops to promote relations with non-Catholics in their dioceses, as well as with the Catholic faithful.

The key clause in the decree on Christian education declares that the state "must see to it, in its concern for distributive justice, that public subsidies are paid out in such a way that parents are truly free to choose according to their conscience the schools they want for their children."

The archbishop, Dr. Michael Ramsey, is spiritual leader of the Church of England. Address-sing the British Council of Churches on Tuesday he compared Britain's responsibility to Rhodesia's Negroes with its UN trust treaty obligations to Portland.

"Our country has obligations to Rhodesia . . . If our government thought it practicable and desirable to use force in discharging our new but overcoming obligation to Rhodesia, then as Christian people, unless we are pacifists, it would be right to say that force should be used."

The council, representing all denominations except the Roman Catholics, voted 63 to 5 to urge the government "to take whatever measures might be necessary" to establish fully representative government in Rhodesia.

There were signs that the archbishop's statement had caused some embarrassment to Prime Minister Wilson, who now i sin Rhodesia trying to reach an agreement with the white minority government insuring ultimate political control by Negro majority. Wilson has privately relied on the use of British troops against the rebel settlers, most of whom are immigrants from Britain or of British descent.

Lord Carrington, Conservative leader, kept silence. But a chorus of protest went up from Conservative backbenchers.

Sir Frederic Bennet, vice-chairman of the Tory party's commonwealth affairs committee, demanded the archbishop's equating the white Rhodesians with the German Nazis.

The archbishop in a BBC interview Wednesday night said: "Although it is not the business of the church to tell the politicians what to do over the Rhodesia crisis, it still has an obligation to protect all races, whatever their creed or color. If force is really practical, then the church believes that the Christian conscience should allow the use of force, if peace is infinitely preferable to indiscriminate force."

Guerrillas' Daring Raid Damage Big

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP) — Viet Cong guerrillas struck two lightning blows at United States air installations in the northern provinces of South Viet Nam Wednesday night and damaged or destroyed 40 helicopters and seven jet aircraft.

In what a marine spokesman described as a suicide attack, two squads of guerrillas assaulted the main helicopter base at Marble Mountain, east of Da Nang, blowing up aircraft with mortar shells and demolition charges.

They destroyed 18 helicopters and damaged 22 others.

Marine casualties were said to be "very light."

A second Viet Cong attack on Chu Lai air strip, 60 miles south of Da Nang, succeeded in destroying A - 4 Skyhawk jets and damaging five others.

Five guerrillas penetrated marine defence at Chu Lai. Two were killed and the other three captured.

KILL 29

Altogether, 39 Viet Cong were killed by marine defenders in Wednesday night's attack.

Marble Mountain is located on a spit of land jutting out into the South China Sea to the east of the port of Da Nang.

Maj. - Gen. Lewis W. Walt, commander of marines in Viet Nam, reported a wounded guerrilla who was captured said the Marble Mountain suicide team came in boats down the Da Nang River and 200 or more guerrillas were supposed to back them up.

Walt said a marine patrol ambushed 100 Viet Cong near Da Nang a few hours before the guerrilla raid. The marines killed 15 of the enemy in another fighting. Four Viet Cong were supposed to death.

It was believed this was part of the backup force for the latter raid.

DIDN'T REACH BASE

Walt said he believed the main Da Nang base, with its big jet airport 370 miles northeast of Saigon, was the intended target but the Viet Cong failed to get near it.

The main Da Nang air base is "the one that is hurting them," Walt said. "I mean something to the people up north."

The Da Nang base is a springboard for U.S. air attacks against North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong.

In a previous attack a small Viet Cong squad infiltrated the main base at Da Nang Mar. 16, killed one U.S. air policeman, destroyed three planes and damaged three others.

Aug. 5 guerrillas destroyed three fuel storage couples at Pleiku.

Integration Means More Promotions Says Temple

TRENTON — Speaking to some 80 wives of RCAF personnel at a coffee party at the Dutch Mill Inn yesterday Hastings South candidate Robert Temple told them integration of the armed forces means more promotions for their husbands.

"Under the new set-up," he said, "the freezing rank structure has been done away with and ambitious servicemen now had more opportunities than ever before to get ahead."

The defence committee is aware of other antiquated legislation that needs revising, he continued, including policies affecting servicemen and their families were under consideration for adjustment.

Looking to the future, Mr. Temple assured the wives the services would continue to provide a gainful career for their husbands. He spelled out handsome retirement benefits servicemen can expect at the end of life in the service. Of course, while the economy remains strong, pay for armed service people should be reviewed regularly and increased consistently with wages in industry and any change in the cost of living, he said.

The social get-together was arranged by Mrs. Norman Aitle of Middleton Park. Mrs. Temple and Mrs. John Radcliffe of Trenton were presented corsages by Joan Carter and Anne Brookes, young daughter of Trenton airmen.

Wilson Is Hoping Africans May Untie Rhodesian Knot

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Two African nationalist leaders were scheduled to meet with British Prime Minister Wilson today and may be able to open the way to new discussions on the independence bid of this British colony.

Observers said if either of the two rival Negro leaders, Joshua Nkomo or Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, were willing to make the present 1961 constitution work, a solution could be found for the current crisis.

White - governed Rhodesia is seeking independence but Britain has refused it unless the way is paved for wider representation of the country's majority Negroes.

So far the two nationalist leaders have both boycotted the present constitution on the grounds that it will in fact prolong minority white domination.

But if they shift their stand, Wilson would be able to tell Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith that the total acalamate on the independence has been broken.

Observers said Wilson hoped Smith would then be able to talk his ruling right wing Rhodesia Front Party out of a unilateral declaration of independence which Britain has said would be illegal.

Wilson's talks with the Negro leaders had two, other aims.

1. To stress that the present constitution could be improved by a more effective and united political opposition. However, most observers thought there was little chance of the two rivals settling their differences.

2. Rid them of any false hopes that British military force would be used in Rhodesia to help them gain power.

Wilson's talks with the white minority governments have concentrated on renewed warnings of the economic and political dangers of a unilateral declaration of independence.

TOTAL: $65,925.87.

With many areas still to be heard from, the total received to date has reached 51 per cent of the objective.

Campaign Chairman John O'Flynn said "We are gaining more money this year than ever before, and indications are we will soon be over the $100,000 mark."

Any person wishing to donate to the United Appeal directly can do so by mailing or bringing their donations in to the office at 160 Front Street across from the City Hall in the old Ontario Intelligencer building.

Archbishop of Canterbury Supports Military Intervention in Rhodesia

LONDON (AP)—Controversy boiled today over the Archbishop of Canterbury's suggestion that Christians should support military action against Rhodesia's white settlers if they declare independence without Britain's approval.

Critics ranging from Conservative members of Parliament to the socialist spokesman of the Methodist Conference, Lord Soper, denounced the suggestion as irresponsible.

The Church of Scotland, with a long history of African missionary work, dissociated itself from the archbishop's views and from a resolution supporting the archbishop passed by the British Council of Churches in Aberdeen.

Salvation Army leaders also dissented.

MRS. FRED NOAKES

Mrs. Fred (Ethel) Noakes of 40 Craig Street died yesterday in the Belleville General Hospital, following a lengthy illness.

Born in the Third Concession of Thurlow, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Ivens, she lived in this district all her life.

A member of Christian Alliance Tabernacle, she is survived by her husband, Fred W. Noakes, three sons, James of Chapeau, Quebec, Clerk of Post Credit and Bert of Belleville, a brother, Dana Grills of Toronto, two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Purdy of Whitby and Mrs. William (Elda) Cardinal of Oshawa, and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Noakes is resting at the Grant Funeral Home for services Saturday at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery, with Rev. Lawrence Broadhurst officiating.

WALTER MALVIN BELLIS

The funeral of Walter Malvin Bellis held Wednesday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home to Belleville in the chapel was conducted by Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church. Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

The bearers were James Matthews, Robert Moore, Cecil Brown, Gordon Cheyne, Fred Milligan and Donald Parks.

Behind the "Glass"

The new cement floor at the curling rink outdoors was finished with a glistening coat of ice, and painted, the rings have been laid out, the rocks cleaned and the brooms stacked and everything is in order for the start of another season. With an army of helpers, Jack Ovalesso, the ice chairman, has produced a beautiful sheet of ice and on Friday night the first stones will gently or forcibly glide down its surface and until the end of March everything is "go".

To start the season on Friday night the committee in charge have arranged a jitney whist and euchre until the midnight hour of Saturday and on Sunday afternoon a curling clinic will be held. This jitney is going to be a fun session and there will be refreshments, good fellowship and a spot of curling. The rinks will be chosen in a novel way. As each member enters the door they will be given a number the first four will be a rink regardless of being a lead, second, vice or skip. The next four will go through the same process until the full draw is completed and the curling begins. The ice. This fun session will cost a buck but it will be well worth it because the committee have some surprises that they are not releasing for publication.

Now for the curling clinic on Sunday afternoon. Fred Maund, vice-president of the club, is in charge of this clinic and he has engaged three members of the RCAF club as instructors. These curlers have had experience in running clinics in Western Canada and are quite qualified as instructors. Those attending are asked to bring their curling togs because the instructions received will be carried out on the ice. Still pictures will be shown during the clinic as to the correct way to deliver a rock, proper stance to be back and the etiquette of the game.

The older curlers of the club are invited to attend if they so desire but the clinic is being primarily for the new members of the club. It will be a chance for them to get a word in the right foot. The clinic is not to offer criticism but to help the new curlers master the rudiments of this very popular game. There will be a question and answer period on the rules of curling and this should cause plenty of good-natured discussion. It is hoped that many of the curlers will avail themselves of the opportunity that has been given by the directorate. Hope to see you all at the fun session and the clinic.

Campbellford Scout Given High Honor

OTTAWA (CP) — Twenty-nine boy scouts and scout leaders from across Canada were decorated Wednesday for bravery and dedicated service to the scouting movement by Governor-General Vanier in his capacity as chief scout of Canada.

Highest honor, the Bronze Cross, went to Gordon Bogle, 12, of Oak Point, N.B., and William T. Seguire, 11, of Campbellford, Ont., and scoutmaster Joseph N. Humphries of Agincourt, Ont.

Scouts Seguire and Bogle received their decoration for "extreme gallantry" in swimming rescues. Mr. Humphries was honored for rescuing two children from a burning house.

Sea scout Robert H. Vidler, 12, of Erieau, Ont., topped the list of three Silver Cross recipients for "outstanding gallantry" in rescuing a drowning man in Lake Erie.

Earlier this month, Robert was awarded a Carnegie Medal and $250 for his heroism. His brother, Mrs. M. L. Vidler, was awarded a medal for the same rescue.

into Trenton airport to start the frustrating task of finding a home town, a home, a job and a future.

"There were no parades or thank yous or speeches of welcome for us," he said. "The Department of Defence made no effort to help released personnel except for a token $75 and a job bureau was established to which employers could come to find displaced persons.

The P.C. candidate said that though help was not given released personnel from the employment, "civilians who work for the Department of Defence were found employment in other Departments. If the civil servants could be placed in other jobs, why not the armed service personnel?

SASKATOON LOSS

"This is the basic reason for the low morale which exists today — that next week or next month they will suddenly find 'you are through' letter. They have lost their right to pension entitlements were unnecessary. They know also that the savings obtained by the dismissals are nothing but press releases."

Mr. Grills said the Air Force in last month's issue of the CF-5, purchased recently for delivery in two years. "They know that we have invested it is and that it was turned down as a trainer several years ago. Now that it is ordered, the job properly were passed over so that this model could be purchased.

"They know it does not have the equipment to operate at night or in bad weather as the army support role. Nor can it prevent enemy fighters from intruding into the battle area. The air force now considers it. And in the meantime NO more are they front line fighters.

SPIRIT DESTROYED

"I understand that they know that all color and spirit have been deliberately destroyed. A once proud and highly aerobatic team was disbanded immediately after integration of personnel.

"Personnel selections were made by the office of the minister and not by the commanders of the services.

"The average military person feels no real pride in belonging to the military today. He knows he is not the recipient of his fellow Canadians whom he feels have no interest in him. He knows that the amount of propaganda put out by the Department of National Defence to impress the unprejudiced is unconvinced him he is nothing but a football, to be kicked around by Liberal politicos.

SYSTEMATIC BLOWS

"What has the Liberal Government done to induce the service to re-engage? What have they done to create the desire to remain in service? I don't know have done nothing. On the contrary, everything the Liberals have done is aimed at systematic destruction of efficiency and morale within the armed forces.

Mr. Grills said that the aim of the Conservative Government is to provide a premium payment to personnel for each subsequent re-enlistment period.

"The Liberals will say . . . where is the money coming from for such a large expenditure? - I say to you, such payment will be many times less costly to our country than what it is costing to train personnel who have to be recruited to replace men forced out of the service by the ruthless methods and false economy of the Liberal Government.

"I do not feel that political gain should be at the expense of our fellow man, much less of the service personnel of this great country of ours.

"I ask the Minister of Parliament is asking you to vote to elect him and the Liberal Government. He is the very individual who, as a member of the defence committee, condemned the action of the Minister of Defence — Paul Hellyer."

PRAISES HEES

Mr. Grills, speaking briefly on other topics, called George Hees, "Canada's greatest salesman."

He said, "I am very disturbed when I hear some of the false propaganda that is being passed around just now. They are saying that the prosperity we are enjoying is due to the two and one-half years the Liberals have been in power.

"This propaganda is typical of the Liberals — taking credit for something they had no part of. I don't know whom they are trying to deceive! The people of this country are not gullible. They will not be taken in by this false information."

He said he is confident of the Progressive Conservative Government of 1957 to 1963 made our present prosperous times possible.

"It was the pegging of the dollar that made our good, competitive in world markets . . . it was the world trade crusade headed by Hon. George Hees.

"Our economy was built on a firm foundation by the Conservative Party, so strong, the indecisive Liberals couldn't even wreck it in two and one-half years of bungling."

Cadwell Plugs Allowance For Housewives

HAVELOCK — Speaking to a group of women here Tuesday, Roy Cadwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac, said: "I am definitely proposing a housewife's allowance of $20 per month for all housewives in the Hastings-Frontenac. These payments would be made similar to payments now made to the Service Dependent's Allowance Act." A housewife's allowance would pertain to the housewife only, providing the difference between having enough and not having enough," he asserted. He said that the income of the residents of Hastings-Frontenac is less than 2/3rds of the national average and that a housewife's allowance would go a long way to adjusting this inequality.

"At the present time Canada pays for each student up to 21 years of age, $20 per month and if it is good economy for Canada to do this, and I agree it is, it is better economy still to the housewife and mother who looks after such children a housewife's allowance of $20 per month." In answer to a question, Mr. Cadwell explained that the housewife's allowance was intened for housewives who stay at home and look after their husbands and children. "A housewife is an economic asset and as such entitled to share in the economic wealth of Canada, and she is the best method of achieving this."

A recent report of the Canadian Medical Association has indicated that there is less illness and mental disturbance where the mother remains at home to look after the children and th's is another reason for sponsoring a housewife's allowance.

Hunters Fined For Illegal Shootings

Illegal hunting in the Belleville area brought a series of fines from Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning.

Two Toronto men — Frank Angelucci and Gatano Amato — were assessed $15 each for possession of a roughled which Amato claimed he accidentally killed while shooting at a rabbit.

Paul Blackburn, Bruce Shaddock and Ross Cummings, all of Belleville, were fined $25 each for shooting ducks in posted area.

They were charged after gunshots were heard around Aiken's Pond near the Wallbridge Road north of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway. If had been posted as a forbidden area by the Dominion Wild Life Service after the pond was found baited.

RCMP constable Harold Borle said the trio had shot five ducks when police arrived.

CN Pensioners Are Told Of Drive for Passengers

At the yearly slag luncheon that marks the resumption of activities after a summer recess, Mr. W. D. "Dave" Newell, Special Assistant to the Station Manager, addressed the Belleville CNR Pensioners' Association at the Canara Club Wednesday.

Some 150 retired veterans of the railroad business from Montreal and Toronto, Hamilton and St. Thomas, and many from within the Belleville-Trenton area, gave rapt attention to the speaker's unfolding of the railway's continuing campaign for the patronage of the travelling public. He described the new services due to be instituted with the fall change of timetable, outlining the many new trains designed to suit holiday and faster service to the Maritime provinces. New trains, challenging North American records in making the Montreal-Toronto run in 3 hours and fifty nine minutes, at an average speed of 67 mph. This speed is being maintained by the new Turbolent. Local service has been bettered and provision has been made for holiday week-end travel by scheduling convenient service within within these periods. The speaker summed up the whole as a determined effort on the railway's part to regain the public consistently and well, stating that with the well-established co-operation of all employees concerned, a successful, profitable operation was assured.

QUESTION PERIOD

A question period followed Mr. Newell's address and matters concerning pensions and fringe benefits were discussed. It became evident that pass privileges somewhat curtailed at the immediate past, will not be expanded to a considerable extent. The increased mileage and the number of trains upon which passes will be honored are to be the advantage to the pensioned employee. Pensioners on long holiday trips are granted reduced rates on the company's many hotels and boat tours on either of Canada's great lakes, Ontario and low costs. The speaker urged that all employees and pensioners make themselves aware of these advantages and benefit from them.

Mr. Joe Hunter, president of Temple Renews Protest Over Train Service

Robert Temple, Liberal candidate for Hastings South, is continuing his efforts to secure a continuance of passenger railway service between Belleville and Ottawa.

Within the past two weeks, Mr. Temple has wired Donald Gordon, head of CN and also the Canadian Pacific Railway, protesting the decision of CP to cancel passenger service to Ottawa on the 31st of October and today wired the Board of Transport Commissioners.

In his letter today to the Board of Transport Commissioners, Mr. Temple said that the Canadian Pacific proposal to cancel passenger train service from Ottawa to Brockville, thereby depriving the citizens of the Belleville, Trenton area of passenger train service to Canada's capital was a "matter of utmost importance to the citizens of this area and indeed the whole of the Ontario Lakefront."

"I urgently request that you have Canadian Pacific continue this service pending public hearings."

Contraceptives Not Cause of Promiscuity

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. G. W. Cadbury, executive director for Toronto's Planned Parenthood, said Wednesday contraceptives can't be blamed for the promiscuity of the Western World.

"Cars have been blamed for providing an environment for promiscuity, but we don't get rid of the cars," she said.

She criticized Canada, the Pope and the World Health Organization for failing to support an international program of birth control.

She spoke as a member of a panel discussing world population problems, part of the observances marking the United Nations' 20th anniversary.

TWO DISAGREE

Two other panel members, Ali Tayyeb, and M. H. Watkins, both of the University of Toronto, disagreed with her.

They said research and historic evidence indicate that in the long view the high birth rate in underdeveloped countries will level off and that technological developments will make it possible to provide food to feed the vast populations.

Moderator William Woodside replied that this was an optimistic, not a realistic view. He said famine is already a problem in many countries. By 1970, 6,000,000,000 humans will have to be fed.

But trust in Him whose will is best, What it meant to lose you mother, We too will meet you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Alice and son-in-law Archie.

BAYERSTOCK — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mora Bayerstock, who passed away October 28, 1964.
Our hearts still ache with sadness, And tears still flow, sweet mother, What it meant to lose you, No one will ever know.
We miss you sad and lonely, We miss you more each day,
We miss your smile, your laughter, We miss you in every way.
Dear Lord, look after mother, Keep her safe in Thy care,
And some day in Heaven, We'll meet and be happy there.
—Sadly missed by daughter Alice, son-in-law Archie.

BAYERSTOCK — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mora Bayerstock, who passed away October 28, 1964.
Dear mother, I think of you sleeping,
Two willing hands are still,
Two loving eyes are closed to touch,
A heart that loved us well.
Mom never said goodbye to us,
She went while we were sleeping,
We never could have said goodbye,
Mom left us so suddenly.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by granddaughter Lorraine.

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear wife Annie who passed away October 28, 1954, and husband Alfred who passed away October 28, 1964.
Sweet memories will linger ever,
Though we left this world of strife,
Years may come and cancel never,
My loving remembrance of you.
—Inserted by wife and family.

In memoriam of our dear mother who passed away Oct. 28, 1964.
Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Ruth.
For the days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find,
For you are always sure to give,
To us a gentle reminder,
That you are gone from here.
—Sadly missed by son Carl, daughter-in-law Mary and grandson Richard.

GRANDLAND — In loving memory of our father and grandfather, Mr. Alfred Grandland who passed away on Oct. 28, 1964.
Dad left this world of sorrow,
Without a last goodbye,
He left behind a host of lonely hearts,
He was loved by all.
The reason is hidden somewhere,
In God's own heart,
We must believe and trust in Him,
And wait till we meet again.
—Sadly missed by daughter-in-law Joe, and grandchildren.

Canada-U.S. Auto Agreement Praised by C.M.A. Speakers

A plea for the suspension of the "Made in Canada" provision, at least for the next 12 months, so that auto parts manufacturers can equip their plants at lowest possible costs to compete with the United States, was made in Belleville last night by Donald S. Wood, executive vice-president and manager of the Automotive Parts Manufacturers Association of Canada.

He said this should be done particularly in the field of used machinery within the suspension of "Made in Canada" rulings would obviate dumping duty, as well as for new machinery. Such action would allow the drawback provisions to operate as originally intended and would also reduce the burden of sales tax.

"In actual figures it would mean that for every $100,000 worth of used machinery now costing the parts manufacturer $136,000 the cost would be apportioned down to $100,000," he told manufacturers' Association, predicted that the Canada-U.S. Automotive Agreement of 1965 would make a deep impression on the economy of both countries, and in time would rival with the famous Hyde Park Agreement of the late War II and the Statement of Principles with the Korean War, with the difference that this agreement is a peacetime move toward a form of industrial partnership.

He said the agreement is successful the Canadian share of the North American market for cars and trucks must be more realistically apportioned and the United States, instead of getting 96 per cent of the combined U.S.-Canada automotive market will get say 94 per cent by 1968.

GREATLY IMPORTANT

"This two per cent difference is of great importance to Canada. It means two per cent of a fifteen times greater market when we consider the motor vehicle production in Canada to that in the United States."

He said the agreement is intended to adjust Canada's trading deficit with the United States. Mr. Wood said since many parts manufacturers must now engage in an entirely new concept of selling in which they must quote in much greater quantities and guarantee a much higher level of quality production than could be predicted only a year ago.

"It is a tough thought, but we must accept the fact that while some parts manufacturers will expand selling in volume in Canada under this agreement, others will not. Canadian manufacturers in all industries in Canada, not just automotive parts industries, must invest in the Canada - U.S. Automotive Agreement the greatest market opportunities they have ever had before."

Mr. Wood said that although the agreement does not guarantee the head start the U.S. enjoys, it "takes the shackles off the Canadian tariff industry in the production goals ahead that were never opened to us before."

Besides the ruling that places a duty of 25% per cent on machinery classed as "Made in Canada," and the sales tax of 11 per cent on the added value of production tooling which together places Canadian manufacturers at a disadvantage vis-a-vis their counterparts in the U.S., Mr. Wood said there is another "hurdle" that must be faced – the U.S. administration of the agreement.

MUST BE CLEARED UP

He said the question has already arisen of parts manufacturers in Canada and those parts manufacturers in the U.S. for original equipment. Unofficially it is expressed by qualified spokesmen in the U.S. is that such shipments will not be allowed duty free into the U.S. under the agreement. One of the spokesmen he added is a major automobile manufacturer.

Mr. Wood said this concept of the agreement must be cleared up immediately, before the U.S. administrative regulations are published. If not, exports of parts from Canada will be subject to purchases by motor vehicle companies assembling cars and parts manufacturers in the U.S. will likely refuse to buy parts or sub-assemblies in Canada duty-free, thus defeating the basic purposes of the agreement — rationalization of parts production within the industry to the benefit of both countries.

"This is one of the greatest trading agreements this country has ever enjoyed," said Mr. Wood, "We ask only that the government of Canada, having set one wheel in motion, oil some of the other wheels so we can begin to catch up with competitors in the United States."

John Chilton, U.S. Customs Appraiser from Buffalo, said his department was available to assist Canadian manufacturers with any problems relating to export of goods to the United States. He added that while he often visited Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa on such occasions there had been no requests at all from this area.

Mr. Chilton will be available for interview in Belleville today, and tomorrow if necessary.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

Mayor Jack Elliott of Belleville welcomed the visitors and praised local manufacturers for the role they play in helping in the growth of the city. He said additions have been made to at least three plants since 1960 and he was looking forward to more.

"We are looking for new plants, the same as anyone else, but I hope we are looking after people we have here already."

N. M. Vuchnich, chairman of the local committee of the CMA also spoke briefly.

R. B. Rogers of Canasmoque, chairman of the Quinte - St. Lawrence branch, and other visiting manufacturers visited the Bakelite and Nylon Corbide plants during the day.

Mr. Rogers presided at the dinner meeting and expressed the visitors' appreciation to Belleville CMA members for their hospitality.

Steel Industry Will Benefit Says Benson

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—E. J. Benson, national revenue minister, said Wednesday night Canada's steel industry plans a three-year, $500,000,000 expansion program "to keep up with the increases brought about" by the new United States-Canada automobile agreement.

Mr. Benson made the remark in commenting on the effects of the auto agreement to about 100 delegates at a one-day industrial-municipal relations conference sponsored by the Lake Ontario Development Association.

He said the auto pact is an example of how Canada made sure it received "adequate compensation" for what it gave up.

Canada manufactures only half of all the cars purchased in the country, he said. To offset this, he said, Canada had to either adopt a policy of refusing to import cars, or accept the pact.

Under a no-import policy, the cost of Canadian - built cars would have been beyond the pocket of the average person, Canada chose free trade with a "built-in safeguard" of a $260,000,000 increase in annual production," he said.

Five UNICEF Depots Will Be Established

TRENTON — This year, Hallowe'en for UNICEF will be sponsored by Cobourg Collegiate School in Trenton. The children of this school will be sharing their Hallowe'en with the world's children. To enable any other children in Trenton, who wish to join them in helping UNICEF, five UNICEF depots will be established in the town.

UNICEF collection boxes can be obtained at the depots and returned to the depots before Monday, November 1st. Depots will be located as follows:

Champlain Heights, Stanley Heights area — Mrs. O. W. Mrs. George Greer, 215 King St., Trenton.

South Side of Dundas St. W. Lantry, 75 First Avenue, Trenton.

North Side of Dundas St. W. Mrs. John T. Downs, 165 Dufferin Ave. (opposite Prince Charles School.)

Fairview Cres. and West. Park Area — Mrs. A. Z. Ward, 28 Fairview Cres.

Trenton, East Side of the River — Mrs. R. R. Burford, 16 Coleman Heights.

For the first time in 11 years Hallowe'en falls on a Sunday. In a survey taken in Toronto, parents and children indicated that they would be making their rounds on Saturday. It is most likely that the Trenton children, too, will be dressing up and making their Hallowe'en rounds on Saturday.

New System Recommended By Fire Chief

TRENTON—Fire Chief Cecil Ellis was among those present for a demonstration of a new method of putting out flash fires in hotel kitchens held in the kitchen of the Queenway Hotel Wednesday morning. Following the demonstration by Bramley D. Guest of the Walter Kidde Company of Canada, Chief Ellis said he would recommend the system highly to area hotel and restaurant owners. Three other eating places in Trenton have installed the system, which utilizes carbon dioxide, a harmless gas, as the agent to put out the fire. "Fire fighting operations of the CO2 is confined to the area of the stove, and 30 seconds after the fire has been put out, the stove area is cool and ready for operation again, after a preliminary check by the fire department authorities as to the cause of the fire.

A container of CO2 is placed beside the stove area. Should fire occur, the rise in the gas' temperature would trigger the mechanism, and the gas would shoot out of nozzles placed over stoves. Meanwhile, the initial triggering of the system, automatically shuts off the lead out fan above the stove and shuts off the natural gas inlet to the stove.

As each installation requires individual modification, Mr. Guest said he preferred not to quote prices of installation, but insurance representative Doug-las Whitley, present at the demonstration, said the system would "pay for itself in three years with a 25 per cent rebate on insurance rates."

Other eating places in Trenton where the system is employed are the Skyline Restaurant, where fire occurred last year, and Ireland's Lunch Bar and Andy's Restaurant.

New C of C Office Well Under Way

TRENTON — Building news of note in this area is that the new Trenton Chamber of Commerce office on Front Street is well under way, with chamber heads planning an official ceremonies laying in the near future, and that the footings have been poured for the new municipal building in Murray Township, near Wooler. The township building is a Centennial project.

District Council Of Boy Scouts Elects Officers

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton District Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada, met Tuesday night to elect a new executive for 1965-66 and to hear annual reports from officers.

President is W. J. Wilkinson; vice-presidents, Mr. Ellis; treasurer, S. A. Walker; recording secretary, Mrs. L. Fletcher; corresponding secretary, S. Moore; members, Rev. Anderson, Dr. H. F. A. Ashford, F. Alsop; camp commissioner, W. Deacon, E. Burford.

Honorary president is A. G. Jack Delong and retiring district commissioner, J. Craig.

Mr. Wilkinson presented a 15-year Scout service pin to Mr Page, and a set of beads, each marking his retirement and his 5th year in Scouting.

Mr. Wilkinson, in his report, reported to the executive that every phase of Scouting in the Trenton area has progressed over 1964. The number of leaders is greater, group committees have been formed for Cub Scouts, Cubs and Rovers have received training.

In the district, government, there are 40 leaders, 330 Cubs, 107 Scouts and six Rovers. At least 100 adults also assist the movement.

This past summer saw the largest attendance of Cubs and Scouts at summer camps in the history of the district.

Boy Scout Week last February saw greater interest on the part of the public, greater participation on the part of the members and this year, (in October), Scouts and Cubs collected $6000 on Good Turn Day, an increase of 20 per cent over 1964.

GUEST SPEAKER CHOSEN

Mayor Ian Beresford of Gananoque will be the guest speaker at the Nov. 11 Remembrance Day banquet at the Trenton Legion Hall.

Mr. Beresford has an outstanding record of work with the Legion since he joined in 1946. Two weeks ago he received the International Amity Award from the Legion's national command of the American Legion, the second Canadian to receive this coveted award.

Mr. Beresford is the administration officer of the Canadian Pension Commission, department of Veterans' Affairs, Kingston office.

He also spoke on learning obtained from the school of experience. Dr. Smith received a respected position in the eyes of the community without some high school training, and others, even critics. His entire speech was one of encouragement and advice to the student facing the world of responsibilities.

Selections by the Glee Club concluded the program.

Youth Fined After Rolling His Car Over

A 19-year-old youth was fined $40 today for driving without a licence — his second such offence before Magistrate T. Y. Mills.

Edward Charles Luffman was driving on both occasions with his father's permit. Today's charge was laid after he rolled his car over on Sidney township's fifth concession.

"Why do you do this kind of stuff?" asked the magistrate.

"... Do you think you can't pass the driving test?" continued.

Luffman said he wanted to be sure he was "a really good driver" before he took his test.

"You don't do that by rolling your car over in the ditch," replied the magistrate— cautioning the youth not to come before the court a third time for the same offence.

What Have the Belleville Downtown Jewellers Got For You ?

No Evidence On What Caused Fracas

BROCKVILLE (CP)—The final witness at coroner's inquest today in the Ontario Supreme Court trial of three young men charged with manslaughter in the death of Carl Smith, 30, of Glenbuilie, Ont., during a fracas last Aug. 7.

The case will go to the jury after summations by lawyers and Mr. Justice Campbell Grant, the presiding judge.

Crown Attorney Mark Cawley, 23, of Ottawa, and defence counsel Speagle, 23, of Dorion, Que., and Donald George Renaud, 27, of Westport, will address the jury northwest of here where the fracas occurred. All three are natives of Westport.

Two defence witnesses testified they saw Smith approach Cawley from behind and execute a scuffle in a service station lot. Cawley said he "reeled around suddenly and struck out."

"Carl Smith fell like a tree and hit the pavement," said witness Francis Garvin, operator of the service station. Smith died in hospital later. There has been no direct evidence on what caused the fracas. One witness said Smith "seemed to be drunk" when he tried to help James Smith, his brother-in-law, who was scuffling with some young men.

Pearson and Douglas Face Obstacles to Free Speech

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas was raising his voice in Hamilton Wednesday night against an alleged curb on freedom of speech, Prime Minister Pearson was unable to make his voice in Toronto because it was being curbed by faulty loudspeakers.

In terms of smooth-talking, Mr. Pearson's big Toronto rally in Hotchkiss Shopping Centre didn't come off. When the loudspeaker system failed, and a hand microphone proved too light for the task, many of the milling supporters who turned out didn't hear a thing.

A shopping centre official estimated that between 18,000 and 20,000 persons thronged the square—two to three deep at the time. But only those nearest Mr. Pearson were able to hear him say:

"It doesn't really matter if I can't be heard, but that you have come out to help our candidates elected Nov. 8."

Mr. Pearson didn't know that Mr. Douglas was talking about concerned an NDP advertisement, and which some private television stations refused to show because it attacked Canadian institutions and advertising interests. He told some NDP supporters in a theatre that this group enjoyed supporting facts and curbing his party's freedom of speech.

HOISTS FLAG ISSUE

Meanwhile Conservative Leader Diefenbaker was in Ottawa Wednesday attacking the flag issue before some 3,200 persons in a nearly full arena.

He said that since June 1963 until nothing about a change in symbols, he said, and now the government has said they needed a majority to adopt some "unpopular" measures. He said the flag issue "was done in the last 24½ years, and could they possibly do that could be done overnight?"

He was speaking at an all-province rally for the 10 Conservative candidates in New Brunswick.

Speaking earlier in the day at Fredericton, Mr. Diefenbaker went to the city hall, signed the book and then held a press conference before speaking to Saint John with brief stops at Chatham and Moncton.

He told the press conference a Conservative government, with forced retirements in the armed forces and would pay a special $1,000 to servicemen who were hurt at the end of their regular terms.

IT'S 'MOST ABSURD'

Earlier Wednesday, Mr. Pearson said allegations that a Conservative government would conscript Canadians for military service in Viet Nam as the most absurd" he has ever encountered. He told a luncheon meeting of community leaders and newspaper editors after addressing a rally that the government has no intent of sending military forces to Viet Nam.

Mr. Douglas spoke in Hamilton Wednesday night after flying in from Alberta. He had a brief stop in Winnipeg where he made a statement on National Students' Day. He said it is in the power of the next Parliament to pass laws to curb all forms of higher education.

Canada cannot afford to lose the services of those who go to the United States "not merely for better salaries, but even more to find the opportunity to use their skills and knowledge."

NDP Candidate Visits Trenton In Campaign

TRENTON — Tjorld Hoskin, New Democratic Party candidate for Hastings South, met with members of the Royalty Players (the former Eastern Ontario Theatre Company) in Trenton last night, sat through a rehearsal, and complimented the members of the company on their initiative in developing acting and musical talents in this area.

Mr. Hoskin said that with the advent of automation, more leisure time would be available to workers, and that they must find outlets for this leisure time.

Not only would Canadians of acting and music have to enjoy the arts, but they would have time to develop latent talents in the field of sports, private television stations relax and allow because it attacked Canadian institutions and advertising interests. He told some NDP supporters in a theatre that this group enjoyed supporting facts and curbing his party's freedom of speech.

Male Grooming Field Growing Druggists Told

"The male grooming field is steadily growing and will soon be a major part of the drug, gift trade," Robert Young, son of the Shulton Company in speaking to the district druggists at their fall meeting at the Shrine Club on Wednesday evening.

The speaker was introduced by Harold Seldon and Mr. Thompson states the total revenue in the male field was 42 million dollars last year, up about seven million from the year before and a 10 per cent rise was expected this year. He stated that the drug store had the best male traffic of any line of business because men probably feel more comfortable in a drug store. He also stated that men are becoming more health conscious and that the youth market was growing rapidly. Mr. Thompson claimed that in his talk the future customer of the drug store will be the youth of the community. The speaker was thanked by James Barton.

William Jones of Picton, president of the district association, presided and Archie Boyd, the secretary, told of presenting bursaries at the commencement exercises, and reported that Bruce Latimer and Vincent Lee were soliciting for some time were improving.

Don Kemp, district representative at the Colling Co. Pharmacy, reported on his activities.

A question and answer period brought out many interesting discussions valuable to the drug trade. He notified the members that Jim Reynolds, field chief inspector, would be retiring at the end of the year and a successor would take over the inspection department.

Hoit Madill of Frankford presided at the meeting. Mr. Thompson, Mr. Kemp and Dave Grant, representative of the Shulton Company. James Barton held the winning ticket in the draw prize.

Steel Industry Will Benefit Says Benson

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—E. J. Benson, national revenue minister, said Wednesday night Canada's steel industry plans a three-year, $500,000,000 expansion program "to keep up with the increases brought about" by the new United States-Canada automobile agreement.

Mr. Benson made the remark in commenting on the effects of the auto agreement to about 100 delegates at a one-day industrial-municipal relations conference sponsored by the Lake Ontario Development Association.

He said the auto pact is an example of how Canada made sure it received "adequate compensation" for what it gave up.

Canada manufactures only half of all the cars purchased in the country, he said. To offset this, he said, Canada had to either adopt a policy of refusing to import cars, or accept the pact.

Under a no-import policy, the cost of Canadian - built cars would have been beyond the pocket of the average person, Canada chose free trade with a "built-in safeguard" of a $260,000,000 increase in annual production," he said.

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP)— Conservative administration of Conservative administration of Premier John Robarts of Ontario was credited Wednesday night with laying the groundwork for the present booming U.S. auto trade agreement.

Premier Robarts, Conservative member of Parliament for Oxford since 1963 and a candidate in next June's election, at a political rally here that the auto pact negotiated this year by the Liberal government on recommendations of a royal commission appointed by the previous Conservative administration.

"The Liberals didn't originate it, we did. Now they are trying to take the credit for it."

Mr. Nesbitt said Mr. Diefenbaker first recognized the problems of Canada's automobile industry in 1959 and appointed the Bladen commission to study means of lowering car prices and expanding the Canadian auto industry.

Rhodesian Talks

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain and Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith are continuing their discussions in Salisbury after an opening encounter which Mr. Smith termed a "good meeting."

Such a statement is in the grand, non-committal tradition of leaders who are grappling with problems of the utmost gravity, on the outcome of which the fate of nations and peoples—and in this case the entire Commonwealth—depends.

If Mr. Smith did not go into detail, at least he did not say the problems of Rhodesia were insoluble. In cold print the issues are simple: Smith, who leads the controlling minority of 220,000 whites is standing on the verge of a unilateral declaration of independence, while Britain, as the final arbiter in the affairs of its colonies, insists there can be no independence without guarantees that representatives of the country's 4,000,000 Negroes will eventually rule as the legitimate majority.

Smith himself is walking a tightrope. He said recently that the Rhodesian parliament has made up its mind in principle, and this was interpreted as meaning a declaration of independence was imminent. But with Mr. Wilson in Salisbury for a last-ditch round of talks the psychological moment for such a declaration seems to have passed. At this point can he afford to continue at all? Equally, Mr. Wilson is in no position to make many concessions. The whole integrity of the Commonwealth is at stake, for if Rhodesia's white minority government does decide to go it alone it could strike a mortal blow at the Commonwealth ideal.

Meanwhile, a personal message from Queen Elizabeth to Mr. Smith has helped to ease the tension in the Rhodesian capital. The Queen expressed her earnest hope that the discussions would be successful.

Another hopeful sign is a report that Mr. Wilson may unfold a plan for massive financial aid to speed Negro education and so help more of the colony's 4,000,000 Negroes to become eligible to vote.

This is a practical suggestion which could help break the deadlock in what is essentially an emotional approach to the whole problem. It is a course Britain might have taken long ago when it exerted a greater measure of control in Rhodesia than it does today. However, if Britain does extend such aid now it will be helping to fulfill its obligations to the colony as well as ensuring that an orderly transfer of power to the African majority may take place at some future date.

Blow to African Unity

In other developments on the African scene, another summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity has ended in Accra, Ghana, with no solid accomplishments.

Observers there say the conference was noteworthy more for those who did not attend than for those who did. Half of the 36 heads of state did not even send observers. Four leaders left for various reasons before the meeting ended.

As we noted recently, many African nations seem content to go their own way and in any event have problems enough to keep them busy without worrying about the ideal of African unity. The fact that the arch champion of Pan Africanism, President Nkrumah of Ghana, is not universally popular may have had a lot to do with the lukewarm response to the Accra meeting.

Another significant development is China's withdrawal from the Afro-Asian summit conference scheduled to open in Algiers November 5. This stems from its continuing estrangement with the Soviet Union, and specifically from its failure to keep conference sponsors from inviting the Soviets to send representatives.

This is as good an indication as any that Moscow and Peking are now poles apart ideologically and that the once awesome combination of the two is no longer a factor in cold war politics.

U. K. Shocker

The macabre discoveries in the desolate moorlands of the Pennine range near Manchester have shocked Britons. Four bodies of young children have been discovered and more are expected.

A man and a 23-year-old girl have been charged with the murder of one of the children, 10-year-old Ann Downey, who had been missing since last Christmas.

From the information revealed thus far, the affair seems to be developing into one of those peculiarly fiendish series of murders that periodically plague the British scene.

Some years ago there was the hideous case of Neville George Haig, the acid bath murderer, and there have been others equally appalling.

On this continent such happenings are almost unknown. Murders here are usually clean-cut affairs committed by conventional means like the knife or gun and often in the heat of the moment.

But Edgar Allan Poe never wrote anything half so ghoulish as the tale that is slowly unfolding amid the misty Pennines.

Many urban dwellers well supplied with running water, bathrooms, sewage disposal facilities and other conveniences probably have little conception of how few homes throughout the country are supplied with these devices. In a statement last week the President of Lever Brothers Limited, revealed how living conditions in moder ate and low-cost homes compare with each other in different parts of the country as a whole.

Women researchers found that Oxfam homes were amongst the poorest planned in Canada from the standpoint of getting sunshine indoors. Over a quarter of the homes in the cities and towns of Ontario need artificial light in some portion of the house during daytime. On farms one would expect spacious surroundings to allow sunlight but the facts are that 11 percent of Ontario farmhouses need lights during the day. Clustered outbuildings added to the main buildings are reported as the reason.

Repair work on the tower of the city hall has been completed and Jack Nabbs, the custodian of the city clock is now making arrangements to give the ancient timepiece a full time of day a complete checkup and overhauling; it will be the first time this has been done in 24 years. Sand and grit have accumulated in the works of the clock and have slowed up the mechanism considerably.

Crockery products from the Belleville Potteries manufactured for Cornwall, boney from the clover fields of Hastings County, 1,000 boxes of cheese and a large quantity of canned goods comprised the cargo on the steamer Glen Alden which she left this port today enroute to Montreal.

To Your Good Health

Love Is Vital Need Of Mental Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Five years ago I had a complete mental breakdown and was sent to a sanitarium. The condition had been building up for years of course. Later I was told I had schizophrenia.

After I had been there two months the doctor decided to give me electric shock treatments because I wouldn't or couldn't come out of my fugue dream world. I had three treatments a week for four weeks.

I believe this was the turning point in my illness. I don't remember the shock treatments cured me, because I still had several months of hard work ahead of me, but they put me on the right road.

Oh, they have their drawbacks, the same as everything else.

I wish I had the ability to tell you so I could tell people what it means to be mentally ill — how love and understanding are needed by the patient. Most of my family will not even admit that I was mentally ill.

Before I had the breakdown I would go home and get a razor blade and cut my legs. I will always carry the scars. I learned later that I was really trying to hurt the people who I thought were trying to hurt me.

Keep up the good work and try to make your readers understand that although someone is mentally ill he or she needs love more than ever. It might make the difference between coming back to reality, or staying in that nice safe dream world where you can't be hurt and nothing or no one can get to you. — Mrs. L. C.

I've been trying to present some of these same ideas, but people may learn more, hearing it from you, than from me.

First, the mental patient (at certain stages, and in many cases) is aware of his illness, and may, or may not, want to be cured.

Second, many patients strongly dislike shock treatment, and I can't blame them. Sure, there are yes, drawbacks. They are scary and can be uncomfortable. Let's not pretend that shock treatments are a picnic. Neither are some medications or operations. The point is that the benefits outweigh the discomforts.

Third, love is superlatively important. Relatives and friends may not fully understand what goes on in the patient's mind. How could they? Mental illness is, indeed, a very lonely experience. But love and helpfulness and consideration can make the difference between staying well after recovery, or slipping back into the secret dream world which is a retreat from reality.

Thank you, Mrs. L.C. for writing. Tomorrow I will print a letter of a different type of mental illness, a case that did not come out as well. It ended tragically. It, too, points a lesson

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the causes (other than menopause) of sudden feeling of intense heat, so I perspire all over my body for brief periods several times a day? And frequently on rising in the morning? Can medication relieve this? I am 43. — Mrs. R. G.

This description has all the classic signs of "hot flashes" which can be alleviated or prevented by medication. Offhand, I think of no other cause that fits this pattern. (Night sweats are another matter, and often are caused by some undiscovered infection.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I am engaged to a very nice man in his 60's. He will not drink for me, since six months at a time. Then when he does start, it lasts a week or two, or until he gets too sick. Is he an alcoholic? Would I help him if I married him? — E. L.

Certainly he's an alcoholic. A great many alcoholics follow this on-and-off pattern. I doubt that you could help him by marrying him. If he won't stay on the wagon before, he won't afterward.

Centennial Books Planned

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Canadian writers are going to be considerably involved on the fringes of the 1967 Centennial of Confederation program.

Some 15 or more books of various kinds are being commissioned or prepared by government departments. Some will be special editions of annuals or periodicals like the Canada Handbook and the Geology and Economic Minerals of Canada book which is published every 10 years.

There will be a volume devoted to the papers of Canada's prime ministers. Another will offer the Atlantic confederation debates 1864-67. Literature and Drama will be one, Music and Ballet another title of two 1967 books in the continuing citizenship series.

The parliamentary debates of 1867-74 will give a view of Canada in its formative years. A definite book on Hudson Bay will be published. Another will trace the story of Canadian ministeries since 1867.

Booklets in preparation cover the history of postage stamps and Canadian post services.

Why Prime Ministers and Ex-Prime Ministers Grow Old

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Notes from the Campaign Trail, — Turns out now that one of the best things Lester Gronnd did before retiring as National Conservative Organizer from the uproar of electioneering to the quiet of the Senate was to strike a blow for the preservation and preservation of prime ministers on the campaign trail.

With that Amazing-Grandfather-Who-Goes-Like-Zeemer, John "Perpetual Motion" Diefenbaker, has received a directive for the care and feeding of prime ministers on the political road.

If it was so sense-making and clearly calculated to keep the candidate from collapsing that the Liberals have been following most of its directions in the handling of Prime Minister Pearson.

The directive obviously wasn't received, for here again is Dief, that incredible old age pensioner, hale and hearty and going like he yet has to see 40.

Set out perhaps not altogether unlike the battle order of a general officer commanding to his unit officers in the field, the directive points up the point rather what must be done — and almost as important, not done — when the Prime Minister stumps into a constituency.

Since he usually campaigns only where the issue may be in doubt, these marching orders go to the constituency captains in the hottest areas of election action.

THE DRILL

Point: Dinner is one of the few times the PM is free for relaxation, so leave him alone with his wife to unbend. And unless there is flinty determination and clearance, make no arrangement for any intrusion at meal times. Of particular importance, there should be no private dinners at homes or elsewhere with special guests. In case of late arrivals or very early breakfasts, provide snacks for the entire entourage.

Point: No functions must be arranged after the close of the evening sitting.

Point: A regular daily work period must be scheduled for the Prime Minister's attention to the official responsibilities in communications with Ottawa," preparation of speeches and working papers and for rest." So unless there are "very special reasons," no breakfast may be permitted. Please remember that while the day of the Prime Minister's visit is a hectic one for you and all concerned, it is actually only one day for those in your particular area time as it may be — but for him it is still another in a succession of 40 days of hectic campaigning cities and hard campaigning.

Point: There have been occasions when the Prime Minister has been driven in cars that were not safe by any standards — "and the same applies to some of the drivers" — so make sure the cars are carefully selected and that they are professional or at least competent.

HELPFUL HINTS

Point: In providing accommodation line up a two or three-room suite for the Prime Minister and his wife. Special interest on which it would be "appropriate" for the Prime Minister to comment.

Point: While the Prime Minister's wife almost always will appear with him on the platform in certain "special" cases, arrangements in advance may be made for her to be "available" for teas and receptions when he is otherwise engaged.

Point: Don't concern the Prime Minister or his immediate aides with sudden last-minute arrangements. Leave it to a competent local representative of the provincial or national organization to assume full responsibility for any emergency trouble-shooting.

Point: Make sure the Prime Minister being "captured" by any one individual or special group at his public appearances — no member, the more you keep him from getting into the more hands he can shake and the more votes he may win for your local candidate.

And so it goes for 39 points.

No wonder Prime Ministers — and ex-Prime Ministers — grow old before their time.

What is needed is a concrete action to assess Canada's immigration requirements and to lay the groundwork necessary to meet them. The aim should be to obtain skilled and professionally-trained workers who can be trained by Canadian industry in a variety of skilled occupations.

Women Look Dashing in Riding Habit

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: When we attack a man as "radical" we should distinguish between those who are going in the wrong direction and those who are simply going faster than we care to.

A surprisingly high percentage of writers begin their careers as doctors or medical students, which indicates to me a fluidity between the clinic and the arts, and suggests that the practice of medicine must at least as much an art as a science — a factor forgotten by too many doctors who are obsessed with technique.

Anyone who buys a home decoration-or accessory as a "conversation piece" must be a terrible conversationalist.

Speaking of that, I have always liked the comment of Buyer-Lytton that "The true spirit of conversation consists in building on another man's observation, not in overturning it."

Why is it that women in riding clothes look dashing, while men in riding clothes (with few exceptions) look fatuous and affected? Also, it may not be without significance that pre-teen girls are absolutely mad about horses, while boys of the same age are generally cool to them.

Some weeks ago, I wrote a column about words that are inordinately important to the "causal" for "causal" — and should have added proper names that certainly important to the age: for instance, recently I mentioned Verdi's opera, "Otello," without some enterprising proofreader promptly changing it to "Othello."

The most discreet, and explicit, letter of reference I ever heard was a reply a friend of mine had written in answer to a reference on a former employe: "We have known Mr. X for a long time — employing girls is essential word of its proper content.

Except in such specialized locales as Italian street cafes, the accordion is an instrument that should be played by a man hearing the rest of my f

SMOG TAKES LIVES

An extra 4,000 people died during London's "Great Smog" of December, 1952.

Election Signs Vanish

Who's tearing down all the local candidates' election signs.

Is it the kids or the Conservatives, the lads, or the Liberals? Or maybe all of them.

In any event the signs, plentifully plastered on hydro poles and trees, are coming down, the latest instance being the almost complete disappearance of all candidates' signs and posters along Highland Ave. The posters disappeared during the night.

Local Liberals claim they are being accused by the Conservatives of tearing down Tory signs. But they say they haven't made any counter claims against the Conservatives.

"We have been so busy pulling up Liberal signs we haven't had time to tear theirs down," commented a Liberal committee worker.

This year by special permission of the utilities commission, federal election candidates are being allowed to place posters on hydro poles, and candidates have also taken full advantage of the many trees in the city.

But as has been the case along Highland Ave. the posters keep disappearing.

VOTERS' LIST

CITY OF BELLEVILLE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that I have complied with Section 9 of The Voters' List Act and that I have posted up at the City Clerks Office, City Hall on the 28th day of October, a list of all persons entitled to vote in the Municipality at Municipal Elections, also a list of persons entitled to vote under the authority of the Municipal Franchise Extension Act and that said lists remain there for inspection.

Persons who are aware of errors in said lists or of changes which have been rendered necessary by reason of death or removal of any person, and all citizens who have purchased property or become residents of the City, or who have changed their place of residence in the City since January 1st, 1965, should examine the lists to see that their name appears therein.

The time for making complaints as to errors or omissions shall be fourteen days from date of this notice.

DATED AT BELLEVILLE THIS 28th DAY OF OCTOBER, 1965

ADAM S. STALKER,
RETURNING OFFICER.

TAKE NOTICE THAT persons eligible to vote at the Municipal Elections are owners, tenants and persons over twenty-one years of age who have resided in the City of Belleville for the last twelve months next preceding the 1st day of January, 1965.

While the City Clerk's Department is responsible for the preparing of the Municipal Voters' List and does everything in their power to see that everyone eligible is on this list to vote, errors and omissions do occur and we, therefore, respectfully request that all citizens of the City of Belleville who deem themselves eligible to vote at the Municipal Elections to check with the City Clerk's Department to make sure their names are on the Voters' List. Please do not delay in making this check until Monday, December 6th, 1965.

ADAM S. STALKER,
RETURNING OFFICER.

U.C.W. Meetings

EASTMINSTER U.C.W.

The regular monthly meeting of Eastminster United Church Women was held in the church auditorium on October 20. The meeting took the form of a Thanksgiving potluck supper.

The small tables for dining were each centred with fall flowers and greenery, arranged in unusual tea pots and copper pieces. This was done by a member, Mrs. Ron Olesen. The women served themselves from an attractive buffet of salads, casseroles, home-made biscuits and desserts.

The dinner hour was enjoyed by all present and the clearing up was accomplished by each member doing a chore whose nature she found taped to the bottom of her plate.

Mrs. L. D. Read helped to plan the evening and kept things running smoothly throughout the dinner.

Mrs. Spence Wonnacott, the guest speaker, held the members fascinated with pictures of her travels throughout South America. Brazil was of interest to the U.C.W. members, as this is the country for study this year.

Mrs. Wonnacott was introduced by Mrs. L. D. Read and thanked by Mrs. Robert Lovering.

The president, Mrs. A. Glover, presided over the business meeting. It was reported that the coffee party netted $83.14.

It was agreed that one general meeting a month will be held, and the previously planned separate study club meetings will be abandoned.

A Christmas coffee party and sale will be held in December in place of the usual fall tea and bazaar. Mrs. W. J. Finesh, Mrs. H. R. Varcoe, Mrs. L. W. Lantz and Mrs. H. N. Britton, offered to convene this event.

A membership drive is to be undertaken, with everyone in the congregation to be contacted.

In the future, recommendations from the executive meeting will be printed and distributed to the members as they arrive at the general meeting. This is to enable the members to give a few minutes thought to the recommendations and have their opinions formed for the vote.

Members were invited to attend the U.C.W. regional rally.

Greetings were brought to the group by Mrs. H. Wood, from the past president, Mrs. J. A. Ham, who now lives in France. Mrs. Wood visited Mrs. Ham while travelling in France recently.

The devotions, on the Thanksgiving theme, were led by Mrs. W. N. Thrasp and Mrs. T. Hisey. The floral arrangements were presented to the several guests present.

ADD GLEAM TO LEGS

MONTREAL (CP) — Nylons decorated with loosely swinging to-and-fro jet beads were worn with some of the Italian originals at a dress show here. They attracted much attention but, as a customer remarked, the wearer might have trouble crossing her knees without getting hopelessly entangled.

CANNIFTON U. C. W.

Evening Unit.

The evening unit of Cannifton U.C.W. held its October meeting in the church on Monday evening.

The opening hymn was followed by responsive reading of a Psalm, and a prayer. The president, Mrs. D. Parks, welcomed the new members and guests. General business was carried out and plans made for the bazaar in November.

Mrs. Avery read a letter she had received regarding surplus Sunday school papers.

The worship service on the theme of Thanksgiving was conducted by Mrs. Rose Pound, Mrs. Roy Boyce and Miss G. Brenton. The invocation was given by Mrs. Pound and Miss Brenton gave a prayer of thanksgiving.

Mrs. Boyce gave a yardstick to measure true thankfulness for blessings. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Pound and Miss Brenton read a Thanksgiving poem.

Mrs. Boyce gave a talk on Thanksgiving and on the church's 113th anniversary. She told how the idea of Thanksgiving came from the Pilgrims. Miss Brenton closed with prayer.

The members packed candy for sale. Lunch was served and a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

SCOTT'S U.C.W.

6TH SIDNEY — Scott's United Church Women met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Faul for their October meeting. There were 26 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. Earl Dafoe was in charge of the opening worship service and the Bible study. The general theme was Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Grenville Sine was in charge of the program. By quotations from a report of the Scott Mission in Toronto she showed the real meaning of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. R. Elliott sang a solo. Readings were given by Mrs. E. Sine and Mrs. C. Frost. Mrs. Cameron Sine, president, then took charge of the business part of the meeting. Invitations were read from three U.C.W. groups to attend their teas and bazaars. They were from the Church on October 27th, Stockdale on November 3rd, and Wallbridge on November 24th.

Plans were made for serving meals at Belleville Sales' barn on November 2nd.

The women were advised to watch the program "On the Spot" which will be on C.K.W.S TV from October 25 to 29 starting at 11:35 p.m.

Christ Church W.A. Holds Centennial Tea

On entering Christ Church Parish Hall yesterday afternoon patrons were transported back 100 years upon viewing the typical dress of that era as worn by members of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the church, centennial tea and sale of handiwork was under the convenership of Mrs. W. Edwards.

Dressed in an 1865 ensemble, Mrs. A. J. Bongard, president of the group, assisted by the wife of the rector, Mrs. R. B. Wright, warmly welcomed the guests. The hall was appropriately decorated in keeping with the theme with large gold-on letters 1865-1965 depicting a century of church work.

The tea room where Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. E. H. Ingram invited the guests, was partitioned from the other portion of the hall with a novel fence of rope connecting golden spindles rising from matching containers. The entrance was scrutinelled with two stately standards of golden yellow mums and with each of the quartet guest tables with white cloths and centred with colored dollies. Serving the guests were members of the W. A. dressed in long sleeved white blouses and floor length black skirts and lace edged aprons, while other members all dressed in centennial" costumes mingled with the guests.

DECOR HIGHLIGHT

The highlight of the decor was a typical 1865 parlor, located on a platform heavily grounded with colorful tapestry. Strains of old familiar music could be heard from an old fashioned gramaphone. In keeping with the setting was an old spinning wheel, a corner what-not with frail figurines, a red velvet table cover, multi-color afghan and a number of other items, many of which were kindly loaned by Mrs. John Spencer. In charge of the display was Mrs. Jean Kilburn in appropriate costume of the era.

HANDIWORK SALES

A sale of handiwork was located as Ye Old Country Store which was divided into various sections including a children's corner with Mrs. A. Swain in charge; the handiwork convened by Mrs. H. Rose, assisted by Mrs. F. O'Connor and Mrs. P. Burton; the Nick-nacks section by Mrs. E. Green; the table of preserves by Mrs. F. G. Belsey, aprons and lace edged aprons, always a drawing card at all bazaars was the homebaking with Mrs. F. Copeland assisted by Mrs. F. Goodfellow, Mrs. A. V. Smith and Mrs. Bruce Pettit conducting the sales.

The decor for the event for which was most authentic in keeping with the centennial theme was in charge of Miss Frances Reid assisted by Miss Luella Morton and Mrs. Irene Reid. Taking tickets at the door were Mrs. L. R. MacInnis and Mrs. A. Cooper.

Taking care of kitchen duties was the convener Mrs. S. Beggs, assisted by a number of the members, while another group assisted with the serving and replenishing duties.

Home and School Association News

ST. MICHAEL'S P.T.A.

Mr. Albert Kroetsch, elected in June, president of St. Michael's Parent - Teacher Association, presided at the recent opening meeting for the current school year.

An exceptionally large crowd of parents visited the class rooms before assembling in the auditorium. After a brief business meeting, the vice - president, Mr. Gerald Cooper, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. F. B. Allore, B.A., M.Ed.

Mr. Allore is the recently - appointed inspector of separate schools in the Belleville district.

His address on approaches to the teaching of mathematics was interesting and enlightening.

Prizes for attendance were as follows: Academy, Sister Mary Leo's class, and Junior School Miss. McAvoy's class.

Refreshments were served by the social hostess, Mrs. Douglas Jones, aided by members of her committee.

What Women Are Doing

Tabernacle United Church Women

Mrs. B. Salisbury, President

Tabernacle United Church is celebrating its 150th anniversary this week and for almost as many years the woman population has been organized taking care of many and varied details of the local congregation and community and sharing in distant fields where the church has a wider work.

In 1961 when women of the United Church across Canada merged into one organization known as the United Church Women (U.C.W.) the various organizations of Tabernacle became one and 8 units were formed with an average of approximately 20 women in each unit.

The Units meet once a month for Bible Study and the New Curriculum and Mission Study which this year has been Brazil and Trinidad. The general U.C.W. meets once a month with varied programs. While the annual bazaar is sponsored by the Official Board of the Church the U.C.W. is exceptionally active in it. Another annual event has been the Cafe Art Show sponsored by Unit 1. This is of wide interest bringing participating artists from surrounding areas and a great deal of pleasure to the citizens of Belleville.

Besides the Presbyterian allocation U.C.W. accept a considerable allocation from the committee of stewards for the local church fund.

Women play a tremendous roll in any church and it was a great privilege for Tabernacle U.C.W. to lead the World Day of Prayer Service in their Church last February when women of every Christian domination in the city attended.

The U.C.W. Purpose is "To unite all women of the congregation for the total mission of the Church and to provide a medium through which they may express their loyalty and devotion to Jesus Christ in Christian witness, study, fellowship and service".

Holloway Street Church Sponsors Annual Bazaar

The ladies of Holloway Street United Church held the annual bazaar on Wednesday afternoon and evening. This is the one annual project in which every organization and member of the church participates and sunny skies aided and abetted the success of this large undertaking.

Due to the recent erection of the new church hall, the space available for the bazaar was much larger, and this was duly appreciated by the ladies of the church as well as the guests.

The booths, tastefully appointed in the Harvest theme, offered for sale handiwork of great variety and beauty. Many gifts for Christmas were displayed to solve the problems of the guests. The decorating was the work of Mrs. D. Richardson and Mrs. J. Jeffs.

The home baking table and delicatessen were in charge of the Energetic Club, convened by Mrs. L. Brown and Mrs. Frank Wilson; Apron table, in charge of Mrs. Coulter's group, convened by Mrs. G. Coulter and Miss I. Reid; country store, Mrs. C. Holmes' group, convened by Mrs. L. Thompson; fall flowers bouquets, convened by Mrs. C. Lowther and Mrs. G. Knight; children's clothes and doll clothes, Mrs. A. McMillan's group, convened by Mrs. H. Hutt and Mrs. R. Peake; sewing novelties, Mrs. C. Dobb's group, convened by Mrs. O. Denyes, and Mrs. L. Hendricks; white elephant table, convened by Mrs. A. Bartlett and Mrs. D. Cook, and in the evening by the Men's Club; candy, Mrs. Porte's group, convened by Mrs. T. E. Poste and Mrs. V. Bailey.

Mrs. I. Knight looked after the advertising and Mrs. G. DeMille and Mrs. J. Empey the tickets.

At the door Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. O. Outingdyke, Mrs. B. Chapman and Mrs. T. Ketchenson welcomed the guests in the early afternoon, followed by Mrs. T. F. Townsend, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. E. Prentice and Mrs. E. Kerruish. In the evening Mrs. W. Cone, Mrs. G. Carlisle, Mrs. T. Wilson and Mrs. A. MacMillan received.

INVITE TO TEA ROOM

Guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. F. Scott, Mrs. W. Townson, Mrs. A. Hitchon and Mrs. K. Parke in the afternoon, and in the evening by Mrs. W. Townson and Mrs. T. Poste.

Treasurers for the afternoon were under the convenership of Mrs. H. Dixon.

At a table covered by a beautiful lace cloth, centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and orange jack-o-lanterns, flanked by yellow tapers, Mrs. C. Holmes and Mrs. R. Jose poured during the early afternoon, Mrs. J. Dilts and Mrs. G. Dobbs from three-fifteen to four-thirty, and in the evening Mrs. C. Brethour and Mrs. D. Kellar did the honors.

The hostess was Mrs. J. Cordes, with Mrs. W. Ironside, Mrs. J. Bush and Mrs. K. Chamberlain were room convenors.

The ladies in charge of the kitchen were Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. C. Wannamaker and Mrs. K. Lewis, with Mrs. C. Batt and Mrs. J. F. McCorquodale in charge of tea and coffee.

General convenors of this delightful tea and bazaar were Mrs. A. C. Campbell, Mrs. D. Richardson and Mrs. W. Ironside.

The home baking table was backed by a recipe for a happy day, as follows: 1 cup friendly words; 2 cups (heaping) understanding; 4 tsp. (heaping) time and patience; pinch of warm personality, and a dash of humor. Mixing method — Mixture words carefully. Add heaping cup of understanding. Use generous amounts of time and patience. Add dash of humor and personality. Keep temperature low — do not boil. Season to taste with spice of life. Serve in individual moulds.

Quinte W.I. Holds Euchre

A successful euchre party was sponsored by the Quinte Women's Institute at the Memorial halls on Friday evening last.

Mrs. F. Bedell and Mrs. Charles Wood were the hostesses, and prizes were won by the following: ladies, Mrs. Harry Grills, Mrs. McNish; consolation, Nancy Clarke. Men's, Mrs. E. Woodack playing as man; Bob Ervin; consolation, Harry Grills; lone hands, Mrs. Feeney.

Lunch was served by the Institute members and a social time enjoyed by all.

No Reply To Request Is Received

TORONTO (CP) — L. B. Sharpe, employment relations director for the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, says he has received no reply to a request that the Halton County board of health give 21 public health nurses in the county bargaining rights.

Mr. Sharpe said Tuesday he wrote a letter on Monday, June 17 asking it to give the nurses bargaining rights so formally through "a letter of voluntary recognition." The request was made after earlier attempts to gain collective bargaining rights had failed.

The Nurses' Association of the Halton County Health Unit applied for certification last July, naming the County of Halton as the employer. The association was told in August that the county passed a by-law in 1962 excluding itself from the Labor Relations Act.

Section 38 of the act says a municipality, as defined in the Municipal Affairs Act, may declare that the Labor Relations Act does not apply to it in its relations with its employees.

The nurses then applied for certification and named the Halton County board of health as their employer. The Ontario Labor Relations Board scheduled a hearing for Aug. 31 but the county passed a bylaw Aug. 30 excluding the board of health from the Labor Relations Act under section 38.

Confronted with the new bylaw when the hearing opened, the OLRB deferred its decision and adjourned the hearing. The next step was Mr. Sharpe's letter to the board of health.

IODE Chapter Hears Reports

CAMPBELLFORD — Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. held their regular meeting in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening with Regent Mrs. W. A. Kingston in the chair.

Only 29 members were in attendance.

Formerly it had been decided to donate plank and cement benches to a park but due to difficulty in procuring the land of convenience two picnic tables are to be given instead. Arrangements are being made for the planting in the park of trees donated by Mrs. W. A. Kingston.

Bemersyde Chapter agreed to take charge of the lunch booth at the County Memorial Hospital Auxiliary bazaar. Those in charge will be Mrs. G. Carwell, Mrs. D. Grant, Mrs. D. Carwell and Mrs. M. Tanner.

Treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $347.70, loan fund of $832.76 and a visiting fund of $9.54.

Report of the visiting committee was given by Mrs. D. Carwell. Two members, one ill and one bereaved, had been called on. A visit was made by Mrs. Carwell to the local nursing home, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Kingston.

World affairs convener, Mrs. D. Grant, read an article on the 20th birthday of the United Nations on November 24.

Educational secretary, Mrs. E. Cryderman, reported the 1966 calendars had arrived and the price will be 50c. Awards totalling $50 will be presented at Commencement exercises at Campbellford District High School, November 8, by Bemersyde Chapter.

Services at home and abroad convener, Mrs. J. Trimble, reported clothing had arrived at headquarters, which had been sent by Bemersyde chapter. She outlined the extreme need in Korea and the Far North.

Membership convener Mrs. R. B. Bennett nominated Mrs. W. Stapley as a new member and Mrs. Bennett was unanimously accepted.

Echoes secretary, Mrs. W. Murray, drew attention to the fall edition of Echoes.

Hospitality convener, Mrs. E. Steffle, thanked the members for the help given to group 2 in their rummage sale. Mrs. George Vice leader of group 2, announced that $2.01 was their group contribution.

Group 2 under the leadership of Mrs. George Vice will have charge of the November meeting. Lunch was served by group 1.

NOW FACE TO FACE

BIG BRAS D'OR, N.S. (CP) — Nancy Edna Thompson of Ocean Age, Australia, crossed 12,000 miles of ocean and continent to visit her penfriend of 25 years standing for the first time. She has been exchanging letters for that long with Mrs. Daniel Campbell of this Cape Breton community.

WEDDING

PATRICK — STUPAK

FRANKFORD — An October wedding was recently solemnized at Currie Barracks, St. George's Chapel, Calgary, Alberta when Padre Johnston united in marriage Olga Katherine Stupak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stupak of Yorkton, Saskatchewan and Cpl. Paul Mervin Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Patrick of Frankford. Traditional wedding music was played by the organist.

The bride was attired in a white wool suit with shoulder veil and carried a white gardenia and red carnations on a white Bible.

The bridesmaid was Miss Hortice Halkwa of Yorkton, Saskatchewan who wore a green wool suit with gold trim, gold shoulder veil and matching shoes and a white gardenia corsage.

The groomsman was Mrs. Larry McInnis of Calgary, Alberta.

The wedding reception was held at Gasthaus Lounge, Calgary, Alberta.

For her wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a white suit with red accessories.

The couple will reside at Kingston where the bridegroom has been posted to Staff College.

Cpl. Patrick, of the Army Service Corps, has been stationed in Calgary for a year since his return from Saigon, South Viet Nam.

Ladies' Aux. ANAF Holds Regular Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the ANAF took place in the auditorium of Unit No. 220 on Monday.

The meeting was called to order by President Comrade E. Hickey.

Sick chairman Comrade E. Sills had been fairly active in visiting the sick and shut-ins. However, no serious illness was reported.

Entertainment chairman Comrade C. Fitzgerald reported banquets would be held in the near future, but had no definites except for the Remembrance Day banquet on November 11, when there is a potluck supper and an exchange of gifts.

Each member was asked to bring a small gift as in the past, and to the Ontario Hospital in Cobourg, so that some of the forgotten patients may enjoy a Merry Christmas.

Comrade Mary C. Buckley gave a brief summary of the recent Ontario Provincial Command meeting in Simcoe, to which she was a delegate, accompanied by Comrades E. Lundberg, M. Galbraith, P. Ronsky and A. Browning.

November 5th and 6th are Poppy tag days and all members are asked to help by volunteering their services.

READ C. W. L.

READ — The monthly meeting of the Read Catholic Women's League was held in St. Mary's Hall, Read last Thursday evening.

The first vice-president, Mrs. T. V. Corrigan, presided over the business portion of the meeting, after which Father W. Hamilton tintroduced the guest speaker, Mr. F. W. Allore, the Inspector for Separate Schools, who spoke on the new approach to mathematics. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Frank Coffey.

Rev. Hamilton showed films with accompanying records of the Children's Aid Society and their adoption service. This was followed by the serving of lunch and a social hour.

HOUR OF RECOLLECTION

On the Sunday afternoon a Holy Hour of Recollection for the Catholic Women's League was held in St. Charles Church, Read.

The sermon was given by Rt. Rev. J. J. Carley of Belleville. Rev. W. Hamilton led the recitation of the Rosary and the remaining portion of the service by Monsignor Carley, assisted by Father Hamilton.

A large number of visiting ladies from the Marysville Council also attended.

British Guiana Women Wed At Early Age

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian women of British Guiana often marry at 14 to 15, says Mrs. Dorothy V. B. Bayley, deputy minister of Georgetown's country's capital.

Here on a visit in connection with International Co-operation Year, Mrs. Bayley told an interviewer Wednesday she herself was married at 16.

She said some doctors consider that women in the tropics mature more quickly. Consequently, it seemed "a bit unfair" for the United Nations to try and establish 15 as the legal age for marriage.

But Mrs. Bayley feels, nevertheless, early marriage cuts off the flow of adolescence too soon, especially in "such a fun loving country" as here.

The deputy mayor said women can be found in every walk of life in British Guiana, and are increasingly in the forefront. Women are particularly prominent in music and art.

Country Manor W. A. Hears Report of Tea

The Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings Manor met for their regular meeting and birthday party on Monday last in the library of the Manor with an excellent attendance.

The vice-president, Mrs. F. Davidson conducted the business with all reports being given, which included a gratifying report from the tea and bazaar held recently at the Manor. Mrs. Yorke thanked all the ladies for their assistance at the tea, thus making it such a success.

The Walkridge Women's Institute kindly volunteered to send the customary birthday cards to the residents for the month of November. The monthly bingo party for the residents will be held October 10th, and as many members as possible are asked to be present to assist.

At the conclusion of the business the ladies met with the birthday cake, a pot-luck supper ally. She stressed that help is needed for that day. The Christmas party for the Auxiliary will be held November 15, the next meeting night. It will take the form of a pot-luck supper and an exchange of gifts.

Each member was asked to bring a small gift as in the past, and to the Ontario Hospital in Cobourg, so that some of the forgotten patients may enjoy a Merry Christmas.

Comrade Mary C. Buckley gave a brief summary of the recent Ontario Provincial Command meeting in Simcoe, to which she was a delegate, accompanied by Comrades E. Lundberg, M. Galbraith, P. Ronsky and A. Browning.

Legion News

(Col. Phay Wills Branch)

The October meeting of the Col. Phay Wills E-Serviceswomen's Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion was held in the Legion Hall Monday evening.

The president, Comrade Janet MacDonald, read favorable reports from the various committees. Speaking for the "Wars and Moods" committee Ina Rollins stated the "Hard Times" dance was an outstanding success and a rummage sale is planned for the near future.

Poppy sales will be conducted in Belleville November fifth and sixth from the Legion Hall. Comrade "Billie" Kirby invited all who could possibly assist to do so. The hall will be open to canvassers from . 4:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Friday and on Saturday morning from 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

At the present time the Poppy Committee has sold 278 wreaths in the city.

In conjunction with Remembrance Day the Branch is again sponsoring a Silver Cross Mothers' tea. Various dignitaries have been invited to meet these ladies who have lost a son or daughter while serving their country. Anyone knowing a Silver Cross Mother is asked to telephone Mrs. C. MacDonald 968-8014 as it is difficult to compile a complete list.

The annual bursary will be presented at B.C.I. by Comrade MacDonald on Friday evening.

Church Groups

ST. MARGARET'S LITTLE HELPERS

The annual gathering for the Little Helpers (Dept. of Family Service) of the Church of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill was held on Sunday afternoon. The children, from infants to seven years, with their parents, met in the church for a short service conducted by Rev. J. A. Dunlop. The children presented their mite boxes, the proceeds of which go directly to missions for the aid of children in Japan and Malaya.

The following seven-year-olds received graduation certificates: Ann Chandler, Julie Bishop, Richard Brown, Lynne Anne Brown, Mark Charlton, Robert Chase, Sheila Cowan, Mary Jane Dixon, Dale Grier, Sandra Guay, Cynthia Haggis, Shelley Jose, Daniel Karkhreck, Brian Leaming, Stephen Lindsey, Sandra Murray, Laura Nettleton, Carl Lindsey, Sandra Murray, Laura Nettleton, Carl Nishamura, Janice Taylor, Lee Ann Thomlinson and Kathryn Vosper.

Parents and children enjoyed refreshments in the Church Hall as guests of the Women's Auxiliary.

Care for Elderly, Chronic Patient Well Discussed

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Services now available to our aged and chronic patients are scattered and fragmentized, with the result that their frustration and bewilderment is aggravated and unedified rather than relieved," says J. S. Lockie of Windsor, Ont.

Superintendent of Riverview Hospital, Mr. Lockie was one of a panel discussing problems of care for the elderly and chronic patient on the final day Wednesday of the three-day Ontario Hospital Association convention.

He said even the use of the word chronic should be abolished. People feel a chronic hospital is the end of the road. They will put off going there until they become emergency patients and complicate their difficulties.

Mr. Lockie said communities should find ways to co-ordinate health and welfare services for the chronically ill and provide more places to care for patients who do not need both in chronic or general hospitals but who have nowhere else to go.

DESCRIBES JOB

Marjorie Bradford described the information and service bureau of the health department in Ottawa, which she directs.

She said she thinks their most important function from many patients' points of view is providing them with someone to look after their physical and other personal needs through treatment and moves from hospital to hospital.

Miss Bradford said her bureau works, with about 1,000 patients a year, placing them in boarding care, nursing homes, providing them with various kinds of assistance, keeping personal continuity, so they can stay in families or by themselves in the community.

She said money is not a problem for all of these cases, but a need for someone not merely to suggest what to do but to help them keep appointments with doctors, get medicines and go for treatments.

LIKENED TO RACE

Elizabeth Gray, director of social services at the Kingston General Hospital, said: "The progress of some elderly patients to the appropriate haven might be likened to an obstacle race. One hurdle is economic. It is economically much more advantageous to be ill than to be decrepit."

She is one reason patients should find ways to co-ordinate health and welfare services for the chronically ill and provide more places to care for patients who do not need both in chronic or general hospitals but who have nowhere else to go.

MUSHROOM BUTTER SPREAD

Mark this recipe for the upcoming entertainment season. It is Mushroom Butter Spread. Some of you will recall this product sold in Canada more than 25 years ago in 6-oz. cans made by Mary Miles Foods. My sisters and I were the owners of this business and together we created the products which included Mary Miles Chili Con Carne which is still sold on Canadian markets.

My sister Peady came into my office to plan refreshments for a Press Club executive meeting. She said, "I bought some beautiful mushrooms and I thought they would be good in a mushroom spread." I said, "Do you want me to leave my typewriter and both of us make it right now?" "Yes!"

Like a couple of fire horses jumping at the ring of the bell we two went to work in my kitchen with Peady at the store and me at the grinder. This famous recipe comes to you straight from the sources' mouth!

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Roast Stuffed Chicken (Save leftover chicken for Saturday's Chicken Chop Suey); Cream Gravy; Mashed Potatoes; Cauliflower Polonaise; Celery Hearts and Radish Roses; Fruited Jelly; Matrimonial Squares; Coffee.

SUNDAY
(Guests)

Broiled Sirloin Steak with Mushroom Butter Spread (see Thurs.); Creamed Leeks; Julienne Green Beans; Tomatoes Stuffed with Cabbage Salad on Lettuce Leaves; Simplified Cheese Cake (see Wed.); Tea.

MUSHROOM BUTTER SPREAD:

1 lb. fresh firm mushrooms, ¼ cup butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion (raw or bottled), 1 tablespoon chopped parsley (fresh or bottled); 1 beef bouillon cube, 1 cup boiling water, ¼ teaspoon curry powder, ½ teaspoon accent, 1 tablespoon brown gravy maker (granules), 4 tablespoons flour, 5 tablespoons cold water.

Scrub mushrooms, drain them and put through medium knife of grinder. Melt butter in large frying pan, add mushrooms and onions and parsley and gently saute until soaked with butter but not brown at all. Remove from heat. Dissolve beef bouillon cube in boiling water. Mix together to a smooth paste the curry powder, accent, gravy maker, flour and cold water. Add bouillon cube liquid to mushrooms in pan and return to heat and stir in the flour paste until thick. Remove from heat. Cool. If desired, this may be stored in covered jar in refrigerator for as long as a week.

NOTES:

1) To make it up into rolled sandwiches to be toasted, spread Mushroom Butter Spread, not too generously, on crustless slices of bread and roll them up like little logs or diagonally and place on broiler pan and toast them under hot broiler until golden and serve in napkin-lined bread basket, straight from the oven. 2) As you can imagine, Mushroom Butter Spread is at its best hot and one of our friends thinks it is super spread thinly on broiled steaks 1 minute before the steaks are done. 3) Naturally Mushroom Butter spread hardens when refrigerated because of its butter content, but this melts on heating and gives this spread its delectable mouth - watering popularity.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Laura Minaker on October 23.

The Experts Say
Chairman's Role Is Vital, Good One Is Rare Indeed

By JEAN SHARP

Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Efficient organization of a club meeting begins before the meeting. The people who will be attending should have, if not a complete agenda, at least a general list of what will be done.

If it is called to discuss something special, the minutes of the previous meeting and any relevant reports and information might be included with the notice of meeting. The people coming should not have an excuse for being unprepared.

"Then the most important person at the meeting is the primary official, the president or chairman," says Geoffrey Stafford, secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade and author of a book called The Conduct of Meetings.

"A good chairman is a rare bird and most valuable. You can't tell anybody how to do it. Perhaps the most important element is the psychological one. Make it clear as pleasantly as possible that you are in charge and will stay in charge as long as the formal meeting is in session."

KEEP RULES SIMPLE

Mr. Stanford says formal parliamentary procedure may be unnecessary, too formal for many groups.

"Find a mean between informal conversation and parliamentary procedure. Find an acceptable pattern which is efficient for you. You should have in writing the aims and objects of the club how it is to function. Then choose a president or someone with the authority and ability to see that the charter is adhered to.

"You can get so involved in procedure you don't get anything done. It's just a game. A few simple rules are all you need."

Mr. Stanford has some suggestions for the chairman faced with talkers.

"The answer is in keeping a tight rein but doing it pleasantly. Bad temper doesn't usually arise at a club meeting.

"If someone gets up to talk too often, say the meeting is pressed for time and can hear from any individual only once.

"Usually the long-winded person who talks too much is long-winded because he's got off the track. The chairman at that point should say, 'Please restrict remarks to the subject under consideration.'

"If a debate breaks out among members insist on observance of the rule that all remarks must be addressed through the chair.

"People are there for a purpose and you shouldn't allow anything to divert them from the purpose. Now and again it becomes necessary to be ruthless. If someone is going to try to run away with the meeting, you might have to tell her firmly to sit down and shut up."

ENCOURAGE DEBATE

Mr. Stanford says the reverse can be the worse problem. What do you do if no one says anything?

"Do a little pump-priming. If you know someone there has views ask her for them.

"If there is little discussion, you may get an improper conclusion from the group and the guy who said nothing will get three or four people in the hall afterward and tell them what should have happened.

"Sometimes you should just get past a topic if you know that no one is saying anything because it isn't interesting.

"If you know they haven't thought about it, defer it to another meeting. That's where your agenda comes in. They should have thought.

"Incidentally, if you have members in the group who don't know one another it is a valuable thing to introduce them at the beginning. People sometimes feel shy about talking when they don't know who other people are."

Mr. Stanford says when the agenda is complete and the chairman is satisfied that there is no new business, she may just declare the meeting closed.

"You don't need a motion for adjournment and you don't have to accept any suggestion that you discuss new business. It might be inappropriate if people are not prepared to discuss it."

Transportation Costs Will Be Paid by Govt.

SARNIA (CP) — Good news came Tuesday for the family of 19-year-old Diane Vautour, the first child to survive a kidney transplant operation in Canada.

The Ontario government announced it will pay transportation costs for Diane and her mother, Mrs. Gerald Vautour, to Montreal for the next year.

"I am really happy to hear the news," said Mrs. Vautour. "Now our family can get back to normal."

Diane received the kidney transplant operation at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital May 25. She returned home Oct. 1 but must go to Montreal for treatment every three weeks for the next five years.

Mr. Vautour, a carpenter, estimates that Diane's illness has cost him more than $5,000 in 11½ years.

Service clubs, trade unions and citizens have contributed to a fund started for the girl by the Sarnia Observer.

"One illness has made a financial cripple out of us," said Mrs. Vautour.

More than $1,500 was raised by the fund.

PLAN PROGRAM

J. Ralph Knox, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Lambton West, said Ontario Health Minister Dymond has started to map out a program that will continue to provide transportation expenses for as "long as is necessary."

Mr. Knox said the fund still is necessary to pay for drugs and other necessities Diane needs.

Diane's ordeal began in 1954 when she tried out for field day activities at school. Two days later she became ill and was taken to hospital in Sarnia. She was transferred to hospital in London, Ont., where doctors removed one kidney that had never developed from birth.

The other kidney was functioning at only 17 per cent. She was always tired because the kidney was sapping her strength.

Montreal surgeons replaced the missing kidney in a 3½-hour operation. Later Diane underwent an exploratory operation and doctors removed her remaining original kidney, which had been left in case the transplant failed.

Diane's attendance at school is restricted to half days and she must remain inside during recess. Even a slight bump could mean serious complications.

MUST PICK POINT

MONTREAL (CP)—"The individuality of a face must never be erased by make-up," says a Montreal stage and screen "visagiste" Jacques Lafleur. It is wrong to work towards an ideal shape or look, he says. "Every woman has a definite focal point to her face, and failure to emphasize it can make a pretty woman look plain."

Teacher Using Fortune To House Homeless Boys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Her spare time and modest savings were the seeds Ettie Lee used to start a $3,000,000 fortune—all she spends on homeless boys.

Miss Lee, 79, a retired Los Angeles school teacher, and an aunt of the U.S. secretary of the interior, Stewart L. Udall, earned the money investing in real estate over the last 35 years. All her profits go to the Ettie Lee Homes Inc., the 14 ranches for boys she maintains. She lives on her teacher's pension.

Her explanation:

"As a teacher, I noticed quite a pattern in boys having difficulties. They were boys who didn't have a good home situation.

"This is a man's world. It takes a man to develop a boy into a man. Ninety per cent of the boys in trouble were from homes where there was no strong male figure in their lives.

"I tried to find homes for these boys, but I was unsuccessful. So I made up my mind then that I'd have to be like the little red hen and do the job myself."

SAVED MONEY

This meant she'd need plenty of money, and she never made more than $300 a month as a teacher But she saved what she could.

Her first real estate deal came in 1930, when she paid $1,000 for a lot in the Wilshire district.

"I sold it two years later for $5,000" she recalls.

Then she began looking for larger investments.

"I must have bought and sold 50 apartment houses since I started operating," she said. "Each time, I would use my profits to put a down payment on a larger property. When I could make a profit of $2,000 or so, I'd sell it."

But everything didn't always come up roses. "I've pulled some dreadful boners," she admitted.

Still, her plans for boys' ranches were booming. By 1950—four years after she retired from teaching—she had enough resources for her project. She says that when she dies her estate will go to continuing the projects.

"Actually," she said, "it began acquiring my sites for the homes at the same time I was buying apartment houses. All the home sites are at least five acres."

She said it cost from $40,000 to $50,000 to build each home, explaining:

"I build big houses. I don't want institutions. A boy has to feel he is part of a family, that he is loved and wanted and that he is a person. He can't get this in an institution."

Miss Lee hires Mormon couples—her own faith—to run the homes, which, however, are non - denominational. Each houses 10 to 12 boys 12 to 17 years of age.

Asked if any of her boys turn out failures, she replied:

"We don't ring the bell every time, but we ring it quite often."

Laymen Day Observed At Rawdon

RAWDON — Rawdon charge observed Laymen's Sunday at Mount Pleasant United Church last Sunday with members from Bethel and Wellman's in attendance.

Memorial flowers in memory of Mrs. Charlas Bedford, whose funeral was held in Campbellford on Thursday, were placed in the church.

Ralph Jeffs, president of the Rawdon AOTS Men's Club, presided, and Mrs. Craig Watson was organist. The devotional was in charge of Lyle Couch and Craig Watson. The men's choir sang a selection. Others assisting with the service were Bert Sharp and Larry Jeffs.

The president introduced Donald Williams of Belleville, past president of the Laymen's Foundation and Clerk of the Session at Bridge Street United Church. He had a part in forming the Quin-Mo-Lac Camp for youth work. He based his message on the theme, "Where Is God?" The congregational hymns and Bible readings were based on the same theme.

The pastor, Rev. W. C. Cox closed the service.

Ann Landers

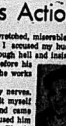
Wife Accuses Falsely, Now Regrets Action

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a wretched, miserable woman who let my imagination run wild. I accused my husband of things that were not true, put him through hell and insisted that he fire his secretary. I shamed him before his friends, his family and the people he works with.

I have always had trouble with my nerves. This past year was my worst. I felt myself losing control. Whenever my husband came home from work a half hour late I accused him of having an affair with his secretary. Finally I gave him a choice — either fire his secretary or face a nasty divorce. He dismissed her that very week and has not mentioned a word about it since. I know now he did it because he couldn't bear to lose the children.

Three months have passed and I realize I was mistaken. I want to go to his woman and apologize and ask her to come back. My husband says I've done enough and to leave things alone.

My conscience is killing me. Can you help? — SO SORRY.



ANN LANDERS

* * *

DEAR SORRY: It would be an act of charity if your husband would allow you to go to his former secretary and apologize and ask her to return to the office. Even if she refused to return it would help clear the air and you would feel better. I hope he will reconsider.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 17 and a high school senior (male). My parents and I do not see eye to eye on a very important matter.

I had a wonderful job all summer which I enjoyed thoroughly. Now that I'm back in school, my boss wants me to work from 4 to 8 p.m. and on Saturdays. I'd love to, Ann, but my parents said no. They are afraid it might ruin my grades and hinder my chances for getting into a first-class college.

I am very unhappy about their decision. I'm sure I could handle the job and still do well in school. Will you please give me your ideas on this? — METUCHEN-ITE

* * *

DEAR M.: Some kids can handle both school and part-time job. Others can't. I recommend a trial period. If your grades slip, the job must be given up.

You sound like a winner to me.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife's mother is a very sweet person who never gets in anybody's way. She is getting on in years, however, and I'm afraid she has a few gals flying around in her belfry.

Granny tells our children (aged 10 and 8) that they have "upper class" blood in their veins and they should be very proud. She has told them they are descendents of Christopher Columbus. We are all Swedes, Ann. Apparently Granny doesn't know Columbus was Italian. She has show them an opal ring which she says Columbus got from Queen Isabella. The 8-year-old wants to take the ring to school and show it to her class.

My wife insists these little stories are harmless — that kids love to use their imagination and that I should keep out of it. Well, I happen to think it's more serious than that. I don't want our kids to go around believing a lot of poppy-cock. What do you advise? — A COMMONER.

* * *

DEAR COMMONER: Tell the kids that Granny enjoys telling stories but the stories are not actually true. Ask them to listen as they would to a fairy tale — just for the fun of it. And keep that opal ring out of school.

* * *

Confidential to USED AND ABUSED: Of course he won't get out of your life — why should he? He's never had it so good. So why don't you get out of his?

* * *

Are you at war with your parents? Do they have too much to say in your life? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

OW IS THE HOUR

Dear Susanna: Uh, uh! Don't tch that power mower! At ast not until you have wint-ized and "springerized" it, r experts advise that now's e time. Check for needed re-irs and avoid the spring rush the shops. Be the first to set ot on the greenery when it eeds its first cutting.

Some added tips for prorat-nators before the long c o l ghts set in, are: clean and oil aur mower to prevent rust-ig; empty the gas tank a nd un off any gas that may be ft in the carburetor. And do ive a thought or two to the oor old spineless garden hose. Hang him up carefully, avoid-ing any sharp bends or painful kinks. Be sure there's no water left inside him to freeze or he may become as uncomfortable that he will burst right through his skin. — Housewife.

HIGH HATS

Dear Susanna: One can make very elaborate hats for teenage-type dolls by using one section of an egg carton for a f o r m and then covering it with bits of lace, tulle, or scraps of mater-ial. — M. A.

Slip a snug fitting brim over the crown and cover that too — she'll be the girl-to-remember at any garden party! — SUSANNA

U. C. W. Hold Old-fashioned Tea, Bazaar

RAWDON — On Wednesday afternoon about 180 people at-tended the old-fashioned tea and bazaar sponsored by the Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Women in the church hall.

The September and October group of the U.C.W., under the direction of Mrs. Robert Pat-rick, planned the event and most of the members assisted.

Mrs. Harry McAdam, presi-dent of the U.C.W. and Mrs. W. C. Cox, wife of the minister, welcomed the guests as they ar-rived. Mrs. Will Jeffs and Mrs. Ross Jeffs were the treasurers at the door.

The Mount Pleasant women were dressed in costumes of by-gone days, some of which were from 100 to 140 years old. The hall was decorated with maple leaves, antique pictu-es, tapestries, quilts and articles used in houses before the turn of the century. A large bouquet of cut flowers and six long-stemmed red roses added beauty.

RURAL STORE

The Rural Economic Store was in charge of Mrs. Gordon Linn and Mrs. Herbert Smith. Two large flower stands dis-played a variety of potted plants and vegetables. This table was laden with bags of popcorn, homemade candy, apples and vegetables of all description.

Granny's Bake Shop was in charge of Mrs. Milford Wright-man, Mrs. Raymond McConnell and Mrs. John Talsma.

The gifts and apron table was in charge of Mrs. Thomas Saries, Mrs. Stanley Williams and Mrs. Percival Knight. A number of novelties were artis-tically displayed, including crocheted doilies, children's clothing, pot holders, oven mitts, towels and aprons.

The tea room was arranged with quartet tables centred with plates of fresh fruits. Each table held a jar of jam and one of honey, along with a plate of butter. Baskets of muffins were served. The tea room was convened by Mrs. Grant Hubble, with Mrs. Burton Sharpe assisting.

Soft piano music was pro-vided during the afternoon by Mrs. Carleton Potts, Mrs. Mac Sharp and Mrs. Garth Joslin.

The special prize for the grandmother with the most grandchildren was awarded to Mrs. Ira Bristol of Springbrook who has 26 grandchildren.

ANTIQUE DISPLAY

The highlight of the after-noon was an antique display. Nothing here was for sale, but the guests enjoyed viewing the large arrange of articles. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and Mrs. Percy MacMullin were on hand to answer questions. One long table was covered with house-hold items used 100 years ago. On another table was arranged dishes of every kind in glass, painted china and old clover leaf patterns, and heirlooms be-longing to people in the com-munity.

The walls were hung with embroidered quilts and child-ren's baptismal dresses. A com-plete dresser and toilet set, three rocking chairs, school pictures of students at the Al-lan School 70 years ago, books, family albums, a wedding out-fit of 1864 and shawls of 1850 vintage were on display.

The group in charge report-ed the old-fashioned tea and bazaar was a successful ven-ture.

Church Groups

BAPTIST CHURCH
YOTA VITA MISSION CIRCLE

The October meeting of the Yota Vita Mission Circle was conducted by Mrs. W. Soble, president, with Mrs. A. Gasley leading the opening song-ser-vice. Business and reports were dealt with, and it was decided that Monday, November 1st, was the date of the annual Bap-tist World Day of Prayer, which will be held, for local Baptist women, in Em-manuel-Baptist Church at 2.30 p.m., with cars leaving Victoria Avenue Baptists, Church at 2 p.m.

The group voted to donate, as their Christmas project, a fi-nancial gift to both the Ochweg-an Indian Sunday School and the new church in Gibsons, B.C. Mrs. W. Hales and Miss Marjorie Hales gave brief re-ports on the fall rally held re-cently in Peterborough. Mrs. A. Wynne reported on mission work being carried on in Viet Nam, and read a letter from nurse Miriam Ross who is still working among Anglian refu-gees in the Congo.

Mrs. W. Hales' group was in charge of the program, which took the form of a panel dis-cussions entitled, "New Patterns for Women's Work in the Chang-ing World." Noting that church women have pretty much fol-lowed the pattern cut out for them 100 years ago when wom-en's mission groups were first begun, and recognizing the great results, the group never-theless realized that changes in modern life affected the pattern and have to be considered. Wor-king women cannot support many of the church meetings, but it was noted that they should be taking the church into the world in which they work. Younger women look for a group to which they can go with the husbands, and so the opportunity for coup-les clubs, with programs that include missionary ed-ucation is available. Senior circles which do not receive "graduates" from younger cir-cles face the necessity of dis-banding unless some system of integration of all age groups can be formed. As Baptists, the members took an appreciative glance at the new pattern the women of the United Church are wearing today.

When the panel concluded its discussion, the audience quickly added their comments, and this period of self-examin-ation and criticism was most stimulating. While paying trib-ute to the excellent work of the three women's organiza-tions in the church, it was felt that the areas not being touched should receive attention and action. This discussion lingered through the social time which followed.

Politics "Fascinating Thing" Says Irma Douglas of NDP

By STEPHEN SCOTT

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Irma Douglas turned off the world series game on the television set, eased back in her rocking chair and talked politics.

Sprinkled through her com-ments during the half hour were such statements as:

—"I just love politics."

—Politics is a pretty fas-cinating thing, really."

—"Politics can be terribly exciting."

Not very surprising remarks from the wife of T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, a man who has spent 30 of his 35 married years as an elected representa-tive.

Except that Mrs. Douglas was talking as a spectator ra-ther than a participant; as a woman who prefers to remain in the shadow of her husband as he stands in the national political spotlight.

She declines almost all invita-tions to speak and confesses a certain fear of saying some-thing that would be embarrass-ing to her husband and party.

During the Nov. 8 federal campaign, as in countless cam-paigns in the past, she will be in the constituency while Mr. Douglas is in the hustings. However, she will join her hus-band for the last major swing through the country.

She says she believes one member of the family should be in the riding, Burnaby-Co-quitlam, while the other is away. She attends coffee parties and visits campaign headquarters but emphasizes that she does not run the cam-paign.

PROVES INDISPENSABLE

Perhaps not, but she evi-dently does enough to convince her husband she is indispens-able to his career.

The role of politician's wife is "no picnic," Mr. Douglas said at a celebration in Van-couver marking his 30 years in politics. "Her unfailing good humor and quiet courage have made it possible for me to carry on during 30 years. . . . Without her co-operation and help it would not be possible."

A petite woman with fine hair, twinkling eyes and a ready laugh, Mrs. Douglas is described as "charming" and a "hard worker" by party workers. And although she prefers to stay in the back-ground, they say her political knowledge is as good as, or better than, that of most can-didates, a compliment she mod-estly disputes.

Mrs. Douglas was inter-viewed in the small apartment the Douglases maintain in the riding; their main home is in Ottawa. She said she likes housework and takes pride in running their home to suit the needs of her busy husband.

But she also finds time to slip into the Commons gallery to listen to debates, reads news-papers from across the country in the parliamentary reading room and pores over Hansard.

She takes the long view of politics, saying: "You keep looking forward to the day when this will happen or that will happen. The time will come when there will be an NDP government. I don't know whether it will have that name but it will stand for the ideals the NDP stands for. Until the NDP forms the government, it will continue to be the con-science of the government in power."

Irma Kay Dempsey was born in Carberry, Man., in 1911, the daughter of a farmer. When she married a young Baptist minister named Tommy Doug-las in 1930 she had little interest in politics.

PIONEERS IN CCF

But the Douglases were among the first members of the CCF, forerunner of the NDP.

"It was just something that happened," she says of the rapid growth of their political conscientiousness. They lived in Weyburn, Sask., for a time dur-ing the Depression and she says the "dreadful" conditions of the disabused farmers helped fan their interest.

Mr. Douglas ran unsuccess-fully in the 1934 Saskatchewan election. The next year, he was elected to the House of Com-mons and except for a period in 1961 when he took over the NDP leadership and lost a fed-eral election in Renfrew before winning a byelection here, he has been an elected represen-ta-tive ever since. He was premier of Saskatchewan from 1944 to 1961.

The Douglases have two daughters and Mrs. Douglas admits that bringing up chil-dren is the most difficult of all things, for a family in politics. The father is away much of the time, schooling is a problem when part of a year is spent in Weyburn, Sask., for a time dur-ing the Depression and she says the "dreadful" conditions of the disabused farmers helped fan their interest.

"Sometimes you wonder if it's too great a price to pay. But you can't wait until the children grow up to enter poli-tics. It's something you have to do."

FASCINATED BY POLITICS — While Tommy Douglas tours the country as national leader of the New Democratic Party, his wife Irma (above) works in his constituency of Burnaby-Coquitlam. Although party workers say her political knowledge is as good, or not better, than most candidates, she prefers to stay in the background. She admits she is fascinated by politics and was among the first members of the CCF, forerunner of the NDP. (CP Photo)

Women's Institutes

CHATTERTON W. I.

The October meeting of Chat-terton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Cyril Gardner with a good attend-ance. The meeting opened in the usual manner. Mrs. William Dickson gave a reading.

Mrs. Gerald Irvine introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Leslie Finkle, the district president. She spoke on "How Do You Rate as an Institute Member." She said a home means work, but it also means fond memories of one's family, and a successful job of home making is a com-munity service. She suggested the Institutes have interesting meetings to attract new mem-bers. Mrs. Mills thanked the speaker.

Leslie and Nicki Gardner sang one selection and were joined by their mother in a trio.

Mrs. Lorne Reid gave a short talk on her trip to the United States. Several poems were read and a quiz was enjoyed, before lunch was served.

RANGER, CADET CONFERENCE

Pat Howe of the 1st. Belle-ville Land Rangers attended the International Ranger and Cadet Conference held in Ot-tawa last weekend. The theme of the conference, "Side by Side", was exemplified by the presence of Rangers and Cadets from all parts of Ontario and Senior Girl Scouts from the Thousand Islands and New York State. Also 150 people were present for the two day convention.

Most of Saturday was spent in discussion groups. Among the principle topics debated were those of growth and unity of service, and of the national and international role of Rang-ers in the modern world. The American Girl Scouts were a great asset to the conference and gave many valuable sug-gestions on how to develop an interest in Rangering in Can-ada.

Highlight of the program came at the luncheon on Sun-day when Sister Andrew of the Grey Nuns, a professor at Ot-tawa University, spoke on the role of women in the world.

Delegates also enjoyed a bus trip around Ottawa, a tour of the Parliament Buildings and a hootenany led by a group of Ot-tawa folk singers

BAYSIDE GUIDE HIKE

Patrol leader Wendy Jones of the Bayside Guides with assist-ant leader Joan Moase, was in charge of a hike along the Bay of Quinte. Each leader was in charge of two Guides. The girls were Lisa Durrant, Cheryl Barr, Christine Jones and Helen Ketcheson.

They met at the beach and cooked their dinner. Captain Michaud and Mrs. Joan Boggs inspected their work and Patrol Leader Wendy Jones passed the inspection test.

U.C.W. Meetings

Mount Pleasant-Rawdon U.C.W.

RAWDON — The October meeting of the United Church Women was held last week in Mount Pleasant - Rawdon church hall with an attendance of 22 adults and two children. The decorations on a Thanksgiving theme featured fruit and yellow pumpkins.

Mrs. Harry McAdem, president, extended a welcome to all. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver was pianist for the Thanksgiving hymns.

Mrs. William McAdam gave the financial statement and Mrs. Raymond McConnell read a message of thanks. Reports of the fourth Regional Rally held recently at Church's Ferry were given by Mrs. Milford Wrightman and Mrs. Herbert Smith. Nominations for presbyterial officers were submitted. Mrs. Herbert Wrong gave a summary of the plans made for the old-fashioned tea to be held next week after a birthday supper to be held later in the month.

The program committee for November will be composed of Mrs. John Morgan and Mrs. Clarence Deacon.

The program was arranged by the president and Mrs. Garth Judd on the theme of Thanksgiving. Miss Annie Holmes read the Bible and Mrs. Judd read the prayer. Solos by Mrs. Thomas Sarles and Mrs. W. C. Cox sang solos and Mrs. Ira David and Mrs. Garth Hubble read selections. Mrs. Robert Hoard gave the Bible study based on the story of Martha and Mrs. Marquerite McMullen conducted a singsong of hymns. Others assisting with the devotional were Mrs. Wilfred McAdam, Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. Robert Merrick.

Mrs. Allen Reid and Mrs. Milford Wrightman served refreshments.

J. W. Holmes Celebrates 80th Birthday

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant United Church Women entered for a dinner in the church hall on the occasion of the 80th birthday of John W. Holmes last Saturday. The dinner was sponsored by the family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holmes of Pembroke and Mrs. Clifford Holmes of Kingston. Thirty-five guests were in attendance.

Following the dinner, a birthday cake decorated with 80 gold candles was cut. Rev. W. C. Cox was master of ceremonies for a short program.

Mrs. Clifford Holmes of Kingston was pianist and Mrs. W. C. Cox led a sing-song. Brief addresses were given by Ross Hoard and George Weaver. Mr. Holmes thanked the family and the U.C.W. group.

The guests included Mr. Holmes' sister, Miss Annie Holmes of Mount Pleasant and youngest brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Holmes of Toronto. Grandchildren present were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Martin of Collins Bay; Marguerite Holmes, a student at Queen's University in Kingston and Miss Beverley Holmes of Toronto. Also present were a nephew, Mr. Harold Holmes and Mrs. Holmes of Toronto and Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald and son Howard of Carrying Place.

OPEN HOUSE

On Saturday afternoon and evening Mr. Holmes enjoyed open house at his home when about 70 guests called. The immediate family served refreshments. He was the recipient of 78 greeting cards and numerous gifts.

Mr. Holmes has lived at Mount Pleasant, near the old Anson Station, since 1920. He is a retired section foreman on the C.N.R. and an honorary elder of Mount Pleasant United Church

Successful Living
Problems of Daily Living Assail Youth

DEAR DORIS: From time to time you have helped church groups. Perhaps you can help me. I am helping the Baptist minister's wife with a C.G.I.T. group, and we have 15 girls, not only from the Baptist church, but United, Anglican and Roman Catholic homes.

The problem of a study project has come up again. Could you suggest anything? These girls come from varied backgrounds, some with little religious or moral training, and I wondered if there would be a book or booklet on problems of daily living of teenagers.

I sent for the baby sitting course you suggested for another group, and we may do this, but I'd like to have an assortment of material on hand. I would also like to have something from which I could teach them how to conduct a meeting properly, writing minutes, the duties of officers, etc. — C.G.I.T. COUNSELLOR.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR COUNSELLOR: The old social work maxim: "Begin where the client is" holds wisdom for workers with teen-agers. The bloopers which mortify our boys and girls have to do with dating, talking, manners, studies, smoking, drinking, sex, petting. And the difference between right and wrong.

In short, the "problems of daily living" are baffling them right and left. They need help. C.G.I.T. headquarters are bound to have literature for you. And I am sending some books and articles.

When you use such material, don't just talk at your girls. Get them involved. Draw out ideas; approve every thoughtful observation; ignore silliness and waste. This way the leader learns a lot! And the teen-agers really get to thinking too, when they find they are expected to contribute something.

* * * *

DEAR DORIS: I am 55, still have three teen-agers at home. My life has been so busy, that now that I have given up my nursing, I am finding life seems pointless.

I have the housework and the children but we have practically no social life. I'd so love to have couples we could meet. I'd love to keep on learning, a short story course, book study, or dancing, or French.

I would love to help others in some way. The church we attended offered no social contacts. I could work part of the day. I'd so love some friends and happiness in life. — NO SOCIAL LIFE.

* * * *

DEAR NO: Some going concern! I know others who consider themselves over their heads in work, with the set-up you have.

There's plenty you can do to chase boredom. I know one lady over 80 who writes me that she is learning French. She is doing so well she now wants some high school students who will talk French with her, just for practice. One fifty-year-old is taking dancing lessons. I am practising on a guitar.

Now courses and clubs for adults open up all the time. If your church isn't organizing for your age group, gang up and start something. My leaflet "Learning for Living" is full of ideas for you. (Available to others for ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

* * * *

Confidential to GRIEFSTRICKEN: Your mother's minister was right to discourage an over-elaborate funeral. For many families the money paid for a funeral is one of the largest expenditures made during a lifetime. Funeral directors' associations do their best to regulate policies and thus curtail sharp practices. Now that you are further away from that unhappy day, consider what happened and perhaps save some other vulnerable mourner from being misled and overcharged.

* * * *

Confidential to QUESTION MARKS: You say "I love him but I don't want to get serious." Here's news for you: Love, the real thing, is extremely serious and should not be treated in other way. Your trouble is in using the word loosely — as many teen-agers are doing today! Send me your name and address on a stamped envelope, and I'll send you something to read which may help you: my leaflet on "What Is Love?"

* * * *

DEAR DORIS: Would you know a sensible diet for me? I am 55 and weigh 150 lbs — but all stomach and legs. Are there easy exercises I could take at home to help or is it too late? I eat very lightly but nothing seems to help.

Having a nice figure means a great deal to me. I've always been slim. — HIPPY.

* * * *

DEAR HIPPY: At 126 pounds you don't sound overweight to me. It's a matter of redistribution! And of course it's not too late.

Bends and stretches — and a few discrete pummelings — can make those bulges fade away, according to your doctor approves. The leaflet "Be Figure Perfect," which contains spot reducing exercises, is on its way to you. (Others may have it by sending in ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster universities, and has had broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

CLUB 4-H NOTES

RIVER VALLEY DREAMERS

STIRLING — The third meeting of River Valley Dreamers 4-H Girls' Club was held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Gerald Brooks. Judy Bush opened the meeting with the 4-H pledge and the minutes were read by Judy Donohoe.

The discussion centred around how to make fancy sandwiches and the members were asked to bring ingredients to the next meeting. The girls discussed sharing family meals, table manners and the correct use of silverware.

Plans were made for Achievement Day. Jane Bush will be responsible for the poster, and Connie Tucker will give the commentary.

The fourth meeting was held at River Valley school. Mrs. Brooks showed the girls how to make rolled, checkerboard and open-faced sandwiches. She said an afternoon tea begins at 3.00 p.m. and ends at 6.00 p.m. The members were taught how to arrange the table for an informal tea. The home assignment was to plan a party on a special theme and include decorations and menu.

HAS ONLY ONE NAME

PRESTON, Out. (CP)—Myrtle Cooper is known only as Myrt to 650 employees of a local factory where she is the industrial nurse. "Everyone calls me by my first name, probably some of the workers don't even know my married name," says Mrs. Cooper, who was born in Milford, Sask.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE W.I.

2ND THURLOW — The regular October meeting of Quinte Women's Institute was held at the W.I. Hall last week. Douglas Atkins presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. C. Woods, who with other members, attended the funeral of the first vice-president, Mrs. Asa Cook.

The secretary, Mrs. Robert Atkins, read the minutes and letters. An invitation from the district Tweedsmuir History Association was read, inviting the members to attend their afternoon tea at the Union Church Hall in Roslin on October 30.

Mrs. E. Sanderock and Mrs. E. Denyes, convener for education, prepared the program which included community singing and the motto, given by Mrs. Sanderock.

Mrs. Earl Denyes told of her recent trip to the Holy Land, showing many slides of the tour she took with 40 United Church members. She described old time threshing with horses going around and around, treading the grain, and outlined highlights of her visits to the Jordan River, Jericho, the Sea of Galilee and Rome.

Mrs. J. Parrott played a piano selection and lunch was served by Mesdames Morris, Denyes, Murphy, Fleming and Bird.

Toronto Artist Designs Fifth Stamp for Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Helen Fitzgerald is a member of a select group of artists whose work is distributed to every part of Canada.

She has designed her fifth stamp for post office. Aimed at the Christmas season and issued Oct. 13, it shows three beada holding candles in front of a primarily containing gold, frankincense and myrrh. It comes in blue for the five-cent issue and green for threes.

The first Canadian woman to be commissioned to design a Canadian stamp, Miss Fitzgerald (Mrs. Wilfred H. Bacon in private life) teaches lettering at the Ontario College of Art in Toronto, does illuminated manuscripts and also is a free-lance designer.

Her first stamp was commissioned by the post office five years ago. It was a five-cent commemorative stamp honoring the associated Country-women of the World.

Since then she has done a five-cent stamp honoring the Canadian Girl Guides on their 50th anniversary, a five-cent edition honoring a five-cent centennial stamp for Victoria, B.C., and now the Christmas issue.

"Each stamp is commissioned differently," says Miss Fitzgerald. "Sometimes the designer is given a theme but usually the themes he must comply with definite requirements.

"The Victoria stamp, for instance, had to have a miniature of Queen Victoria, a reproduction of the British Columbia legislature and a sprig of dogwood. After that, I was told, if there was any room left, I could do what I liked."

Church Groups

WALLBRIDGE Hi-C GROUP

WALLBRIDGE — The Hi-C group of young people held their meeting in Wallbridge United Church on October 10 with a good attendance.

The election of officers for the coming year was as follows:

President, Carl Vansilyke; vice-president, John Dudgeon; secretary, Bill Dudgeon; treasurer, Donna Shorey; press reporter, Terry Shorey.

MARMORA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

MARMORA — The October meeting of the Marmora Home and School Association was held in the Central Public School.

Mrs. Borden Bell, president, was in the chair and introduced the class mothers as follows: Kindergarten, Arnold Vesterfelt, Mrs. Ray Darrah; grade 1, Mrs. Albert Gray, Mrs. Roger Sulder; 2, Mrs. Robert Grant Airhart, Mrs. Robert Maynes; grade 3, Mrs. Raeburn Johansen, Mrs. Maurice Mc-Leod; grade 4, Mrs. L. Wannamaker, Mrs. Ronald McGarvey; grade 5, Mrs. Maurice McNeil, Mrs. Allan Wells; grade 6, Mrs. Bert Deering, Mrs. Russell Hepadorn; grade 7, Mrs. L. Stetson, Mrs. James Walker; grade 8, Mrs. Albert Leonard and Mrs. Victor Neal.

Mr. Gillies took attendance with banners going to Miss Prest of Earl Prentic School and Mr. Barry Turpin of Central school.

Mr. Cecil Neal introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Gerald Vance, retired fire chief of Belleville who spoke on the dangers of fire, especially at schools and showed a film of the tragic school fire in Chicago for attention."

When the Allen Sisters came here in 1959 there were four of them. (Jackie and Coralie were the only real sisters). Marriages broke up the group.

The sisters quit they enjoy night club work but are shooting for television. They've already appeared on such shows as Country Hoedown and After Four.

They say they aren't making a "lot of money" yet. And, says Coralie: "There isn't enough to take us away from our families. There just isn't that much in the world."

BATAWA

BATAWA — The October meeting of the Home and School Association was held on Monday evening in Batawa public school.

Mrs. Jean Erion, president, opened the meeting by welcoming everyone. Mrs. J. Mountford read the secretarial report. On Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays classes are held at 8.15 p.m. for Oral French.

The children are canvassing for membership in Batawa village on Hallowe'en night.

Miss S. Grant's class had 20 in attendance.

Mrs. I. Sulkevicius gave the treasurer's report.

Two Sisters Making Good As Singers

TORONTO (CP) — Two Edmonton sisters who have been six years ago are combining singing careers with their duties as housewives and mothers.

Coralie Nolan and Jackie Snider, known on stage as the Allen Sisters, do the night club circuit evenings and carry out their home chores during the day. Coralie has two children and Jackie has three.

Jackie's husband, Art, is a bandleader and does the chores, arrange m e n t s. Coralie's husband, Jimmy, is also a singer.

In the summer of 1964, they went to England to make records and sing in night clubs. This year they turned down summer club work because it would mean being away from home too long. But they continued their evening work at lounges.

Playing lounges is the "toughest part of show business," says Jackie, "because you have to do four or five a night and fight

Huge Crowd Attends Mall To See Pearson

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP)—The Liberals mustered their greatest rally of the election campaign for Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday night and it might have been a roaring success had anything gone right.

The crowd turned out for the Pearson welcoming "party" accordiig to advance billing, large in numbers and enthusiasm. Just about everything else went haywire.

First, Mr. Pearson's scheduled floodlit appearance on a rooftop before an expected outdoor multitude at Yorkdale Shopping Centre was called off. The chilled crowd had gone inside.

Then just before he rose to address the crowd in a huge indoor mall, the public address system packed up. After a couple more tries, with the help of an electrical load lalter, he got a few words through to those near him as competing jazz bands jarred the scene.

The official idea that he would go "shopping" for votes among the mall throngs in an ultramodern version of main-street-ing collapsed when the crowd surged upon him with such gusto that police had to rush him into the nearest store. He escaped through it into a cellar and up a freight elevator.

"This is the only time I've retreated in this campaign," he later shouted from a balcony. He told the crowd—or the part of it that could hear him—that it didn't matter whether he made a speech but only that they should turn out.

PLANNED NO SPEECH

Actually, he wasn't due to make a major speech but to spend most of his time at the mall—in Canada's largest shopping centre—in the main-street-ing approach.

The size of the turnout for Mr. Pearson was almost impossible to estimate since it was a shopping night in the huge centre with a ready-made crowd of thousands. Mr. Pearson said police told him the crowd numbered between 8,000 and 10,000 but centre manager Claude Keon went considerably higher than that.

He estimated that in the area devoted to the rally there were between 18,000 and 20,000 persons — including those — an increase of 9,000 or 10,000 over a normal Wednesday night. The 3,000-car parking lot was full.

It was a joint effort by the 18 ridings of metropolitan Toronto plus neighboring Peel. One of the "departure" was that many of them brought their own bands, bagpipers, majorettes, noisemakers, placard - carriers and c o w n s, who performed spontaneously and effectively, even when Mr. Pearson was trying to be heard. Most of those on hand couldn't even see—let alone hear — Mr. Pearson until he retreated from the original low platform to a balcony.

Generally the crowd stayed happy, seeming not to mind the accustomed speeches. Liberal officials considered they had run into ill luck but not disaster.

Mr. Pearson said he was exhilarated by the excitement of the crowd but worried that somebody would get hurt—the reason the police rushed him out of the way soon after he started main-streeting.

"It was very well handled," he said.

OUT WEST TODAY

Mr. Pearson joshed with reporters later about the idea that the evening might serve as a warm-up for a possible lively reception in Vancouver, where he arrives by air this evening. He had a rough reception there in the 1963 campaign.

"I'll feel right at home back in Vancouver," he said.

Before leaving for the West, Mr. Pearson will visit Liberal committee rooms today in Toronto Broadview and York South here, both held by Liberals in the last 3 parliaments.

In the speech he did get to make a few days Wednesday, the prime minister said Canada has no intention of sending military forces to Viet Nam and that allegations the Liberals would conscript Canadians for service there are the "most absurd" story of the campaign. It was his first campaign speech on foreign policy.

He disclosed no new policy but he said Washington knows

Majority Govt. Not an Issue Says Thompson

REGINA (CP) — Robert Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit party, Wednesday night blasted other political party leaders for what he said was dodging the issues of the current election campaign.

Speaking to about 200 persons at a rally here which kicked off most of the 14 Saskatchewan Social Credit candidates, Mr. Thompson said majority government is not an issue.

The problems of Canada will be solved with good leadership and new politicies, not by promises, "bribes," majority governments or smear campaigns, he said.

Mr. Thompson outlined the Social Credit platform on what it feels are the issues: Federal-provincial affairs, medical-care proposals, invasion of provincial authority by the federal government, education and welfare measures.

HITS PLAN

Mr. Thompson said the Liberals' proposed medical care insurance was drafted by "the back-room" boys, was not discussed either by the Liberal caucus or the provincial premiers or the legislatures, then was turned to the provinces on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

Mr. Thompson said he did not argue with the fact there is a need for a medical care program, but with the way it is being forced on all sectors of the economy, whether or not they want or need it."

He suggested that a complete health insurance plan for all pensioners could have been worked out, because pensioners are a federal responsibility. He also suggested implementation of "calamity insurance" for all Canadian families, which would include coverage for "all catastrophic health costs over X number of dollars."

With respect to water resources, he said Canada cannot negotiate with the United States for the release of water until Canadians know what their own needs are.

ASKS INQUIRY

At an afternoon press conference, he called for an inquiry into farm machinery costs at home and abroad. He said farm machinery made in Canada can be bought cheaper in France than by farmers on the Prairies, and suggested it was possible the farmer is "subsidizing the manufacturer" of farm machinery so the manufacturer can sell cheaper in the international market.

On his arrival here, he spoke to about 250 students at the University of Saskatchewan's new Regina campus.

He said two Fs u c s are whether Canada will continue to be a strong, autonomous, and independent nation and whether the rights of minorities will be protected.

Mr. Thompson said this would be his last visit to the province before the election. He plans another swing into B.C. and a one-day visit to Hamilton.

Flag Issue Again Brought Up by Dief

By BEN WARD

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker gave the flag issue another run and pledged his party to a list of major Maritimes development projects Wednesday night before a rain-all-New Brunswick election rally.

Flanked by the Conservative candidates from all 10 of the province's ridings, Mr. Diefenbaker told a crowd of 3,200 that the former government had withdrawn the seeds for Atlantic development and is ready to expand promotion of this region if re-elected Nov. 8.

Among the major proposals he mentioned as part of this development program were:

—Promotion of the proposal to produce tidal power in the Bay of Fundy.

—A new look at the Chignecto canal project, turned down as economically unjustified after a federal study three years ago.

—Use of thermal and tidal power for an Atlantic power grid.

Mr. Diefenbaker also pledged an immediate restoration of the federal shipbuilding subsidy frozen by the government last February pending a review of the program, and new port development "to make Saint John one of the greatest and finest ports in this country."

In addition, he said the Atlantic Development Board would be provided with the funds it needs to carry out its work.

ABANDONING TIES'

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of working toward the abandonment of Canada's symbolic ties with the past and recalled how his party had fought in the Commons for a national plebiscite on the new flag.

"I have no apologies to offer for the stand that I took or that this party took—none at all," he declared.

There were no flags among the decorations in the Beaverbrook Arena where he spoke. Design amid the audience read "Keep our British connections." But a pipe band that escorted him into the arena carried a Union Jack and a New Brunswick provincial flag at its head. And almost at the end of Mr. Diefenbaker's speech two men unfurled a huge Union Jack from a side gallery.

Conservatives won four of the province's 10 seats in 1963, all of them in this section.

On the issue of the flag and national symbols, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals had made no mention in the 1963 campaign of changing these symbols.

After the flag, what would be next to go? George Liberal groups were pressing for abolition of the monarchy, he said.

REVIVES SCANDAL ISSUE

Mr. Diefenbaker went into details of the scandal issue again after dropping it in a Quebec City speech Tuesday night for the first time in the campaign. As usual, he got his heaviest applause from it.

He flew from Quebec City to Fredericton early Wednesday afternoon and was greeted there by about 40 supporters standing around a large Union Jack.

A motorcade brought him here through a driving snowstorm that forced him to cancel a mainstreeting stop at Oromocto, the townsite that serves the army's Camp Gagetown.

Theogene Ricard, Conservative leader in Quebec, flew to New Brunswick with Mr. Diefenbaker and spoke to the rally here about the desire of Quebeccers to remain in the Canadian confederation.

He said the Conservative party is the only one that does not say one thing in one section of the country and something different in another section.

Douglas Claims Party Denied Free Speech

By MICHAEL GILLAN

HAMILTON (CP) — MD Leader T. C. Douglas charged Wednesday night that his party has been denied freedom of speech for attacking Canada's large commercial interests. He said the issue poses a threat to all political parties.

Speaking to about 2,000 supporters in the Palace Theatre, Mr. Douglas criticized at length the private CTV network for refusing to broadcast a paid advertisement dealing with what he called misleading advertising.

The network decision,he said, had "effectively" prevented his party from showing the advertisement on the only Canadian network allowed to sell political advertising time.

(The publicly-owned CBC provides free broadcast time to the federal parties but accepts no paid political advertising.)

The NDP advertisement, which came into controversy several days ago, was prepared to illustrate a party claim that misleading advertising helps to increase the cost of living.

BLAME QUALITY

A network spokesman has said it was rejected because it was misleading and economically poor. Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, has said that in his opinion the network decision was a mistake but legal.

"If these vast agencies of the mass media can refuse to let us present this issue, what prevents them from denying us—or some other party—the right to present any other issue which the rulers of the mass media decide should be kept from the Canadian public?" Mr. Douglas asked.

He also said that campaign contributions are at the root of political scandal and called for complete disclosure of campaign contributions to political parties.

He said the public has a right to know the sources of money in each party who is receiving "special handouts."

Mr. Douglas spoke in the riding of Hamilton South, held by Dr. William Howe for the NDP in the last Parliament. Candidates and supporters from three other federal ridings in the Hamilton area also were present.

Mrs. Douglas, who began travelling with her husband in the campaign last week, was on the platform and will continue campaigning with him until Nov. 8.

Mr. Douglas repeated his party's policies on protection, consumer-spending economic development and implementing a government-operated medical health care plan.

He flies today to the West Coast.

Visiting Americans Discover Russians Full of Good Will

MOSCOW (AP)—One of the women in a group of 143 Americans recently in Moscow had her hand kissed by a Russian army officer.

The woman, who is middle-aged, found this Communist gesture typical of the reception the people here have been giving the group.

"The Russians just spill over with good will toward us," she said. But she did not want to be identified, for fear the people she talked with might get in trouble with their own government.

The Americans, who came to Moscow for a two-week stay, were the first group brought here under a citizen exchange plan. Melvin J. Gordon, chairman of the board of a Hoboken candy factory, said:

"We decided something had to be done to bring Russians and Americans together, to bridge the gap of misunderstanding."

Gordon is chairman of the executive committee of the Citizens' Exchange Corps.

The U.S. state department told the exchange group it "wishes to encourage your efforts to increase travel to Russia directions." Gordon said the Soviet government "has promised to respond" to the first American visit because they are leaving all kinds of experiences, including invited guests Russian homes to being approached by black marketeers. The main aim group is to get them to meet people in their own line of work and build lasting contacts.

Michael Schneider, a medical student from Chicago, said:

"It's not so much of a terror state as I expected. The students speak out freely. They are crazy about modern art, Jazz. You should hear them go on about Ella Fitzgerald, Benny Goodman, all the big names."

Samuel Pearlman, in charge of mental hygiene at Brooklyn College, saw a big plus factor in Moscow's building program.

"The work they have done is almost miraculous."

William Fleegold, a grammar school principal in New York's Queens County, said the school administrators he met "seemed first-rate, determined to run a good ship." He found the tough Soviet educational program impressive.

A professor of political science at Wayne State University in Detroit, Max Mark, said: "The people have lost their fear of authority. They do not seem to be afraid. They go along, but they criticize."

Harry Hyde, a lawyer from Boston who visited a Russian home, said:

"The family did not think Russians would be allowed to go to Americans to reciprocate our visit because of government fear they would like what they saw and come home direct or tented—or not come home at all.

RIGA, U.S.S.R. (Reuters)—The state prosecutor Wednesday demanded the death penalty for five persons—three of them living in Canada, the United States and West Germany and being tried in absentia—alleged to have taken part in the wartime murder of 15,000 Soviet citizens. The accused include Harold Pumbulis, of Willowdale, Ont., a suburb of Toronto, who has said the charge is not true.

Says Farmers' Income Should Average $4,200

MADOC — Russell Honey, chairman of the standing committee on agriculture in the last House in which he was a member for Durham, speaking on behalf of Roy Cadwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac here October 20th, stated "The average net income for farmers should be $4,200 per year and a Liberal government would work towards farmers obtaining this average."

Referring to the Diefenbaker promise of $4 per 100 cwt. for field milk, Mr. Honey said while the Conservatives were in office the average price per 100 cwt. was only $2.80. He also said that the farmers, themselves had stated when the Liberal government was in office that the price should be $3.50 per cwt. and that this has been achieved.

"The prosperity of the Canadian farmer depends on the prosperity of Canada," he said. Liberal times means good times not only for the industrial worker but also for farmers as contrasted to the unemployment and financial instability of Diefenbaker years, he declared.

Mr. Honey asserted that the needs of the farmers are better looked after by the Liberals than the Conservatives. He gave as an example of this the supplementary payments now being made to farmers to add to their income.

He questioned the audience as to whether any farmers had received such payments and several persons indicated that they had. He also referred to the low cost loans provided by the Liberal government and the payment of part of the storage coals in order to reduce the price of feed grains to eastern farmers.

The meeting was called by the Farmers' Federation to discuss farm problems. Mr. Elmer Woods acted as chairman.

Liberal Only Candidate At Open Forum

MADOC — Speaking at an open meeting in Madoc Monday, Roy Cadwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac, stated "Hastings-Frontenac is the most neglected riding in this area."

He challenged his Conservative opponent to justify the income of the people of this riding being less than two-thirds of the national average; the population of Hastings-Frontenac going down when the national average was going up; why there were less industries in the riding than a decade ago and why, although the national average of tourist business has gone up, the actual percentage in Hastings-Frontenac had gone down.

Mr. Finlayson asserted "what was needed was a program for increasing the economic income of the people of the riding. We are an underprivileged people for neither our farmers nor our village workers earned the equivalent of other Canadians; it is the responsibility of an elected member to do something about this."

He referred to his five-point program of, aid to farmers under Agricultural ARDA, setting up of new industries, grants for free university tuition, the establishment of a Centennial Park in the riding as a tourist attraction and the payment of $20 per month housewife's allowance as a definite plan to improve the economic welfare of the people of Hastings-Frontenac.

The meeting was called by the Farmers' Federation as an open forum to which all candidates were invited. Mr. Cadwell was the only candidate to attend.

Wait Till Horatio Hornblower Hears About This, Me Bullies!

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — Mourned mariners of the world are talking a slight reef this week of traditionalists who scorn the steamer, abhor the motorboat and rely adamantly on wind and canvas.

New regulations published here by the Inter-governmental Maritime Consultative Organization (IMCO) alter in a small way the convention that sail has precedence over steam or motor vessels on the high seas. The regulations take effect Sept. 1 following ratification by the required "substantial majority" of the 69 IMCO member countries, including Canada.

Since the first sooty steamers and paddlewheelers began to challenge sailing ships early last century, sail has maintained the right of way over powered vessels. The new rule will require canvas sailors to give way to power boats in a narrow channel.

The longstanding precedence of sail is maintained in the first clause of Rule 20 in the 31-rule document known formally as Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea:

"When a power-driven vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision . . . the power-driven vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel."

Exceptions to this tradition are that a vessel overtaking another must keep out of the way of the overtaken ship, regardless of mode of power, and generally most vessels must keep away from fishing boats engaged in fishing.

The new regulation, second clause of Rule 20, provides that the rule giving sail precedence "shall not give to a sailing vessel the right to hamper, in a narrow channel, the safe passage of a power-driven vessel which can navigate only inside such channel."

Colin Goad, deputy secretary-general of IMCO, explained in an interview that the new rule merely makes rational an old convention that, in theory, would require the 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth to give way if she encountered a tiny sailing dinghy in a narrow harbor mouth. The regulations, updating international rules for the open sea drafted in 1948, amend a series of technical navigational rules involving steering, lighting, signals, use of radar and sailing with restricted vision.

They form an annex to a 500-page tome called the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea, 1960, which lays down regulations for everything from ship construction to ships' logs, stowing cargo to maintaining fire precautions.

The convention and the anti-collision regulations are the result of a conference here in 1960 of shipping experts met under the auspices IMCO, a United Nations ag The Canadian delegation led by Alan Cumyn, ret director of marine regula with the department of tr in Ottawa.

Miss Eleanor Beach of McGill University, Montreal and Miss Nancy Baker of Queen's University, Kingston, recently visited Dr. and Mrs. J. Beach and family.

Mrs. N. Helm returned home from Trenton Memorial Hospital on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith and family of Oshawa were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Curry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sharp visited Rev. and Mrs. Donald White in Picton, Rev. White is a patient in Picton Hospital.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Thirty two members of the family surprised Mrs. Lewis Stewart, South Trent Street on Sunday afternoon on the occasion of her birthday.

She was presented with many lovely gifts and a birthday cake by her family. Refreshments were served and a time of fellowship enjoyed.

Research Team Is Trying To Raise Milk Production

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal researchers are seeking ways to improve milk production with a long-term breeding experiment involving hundreds of cattle.

Dr. Charles Hickman, the agriculture department scientist in charge of the project, said the experiment could produce a pattern for Canadian breeders. The project, begun in 1955, will probably run to 1968.

Through a process of selection, researchers are exploring the genetic factors that produce better milkers. The emphasis is on the development of bulls capable of siring better milkers.

Researchers hope private breeders will eventually take up the lessons and the methods from the government program to improve their herds.

Dr. Hickman, an Ottawa native, says some generally preliminary conclusions have been drawn from the first decade of the experiment. One is that a breeding selection process definitely increases the production of milk solids such as lactose.

PROTEIN LEVEL RISES

As the controlled, selective breeding cycle continues and the total solids content of the milk improves, protein content likewise improves, but the fat content remains fairly constant.

Cows that put on the most weight from six to eight months of age are usually less efficient milk producers later.

Cattle with long teats produce less than those with short. Cows with funnel-shaped teats are less susceptible than those with cylindrical teats to mastitis, an udder inflammation.

Cows that gain weight during the milk-production period are more efficient producers than the weight-losers.

Dr. Hickman emphasizes these conclusions are based on performance averages of many cattle and are usually hold true in some individual cases.

The milking herd in the experiment comprises 200 Holsteins, 275 Ayrshires and 100 Jerseys. They are spread across the country in department research stations from Charlottetown to Agassiz, B.C.

Researchers collect reproductive semen from bulls here, freeze it and fly it to research stations to breed offspring under an artificial insemination program.

Milking performance in the offspring is observed and the bulls that sired the best milkers are retained for stud. The breeding cycle proceeds continuously with future sires being chosen from the offspring of earlier high-potential bulls.

RECORD MEASUREMENTS

"With at least another four years to go in the project, Dr. Hickman says improvement in total solids production in the experimental group has so far been satisfactory. By the experiment's end "it will be much more than we expected when we began."

Dr. Hickman says it's the first time a breeding experiment of this type has been applied to dairy cattle.

Farmers some day will have bulls with "that will produce spectacular and consistent increases in production in their herds. It's just a matter of time, effort and understanding."

Animals in the experiment are carefully measured both as calves and adults. Researchers want to know such things as muzzle circumference, teat length and diameter, udder conformation and so on. In this way they can link physical characteristics with milk producing efficiency.

They also want to know what effect breeding of better milk producers has on other animal characteristics. For example, what is the effect of a milk production increase on the efficiency of the animal's use of food?

Scientists also wonder if fast-growing bull's produce more efficient daughters than average-growing bull. Computers analyse the mass of data collected in this and other areas.

Dr. Hickman says 15 years ago, before the general use of computers, a study on this scale could not have been undertaken. Computers speed things up.

No cost figures were released, but it is not all being borne by the public treasury. Sale of milk from the cows involved helps defray operating costs.

Reds Get Backing Of De Gaulle

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet leaders are hoping closer co-operation with President de Gaulle will develop out of the visit here of French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Due to arrive today for a five-day visit, he is the first foreign minister of a big Western power to meet with the new Soviet leadership headed by Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

De Gaulle and the Soviet leaders have widely different ultimate objectives. But there is an increasingly favorable attitude toward him here because his successes tend, to help Soviet policy.

De Gaulle has been useful to Moscow because of his determination to retain full old-style sovereignty for France and obtain greater influence for it in the world. This has made him an opponent of the U.S.-sponsored military and economic integration of Western Europe.

WEAKEN NATO COMMAND

In the field of the economic integration the Common Market—de Gaulle now has blocked any further movement toward supranationality. In military integration — the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—he is demanding changes that will weaken unified command.

De Gaulle's efforts have succeeded where endless propaganda and political manoeuvring by the Soviet Union failed.

One of the overriding fears of Soviet foreign policy has been that West Germany would get some control over nuclear weapons.

De Gaulle has turned openly against the nuclear multi-lateral fleet which the United States proposed since his treaty of co - operation with Bonn yielded what he considered to be disappointing results.

The fleet looks more and more as if it will never sail the seas.

Another Soviet fear is that Germany will be reunited on Bonn's terms, which would mean a tremendous increase in strength for the old enemy.

RULES OUT U.S.

Earlier this year de Gaulle proclaimed that German reunification is a long-term, exclusively European concern. He omitted all mention of U.S. participation, which Chancellor Erhard's government regards as crucial to success.

German reunification looks further away than ever.

The Kremlin has been trying to get the United States out of Southeast Asia. The U.S. presence in Viet Nam is the biggest foreign policy headache for the Soviet leadership.

De Gaulle has come out for neutralizing Southeast Asia.

Today, the official Communist party newspaper Pravda called French foreign policy "realistic." It said that further co - operation between France and the Soviet Union "would undoubtedly help much for a healthier world climate and in particular strengthen security in Europe."

MEASURED FOR MILK — Dr. Charles Hickman uses a pair of giant-size calipers to measure a milk cow at an agriculture department research station. Some 675 cows in test here across Canada are being used in a long-term project to study the genetic factors that lead to better milk producers. Dr. Hickman says this is the first time a breeding experiment of this type has been applied to cattle. Sale of the milk from the cows helps to defray costs of the experiment. (CP Photo)

Russians Worried A bout Chess Future; They Have Only 3½ Million Players

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has a new production goal—more chess players.

An organization with the unwieldy name of the Central Council of the Union of Sports Societies and Organizations of the U.S.S.R. is aiming to increase the number of registered chess players in the country to 5,000,000 by 1970. There now are 3,500,000.

The Soviet Union is ahead in world chess and it wants to make sure it stays there. There has not been a non - Russian world champion since 1927. The present title-holder is Tigran Petrosian, who has bested all competition two years running.

This emphasis in the new five-year plan will be on the younger players. Like good coaches everywhere, the Soviets are belabing.

"There are 3,500,000 organized chess players in the Soviet Union today, and the best of them are by rights in the forefront of world chess," Soviusky Sport, a communist sports paper, wrote proudly.

SHORT OF YOUNGSTERS

"In the work with young players, however, serious shortcomings have come to light.

"On average, 30 players receive the title of master every year. This does not correspond to the opportunities provided in the country for the development of this popular sport."

CCUSSO—the initials for the organization with the long name — is getting most sports organisations to open chess divisions and increasing the number of chess clubs and chess rooms considerably.

In the big cities, CCUSSO has decided, there will be specialized schools as well as upgrading courses for talented beginners. Grand masters and masters will instruct the bigger classes.

And the chess federation of the U.S.S.R. will hold competitions next year in cultural and sports centres. The best coaches and instructors will get special decorations.

Cross-Canada Survey

Most Students Want Govt. Aid In Paying for Their Education

By JACK GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Most of Canada's university students want government help in paying for their education. Some want fees abolished, some oppose this but want other financial help.

This much became evident Wednesday, National Student Day as students across the country paraded to provincial legislatures to launch a campaign by the 140,000 - member Canadian Union of Students to end social and economic barriers to higher education.

CUS argues that the country would benefit if financial burdens were lifted from youthful shoulders. It points to the recent Bladen report which claimed that 40 per cent of United States' growth and productivity in recent years is related directly to education.

IDEAS PLENTIFUL

The students had almost as many ideas for aid to education as they had marches.

Some were frankly disappointed in their reception.

Those visiting Premier John Robarts in Toronto came away in a gloomy frame of mind. They said he told them the government regarded education not as a privilege and not as a right.

Other provincial leaders were non-committal when visited by delegations, a random Canadian survey by The Canadian Press showed.

At Ottawa, some 1,000 students massed on Parliament Hill. One placard read: "Free tuition, free books, free love."

They were met by Liberal, Progressive Conservative and New Democratic Party politicians seeking election Nov. 8. Each outlined his party's education program, interrupted plaintively from the students: "What about free tuition?" The subject was hardly mentioned.

Premier Joseph Smallwood's introduction of a tuition - free freshman year at Memorial University in St. John', was mentioned by Rex Murphy, 18, of Freshwater, Nfld.

RECOGNIZE NEED

He said Newfoundland, the poorest province, had recognized that "the most practical way to get out of its darkness" was to open the door to higher education for all capable of benefiting from it.

At Fredericton, about 200 University of New Brunswick students were caught unexpectedly as Opposition Leader Diefenbaker paid an impromptu visit. They hastily called off a mammoth rally protesting high university fees and burned a small effigy of fees as Mr. Diefenbaker left after a short visit.

Students said they felt it would be a good idea to show the Conservative leader their "plight." He shook hands and told them to seek the only political leader in Canada visiting a campus on National Student Day.

MARCH IN HALIFAX

An orderly crowd of more than 1,000 students representing six Nova Scotia universities marched on the legislative buildings in Halifax with a seven-page brief asking more federal and provincial aid, including increased per capita grants to $5 from the current $3.

Cabinet members promised consideration of the brief. Liberal Leader Gerald A. Regan said the crisis in higher education is a revolutionary situation demanding steps never taken before." He criticized the Conservative government of Premier Robert L. Stanfield, who also is education minister.

He was applauded when he said a full-time Nova Scotia minister of education is needed.

Not all the demonstrations were held Wednesday. At Charlottetown the Students' Union of St. Dunstan's University, in a brief to the Prince Edward Island cabinet Monday, asked the government to absorb any rise in tuition fees above the present level of $400 a student. The brief claimed costs have climbed to an unjustified level in many parts of the country, particularly the Maritimes.

HOLD PANEL TALKS

In Quebec province panel discussions were held Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Sir George Williams College and Loyola.

Other Quebec English - language universities did not participate because, said a spokesman for McGill students, "the French - language Quebec Students Union is holding its annual congress today and for that reason French students feel they could not organize anything for Wednesday. . . .

"The French - language students will most probably arrange to hold a protest day at a later date and we will participate then."

Toronto university students pressed their demands for higher education with Premier Robarts personally after a rally in front of the legislature buildings attracted about 1,000, mostly from the University of Toronto, York University and Ryerson Polytechnical. Others represented included Waterloo Lutheran University and the University of Waterloo, Kitchener, and the University of Western Ontario, London.

Mr. Robarts and his minister of university affairs, William Davis, met six representatives of the demonstrators in the premier's office for about 40 minutes.

EXPLAINS VIEW

The premier was reported to have told them that university education was a goal that young persons should strive for, not just through academic competition but by helping to pay their own way.

In the west another students group, the University of Saskatchewan Students' Council, opposes abolition of university tuition fees. The council said Tuesday right fees were in order as an evidence of interest to seek higher education. But it seeks decrease of travelling expenses, board and room and cost of books.

But abolition of fees was asked Wednesday by students in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia.

In a brief to Education Minister R. H. McKinnon at Edmonton, University of Alberta students said tuition-free education "should as least be provided for first - year students who suffer most acutely from the financial and social barriers to post-secondary education.

The Alberta brief mentioned that the province has huge surpluses from oil revenues and that the cost of eliminating tuition fees would be a mere fraction of this.

FEES SAID A BARRIER

At the annual meeting of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada at Vancouver, tuition fees were said to be a barrier to thousands.

CUS Vice-Presidents Richard Good, a student at the University of Manitoba, told delegations that while fees were only 14 per cent of university costs "for many young people, they are high enough to deter them from going to university."

Fake Invoices May Be Key To Racket

TORONTO (CP)—Police believe fake invoices seized Tuesday in raids here are the key to a suspected phoney bankruptcy and insurance-fraud racket in Montreal and Toronto.

Inspector John Mullen of the Metropolitan Toronto fraud squad said Wednesday the invoices were among documents impounded in raids on 10 Toronto businesses and the homes of four company executives.

Nine accountants are studying the records but it may take several weeks before any decision is reached on the laying of charges.

The raids were connected with a Montreal bankruptcy ring but Police Chief James Mackey of Toronto said there were connections with the gang that killed four men in Quebec.

Police sources said Montreal wholesalers sent the invoices to Toronto businesses to sell merchandise. Other times they sent part of the shipment of goods so accomplices here would have bills of lading as well. But sometimes junk worth much less than the amounts on the invoices was sent.

Some insurance companies called the fraud squad after suspecting certain individuals were trying to defraud them.

Police sources said the Toronto companies would report heavy fire or theft losses to their insurance companies and produce fake invoices to support their claims for compensation.

Federal Election Candidates Using Every Mode of Travel to See Voters

OTTAWA (CP) — Harvey Smith gets to voters in parts of Port Arthur constituency by driving rides on CNR handcar.

A Canadian Press survey of election campaigns used by more than 1,000 candidates for 265 seats in the House of Commons indicates that Mr. Smith's method is one of the more unusual.

They all travel by the conventional car, train and plane when they can. Mr. Smith, a Conservative candidate, also logged 1,800 miles in his own single-engine Cessna 180 in September.

This took him to accessible places like Hudson Bay posts and missions. The handcars are his only hope for the really remote areas.

Other candidates are flagging down freights, catching fishing boats, riding horseback and generally using anything that moves in the scramble for election Nov. 8.

RIDES HORSE

NDP candidate Frank Howard has been jogging to Indian settlements in British Columbia's Skeena riding by horse.

Another New Democrat, Robert Beardsley, hasn't a car so he and his wife get about Toronto Spadina on a tandem bicycle.

Transport is more posh for party leaders but the travel is just as expensive. They make the equivalent of a world trip on a mik train.

Prime Minister Pearson's four-engine aircraft, hired from Canadian Pacific Airlines, is a travelling office in which he works his way to and from major cities. He goes by car to smaller ones and commandeered an RCAF helicopter to get a look at the Manitoba crops.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker likes to hitch-hop and has four rail cars — private, staff, press and diner—for the purpose.

Much of the time they are pulled by their own diesel. At others, they book on to a scheduled train.

In Saskatoon, Mr. Diefenbaker piled nine reporters into a hired airport limousine to show them the family homestead 80 miles away.

New Democrat Leader Douglas can't indulge in whims. He travels on regular airline flights, economy class, and only charters small planes when he has to.

"He gets some sleep almost every time he sits down in a plane seat," says an assistant.

The leader employing the most unusual transportation systems is Social Credit's Robert Thompson. When campaigning in Alberta, he uses a large silver - colored bus-e trailer which becomes headquarters and built - in platform which is dropped at the hint of a crowd.

The car-pulled trailer prefers the Thompson host communities, slivering up voter attention that he doesn't get as much," says Mr. Thompson. A Social Credit worker and party literature occupy the trailer.

Trailers also are used by other party candidates, including Conservative George Hogan in the Toronto area constituency of York West and New Democrat Lorne E. Cashenwood in Renfrew North. Mr. Cashenwood hauls a 12-foot trailer with his own car.

Creditiste Chief René Caouette, an auto dealer, splurges in a roomy 1956 Chrysler that takes him over vast distances of Quebec daily.

Getting attention is an important as getting there...

Conservative Chuck Meagher uses a big white truck he calls the "Chuckwagon"—it is plastered with placards to this effect—to get about Medicine Hat riding.

In Niagara Falls, Conservative Jean Douglas has a mobile committee room — a double-decker bus imported from Britain by a local firm. It has not only placards but flags and banners.

From Bonavista to Vancouver Island, the light plane is a reliable standby.

Even these flexible aircraft are having trouble in the north with freeze-up at the point where ice is too thick for pontoons and too thin for skis.

Liberal R. J. (Bud) Orange may reach only half the voters in the roadless Northwest Territories because of this.

Ottawa Youth Dies in Crash

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Douglas Adams, 20, of Ottawa, died and six other persons, including his brother, were injured early today in a three-car collision in downtown Kingston.

In hospital in satisfactory condition are: John Argue, 21, Fhilip McLeman, 18, and James Sakell, 37, all of Kingston; Peter Legault, 21, Toronto; Daniel Adams, 19, and Brian Wilson, 18, both of Ottawa.

Regimentation Is Excessive In Young Pioneers' Camp

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (AP) — A popular feature movie that has been playing here depicts life at a make - believe "young pioneer camp."

It shows worried - looking camp officials watching every moment of their campers' activities. When the children go swimming, the supervisors are posted like sentries around the swimming hole to see that nobody strays and everybody behaves.

Stubbornly the mood changes. Things start going wrong. A little boy gets banished for misbehavior but sneaks back into camp because he can't face going home.

The machinations that follow, with practically everybody in camp—children and supervisors alike—covering up for the boy against the stupid director, make the audience roar with laughter.

It's obvious that the satire on regimentation in young pioneer camps, whose millions of Soviet children spend part of their summer holidays, strikes an responsive chord among viewers.

A visit to such a camp last summer by a group of Moscow based foreign correspondents may help explain why.

The organization and regimentation appeared excessive, even allowing for the possibility that those in charge were out to put on a good show for us.

RESEMBLES ARMY

"I know all about this jazz," remarked an American correspondent as straight columns of arm-swinging children paraded in step for morning muster. "I was in the army."

All the boys and girls wore prescribed dress, including the red kerchief symbolic of the young pioneer movement. When they were drawn up on the parade ground, group leaders bounded smartly forward one by one to report to the woman director standing high up on a reviewing stand.

Dance groups, song groups, volleyball groups — all performed furiously and like clock work. There was no room for laggards in this camp.

Communist propaganda slogans abounded on banners and posters. In a small picture gallery devoted to the Second World War, there were scenes of ghastly German atrocities and photos of the Soviet war effort.

An English girl in the visiting party who had worked in youth camps in France was stunned by the amount of supervision. And many of the correspondents left the camp feeling a little sorry for the children.

Not so with the camp in the movie. There the kids have nothing but fun. They play tricks on the oblivious director, make her in an unsuccessful effort to get visitors' day called off, steal food for the boy in hiding, play with him in his hideaway under the director's reviewing stand.

In the end, it's the director who comes off second best. He is unceremoniously booted out by some higher authority. And that, the producers seem to be saying, is what should happen to all overzealous directors of young pioneer camps.

Reeve Blames Clerk for Resignation

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP) Mrs. Violet McCarthy, who resigned as reeve of this Lake Erie village Wednesday, has accused the village clerk of "running the village" and "totally disregarding the Municipal Act."

Further charges are contained in her letter of resignation which was accepted by council Wednesday night with only one dissenting vote.

Her letter says:

"Since the clerk (E. L. Mc-Coll) has taken over the running of the village, totally disregarding the Municipal Act . . . I find constant arguing and bickering too much of a strain, and further feel that under the circumstances I am of no further use to the people by whom I was elected."

Mrs. McCarthy, first woman reeve in Port Stanley's 91-year history, said in a telephone interview that she had given the clerk various orders which were never carried out.

OMB Reserves Decision on Application

KINGSTON (CP) — The Ontario Municipal Board has reserved decision after hearing arguments on a city council application to obtain a $68,000 debenture for the renovation of a theatre here.

F. G. Blake, chairman of the two-man OMB committee, after hearing nine hours of submissions, said it was a contentious matter and an oral decision would not be handed down.

Ho-hum, the tub-thumpers for the forthcoming argument for the World Boxing Association's version of the world heavyweight championship are building their ballyhoo ballyrack with bricks of "wisdom" from the verbal trowels of former world champions.

Coming from the Chuvalo corps of publicity trumpeters, the pearls of prediction naturally favor the Canadian heavyweight champion who tangles with the WBA titleholder, one Ernie Terrell in Maple Leaf Gardens come next Monday twilighting.

Barney Ross, the former welterweight great, was the first to look into his crystal ball.

He came up with the prediction that Chuvalo would knock out Terrell in eight rounds because the Canadian was capable of beating any kind of fighter and "would tear, Terrell's stomach out."

On his past performances, Mr. Ross has been voted by the Loyal Antediluvian Order of Yogis, Savants, and Seers, the most unlikely to succeed as a top-ranking soothsayer.

He chirped from the housetops that Sonny Liston would hang, draw and quarter one Cassius Clay—not once but twice.

You couldn't blame the ex-Marine war hero for picking the Philadelphia negro in his first bout-nay with Clay. He simply climbed aboard the Liston bandwagon of seers that included such ring luminaries as Joe Louis, Jack Dempsey, Rocky Marciano, and an assorted array of ex-champions garnished with the elite of newspaper row.

In fast it was a lone hero of the typewriter who stuck to his mental guns and called the "Louisville Lip" to clobber Liston. He is John Carmichael, an erudite Chicago sports editor.

But Barney "googled" the second Clay-Liston Waltz of the Maine. More recently he went off the beam again when he called Joey Giardello over Dick Tiger.

Next on the soothsayer safari to call Chuvalo is Fritzie Zivic. Fritzie who once was hailed as "the King of the Dirty Fighters, proclaimed that Chuvalo would "wear Terrell down with body punching and knock him out in the 11th or 12th round."

But the Terrell camp refuses to be solaced by the fact thabt the crystal-gazers' batting average is minor league stuff. The usually placid negro "champion" was aghast at the prediction. He says Ross didn't know and based his opinion on Chuvalo's loss to Patterson. Barney Glickman, Terrell's manager, thundered his disgust.

"What does Ross know about anything?" he roared, "He hasn't been right in seven years and his worst 'call' was the Giardello-Tiger affair."

Back to Barney Ross, I don't boy his opinion that Chuvalo if he gets inside "will tear out Terrell's stomach."

The four boxing bush-leaguers he defeated after his loss to Patterson still have their digestive factories intact and haven't had to call for abdominal spare parts.

It says here that both fighters are confident. Chuvalo says he is in the best shape of his life and believes he knows how to fight the giant Chicagoan with the lengthy reach. Terrell's 84-inch reach is seven longer than the Canadian's 77. "I didn't fit knock him out," he is quoted as saying. "I've always had good luck against real tall men, maybe because I can get to them inside, moving below that long reach."

Terrell says he'll be triumphant and also by the kayo route. A left jab—long and fast—is his major weapon but he also has some hard combinations and a left hook.

"I know Chuvalo will be tough and he'll probably never fight a better fight than he will against me because it's a big one and he's at home. But I'm the better boxer? That will be the difference."

And so on into the night.

It will be a big payday for both fighters. Each is guaranteed $45,000 with Terrell getting 35 per cent and Chuvalo 25 per cent of the gate if that should be more than the guarantee.

Promoters expect some 12,000 will view the fight.

Twins Picked Up $6,634

Dodgers Banked $10,297

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Koufax, Maury Wills and all other full-time Los Angeles Dodgers pocketed $10,297.43 each for winning the 1965 World Series and the Minnesota Twins collected $6,634.36 for each losing share.

Although the total gate receipts of $2,975,041.60 set a record, the winning share was only the fourth highest since the American and National leagues decided on a post-season championship playoff back in 1903.

The record for the most money earned by a winning player was set in 1963 when each Dodger received $12,794 in Los Angeles' four-game sweep over New York. The 72,000 capacity at Yankee Stadium helped account for that.

The official attendance figures for the seven games was 364,326, somewhat below the record of 420,784 who attended the 1959 World Series between the Dodgers and Chicago White Sox. The Dodgers' home park that year was the 92,000-seat Coliseum. Dodger Stadium seats 55,000.

Habs Win; Leafs Crack Scoring Egg

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens continued their winning ways and Toronto Maple Leafs ended a two-game scoring famine in National Hockey League action Wednesday night.

Jean Beliveau scored a power-play goal with less than six minutes remaining to give the Canadiens a 4-3 victory over New York Rangers before 12,477 fans at the Forum. It was Montreal's third victory in as many games.

In Boston, Frank Mahovlich scored a power-play goal at the six minute mark of the second period to give Toronto a 2-1 victory over the Bruins.

Right winger Claude Provost opened Montreal's scoring at 16:31 of the first period as he combined with Henri Richard and Jean-Guy Talbot.

However, Donnie Marshall, a former Montreal player, got that one back with less than two minutes gone in the second period as he backhanded a high shot over a sprawling Lorne (Gump) Worsley. Canadiens

RICHARD GOT LEAD

Five minutes later Richard gave Montreal the lead for the second time as New York's Rod Seiling sat out a penalty.

New York came back less than three minutes before the period ended as Gary Peters, also a former Montrealer, recorded his first goal as a Ranger.

Montreal went ahead 3-2 at 4:42 of the final period when defenceman J. C. Tremblay took a 70-foot bouncing shot that trickled between rookie goaltender Ed Giacomin's pads.

New York's Doug Robinson got behind two Montreal defenders, took a pass from winger John McKenzie and sailed in unmolested to beat Worsley cleanly.

Beliveau's marker ended the scoring although both clubs had fine chances after that.

TOO MUCH TALK

Dick Duff was given a 10-minute misconduct for arguing too strenuously about a minor assessment to Talbot and Jim Neilson of New York and Montreal's Claude Larose were given majors for fighting as referee Bill Friday called a total of 18 penalties.

Right winger Ron Ellis took a 30-foot slapshot at 14:45 of the first period that ended Toronto's scoring drought as the Leafs downed the Bruins before 8,280 fans.

Ellis took a pass from Mahovlich at the blueline and fired a waist-high drive that broke off rookie goalie Gerry Cheever's glove and slipped between his knees.

The Leafs were blanked 4-0 by Chicago last Saturday in the season opener and Detroit clipped them 3-0 Sunday night.

Mahovlich made it 2-0 in the second period before Ron Stewart, a former Leaf, broke the ice for Boston.

Mahovlich was alone at the corner of the Boston net and banged in Ed Litzenberger's rebound. Stewart got his second goal of the young season less than two minutes later on another power play.

Stewart's goal came on a pass from defenceman Ted Green to the left corner of the Toronto net, where he poked in clipped them 3-0 Sunday night. minder Terry Sawchuk had no chance to cover.

The Bruins put on a furious third-period rush but Sawchuk stopped shot after shot, as the Bruins pressed the action.

One of Boston's three-on-one breaks was foiled when Reg Fleming missed it an open net—put the puck over the crossbar. And a shot by Murray Oliver, on a near-open net, was blocked when sliding defenceman Marcel Pronovost nudged Oliver's stick and the puck went wide.

The loss leaves the Bruins in a fanillist spot — last place—where they have been for five seasons. The Leafs are now in fourth spot.

Thumbs Down On Gloves

Little Jack Horner Bout Is Out

TORONTO (CP) — George Chuvalo settled back into his regular training schedule Wednesday after it was disrupted when he son, Jesse, 4, suffered severe electrical burns.

The youngster is in the Sick Children's Hospital after burning his mouth Tuesday on an electrical extension cord he found under the bed of a friend he and his mother were visiting.

Doctors say the boy will make a complete recovery, but skin grafting will be needed.

Chuvalo, the Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto, is in training for his title bout Monday night against Ernie Terrell of Chicago, World Boxing Association champion.

Irving Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager, said Wednesday night that the mishap to the boy disrupted training Tuesday but everything was back to normal Wednesday.

While George resumed training, Ungerman and Chuvalo's trainer, Theodore McWhorter, examined their boxer with Terrell's advisers on the type of glove to be used in Monday's 15-rounder at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The row erupted Tuesday when Ivy Schoenwald, co-promoter of the fight, produced a set of Frager gloves.

The thumbs, said Ungerman, stuck out too far.

Sam Solomon, Terrell's trainer, and Bernie Glickman, Terrell's adviser, didn't agree.

Several unpleasantries were exchanged.

But Wednesday the Chuvalo camp, along with Schoenwald and Merv McKenzie of Toronto, the Ontario athletic commissioner, bustled down to the customs office in Toronto to look over a set of Everlast gloves.

"I like the safety extension on the hand and the shorter bent fingers," said McKenzie.

The new gloves, shipped from New York, have more padding across the fist than the others.

Ungerman liked them better too, saying the Frager gloves were made just "to thumb a guy."

"If Ernie wants to play thumbs, he's got to play thumbs, too," said Ungerman.

"There has to be a winner, but I don't want to see a blind winner. I've seen movies of Terrell and he has a habit of fighting open-handed and leaving that thumb in front of his opponent's face."

Terrell, Glickman and Solomon will study the latest shipment of gloves today. Each fighter will have a chance to choose his own set Monday morning at the weigh-in.

Zooming Bombers Zero In On Stamps

Score Was 22-0

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers Wednesday handed Calgary Stampeders their first shutout in nine years, a 22-0 defeat before a sell-out Western Football Conference crowd of 32,266.

The Blue Bombers' victory moved them into a tie in WFC standings with Calgary. The Bombers have finished their regular season schedule but Calgary has one more game Sunday in Vancouver against U.C. Lions and a victory would give Calgary a first place finish.

Should Calgary lose in Vancouver, Winnipeg will be awarded first place because they've downed the Stamps in two of the three games between the clubs this season.

Calgary last suffered a shutout against Saskatchewan Roughriders, 33-0, Oct. 27, 1956.

Fullback Art Perkins led Winnipeg to Wednesday's victory, scoring two touchdowns. Halfback Farrell Funston picked up the third touchdown while tackle Norm Wiston kicked three converts and halfback Ed Ulmer booted a single.

DEFENCE TOUGH

Bombers put up a rock-ribbed defence, rushing quarterback Eagle Day so consistently that he completed only two of 15 passes.

Perkins and barging halfback Dave Raimey found lots of running room through big holes in the Stamps defence.

Perkins scored both touchdowns in the first quarter, one on a two-yard plunge set up by himself and another on a picture 30-yard pass play from quarterback Kenny Ploen.

Ploen tossed another touchdown strike to Funston from 11 yards out after an interference call and roughing penalty against Calgary helped move the ball downfield.

Ulmer booted his fourth-quarter single from the Stampeders' seven yard line, sending the ball right out of the end zone.

Calgary knobacker Wayne Harris suffered a pulled groin muscle during the game.

OFFENCE STRONG

Winnipeg had 22 first downs and a total offence of 343 yards while Calgary managed only six first downs and an incredibly low 81 yards on total offence. The Stamps picked up eight yards passing compared with Ploen's 180 yards passing on 22 completions out of 20 tosses.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have locked up third place, finish out their regular schedule with a game against last-place Edmonton Eskimos in Edmonton Saturday.

The Roughriders have 15 points, the defending Grey Cup champion Lions 13 and Edmonton 10.

Winnipeg and Calgary now have 22 points apiece.

Sawchuk Saved The Leafs

BOSTON (AP) — "That third period took a year to play," said Toronto coach Punch Imlach Wednesday after his Maple Leafs gained their first National Hockey League victory in three starts.

"It took a year off my life," he said. "I hope we don't have to win every game 5-1. It's too much."

* * *

TERRY SAWCHUK

* * *

The reason Imlach suffered as the Leafs handed Boston Bruins their second straight loss, was that Boston carried the play in the third period.

It was a spectacular performance by veteran goalie Terry Sawchuck that kept the Bruins from pulling the game out.

"Our boys got a little excited," Imlach said. "They iced the puck a few times when it wasn't necessary. They may have been pressing too much."

TO DEFEND CROWN

PANAMA (AP)—Ismael Laguna, world lightweight boxing champion from Panama, will make his first defence of the crown in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Nov. 18 against Carlos Ortiz, the former champion, it was announced Wednesday. Laguna dethroned Ortiz, a native Puerto Rican now living in New York, in Panama last April.

GRANT HAGERMAN

Juniors Show Promise

Stu Muirhead's Junior "B's" romped to a 13-1 win over Ter-Haar Daubers, 1964-65 Quinte League champions, in an exhibition marathon last night.

Condition, speed and top scoring efforts by Grant Hagerman, Peter Fleming and Carl Boomhour were the deciding factors in the 90-minute workout.

The Quinte leaguers matched the youngsters stride for stride in a fast-skating first period the Juniors scoring the lone goal.

Moore from Urch squared the count early in the second but the youngsters pulled away to grab a 3-1 period lead.

Then the roof fell in on the city champions. Led by Hagerman and Fleming the Juniors poured home ten goals in a 45-minute third period.

Ter-Haar failed to score despite the fact the Juniors drew five of their seven minor penalties in the period.

Grant Hagerman led the scoring parade with three goals and four assists. Fleming also scored three, getting one helper. Boomhour came through with two goals and two assists.

A fine performance by the Junior goalie, Carl Brant, held the Daubers off the scoresheet. Generaux in the Daubers' net also pulled off some fine saves despite the score.

Scoring honors were liberally spread among the Juniors. Thirteen of them racked up one or more points. Altogether they recorded 30.

Other scorers for the winners were Summers, Potts with two assists, Stewart, Pringle, Post.

The Juniors showed effects of the tough training grind and appeared to be rounding into top condition.

They showed plenty of speed. The defence looked good while the checking stood out, especially when a man short.

The only thing lacking perhaps is "luck". The 1965-66 edition is perhaps the lightest junior squad to represent the city.

Muirhead had them well under control. In the dressing room he warned "a deliberate stick-swinger will draw a six-game suspension."

The game was cleanly played. The Juniors drew seven penalties, the Ter-Haars four, all minors.

After the game Coach Muirhead said, "I'm pleased with their performance. They are rounding into shape but there are still a few rough spots to iron out. They're a bit on the light side, but a light, fast-skating team that stays on the ice can give the bigger boys a run for the money."

The Daubers showed plenty of skating, shooting and passing ability until what looked like lack of condition showed in the third period. Bill McNevin was a standout and always a dangerous scoring threat.

The Juniors meet the Cobourg Cougars here tomorrow night in the Junior "B" League opener.—G. H. C.

PETE FLEMING

Ed Lopat Given New Job

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Ed Lopat, once replaced as manager of Kansas City Athletics, was named executive vice-president of the Athletics Wednesday and placed in charge of the entire baseball operation.

Owner Charles O. Finley also announced that general manager Hank Peters will remain with the club as executive administrative assistant to Lopat.

"Peters is no longer general manager, but we have not cleared up titles yet," Finley said.

Lopat, 47, joined the Athletics as a coach in 1962 and managed them to an eighth place finish in 1963. The following year he was succeeded as manager by Mel McGaha and became vice-president in charge of player personnel and development.

Lopat started last season in the same capacity but returned to coaching duties June 21.

Finley also said the venerable pitcher Leroy Satchell Paige has been "offered a contract to be one of our two pitching coaches for 1966. . . ."

Leafs On Witness Stand

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said Wednesday he will go to Toronto Saturday to investigate an allegation of tampering with Bernie Geoffrion against Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The league president said he expects to have his investigation completed early next week.

Campbell, who interviewed Geoffrion at NHL headquarters Tuesday, said he thought Geoffrion was straightforward in his replies to questioning.

"I have talked to all the people I had to hear, and I think by the end of the week, after I've had an opportunity to communicate with the Toronto people, the matter will be resolved," Campbell said.

The alleged tampering came to his attention following a formal complaint by Sam Pollock, Montreal Canadiens' general manager.

Pollock said Smythe offered Geoffrion a $35,000 annual contract for a five-year term to go to Toronto as a player.

Geoffrion, current coach of the American Hockey League's Quebec Aces, was placed on Montreal's voluntary retired list 18 months ago when he decided to hang up his skates.

Under NHL regulations, no club can deal with Geoffrion without the consent of Canadiens.

Quinte Wins Over Picton

Q.S.S.'s Senior soccer team defeated Picton 3-1 in a game played at Quinte yesterday afternoon.

Dave Millar sparked the winners with a pair of goals, while Richard Ellis booted the other.

Picton's lone sharpshooter was Bob Tully.

Vancouver Group Drops Out

VANCOUVER (CP)— Industrialist Frank McMahon Wednesday announced the withdrawal of his group's application for a National Hockey League franchise in Vancouver.

He said he fully supports the application of Fred Hume and associates.

Apparently contending bids were placed earlier this month before NHL directors, who gave provisional approval to Vancouver as a member of an expanded NHL by 1967-68.

McMahon and Hume were told by league president Clarence Campbell to get together and place a single bid.

A letter made public by McMahon Wednesday i n f o r m s Hume's associate, Allan McGavin, that the McMahon group is formally withdrawing its application.

In Montreal, Campbell said he didn't "plan any action of any kind at the moment."

"We said at our last meeting that the prime consideration would be a suitable building before we would grant a franchise to the existing group," Campbell said.

Asked if the Vancouver group would lose the $10,000 deposit they had to include with the franchise application, Campbell said he didn't know exactly what would happen with the money.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP)— Ronnie Feagan of Goderich, Ont., registered his 175th victory of the harness racing season Wednesday night at Garden City Raceway and Ontario Jockey Club officials discovered he isn't the leading driver in Canada.

Gilles LaChance of Montreal, it turns out, has driven 177 winners around Quebec tracks this season.

Feagan had no trouble Wednesday night guiding H. A. Meadowland, a horse from his own stable, to a 4½-length victory in the one-mile Etobicoke Stakes with a purse worth $3,460. His time was 2:07 4-5.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Leroy Hanover, owned by Robert C. Kailah of Detroit, took the lead in yards from the wire and won the featured $1,200 eighth race at Windsor Raceway Wednesday night.

The five-year-old bay gelding covered the mile pace in 2:06 4-5 and finished ahead of second place Lynden Alex and third-place Quel Adios. The winner returned $12.70, $7.30 and $3.80.

Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Rousseau picked up two assists Wednesday night in Montreal Canadiens' 6-3 win over New York Rangers to take over sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Rousseau has eight points on two goals and six assists. He was awarded an assist—in an official NHL correction — on Terry Harper's Sunday night goal in New York.

In second place is teammate Jacques Lapointe with nine points—one goal and five assists. He is followed by Jean Beliveau of Montreal and Dave Mohns of Chicago who have five points each.

Hornets Sting LA Blades

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Norm Beaudin scored three goals Wednesday night in leading Pittsburgh to victory over the Hornets of the American Hockey League to an easy 10-2 victory over Los Angeles Blades of the Western League.

The game counts in the standings of both teams in their respective leagues.

Beaudin scored two goals in a row at the start of the second period as the Blades' defence began to fall apart. They had battled the Hornets on even terms in the first period, which ended in a 2-2 deadlock.

The Hornets rammed in four goals in the second period and four more in the third while hoisting the Blades scoreless.

Brian Smith netted a goal for Los Angeles at 1:38 of the first period to give the Blades their only lead of the game. The Hornets were short-lived as Pittsburgh tied it at 1-1 when Garry Jarrett scored 72 seconds later.

Seals Tie Victoria

VICTORIA (CP)—Two of the top-rated teams in the Western Hockey League, Victoria Maple Leafs and San Francisco Seals, fought to a 3-3 draw in their first clash of the season Wednesday night.

A crowd of 2,386 fans watched the visitors jump into a 2-0 second period lead. The Leafs fought back to tie it with less than two minutes left in the game. An overtime period produced no scoring.

Wayne Connelly scored two San Francisco goals while Charlie Burns got the other. Bill Shvetz, John Sleaver and Milan Marcetta shared the scoring for Victoria.

The tie left Victoria atop WHL standings with nine points, three ahead of Portland and four ahead of the third-place Seals.

Broke Leg, Didn't Know It

TORONTO (CP) — Ludwig Helmrath, Canada's leading race driver in 1961 and 1962, and second this year, is back in Toronto with a broken leg he didn't know he suffered until he ran uphill and down.

The 30-year-old driver, who came to Canada from Germany in 1956, suffered the injury Oct. 17 when he smashed his $16,000 McLaren in the Mosport Grand Prix at Monterey, Calif.

The car hit a hay bale on a turn, flipped over a couple of times and landed upright.

Helmrath noticed flames racing through the dry grass toward his car, so he leaped out and ran up a hill.

Then he remembered the car's ignition was still on, allowing the fuel pumps to add fuel to the fire.

Helmrath ran down to the car and switched off the ignition. Then he scampered back up the hill a second time where he sat down and watched the car burn.

But when he tried to get up a sharp pain shot through his right leg.

"I couldn't get up," he related Wednesday, "but I did not think the leg was broken."

It was. Doctors at a nearby hospital had the x-ray plates to prove it was. The leg was broken below the knee.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The daily double paid $79.20 at the Western Fair Raceway Wednesday night after M o l o t o v Byrd won the first race at $6.00 and Pipe Clay Bill the second at $18.20.

The fourth race exacta was $70.90 when Vital Victory paid $4.70 to win and Cass Hunt $7.90 to place second.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Ivet Hope, a nine-year-old gelding owned by Leo H o u l e of Deschenes, Que., posted its 10th win in 13 starts by winning the featured ninth race at Connaught Park Raceway here Wednesday night.

The gelding ran the mile in 2:06, a full length ahead of Frosty Magic.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Wyandot Girl, owned by Lorne Armstrong and Walter Dick, both of Leamington, Ont., hustled to her fastest time of the season despite the chill in winning the fourth race in a row at Batavia Downs Wednesday night.

The filly was clocked in 2:06 3-5 in her seventh win in 13 outings a three-year-old. Anthony Mac Rae was in the sulky for the $800 pace.

TWINS TALKING TRADE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Twins' president Calvin Griffith, who stood pat with his sixth-place 1964 team and won the 1965 American League pennant, is working on a "real, big" trade. Griffith said Wednesday he's working on a deal with New York Yankees that will bring the Twins a utility infielder and an outfielder in return for three Twins' players.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Little-known Bob Howsam has healthy troubles since becoming general manager of St. Louis Cardinals, but they are nothing compared to the spot he is on now.

Howsam replaced the popular Bing Devine in August, 1964, causing an uproar among St. Louis fans because Devine was fired when the Cardinals went on to win the National League pennant and World Series with Devine's players.

Then in his first full season the helm, the 1965 Cardinals finished seventh.

In the last week Howsam has traded three-fourths of the infield that carried the team to the flag.

HE'S ON SPOT

"I guess I'm really on the spot now," he said after trading first baseman Bill White, short-stop Dick Groat and catcher Bob Uecker to Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday for outfielder Alex Johnson, pitcher Art Mahaffey and catcher Pat Corrales.

"But I'm a positive thinker. I'm not trying to get rid of players. I'm trying to build a better ball club."

Last week, he traded third-baseman Ken Boyer, the league's Most Valuable Player in 1964, to New York Mets for pitcher Al Jackson and outfielder Charley Smith. Thus, almost half of the team that won the world championship is gone.

"We have added some young ballplayers to a club we expect to be fast and aggressive," he said. "If we do any more dealing, it will be with fringe players."

Weather Worth $130,000

TORONTO (CP) — It wouldn't have cost much for Joe Peters to take out rain insurance to cover his $130,000 investment in Sunday's soccer game here between Napoli of Italy and Independiente of Argentina.

But because of the memory lapse, the Toronto realtor who is promoting the game could see his investment washed away if there is foul weather.

"I've never done this sort of thing before," said Peters.

Napoli is currently tied for first place in the first division of the Italian Soccer League and the team from Buenos Aires is rated the second best club in the world.

Welshmen Surprise Russians

By REUTERS

The Soviet Union, already certain of a place in the World Soccer Cup finals in England next year, suffered a surprise 3-1 defeat by Wales in its final match in its qualifying group at Cardiff Wednesday night.

The Russians, with five successive victories in their earlier group matches, were shaken out of their well-drilled stride by the spirited Welshmen.

Spain sounded a warning to the World Cup rivals with a 4-1 victory over Ireland. The two teams meet on a playoff for a place in the finals, but on Wednesday night's form, Spain seem certain to qualify.

Belgium crushed Bulgaria 5-0 and now both teams share leadership of their group. Both must play Israel and a playoff seems likely.

Already through to the finals are: Brazil (holders), England (host nation), Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Uruguay, Hungary and the Soviet Union.

Record 62 By Player

ADELAIDE (AP)—South Africa's Garry Player shot a record - breaking 62 in the first round of the Australian Open at Adelaide's Kooyonga golf course today, then, bitterly criticizing himself for not breaking 60, went to a gymnasium for a workout.

Player's 31-under-par 62 gave him a four-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus, who had a 66 with Australians Darrell Welch and John S u l l i v a n another stroke behind with 67s.

Player started with an eagle three and set a record 36-under par—for the first holes. He came home in 34 to equal the world record for open golf. He had a total of 10 birdies.

Golf writers claimed his 62 equalled Spanish Canada Cup player Ramond Sota's in the 1955 French Open.

Player afterwards said: "I thought I could achieve my biggest ambition and break 60 in open play. I am going to try harder tomorrow."

Nicklaus' only comment was: "The game is not over yet. I've still got a chance. But I've never seen anything like Gary's play today. He was terrific."

Player clipped four strokes off the course record of 66. Par is 72.

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australian distance runner Ron Clarke set world records for the 20,000 metres and the one-hour run at Geelong, Victoria, Wednesday night.

He clocked 59 minutes, 32.7 seconds to cut 5.6 seconds off the 20,000 metres record and covered 12 miles, 1,093 yards, one foot, 10 inches to add 46 yards to the one-hour record.

Both old records were held by Bill Baillie of New Zealand and were set in Auckland, New Zealand, two years ago.

Clarke now holds seven world records.

Liberal Senator Stresses Fine Government Record

PICTON (Staff) — A crowd of over 200 last night heard Senator John J. Connelly speak on behalf of Liberal Candidate Lloyd Woolsey, in the auditorium of Queen Elizabeth school in Picton.

Among the platform guests were H. J. McFarland, Mayor of the Town of Picton; Senator John J. Connelly; J. Donald Baxter; Wilfred McCabe, President Prince Edward Liberal Association; William Lane, Picton Barrister and Lloyd Woolsey.

J. Donald Baxter introduced the guest speaker and said that next to the Prime Minister, Senator John Connelly was the busiest man in the party today.

He referred to the Senator as a Canadian states man who knows the needs and possibilities of Canada. Senator Connelly in his opening remarks thanked the Picton people for their warm hospitality and expressed his pleasure at seeing his old friend Harvey McFarland once again.

"This is an impressive area of Canada," said Senator Connelly, "with a mixture of the agricultural and the industrial, this is one of the areas where so much can be done for yourselves and your children." He continues saying, "I know this history of Liberalism in this riding is not as strong as in some other areas. However the time has come and the man has come — in the person of Lloyd Woolsey.

The six main topics Senator Connelly stressed in his talk were Education, National Health and Medicare, Social Security, and Canada's peace - keeping role.

"On Education, he said, "there is a revolution in the field. Education is not a Federal responsibility but it is a National problem. If Provinces haven't enough money for their needs it becomes a Federal responsibility to see to it that the younger generation have the means to make a good life for themselves. He spoke of Social Security and he once thought they could not bring about the plan within 30 months but they did and now the Canada Pension Plan is on the Statutes of Canada, to benefit the people throughout the country, he said.

PENSIONS DISCUSSED

Senator Connelly said that, "the old age pension plan rates of $25 would be only peanuts at the costs of living rise!" The plan the Liberal party proposes will provide a great deal more for those who need it, when they need it." he said.

The Senator spoke of the Agricultural treaties introduced by the Liberal Government. "The Canadian Grain Board, he said, engineered the tremendous treaty, the biggest in the history of world grain trade. These are only two, he continued, one to China the other to Russia but what the public may not be aware of is that there have also been eight other treaties made with eight other countries.

Speaking of unemployment, the Senator said, unemployment was at an all time low of 4 percent between 1957 and 1963 — now it is lower than 2½ percent. The first job we had to do was to get our people back to work.

In closing the Senator spoke of the new Canadian image Canada enjoys abroad. "We are very proud of our peace-keeping forces through out the word," he said.

Following Senator Connelly, Lloyd Woolsey spoke briefly on the policy he would follow if he was elected and closed saying, "Let's forget the Party — It's been party too long — let's see what we can do for the riding.

Senator Connelly was thanked by William Lane a Picton Barrister, who said he was glad that Ottawa came enough about us to send a man of Senator Connelly's calibre to Picton and Prince Edward County.

Entertainment was provided throughout the evening meeting by a group of young ladies, all of Toronto, who sang and accompanied themselves with guitars. Thanks were expressed by Senator Connelly to the girls for their fine vocal renditions. The three girls, Teresa Lingo, Aliza Lingo and Marie Harvey were brought from Toronto by Dr. Lionel Dockrill campaign chairman for the Liberal Party in this riding.

PC Candidate Holds Meeting At Wellington

PICTON (Staff) — This week at the Wellington town hall A. Douglas Alkenbrack told a meeting what the Conservative party if given a mandate would do for the people of Canada. He gave the party's Agricultural program detailed coverage, affirmed the $100 a month old Age pension pledge and made the point clear on the urgent need for unity and honorable government. With equal emphasis, he told of steps he had taken to prevent the further pollution of Lake Ontario waters and promised his continued vigilance. His address brought applause.

Earlier the candidate, who has worked as hard as any in this election, spent the day visiting nearly every local voter with a stop at the plant of Quinte Milk Products where he found another interested audience.

The meeting was chaired by Mr. Patten, president of Wellington Conservative Association, other platform guests included Allan Anderson, president of the riding; Mr. Kenneth Wood, Hillier president.

Commodore Plomer of South Marysburgh, Major J. Bird of Picton, and Mrs. Nind were the campaign speakers. The former expressed the need for every voter to accept the responsibility in government by voting for what he reasoned was right, not only for the constituency but for the nation. Flags, whether we like them or not, are symbols. So far the new flag has symbolized little we could be proud of—that must be changed.

Major Bird described what the Progressive Conservative party had achieved in meeting the great and growing demands in the field of education. He pointed out that our new facilities for technical teaching in Picton were the result of this. He said the Liberal government had dropped this fine program and were doing nothing. Mrs. Nind, a spirited and witty campaigners, brought laughter as well as reasoning to the issues presented. Her tribute to John Diefenbaker was sincere and convincing.

Centennial Grants Are Approved

PICTON (Staff) — Approval of the grants shared equally by the two governments, was announced jointly Tuesday by Hon. Maurice Lamontagne, Secretary of State and Minister responsible for Centennial Affairs, and Hon. James Auld, Ontario Minister of Tourism and Information, and chairman of the Provincial Centennial Committee.

Included was the Town of Picton for construction of an addition to the municipal library building estimated at $25,000. The two senior governments will supply $4,851 each, the town providing $10,298 aided also by an Ontario Department of Education grant of $5,000.

Recreation Conference Is Planned

PICTON (Staff) — A conference on planned community recreation will be held in Queen Elizabeth School, Saturday, Nov. 20 from 12.30 to 5.00 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to assess the recreation facilities available and those required for the future, also the coordinating of all types of recreation currently in progress and those which might be inaugurated.

Questionnaires have been sent to many organizations enlisting their support and requesting appointment of representatives to the conference. Committees have been set up to arrange program, record results of group discussions, publicity etc.

A full discussion of recreation needs and possibilities by those now engaged in, or who should prove to be of great benefit.

STEEL EARNINGS DROP

Bethlehem Steel Corp., the second-largest steelmaker in the U.S., said Wednesday its third-quarter earnings dropped to $32,220,000 from $36,270,000 in the 1964 third quarter. The company's net profit for the first nine months of the year rose to $121,423,000 or $2.64 a share from $104,928,000 or $2.20 a share last year.

REPORTS LOWER PROFITS

Standard Oil of New Jersey Wednesday reported a drop of 3.8 per cent in its net profits for the first nine months of 1965, despite higher output and sales. Net income totalled $769,000,000 or $3.37 a share, compared with $799,000,000 or $3.71 a share for the first nine months of 1964. Sales totalled $9,371,000,000, a 5.6-per-cent rise over the $8,876,000,000 last year.

GAS PRODUCTION UP

Production of crude oil and equivalents amounted to 24,630,746 barrels in June this year compared with 24,600,546 June last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday. Natural gas production amounted to 106,981,281,000 cubic feet in June, an increase of nearly 17 per cent from last year's June output of 91,501,724,000 cubic feet.

INCREASES DIVIDEND

Directors of Westinghouse Electric Corp. voted Wednesday to increase the quarterly common stock dividend to 35 cents a share from 30, it was announced in Pittsburgh. The increased dividend and the usual 85-cent-a-share dividend on the 3.80 per cent preferred stock are payable Dec. 1 to shareholders of record Nov. 8.

SHARES REINSTATED

Shares of Bell Knit Industries Ltd. have been reinstated for trading, the Toronto Stock Exchange said Wednesday. They had been suspended Sept. 30 pending investigation into what the TSE called unusual and unexplained market action in the stock.

MACLEAN'S INCOME UP

Maclean - Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd. had net income of $1,339,000 or $1.34 a share in the nine months ended Sept. 30, compared with $796,000 or 80 cents in the similar 1964 period. Net sales rose to $24,289,000 from $20,895,000.

ASTHMA HITS 100

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—More than 100 persons were treated for asthma attacks in the last 24 hours, Charity Hospital said today. The heaviest flow of patients came during the late evening when a smoggy haze hung over the city. Some asthma patients require oxygen to assist breathing during the periods when smoke or smog hovers over the city.

Horror Movie Trend Still Going Strong

By JACK HUTTON

My petite 15-year-old friend was moaning about the state of the world — the nuclear threat, South Viet Nam, the cost of milk shakes.

"What I've give to read something cheerful," she said. "It's a troubled world my generation lives in."

Then her face brightened. "But I am going to a movie tonight. Maybe you've seen it — The Fall of the House of Usher."

Seen it? I still can't forget that haunted castle, those never-ending thunder storms and people suddenly popping out from behind doors in the dead of night.

But what, I'm still wondering, has a movie like that got to do with cheering someone up? And yet a whole generation of Canadian moviegoers are flocking into theatres or drive-ins to be scared out of their wits.

Theatre owners report that the horror movie trend, which really hit a peak a few years ago, is still going strong across Canada. If anything, it's stronger.

And look what's happening to us! We can look at a weekly series based on a family of monsters and find them funny. The only funny but appealing. Herman Munster would draw a lot of votes if he were running in our federal elections.

BECOME SOPHISTICATED

Because we become so sophisticated about our horror movies, just one line can trigger recognition of the entire plot. Look at the following and figure out your own H.Q. (Horror Quotient).

"Doctor Frank, why will you not allow me to watch your nightly exercise? After all, it's my laboratory."

You got it. Sulky Dr. Frankenstein has grown up again to carry out his dastardly experiments, using a shortened version of his own name. A clue to give you odds the questioner's friends up in the experiment.

"Dear, you don't seem yourself today. What are those marks on your neck?"

That dare Dracula. He's been around again, flashing that wide boyish grin and posing on windowsills with that 19th century black opera cape. That spells trouble, as you already know.

"Very well, Miss Brown, you start work at the castle immediately. But under no circumstances will you ever go above the third floor. I repeat, never."

The trouble with horror secretaries is that everyone is so nosy. Of course Miss Brown goes up to the top floor finding her way up the narrow stone stairs with a tiny flickering candle. And when she gets there she finds ... University here. Mr. Reid said Tuesday in an address to the United Nations Association that no underdeveloped country has tripled in the last 15 years but it is essential it be tripled again in the next 10 years.

you're ahead of the plot again. Dr. Frank always seems to be finishing himself over with silly little clues like that. But mark my words, he means that hospital no good.

Why do we watch horror movies when the world of reality sometimes seems grim enough by itself? If you caught even half the above examples (how was your H.Q.?) you've watched your share.

If we're escaping from reality, there are other ways to do it than scaring yourself silly. But several thousand movie-goers will hold their breath while they wait for the poor monster to be foiled again this weekend.

PERPETUAL REALITY

I asked a psychologist friend for his opinion on the trend. "Well in the final place, there's nothing new about this," he said. "It's perfectly healthy and normal to enjoy horror movies.

"Our parents and their parents before them were exposed to the most frightful forms of shock and suspense. Every travelling carnival, for instance, had its freak shows, complete with strange noises and phony ghosts.

"Some of the best short stories ever written were ghost stories. Just imagine Edgar Allan Poe trying to get them printed today. He'd be right in his element.

"But I'm sorry I can't talk too long," he concluded, "My son and I are just going to watch Dracula Meets Frankenstein. A good show. We've only seen it five times."

St. Ola

ST. OLA — A pleasant social evening was held in St. Ola Orange Hall on Friday evening. The ladies of the district provided a pot-luck supper, enjoyed by all, after which everyone joined in card playing, crokinole and games. Such gatherings create a little social life for the young people as well as the older folk.

Mrs. Beurah Weller of Rochester, U.S.A., is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Elsie Ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Phillips and children of Napanee, Miss Gale Phillips of Kemptville, Mr. Lee Campbell of Grafton and Mr. and Mrs. G. VanAllen and boys of Belleville were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips.

Sympathy of the district is extended to the relatives of Mr. Frank Hubbs, who passed away in Bancroft Hospital on October 24. Funeral services were held from Weaver's Funeral Home in Trenton on Wednesday, October 27, with interment in Greenhush Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bellisle and daughter of Toronto motored from Toronto on Friday evening. Mrs. William Bakey refurnished with them after a holiday of two weeks in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ross and girls of Ormsby visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips on Sunday.

The junior choir were in attendance last Sunday evening in St. Ola; United Church, under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Davidson. It is a pleasure to see the young folk taking part in a church service and much credit is due the parents in arranging to see the children attend practice.

Castro Stops Exodus Pending Pact With U.S.

HAVANA (CP)—Premier Fidel Castro today cut off the sea exodus of Cubans from the port of Camarioca as a prelude to a U.S.-Cuban agreement to bring 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month to the United States by air.

(In Key West, Fla., a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said hundreds of Cubans have set sail for Florida despite bad weather. Waves 10 feet high were reported in the Florida Straits which separate Cuba and the U.S.)

EXPANDIN

Acceptance of major new industry into Belleville will bring about a drastic reversal in the present downward trend of real estate values. An influx of new citizens will stimulate a lagging demand for homes, increased spending power will replenish languishing business and arouse new found demand for goods and services of all kinds.

Prepare for this inevitable wave of the future, which will multiply population and escalate land values, through the purchase of key properties such as the former site of Elliott Motors at Dundas W. and James Sts. Here is 30,000 square feet of land on the No. 2 through artery from Toronto and Prince Edward centrally located near the heart of the city. The buildings are ideal for a bus terminal etc. Extra space on the paved parkway for lease out to restaurant and milk bar etc. Think of the future, then ask yourself if you could duplicate this ready-to-move-in property for only $97,000.

KKK Ran Schools On Time Bombs, Booby Traps And Molotov Cocktails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Georgia Ku Klux Klan ran howto-do-it schools for its members on time bombs, booby traps, Molotov cocktails judo and karate, a congressional investigator has testified.

With Georgia Klan Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig sitting on the witness stand, investigator Philip Manuel testified Thursday that such a school was held on a farm near Mason, Ga., in October, 1961.

He said Craig and the top U.S. klansman, Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton, attended the three hour demonstration, which included:

—How to make a booby trap with a mercury switch from a washing machine.

—How to rig detonating caps and fuses with dynamite.

—How to make a bomb with "three or four minutes getaway time" by taping dynamite to one end of a board and arranging a cigarette so that it would burn down and light a book of matches.

—How to make an incendiary bomb from a bottle of powdered sugar and potassium chlorate, to be set off by a capsule of acid. Manuel said the instructor, William B. Crowe, talked about using it in department stores that bowed to racial integration, by having a klansman go in, to try on a suit and then leave the bomb in a pocket of the suit.

—How to set a car-on fire by taping a firecracker to a bottle of gasoline, so the explosion would spray burning gas all over the inside. Manuel said this was demonstrated on a derelict car and Crow said the fire was so intense that no one in the car would have been able to escape.

—How to make a bomb from a common fertilizer, sodium phosphate.

As all the Klan leaders have done since the start of the hearings of the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities, Craig refused to answer all questions, citing constitutional rights including those of the fifth amendment against self-incrimination.

The committee recessed its hearings until Monday. It told Craig to come back for more questioning Nov. 5.

Winter Swipes Eastern Canada, Snowfall Heavy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winter hit Eastern Canada with the first major snowfall of the season Thursday, and set records with it in Ottawa and Quebec's Eastern Townships.

Sherbrooke, Que., and the Eastern Townships were hardest hit with up to nine inches in the area. Sherbrooke itself had 8.9 inches, breaking by almost six inches the previous record for an October day of 3.3 inches set in 1939.

The snowfall tied up traffic, put city buses out of operation Thursday morning and was blamed for an auto accident in which a girl was injured.

Ottawa, with 4.6 inches, set a record for a 24-hour period in October and also suffered major traffic tieups. A woman was killed when her car skidded into a tree.

In the Maritime provinces only Prince Edward Island escaped the onslaught. Nova Scotia had from one inch on one to two inches, and flurries were reported in New Brunswick which had five inches of snow Wednesday night.

A weather office spokesman said the snow was not unusual for this time of year but the temperatures were unusually low and there were no records were set.

Snow-belt sections of Ontario near Georgian Bay and Lake Huron also had as much as five inches of snow and many points had the lowest high temperatures for the day on record. Toronto's mean daily traffic fatality near Kitchener attributed to the snow.

Guelph recorded the highest snowfall in southwestern Ontario with two inches. Toronto Island had half an inch that melted as it fell and there were one to two inches at Sudbury, North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie, where snow also melted soon after hitting the ground. At Timmins the snow remained.

Windsor, Ont., proudly reported that while there hadn't been much sun Thursday, there was at least no snow.

The Prairie provinces and British Columbia cheerfully reported comfortable temperatures and considerable amounts of the sunshine Windsor missed.

Forecasts for today call for cloudy, warmer weather in Ontario. This weather is expected to move into Quebec late in the day and into the Maritimes Saturday.

Wilson Warns Britain Will Try To Isolate Rhodesia Completely

From AP-Reuters

SALISBURY (CP) — British Prime Minister Wilson warned Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith Thursday night that the British government will do all it can to isolate Rhodesia completely if Smith's minority white government seizes independence, informed sources said today.

Informants in London said Wilson and Smith have reached a showdown and perhaps the breaking point.

Wilson's warning was delivered to Smith at a dinner attended by leading members of the two governments.

The Associated Press reported that Britons who were present said Wilson's words seemed to cause Smith concern. The Rhodesian leader was said to be re-examining his whole position, the AP added.

Wilson and his party made plans to return to London Friday but their schedule was still fluid.

TALKS FAIL

Both British and Rhodesian sources made it clear that the talks failed to produce any common ground for negotiations. A final attempt to seek a way out was to be made today.

Wilson told Smith that a unilateral declaration of independence by the Rhodesian government would invite a total embargo on the oil supplies coming to the land-locked central African country.

The blockade would be organized on land and at sea to pre-

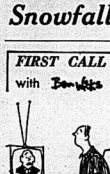
THE NEWSPAPER has moved into the classroom as a teaching aid. Ted Young and Linda Lalonde, along with the rest of the 12A class at Nicholson College, study The Intelligencer's editorial page. After reading the editorials, the class discussed their content and answered such questions as "What makes a good editorial?", "What's message was in the editorial?" and "How is an editorial constructed?" Newspapers have come into wide use in the city's classrooms, serving as up-to-date textbooks on many subjects.



"The bulk of Nielson's ratings have now been tabulated. We regret the cancellation of all our programs for the season."

Ontario Potatoes Said Poor

GUELPH (CP) — The Ontario Farmers Union was told Thursday Ontario potatoes sold to Canadian consumers are often dirty, sunburned, ungraded as to size, and have black cores.

Mrs. Helen Morningstar, director of the Consumers Association of Canada, told 200 delegates to the union's annual conference here association receives "more complaints about Ontario potatoes than about any other single product."

In contrast, she said Ontario potatoes for export markets are clean and free of blemishes.

Mrs. Morningstar said farmers should treat consumers as partners, not just "people on legs" because the time is not too far distant when store operators will "buy only where they can get an assured continuous supply of high-quality products."

Farmer delegates at the meeting blamed packers for poor-quality potatoes.

Walter Miller, second vice-president of the Farmers Union, said they could not communicate with these people (packers) until hell freezes over and it was time to do so. The remark was made in reply to Mrs. Morningstar's suggestion that there should be more communication between farmers and packers.

John Dolmer of Guelph was elected union president, while Berry Haggett, of Addison, was named junior president, and Mrs. Jeanne Williams of Stirling, women's union president.

Drift to Obsolescence Reversed By Forces' Integration -- Temple

BATAWA — Integration of Canada's armed forces has helped reverse a drift to obsolescence and made possible the re-arming of the services with up-to-date equipment, Robert Temple, Liberal candidate seeking re-election in Hastings-South, said here last night.

His speech, to a rally of supporters from his own riding and neighboring Northumberland-Durham, was officially launched at integration by his Conservative opponent, Lee Grills.

Mr. Temple, whose riding includes the RCAF's huge Trenton Command, Trenton base, and who was also a government member on the Commons defence committee in the Commons House, said Mr. Grills' speech, as reported, sounded like "half-truths out of context."

He said Mr. Grills had called the new service organization a "headless monster."

"The head of the forces is Air Marshal Miller of the RCAF. It's a fine way to refer to this body headed by one of the outstanding personalities in the history of the armed forces," he said.

He said Mr. Grills claimed at present low morale existed in the airforce because personnel did not know when they would be retired.

"He should know that all releases below the rank of squadron leader were completed last June. Either he knows and has not bothered stating it or he has only bothered to inform himself of the fact."

LOW POINT IN '62

He said the low point in service morale had been reached in 1962 when the Diefenbaker government purchased 700 million dollars of defence equipment, then rendered it useless by being unable to operate it if it should purchase the nuclear weapons to make it effective.

"The reason behind integration is one that is very important. We must have new and modern equipment."

In 1954 some 44 per cent of the defence dollar was spent on equipment. However, a downward trend set in until by 1964 only an estimated 13.3 per cent would have been spent.

"If the trend had continued unchecked then next year, by 1965, there would have been no money available for new equipment."

WOULD DEBATE ISSUE

Now one billion dollars has been earmarked for new equipment over the next five years, thanks to the integration scheme.

"The Liberal government is determined that we are going to give our armed forces the best equipment. What greater disservice could we be doing our armed forces and Canada than having our services armed with obsolete equipment?"

Mr. Grills, said the Liberal candidate had "better get his facts straight and know what he's talking about."

If necessary, he added, he would publicly debate the issue with his Conservative opponent.

He criticized Mr. Grills claim that the Air Force was unhappy about the proposed new CF-5 jet fighter and had called it a training plane.

"I don't think we'd better put some of the facts on record," said Mr. Temple.

He said the plane, with a speed of 1,000 m.p.h., costs less than one million dollars, has a fast rate of climb, does not have to depend on extended hardened runways and has varied armaments.

"And yet the Americans who are heavily engaged in Viet

Cathedral Desecrated By Vandals

LONDON (CP) — Vandals desecrated Canterbury Cathedral today. This was in apparent protest to a speech by Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury, saying Christians could support British use of force if Rhodesia declares independence.

Cathedral officials said the word "peace" in big red letters was splashed on the cloth of the main altar, red and blue paint was daubed on the back of the altar, over the 13th century St. Augustine's chair on which archbishops are enthroned, and on the tomb of the Black Prince, buried there in the 14th century. Paint also was sprayed over the Bible on the lectern.

Catholics Put On New Path

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The new decrees proclaimed by the Vatican ecumenical council put the Roman Catholic Church firmly on the road to the 20th-Century renewal Pope John charted when he called the council together.

The council's action Thursday in a public session presided over by John's successor, Pope Paul, formally bound the church to new rules not Christian.

The Pope and his bishops told Roman Catholic teachers of religion they must never charge the Jews with the crucifixion of Christ.

Officially, Roman Catholicism never has admitted that, through the centuries the belief, with the word "deicide," had been planted in the minds of many men.

The Catholic Church also has

Viet Cong Denied Military Victory But Picks Away at Vietnamese Army

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. military men and civilians have changed the face of vast areas of South Viet Nam. How deep and lasting the change will be remains in question.

Since March, tens of thousands of U.S. combat troops have poured in. Giant convoys move men and equipment. Bulldozers cut through red sandy soil. Tent cities spring up almost overnight.

"You want to know what it all means?" asked a U.S. Army major. "It means we're here to stay and nobody is going to shove us out."

The pendulum has reversed from the dark days of January and February when it appeared the Viet Cong might chop up the country, demoralize the South Vietnamese army and walk away with the whole show.

Then the massive air assaults began, both inside the country and against targets in North Viet Nam. U.S. combat troops started landing in the total of toward 150,000 U.S. military personnel in the country. Thousands more are expected.

The feeling now is that the first objective of this massive military buildup has been met: The Viet Cong has been denied the military victory that seemed within his grasp.

But there is no smug talk here of easy victory among high officials.

The Viet Cong showed at the battle at Plei Me in the Central Highlands that they still are willing and able to fight. This also has been shown in a resurgence of attacks in the Mekong Delta country of the south, an area that has been relatively quiet and where no U.S. combat troops have been based.

"You can call Charlie (slang for Viet Cong) almost anything you want," said a field-grade officer in the delta town of Can Tho, "but you should never make the mistake of calling him stupid.

"If he can help it, he's not going to tangle with any big American units with all their air and fire power, but he's going to keep picking at them and he's going to keep building up the Vietnamese army when the odds are right. Just look over there and you'll see what I mean."

He pointed to the bodies of about 50 South Vietnamese soldiers slain in a bitter delta clash.

It is many persons think, the Viet Cong now decides to go back to strictly guerrilla warfare of hit-and-run attacks by small groups, it is conceded that the war could drag on and on. The guerrillas could tie down huge numbers of combat troops who would spend their time seeking an enemy who has shown he can melt into the countryside with ease.

Charges Bureaucratic Rules Are Hampering Care of Aged

FERGUS, Ont. (CP) — Bureaucratic regulations and lack of communication between government departments, is hindering care of the aged, Dr. B. T. Dale, director of the Wellington-Dufferin health unit said Thursday.

Dr. Dale, who is medical officer of health, told the ontario Legislature's select committee on aging that nursing homes are visited by about a dozen different field workers for various inspections and nursing home operators are left thoroughly confused by them.

Regulations of the department of health and of the department of welfare often conflict in dealing with nursing homes, Dr. Dale said.

He quoted different standards imposed by the general welfare Assistance Act and the Homes for Special Care Act to two different departments, and the regulations of the two departments conducted.

The way which regulates homes which often come under both acts, different on minimum temperatures to be maintained, numbers of basins and toilets to be provided, kinds of personnel required, and fire inspection regulations.

Judging from the variation in regulations, officials of the health department must not be on speaking terms with officials of the welfare department, he commented.

The select committee was in Fergus, 20 miles north of Kitchener, to hear Dr. Dale's submission.

Dr. Dale suggested:

—Licencing of nursing homes by the provincial department of health in order to set a uniform standard, and inspection by the local health authority;

—A joint-departmental committee between the health and welfare departments to end confusion and unnecessary overlapping;"

—Government - sponsored research into old age process.

Okay Business College Courses For Student Aid

Ontario Business College in Belleville has been approved as a specified educational institution under the Canada Student Loans Plan. This approval was received from the Department of University Affairs over this past weekend. This approval has been granted for either the executive secretarial option or the junior executive option. These courses require secondary school graduation diplomas.

A supply of brochures and application forms for the use of eligible students has been sent to the College and those interested in these courses may obtain the necessary forms from the college office.

For eligibiy: (1) the applicant must be a Canadian citizen resident in Ontario or a landed immigrant resident for twelve months in Ontario; (2) applicant must be enrolled as a full-time student in an eligible course; (3) applicant must have need 9f financial assistance after taking into account normal educational costs and the financial resources of the student and his family.

If the applicant is in need of assistance, the amount of his loan is determined by the office of the Department of University Affairs, using a standard procedure applicable to all applicants.

If a loan is approved, a certificate of eligibility will be issued to the student authorizing him to negotiate a loan in the amount stated at any Canadian chartered bank or credit union which has been designated as a lender for the purpose of this plan. Full instructions will be issued to the student.

For a student to continue to remain eligible he must not leave the course before graduation, other than for brief periods of bonafide illness, and must not change to an ineligible course before graduation.

Mrs. O. A. Brown, principal of Ontario Business College, and her staff are most gratified that Department of University Affairs has granted this approval, and since almost 50 per cent of the students attending have Grade 12 Diplomas or higher, the need for this service is clearly demonstrated. Mrs. Brown has been corresponding with the Department of University Affairs regarding this for a long time, and that it has been finally achieved is cause for celebration.

Bell Engineering Training School Attracts Students From All Parts of Canada

Established back in 1959 a Bell Telephone Engineering Training School drawing "students" from all across Canada and from half way across the world, has been operating with little public awareness in downtown Belleville.

At any one time between 40 to 50 telephone engineers will be attending classes held in the former Bell manual exchange building on Pinnacle street just north of Bridge.

The "students" many of them just out of engineering or technical schools, are sent to Belleville by their telephone company employers and attend classes for a week before returning to their jobs. As many as 26 different courses are given at the training school with up to five being in session at any one time.

MANY ASPECTS COVERED

The courses cover all aspects of telephone mechanics but there is strong emphasis on theoretical study and fundamentals as opposed to equipment instruction. The main purpose of the training school is to upgrade engineers and keep them conversant with new developments.

Many of the engineers taking the courses are part of the organization but other company phone companies from all parts of Canada also send their engineers to Belleville.

In some instances instructors from the local school conduct courses in other centres for private phone companies with about 20 such field trips being made so far this year.

This week there are four

"students" from India and Pakistan attending the Bell school in Belleville. One of them, Amar Chawla, is from New Delhi, India, but is now working at Saint John, New Brunswick.

OPERATED FROM MONTREAL

There was a two fold reason for Bell locating its engineering training school in Belleville.

The main reason was that Belleville is midway between Toronto and Montreal and therefore cuts down travelling time. Actually the school is operated by remote control from Montreal headquarters.

The second reason for the Belleville location is that there is not the big city night life attraction here and the engineers are able to concentrate more on their courses.

The classes are held about ten months of the year from September to the first of July, the other two months being utilized in setting up courses for the next term.

This year there will be about 1,500 student weeks registered at the school. Some of the engineers might return to Belleville four or five times to take different courses. The training school has a staff of 11, including two secretarial personnel.

And like most other seats of learning, the Bell school is having accomodation problems.

The Pinnacle Street building has three class rooms and with up to five courses being operated at one time, other temporary classroom space has to be provided.

Gideons Plan Banquet at Oct. Meeting

The October meeting of Belleville and district Gideons reviewed the activities of the association for the past month and finalized plans for a banquet to be held on November 4th.

Scripture placement secretary Clayton Greatrix reported that at the request of the Rev. Mr. Kennedy, minister of St. John's United Church, Tweed, 150 Bibles had been placed in the Tweed and District Collegiate Vocational Institute High School by Robert L. Turner and William A. Watson, the books being received by Principal W. R. Hamilton. In expressing his thanks for the gift, Mr. Hamilton told how useful the Bibles would be in the religious instruction classes conducted in the school by several members of the Ministerial Association. Mr. Kennedy, as teacher of one of the general classes being taught spoke very appreciatively of the Bible placement ministry of the Gideons, particularly in schools.

Preparations for the November 6th banquet occupied a considerable part of the evening, President Beverley Powler calling on Harold R. Robinson for a report on arrangements.

Mr. Robinson informed the meeting that the Pinnacle Room of the Hotel Quinte had been secured, and that the speaker was to be Leonard D. Crimp, former Vice President of H. J. Heinz Co. of Canada Limited, new president of the Gideon International in Canada. Mr. Robinson also pointed out the fact that President Crimp has recently completed an 8½ months' tour of the far east and that his speech was expected to be one of very great current interest to Gideons and to the general public, to whom the meeting is also open.

WANT SEGREGATION

DETROIT (AP)—Five Orthodox Jews have asked Wayne County circuit court to reopen their synagogue to restore the traditional segregated seating between and women at worship services. Judge Horace W. Gilmore Thursday ordered congregation Gemiluth Chassodim in Detroit to return to separate seating until a hearing next Wednesday. The synagogue's board voted for integrated seating last month. The plaintiffs said this violates 3,000 years of Jewish tradition.

District Council For Scouting Elects Officers

Belleville District Council for Scouting held its annual meeting Wednesday evening in the Scouts' Parish Hall. The meeting was called to order by president J. A. Glover and Dist. Padre Field Commissioner Harper led in prayer. Before presenting the annual report the president made mention of the service to scouting of the late Mrs. Flora Gelston.

The annual report indicated that while 1964-65 left much to be desired it was a fairly creditable year. After the adoption of the reports as a whole president Glover turned the meeting over to D.F.C. Harper who asked for a report of the nominating committee. In presenting the slate of officers for 1965-66 Percy Pickering broke it down into three parts:

District executive: past president — Archie Lewis; president — J. Alfred Glover; vice-president — Dr. Robert Allore; secretary — Mrs. A.-J. (Betty) Fort; treasurer — Lewis Archives.

Executive — friends of Scouting — Harry Burley, Jack Devine, Robert Emerson, Robert Hall, Cecil Heard, Andre Mercier, Lewis Orser, Jack Watson, Don Weskett, Bruce Thompson.

Executive members at large — Tom Smith, Howard Rainbird, Don Finkle, Mike Dowbyhuk, Harold Ford. The slate of officers had been accepted D.F.C. Harper first brought greetings from Provincial President W. R. Kay; Provincial Commissioner Ron Phillips and Assistant Provincial Commissioner Lew Griffiths. He pointed out the general need of keeping scouting before the public. The activities of some of the groups closer to home including a camp planning advendure near Hudson Bay by five senior scouts. D.F.C. Harper mentioned that the theme for 1966 would follow the pattern established over the past two years when it had been 1963-64 — Fit for Life; 1964-65 — Fit for Adventure; 1965-66 — Fit for Service.

Future scouting activities in which the theme could be carried out be mentioned were: waste conservation, reforestation, conservation and restoration. The coming Canada-Great Britain scout exchange, National Sailing Regatta and the 1967 World Jamboree in the United States where some 12,000 boy scouts are expected to participate. D.F.C. Harper then introduced Queen Scout Brenda Downing of the 1st Belleville Troop — representative of the district at Victoria Park.

After a few well chosen words of thanks and explanation of the Valley Forge Jamboree Bruce showed colored slides of his experiences among some 32,000 boys from almost all parts of the globe. Scouter Basil Kirby of the 5th Belleville group proposed the thanks of all concerned.

Jack Hodgson said a few words in behalf of the Lady Scouters. Ambulance with particular reference to leader training and scout participation. Retiring president of the committee for Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Fort introduced to the group her successor, Mrs. Edith Thompson who started out on the right foot by having all present to partake of delicious apple pie, cheese and coffee.

Centennial Project Aids Blind Lepers

The White Cane Club of Belleville held its October business meeting at the Recreation Centre on Wednesday evening. President Vi Waite welcomed the members and visitors.

Mr. Preston Timmins, field secretary CNIB, and Mr. Doug McCallum, assistant field secretary CNIB, Toronto were present and spoke briefly.

Mrs. Rollins read the correspondence, which included a letter from the executive secretary of the Canadian Council of the Blind.

This letter stated that the CCB board of directors, at their spring meeting, decided that a special fund should be established to assist the Royal Commonwealth Society for the Blind in their work in restoring sight to blind lepers. As a result, a special 1967 centennial year project has been established.

This project is a meaningful and worthwhile one of lasting benefit, and something in which every blind person can have a by and satisfaction of participating.

Recently a surgical team headed by Dr. Harold Ridley of London, England, an outstanding eye specialist who is giving his services voluntarily, has gone to Malaya, Singapore and Hong Kong to perform corneal graft operations on a selected group. This is the first time that advanced corneal grafting techniques have been used in the field in an attempt to restore sight to people blinded by leprosy. It is estimated that there are at least 20,000 blind lepers in these countries.

The club readily agreed to contribute to this worthy project, and is still sending their annual donation to the regular Overseas Blind Fund.

TALK ON T.B.

Mrs. K. A. Abbott, who is with the local Public Health Department was present and gave an interesting and informative talk on tuberculosis.

During the question period Miss Abbott stressed the importance of a chest X-ray for anyone who knew that he had been in direct contact with a person having this disease. If T.B. is present it can be detected by X-ray before the person notices any symptoms. Treatment is most successful when the disorder is found early. T.B. is contagious and early treatment will keep the sufferer from passing the T.B. germs on to family and friends.

Mrs. Helen Wardhaugh thanked Miss Abbott for her timely address.

The girls of the Kinette Club served lunch and were thanked by Doug. Huffman.

IN MEMORIAM

WANNAMAKER — In loving memory of a dear mother and dear grandmother, Mary Wannamaker, who passed away Oct. 29, 1964.

She has no one her last farewell, Bade goodbye and left no token; The heavenly gates were opened, In loving arms and welcomed.

We often sit and think of you, And shed a silent tear;

But memory keeps you near us, Without a chance to say goodbye, Though we could not stay to see you die, Still missed, loved, still ours, You will live in our memory, Until the end of time.

Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter in law Dorothy and family.

WILKINSON — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, George William Wilkinson, who passed away Oct. 29, 1961.

His weary hours and days of pain, His troubles are past, Peace remains;

And in our aching hearts he lives, And there he always will remain.

Sadly missed by wife and families.

Professor Amos E. Neyhart, a leading U.S. expert on traffic safety, will address Belleville industrialists and Bell Telephone employees during a two-day safety seminar sponsored by the Belleville Bell Telephone.

Safety Program Inaugurated by Bell Company

The Belleville Bell Telephone Company has announced an extensive employee safety program for November.

Charles Barkley, Bell manager, said, "The Bell has always been keenly aware of safety and willing to do much more than pay lip service to it.

"As a result, we have decided to embark on a safety campaign to make our employees more aware of safety problems. We have been distributing pamphlets on general safety to our employees every day for the past month.

"The campaign will be culminated by a series of meetings, November 1 and 2, when Professor Amos E. Neyhart of Pennsylvania, regarded as America's pioneer in Driver Education," will speak.

Defensive driving will be emphasized during the professor's sessions next week.

Prof. Neyhart will address the employees in daily sessions November 1 and 2, and will speak to approximately 150 Belleville industrial leaders at the Hotel Quinte, Monday at 8.30 p.m.

Among many other things, Prof. Neyhart is a consultant to the Education Committee, President's Committee for Traffic Safety, an organization he formed recently by a special order from President Lyndon Johnson.

Many Applying Twice for Insurance Card

The Unemployment Insurance Commission said today that the current registration for the Canada Pension Plan is apparently leading many Canadians who already have a social insurance number to apply for a second one. The Commission emphasized that the one number provides identity for the Canada Pension Plan and unemployment insurance purposes and that the individual should have more than one number.

Those who apply more than once may be building up future difficulties for themselves in regard to payments from either or both plans. They may find that they have created more than one "account" for their contributions and may have trouble obtaining their full entitlement when the time comes to obtain benefits.

The UIC noted that every effort is made to avoid assigning more than one number to an individual. However, when the particulars given on one application are not identical to those given on an earlier application, a second number will be issued.

For the individual who already has more than one Social Insurance Number, the Commission says the solution is simple. He should report the problem to the nearest UIC office, bringing with him, or mailing, all the social insurance number cards in his possession. The Commission will cancel the later number or numbers and supply a new social insurance number card if the original one has been misplaced.

While it is an offence for a person to knowingly apply for more than one number, it is recognized that most multiple applications are made inadvertently. The Commission stresses, and this its immediate interest is to have those who contribute to either the Canada Pension Plan or unemployment Insurance to do so under one - and only one Social Insurance Number.

Interchange Lighting to Be Examined

If the interchange at the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway and Highway 14 leaves you in the dark, it may only be temporary.

The secretary - manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce reports that Hon. C. S. McNaughton, Ontario Minister of Highways, has promised to investigate the lighting situation at the Interchange.

The Minister told the Chamber of Commerce in reply to his request that the Regional Traffic Engineer of the Department of Highways will discuss the problem with representatives of the Chamber and the City Engineer.

PC Candidate's Name Taken Off Voters' Lists

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)—Returning Officer Colin B. Duggan of nearby Upper South River said Saturday he took the name of Progressive Conservative candidate Dr. D. Hugh Gillis off the voters' list because Rod Chisholm of Antigonish, president of the Antigonish-Guysborough Liberal Association, said Dr. Gillis was not a Canadian resident under the terms of the Election Act.

Dr. Duggan said Dr. Gillis' name had been on the list in the Antigonish - Guysborough federal riding, but it was removed Oct. 21, revision day, before the Chisholm told him Dr. Gillis was only a summer resident in Canada.

Dr. Gillis, head of the communications department at Boston University for the last five years, has said he will continue his campaign for a seat in Parliament in the Nov. 8 federal election. He said he still maintains a home at Pinevale, Antigonish County.

Mr. Chisholm said Thursday there is a "serious question as to whether or not he (Dr. Gillis) is a qualified elector under the Canada Elections Act."

He said Dr. Gillis applied to the United States immigration service for admission to the United States as a permanent resident Oct. 28, 1959. "His application was granted," Mr. Chisholm said. "Thereby he did not lose his Canadian citizenship but the application showed his intention.

Mr. Chisholm said Dr. Gillis had resigned his position at Boston University. He had sought a leave of absence. He said Dr. Gillis had not owned his wife and children to Canada.

Two Threatened With Death Says Witness

TORONTO (CP) — A former RCMP undercover agent testified Thursday he and his partner were threatened with death by marijuana smugglers last winter on the marijuana trade here.

Constable Christos Sampson, 26, was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Mickey MacCha1am, 23, and Alfred Julius Ames, 27, both charged with possession of, and trafficking in, marijuana, and Nancy Elizabeth Ames, alias Orions, 22, charged with possession of marijuana.

Constable Sampson said he and Constable John Pielechaty, a 120-pound rookie, initiated Toronto's underworld last January and purchased marijuana within a few days.

Constable Sampson quoted MacCallum as admitting "I supply 75 per cent of the marijuana in Toronto" and later threatening he and Constable Pielechaty: "If you guys are cops you'll never get out of town alive."

The hearing continues.

Donald Fraser Again Seeking Council Seat

TRENTON — Donald R. (Nick) Fraser announced last night he would be a candidate for a council seat in the December 6th election. Mr. Fraser served on council in 1960 for a one-year term; was re-elected to 1961 council for a two-year term but resigned at the end of one year owing to pressure of business.

The teams of Councillors Joseph Gould, C. V. Graham and Duncan McDonald are finished this year.

NDP Candidate Making Rounds Of Riding

TRENTON — Thorid Hoskin, New Democratic Party candidate for Hastings South has been making the rounds of his riding, beginning in Bellville, Trenton, Tweed and in other centres, as well as the rural areas.

Yesterday, Mr. Hoskin expressed his gratitude to his employer, "who is rather well known for his Liberal leanings), who not only gave him a week off for campaigning, with pay, but also wished him every success in his first attempt to gain recognition locally for his party in the up - coming federal election.

In all campaign speeches, Mr. Hoskin has adamantly refused to "run down" his opponents, Liberal Robert Pringle and Conservative Lee Grills, referring to them as "fine gentlemen" and good representatives for the riding when they were in power.

Mr. Hoskin is also insisting that his workers refrain from tacking up his election placards on hydro or telephone poles, as he feels the rails which remain after the signs are torn down might cause danger to utility workmen. Mr. Hoskin promised to have his signs removed within two weeks after Nov. 8.

Town Engineer Reports Sewers Now Installed

TRENTON — Town engineer Eric Aldersey said today that the Cobourg Construction Company's work on water mains and sewer installation to the west section of Burnbide Heights in east Trenton was nearing completion. Services will be taken to lot lines and the roads in the area graded for spring paving.

Meanwhile, work on the installation of a storm sewer in the Elmwood Acres sub-division should be finished today, and a new auxiliary sewage pump installed in a few days. This will clear up surface water and sewage problems in this area and the roads are also earmarked for spring paving.

Tenders will be called for in the near future for the installation of a sewer main on five blocks of Front Street, between Middle and Bloomfield Streets, and tying in with the Department of Highways' projected work on the west approach to the new bridge.

Mayor James MacDonald said on Thursday that tenders for the supply of structural steel for the new bridge had been called for Nov. 1. It is expected a contract will be awarded on Nov. 8. Tenders for work on the approaches to the bridge are expected to be called by D.H.O. in early December.

All the town is seeking approval from the Ontario Department of Highways for the construction of Dundas Street East between the bridge and Bay Street. If approval is gained, the next question is . . . when to call tenders for the work.

Obviously, winter would be a bad time to have the street torn up. Merchants object to it being torn up in summer. Mr. Aldersey said the most logical time for the work would be the spring, and even then he anticipates complaints from motorists and truckers who travel the route daily.

Pauline Jewett Outlines Liberal Policies to Club

TRENTON — Dr. Pauline Jewett, looking trim and lovely, and belying the 42 years she admits to, brought the members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club to their feet in ovation, after she delivered a hard-hitting address last night. In the audience were well-known Conservatives, out-of-town guests from Brighton, Cobourg, Cobourg, Belleville and Wooler. The New Democratic Party was represented by the audience at the Gilbert House by Thorold Hoskin, candidate in South Hastings.

Dr. Jewett took a swipe at her most formidable opponent, George Hees, (PC), when she read from a weekend newspaper in which Mr. Hees was quoted as saying he "didn't have any idea how much his campaign was costing him."

"Typical Tory thinking," said Dr. Jewett, "Mr. Diefenbaker has made promises which would cost the country a billion and a quarter — Mr. Diefenbaker should he be elected. George Hees doesn't even know how much his campaign is going to cost."

Dr. Jewett said her own campaign would cost $12,000 and was budgeted to the very cent.

Dr. Jewett said the most needed legislation in her opinion, was relief in terms of the cost of medicine, especially dental and drugs for senior citizens (over 65) and that she would press to have this problem solved should she be re-elected.

With the Liberal-sponsored medicare program on the books, Dr. Jewett said the next item of social involvement was for a medical care program, where government would provide medical schools, teaching hospitals and staff training to fill the needs for doctors, nurses, surgeons, psychiatrists and psychologists

EDUCATION PLANS

Dr. Jewett touched on the Liberal plans for furthering education, training and re-training programs, pensions, salaries and promotions in the air force, minimum wage standards across Canada, the needs for skilled labor in industry and post graduate training needs for university grads.

Dr. Jewett was introduced by Hugh O'Neil and thanked by D. R. (Nick) Fraser, who remarked that Dr. Jewett had a worthy opponent in George Hees, (who spoke to the club last week), and said it seemed a shame that one must be defeated.

Head table guests included Keith Parker, manager of the Trentonian, Rev. John Innes, Miss Hazel Farley, Robert Carleton, president of the Belleville Quinte Kiwanis Club and Miss Mary Casselman, Business and Professional Women's Club representative.

The meeting was conducted by Kiwanis president, Fraser "Babe" James. Guests were introduced by past president Howard Aziz.

Swimming Pool Vote Will Be Taken Dec. 6

TRENTON — Trenton voters will be asked to rule whether or not a swimming pool should be built in the Community Gardens area at an estimated maximum cost of $75,000 to the town, which sum would be either worked in with the five-year capital budget plan or raised by a special levy which the taxpayer would pay separately from his standard taxes.

The pool would be built southeast of the arena and would be entirely independent from the pool the Rotary Club announced Tuesday it would be built in the high school.

Voters will also be asked to rule on Sunday movies and Sunday sports in the December 6th municipal election.

Contamination Problem

The evidence suggesting that food is being contaminated increasingly by antibiotics and pesticides is mounting. The Ontario Hospital Association was told in Toronto this week that the use of these elements is becoming an "increasing worry" to doctors.

This is a matter of grave concern, if only by reason of the fact so little is known of the real extent of the problem, its effect on public health and so on.

Researchers have enough information, however, to warrant further investigation. For instance, Dr. Harding Le Riche of the University of Toronto told the hospital association meeting that autopsies on humans have revealed DDT in body fat, showing that "we are permeated with the stuff."

In this connection, University of Guelph investigators have found DDE, a metabolic breakdown of DDT (a pesticide) in the liver tissues of herring gulls. Hundreds of these birds have been found dead along the shore of Lake Ontario.

Dr. Lars Karstad, head of the wildlife diseases division of the university was quoted as saying: "Since seagulls are fish-eaters, we naturally suspect the fish may have been the poisoning factor.

Moreover, most meat, according to Dr. Le Riche, is infected with salmonella, a bacteria which caused an outbreak of food poisoning in Canada last year. "I am not an advocate of the undercook steak," he said in Toronto.

These are disturbing revelations. Researchers have known about them for some time, but only now is the public being appraised of the situation. Once it was the bomb tests and radiation that had everybody scared. Now this.

Banner Incident

Is it unfair for supporters of one political party to wave their banners before the leader of another political party? The Peterborough Examiner posed this question in reporting an incident which occurred in Peterborough station last Saturday when supporters awaited the arrival of Conservative leader John Diefenbaker.

Standing on the platform were three girls from a local high school. They had done some campaigning for the New Democratic Party and on this occasion were carrying a sign bearing the name of Arthur Parker, the NDP candidate.

Spotting the girls, Conservative candidate Fred Stenson approached them and said it was a "pretty dirty thing" for them to picket Mr. Diefenbaker and his party with NDP signs.

"No," responded one of the girls, "I don't think it is."

"Well I do," Mr. Stenson was reported as saying. Then he added: "Now go on . . . get out of here . . . scram"

"I don't see why . . ." the girl said, almost in tears, but Mr. Stenson pressed his attack: "Go on . . . and grow up."

Unnerved, the girls, all aged 16, lowered their signs and hurried away. Which is a pity, for they would likely have been treated with greater courtesy by Mr. Diefenbaker. The Conservative leader relishes such opposition, heckling and the like, as well as a display of political awareness by the young people of this country.

Subtle Approach

As advertising men know, the subliminal technique is among the most effective in getting a message across. That is, low-key advertising that lays the surface of the mind and drops into the subconscious without one knowing it. This is the method being employed just now by the Immigration Department to attract more people from Britain.

Appropriately, the campaign is being conducted in London subways, which are used daily by thousands of businessmen and office workers. And the poster that is catching the eye of commuters is a simple one, showing a red-and-orange maple leaf with the word "Canada" above it in the same color.

"It is a teaser," a Canadian immigration official said. "We have ordered about 4,500 of them, to be displayed in London's underground and at railway stations at a dozen other British cities."

He went on: "All we want to do at the moment is make the average person here thinks about Canada, whether it is a trip, a purchase or a place to settle. We will leave the posters up for eight weeks and then follow with another series with a more direct message."

Meanwhile, the maple leaf poster is having its effect. The official said requests for information about Canada have increased. Which goes to show how effective a simple, uncomplicated approach can be. Incidentally Canada absorbed 38,000 immigrants from Britain last year. This year about 38,000 are expected.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Private industry and municipal governments in Ontario, keeping pace with Provincial government plans emphasizes Canada's critical housing shortage which hinges today on a bitter race between demand and supply with the demands of perhaps the greatest building boom in history persisting until stripping efforts to find enough labor and materials to meet them so far.

Born of five years of warshifted populations and diverted manpower and building materials, it is a situation which has no magic answer.

From the varied departments concerned in the capital, itself still drastically short of homes, come these statements on a shortage that plunges from much the towns of New Brunswick as the cities of Montreal and Toronto: 1. In all probability there will be a housing shortage a year or more hence, 2. In these incipient stages of reconversion, home construction particularly for returning veterans, has top priority.

At the coming municipal elections the voters will be asked to vote on the question of daylight saving. The ballot will read: "Are you in favor of daylight saving time in this city from June 15th until the opening of the Belleville Fair for the years 1936 and 1937?"

The Soviet Union's armed suppression of the 1956 Hungarian uprising was a "sad experience," according to Vadim Nekrasov, chief foreign editor of Pravda.

"It was sad for the world, for my country and the cause of socialism," Mr. Nekrasov told a University of Toronto teach-in on international affairs.

He didn't mention that it was sad for the Hungarians, who, for a few brief hours, thought the Red army tanks rolled in, thought they might win popular democratic government at last.

Suicide Real Threat In Mental Illness

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Yesterday we had a first-hand story of a patient who came back from a mental hospital, able to appreciate the sometimes unpleasant aspects of returning to reality.

Today's letter is not so happy.

Dear Dr. Molner: I think more information should be put out to help the mentally ill and their families. I believe many suicides could be prevented if the families of the sick knew what to do for them.

I was faced with the situation. The doctor would only give my husband pills, and they did no good. Finally I phoned the sheriff and told him I needed help.

His advice was, "Call the doctor. He will make arrangements with the hospital and your husband can be taken care of."

The doctor got my husband to agree to go voluntarily, but when it came time to sign the admittance papers he refused. He sfid the doctors at the hospital could do anything to him, and that even if they ordered him to cut off his legs, he would have to obey.

It was a Saturday, and I was told that I could not get a court order then to keep him in the hospital. We brought him home. He now says that the problem had become.

In certain types of mental illness, suicide is a real and dangerous, and quite widespread threat. In the case of your husband, I have a strong suspicion that more than one type of mental illness may have been involved. But that is a technicality. (In physical illnesses, more than one type can be involved, too.)

Psychological depression can be a fearful thing. There are several types, bit all have this in common: The patient is depressed and sometimes considers the easiest way out of his troubles: Suicide. He usually talks about it, or hints at it, or even tries it without succeeding, before he finally ends everything.

I wonder if your husband made such threats? He may have. Maybe the threats were not taken seriously. But a threat of suicide never should be ignored. It may be very real.

Your husband has distorted ideas of a mental hospital. He may also have some more emotional troubles than just depression. Perhaps he was beyond such simple sheriffs, judges, friends and all of us, not excepting past generations which have built up the customs of not doing business on Saturday, will have to realize that this is a problem that is not to be solved. At least we are recognizing the need, and that's half of the battle. Now let's get at the other half.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is best for a cold, to drink cold, warm or hot fluids — P. V.

They are all good because they are fluids.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Brown liver spots have been appearing on my hands and arms. Is there any drug to be taken for this, or does it reflect a deficiency of some sort that can be corrected?

What about the salves I see advertised to stop age spots? Is it wise or safe to use them? — Mrs. M. G.

These spots are not related to the liver, and are not a sign of any deficiency. They're a result of the tendency of skin pigments to intensify as we grow older.

The salves doubtless are safe; whether they do enough bleaching to help is a matter for you to decide.

DDT Found In Gulls

Windsor Star

Hundreds of seagulls found dead along Lake Ontario last summer are believed to have been poisoned by insecticide, says a wildlife expert. A high concentration of DDT was found in their bodies.

A small matter this, the poisoning of a few birds which, however beautiful, have very little practical value in a practical world? No. No small matter, even to the most practical human.

The poisoning of gulls is another link in the chain of evidence which shows more and more clearly the dangers which the unrestricted and unthinking use of chemicals is creating for all living things.

Insects yesterday. Seagulls today. Fish tomorrow. The larger animals soon. Man when?

Sex Theme Overstated In Novels

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Interesting how words become restricted in their use: "morality" used to mean "right relations between persons"; nowadays it almost always has something to do with sex, which is only a small part of morality.

In the same way, "realism" in fiction and drama has come to mean a clinical preoccupation with sexual matters. When we say that a certain novel or play is "realistic," nine times out of 10 we are referring to its frank depiction of sexuality.

But is this really "realism"? To be realistic — and I am not saying that a work of art necessarily should be — a novel or play should reflect the full spectrum of human activities, emotions and attitudes.

Sex is only one among many of these, albeit a most important one. Its role was drastically understated in the fiction of the past; now the pendulum has swung so far to the other extreme that it has become the paramount subject of most plays and novels.

Let us stand these, if we will and enjoy these, if we can; but let us not pretend that what we are reading or seeing is "realistic." It is, rather, a selective slice of the whole spectrum of human behavior, which one age has chosen to overemphasize and vulgarize.

A few decades ago, this may have been necessary as a corrective to the squeamish and prudish posture of the 19th century. But the point has already been made; we are here to stay.

How much longer must we be subjected to the microscopic investigation of a subject that has long ago exhausted its dramatic possibilities.

To attack sex works on grounds of "obscenity" is playing right into the hands of the sex - exploiters; and to foolishly into the bargain, for such attacks only titillate the youth it is meant to protect.

Rather, those in a position to educate others should stress the fact that most of these novels and plays are a commercial corruption of the subject. They would shock and disgust Sigmund Freud himself, who knew better than to resort to "realistic" to so banal and obvious a level.

Actually, the emphasis on violence in the popular arts is much more serious than this emphasis on sex, and it is no accident that of all civilized nations the United States has more violent sex crimes than any other. It is our lack of respect for the other person that allows him to treat sex like a commodity to be purchased or plundered.

As long as sex-fiction arouses our moral indignation, it will thrive; only when we can shrug it off as a bore will it diminish; but we have to be adult in our sexual attitudes before we can rid ourselves of childish prudence in our fantasies.

Live Longer

Everybody loves a fat man, the old saying goes. But the thin, wiry people may receive some consolation from surveys which reveal that most persons who live to be 100 are underweight.

Hazardous Period on Roads

Brockville Recorder and Times

The switch to Standard Time on October 30 will compound the hazards of pedestrians and motorist as the hour of darkness falls earlier in the day. And most traffic accidents occur when the sun has gone to rest.

Last year the majority of traffic accidents took place when visibility was poor and the so-called judgement of drivers placed them too close to dangers to avoid a collision. With the change in time youngsters returning home from school will still be on the street at 4.30 — and the combination of children on the streets in great numbers, traffic in increasing numbers and earlier darkness provide the ingredients for an accident situation. With this in mind, and since the police force cannot be everywhere at the same time, more concentrated patrols should be instituted and a campaign for greater care by the motorist stressed. The police patrol can make the school children aware of the additional hazards but they have a difficult task in getting this information and advice over to the drivers.

Police say the primary cause of night-time accidents is what is called "overdriving your headlights." A driver has practically unlimited vision during the day but is restricted to the spread of his headlights at night.

October ranks as the "killer month" and since it is impossible to supervise each pedestrian or motorist, and since traffic enforcement is a difficult problem, it is up to the individual both pedestrian and motorist to heed the call "as darkness increases, so does the potential of traffic accidents." A good driver is one who is aware of potential dangers and compensates for them. So is a good pedestrian.

Nuts Were a Delicacy

Windsor Star

A nut, in modern parlance, too often is the description of someone a bit wacky. But in old Ontario, in the autumn of the year, it had its proper definition. It was a delicacy to be eaten.

Boys and girls of a few decades ago had no particular difficulty, in the areas to which the species were common, in finding walnuts, hickory nuts, butternuts and beechnuts to name some varieties. And they were encouraged to do so by their mothers.

The kids usually knew where one or more trees could be found, and it was fun on a fine autumn day to go and pick them. They made tasty eating, and a good deal of sport in eating. And the mothers could use them to flavor and adorn cakes.

There are few such trees remaining, except in private grounds. The species are the most easily found. And they always were the most easily gathered. It used to be fun was to take a blanket, place it under the tree, haye someone shinny up the tree and give it a hefty shake.

Beechnuts, however, were the most easily found. First the outer shell had to be taken off, and then the triangular inner shell removed with a knife or finger nail. It took some time to get a handful of the little but delicious nuts. And it required a mouthful to get the full flavor of them.

We still recall annoyance of children at a little red school house. There was a fine butternut tree in a neighboring field and the kids waiting impatiently until the nuts were ready. But finally the callous farmer cut down the tree, just because it was an impediment to his tillage! That tree is remembered wistfully.

What Is a Fair Wage?

St. Catharines Standard

Every Canadian capable of thought will agree that all employees are entitled to a fair wage. Too often lost sight of, however, is that any so-called fair wage must be directly related to productivity.

The "fair wage" while unexceptionable on its desirability — is most difficult of definition.

Management in these days must eventually pay a fair wage or it could not stay in business. The employees would go elsewhere. Where union leaders are concerned, a fair wage is just whatever they happen to be demanding. Thus the fair wage can stand some examination.

Certainly no bench worker makes any product laboriously with hand tools is not going to produce to the pace of the machine worker. It follows that, to obtain a wage that is fair against that of the machine worker, his hand worker must charge a price for the product that is beyond that of the machine.

Nobody will pay that, so long as there is freedom of choice for the consumer.

In the final analysis, a "fair wage" must be the sum which can be paid by the enterprise which is able to set up the plant to obtain the productivity which produces profits from which to pay the "fair wage."

The arena of decision is right in the market place.

Pesky Problem

Niagara Falls Review

Ontario motorists who despair over winter - time corrosion on their autos from highway salt were given a new lease on life with the announcement that the Department of Highways will conduct tests this winter — to see what can be done with the pesky corrosion problem.

The high cost of inhibitors to stop the salt's destructive action does not make them feasible, according to our experts in the High ways Department, but this isn't much balm to the motorist who finds his new car rusting out from underneath just because he has to use the highways in July during peak tee periods when the salt is doing its work.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in light trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the morning part of the session today.

Industrials carved out a small gain with Canada Iron ahead 1 to a 1965 high of 62. Westeel Rosco, a lightly traded issue, was ahead ¼ to 20. Imperial Oil ¼ to 54¼, Bell Telephone ¼ to 58¼, Consumers Gas ¼ to 27¼ and CPR ¼ to 70¼.

MacMillan, Bloedel, the giant west coast paper producer, was unchanged at 26¼, but two special transactions totalling 68,600 shares at 25¼ crossed the tape at the opening.

Base metals were a little higher. Inco, which raised its price for copper to 38 cents (U.S.) from 36 cents a pound, was ahead ½ to 99¼. Hudson Bay, which made a similar announcement two weeks ago was also up ½ at 77.

Among speculatives, Pax International was ahead 1¾ to 35¼ cents and United Comstock 4 to 33½ cents, Place, an oil stock, was down 10 cents to 1.15 in profit taking.

Banff lost five cents to 7.60 in western oils.

On index, industrials were ahead .24 to 170.00, base metals .11 to 86.68 and the TSE index .17 to 160.04. Golds were unchanged at 108.5 and western oil .29 to 102.04. Volume at 11 a.m. was 762,600 shares compared with 871,000 at the same time Thursday.

In the main list, Massey-Ferguson dipped ¼ to 34¼.

MacMillan, Bloedel dipped ¼ to 26¼. Royal Bank was off ¼ to 74, Algoma Steel ¼ to 64, Canada Dominion Sugar ½ to 15 and Bell Telephone ¼ to 57¼.

tendered a hand to the Moslems and others whose view of Christianity is often clouded by bitter thoughts of long-dead crusades and missionaries.

The church did not renounce missionary work. It reaffirms such activity in a document still before the council. But it has made clear that the missionaries must seek to spread the message of Christ by demonstrating its values, not by deprecating other religions.

Two years ago, Pope Paul announced he planned to reform and internationalize the Vatican Curia, the central church administration. Since then, many inside and outside the church have wondered whether the reform would come.

The Curia began to build up in size and power after creation of the Holy Office, which in 1542 succeeded to the Inquisition's job of defending doctrine.

One office after another was added in the years after the Council of Trent, the counter-Reformation body, ended in 1562.

Ranking Curia officers act "in the name of the pope" against one of the many complaints by bishops in the dioceses and mission districts that they have too many Curia decisions originate without papal awareness.

CHARGE CONCERNED SYNOD

Other complaints were that the Curia is overwhelmingly conservative, that it is bureaucratic, that it pigeonholes requests; and that it is dominated by Italians.

To meet such criticism, the decree calls for the Curia to be "reorganized with better adapted to the needs of the times." It calls for internationalization of the membership by bringing in diocesan bishops as members. It also suggests that the Curia have specialized knowledge of laymen.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was active and prices were firm on medium steers and good and choice heifers at the Ontario Public Stockyards this week.

Steady prices prevailed on grass-fed slaughter cattle, heavy canner cows and bulls. Cow prices were uneven with the bulk of the good cows selling easier. Light canner and cutter cows were easier.

Top grades of veal calves opened steady and closed at stronger prices due to a short supply. Lower grades were numerous and under pressure at easier prices. Hogs were higher and closed steady and lambs opened higher but closed under pressure at lower prices.

Cattle receipts were about 200 head more than last week and about 1,200 more than the same week in 1964. Receipts from Western Canada totalled 609 head.

Cattle and calves sold off the market for slaughter in the United States numbered 162 and 59 respectively.

LIST SALES

Slaughter cattle 12,500: Choice steers 25-26 with high yielding from 26-27.50; good 24-25; medium 20-23.50; common 12-19; choice heifers 22.50-23.50 with fancy to 24.50; good 20-22; medium 15-19; common 12-15; choice fed yearlings and 24-28 with sales to 26.50; good 21-23; good cows 14-14.50 with sales to 15.50; medium 13-14; canner and cutter cows 9-13; good heavy bologna bulls 18-19 with sales to 19.50; common and medium light 14-17.

Replacement cattle: Good stockers 23-25; good steer calves 26.50-27; common and medium 16-22.

Calves 3,634: Choice vealers 31-34 with odd singles to 35; good 28-30; medium 20-27; common 16-20; boners 11-15.

Hogs 8,276: Grade A at Toronto 34.50-35.00; heavy sows 25.95-27.10 with light sows gaining a $2 premium. Boars sold

Candy Apples Even!

Hokum pokum Kalamazoo,
Help me stir my witch's brew.
There's a goblin. There's a ghost;
Trick and Treating . . . that's the most.

Last Hallowe'en I had a ghost stand on the Fifth Amendment; I had two witches demand red jelly beans instead of "that old green one;" and I was called cheap because I didn't give out candy apples like the "man in the next apartment."

The whole thing was upsetting.

Especially the part about the candy apples. I mean, when kids tell you that the man in the next apartment — who by the way was a friend of mine until this happened — is giving away candy apples, it shakes you up.

Think about it. Candy apples are selling for 15 cents. He gave them away all evening. That adds up to a lot of money.

However, being a cynic, I suspected something was up, and so the next day, mustering all my tact, I casually asked him, "Where did you get the money to be giving away candy apples?"

He was startled. Not only that, he had a guilty gleam in his eye.

"You remember my father," he said. (How could I forget. The first and only time I ever met him, he not only rushed right over and sat in my favorite chair, spilled chip dip on the carpet and suggested we change the channel to the CFL, but when I passed him the potato chips, instead of him taking some and passing them on, he sat there and ate them all.)

"Yes, I remember your father." He pretended to ignore it, but I knew he was the cheerful way I twitched my eye brows when I mentioned his father.

"Well, remember I told you that he was moving to town."

"Yes." (And at the same time I remembered the pain which accompanied my receiving that news and the combination lock I bought to put on the potato chip cupboard.)

"Well . . . the point of these kind of guys who started everything off with well, it was because he liked to give the impression that he was always thinking deeply . . . 'the sorrowful way.'

"Did he?" (at the time I really did not believe it. Simply a case of mind over matter and as usual, my matter was ahead of my mind. Or should that be the other way?)

"Yes."

"That's nice." (Really I didn't think it was.)

"As a matter of fact, he was asking about you the other day."

"About me?" (Somebody save me.)

"Well yes. He said that he wanted to come up and see you again."

"He said that?"

"Yes, and he said that chair was the most comfortable chair he ever sat in."

"Tell him that I feel the same way about the chair." (I did not even feel bad about being sarcastic.)

"I will."

"Thanks."

"Well, as I was saying, my father moved to town and you will never guess what he did?"

"He bought a potato chip factory."

"No."

"He's manufacturing rocking chairs."

"No."

"I give up."

"Well, he's bought a small candy factory."

"A candy factory?"

"Well, yes. And he's making candy apples."

"And that's where you got the candy apples."

"Well, yes."

It may not have been polite, but I started laughing. I laughed, ad infinitum. I remember looking up at him as I rolled by laughing. He was scratching his head. Nevertheless, he still looked guilty.

Now it is Hallowe'en again.

Kids will be out in droves dressed as pirates, policemen, nurses, doctors, witches, goblins, pumpkins . . . everything.

Wait, not quite everything.

I've never quite figured as a newspaper reporter. I wonder about that sometimes. But then I wonder about everything sometimes.

Hallowe'en is a lot of fun. Parents spend money on candy. Stores sell candy. (Including candy apples.) The kids have a ball getting dressed up, even though mother goes around the bend.

And when it is all over, the kids have a bag full of candy and a stomach ache.

In a rare serious moment though, I cannot help add a word about safety. The children are all wrapped up in what they are doing and may not notice the car coming down the road. Take especially care as the stomach ache will be the worst any of Belleville's children get.

And to those few who think Hallowe'en is for committing acts of vandalism, believe me, you get more enjoyment out of a candy apple. If you are too old for candy apples, then why spoil things for those who aren't?

And before I go, how about the trick or treater last year who asked my wife for a kiss.

"You mean a candy kiss," she asked the little toddler.

"Don't be silly, I'm too old for that kid stuff."

"How old are you?"

"Seven."

That's progress!

at 14.60-14.90 a hundredweight on 4 live weight basis.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM J. LOTT

Lott – Hughes

Blue and white 'mums adorned the altar in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday October 23, at 10 a.m., when Theresa Rosalin Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Hughes, Belleville was united in marriage to William John Lott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Lott, Belleville. Father P. J. Kelly officiated at the ceremony, while Miss Dorothy Grant presided at the organ and accompanied Mr. William Mann.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a white brocade dress with train with white floral headdress and white tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with white stephanotis.

Miss Margaret Howard of Belleville as maid of honor and the bridesmaids Miss Mary Culhane and Miss Patricia Donovan, both of Belleville were similarly attired in blue peau de sole dresses with matching headpieces. The little flower girl Miss Debbie Porter was dressed similarly to the other attendants and each carried a bouquet of blue and white 'mums.

Mr. Robert Gerald Lott attended his brother, while Mr. Scott Frechette and Mr. Gerrad McEvoy, both of Belleville were the ushers.

For the reception in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, the bride's mother received the guest's wearing a navy suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a blue brocade dress with a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and points east, the bride chose a blue suit, matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

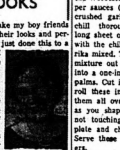
Mr. and Mrs. Lott will reside at 14 A Reynolds Crescent Belleville.

Successful Living

Girl, Parents Clash Over Boy's Looks

DEAR DORIS: Why do my parents take my boy friends apart piece by piece, and always try to drag their looks and personality in the mud? I am 15, and they have just done this to a boy who is very dear to me. This time I really got angry, so I started investigating the matter.

I went to my friend's mother and showed her a very good picture of my boy friend, and she said he was "very, very good-looking (on which I fully agree). I have done this with more than one person and they have all come to the same conclusion.



DORIS CLARK

Doris, please tell me why both my parents come to the horrible conclusion that my dear boy friend is actually homely (which he isn't). This is not the first time this has happened and if they don't stop this pretty soon, I'm going to head them toward an eye specialist. — BAFFLED.

* * *

DEAR BAFFLED: "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder." Could be that a young man who looks good to you is not nearly as attractive to people who are a quarter of a century older than you are.

However, if he is indeed handsome by the usual standards, do you suppose your parents are trying to keep you from going off the deep end about him? They may even be just kidding you. Try not to react so desperately.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I want to get something going here in our lodge for seniors, and you offered a pamphlet on "Tips in Organizing Friendship Clubs." I am sending ten cents for it.

Also, if you have any skits I would be grateful for them. — SENIOR MYSELF.

* * *

DEAR SENIOR: The Tips are on their way; also the names of three books with short skits in them. Good luck!

(There are Canadian resources to help solve your problem. Write to Doris for direction, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Ladies' Aux. B. of R.T. Hold Fall Tea

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen held their fall tea on Wednesday afternoon at the Engineer's hall on Pine Street. Convener was Mrs. Robert Noyes, assisted by Mrs. William Smith.

The president, Mrs. G. Grose and Mrs. S. Morgan welcomed the guests at the door.

The tea table, covered with a white linen cloth with lace inserts, was decorated with red, white and green candles in silver candelabra, flanking red carnations and white 'mums arranged in a crystal bowl. Mrs. George Dimmert was tea hostess and pourers were Mrs. A. Mc-Cormick, Mrs. A. Fitzgerald, Mrs. M. Galbraith, Mrs. J. Ross, Mrs. B. Berry and Mrs. C. Coleman.

The home baking and novelties table was convened by Mrs. O. Robb and Mrs. G. Clapper. Mrs. C. Coleman sold tickets on a draw for groceries and for a cake, won by Mrs. O. Robb and Mrs. A. Eves. Mrs. Doris Clarke and Mrs. Brown were winners of the door prizes.

Members of the auxiliary assisted as servers and replenishers.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

. . . would you either send me direct or put in your column the recipe for Cheese Balls please? . . . Frances M.

ANSWER:

I'm giving my answer in the column because I love Cheese Balls and hope hostesses who are planning Christmas and New Years parties will clip and make these for their guests.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Mixed Seafood Grill: Crumbed Scallops, Crumbed Haddock Strips; Sauce Tartare; Tomato and Celery Scallop; Velvet Smooth Mashed Hubbard Squash; Cucumber Salad with Sour Cream Dressing; Individual Custard Tarts; Assorted Mill Cheeses; Tea.

HOT CHEESE BALLS (or "Puffs" — yields 36):

2 cups fine Holland rusk or Zwieback crumbs, 4 eggs, yolks and whites separated, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ lb. sharp process Canadian Cheddar cheese, shredded.

Beat the egg yolks and add 1½ cups of the crumbs to them. Mix in the seasonings and cheese. Beat the egg whites until still stiff and fold them in until smoothly incorporated. Using a tablespoon as a measure shape mixture into balls, and drop only remaining crumbs on wax paper rolling them over to coat all sides. Have ready deep hot fat at 350 deg. F, and fry balls in it until delicately brown on all sides. Drain on unglazed brown paper and serve hot.

I'm wondering though if you mean

CHEESE BALLS (cold appetizers):

½ lb. mild Cheddar cheese (room temperature) grated, ½ lb. process cheese, shredded, 1 3-oz. package white cream cheese, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce or Angostura bitters, 1 small clove garlic crushed to pulp, 1½ teaspoons chili powder, 1½ teaspoons paprika.

Cream the 3 cheeses together until perfectly smooth with the Worcestershire and hot pepper sauces (or Angostura) and crushed garlic, mix well and chill thoroughly. Sprinkle a long sheet of heavy wax paper with the chili powder and paprika mixed. Turn chilled cheese mixture out on them and form into a one-inch roll under your palms. Cut into ¾" pieces and roll these into balls, coating them all over with the spices as you shape them. Arrange, not touching, on flat serving plate and chill before serving. Serve these with fancy crackers.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Sandra Jean Green, only daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Green, Carrying Place R. R. 1 and the late Mr. K. Green, to Mr. Gordon Douglas Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carter, Amelisburg. The wedding will take place Saturday, November 20, at 12.30 p.m. in Centre United Church, Ameliasburg.

Mrs. William J. Lott, the former Theresa R. Hughes was entertained previous to her recent marriage when a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. R. Casey, Frank Street and at a personal shower at the home of Miss Anna Culhane, Forin Street.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent Nellie Scrymgeour presiding.

Prior to the meeting a potluck supper was served to co-workers, the Loyal Order of the Moose No. 1004 and their families. Following the ritualistic service and prayers which opened the meeting, the guides escorted Brother Frank Allen, recently retired from the Bakelite, to the altar. At this time he was presented with a cheque by the Senior Regent, Nellie Scrymgeour, on behalf of the Women of the Moose and another by Brother Jeff Welch on behalf of the Moose Lodge. Recorder Ruby Stapley presented a bouquet of roses to be presented to Mrs. Allen who was unable to attend due to illness.

Chaplain George Seames spoke briefly and it was announced that caretaking of the hall would be taken over by Frank Allen and the canteen would be in charge of William Scrymgeour, the first of November. He also thanked the Chapter on behalf of the Lodge for the most enjoyable meal.

Later on a Hallowe'en party followed and winners of the costume prizes were: children's prizes, Kevin Reid, Kathie Mitchell, Ruth Ann Johnson, Robert Bunnett, Gregory Johnson, Larry Newton, with adult winners, Mrs. Joyce McCammon and Miss Joyce Stewart. A candy and peanut scramble was held for the children.

Mr. Lee Crills who donated the turkey with cranberries and Mr. Ed Patrick who presented the Senior Regent with a plant were thanked for these kind gestures.

The euchre parties sponsored by the Women of the Moose will resume in the very near future.

FAIL NAVY TEST

VICTORIA (CP) — About 21 per cent of the 3,750 personnel tested at HMCS Naden this week failed to pass physical fitness examinations, the navy reported.

Four Belleville all round card Guides, left, discuss international travel, Ann Gordon, Marie Gulis, Jillian Roulet and Norna Cooper, with Marilyn Reiten, Peterborough, Julie Bradford, guest speaker, Mrs. A. M. Haig, Quinte Area Commissioner and Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Area International Adviser; following the annual Quinte Area dinner held here on Wednesday evening. Marilyn Reiten decorated the blanket with souvenirs from Sweden.

Girl Guide Division Entertains At Quinte Area Annual Dinner Held at Club Canara

On Wednesday evening the Belleville Girl Guide Division was hostess to the Quinte Area annual dinner held at Club Canara, with Mrs. A. M. Haig, Area Commissioner, welcoming nearly 300 guests.

A full program included 24 Rangers and Guides receiving all round card certificates, girls who had travelled internationally told of their experiences; a retirement presentation to the Quinte Area Commissioner and guest speaker, Miss Julie Bradford illustrating her talk on "Operation Crossroads Africa," with color slides.

Wearing the Dalhomey costume, a gift from the natives, Julie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bradford, Albert St., outlined in her commentary how she had spent the past summer in the French speaking state, Dalhomey, North Africa.

AID NATIVES

Assigned with other students from Canada and U.S.A., the group aided the natives to lay the foundation to start building a clinic. Julie, a French teacher in Don Mills and a former Belleville Brownie and Guide, concluded the assignment by travelling among the natives in the undeveloped state. Poverty prevails as a result of an imbalance in nature caused by alternating wet and dry seasons.

Speaking as an International camper, Marolyn Reiten, Peterborough Guide, told of an eight weeks' tour to Sweden with 22 Canadian girls, one week of which was spent sight-seeing in London, England. In Sweden, Prince Carl Gustav opened the camp and inspection was made by Lady Baden-Powell.

TRIP TO GREAT BRITAIN

Telling of the Ontario trip to Great Britain, Guide Mary Madden, Napanee, recaptured the English atmosphere that everyone has felt while reading the works of the famous British poets and authors.

In a matter of fact manner, Monna Cooper, Belleville Land Ranger, told of meeting and being entertained by Lady Baden-Powell, during the Salvation Army visit to the British Isles. She described the head of World Guides as being marvellous.

Included in a guard of honor for the Archbishop of Canterbury.

An Albert College student and Queen Scout from Bermuda, Maurice Endess, attended an East Indian Guide Camp in Trinidad where she first experienced tasting pop per and garlic in food.

The girls were commended on their speaking ability and thanked by Mrs. I. MacKay, Area Training Commissioner, Peterborough. Mrs. MacKay directed her explanation of the revised program in the Guide movement to the Guides. Stating they must move with the times and it is essential to judge the girls by individual effort. In conclusion she advised the leaders to "Let the girls do it, don't do it for them."

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Among the head table guests were Mayor Jack Ellis and Mrs. Ellis. The mayor extended a civic greeting and commended the Commissioners and Guiders for the important job they are doing. He also noted that the leader shortage has affected the district in which they live and his daughter is unable to be a Guide for this reason.

Mrs. A. M. Haig, Quinte Area Commissioner, thanked the gathering for the co-operation she received while in office. As an example the mortgage on the campsite at Waupoos now stands $1,000, with the original cost being $20,000. She expressed her appreciation to the Area International Advisor, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, who arranged for girls' summer trips, and also convened the area dinner. Mrs. Haig complimented the Brownie theme used as decor for the hall by Mrs. Arnott, which was accented by alternating brown and yellow leaves on the tables with centrepieces of bronze and gold 'mums. Dainty placecards featured the Brownie toadstool.

GUIDE REPRESENTATION

Northumberland had the largest representation of Guides-Rangers. Guide leaders and parents in attendance. This division sent 76 people to the banquet, while 67 were present from Belleville, 54 from Peterborough, 33 from Lennox and Addington, 30 from Prince Edward County, 12 from Trenton and 5 from Hastings.

Mrs. A. McLean Haig Quinte Area Commissioner presented the following Guides and Rangers from this district with their All Round Cord Certificates: Ann Gordon, Marie Gulis, Jillian Roulet and Norna Cooper from Belleville; Wendy Crews from Trenton; Gloria Pearson and Lynn Reid from Picton; Cathy Alkenbrack, Margaret Belair, Barbara Davis and Heather Dean from Napanee; Donna MacKenzie and Christina McKay from 1st Brigenorth Company; Susan Chase from Frankford; Heather Paynes from Warsaw, and Sandra Patterson from Deseronto.

Mrs. McLean Haig who will conclude her six year term as Area Commissioner in December, was presented with a desk set and bouquet of flowers by Major Mrs. Horswood, Salvation Army Commissioner. Mrs. Haig will be succeeded by the present Deputy Area Commissioner, Mrs. Eva Baker.

Boys' Home First Love Of Priest

OTTAWA (CP)—A shy Italian priest who lives among the poor of his native Naples arrived Thursday to try to raise funds for the boys' home he started in 1950.

Rev. Mario Borrelli is a short, sandy-haired man who looked uncomfortably out of his element as he perched on an ornate 17th century sofa in the scarlet and gold drawing room of the papal delegate's residence here.

He told reporters at a press conference he hopes to raise $15,000 in Canada for the home, Casa Della Scuginzzo.

Its residents are 90 Scugnizzi —the abandoned or orphaned street urchins of Naples. Until Father Borrelli took them in they were tattered, dirty, emaciated little figures who belonged to no one. Some were only five or six years old.

CARES FOR 1,000

In the last 15 years, Father Borrelli has cared for more than 1,000 of these boys. The story of his work has been turned into a best-selling book, Children of the Sun, by Morris West.

The priest said Thursday probably more than 3,000 such boys still roam the streets of Naples.

An Ottawa committee, under the chairmanship of Jean-Paul Veziina, will collect funds for Canadians wishing to help with Father Borrelli's work.

Mme. Georges Vanier, wife of the Governor - General, has agreed to be honorary president of the Canadian fund, to be called the House of Urchins Fund of Canada.

Ann Landers

Wife Regrets Results Of False Information

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A year ago our two-year-old son, Earl, had difficulty breathing so we took him to a doctor. The learned Earl is allergic to cigarette smoke. My husband said we both had to quit smoking right then and there. He hasn't touched a cigarette since. I went back to smoking that same night.

I don't smoke when little Earl is in the room and it's awfully hard on me. My husband doesn't know I smoke so I make excuses to go to the basement or out in the garage whenever I want a cigarette. Sneaking around is making me nervous.

Do you think it would be wrong if we let a ANN LANDERS nice couple adopt little Earl — a nice couple who don't smoke? Then I could smoke in the open and my husband could take it up again, too.

The only problem is that my husband is crazy about the boy. I love him, too, but I am more the practical type. What do you think, Ann? — MRS. R.R.M.

DEAR MRS. — I think a lot of people who read this letter are going to say I made it up. It's utterly fantastic that a mother would put cigarettes ahead of her own child.

Don't present your wild idea to your husband. I wouldn't blame him if he decided to keep little Earl and unload you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son will graduate from high school next spring with an A average. Problem: He's an excellent poker player. So what? Well listen:

Last Saturday night eight boys sat at our home until 3:30 a.m. Our son won $40. He didn't brag about it. I had to pump him for the information. I asked who was the big loser and he named a boy who works part-time in a supermarket for $1.85 an hour. I hate to think of a kid working so hard and then dropping $18 in a poker game.

My husband says they are more men than boys and I should keep my nose out of it. Should I tell our son he can't have any more poker games at our house? — ANXIOUS MOTHER.

DEAR ANXIOUS: No. You'll only fix it so your son will have to play at somebody else's house. Any kid who is that good at poker is not going to quit just because his mother tells him to.

Insist that they set a ceiling on losses. $10 should be plenty. Also a limit, like say 1:00 a.m.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's brother's wife has had four miscarriages in the last two years. They have three children under seven. Every time Sophie goes to the hospital her husband and the kids move in with us.

This morning I asked my brother-in-law to go to the store and get two quarts of milk. He said, "O.K., Where's the money?" I admit I lost my temper, Ann, but I'd just about had it. I answered, "Your kids drink milk, too, don't they?"

When my husband came home from work his brother gave him a twisted version of what happened. My husband got mad at me and said my mouth was my worst enemy. That was the way to talk to a guest. His brother stood there grinning, with his thumbs hooked in his pockets.

That night I told my husband the next time Sophie has a miscarriage they can go to his mother's. He said I was wrong and that you'd back him up. How about it? — STILL STEAMING.

DEAR STILL: There's more involved here than who pays for the milk. Your brother-in-law is no guest, he's a free-loader and a trouble-maker.

You carry the burden of the extra work — not your husband. If you don't want it you should have the right to say so. And I hope you do.

Susanna's Family Fare

UNSUNG SCIENTIST

Dear Susanna: Thought you might be interested in something that happened to me.

While visiting in a back with my two year old granddaughter several weeks ago, I was busy talking on the telephone and I'm afraid I just didn't pay t o much attention to what she was doing.

On hanging up the receiver I found to my dismay that she had discovered a pencil and had scribbled all over the lower portion of the wall and also the door. One was flat paint and the other gloss.

Well, what to do? The hand soap in the bathroom hardly made any impression so I went into my overnight bag to see what I could find. The only thing there was toothpaste, but I had to try something. I applied little gobs of paste to a facial tissue and went over the marks thoroughly with this until they were well covered; then I took a wash cloth wrung out in hot water and washed off the paste. The marks almost seemed to lift themselves off — I didn't even have to rub hard as is usually the case.

My friends laugh when I tell them, but it was certainly a relief to me to find such a novel solution. — Mrs. E. Sual

You're really something! I tried this whole thing out just for fun, and not only did all the marks disappear but it left the room smelling nice and peppermintey! — SUSANNA

READY' REMINDERS

Dear Susanna: There is a long calendar in my kitchen — the kind that is continually getting knocked down. It was such a bother that I was going to cut off the bottom. However, my need for a little bulletin board gave me a much better idea.

I added two small tacks, one in each corner at the top, to hold it more securely, then I folded up the lower section containing the name, etc., to make a pocket and stapled it in a couple of places.

Now I have a spot for personal mail that requires answering, and a place to tack school, call, and other notices. They are constantly in sight so that nothing gets forgotten. — Mrs. Eileen F. Fox

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

RYLSTONE W.I.

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Raymond Stewart was hostess to the Rylstone United Church Women for their October meeting. There was an attendance of 20 members and three children.

The meeting was in charge of the 1st vice-president, Mrs. Ross Dickie, who opened with a reading and conducted the meditation. Mrs. Dickie and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer gave the Scripture selections. Bible study, entitled "Thanksgiving" was prepared by Mrs. Jack Spencer and conducted by Mrs. Lindsay Finch.

Thank-you notes were read from Mrs. Robert Spencer, Mrs. Chester Middlejohn and Mrs. Cecil Finch.

Mrs. Clarence Thompson and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson were convenors for the meeting. Mrs. George Sutherland gave a reading.

A cake-icing demonstration was conducted by Mrs. William Donaldson of Peterborough, a former Rylstone girl.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Thomson, the program committee will be Mrs. Ray Stewart and Mrs. Ross Dickie. Christmas stockings will be handed in in lieu of a roll call.

PLAN FAR AHEAD

MONTREAL (CP) — Napoleon's dictum that an army marches on its stomach was cited when railroad and armed forces food experts began planning the national tour of the Canadian Armed Forces Tattoo in 1967. A total of 350 men will have to be fed three interesting and nourishing meals daily in two dining cars.

STAYING CLOSE TO HOME — Mrs. Robert Thompson, wife of the national leader of the Social Credit party, works in her garden at their Red Deer, Alta., home. She took an active part in the federal campaigns of 1962 and 1963 but this year she is staying close to home. She spends a major part of her time on party business despite caring for eight children. Unlike the wives of other party leaders she doesn't rule out the possibility of some day seeking office. (CP Photo)

Mrs. Robert Thompson Willing Socred Worker

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)— Mrs. Robert Thompson, wife of the national leader of the Social Credit party, says her political role is limited to being a willing and loyal party worker.

"I wouldn't even try to interpret Social Credit policy to others or to indicate direction in party matters."

But the fact is, she is an old hand at electioneering and possesses an intimate knowledge of party politics and campaign strategy.

Hazel Thompson took an active part in the federal campaigns of 1962 and 1963. This year, however, she is staying close to home, accompanying her husband on his swings through Alberta but not on national tours.

She says one of her primary tasks in the campaign is to relay indications of public thought, opinions and trends to her husband.

She spends a major part of her time on Social Credit business despite the time-consuming job of caring for eight children, four of them school age, and during the campaign is acting as liaison between her husband and local officials.

Despite her refusal to get involved in party policy, she has been active in the organizing end since 1960 when she worked with her husband in his role as campaign manager for the local Social Credit candidate in Red Deer.

HELPED CAMPAIGN

In 1962 she was assistant coordinator of her husband's own campaign when he won the Red Deer seat from the Progressive Conservatives. She handled the same job in 1963.

Graduate of a high school commercial course, the 40-year-old Mrs. Thompson handles duplication and typing for her husband, employing a brand of shorthand she developed herself.

This being her third general election in four years, her family (the youngest child is five, oldest 14) is pretty well accustomed to the disruption of routine that a campaign causes.

Five of the children were born in Africa after the Thompsons went to Ethiopia in 1953 where Mr. Thompson was head of a nine-member team of doctors, nurses and teachers that helped the country after liberation from the Italians.

She has said their family life was much more organized in Ethiopia then since their return to Canada. But although she admits she was "just a little weary" when the Nov. 8 election was announced, she doesn't complain, feeling she could hardly urge women generally to take an active part in politics if she didn't set an example.

Mrs. Thompson likes to sew and garden but those sort of activities are almost forgotten when a campaign is on.

And unlike the wives of other party leaders, she doesn't rule out the possibility of a political career of her own. Asked if she might ever seek election herself, she says she might, "but it will be many, many years in the future."

U.C.W. Meetings

TABERNACLE U.C.W.

The regular meeting of Tabernacle U.C.W. was held Tuesday evening in the Church parlor. Mrs. D. B. Salisbury, the president, was in the chair and after a Thanksgiving prayer, conducted a short business period.

Mrs. N. D. Patterson, who is convener of citizenship and social action was in charge of the program with the help of her committee. The devotional was in charge of unit 8, under the leadership of Mrs. R. Boyce assisted by Mrs. A. C. Walker and Mrs. H. Burley.

Heiress Invites Negroes And Whites to Wedding

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Despite South Africa's rigid race segregation laws and practices, Mary Oppenheimer, one of the world's richest heiresses, has invited both Negroes and whites to her wedding. She was quizzed Thursday about how to conquer legal obstacles that may affect the reception afterward.

Mary is the 21 year - old daughter of multimillionaire mining magnate Harry Oppenheimer, head of the Anglo American Corp. Its 150 subsidiaries include the de Beers Co., which has a virtual monopoly on world diamond sales.

She is to be married next Wednesday to Scottish rugby player Gordon Waddell, 29, son of a wealthy Glasgow stockbroker. South African newspapers have called it the country's "wedding of the century."

Plans have been found, a family spokesman said, for non-whites to be present at the ceremony in the Anglican cathedral here. The reception poses a problem, however, because alcohol cannot be served to non-whites at a racially mixed gathering.

IMPORT CHAMPAGNE

The family has imported thousands of bottles of French champagne for the party and the spokesman said: "It would be rather discourteous to invite African (Negro) guests and decline to give them a glass of champagne with the others."

Mary is very friendly with numerous Negroes while doing social work here. She is determined to have both white and Negro friends at the cathedral and at the reception at her parents' mansion here.

Oppenheimer has given his future son - in - law an Italian sports car, capable of going 142 miles an hour, as a wedding gift, and is renovating an old cottage here to be the couple's home. Waddell will go into the Oppenheimer family business.

Oppenheimer has been an outspoken foe of South Africa's apartheid or racial segregation policies.

Despite his vast wealth, in companies with assets of more than $2,500,000,000, he has been unable to attract much support for his views in South Africa.

Diefenbaker Drops Two More Promises

By BEN WARD

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — John Diefenbaker launched whirlwind campaign swing through Prince Edward Island Thursday, delivered four speeches and dropped two new election promises in his wake.

The new items: special federal aid for Maritimes lobster fishermen who have been hit by an unexpected catch failure this year, and a federal grant of one-third towards the capital cost of constructing community hospitals.

He also said his party's proposed national conference on a new constitution would be opened in Charlottetown. This would launch preparation of a new confederation formula at the site where the original one was drafted in 1864.

Neither Mr. Diefenbaker nor his aides offered any details of the first two proposals but he indicated the hospital item would be conditional on an agreement by the provinces to pick up one-third of the bill.

Ottawa now matches provincial grants to new hospital construction. They are well below the one-third level.

The Conservative leader arrived on the island three hours late because a delay in getting a chartered airliner, but he insisted on going ahead with the full schedule.

He began at Alberton, near the western tip of P.E.I., where television singer Tommy Common had kept an audience of about 350 entertained for three hours awaiting him.

A police-escorted motorcade sped him to Summerside for a speech to nearly 500 persons in a 600-seat theatre, then to Charlottetown where he spoke informally to the Conservative Students Club of St. Dunstan's University and to more than 2,000 at a night rally in the Charlottetown Coliseum.

His route covered more than 140 miles. Today it's more of the same on the eastern end of the island, covering Kings riding. He flies to Moncton in the late afternoon for a two-day whistle-stopping train tour of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Diefenbaker appeared tired at the coliseum rally where he wore a heavy overcoat against the chill of the big building. He faced and he the Conservative pledge to raise old age pensions to $100 and age pensions to $100 monthly from $75.

DRAW PLAN FUNDS

Mr. Diefenbaker repeated his contention that funds from the Canada Pension Plan can be used for the pension boost and denounced the Liberal view that this would not be legal.

He said Health Minister Judy LaMarsh has announced she will take $2,000,000 from the pension fund to pay for advertising.

In 1962 the Conservatives and Liberals split the island's four seats — the Liberals taking Kings and Prince and the Conservatives the two - member Queens seat that surrounds the capital.

Both camps are predicting an extra seat this time. The Conservative hope is Prince's Rev. David MacDonald, a young United Church minister who is the first clergyman to enter active politics in P.E.I. history.

The Liberals are banking on Mark MacGuigan, 34, to crack Queens. He is an associate professor of Law at the University of Toronto and first Roman Catholic ever to seek election in Queens.

Mr. Diefenbaker appealed in his speeches for a clear sweep of the four seats. He said the Liberals have lost confidence in their chances of a majority victory and P.E.I. is one reason for it.

Comments on Quebec Draw No Response

VICTORIA (CP) — NDP Leader Douglas told a crowd of 1,500 in this stronghold of pro-British sentiment Thursday night that Canada has a responsibility to show the world that two official languages and many cultures can enrich a nation.

Mr. Douglas also told his audience, a large portion if it past middle age, that the country will survive only if it is recognized that Quebec has a special status in Confederation.

His comments about Quebec drew no response.

But he won warm applause when he said Canada needs strong leadership to "resist internal disintegration and external assimilation."

His evening rally, held for NDP candidates on Vancouver Island, wound up a day of campaigning in the riding of Victoria, where Lloyd Benneton is bidding for the seat held by Liberal David Groos in the last Parliament.

During an afternoon press conference Mr. Douglas charged Prime Minister Pearson with arrogance and throwing the "constitutional properties to the wind" in threatening another election within 18 months if the Liberals fail to obtain a majority of the 265 seats in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Mr. Douglas said apparently Mr. Pearson has concluded his advisers were wrong in thinking the Liberals could win a majority and said Canadians are unlikely to give this on the basis of the government's record.

The prime minister's "responsibility to conduct the Queen's business apparently comes second to his determination to do his duty by his political party," Mr. Douglas said in a prepared statement.

HUMILITY LACKING

"Arrogance is not leadership. Mr. Pearson's statement must be a disturbing reminder that Liberal incompetence has not been matched by humility. The Canadian people will be grateful to the Liberal leader for giving them so clear a warning at this stage of the campaign."

He also said he is not criticizing the Liberal and Conservative parties for encouraging foreign investment, but more equity capital should be raised in Canada to regain control of the economy.

Mr. Douglas pledged the NDP to work out an extensive rebuilding program through an industrial development corporation that is publicly owned and controlled.

He said if short-term prosperity and personal pleasures are all that matter Canada will forfeit control of its economy.

"But if you believe that Canada has a role to play as an independent nation, then I am asking you to join with us in supporting a program that will make Canada strong and free."

Mr. Douglas outlined his party's education and manpower training program to about 200 University of Victoria students in the afternoon.

Mr. Douglas' only engagement today is a coffee party at Port Moody in his riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam.

Majority Govt. Will Not Solve Problems

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson said in a nation-wide television broadcast Thursday night that a majority government would solve Canada's problems.

And, he said, "I don't think that the Liberal government has earned, or deserves, the right of majority government."

A majority government was not the answer in the immediate post-war years, and it was not the answer between 1958 and 1962 when Prime Minister Diefenbaker had the biggest majority in history.

The answer to present - day problems goes beyond majorities, he said. "Without some principles and policies in government we'll never have the type of government Canada needs." Party interests were being put ahead of national interests.

Mr. Thompson accused the Liberal government of infringing on provincial rights, particularly when it talked about exporting water without consulting the provinces. This was a provincial resource, just like gas and oil. And, he said, if the federal government realized its responsibility to off-shore mineral issue it would not have referred the problem to the Supreme Court of Canada.

He said the British North America Act gives resources jurisdiction to the provinces, and it doesn't matter whether those resources are island or 10 miles out to sea.

Repeating his suggestion that a minister of federal-provincial affairs be established, he said that Canada needs consultative federalism instead of co-operative federalism.

Will Report Substitutes For Imports

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government will inaugurate a telephone service next Tuesday for persons wanting to know whether an imported product they are about to buy is already being made in the province.

Peter York, director of the trade and industry branch of the department of economics and development, said the service is part of the provincial government's campaign to replace imported goods with goods manufactured in Ontario.

Drift to

Nam are more pleased with this type of plane than any other aircraft they have in there today."

CF-5 BEST SUITED

He said the type of operations Canada has been hitherto engaged in in its international commitments, have shown the versatile CF-5 to be most suited to the role.

What Mr. Grills was probably referring to was the MacDonnell Phantom fighter, which, said Mr. Temple, cost three million dollars, with a top speed of 1,500 m.p.h.

Turning to the other services Mr. Temple said two years ago the Canadian Army did not possess an armored carrier and had to transport troops in Germany to what could be a front-line theatre of action — in trucks.

Now they are being equipped with a 1,000 new armored personnel carriers. A 105-mm gun, good but limited, now is being replaced with 150-mm artillery piece. New helicopters have been bought for the navy and a revolutionary hydrofoil craft is being developed.

For Transport Command it said 24 new Hercules transport planes have been ordered and are now being delivered.

The new equipment "would not have been available if this downward trend in monies for equipment had continued," he added.

RESPECT SERVICES

"But if you're going to a job in support of your ground troops you can't do it at 1,500 miles an hour," said Mr. Temple.

"If he did some more studying perhaps he would realize that modern armaments, with air-to-air missiles, which the CF-5 possesses, can knock down a plane flying much faster or slower than itself."

He noted Mr. Grills said Canada's airmen feel they have lost the respect of Canadians.

On his committee inspections in Europe, Mr. Temple said, he had watched RCAF crews flying in all kinds of weather, risking their lives in the cause of freedom.

"You and I know, that you and I respect Canada's armed services, the men and women who are in those services and the magnificent job they are doing in the cause of freedom," NOT GULLIBLE

On other topics Mr. Temple said his opponent claimed Canadians were not gullible to be deceived about credit for economic upswing.

"Well, I agree the people of this country are not gullible and they are not to be taken in by false information," said the Liberal candidate.

A few weeks ago the Conservatives were criticizing the Canada-U.S. auto agreement. Now, exports of car parts and automobiles have doubled. There have been some 20,000 new jobs created in the automobile industry and 30,000 more jobs may be directly caused by the new agreement.

"This is indicative of the progressive policies of the Liberal government and what we can expect in the future."

HOW MANNED GEMINI SPACECRAFT WOULD FLY IN FORMATION — This is Associated Press Artist John Carleton's conception of how one manned Gemini would follow another manned Gemini in close formation as they would orbit the earth. President Johnson announced yesterday that the United States would attempt to do just that, probably in January. The two craft would fly as close to each other as possible — "a matter of a few feet," according to press secretary Bill D. Moyers.

Sunday School Lesson

A Blundering Superman

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

What the stories of superman are in today's children the tales of Samson must have been to the Hebrew children of ancient times. Here was a man capable of fabulous feats of strength. Beyond that, however, he was a tragi-comic figure. His exploits began in comedy, and ended in tragedy.

Samson was born at a time when his people were under the rule of the Philistines. This did not deter his romantic interests. Against his parent's advice, he sought the hand of a Philistine maiden. This, plus his efforts to win a free wardrobe from his Philistine wedding guests, led to tragic results.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for October 31 "Samson, Temperance," Judges 13:2 through 16:31.

Samson's sense of humor was not appreciated by his Philistine guests. Samson had killed a lion with his bare hands. Later, he discovered bees were using the carcass as a hive. Taking some of the honey, Samson thought up a riddle about it:

"Out of the eater came something to eat. Out of the strong came something 'sweet." (Judges 14:14 RSV) He bet his wedding guests a wardrobe that they could not guess his riddle.

Unwilling to be bested by an Israelite, her countrymen threatened his bride with violence if she did not wheedle the answer from Samson, and give it to them within the allotted time. As a result, she flooded their honeymoon with tears until Samson gave her the answer which she passed on to them. When they came with the answer, Samson made the uncomplimentary remark, "If you had not plowed with my heifer, you would not have found out my riddle."

But Samson was determined to have the last laugh. He killed enough Philistines to get the garments he needed to pay his bet, and left his bride to return to his parents. Later, when he went back for her, he discovered her parents had given her to another man. "In hot anger" he tied torches to the tails of 300 foxes and turned them loose to set fire to the Philistine's grain fields.

RETALIATION OR RECONCILIATION?

A spirit of revenge was part of Samson's undoing. He justified his actions by saying, "As they did to me, so have I done to them." (Judges 15:11 RSV) He went beyond the ancient rule of "eye for eye, tooth for tooth." (Exodus 21:24) He could echo Lamech's boast, "If Cain is avenged sevenfold, truly Lamech seventy-sevenfold." (Genesis 4:24 RSV)

This is a far cry from the Golden Rule: "Whatever you wish that men would do to you, do so to them." (Matthew 7:12 RSV) Yet the world is still closer to Samson than to Jesus in this regard. Men still seek retaliation more than reconciliation. They are afraid to explore the ways of understanding and good will. They are afraid to accept Paul's advice to leave vengeance in God's hands, and try to overcome evil with good. (Romans 12:19-21)

A TOO-TRUSTING LOVER

One would think that Samson would have learned his lesson. But having been burned once, he deliberately struck his hand in the fire again by falling in love with Delilah, another non-Hebrew maiden. This time the Philistines offered her a bribe to find out the source of Samson's strength, and betray him into their hands. The stupidity of Samson in finally giving her his secret is amazing in the light of her repeated attempts to betray him. But he could not resist her wiles. When she said, 'How can you say I love you,' when your heart is not with me?" he overlooked her past conniving, and betrayed himself into her hands. So the drunkard will close his eyes to the tragedy his influence has brought him in the past, and will turn again to the very thing that robs him of lasting happiness and moral strength.

When Delilah shaved Samson's head, he lost more than his hair. He lost what he believed to be the source of his strength, and the symbol of his dedication, as a Nazarite, to God. Bereft of the source of his self-reliance and strength, he became a tragic pawn in the sadistic hands of his Philistine tormentors.

There is no more tragic sentence in the Bible than Judges 16:20: "And he did not know that the LORD had left him."

Those Tragic Teen-Age Mothers

Every year, nearly 25,000 unwed Canadian girls become mothers, and more than a third of these are teen-agers. November Reader's Digest inquires into the reasons for this unhappy situation, and considers the question of premarital sex relations in general. The answers will give you cause for thought. Read "Mothers in Hiding" in November Reader's Digest.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem ?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

In the next decade many property owners will be affected by highway construction, urban renewal and public works programs. Their properties will be taken either by the condemnation or negotiation. As more and more readers are affected by these programs, one constant inquiry is whether they will receive a fair price for their property.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our city has grandiose plans for rebuilding a large part of the town with imposing apartment houses, tall office buildings, town houses and new roads. This will mean that hundreds of us will be forced to move. In the first step 250 houses will be torn down and mine is one of them.

We have organized into a civic association and have held many meetings. We have heard all kinds of horror stories of how we will be short-changed when our properties are taken. Others have told us re will get a fair price. I need not tell you that we are confused. Before taking further action we have agreed to wait for your comment. Under ordinary circumstances, how does a property owner make out when his property is condemned for a public improvement? — "Volunteer"

ANSWER: Under ordinary circumstances, when one's property is taken by condemnation, the price received is usually more than the property owner could get if he were to sell it in the open market. The reasons are as follows:

A. Condemnors are eager to settle as many cases as possible and therefore the appraisers usually are instructed to set values on the high side of the reasonable value bracket.

B. Since a condemnation represents an involuntary taking, appraisers usually will resolve questionable factors in favor of the owner.

C. Commissioners, when hearing cases that are appealed, usually are sympathetic with the plight of the displaced property owner.

Sometimes appraisers make mistakes. In those cases the law gives the property owner ample opportunity to correct these mistakes. On request, appraisals are reviewed. An attorney should be engaged to appeal the case.

I have been professionally involved in thousands of condemnation cases. Almost always, a property owner will receive at least fair market value, in most cases it is a most generous expression of market value.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I like cedar shingles and that's what I want to put on the house. My husband keeps insisting that we should use wood siding because it is cheaper. I have been told otherwise but he insists that he is right. My husband says that I am so stubborn that I must be related to a mule. Please settle the argument. — "Housewife"

ANSWER: Tell your husband that you may be related to a mule, but it's by marriage. You are right in this instance.

Cedar shingles applied, including all labor and material, cost approximately $0.40 to $0.45 per square foot. Wood siding in place, including the primer and finished paint costs, costs approximately $0.55 to $0.60 per square foot.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: With the coming of cold weather I can think of nothing but drafts. I have a 2-year-old house, well built. But on cold days you can feel the flow of cold air across the floor of every room. My children, as a result, have colds and runny noses all winter long. Even if I set the thermostat at 80 degrees, I can still feel the cold air. Is there any solution other than getting a new house? — "Chilled"

ANSWER: Hold onto your homestead, you don't have an insolvable problem. You have drafts (I assume your nearly new house is insulated and the windows are tight) because the air in the room becomes chilled by the contact with the cold glass of your windows, becomes heavy as a result and sinks to the floor. By convection it is then blown through the room, resulting in drafts.

The solution is to install storm sash. The second pane of glass will entrap a layer of chilled air and will reduce your heat loss by about one-half. This should be enough to eliminate almost all of the drafts. As a precaution make sure the storm windows when installed, are fitted very tight and that they are weather striped.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal 'correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

An unusual new snow tire. 80% of the time, it's not a snow tire.

Today, any good snow tire will get you through the snow.

But the fact is, a snow tire spends about 80% of its life on snowless roads. That's right, snowless roads. And snow tires can be pretty much of a nuisance when you're traveling down a snowless highway at a good clip. Not to mention how they feel on bumpy side roads.

That's why we built a new type of snow tire: the Dominion Royal Super Winteride.*

As a snow tire, the Super Winteride is a brute. It has the big, thick tread you need to go crunching through deep snow. But when the snow is plowed off the roads (which is usually right after a snowstorm) the Super Winteride doesn't behave the way you'd expect a snow tire to. Its tread is designed so that the sound frequencies cancel each other out. The result: a sound you can live with. And its ride is surprisingly soft and comfortable, right up there with "original equipment" tires in ability to absorb rough roads. In fact, in the Shell 4000 Rally, where cars were driven over some of the roughest roads (snowless roads, that is) in Canada, Super Winterides were used on the back wheels of the Ford Mustang that finished 11th out of 64 cars that started. In a nutshell, the Dominion Royal Super Winteride is a great snow tire when there's snow on the ground; a great all-round tire when there's no snow on the ground. You can't ask for much more than that. Dominion Royal UNIROYAL

U.S. Labor Is Left in Lurch Despite Way It Backed LBJ

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — American labor has been left in the lurch despite the impressive legislative actions by the United States Congress and President Johnson.

Yet no sector of the U.S. economy had more reason to expect suitable rewards for past favors.

Organized American labor was utterly committed last year to the re-election of President Johnson because it was petrified at the prospect of former senator Barry Goldwater winning.

For that and other reasons, labor had expected at least two special items to become law — and it got nothing.

In a political system where former good deeds are kept in mind for harvesting future benefits, President Johnson owes American labor a lot.

The big blow to labor was inability to push ahead with repeal of the ban in 19 states on the union shop.

The offending item is Clause 14 (B) of the Taft-Hartley Act, authorized by Congress over the veto of former president Harry Truman and under labor fire ever since.

OPPOSITION STRONG

It authorizes the so-called "right-to-work" law — permitting any employee to work without belonging to a union. In the other 31 states, employees just join the prevailing union shortly after starting work. Ten of the 19 right - to - work states are southern, where opposition to trade unionism still is strongest.

This was to be the year to kill 14 (B) with the help of a big Democratic majority. But as Congress ran out of gas, after producing a spate of legislation unprecedented since the New Deal of the 1930s, the repeal of 14 (B) also faded.

Some say Johnson did not press as hard as he had on other matters. Others attribute the failure of the bill to astute Republican opposition or sheer congressional battle fatigue after a long legislative session.

There is also evidence that the public at large would favor a more thorough-going overhaul of the entire labor sector.

In any event, labor's leaders are unhappy, including President George Meany of the AFL-CIO.

Their second choice for this session of Congress had been an increase in the minimum wage, now $1.25 an hour, and that got nowhere.

Parliamentary Notebook

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — An unusually-large number of backroom strategists are stamping the country as candidates in this election campaign.

Party organizers and officers and executive assistants to well-known Ottawa politicians have come out from behind their desks in droves to run for Parliament.

Progressive Conservative candidates fresh from the backrooms include the party president, Dalton Camp (Toronto Eglinton), his predecessor Egan Chambers (Montreal Notre Dame-de-Grace) and former national director Richard Thrasher (Esser South).

The Liberals are rancing at least three executive assistants to ministers.

They are Transport Minister Pickersgill's aide, Alastair Fraser (Pictou); John Reid (Kenora-Rainy River), aide to former mines minister Bentley, soon until his appointment to the Senate, and Northern Affairs Minister Laing's assistant, Jack Austin (Vancouver Kingsway).

HELPED GORDON

Martin O'Connell, one of the three "ghost writers" brought in to help Finance Minister Gordon with the controversial 1963 budget, is trying to capture Toronto Greenwood for the Liberals.

Mark MacGuigan, vice-president of the Toronto and District Liberal Association and a leading party "thinker," is running in Queens in his native Prince Edward Island.

On the Prairies, former Alberta Liberal leader Dave Barrett is candidate in Athabaska and Rudy Usick, former president of the Manitoba Farmers Union and provincial Liberal vice-president, is wooing voters in Marquette.

Two former strategists for Conservative Leader Diefenbaker are seeking office for the first time. They are special assistant and speech-writer Burton Richardson (Toronto Spadina) and campaign organizer George Hogan (York West).

New Democrats are running their party vice-president, David Lewis, in York South and immediate past president Merv Johnson in Elederker. Erhart Regier, veteran organizer and former MP, is trying a comeback in Algoma West.

IS NDP 'THINKER'

Al Gleave, an influential NDP "thinker" and ex-president of the National Farmers Union, is running in Rosetown-Biggar.

The Social Credit party has its Ontario president, George Mitchell, running Lincoln.

Fernand Bourret, president of Le Ralliement Creditiste and former executive assistant to the party leader, Real Caouette, is trying his luck in Montreal Hochelaga.

Three other candidates formerly were active Conservatives in Ottawa.

They are Douglas Jung (Vancouver Centre), former president of the Young Progressive Conservatives; Hal Jackman (Toronto Rosedale), executive assistant to Senator David Walker when he was works minister; and Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke), former MP and executive assistant to Leon Balcer, ex-Quebec leader for the Conservatives. Mr. Allard is an independent - Conservative candidate this time.

Kenneth Binks, Conservative national secretary, is running in the Ottawa-area seat of Russell.

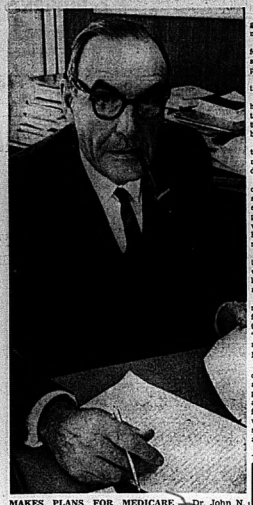
Dr. John N. Crawford Named To Set Up National Medicare



MAKES PLANS FOR MEDICARE — Dr. John N. Crawford, recently-appointed deputy minister of public health, will set up the federal government's proposed medicare plan, promised for 1967, Canada's centennial year. Dr. Crawford, 59, ran medical services for war veterans for the last nine years and for 10 years was on the national council of the Canadian Medical Association. (CP Photo)

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has found a big man for a big job.

The man is Dr. John N. Crawford, 59, who stands six feet six inches and weighs 240 pounds.

The job is setting up a national medical care program.

As the new deputy minister of health, Dr. Crawford will have the responsibility for organizing the program squarely on his broad shoulders.

He has been imported from the veterans affairs department to replace the retiring deputy, Dr. G. D. W. Cameron.

Government spokesmen say one reason for Dr. Crawford's selection was his long experience in running a publicity-paid program of health services for returned servicemen. He has been at this for the last nine years.

He said in an interview that the plan Canadians generally will get probably will be similar to the program for veterans.

But he prefers to say little now about the plan—target date for its inception is the 1967 centennial year — preferring to "keep my ears open and my mouth shut."

MUST CONVINCE DOCTORS

The federal government has offered to pay half the cost of a provincially - administered plan, provided it is universally available. It will be Dr. Crawford's job to work out details with the provinces and persuade the medical profession to accept medical care.

"No plan is going to work unless the medical profession is prepared to help it work," he said.

He hopes his 10 years on the national council of the Canadian Medical Association, where he has heard the views of many doctors opposed to medical care, will help his dealings with the doctors now.

"Most of the CMA will be glad I'm in this position because I deal with many of them while in veterans affairs. We have to work out a modus vivendi."

Although only Alberta has voiced outright opposition to the federal proposal, other provinces are expected to suggest some changes or additions. Ironing out this detail will require a lot of hard work and talk before a mutual understanding is reached, Dr. Crawford said.

This he views as a challenge. He is pleased that he has been selected to work on what he considers a great social experiment.

"I expect that when I'm finished this work I'll go out with an enhanced reputation or my name will stink in the nostrils of the public. I intend to keep my nose clean. I do my best work when there's a challenging situation."

He proved this in the Second World War when he established, without any medical supplies, a makeshift hospital inside a prisoner - of - war camp after the fall of Hong Kong in 1941.

As chief medical officer for the special Canadian force sent to help defend the colony, Dr. Crawford decided a hospital was a "sheer necessity." Of the 1,973 Canadians sent to Hong Kong, 557 died in battle or in the PoW camps.

Although there was no serum with which to inoculate them against diphtheria, about 400 prisoners volunteered as nursing orderlies in Dr. Crawford's hospital. Later, some medical supplies were obtained through the Red Cross and the black market.

For his efforts, Dr. Crawford was made a Member of the Order of the British Empire. He remained in the military until 1956, retiring with the rank of brigadier, then joined veterans affairs as director - general deputy minister.

Wilson Warns

vent oil reaching Rhodesia from neighboring countries. Wilson also stressed that the world's major oil producers were among the 95 nations which backed the UN call for strong British action against a unilateral declaration of independence.

Wilson also was reported to have said that any hopes the Rhodesians had of getting oil from Portugal in the event of a showdown were falsely based. Rhodesia has a border with Portuguese Mozambique.

Wilson also was reported to have told Smith that Britain and its allies will organize a Berlin-type airlift to Zambia (formerly Northern Rhodesia) if Smith hits back by cutting the railway transport and electric power supply on which the Zambian copper industry depends.

On this point Wilson presumably spoke with assurance of United States support. Britain lacks resources to mount such an airlift alone.

CITES SHIELD

Another point reported to have been stressed by Wilson was that Britain has shielded Rhodesia from United Nations intervention. He said this protection could not continue if the Rhodesian whites declared full independence.

(Reuters correspondent Geoffrey Whitehead said that Smith was reported "shaken" by Britain's warning that it could no longer protect Rhodesia in the UN.)

Prospects of a solution faded when Smith cut short hopes that some arrangement might be reached between his government and African nationalist leaders Joshua Nkomo and Ndabaningi Sithole.

Smith told reporters after a cabinet meeting Thursday: "Under no circumstances would I sit around a conference table with the African nationalist leaders."

In the last two days Wilson twice has had long separate discussions with Nkomo and Sithole. Both were flown to the Rhodesian capital from remote detention camps.

Let's Clear The Air!

Times Are Good — Business Has Never Been Better!

The Liberal Government Claims Credit For This.

BUT LET'S FACE FACTS!

What Has The Liberal Government Really Done ?

1. They have presented a weak, ineffectual Administration,

AND

2. In 2½ Years have been rocked with Scandal in Their own ranks.

WHO REALLY PLANNED AND LAID THE FOUNDATION FOR THE PRESENT DAY ECONOMY? — IT WAS THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT BETWEEN 1957 and 1963

THIS WAS DONE BY SUCH BOLD IMAGINATIVE ACTION AS:

1. Devaluation of the Dollar to boost our trade and make Canada competitive in foreign markets
2. The Trade Crusades instituted by George Hees, which have substantially increased Canada's Export Trade.

Hull, Mohns' Pair Jobs Pace Hawks

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Share Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Montreal Canadiens idled Thursday night, Chicago Black Hawks revved up, got into high gear and parked themselves next to the Habs at the top of the National Hockey League team race.

Hawks, playing the only NHL game of the night against Detroit Red Wings, flashed to a 5-1 victory on the two-goal efforts of Bobby Hull and Doug Mohns.

The win, Chicago's third in as many starts, carried them to co-leadership with Montreal, which has an identical record.

Hull also picked up an assist and his Thursday effort was good enough to carry him to a second-place tie with Mohns in the individual scoring race. The leader is Montreal's Bobby Rousseau, one point ahead of the duo.

DOUG MOHNS

★ ★ ★

Hull is driving ahead in the goal-scoring race of this young season, his 6th goal giving him an average of two a game.

After Thursday's action, the league is split clearly into three divisions. Canadians and Hawks are on top with six points, Chicago and Detroit in the middle with two and New York and Boston in the cellar with nine. The latter teams have each played two games to the others' three.

ESPOSITO SCORES

Phil Esposito started the scoring off for Chicago with a power-play goal at 3:18 of the first period. The goal was unanswered until the third period when Alex Delvecchio beat Chicago goalie Glen Hall on a breakaway.

PHIL ESPOSITO

★ ★ ★

The tally deprived the netminder of a possible shutout, which would have been his second of the season.

Hall recorded a shutout in the first game of the season and allowed two by in the second. With only three goals against, Hawks are the least scored-upon club in the league. Canadiens are a second best with seven goals against.

Mohns not only opened up the scoring but also scored a goal after little more than two minutes of play in the final period.

Hull's first goal came on a deflection of a shot by Elmer (Moose) Vasko late in the second period. In the final period Hull picked up a pass from Bill Hay to scoot in alone and beat Roger Crozier.

The Red Wings outshot the Black Hawks 30-21.

The two leading teams will have a chance to knock each other off their perch at the top of the heap when they meet on Montreal's home ice next Saturday. The other two games Saturday are Detroit at Toronto and New York at Boston.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Although Bobby Hull picked up two goals and an assist Thursday night as Chicago's 5-1 win over Detroit, he was unable to topple Montreal Canadiens' Bobby Rousseau from top spot in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

However, Hull does lead in the goal-scoring race with six. His one assist gives him a seven-point total, one behind Rousseau who has eight points on two goals and six assists.

Chicago's Doug Mohns matched Hull's goal output Thursday, scoring twice to raise his season total to seven points, gaining a second-place tie with his teammate. He has four goals and three assists.

Montreal's Jacques Laperriere is next with six points—one goal and five assists—and fifth place is in the hands of teammate Jean Beliveau who has five points on three goals and two assists.

Next are Montreal's Dick Duff and Henri Richard and Chicago's Stan Mikita, all with four points.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts
Rousseau, Montreal	2	6	8
Hull, Chicago	6	1	7
Mohns, Chicago	3	4	7
Laperriere, Montreal	1	5	6
Beliveau, Montreal	3	2	5
Duff, Montreal	1	3	4
Mikita, Chicago	0	4	4
Richard, Montreal	1	3	4

Crippled Riders Meet Hot Larks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A healthy band of Montreal Alouettes prepared to meet a crippled crew of Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa Sunday in the last game of the Eastern Football Conference schedule for the two clubs.

The game means nothing to either team since all placings in the standings were decided after last weekend. Ottawa finished second and Montreal third.

But the contest will serve as a warmup for the two teams, who play each other on the same field a week later in the sudden-death EFC semi-final.

In the only other weekend game in the East, Toronto Argonauts play Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Sunday in their final scheduled game.

Toronto has already been eliminated from the playoffs and Hamilton has clinched first place but both teams are taking the game seriously.

RIDERS HURT

Ottawa coach Frank Clair faces the prospect of using only 29 players, one less than the number permitted to dress, because of the injury situation.

Linebacker Mike Blum is still out with eye trouble and halfback Don Gilbert is sidelined with a wrecked knee, an injury picked up in last Sunday's 17-15 loss to the Argos.

One of Clair's healthiest players, fullback Jim Dillard, left Ottawa Thursday to attend his father's funeral and is not expected back in time for Saturday's game, which begins at 2 p.m. EDT and will be televised on the CBC eastern network.

Among the walking wounded who will dress for Ottawa are tackle Moe Racine, the EFC scoring leader, who will be available for kicking duties and little else, and halfback Bo Scott, troubled with an ankle injury. Scott likely will alternate with defensive back Gene Gaines, but this will leave a hole in the defensive backfield.

Mustangs Meet Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

What a difference a year makes.

Coach Johnny Metras was burned in effigy last year by students disheartened with the performance of his University of Western Ontario Mustangs, last season's also rans.

But in four games so far this year in the Intercollegiate Football Conference of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association, the Mustangs are undefeated. And they could clinch first place in the conference Saturday with a win over University of Toronto Blues.

However, Queen's University Golden Gaels could still force a playoff by winning their game Saturday in Kingston against McGill University Redmen and do-casting the Mustangs in London the following week. Queen's is tied with Toronto for second place, each with 2-2 won-and-lost records.

Under conference rules, the team finishing second in the standings can challenge for the championship if it has defeated the leaders once, or tied them twice.

Each of the four conference teams has two games left to play in the schedule which winds up a week from Saturday, on Nov. 6.

A two-game sweep by both Toronto and Queen's would create an unprecedented three-way tie for first place.

Toronto Brawl Now Title Semi-Final

Bonds Posted

TORONTO (CP) — George Chuvalo and Ernie Terrell have five sparring partners between them in preparation for Monday night's World Boxing Association heavyweight championship fight here.

Four of them will appear on the preliminary card despite a guarantee six weeks ago by co-promoter Ivy Schoenwald that the card would not be loaded with sparring mates.

"We will bring in outstanding fighters for the semi - final," Schoenwald said at the time. Meeting in the eight - round semi-final to the 15-round main event at Maple Leaf Gardens will be heavyweights Bill Johnson and Dick Wipperman. Johnson is a sparring partner for Terrell, the champion, and Wipperman is a sparring mate of Chuvalo, the Canadian heavyweight king from Toronto who is challenging.

HAS WON THREE

Johnson, from Rankin, Pa., has won three fights in five years but Wipperman has a 27-fight record, has won 19 knockouts, and a draw in 31 fights.

Another Terrell sparring mate, Von Clay, meets Leroy Green of Kansas City, in a six-round lightheavyweight bout.

Clay is not related to Cassius Clay, the world heavyweight champion the WBA refuses to recognize.

Buster Jacobs, who spars with Chuvalo, meets Pretty Boy Feistein of Toronto in a four-round heavyweight bout and the undercard will be rounded out by two Toronto welterweights, Don Ross and Colin Fraser.

While promoters were announcing the preliminary card, the WBA Thursday asked Terrell and Chuvalo to post bonds of $25,000 each guaranteeing they will be available to fight the winner of the Nov. 22 bout in Las Vegas between Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson.

The winner of that one would be recognized as undisputed world champ, even by the WBA.

ASK $50,000

However, Clay and Patterson must each post bonds of $50,000. If Clay posts his bond, he will be reinstated by the WBA. The winner of the two bouts must meet within six months to get their money back.

"The reason Terrell and Chuvalo are asked to post smaller bonds is because their fight is recognized by the WBA and there is less chance of their running out on an agreement," said Merv McKenzie of Toronto, Ontario athletic commissioner and president of the WBA last year.

Irving Ungerman of Toronto, Chuvalo's manager, and Bernie Gillham of Chicago, Terrell's adviser, agreed to post the bonds.

McKenzie said that if Clay and Patterson do not post their bonds before Nov. 22, their fight will not be recognized by the WBA and Clay will remain under suspension. He said the fight would likely be moved from Nevada, a state under WBA jurisdiction, to New York or another non-WBA state.

McKenzie, Glickman and Ungerman huddled Thursday in a meeting to thrash out rules by which Monday's fight will be governed.

The officials will be announced by McKenzie 90 minutes before the fight.

Loss Gives Bombers Nod

Stamps Must Whip, Tie Lions For Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Football Conference schedule ends with two weekend games—one will decide first place and the other will settle the pass-catching honors.

Calgary Stampeders can clinch first place with a tie against British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Sunday afternoon.

The pass-catching battle between end Tommy-Joe Coffey of Edmonton Eskimos and flanker Hugh Campbell of Saskatchewan Roughriders could be decided in the game at Edmonton Saturday night between Eskimos and Roughriders.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, their regular schedule completed, are tied with Calgary on points for the lead.

Bombers, like this weekend, could take first place if Lions defeat Calgary. Winnipeg has two wins in three starts against Calgary.

Saskatchewan has clinched the third and last playoff spot.

IT'S TRAINING

Coach Dave Skrien of British Columbia, last season's Grey Cup champions but out of the WFC playoffs this season, says he will use the Sunday game against Calgary as a sort of spring training.

"We hope Sunday's game will start us off right for 1966," Skrien said.

Lions can set an attendance record if more than 29,611 fans attend. For the first seven league games at home, Lions drew 236,566 fans for an average of 33,842. Lions set the Canadian Football League attendance record last year with 260,796 fans, an average of 32,563.

Calgary suffered two key injuries in the 20-0 pasting by Winnipeg Wednesday night.

The most serious was to Wayne Harris, the key man on Stampeders' defence, who suffered a severely pulled groin muscle. He is a doubtful starter Sunday.

The second, but not so serious on the surface, was the injury to fullback Lovell Coleman, chosen Canada's best player in the last season and key to Calgary's offence. Coleman suffered a twisted ankle but returned to his field spot. Coleman, who will play Sunday, may not be as effective as usual.

Soccer Teams Play For Keeps

TORONTO (CP)—The current two-game tour of North America by Napoli, the Italian soccer team, is much more than an exhibition tour.

Napoli, tied for first place in the first division of the Italian League, is out to prove it is of international calibre, says coach Bruno (Pelisso) Pesaola.

The Italian team meets Independiente of Argentina, World Cup champions, at Maple Leaf in New York tonight and then both teams fly to Toronto for a second game at Varsity Stadium Sunday afternoon.

"Napoli wants to enter the international ring," coach Pesaola said in a press conference held by long distance telephone hookup with New York earlier this week.

Napoli and Independiente will receive about $25,000 each for their Toronto appearance. The winner of Sunday's encounter will also receive $2,000 to split up among the players plus individual trophies.

Bill Casper Third In Tournament

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Slim Al Geiberger and rookie Steven Oppermann fired seven-under-par 65s Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $46,000 San Jose-Alamaden open golf tournament at Alamaden Country Club.

The 65s equalled the competitive course record set by Geiberger in the opening round of the 1962 Alamaden tournament, which he won with a 72-hole total of 272, also a record. He repeated as champion in 1963 and is the only two-time winner in the seven-year history of the event.

Jim Ferree of Corona, Calif., and Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., shot 66s to tie for third place with Bruce Crampton and Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., tied at 67.

Defending champion Bill Casper shot a three-under-par 69 along with 10 others.

Juniors Lose

BCI Shades Brighton

By DAVID TEMPLER

B.C.I. split two close games withthevisiting Brighton squad yesterday at the Pals grounds. BCI seniors won 25-23 and Brighton juniors scored 12 to BCI's 7.

The senior game matched the fast BCI backfield against the strong, solid Brighton line. The cold weather and the determination of both defensive lines resulted in fumbles by both teams.

BCI tried to face the centre of Brighton's line for most of the game without any outstanding success, but the occasional end-run caught Brighton unaware and often a long gain followed.

Ron Walsh of BCI set an unofficial school record by dashing 125 yards for a touchdown after an attempted field goal by Brighton. In the third quarter Walsh grabbed his second of the day on a pass from Bill Hallam. Walsh converted for the extra point.

Jim McCreary and Bill Hallam also scored touchdowns for BCI with Hallam receiving a pass in the end zone for the convert.

For Brighton Ken Blake led the squad in an outstanding effort by scoring four touchdowns. Wayne Ducie made some long gains to position Blake for his majors.

JUNIOR GAME

Brighton's Jim Moulton scored in the last play of the game to put his team ahead 12-7. This puts Brighton juniors in second place and forces a playoff with the Moira Trojans for the Bay of Quinte championship.

Seniors Lose 7-1

Moira Juniors Unbeaten

By DAVE BRAMMER

Moira seniors lost 7-1 to Trenton at Moira yesterday but the Juniors capped an undefeated season by defeating Trenton 18-7.

The senior game started very slowly and a single by Mark Sheridan of Moira was the only scoring in the first half.

Trenton equalized on a single early in the third quarter and then went ahead on a 40-yard pass and run play to Lewis.

The convert was missed and the score at the end of the third quarter was Trenton 7, Moira 1. There was no scoring in the fourth quarter, but there were of fights. The referees couldn't cope with all the fights at once and so a few of them developed beyond the pushing and shoving stage.

Moira's Junior Trojans won their game handily. Dalton Lambert scored for Moira on a 10-yard dash after a 35-yard pass from John Holgate to Pete Bishop set up the play. A few minutes later John Holgate bootlegged around left end for 35 yards and a TD. This convert was also missed and Moira led 12-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Trenton scored in the second quarter on a play that should have been whistled down on Moira's 15-yard line. It seems that the referee forgot to blow his whistle when Trenton player Johnson was tackled, so Johnson got back up and ran into the end zone.

The convert was good and the score at the half was 12-7 for Moira.

There was no scoring in the third quarter but in the fourth quarter Dalton Lambert scored again from the 1-yard line. The convert was missed and the final score was 18-7 for Moira.

North Bay Defeats Combines

FALCONBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) Garson - Falconbridge Combines suffered their third defeat in as many starts when they lost 6-2 to North Bay Trappers in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game Thursday night.

The win put North Bay four points in front of their nearest rivals in the loop, Sudbury Wolves.

Stirling H. S. Beaten By Campbellford

By DAVID FAULENER

On October 27th Stirling's Junior and Senior football teams played Campbellford. The juniors played a good game but were defeated 8-6. Garry Richardson scored the touchdown for Stirling.

The seniors lost 8-0. This makes it impossible for Stirling to win the Bay of Quinte championship but they can still win the Centre Hastings trophy. Stirling's defence played a very powerful, hard-hitting game and Campbellford had only one first down in the first half. Stirling was on Campbellford's one-yard line on two occasions but could not score.

The final game of the series will be in Stirling against Tweed on November 9th.

Defeats Napanee 42-0

Quinte Wins Senior Title

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

Quinte Secondary School won the Bay of Quinte High School football crown and the right to represent the area in the COSSA finals by clobbering a weak Napanee squad 42-0 yesterday at Quinte.

The overwhelming victory gave Quinte an unblemished season record of five wins and no defeats. The last time that the Saints had a perfect season was three years ago, when they went on to defeat Peterborough for the COSSA title.

The winners were sparked by a hard-rock defence and the running of Bill Leslie and Grant Vandervoort on offence.

Vandervoort scored three touchdowns, one on a hundred yard kick-off return, while Leslie contributed a pair of majors.

Leslie dashed 20 yards on a fake punt to score Quinte's first T.D. early in the game. Moments after Vandervoort capped a drive by slicing through the paper-thin Napanee line for another touchdown.

Later in the first period Leslie dove over the goal line from a few yards out to tally for Quinte again.

Vandervoort scooted around left end and raced 45 yards for a score in the second quarter.

On the opening kick-off of the second half Vandervoort carried the pigskin from one goal post to the other after eluding a mass of would-be-tacklers.

Paul Whalen, who kicks converts in soccer style, booted a 25 yard field goal after the Quinte scoring machine stopped momentarily in the second half.

Fullback Bob Moon ended the Quinte scoring with a five yard touchdown effort later in the game.

Whalen added three converts on five attempts.

The staunch Quinte defence outbone the offence on occasions, however. They allowed Napanee only a sparse two first-downs in the first half and were not much worse in the second.

The Quinte Juniors ended their season play on a rather dismal note as they were beaten by Napanee 18-13 earlier in the afternoon.

The strong running of Ed Hopper, Napanee fullback, provided much of the visitors offence.

Lee Sten ground out two touchdowns for Napanee, both of them coming on short plunges.

Napanee Quarterback Mike Peacock scored the other major on a power play through the centre of the frail Quinte line.

Don Dube went 45 yards for Quinte's first touchdown, and Mike Healey caught a Bob Carter pass in the end zone for another, but the losers could not manage more.

REPEL INFILTRATORS

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's national police are planning to form a 1,500-man special force to crush infiltrators from North Korea. The group will be made up of policemen specially trained in anti-guerrilla warfare.

Ter-Haars, Sacos Win Openers

Sacos romped to an 11-2 victory over Stinson-Horlock Combines and Ter-Haar Daubers shut out Grant's Realty 3-0 in Quinte Hockey League openers last night.

Don Forsythe paced Sacos with three goals and an assist. Garry Little, Harry Geneereaux and Doug Lucas each scored twice with Jack Gilby and Art Deline getting singles.

Little and Lucas had two assists, Geneereaux and Forsythe one each.

Bill Geneereaux and Bob Wanamaker were the scorers for the Combines. W. Isted, Lee McBride and Keith Dickey had assists.

The teams split six minor penalties.

Frank Cris led Ter-Haars to victory with a pair of goals, Harold Pointer getting the other.

Jack Calnan had two assists, Larry Westfall and Ron Urch one each.

The winners sent sinners to the boosegow nine times with the Realtors getting five sentences, all minors.

O'KEEFE'S TOURNAMENT

The singles part of this $100,000 tournament will open at Brunswick Bowl on November 5, Friday next start. DTB v 5 at 9 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 6 at 2.30 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 7th at 1 p.m. This will include both open and classified events. The classified singles includes all male bowlers whose 1964-65 averages in their highest league did not exceed 169 pins. The ladies' average is 149 or less for 1964-65. Note: You may also bowl at the same times on any Friday, Saturday or Sunday during November.

LADIES' PROVINCIAL TOURNAMENT

A reminder that Saturday, Oct. 30, 1965 is the final date for entries to this tournament.

LADIES' BIG TEN

The following are the top 10 averages in the city (all averages are complete where two or more leagues are bowled in) as far as the writer could ascertain from coverages posted in the score room at Brunswick Bowl.

1, Maryjlun Thurgood 167; 2, Barb Ward 165; 3, Millie Smith 159; 4, Grace Poste 158; 5, Sandy Mofina 158; 6, Barb Stone 158; 7, Carm Miller 156; 8, Audrey Hinchey 157; 9, Alice Drenth 155; 10, Wilma Reddick 155.

NOTES FROM HERE AND THERE ! !

The Saturday Junior League is well under way and show Bonny Brangers 114 average tops for the girls and Bob Collechio and Ken LaPalm tied with 126 for boys. In Sliders' League, Linda Moreau has high triple at 450 and Linda Nile, high single at 179 for the girls. Don Niles has a 202 single and 522 triple to lead the boys. I note by the board that Barb Ward is up to her old tricks of leading high single with 224, high triple 644 and a league leading average also. Andy Anderson's 243 and Verne Goodeve's 274 are top for the gentlemen.

International Hardware Mixed League show Jim White leading the pack in the averages with 161 while Helen Walt and Doris Hicks are tied for ladies lead with 136 average.

In the Classic Leagues. First the men's shows four games high in the following: "A" — Toots Holway 786; "B" — Ron Jones 729; "C" — Lloyd White 721. Single high game: "A" — John Sagar 231; "B" — Ron Jones 210; "C" — Ray Feeney 221.

In the ladies' section high three games are "A" — Grace Poste 541; "B" — Alice Drenth 536; "C" — Nel Loewen 442. High singles are "A" — Grace Poste 211; "B" — Alice Drenth 210 and "C" — Yvonne Christopher 169.

SPECIAL NOTE

It was stated three weeks ag it is my intention to try to keep ten pin bowlers in our city up to date as can be both as to tournaments and individual achievements. It has been gratifying indeed to hear from quite a few people who had some nice thing to say about the column. I would like to hear from league secretaries. If any information that appears in this column is not accurate it is only because I am human and your league secretaries are too busy to call.

CONVICTED IN SHOOTING

TORONTO (CP) — James John Horodencbuck, 26, of Toronto was remanded Thursday to Nov. 4 for sentence on convictions of breaking and entering and discharging a firearm with intent to resist arrest. Horodencbuk, an unemployed teletype operator, held off police for 45 minutes in an exchange of gun fire Aug. 17. He pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and was found guilty on the other charge.

Petes Wallop Hawks 7-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes ended a two-game losing streak and jumped into third place in the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association standings Thursday night.

The Petes downed St. Catharines Black Hawks 7-4 before 2,047 fans in Peterborough.

Montreal Junior Canadiens also moved up in the standings, climbing into a three-way tie for fifth place by defeating Hamilton Red Wings 5-4 on two powerplay goals in the third period in Hamilton.

Mickey Redmond led the Petes with two goals while Dave McLelish, Andre Lacroix, Joe Johnston, Paul Curtis and Guy Dufour got the others. St. Catharines goals went to Bob Sicinski, Jim Stanfield, Kerry Bond and Ken Laidlaw. The loss left the Hawks in eighth place in the nine-team circuit.

Use Tear Gas To Disperse Demonstrators

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) Brazil as a whole reacted calmly Thursday to drastic new powers assumed by the revolutionary government. But student demonstrated in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

Several state governors backed the new measures, which include the temporary abolition of all political parties, announced Wednesday by President Humberto Castello Branco.

In Rio, police used tear gas to disperse about 800 student demonstrators. Three persons were injured and several arrests made.

In Brasilia, the federal capital, senators and deputies discussed the situation which leaves them without party labels. Moves are under way to set up a revolutionary bloc, composed of parliamentarians backing the regime, and a bloc of opposition deputies and senators.

Smothers Brothers Series Showing More Signs of Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tom Smothers tells how his friends inquired about his new television show last summer.

"Sounds great, Tom," they'd say. "What shows are you opposite?"

Tom replied that he and his brother faced Mister Roberts and Peyton Place III. The friends face would invariably fall and he'd follow the weak comment, "Well, I don't watch Peyton Place any more."

Indeed the talk in the trade was that "The Smothers brothers show" was the least likely to succeed. A change of production heads, script problems galore, the untried quality of the comedians—all spelled doom.

"The show was almost cancelled before we went on the air," said Dick — he's the straight man and bass player. "Tommy and I didn't like the way things were going, and we said so. They kept saying, 'Trust us. We know what we're doing.'"

THEY DIDN'T

They didn't," added Tom, the guitar - playing brother. "At one meeting an executive told us, 'Maybe you two shouldn't be on television.'

"I was pround that Dick and I responded in unison, without consulting each other. We said: 'Maybe you're right. We'll go back to night clubs, where we can make a lot more money without all the grief.' We were almost to the door when our manager said, 'Wait a minute, fellows; let's talk the show over.'"

The Smothers brothers stuck to their guns, fighting for better scripts and more characterization. The reviews of the first show were generally poor, and right-fully so, the boys feel.

But the viewing public seemed a winning combination and embraced the show. One ratings listed Smothers Brothers with the highest audience of any new show. This despite the fact that CBS affiliates were so wary of them that many substituted local programs.

"We've still got a lot to learn," said Dick. "We are accustomed to playing before live audiences, where movement counts. But in television, you don't need to wave your arms and make broad gestures. Sometimes a just the wi of an eyebrow can put over a point."

The Smothers, who own 50 per cent of the Friday night show, are earning a quarter of their usual income but glad to be doing what they're doing. It keeps them home with their families.

Their aim, they say, is "to create a really quality show, as Dick Van Dyke or Bob Newhwitched. We believe by the end of this season we'll be doing just that."

Nicklaus Cards 63 For Lead

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Big Jack Nicklaus fashioned a blazing 10-under-par 63 to take the lead in the second round of the Australian Open golf championship today for a 36-hole total of 129.

Nicklaus shot a five - under-par 32 on the outgoing nine and came home with a 31.

The Olsoan posted an opening round of 66 Thursday and entered the second round trailing Gary Player of South Africa by four strokes. Player carded a sizzling 62 in the first round Thursday and equalled the world record for open golf competition.

But his second-round 71 left the South African at 133, four strokes behind Nicklaus. Kel Nagle and Frank Phillips of Australia were another two strokes back, Nagle carding a second-round 68 and Phillips a glittering 69. 32-32—64.

In his 63, Nicklaus took 25 putts. He had 10 birdies and parried the other eight holes. His 129 total was 17 strokes under par.

This is my best score in professional open play," Nicklaus said with elation.

SWISS VISIT

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 21 curlers from Switzerland will appear at Toronto and area curling clubs in matches at the Toronto cricket, Skating and Curling Club, the Thornhill Curling Club and the Board of Trade Curling Club Oct. 30 and 31 and Nov. 1.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Big Rocky won the $5,000 Wishing Ring purse at Greenwood Race Track Thursday running the seven furlong race for three-year-olds and up in 1:27.4.

Jockey Avelino Gomez was aboard, Big Rocky returned $9.80, $4.00 and $2.70.

Sir Ado and Tricky Scamp paid $30.40.

TORONTO (CP)—Speedy Lmeet,'owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, is favored to win the 72nd running Saturday of the Maple Leaf Stakes at Greenwood Race Track.

The event, one of Canada's oldest filly racers, was first won by William Hendrie's Queen Mary in 1892 with runnings every year thereafter except 1918 and 1919.

This year nine horses, age three and four years, were named to the 1 1-16-mile contest. The race is worth $13,800, with $6,800 going to the winner.

Speedy Lament scored her first stakes win in the Selby Mile Behone Stakes, upsetting Northern Queen, regarded by many track fans as Canada's finest three-year-old filly.

With Northern Queen in New York, stablemate Lady Victoria will carry the standard for E. P. Taylor's Farm. Lady Victoria, a daughter of Victoria Park, was second to Northern Queen in the 1¼-mile turf Wonder Where Stakes.

Conn Smythe's Northern Doll and Famous Load will be in the argument. Others in the race are Wally Wallace, Queen's Law, Expressed, My Valentine and Victory Chant.

18 Executed At Singapore

SINGAPORE Reuters — eighteen men charged with murder after a prison riot more than two years ago were hanged here today in a mass civil execution.

All 18, 15 Chinese and three Indians, were found guilty in March, 1964, after a 64-day trial, of killing three attendants on the island of Pulau Senang.

The tiny tropical isle was an experiment in prison reform. It had no walls and guards were not armed.

But on July 17, 1963, scores of prisoners rioted and killed Daniel Dutton, the island's superintendent, and two other attendants in a mass jailbreak.

Amos Burke, Secret Agent, Loses Out to Low Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co., unhappy with results produced by its American secret agent Amos Burke, will trade him in for a new model, a British undercover man.

Gene Barry's television show, which this season changed format and title to become Amos Burke, Secret Agent, will disappear after the Jan. 12 show, put down by that old enemy, low ratings.

In a program reshuffle, ABC will put a British-made cloak-and-dagger series, The Baron, at the end of its Thursday evening schedule, moving The Long, Hot Summer into Amos' Wednesday night position.

The Baron will be a fellow who runs a chain of antique shops in London and other world capitals as a cover for his battle against international forces of evil. By putting the show on Thursday nights, instead of Wednesday where the program's vacancy will occur, ABC gets the program out of competition with NBC's I Spy. The latter centres on two fellows who pose as a tennis player and his trainer as a cover for their battle against international forces of evil.

YOGUE STARTING

Apparently there is the beginnings of a TV vogue for British-made spy series. CBS will resume its London-made Secret Agent series, starring Patrick McGoohan, on Saturday nights starting Dec. 4. NBC has announced for 1966, The Saint, one of whose producers will turn out The Baron. The Saint, already a syndicated show here, goes around solving jewel robberies and such that battle Scotland Yard.

The cancellation of Gene Barry's show is the fifth by the networks this season—an extraordinarily high mortality rate so early in the TV year.

STILL NEEDS MEN

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) Secretary-General U Thant said Wednesday the UN Emergency Force in the Middle East can continue to discharge its function only if existing strength of 4,600 officers and men is maintained. In a report on the financing of the force, which includes a number of Canadians, he noted that a recommended reduction in strength by 500 officers and men had been effected this year.

Students Burn Many Copies of Campus Paper

MONTREAL (CP)—An estimated 1,200 students gathered on the University of Montreal campus Thursday at a demonstration during which 11,000 copies of the student newspaper Quartier Latin were burned and some members of the student newspaper staff were pelted with snowballs.

Organizers of the demonstration said the student newspaper staff is failing in its duty to keep students informed about campus activity.

They said in a prepared statement that Quartier Latin has become "a vulgar propaganda pamphlet serving separatist and socialist movements which are outside the university and foreign to the great majority of students."

Editor Jacques Elliott and Assistant Editor Michel Bourdon replied that their general policy is oriented toward quebec independence and socialism, but that this had been approved unanimously by the student council.

WANT 'BEARDS' OUT

Student demonstrators carried placards calling for the ouster of "beards" and "Marxist-socialists" from the newspaper staff.

It was a case of taking with one hand what they had given with the other. An investigation showed the engine had been removed from the car by visitors while the ship was at sea. They were caught trying to sell it on shore.

A spokesman for the Toronto Harbor Commission said the losses are being met by marine insurance companies around the world "which means pilferage but not much."

Workers are subjected to periodical "spot checks" of their lunch pails and parcels when leaving work, he said. Workers found guilty of theft are dismissed.

Importers and exporters surveyed in Halifax said there is little, if any, pilfering going on in the port. Harbor police said there was only one case last winter in which changes were laid by the RCMP. It involved the theft of oranges.

ERECTED FENCE

A fence has been erected around the docks at Saint John, N.B., and guards posted at the gates. Ronald Smith, president of the Longshoremen's Association local, said there has been "the odd incident" of pilfering but "nothing of any consequence."

In St. John's, Nfld., shipping company, union and harbor authority spokesmen said pilferage exists there but the situation by long" serious than in larger Canadian ports.

Quebec City's Harbor manager, Raymond Bousquet, said the port handles almost only bulk cargo, so pilfering is difficult.

Capt. B. D. I. Johnson, Vancouver port manager, said total damage, including theft and breakage, amounts to an average of only $4,500 a year and most of the damage occurs at the point of origin.

Importers said pilfering is not a serious problem in Vancouver and one praised dock workers for their handling of goods.

Cross-Canada Survey
Canadian Importers Complain Over Pilferage of Goods

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian importers claim they are becoming desperate over pilferage of goods through the country's ports, but port officials say there is no major increase of thefts and the situation is not out of control.

Norman H. Vickery, general manager of the 570-firm Canadian Importers Association, says importers are "fed up and getting pretty desperate."

He said he has no figures on the amount stolen each year, but the losses must be "substantial" because of the number of complaints registered by importers.

A cross - Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows port officials acknowledge there is some theft but it is not out of hand.

Mr. Vickery of Toronto said most complaints were from members shipping through Montreal.

He said one firm that once unloaded in Montreal now has thirds of the imports to Eastern its goods shipped by sea to Vancouver and then sends two-Canada by rail.

NO ACCURATE STATISTICS

H. A. Mann, chairman of the National Harbors Board at Ottawa, said there are no accurate statistics on the amount of pilfering "but we have the impression that it's becoming more of a problem."

Plagued by complaints, the importers association executive last week told its tariff, legislation and transport committee to start an investigation.

The Canadian Ports and Harbors Association also has set up a committee on pilfering.

Mr. Vickery said the thefts—usually consumer - type goods such as chocolates, clothing, shoes and transistor radios—are raising insurance rates for importers and causing them a loss of good will with firms they have contracted to supply.

A spokesman for the National Harbors Board at Montreal said it is diff cult to determine whether the theft is committed on route to port, while the goods are still aboard, or after the ship docks.

He said longshoremen unloading a shipment of cars from Germany found an auto was lost. An investigation showed the engine had been removed from the car by visitors while the ship was at sea. They were caught trying to sell it on shore.

A spokesman for the Toronto Harbor Commission said the losses are being met by marine insurance companies around the world "which means pilferage but not much."

Workers are subjected to periodical "spot checks" of their lunch pails and parcels when leaving work, he said. Workers found guilty of theft are dismissed.

Truckers Ask Govt. to Stop Reprisals

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Teamsters have asked the federal government to stop "heavy reprisals" against the union by employers in the Ontario trucking industry following the recent wildcat strike.

In a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters claims 8s members are being barraged with penalties, charges and claims for damages.

The action against the Teamsters is taken by the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, which represents some 85 trucking firms in the province, it was stated.

Most of these firms' operations were affected by a two-week wildcat Teamsters' strike earlier this month.

Ray Taggart, president of Hamilton-based Local 879 of the Teamsters, said in the telegram that the strike action taken by the Teamstry had been in support of federal legislation.

Local unions and scores of members tried to block efforts of trucking companies to escape the 40-hour work week which was implemented by the federal government last July, Mr. Taggart said.

NOTICE RE: GARBAGE AND RUBBISH

In the interest of a cleaner Belleville and to clarify certain matters pertaining to the collection and disposal of garbage and rubbish, City Council passed By-Law No. 7021 last year and entered into a new five-year garbage collection contract. The new contract provides for the collection of rubbish such as grass cuttings, trimming from shrubs, garden roots, etc. as well as normal garbage, provided it is placed out for collection in a proper manner.

The by-law requires every householder to provide sufficient receptacles to contain all their garbage and rubbish and specifically prohibits the placing of rubbish on City streets except in proper receptacles on the garbage collection day. However, rubbish that will not fit into receptacles will be collected, provided it is cut or folded into pieces not more than three feet in length and securely tied in bundles.

The receptacles permitted by the by-law are polyethelene or paper bags manufactured for use as disposable garbage bags, metal or other suitable watertight containers not larger than 17 gallons in size and equipped with handles and properly fitted covers. Closed cardboard cartons loaded not heavier than fifty pounds may be used for dry garbage; however they are respectfully requested not to use same during wet weather.

All householders are respectfully requested to obtain and use the proper receptacles noted above at the earliest possible date, if they are not already doing so.

To assist you with the disposal of the garden rubbish the City will collect same during the leaf collection week, if it is placed in a pile at the street at the time the leaves are being picked up. Please do not place cut rubbish or other leaves after the streets have been cleaned. If you miss our collection you should place your rubbish in your garbage receptacles for collection.

Royal Commission Proposed To Study Rhodesian Problem

From AP-Reuters

SALISBURY (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson ruled out British military intervention in Rhodesia today as the two governments announced proposals for a royal commission inquiry into the problem of independence for the African colony.

The announcements came before Wilson's departure for London after a week of talks with Prime Minister Ian Smith.

At a press conference, Wilson said a period of time is needed before the African majority rule could take over in Rhodesia, the South African Press Association reported. This could not be measured by calendar time.

He added that he believes a democratic solution of the Rhodesian crisis is possible.

The white Rhodesians are under self-delusion if they think they could escape the consequences of any illegal action, he said, referring to the threat of a unilateral independence declaration by Smith's white-minority government.

"These consequences should not be underrated," Wilson said.

TAKES AWAY STING

The announcement of the royal commission proposals took much of the sting out of the dispute over Rhodesia's future, Wilson and Smith disagreed on the exact terms of reference of the commission, but it assured that talks between Britain and Rhodesia will keep going.

A statement issued by the Rhodesian government said:

"The British government suggested to the Rhodesian government the establishment of a royal commission to settle a constitution and to determine whether or not it was acceptable to the people of Rhodesia as a whole.

"The Rhodesian government rejected this but proposed instead the appointment of a joint royal commission to decide only the question whether or not the 1961 constitution, with adjustments to make the country truly independent, is acceptable to the people of Rhodesia as a whole.

"The royal commission proposed would consist of a chairman who would be Sir Hugh Beadle, the chief justice of Rhodesia and two other persons, one to be appointed by the Rhodesian government and one to be appointed by the British government."

Temple and Benson Win Fight for Ottawa Train

Passenger rail service linking the Quinte district with Ottawa will be continued after October 31.

Yesterday's announcement by the CPR that it would continue the service to Ottawa from Brockville, ended almost two weeks of representation by Robert Temple, MP Hastings South in the last House and Revenue Minister E. J. Benson, of Kingston.

CPR president N. R. Crump said the service will continue without interruption after Sunday and schedules of the dayliner service will be announced next week.

The CPR had planned to discontinue the run after the expiry date tomorrow of the pool train agreement with the CNR on the Montreal-Toronto line.

The representations were first initiated from Belleville October 15 by Mr. Temple when he wired a protest to CNR president Donald Gordon, urging action to prevent elimination of the passenger link between the Quinte district and Canada's capital.

Mr. Benson and Mr. Temple then jointly engaged in representations to both railroads and the Board of Transport Commissioners.

First news that they had scored their point came yesterday afternoon from the commissioners.

In part the telegram received at Mr. Temple's office said "the Board has now been advised by commission counsel of Canadian Pacific Railway . . . that the company has decided to continue the operation of trains 261 and 262 between Ottawa and Brockville instead of terminating these trains at Smiths Falls."

Mr. Temple, campaigning in the Stirling area at the time, said the decision was a welcome one since it "was vital that the area should not be without direct service to the country's capital."

You turn backward — yes backward — old Time in its flight.

Slayings To Bring Protests

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — New street demonstrations have been called for in certain areas of the United States south where civil-rights workers have been slain.

The action was taken at a meeting of representatives of several civil rights and religious organizations Friday.

It came on the same day Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach ordered federal registrars into 12 more southern counties in an effort to step up implementation of the 1965 Voting-Rights Act.

Rev. Andrew Young, executive secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said the estimated 100 to 150 persons attending the three-hour meeting in Selma voted overwhelmingly for more demonstrations.

Nuclear Blast Success

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP)—A thermonuclear device packing the power of 80,000 tons of TNT was detonated far under the bleak, flat surface of Amchitka Friday in a shot scientists called "near perfect."

The atomic shot, with four times the power of the nuclear bombs which devastated Hiroshima and Nagasaki to end the Second World War, was designed to test the United States' ability to distinguish between earth waves caused by natural seismic disturbances and those generated by underground atomic blasts.

Col. Donald I. Prickett, test manager for the underground detonation, said:

"I don't think even an atom got out. It was near perfect."

The thermonuclear device, buried 2,300 feet in the volcanic rock of which this island is composed, created a shock described by Lt.-Col. Ben Grote, deputy test manager for the defence department, as a sharp, brief jolt.

Grote estimated the control point, located about four miles from the corrugated-steel building, at the north head of the work in which the atomic device was buried, jumped about one inch. He estimated that the blast caused a lift of about two to six feet at ground-zero.

There was little visible sight of the detonation after the shot was fired.

There was said a thorough sweep of the island failed to show any damage to Amchitka's vegetation, Aleutian sea otter herd, which had been hazed into surrounding waters by gunfire and fireworks.

"The only casualty we could find was a few dead fish, a cod fish, apparently newly killed," Grote said.

Grote said checks immediately after the detonation turned up only what was described as normal background radiation.

P. M. in Thick of Election Battle After Low-key Start

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After deliberately campaigning in a low key for weeks, Prime Minister Pearson found himself in the thick of rough and - tumble political battling Friday.

While students and Viet Nam "peaceniks" heckled and booed Mr. Pearson at two Vancouver rallies, his political opponents aimed long-range blasts at him for saying that another election will be inevitable in 1966 unless the Liberals win a majority on Nov. 8.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, whistle - stopping from Moncton to Truro, N.S., accused the prime minister of "threatening" the voters and showing "contemptuous disregard of the principles of democracy."

"Bullying the Canadian people," charged Conservative Party President Dalton Camp in Guelph. He called Mr. Pearson's remarks "an ultimatum."

New Democratic Leader Douglas commented in Victoria that the prime minister's comment was "unmitigated for arrogance in Canadian constitutional history. . . . Liberal incompetence has not been matched by humility."

Mr. Pearson hit back with unprepared statement saying the Conservatives and New Democrats don't stand a chance of getting a majority in the Commons. He promised his government will revive immigration laws and boost aid to education.

Shouts of "Yankee parrot" and "go back to the U.S., Mike" greeted the prime minister as he spoke for 35 minutes almost without pause before 2,200 in the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

He seemed to be replying to the hecklers when he said: "Whining anti-Americanism is not the same as vigorous Canadianism."

Earlier, he faced good-natured needling as he spoke to about 4,000 students at the University of British Columbia.

"What's new, pussycat?" one student shouted as Mr. Pearson was quoting statistics on university financial problems from the recent Bladen report. "Mike for the Senate," another interjected as the 68 - year - old Liberal leader finished his speech.

Mr. Pearson got a firecracker welcome from 1,000 in Chinatown and promised that the new immigration act will make

Canadian Voters Start Reply

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian voters start replying by ballot to the politicians with the open ing today of advance polls for the Nov. 8 federal general election.

Advance polls are open today and Monday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. local standard time. Regular polls close an hour earlier Nov. 8 but open at the same time.

Any of the country's estimated 10,200,000 eligible voters who expect to be absent from their home polling division on election day may take advantage of the advance poll.

Monday also is the start of the six day armed services vote, taken ahead of time each election so as to allow time for balloting by servicemen scattered around the world.

Upwards of 80,000 civilian voters are expected to cast ballots in the two-day advance poll.

In the 1963 election, 85,276 electors voted at advance polls. This compared with the record 96,448 who used them in 1962 and the 11,228 of 1958.

Many Centres Begin Slow Time Early Sunday Morning

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

According to the old axiom thousands of Canadians "fall backward" at 2 a.m. local times Sunday as daylight time is withdrawn and standard time goes back into effect.

The rule of thumb by which many people remember how to adjust their clocks twice yearly stems from "even seconds forward and falls backward."

In most provinces daylight time begins the last Sunday in April and ends the last Sunday in October.

It isn't uniform however. Alberta residents are forbidden by provincial law to use daylight time at all. Other areas remain on standard time through convenience or custom, some which even begin daylight time in April switched back nearly two months ago.

Time clock in Canada, which will not be affected in the long-beam cesium resonator, commonly known as the atomic clock—it runs on sidereal or universal time.

National Research Council scientists say it is one of the four most accurate clocks in the world. The mean sidereal day, lasting 23 hours, 56 minutes is more precise measurement than the 24-hour solar day.

All communities in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island will conform to the change back to standard time.

In Quebec only the area east of the 68th degree of longitude, where issues the Atlantic Standard all year, will be unaffected.

Windsor, remaining on standard time to conform with Detroit, and Port Arthur and Fort William, on the Eastern edge of the eastern time zone, do not observe daylight time in Ontario.

Winnipeg and Brandon are the only Manitoba centres which will change Sunday—all others reverted to standard time Sept. 12.

In Saskatchewan much of the province has remained on standard time. Exceptions are the middle belt of the province are the only ones to make the change.

Several communities in British Columbia's Peace River district remain on standard time to conform with Alberta, but other points will go back Sunday.

Standard time was first proposed in 1878 by Sir Sandford Fleming, a civil engineer and railway builder who came to Canada from Scotland. The international time convention adopted his idea in 1883.

Total: $75,372,88.

United Appeal Headquarters reports three outstanding returns sent in today.

The total employee gift from Vagten Mills was up 50 per cent over 1964, with the employee participation listed at an exceptional 88.8 per cent, up 30 per cent from last year. The overall company return, including corporate gift and employee gifts, was 40 per cent higher than the 1964 figure.

Employees of Stephens-Adamson improved 33 per cent in participation this year as the actual dollar returns were up 35 per cent to over $2,000, with an average gift of over $15. per employee. The total company returns, including corporate gift and employee gifts was nearly $4,000.

United Appeal Headquarters reports The Intelligencer employee giving is up 25 per cent in participation, with an average employee gift of over $14.

Many persons have sent their donations directly to the United Appeal Headquarters and those wishing to do so, particularly those not reached through canvas, can simply mail or bring their donation to United Appeal Headquarters, 160 Front Street, across from the City Hall in the Old Ontario Intelligencer building.

Dominican Republic Remains Grenade's Throw From War

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Six months after the April revolution began, the Dominican Republic remains a long way from peace and only a grenade throw away from violence.

Despite a laboriously - fashioned "act of national reconciliation," the factions involved are still at each other's throats. This is because the Organization of American States and the contending sides worked out a settlement based more on expediency than on practicality.

The ultimate solution may be unpalatable to both: Full occupation of the country by OAS forces under a modified form of trusteeship.

This is the conclusion of many prominent Dominicans and some diplomats who viewed the OAS peace formula only with mild enthusiasm when it was signed Aug. 31.

To them, the settlement lacked an important ingredient: Machinery to implement the peace-formula conditions, particularly civilian disarmament, the verification of this disarmament and the reintegration of the armed forces and national police.

Compounding the OAS formula's shortcomings, its critics argue, Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy has in trying to please everyone apparently alienated both sides.

Material for his cabinet was in short supply among moderate and conservatives, but it abounded in professionals, avowedly political independents, with rebel inclinations. The pro-rebel strain is strong in the present government.

This frightened the military. It found a sympathetic response in the ranks among the middle political leaders. The stage was set then for the still unresolved crisis.

Relations between the military and the civilian population in Santo Domingo at least, have been a story of abiding hostility and nearly non-stop violence. This was what fueled the April revolt.

The president's decision not to change the military leadership brought increased pressures from sympathizers who only widened the gap between the two sides.

The current crisis reached its climax when Garcia-Godoy ordered troops into a downtown fortress the rebels regarded as a shrine. The violent exchanges between the troops and firmed rebels sympathizers showed arms remained in the hands of civilians in the rebel sector.

The situation brought back to Santo Domingo the OAS political committee that forged the original peace formula. It resulted in sending inter-American peace forces into the heart of the city—an area rebel leaders had sworn never would be touched by foreign boots.

The heart of the crisis is whether Garcia-Godoy should reshuffle his cabinet to give it a semblance of impartiality, or whether he should fire the military chiefs.

Costumes, Masks Come Out As All Prepare for Hallowe'en

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the biggest giveaways of the year gets underway today.

Across Canada, hundreds of pounds of candies, biscuits, toffee apples, gum and fruit will be crammed into overflowing bags and baskets.

It's Hallowe'en, and for the children it's their big chance to be someone or something else. But even with all the fun in store, the kids have a responsibility.

They're also collecting for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund—UNICEF.

In most parts of Canada, Hallowe'en is being observed tonight because Oct. 31, the regular date, falls on a Sunday this year.

For those who don't plan to go out, last-minute party preparations were being made for gifts, including for apple bobbing; putting extra leaves in dining-room tables for sandwiches and lighting a heering pumpkin to guide partygoers.

The festive occasion, also known as All Hallows Eve, marks the evening before All Saints Day. In ancient times, it was a festival of bonfires and evil spirits, a time of witching and devilry, associated with the Druid lord of death, Samhain.

In keeping with tradition, costumes and masks will be worn. The run on stores for a "real scarey mask" and frantic rummaging through closets and chests for last year's ghost sheet should occupy most children until dark.

Some mothers will have to make sure this year's disguises are reasonably weatherproof.

Temperatures in Ontario and parts of the Prairies will fall into the mid-50s during the day to lows of 30 and 40. Rain, snowflurries and some cloud are predicted for other areas.

Police will be out in force, watching for pranksters and over - exuberant children, who let the "trick-or-treat" get out of hand.

Many storeowners can expect their plate glass windows to be heavily soaped by Sunday morning and other pranks will keep police busy.

Plan All Taxpayers Can Afford Says Dr. Dymond

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Mathew Dymond, provincial health minister, said Friday night Ontario's health care medical services insurance plan, which will cost the province about $70,000,000 a year, is all one fair, popular can afford at present.

Only about 18 per cent of the back residents will be eligible for subsidized membership in the plan which is scheduled to go into effect next June 1 and designed for those not already covered by a medical program.

Dr. Dymond, addressing the Co-operative Medical Services Federation of Ontario, called the plan "as big a step as was sect sound business management will permit" at the present time.

Eligibility for subsidies is based on family income. The government will fully subsidize premiums of persons with no taxable income. Partial help is ekined will be single persons with a taxable income not exceeding $1,200, married ones not exceeding $1,200 and families not exceeding $1,200.

ONE IS ELIGIBLE

Dr. Dymond said about 1,600,000 would be eligible for subsidization.

"The extent of the plan is to close the gap between the fit-ness of the medical profession already covered by private medical insurance programs and those unable to afford the same.

He said the plan will cover "practically all necessary medical care required in a normal life span." Coverage will include services of every type of practitioner—or specialist service recommended by a general practitioner—in the home, office or hospital.

Dr. Dymond said the plan "does not interfere with a patient's free choice of a doctor and that doctors would not be required to operate within a fee-for-service framework.

"It is not the perfect answer, nor is it Ontario's last word on the subject," he said in the concluding address at the conclusion of the meeting.

William Wright Again Heads Lawn Bowlers

Although the gross revenue was down and expenditures up by the purchase of a new mower the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club had a successful and enjoyable season, it was disclosed at the annual meeting held at the clubhouse on Friday night.

William Wright, who guided the destinies of the club last year will again be at the helm in the coming season. The post of vice-president, not filled for the past two seasons, will be taken by Art Bradden, while George Fisher will officiate as secretary as Jack Lewis has asked to be relieved of that duty. Owen Gray will again handle the cash as treasurer. Jack McLean is again the honorary president, Percy Graham the past president and Gordon Vance as chairman of the man. G. B. Hyde will be the membership chairman and the executive will be William Van-Tassel, Jack Avery, Cauff Ashley, Ken Hall, Roy Hall, Ralph Tuck and Frank Morrell.

Tournaments were a matter of discussions and it was decided to hold a mixed doubles tournament with one new bowler on the rink. The district playdowns will be held on Civic Holiday. Geraldine Hyde is the honorary secretary.

Dr. Dymond said the plan "does not interfere with a patient's free choice of a doctor and that doctors would not be required to operate within a fee-for-service framework.

"It is not the perfect answer, nor is it Ontario's last word on the subject," he said in the concluding address at the conclusion of the meeting.

Times Good Says Temple In Tweed Talk

TWEED — Addressing the Tweed-Hungerford voters here last night Hastings South Liberal candidate Robert Temple told an audience of 150 people that rising Conservatives agreed that good times had returned to Canada Mr. Temple read from his opponent's current newspaper advertisement and spelled out phrases "Times are good" and "Business has never been better" as they appeared in it.

The notice says the Liberal government claims credit for this improvement in the economy, Mr. Temple pointed out. "I'd say no statement they've made to date is more true," he said.

Mr. Temple warned against Conservative promises to raise old age pensions, and abolish the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials and construction machinery. What they really propose to do is saddle the people with a two billion dollar obligation that you and I will have to pay in some other way, he explained. Such undertakings cost money, he continued, and the money would have to come from somewhere. Well, the somewhere is the last place it right out of our pockets — taxes and rates, he insisted.

Instead of talking about increases and means tests they would do better to consider legislation for a "needy" test that would benefit deserving people to go many more ways, he said Now that the federal budget has been balanced it would be more responsible to make this kind of worthy assistance available and allow our senior citizens as much as $125. a month or even more in rents depending on their circumstances.

P.M. Denies Saying He Would Call Another Federal Election

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night "another election would be inevitable" if "the government does not get a majority" in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Mr. Pearson said in a statement: "I did not say that I would call that election. I did state, and I repeat, my view that another election would be inevitable."

The statement was issued following Mr. Pearson's arrival at a hurried airport interview here Thursday night that he had told Liberal campaign workers in Toronto there would be another election in a year or 18 months if "we don't get a majority government.

The statement issued Friday night said:

"I have been accused of being arrogant because I believe that, if the government does not get a majority on November 8, there will be another election within a year or so.

REPEATS STATEMENT

"If did not say that I would call that election. I did state, and I repeat, my view that another election would be inevitable.

"No one who has listened to the Opposition parties in this campaign can believe that they do not get a majority on November 8, there will be another election within a year or so.

CONFIDENCE

"In the excitement at Vancouver airport last night, I understood a question to be whether I would call or support another election if we didn't have a majority. That was the question I have been answering. It was not of course my intention to deny I had said that in my view another election would be inevitable in the event of a minority situation.

"The present government is a government that cannot survive in the House of Commons unless it has the support of the opposition support it. Unless the Opposition leaders are completely frank with me and with their have been trying to tell the Canadian people for the past eight months, they cannot support my government. Therefore, my government would be defeated in parliament and there would be another election.

"The facts are very simple. Even the leader of the official Opposition has admitted that he has not a Liberal majority. Mr. Douglas has admitted nothing, because he is no longer in a position to admit anything. The gallup poll has exploded his mathematical myth. The poll of the NDP has not proved whatever of being the official Opposition let alone the government.

WOULDN'T LIKE IT

"Therefore it is perfectly clear that, because of that, they were not a Liberal majority after November 8, there would be another election which they is not something I decree. It is not something I would like to see. It is not, from the political life, clear to everyone except those whose case would be destroyed if they didn't like it."

In a brief speech Thursday at Liberal campaign headquarters in Toronto Broadview riding, Mr. Pearson said the Liberals are the only party with a chance to form a majority government.

In a speech which was taperecorded, he added: "If we don't get a majority government, we're going to have another election in a year, in a year and a half, and who wants that?"

On his arrival here about 12 hours later, a reporter asked Mr. Pearson: "You were quoted as saying that if the Liberal government didn't get a majority in the election there would be an election again next year."

DENIED STATEMENT

Mr. Pearson replied: "I said no such thing. I don't know where that report started."

This exchange also was taperecorded, then followed:

Question: "This report has been all over B.C."

Mr. Pearson: "I can't help that. I said no such thing. I don't know what that report started. I never meant any such statement. Perfectly ridiculous. I'd like to see that report."

A reporter then quoted T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, as saying Mr. Pearson had made an irresponsible statement in Toronto.

Mr. Pearson: "I don't confirm I never said it."

Question: "Do you remember saying anything along those lines?"

Mr. Pearson: "No, not at all."

signing an affidavit saying he expects to be away from home election day but he must be on the voters list.

The open-door policy on absentee polls has been in effect since 1960 when restrictions were removed from the Canada Elections Act. Before that only commercial travellers, fisher-men and a few other groups had the right to vote early.

Post offices in all ridings will have notices saying that advance polling stations are located. The voter can also find out by calling committee rooms of a political party.

Counting of the advance votes does not begin until 9 p.m. local standard time election night.

Seven deputy returning officers jumped the gun in 1963 and some results leaked out. The officers had their fees cancelled.

Two newspapers were prosecuted for publishing advance-poll figures before election day.

A total of 122,618 servicemen, their wives outside Canada and veterans in government hospitals are eligible to cast ballots in the service vote starting Monday. This compared with 241,210 eligibles in 1963, when 86,205 voted.

In that election, the service vote—usually announced about one week after the general vote—changed the winner in Hastings South. Liberal Robert Temple overcame the Conservative candidate's election-night margin of 92 votes.

Unemployment In Ontario At New Low

TORONTO (CP) — A downward plunge in unemployment in Ontario is rivalling the lows now in 12 years.

Final figures for September show that the unemployment rate for the province declined last month to 1.8 per cent from 2.1 per cent in August and 2.4 per cent in July.

Officials of the department of economics and research and statistics attribute the decline to a growth in the number of jobs available and to a slight drop-off in the labor force caused mainly by return of students to school.

Only twice in the past 12 years has unemployment reached a lower ebb in Ontario—September, 1953, and October, 1956. In both cases it was 1.5 per cent.

In the meantime, the labor force has grown substantially. Last month it was recorded as 2,598,000, compared to 2,166,000 in October, 1956 and 1,969,000 in September, 1953.

"Leadership" Theme of Talk By Candidate

TRENTON Dr. Pauline Jewett, Liberal candidate in Northumberland, said in Trenton Thursday night that "leadership" was more talked about by her constituents in her meetings with them, than any other single issue of the election.

It seemed to be the general consensus, Dr. Jewett said, that the three national leaders, (L. B. Pearson, Liberal; John Diefenbaker, P.C., and Tommy Douglas, NDP), were "getting on in years," and should be replaced by younger men. Those who had spoken to her thought the present leaders were "out of touch with the times."

Dr. Jewett admitted that her leader, Mr. Pearson, was older, but she said she felt he was more aware of present problems in Canada and the world at large than most men of his age and more than most younger men in the political arena.

However, she said that many had told her time constraints the present leaders would have stepped down in favor of younger, more aggressive leaders.

Car-Truck Collision Injures Two

TRENTON — A car-truck collision last night put two men in hospital and left two other persons in for emergency treatment.

At 9:45 p.m., a truck driven by Bertram Liddle, 55, of 17 Bay Street, was in collision with a car driven by Leonard James Jones, 30, of R.R. 2, Trenton.

Mr. Liddle was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering a back injury and Mr. Jones, to hospital with head injuries. Both men are reported in satisfactory condition and will be released today.

Riding in the truck with Mr. Liddle were his daughters, Rhonda, 7, and Arlene, 13. They were treated in emergency and sent home.

Damage to the truck, which is owned by Quinte Plumbing and Heating Company, was $1,000, and damage to the car was $600.

Wants Ruling On Bingos Set Aside

TRENTON — The Trenton Lions Club, through its president, Sproule Currie, has appealed to Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West, to get a ruling from OPP provincial headquarters in Toronto, regarding the Lions' monster bingos, set aside, in order that the Lions may continue to raise funds for benevolent purposes by this means.

Following an investigation by an OPP inspector last summer, the Lions were asked to suspend operations along these lines. Then the provincial ruling states an organization may hold an occasional bingo "for charitable purposes," the local Lions' sponsorship of mingo bockey was not deemed "charity."

Mr. Sandercock is reported to have forwarded the presidents letter to the attorney general's department.

SPONSOR TRAVELOGUE

Trenton Kiwanians are sponsoring a "Travelogue" program Tuesday and Nov. 30 in the high school auditorium by the showing of the film, "Highlights of Ethiopia and will continue on through six other travel films until May 10. Countries covered will include the West Indies, U.S.A., Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Egypt, and Mexico. All club members have been given series' tickets to sell.

SKI CLUB TO MEET

The annual meeting of the Batawa Ski Club will be held in the recreation hall at Batava on Monday, Nov. 1, starting at 8 p.m. An election of officers will be held.

At Monday's meeting, two films on skiing will be shown and Eric Sandercock of Mt. Pakenham Sports' Shop will give a chalk talk on new ski equipment and ski wear.

The ski runs at Batawa have been improved this year and a first aid room built in the chalet. The club has canceled its membership with the Canadian Ski Patrol and is now operating a ski patrol of its own.

PC Candidate Reiterates Charge Made
TWEED — Speaking here Friday evening, Lee Grills, P.C. candidate for Hastings South, reiterated a charge that integration of the armed forces had been bungled by the Pearson Government.
Speaking at Trenton on Wednesday, Mr. Grills had bitterly assailed the Liberals defence policies. These were defended the following evening by Robert Temple, the Liberal candidate, who said that integration had reversed a trend towards obsolescence in the armed forces.
"I still say integration was badly managed", Mr. Grills declared here. "Our service men need new and modern equipment, but not at the expense of morale. The Liberals talk about savings, but one of the greatest savings would be to keep the trained men on the job. The Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker has said a permanent bonus should be offered to the men who have already trained.
so that we do not lose these people, then go out and recruit more men and start the very expensive training program all over again."
Chairman of the meeting was Burton Thompson, president of the Tweed Progressive Conservative Association. Other speakers were Reeve Clarence Graham of Hungerford and Harry Hollins of Tweed, former mayor of Belleville. Mr. Graham said he had received much approval by anybody with respect to the new industry which will locate at Marlbank.
Besides dealing with the issue of integration of the armed forces, Mr. Grills dealt with claims made in an advertisement supporting Mr. Temple's candidate. "You know, and I know, that the forward, careful, far-sighted, positive action by the Progressive Conservative Government, of which I was a member, between 1957 and 1963 made possible the good times we are enjoying today", he declared.
The Liberals, he charged, were trying to take credit for those good times resulting from the trade crusade headed by Hon. George Hees when he was minister of trade and commerce, of the grain salet to Russia and China commenced under the Conservative regime and of the pegging of the dollar by the Conservatives.

U.S. Marines Fight Off Vicious Viet Cong Attack

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. marines, using pistols and fighting hand-to-hand from their tents, beat off a Viet Cong attack today 10 miles southwest of Da Nang.

A U.S. military spokesman said 56 Viet Cong, many of them teen - agers, were killed. He described U.S. casualties as moderate.

The attack, by an estimated 300 to 400 Viet Cong, was the second against marines in the Da Nang area since Thursday, when a Viet Cong suicide squad infiltrated the Marble Mountain air facility and destroyed and damaged 28 helicopters. Da Nang is the site of the big American air base 390 miles northeast of Saigon.

The guerrillas broke through the marine defence perimeter today and overran bunker positions. After an hour's battle, the Viet Cong broke and fled. The marines and their Vietnamese fanned out in pursuit.

In Saigon, meanwhile, senior U.S. military sources gave another indication of increased Viet Cong activity. They reported North Viet Nam has sent waves of fresh troops into the highlands north of the capital for what could be one of the showdown battles of the war.

ONE IS 12-YEAR-OLD

Reuters news agency quoted an unconfirmed report as saying that among the dead guerrillas left lying around the Da Nang ammunition dump was a 12-year-old boy who had been peddling soft drinks to the marines for the last few days. The report said that a diagram of the camp was found on his body.

One captured Viet Cong was quoted as saying that he belonged to a hard-core battalion of 400 men that massed in the mountains late Friday for the assault.

The Viet Cong attack opened with recoilless-rifle fire. Mortar fire followed. At the height of the clash, marines engaged the Viet Cong in vicious hand-to-hand fighting in tents in the marine bivouac area.

The marines were on one of the many hilltops in the defence perimeter around the big Da Nang base.

ATTACK FLEE ME

In other ground action, Viet Cong guerrillas attacked the U.S. special forces camp at Plei Me with mortar and small-arms fire Friday night. The small arms-fire continued into today.

The camp underwent a siege that was lifted early this week after battles estimated to have cost the Viet Cong 750 casualties.

Meanwhile, an inquiry opened Friday into the death of six U.S. paratroopers killed Wednesday by artillery fire from their own side in an operation against the Viet Cong.

Three other soldiers were injured in the accident. It was not known whether the fire came from U.S. or South Vietnamese forces.

Australian Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies said in Melbourne Friday night the U.S. and Australia will pull their troops out of Viet Nam "at the drop of a handkerchief" if the other side says it is willing to talk.

Major General Given Award Of $3,000,000

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Former Maj.-Gen. Edwin A. Walker was awarded a $3,000,000 libel judgment Friday against the Associated Press and the New Orleans Times-Picayune Publishing Corporation.

An all-male civil jury decided Walker was libelled in an AP account of his activities during the 1962 desegregation riots at the University of Mississippi.

Defence lawyers moved in court to have the jury's verdict set aside and also moved for a mistrial, on grounds that the awards exceeded the amount of $2,250,000 in damages alleged in Walker's complaint.

District Judge William Woods reserved decision on the motions and discharged the jury. In his instructions to the jury, Woods had declared, "no one may recover more for any item of damage than the amount sued for."

The AP said any judgment lodged against it will be appealed.

WAS SECOND AWARD

It was the second award Walker has won as a result of the University of Mississippi riots. The Associated Press, as sole defendant, currently is appealing a $500,000 libel judgment outstanding in Fort Worth, Tex., in favor of Walker.

Similar suits filed by Walker against the Associated Press and newspapers in these cities have been dismissed in Denver, Colo., Kansas City, Mo., and Louisville, Ky.

Walker, 55, claimed the Associated Press falsely described him as assuming command of rioters at the University of Mississippi Sept. 30, 1962, and leading them on a charge against U.S. marshals. Two persons were killed in disorders that arose over the admission to the university of Negro James Meredith.

The Times-Picayune Publishing Corporation was named in the current suit because its newspapers in New Orleans carried the AP riot story under an Oxford, Miss., dateline.

The trial began Oct. 11.

The jury found against the defendants "unless" Judge Woods explained this means either or both may be held responsible for the full amount of the judgment.

Canada Owes Debt to Iroquois Asserts Miss Kahn-Tineta Horn At Canadian Club Meeting

Speaking to the Belleville and District Canadian Club in Sir Winston Churchill School, last evening, Miss Kahn-Tineta Horn a full blooded Mohawk of the Six Nations Iroquois Confederacy at Caughnawaga, Quebec lashed out at the Department of Indian Affairs as well as the Government of Quebec.

The outspoken Miss Horn who has been interested since a young girl in the welfare of the Indian and who now finances her lecture tours by modelling in Toronto was introduced by Club president Mrs. J. G. Demeza.

In opening she asserted that Canada owes a great debt to the Iroquois and proceeded to give at length the history of her people whom she said originally had about 900 A.D. How 20,000 Indians consisting of 18 Nations (not Tribes) had lived in a delightful balance with nature, having as enemy wars, fories or social competitions. Long before the coming of the French or British a peace group of nations was formed with five of these nations living in peace for over 600 years. She further related the tortures which the Indians were subjected to, upon the coming of the French.

DENOUNCES HISTORIANS

At this point she denounced the historians for the writing of the school history books and said that the reports were definitely untrue; that these were written to please the English and French readers.

Miss Horn in continuing felt that the British upon their arrival had given the Indian a better deal and that after some time the Five Nations Indian Confederacy had signed a treaty with the British to the effect that they would give them permission to make the land free in return the Indian was guaranteed forever—education, welfare and medical care as long as he remains on the reserve.

SOVEREIGN NATION

Miss Horn maintained that the Indians are a Sovereign Nation, separate in every way and that their rights should be respected. She was definitely against assimilation and felt that the Indians should remain on the reservations where they belong.

In dealing with her topic "The Indian Awakes: A New Problem for Canada" the speaker asked what was in store for the future and felt a great deal had to be done at once to save the taxpayer money in the future. The population of the Indians in Canada is now 23,000 and is increasing four per cent each year. Miss Horn stressed that an investment now would save money later. She also felt that education would play an important part, but that the few Indian students who had gained a better education were taken by the whites for their purposes instead of being able to return to help their own people.

In regards to what is being taught in the schools, the former Indian princess stressed that as far as she was concerned religion should not be taught in the schools and that students who were taught religion were utterly confused. She recommended several books to read, one in particular "The Indians of the Americas" by John Collier.

AGAINST TRICULTURALISM

Concluding, Miss Horn hoped that the rest of Canada would stand by them in what she termed, their fight against "triculturalism" which is in the process of being forced upon them. She plans to visit Ottawa following the election to fight for the welfare of her people.

A stormy question and answer period followed at which time Miss Horn agreed that she was definitely prejudiced. Becoming somewhat subdued she said in closing "The past and story of the past is going to guide you in the future."

Mrs. J. Lennox Smith expressed appreciation to Miss Horn and said that even though the audience probably had not agreed with everything said she felt they had been enlightened in many ways.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Maybee and Mrs. A. J. Clare at the close, Piano accompaniment for the opening and closing numbers was provided by Mrs. K. Bird.

Belleville's Front Street presented a quite different appearance around the turn of the century from what it does today.

This is indicated by the postcards reproduced on this page which show dated awnings, unpaved streets, long, dust raising women's skirts and the horse and buggy.

But at the same time, with the exception of new store fronts here and there, and new bank buildings on the main corners, many of the buildings have changed little with the passing years.

The accompanying photo postcards, mailed back in 1907 to Mrs. Myrtle Martin, now living at 43 North Park Street, show Front Street as it was in that era. Both of the Front Street scenes were taken from the Front and Bridge Street intersection.

The Front Street scene, looking south from the four corners, shows the picture was taken prior to the construction of the CPR bridge which now crosses the river at the foot of the street.

But the former Standard Bank building on the corner and the old city hall are the same. However, a close look at the original postcard shows that where the Victoria and Grey Trust building is, the building just north of the city hall served as The Farmers Bank.

The view looking north also shows some familiar buildings, such as the West Robertson Block and others.

But there are a few names now unfamiliar to the Front Street business scene. For instance one display advertisement painted on a building front let it be known that Walkbridges were in the business of picture framing.

And, of yes, the postcards were sold by the firm of C. B. Scantlebury which apparently acquired them from a British lithographing firm.

Jury Exonerates Doctor in Patient's Death

TORONTO (CP) — A doctor who prescribed drugs for a nursing home patient he had never seen was exonerated Friday by an inquest into the patient's death.

Dr. Samuel Birenbaum told the inquest he prescribed tranquillizers for Edith Ellis, 77, by telephone July 31 on the strength of the nursing home supervisor's diagnosis although he never saw Mrs. Ellis.

Mrs. Ellis died Aug. 9, nine days after she was admitted to the Colonial Nursing Home, which is partly owned by Dr. Birenbaum.

The coroner's jury found that Mrs. Ellis died of acute bronchial pneumonia and general hardening of the arteries.

Dr. Mable Drummond, who gave Mrs. Ellis penicillin shortly before she died, told the jury Mrs. Ellis "was dying when I saw her for the first time."

CORONER CRITICAL

Coroner F. D. Cruickshank, summarizing the evidence, said Dr. Birenbaum had not acted properly in ordering drugs available only by prescription by telephone.

He told the jury he was struck by the lack of medical examination on admission to the nursing home.

The jury was told Dr. Birenbaum thought Mrs. Ellis would be cared for by her family doctor, but that her son, William Ellis, thought his mother would be under Dr. Birenbaum's care.

The jury recommended that nursing home operators make definite arrangements to provide a physician in emergencies and that medical arrangements be made for patients admitted to nursing homes if no family doctor is available.

Dr. Cruickshank said the lack of medical care for old people is a "sadistic commentary on those who license and supervise nursing homes. I don't think we can condone the lack of medical care by, the fact that these people are elderly."

Budget Surplus $502,500,000 In Six Months

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal treasury ended the first half of the current fiscal year Sept. 30 with a surplus of revenues over expenditures amounting to $502,500,000.

This compared with a surplus of $296,900,000 a year earlier at the mid-point in the 1964-65 fiscal year. The treasury ended that year with a budgetary deficit of $38,000,000.

Revenues for the first six months of the current fiscal year, which began April 1, amounted to $3,780,100,000. Expenditures amounted to $3,277,600,000, leaving the $502,500,000 surplus.

Peking Propoganda

Communist China's isolation from the mainstream of world politics, as symbolised by its exclusion from membership of the United Nations, has led to profound ignorance among the Chinese masses of what goes on in the western world.

This applies particularly in the Chinese attitude toward the United States, which the Peking government regards as its arch enemy and seizes every opportunity to pillory. Similarly Americans are as much in the dark about China, although they are not subjected to the same plethora of propaganda.

According to Charles Lynch, chief of Southam News Services, the two countries live in a state of mutual ignorance of one another, with the Chinese people hearing only what the government wants them to hear, principally a "dreadfully distorted picture of the U.S."

Speaking to a Peterborough audience recently, Mr. Lynch said China's idea of the U.S. is "sabre-rattling, troop movements, lynchings and the slave movement of the poor down-trodden working class."

Mr. Lynch, who visited China recently and will shortly publish a book of his experiences, said Canada enjoys a good reputation in China, due in large part to wheat sales and the role played in that country by the late Dr. Norman Bethune (an indication of how powerful can be the influence, even in a country the size of China, of one man.)

We trade with them and Canadian tourists can go there with little difficulty.

The Canadian writer expressed the fear that China and the U.S. may be on a collision course and suggested that Canada, being on good terms with the Chinese, should take steps to ward off such an encounter. He said we should try to put Washington "in touch with our new found friends."

Scot Invented TV

Forty years ago this month Scotsman John Logie Baird achieved the world's first live television transmission. This epoch-making event, writes Ronald Tiltman in Coming Events in Britain, took place between two attic rooms on the top floor of No. 22 Frith Street, in London's Soho district, and the house now bears a commemorative plaque.

Baird's career was an interesting one. He was born at Helensburgh in 1888, the son of a clergyman, and studied engineering at Glasgow University. Ill-health compelled him to abandon his appointment with the Clyde Valley Electrical Power Company and he then began a variety of business projects. He went to the West Indies to develop a jam and preserves industry, but returned home to sell Australian honey and soap.

Still ailing, by 1922 he had suffered only a severe breakdown in 1922 and was ordered by his doctor to take a prolonged rest. He went to the Sussex resort of Hastings and as soon as he felt better turned back to scientific research. As a schoolboy he had dabbled with selenium cells and now, despite a lack of funds, he turned his attention to television.

In his small attic quarters he set up his first crude transmitting apparatus, but succeeded only in transmitting jerky images. In 1924 he moved to London and there, on October 2, 1925, he projected the image of a ventriloquist's doll. Elated with his success, Baird dashed downstairs to bring up a bewildered 15-year-old office boy from the floor below and placed him in front of the bright lights at the transmitter. The boy, William Taynton became the first person in the world to be seen on television.

Baird followed his initial triumph with the first color transmission in 1928 and the first transmission across the Atlantic the same year. In 1931 he made the first television transmission of the Derby from the racecourse at Epsom. The following year Baird's company was absorbed by the British Broadcasting Corporation and in 1936 the corporation presented the world's first public television service.

Age of Chivalry

In a reversal of what was the custom in the age of chivalry—in the dim dead days beyond recall—the French are initiating a campaign in Paris to have women give up their seats on buses on subways.

The Financial Post says it appears that officials of the department of health are concerned. "French women, they claim, get unnecessary ailments because they sit too much."

It sounds just like another variation on the exercise theme, but there is not much exercise involved in standing in a crowded bus or streetcar—only strain.

However, The Post does not think so. "Canadian women," it avers, "must be quite healthy. There is no sitting problem here. Most of them are standing already."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1945

The decision of the Prices Board to increase the coupon value of cooked and canned meats should react favorably on the public. The protests of those who consume considerable prepared meats, and of the butchers who said the cheaper cuts of meat were not being purchased, it seemed were justified, for the Board has seen fit to make the changes as reported. These along with the temporary removal from the ration list of the so-called fancy meats (we wondered how that name ever came to be applied) should enable everyone to get by on the ration without any hardship. Probably the Prices Board and the government have gone as far as they intend to in compromise, and we believe further protests will be unavailing and unjustified, if we are to contribute food to Britain and other of our allies in sufficient volume to even only fill partly their needs then we should be willing to make the small division from the plenty which is available to us.

30 YEARS AGO

Refreshments — sandwiches, cakes, etc., which had been prepared for Holloway Street church meeting which was engaged in practising for a Hallowe'en concert, were not in evidence when they were to be served last night. It was really disappointing to those who had anticipated hot coffee and some nice things to eat. The police believe that boys who were a little early in celebrating Hallowe'en are the guilty ones. It is thought that the boys knew where the refreshments had been placed in the basement.

In the Dominion elections on October 29th, Mr. W. Thompson the Conservative candidate defeated Mr. Charles Hanna, the Liberal candidate and former member, by a majority announced to be 2,540. In Belleville Mr. Thomson's majority was 835. The vote throughout the Dominion remains somewhat indefinite, although the Conservatives have the largest group so far. The Hon. Arthur Meighan, the Conservative leader, was elected in Portage La Prairie, Man., and Mr. Hon. Mackenzie King was defeated in his own riding of North York. This morning the returns were reported to be as follows: Liberal 96; Conservatives 118; Progressives 17; Labor 2; Independent 1; in doubt 14; total 245. One hundred and twenty-three seats are necessary to give a clear majority in the house.

Dr. Alex Embury, reeve of Brantford, the Conservative candidate for new riding of Hastings - Peterborough, was elected to the Dominion parliament. He has a majority said to be in excess of 2,500, over G. A. Brethen, ex-M.P., Progressive in the last parliament.

50 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1915

Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., died in Ottawa yesterday morning. The venerable statesman was one of the most picturesque figures in Canadian public life. He was the last of the Fathers of Confederation. For the past few years he lived in Nova Scotia land, and was in his 95th year. He served as High Commissioner for Canada in London, England, in January, 1896, he entered the administration of Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Minister of State, and upon the resignation of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, he became Liberal Conservative administration in which he held the office of Prime Minister and Secretary of State from April 27th, 1896 to July 8th, 1896, when in consequence of the defeat of his party at the polls on June 23, 1896, he resigned. He became leader of the opposition in August, 1896. His son, Mr. Charles Tupper of Winnipeg succeeds to the baronetcy.

From our file copy at this time in 1915: "Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper called upon President Grover Cleveland in Washington yesterday."

To Your Good Health

Depression Does Not Last Indefinitely

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

In the last two days I've printed letters about mental health, one case that came out well, another that ended in disaster.

Here are some in-between cases.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother had been sick from nerves for years. No pills or medicine really helped. Last year she had eight shock treatments. The improvement is amazing. Not long after that she was taken home. She needed someone with her, because she felt sort of woozy at first.

She had her last treatment in January and she has been fine ever since. — D. S.

* * *

Shock treatment does help in many cases. (However, they are not a cure-all for every type of mental illness, by any means.)

But this is another case in which they helped. I also suggest that psychiatric treatment, a long time ago, might have avoided the need for such stringent treatment. When one has been "sick from nerves for years," pills and medicine won't be the answer, so let's not put off psychiatric treatment until drastic measures are needed.

* * *

Dear Doctor: Last winter my husband went through the clinic at [illegible]. They told him he had nothing wrong with him physically but that he was in a deep depression. How long will this last? How should it be handled? He had a thyroid operation about five years ago. Could that cause the problem?—H.W.

The thyroid operation five years ago had little and perhaps nothing to do with his depression. It might be that he had not had sufficient treatment since, but there I'm guessing. After all, the clinic examination revealed nothing physically wrong, so I assume that his thyroid is all right. So let's forget that.

But the depression? Only in the last few years we began to recognize its seriousness. Also, recognition of it is one thing, and treatment another.

Either a psychiatrist, or a physician who has had some specialized training in psychiatric problems, should take over treatment of such a case.

* * *

In general, depression does not last indefinitely. It can be a struggle for a time, but once fully conquered, it is not likely to return. It seems, in fact, to be an ailment of middle age.

When a really serious "psychiatric depression" develops, there is no home remedy. You can't get anywhere by trying to cheer up a person who has skidded into a deep emotional ditch. He can't cure himself by sheer will power.

Yet he can be cured with specialized care. Phone his clinic and say, "Look, doctor, you said he was in deep depression. What should I do? I want my husband to get well, and this report of "depression" doesn't tell me how to proceed. Please advise me."

I know about the clinic named in the letter, and it is very good. You'll get an answer. And your husband will improve.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any evidence that with identical twins (or fraternal twins), one is often sterile? — D. D. M.

Answer: No.

* * *

To D.B.S.: Superficial veins in the legs can often be coagulated (dried up) by injections. And I'd certainly go along with your doctor's suggestion.

More-in Teens Than Meets the Eye

Kingston Whig-Standard

A standard lament these days is the conformity and the uncritical blandness of youth in our high schools and universities (although the university situation has changed drastically with the growth of socially-conscious student activism groups). But the adult world is not conspicuously successful in its attempts to assess young people; it is better, when possible, to go to the source.

A recent letter from a grade 11 student, published in a Toronto newspaper, is an illustration of the fact that it is dangerous to generalize about any group. This student began by commenting upon some recent columns written by Mr. Richard Needham. Mr. Needham, among other things, criticized high schools, for turning out conformists and treating students in a needlessly authoritarian way. This student made the point that in most of the classes he attended there was a marked reluctance on the part of students to discuss this kind of thing in school. He claimed that even where teachers asked for opinions, there was a poor response. On the other hand he revealed that in one class — a history class — the atmosphere is so challenging that students look forward to it. There they are allowed, encouraged to speak their minds.

The fact that this particular class is able to create what he calls conformity among his fellows and to decipline it, and the further fact that students in the same school do react to an atmosphere of intellectual honesty suggest that talk of conformity among students is likely to be overdone. Many students are not by nature loquacious, especially when they are required to speak before others. They may feel strongly without being able to put their thoughts into effective words. It is natural that a sensitive, highly vocal student might misinterpret their motives — just as the public may be worrying too much over this matter.

Youth is an uneasy, emotionally difficult period. Schools by their nature, are authoritarian by a large degree, depending upon the kind of people filling the teaching posts. But there is a good deal of evidence to suggest that youth is not, after all, very much different from what it has always been in our society. It is certainly capable of great endeavors, high sacrifices, as the new generation-consciousness of university students has demonstrated during recent race troubles and protests concerning foreign policy. As we have said before, it is unrealistic to expect youth to be more enlightened, more courageous than the adult population. And youth so often shows itself to be capable of just such superiority.

Old Campaign Pros Find Personal Way the Only Way

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Notes from the Campaign Trail. — Comes now "Week One," as the Political Pros are calling it.

The Campaign Crunch.

And why are these two grandfathers, one of them the incredible old age pensioner John Diefenbaker, knocking themselves out flying and motorcading across the land at that kind of a furious pace that most give their medical advisers the shudders?

Just how furious it really is perhaps was best expressed the other day by a young, wearily disbevilled newspaperman who muttered by way of exhaustion:

"You know, if I were only 70 again I could keep up with that dizzy Dief."

So why do they do it the unquestionably hard way?

Because, like Prime Minister Pearson and Conservative Leader Diefenbaker know what every Canadian political leader before them has known, that it is a good and useful if fatiguing exercise.

(Fatiguing it is, too, and desperately, for just the other day, one of the newsmen who had been following, alternately, the two leaders across the country, came off the campaign trail long enough to pick up a suitcase-full of fresh clothing, and dropped dead of a heart attack. He was 49.)

But apart from the obvious frill, it is an exercise in the public interest.

IN THE FLESH

For it gets the Prime Minister and the leader of Her Majesty's Official Opposition, not to mention the many chiefs of the multiple splinter groups, out among the taxpayers.

It gives everybody who cares enough to take the nation ally troubled times to get out and look, the infrequent chance to see in the flesh, hear and blood how their leaders shape up.

And they get to hear, First Person Singular, that is how the leaders propose doing about solving these national problems.

The personal-to-person confrontation is important.

Both Pearson and Diefenbaker know that the real campaigns ago that the shadow won't substitute for the substance.

It would be easier, and so much more convenient, to do it electronically.

But even if they were good on radio and television — which they're not. Pearson sounding so uncertain, his voice so halting, and Diefenbaker sounding like an Old Testament Prophet gone a-gog — they know it just won't do.

The live-on-the-air has become very much the secondary way.

And the tightly, but not always tightly-scripted speech for radio and TV become almost asides to the main display, which is the live performance before the people and the press can listen, ask questions and confront the leaders — critically, if they will — face to face.

It is the essential element of personal accountability that is the essence of democracy and the hard way of campaigning.

IMPERSONALLY COMMERCIAL

So they've passed up the modern effortless and infinitely comfortable way of campaigning — electronics, and gone, as they must, for the hard, grubby kind of effort that means by train, rail, air and road to all those endless night rallies in chilly halls and overheated collegiate auditoriums.

There was something else, too, in the air.

Who can tell, they have asked themselves, who's watching or listening?

Nobody can tell, they've answered themselves, nobody for absolute sure.

For who's looking at Diefor Mike when the football or NHL hockey is on the TV channel?

And who's listening to Real Caouette or Tommy Douglas, either, when the competition may just as well be those big starstudded spectaculars?

Or to put it another way: is Judy LaMarsh any threat to Judy Garland?

Then, too, the electronical pitch is too impersonal commercial. Unconvincing, too. What are the politicians selling out there — soap?

But shake a man by the hand, look his wife, look into his eyes when you're asking for his vote, and maybe you've got a fighting chance.

And anyway, you can more directly involve people in the vital things that should concern them — the national questions — when you do it face to face.

That's why they're knocking themselves out. They sure enough to try the only way — the hard, sweaty First Person way — to make you care, too.

"Clean Election" Plea From Tweed

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The "Letter to the Editor" published in your paper of October 26, from K. G. M. Ross, Belleville lawyer and president of the West Hastings Liberal Association was so childish and disgusting that it does not deserve an answer. I cannot believe any Canadian citizen would condone one word of it even if it was meant to be funny. I'm surprised your paper wanted such valuable space.

Yours for cleaner Elections,

Deplores Wanton Cutting of Trees

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In spite of the Mayor's plea not to curtail criticism I wish, in a spirit of interest, to register a protest to the actions of the city in one respect. This is in the wanton destruction of the trees lining our streets. The cutting of mature trees, or those diseased in one thing, but a planned wholesale slaughter such as was carried out on Pinnacle Street is a mistake on a grand scale.

When I came to Belleville many years ago it was deservedly know as "The City of Trees" or "Belleville, the Beautiful." This was mainly because of the trees on the streets along all the streets. It almost seem that the car is of more importance than the people. The hardworking Trees Board cannot make progress without the co-operation of the public and of the other civic bodies.

Belleville will soon have nothing to show but aspirings and cement.

This shocking behavior is carried out in the surrounding countryside—witness the removal of trees, again on both sides of the roadway as you leave the highway at Thomasburg for the Vanderwater Conservation Area. One of the working to preserve and one apparently uncaring.

Considered by many the most beautiful business street in the world, the Bahnhofstrasse in Zurich, Switzerland, which carries more traffic than any Belleville street will ever see, leads to the Lake of Zurich lined on both sides with trees.

Beauty we can see, and the comfort of people in our extreme Canadian summer, not just as much as traffic flow.

Lois C. Wishart,
154 Dufferin Ave.

Consumer Credit

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

One of the consequences of the default of Atlantic Acceptance Corporation has been renewed concern about the use of some rise in the level of consumer credit in Canada. As deferred, payment plans proliferate, and everything from fire-insurance to European vacations can be purchased on "time," we are reminded of the facetious, but prophetic advice offered by Artemus Ward more than 100 years ago: "Let us all be happy and live within our means," he said, "even if we have to borrow the money to do it with."

Mayor Speaks on Inspiration At BCI Graduation Exercises

By RITA LAWRENCE

Valedictory Address

by

Kenneth Taylor

The valedictory address at the BCI commencement exercises was given by Kenneth Taylor, which said:

Mr. Stirling, honored guests, fellow graduates, members of the staff, parents, and friends:

"The graduation diploma which we have just received is such a small thing, and yet it is a symbol of great undertakings. Our diploma marks the official termination of our High School career. We have succeeded in graduating; yet we have discovered already, that rather than being finished our education, we are only beginning. Now we realize with James Booth, "Success is a journey and not a destination." We are proud of our journey, thus far.

"Foremost in our minds at this moment is a feeling of sadness, almost of homesickness, for the building and friends that for the past four or five years have been our home away from home, and our family away from family. It is all too clear that for some of us, this will be the last time we will sit with our schoolmates in this auditorium, or even be in this familiar school. Yes, tonight sadness is felt keenly.

Fortunately, underlying the sadness is a definite sense of joy. We experience joy at seeing old friends. We are joyful because we are graduating and are entering an exciting avenue of experience. We feel almost a sense of relief as we emerge from the shelter of our early years to the adventure of a new and independent life. We are cautiously joyful as we realize that we are suddenly on our own, and that that fearful thing called responsibility is looking us right in the eye.

"Thus the sadness and joy intermingle to create an indescribable feeling, one that will make us cherish the memory of this evening.

"Remember that first year here at B.C.I., and how important we felt, having reached High School at last; and how we looked at those frightening Grade 13's with awe and reverence! Isn't it strange that when we actually became Seniors, we didn't feel at all awesome. Then, as we continued through High School, we managed to meet the likes of Mr. Hubbard and those good old exams in the month that spring flashes its loveliest face to students of June. Oh, how we remember the threat of "those balmy June evenings."

PROUD OF ASSEMBLIES

"We are proud of the assemblies we put on, of the efforts we helped make shine, and of the honors we brought home in the field of sports. We recall the fun and fellowship of the traditional Kampus Kapers, of the school dances and especially the formals, and the last-minute rush for the Drama Club plays. Then there were our special projects like UNICEF, Sweep, and our weather-scarred Winter Wonderland, where that thing called "BCI School Spirit" brought great success.

"All this has added up to make the best years of our lives. We fully realize that these years would have been fruitless had it not been for the perseverance of our ever-dependable teachers. Throughout this critical period of our schooling, these dedicated people have joined with our parents to steer us over our troubles, and have prepared us to meet life's challenges head-on. They have helped us to learn, that mountainous problems appear unconquerable only to those who make no attempt to scale them, and while imparting this wisdom, they have been our true friends. For this, we say thank you.

"Perhaps we sometimes take our parents for granted, but this city's original secondary school, Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, held graduation exercises in the auditorium on Friday evening, when over two hundred and fifty graduates received diplomas, prizes and awards.

The graduating class, faculty, parents and friends passed beneath an inspirational motto above the entrance to the auditorium, which reads, "Success." He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has left this world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration and whose memory a benediction."

Guest speaker for the evening was His Worship, Mayor J. R. Ellis.

'INSPIRATION' THEME

Mayor Ellis chose "inspiration" as the theme of his address.

"How does one inspire youth? We are told that youth is that wonderful time of life that is wasted on young people. I firmly believe that young people are for ever looking for new and emerging responsibilities than some would have us believe.

"Let us now direct our efforts where credit is due, as in the case of the graduating class here this evening. We are told that hard work to reach this highlight in your lives deserves credit.

"However, you should not stop learning. The vistas of learning challenge hard work and hardships as well as high reward. It is toward high reward that I ask you to aim your way. There is no tragedy, natural strife or other condition that cannot be laid to ignorance and prejudice — which is the cult of the ignorant

"Let us now discover where we sincerely appreciate their sacrifices and patience in guiding us through the many turmoils of our growing pains.

"I suppose you might even go as far as to thank these people for making us do our homework, but this should be reversing opinions formed during the last five years.

"So now, we are embarking on the sea of life, with its calms and stormy channels, and as we sail, we are expected of us, and how shall we keep our course straight?

SAIL WITH PURPOSE

"It is expected first, that we will sail with purpose toward a definite port. This does not mean that we cannot stop over at other ports, to fulfill other aspirations, but we must aim for some definite destination. If a man wishes to win some success he must not shirk the trouble of setting out for it. Success and happiness in one's life just because they have no goal, but depend on chance to bring along what they had hoped for.

"Once we have set our course, we must get sailing, navigating with courage and determination through the storms and shoals. To keep us on our course we must be guided constantly by our charts of knowledge and maturity We must not be intimidated by the unknown Sea of the Future, but faithfully sail on from day to day. The challenge of living has been well expressed in these lines by Grace Noll Crowell Bolton:

Forget the past and live the present hour;
Now is the time to work, the time to fill
The soul with noblest thoughts, the time to will
Great deeds, to use whatever power
Heaven has bestowed, to test our utmost power.

Class of 1965, as we say fare well to our Alma Mater, let us seriously dedicate ourselves to the betterment of mankind. Let us invest our talents in our world. Let us give our best — for the best has been given to us.

Thank you.

"In this ever shrinking world knowledge is the greatest single deterrent to prejudice and bigotry. If I can inspire even a few of you to greater learning I feel I have succeeded this evening."

Mr. D. C. Stirling, B.Sc., Principal, welcomed the graduates and guests. "We are proud of our graduates," he said. "It is not easy to earn a diploma and you are deserving of all the praise and credit which is yours tonight We congratulate you and know you will go on to even more recognition."

Mr. Stirling remarked that this year the school has twenty-six new teachers, and two new principals. The staff and the students are working under strange and adverse conditions, because of the necessity of staggered classes, but, due to the co-operation of staff and students, things seem to be going very nicely.

The Principal thanked all committees and organizations which helped in the preparations for this night.

Mr. C. Templer furnished organ music for the processional and the Recessional, and also accompanied David Cass, Robert Reid and Gerald Taylor. "The Trumpet Trio" and Mr. R. Robertson who sang several solos.

The invocation was by Rev. G. Ambury of the Redemptville United Church.

Mr. C. R. Rowe brought greetings from the Hastings County District High School Board.

The guest speaker of the evening was introduced by Miss Martha Musgrove and thanked by Miss Margaret Clark, the valedictorian, Mr. Kenneth Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, Mr. Donald Avenue, is at present attending Queen's University, Kingston, where his parents live when in this paper.

Mr. E. C. Milliken and Miss J. Naismith presented the special commercial certificates. Mr. J. W. Ritchie, Mr. E. C. Milliken, Mr. R. Robertson and Mr. D. S. McLean presented the graduation diplomas and the honor graduation diplomas were presented by Mr. W. R. MacKay and Mr. G. S. Howe. Mr. H. F. Mott presided at the presentation of scholarships and prizes. Awards were presented by Robert Burns and Jane Murdock; school letters by Mr. R. Martindale, Ricky Loynes, Miss K. M. Holgate, Margaret Clark and Mr. G. Secord and Mr. H. Townsend.

After the graduation exercises a reception was held in the girls' gymnasium, followed by a dance in the boys' gymnasium.

"Blue Heaven" was the dance theme and guests in formal dress and best suit danced before blue angels on paper mache clouds, to the music of the Doug Aselstine Five.

Three Given Sentences in County Jail

SQUARE DANCING: WESTERN STYLE
(Conclusion)

"Square dancing is friendship set to music." — In bits in Order (the official square dancing magazine.)

* * *

"We are often asked how Square Dancing was started in Belleville," says Mr. Robert Williamson, an electronics engineer at The Northern Electric Company, who with his wife, Bea, have fostered the growth of square dancing in Belleville. He continues:

"In late fall of 1956, Bea and I completed a recreation room large enough for two sets. Very shortly after that, one of our friends phoned to say they had new neighbors who had come from North Bay where they had been doing square dancing.

"We arranged a party with four couples present, among us we had several records of traditional dances with calls, and we had Kay Homan, who was with the Belleville Recreation Committee, bring over an old CA album of 78 RPM teaching records.

"We had a lot of fun and made square dancing a monthly party night. We played games, danced to records on Duriacher and the Sunrise Hands, Loppy Bryant and the Wildcat Boys, taught ourselves "Birdie in the Cage," "Around That Couple," "Take a Peek" and "Dip and Dive" and others.

"We had a Christmas party and a New Year's Eve Set in Order 4001, 4002 Decca DL8031 with Ed Gilmore and Junie Hall. Then Ann Dobson started square dancing and we quit to take traditional dancing then and there.

"We had a class of 57 and a monthly party night. We played games, danced to records on Duriacher and the Sunrise Hands, Loppy Bryant and the Wildcat Boys, taught ourselves "Birdie in the Cage," "Around That Couple," "Take a Peek" and "Dip and Dive" and others

QUESTION:

Our W. A. group has been asked to cater to a group dinner for 90. I have your recipe for Reirigerator Slaw (serves 20) and Scalloped Potatoes (serves 32). At the same time you mentioned Chicken Marengo. What is this? Would you suggest this or another meal?
Mrs. E. A. B.

ANSWER:

Chicken Marengo is fricasseed chicken with onion, lima beans and herbs, but because other readers preparing large church banquets have found my Oven-Fried Chicken for 25 people satisfactory I am repeating it for your benefit and recommend it. Double these amounts for 50.

SATURDAY
Dinner Menu

Mary
Moore

Chicken Chop Suey; Fluffy Rice; Shredded Greens: Chinese Lettuce, Spinach, Iceberg Lettuce, Broccoli Green Onion, with French Dressing; Plum Crumb (see Oct. 18) with Fresh Dairy Sour Cream; Coffee.

OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN
(serves 25 generously):

Allow 1½ chicken legs per person — that is the equivalent to 2 drumsticks and 1 thigh. This is generous but I drumstick and 1 thigh might seem inadequate for hungry young people. You will need ½ cups butter or margarine, 1½ cups flour, 3 teaspoons salt and pepper (optional but recommended), 2 tablespoons paprika, 2 teaspoons poppy, 3 tablespoons salt and 1 or 2 tablespoons celery seed (optional). Shake these dry ingredients together in heavy paper bag and shake chicken pieces in them. Melt 1 cup butter or margarine in large roasting pan or broiling pan which is width and depth of oven. Place the floured chicken pieces in the butter in the pan and turn them over once. Dot with remaining butter. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 45 to 60 minutes. Turn chicken once during this period. Ten minutes before serving turn heat to 450 deg. F. and bake 10 minutes longer to brown and crispen chicken.

NOTE:

Chicken should be in one layer so you may have to have 2 pans(ul.

QUESTION:

. . . I have been looking high and low for a recipe for soft Jumbo Molasses cookies . . .
Gladys D.

ANSWER:

OLD-FASHIONED PUFFY GINGER COOKIES:

(This is a repeat from February, 1963.)

One-third cup soft butter (or margarine or shortening), 1 cup light brown sugar, 1¼ cups molasses, ¼ cup water, 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¾ teaspoon each salt, allspice, ginger, cloves, cinnamon, baking soda, 2 tablespoons cold water. Mix together thoroughly butter, brown sugar and molasses. Stir in first amount of water. Sift together flour, salt, spices and soda. Dissolve soda in last amount cold water and stir in. Chill dough. Roll out on lightly floured board to 1/3" thickness. Cut out with floured 3" cutter. Bake 2" apart on lightly greased baking sheet at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 18 minutes.

DO YOU—
—as a husband and father find it difficult to get along with your wife or boss;
—as a wife and mother have trouble with your husband or talking the children mind;
—as the teen-age member of the family find it impossible to make your parents understand.

Gems, Organs, Ann Frank Three Facets of Amsterdam

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

AMSTERDAM, Holland—The glitter of diamonds . . . the raucous blare of a street organ . . . the unfallen tears of a young girl. As different as these are from one another, so are they equal facets of Amsterdam's mercurial personality.

Amsterdam's diamond industry is the world's largest. There are scores of what are inelegantly — and perhaps inaccurately — described as "diamond factories" in Amsterdam. Most of them are open to a public they are delighted to receive in hopes that some citizens will see fit to fudge on their duty-free allowances to the extent of consuming a few carats.

An hour's drooling education in the art of converting a lump of crystallized carbon into a treasure is a must pastime in Amsterdam. At Holshuysen-Stadlits we learned:

Brazil and the Congo — not South Africa — produce 97 per-cent of the world's diamonds, but these are industrial.

All diamonds are more or less the same shape in the rough—octagonal. That is what dictates the ultimate basic shape of all polished diamonds, i.e., half an octagon. Ideally the octagon is cut in half and each part is then faceted and polished.

HALF 'WASTED'

It isn't that easy. Diamonds have grains which dictate how they must be cut. Most have imperfections, which determine how much must be polished away. In the long run, 55 per-cent of every diamond is lost as jewelry. But all the waste goes either into industrial diamonds or into diamond dust, impregnated into polishing wheels. Nothing is left in any substance that can cut diamond.

Normally, diamonds are cut by an impregnated steel lap wheel spinning at 7,000 revolutions per minute; polishing is done by an impregnated steel wheel going at half that speed. The process is unchanged from the earliest days of diamond-finishing, except that electricity, not old ladies and apprentices, turns the wheels. What once took a day now takes 10 minutes.

Sometimes a diamond must be cut just so because the grain or imperfections limit the useable portion. Then they are cleaved by hand with a single blow of a hammer on a blade. It is the one question tourists are not permitted to watch; a nervous slip of the wrist, and there goes a few carats at the rate of $1,000 a carat.

Even trickier is deciding how deep an imperfection is, and hence how much diamond must be lost by polishing away. Light refraction does the cut on, and even the most experienced polishers consult with each other before deciding.

With slight variations for emerald, rose, marquise and pear cuts, all diamonds are faceted the same way. The base is cut to a point at an angle of 41 degrees, the top at 34 degrees, and it's all done by feel, without instruments.

Diamonds down to as small as 1-50th of a carat are then given the full treatment of 58 facets for maximum sparkle; below that size and down to 1-200th of a carat, they get 17 sides. And diamond polishers don't even wear glasses. If their eyes go bad when they're young, they take up another trade; if it happens when they're old, they retire.

Generally, the size of a diamond, not the workmanship that goes into it, dictates its price; workmanship is taken for granted. In fact, the larger a diamond the higher the price per carat because of the greater risk of errors in finishing.

Diamonds vary in hardness, but harder stones usually have more imperfections, require more work, result in more waste, and are less profitable. Overall, profit margins are small. And pure white diamonds are not better than colored ones, they're just more in demand.

USE STREET ORGANS

Street organs, hand-carved, and gaudily - painted oversized burdy-gurdies, are symbols of Amsterdam, though they came originally from Belgium — where they still are the jukeboxes of neighborhood taverns. They are found all over Holland. There are perhaps 60 in the country, a dozen or so in Amsterdam, and all are rented and serviced by the firm that introduced them, G. Perles and Son.

If you're planning to go into business, you can hire one for $8.50 to $17.00 a week and you play for tips. It takes either a pony or three men to haul around a large one.

Perles started in 1875, but hasn't manufactured any organs since World War II. The instruments, complete with drums and cymbals, are hand-cranked and air-operated. Songs (40 at a time are carried around in the grinder, but Perles has a file of 2,500 in his Santa's workshop plant) are fed through a machine from a perforated cardboard felt folded into a book. Each book is a miniature for your kids for $150 and up, made in Spain and sold by Perles. But they don't have the same resonance.

At 263 Prince's Canal is the unobtrusive doorway behind which a teenage girl kept diary of wisdom, hope and faith that millions would be to read by millions of persons in most of the world's languages.

Anne Frank, her head shaved and her body in rags, died of starvation in Germany's Bergen-Belsen concentration camp seven weeks before the end of World War II, at the age of 15. Her ambition was to be a Hollywood star.

On the walls of the rooms is the famed "Secret Annex" at 263 Prince's Canal, Anne Frank pasted up photos of Ginger Rogers and Robert Stack. She and her sister Margot marked on the wall of the prison the inches they grew in two and-a-half years without sun and air. The pictures and the marks are still there.

Yet she wrote, "in spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart. Next door to 263, visible from Anne's attic window, there now exists an Anne Frank Youth Hostel and the beginning of an Anne Frank foundation with the objective is to explore this most elementary but elusive human belief.

HALIFAX (CP)—With an appropriate slip of the tongue, Premier Stanfield called Mrs. Margaret Perry "Mrs. Film" at the testimonial dinner after she won the Canadian Tourist Association's movie award for the third time. She has collected nine other awards for her work at the Nova Scotia trade and industry department.

LEAVES POLITICS TO HUSBAND — Mme Real Caouette never leaves her husband's side as the leader of the Rallement des Creditistes campaigns throughout Quebec. But unlike other political wives she does not mix with audiences, does not shake hands, has no comments. When the campaign is over she will return to her household duties in the Caouette home in Rouyn, in Northwestern Quebec. (CP Photo)

Madame Caouette's Role Passive But Devotion to Husband Evident

By BENOIT HOULE

OTTAWA (CP)—"If you want to write something about me, observe me on the platform. You will see that I am at ease. I have nothing else to say."

And having said this much, Mme. Real Caouette, wife of the leader of the Rallement des Creditistes, smiles, graciously at the frustrated reporter.

Her husband is seeking re-election in Quebec's Villeneuve riding which he has represented since 1962. He is founder of the Rallement des Creditistes, formed two years ago when he was part of the Quebec wing of Social Credit separated from the national party headed by Robert Thompson.

Mme. Caouette, 49, does not hanker to be in the shoes of the politician's wife. She does not mix with the audience at rallies. She leave simulation of her husband, acknowledging those who approach him for that purpose with a nod of her head.

She does not comment on her husband's speeches. She is seriously believer that Real, with all his verve, is capable of handling any situation that might arise, no matter how difficult or apathetic the crowd.

When a candidate's wife is presented to Mme. Caouette they engage in a quiet chat.

When attending a musical show, such as those presented in Mr. Caouette's honor at Victoriaville and Asbestos during the present campaign, Mme. Caouette listens attentively.

Traces of a smile sometimes cross her face when her husband is presented with a bouquet of flowers by a woman at a meeting, as happened in Riviere-du-Loup and Thetford Mines.

But if her campaign role is completely passive, there is evidence that she is completely devoted to her husband's career.

Day after day she is at his side as they travel throughout Quebec. And she proves herself up to the rigorous routine, always looking serene in spite of the fatigue she must often feel.

"I'm in this because my husband is," she has said. "The sacrifices are worth it. I feel I owe it on account of the importance of the matter. But it's not a personal hobby."

She has become accustomed to the political whirl in 27 years of marriage, for 25 of which her husband has been in politics. But she has said she wouldn't be involved if it weren't for him—"I'd rather be at home."

Which is where she will be as soon as the Nov. 8 election campaign is over — Rouyn is northwestern Quebec where her husband is a car dealer and where they raised their three children, Roger, 26, who works in his father's garage, Jacinthe Andree, 14, and Gilles, 25, Creditiste candidate in Labelle.

Teen-age Girls Teach Boy Friends Manners

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've written some mighty good advice for teen-agers in the past and now I hope you will do one more thing. Please write a booklet on manners for teen-age boys.

This may sound like a silly request but honestly, Ann, boys need help with manners just as much as girls — maybe even more. My best friend and I decided to teach our boy friends a few of the every-day courtesies and it has made all the difference in the world. Now they open car doors for us, help us with our coats and stand up when an adult comes into the room.

I am sure the reason some teen-age boys appear to be rude is because they just don't know any better. How about that booklet, Ann? — LOVE 'EM ANYWAY.

* * *

DEAR LOVE: I'll file your suggestion under "Ode of These Days." At the moment I'm swamped, Sugar. A few how to you two girls for teaching your boy friends the A.B.C.'s of every-day manners.

I hope other girls who read this will follow your example. A girl who is interested enough in a boy to do this for him pays him a high compliment — and she does him an enormous favor.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law gave us a painting for our anniversary. I know good and well that piece of junk has been in the basement for six years. It's a monstrosity that looks like a vacuum sweeper having its tonsils removed. When I opened the carton our 4-year-old became frightened and began to cry.

I don't want to hang the ugly thing in our home. My husband says his mother will be terribly hurt if we don't hang it and he does not want to risk offending her.

I think it was a dirty trick to saddle us with a picture she didn't want to hang in her own home. It was also cheap of her to send us something she had sitting around. What is your opinion? — ANTI OF ART, NOT GARBAGE.

* * *

DEAR LOVER: Thank your mother-in-law for the gift and tell her you will hang it when you and your husband agree on a "suitable place."

If you cannot agree on a "suitable place" you will, of course, never hang it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please help me figure something out. I am mystified. My brother married later in life than most men. He married a widow about 38 years old and she is a delightful, gracious person. But, Ann, she gets absolutely stoned on one drink. Is this possible? Nobody can figure it out.

When she arrived at our home Sunday for dinner she was charm itself — lovely, bright-eyed and bubbling over with witty conversation.

Then she had a cocktail — just one— and within ten minutes she was drunk as a skunk. When dinner was announced she walked straight into the clothes closet.

A similar thing happened at my sister's house last week. We cannot figure out how a person can get so loaded on one cocktail. What do you make of it? — INQUIRING SISTERS.

* * *

DEAR SISTERS: Often the person who gets plastered "all of a sudden" has had a head start somewhere else. However, some people cannot tolerate even one drink without falling on their faces — and your brother's wife may well be one of these.

* * *

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

White Residents Doing Well In Nations Ruled by Africans

P.M. in Thick

clear that every Canadian is a first-class citizen.

Back on the East Coast, Mr. Diefenbaker accused the prime minister of "selective amnesia," to the amusement of a crowd of 1,500 in Truro.

CHIEF FOKES FUN

He poked fun at Mr. Pearson for appearing to deny in Vancouver a tape-recorded statement he had made 12 hours earlier in Toronto.

The prime minister said in an off-the-cuff remark in Toronto Thursday: "If we don't get a majority government, we're going to have another election in a year, in a year and a half, and who wants that?"

Asked about this in Vancouver Thursday night, he snapped: "I said no such thing. I don't know where that report started."

Mr. Pearson issued a statement Friday night saying that he had misunderstood a reporter's question "in the excitement at Vancouver Airport.

"I have been accused of being arrogant because I believe that, if the government does not get a majority on Nov. 8, there will be another election within a year or so.

"I did not say that I would call that election. I did state, and I repeat, my view that another election would be inevitable."

MAJORITY IS NEEDED'

He said the Liberal government would be defeated in Parliament if it failed to get a majority.

"The facts are very simple. Even the leader of the official opposition has admitted that he cannot get a majority. . . . The (Gallup) poll proves that the NDP has no chance whatever of being the official opposition, let alone the government."

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters on his campaign train that the prime minister is beginning to think he controls the people.

"It was the statement of a man who feels he rules by divine right . . . a man who already sees the election handwriting on the wall."

He accused Mr. Pearson of "treating the people of this country as children, to be punished if they do not carry out his wishes."

'IN POOR SHAPE'

Mr. Douglas charged in Port Moody, B.C., Friday night that the prime minister must be in "very serious shape" when his memory slips within a 24-hour period.

"Mr. Pearson has had convenient lapses of memory before," he told a meeting of 120 in his riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam.

Social Credit Leader Thompson took time out from the campaign Friday to address 700 Sunday school teachers in Vancouver.

Today, Mr. Pearson was visiting six ridings in the Vancouver area before taking an afternoon flight to Winnipeg, where he will spend the weekend before addressing a rally in the auditorium Monday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking today in Yarmouth and Digby, N.S., before flying to Toronto for a rally in Hamilton Monday.

The determination of Premier Ian Smith to maintain white rule in Rhodesia high-lights the position of white minorities in newly - independent African countries now ruled by natives. Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween, who visited 10 countries during a tour of the black continent, says white residents generally are doing well under African rule. His swiftest his findings in this story.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LUSAKA, Zambia (CP)—President Kenneth Kaunda says some white settlers in Zambia are permanently infected with racialism. "They were born like that, they'll die like that."

In Kenya, the white man has been told to call his African countrymen "Bwana," (mister), if he wants to stay in the country.

In Tanzania, some white settlers long for the "good old freeand-easy days" before independence and African rule. "It's tense now," complained an airline employee.

In Uganda, one white businessman commented: "We have discrimination in reverse now, you know — the Africans discriminate against us."

In Nigeria, an oil company employee asked: "How can they be expected to run the country when they can't even make the phone system work?"

"The Ghanaians are fine people except for the Nkrumahs," said a European engineer in Accra, scoffing at the more hot-eyed radicals in government service.

You come across all kinds of attitudes on racial relations in a trip through Africa. But in general, white residents appear to be trying along well and happily under African rule in newly-independent countries on both sides of the continent.

FINDS COURTESY

A Canadian reporter, treated with courtesy and consideration in several countries, found considerable support for this conclusion.

"I'm amazed at how well the African leaders are doing in the face of their difficult problems," said a coffee company executive whose work takes him around Africa.

White men in business and commerce seemed more enthusiastic about the African governments than landowners and farmers. One British diplomat said old-line settlers tend to isolate themselves and did not respond to the new waves of nationalism.

There is evidence that these Africans do not regard their ascendancy as the end of the white man in Africa.

Derek Bryceson, English-born minister in Tanzania's government, was recently re-elected by a big majority over an African opponent in general elections. Tanzania has only 21,000 whites in a population of 9,560,000.

Bruce McKenzie, also a white man, is agriculture minister in Kenya, only 10 years ago the cockpit of a bitter struggle as the white population — "European" is the term used in Africa—opposed majority rule. Kenya has fewer than 50,000 Europeans in a population of 9,104,000.

SEATS SET ASIDE

Zambia, previously Northern Rhodesia, with the largest European population among the former British colonies, reserves 10 seats in the national assembly for white members out of a total elected membership of 75.

Most of the Europeans, 71,000 out of a total population of 3,830,000, voted in Zambia's famed Copperbelt. Uproar followed a byelection in which Copperbelt voters overwhelmingly rejected a white government candidate.

Although only 600 voters were involved and both candidates were white, government spokesmen said the anti-government poll boiled down to "white racism." Kaunda implied it resulted from the high proportion of white South Africans and Rhodesians in the area.

There were demands for abolition of the reserved seats, now held by the National Progress Party, and these are scheduled in any case to vanish after the next general election.

The Times of Zambia, whose editorial staff is largely white, commented: "It is over - early - racing their vanishing political power to worry too much about it. Their efforts marked their ballot papers."

A copperbelt miner, in the country since 1953, said: "I voted NPP because it is a European party and I'm a European. I suppose I would have acted that to vote any other way would be helping to introduce a one-party state."

"The European has forfeited the right to be called Zambian," said one government official.

MIXING IS LIMITED

To a Canadian traveller, racial relations in Lusaka, Zambian capital, seemed particularly friendly. Yet, typically, a certain voluntary segregation exists, partly by choice, partly for economic reasons.

"Let's have a drink," said a newspaper friend, an African. "European bar or African bar?"

On leaving an African bar some time later, he was called to a table for a brief consultation. "They wanted to know what you were doing here," he confided.

A waiter at a so-called European bar said there was nothing to stop the African coming in, "but they seldom do." Two patrons turned their heads when asked about life under the African regime.

Sour incidents were not typical of Zambia or elsewhere, but the person looking for pinpricks can find them. In Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, the traveller was served third at breakfast in an African restaurant although he was first to arrive.

On a more serious level, he was advised both in East and West Africa that in the event of a car accident — particularly should an African child be injured—it would be wiser not to stop but to report the incident to the nearest police station. That advice, however, might equally well apply to an African driver.

EXPRESS WARMTH

Canadian diplomats, teachers and external-aid officers invariably spoke with warmth and affection of the ordinary Africans, praising their courtesy and friendliness. Conversation, especially among women, was sometimes difficult because of shyness. The Africans instinctively respond to the white person as to one with the bigger share of the world's goods.

In former French Africa, the prosperous Ivory Coast now has 50,000 resident Frenchmen in a total population of 3,800,000. That is twice as many Frenchmen as before Independence and their skills are welcomed by top government officials even if tempered by ambitious young Ivorians. The finance minister is a Frenchman.

Independence came to British West Africa, the "white man's grave," with comparative ease because the European population was small, thanks to climate and policy.

There was no white-settler question and today, with administrators moving out while managers and technicians move in, a balance is maintained, notably in Nigeria.

MANY EMIGRATED

The story was starkly different in East Africa, where Kenya's white settlers battled African rule and serious land problems remain to this day, although an estimated 40 or 50 per cent of the white farmers have departed, many to Rhodesia and South Africa.

A Kenya land board was established to purchase farms for African resettlement, but some farmers complain bitterly that they are unable to dispose of their property at a sufficient price to recover their investment of money and toil.

Significantly, their protests are directed at the British government, not the Kenya government. Many went to Kenya after the Second World War, receiving assurances of fair, long-range treatment. Now their anxiety is sharpened by the fact that December is the deadline for deciding whether to take out Kenya citizenship.

Some ministers have hinted that non - Kenyan landowners would not be welcome and some of the settlers are apparently worried also about what may happen when moderate President Jomo Kenyatta, now in his 70s, vanishes from the scene.

TURN AGAINST BRITAIN

A widely - experienced British diplomat said the East African settlers, different from British commonwealth in other colonial areas, became "extremely anti - French" when London began granting independence to native peoples.

"Then were anti-British even under the Tory government," he said. "Now that Labor is in power in London, they are even more anti-British."

Observers see the greatest menace to racial harmony throughout Africa as white attitudes in Rhodesia, South Africa and Portuguese Mozambique and Angola.

It is often said that Britain could hardly act against its "kith and kin" in Rhodesia, but one British minister has spoken of dangers to kith and kin elsewhere.

"A Rhodesian unilateral declaration of independence could start a blaze in Southern Africa which no one can control or put out," said Cledwyn Hughes, minister of state for Commonwealth relations.

"In thinking of other kinsmen in Rhodesia, do not let us forget our kinsmen in other African countries — in Zambia, Kenya, Tanzania and elsewhere —in all nearly as many as there are in Rhodesia. What will be their fate once the fire is lit!"

VALUE OF PERSISTENCY

"Either you wallpaper my room," threatened 18-year-old Terry Fitzgerald of London, England, "or I'll let my hair grow down to my knees." "You wouldn't dare" said his father. "Oh yes I would" snapped Terry, "you'll see."

That was in August 1903. From that time, Terry boycotted the barber. Came October, and his parents promised they would buy the new wallpaper. Terry waited, and his hair kept on growing. "They didn't buy it," he explained. His hair kept growing. An apprentice electrician, he was broad-shouldered and big-boned, but some of those he worked with teased him about that growing mop of wild hair. In some shops, he would be addressed as "Miss". His parents were furious about it, and Terry was often embarrassed, but to him it was a matter of principle, and he stuck it out. After eight months, his father papered the room. Terry then went to the barber.

Many of our failures are due to the lack of perseverence. We quit too soon. The best of Heaven's blessings are reserved for those who seek and pray [illegible] Jacob of old, saying, "I will not let thee go, until thou bless me."

TEXT FOR THE DAY: "... though he will not rise and give to him, because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity (persistence) he will rise and give him as many as he need. eth" (St. Luke 11:8)

PM Encounters Some of Best, Worst Heckling

By DAVE McINTOSH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson encountered some of the best and some of the worst in heckling methods in two campaign speeches here Friday.

Effective heckling usually stops the speaker in mid-peroration and convulses the audience in laughter. Poor heckling merely angers those trying to hear the speaker.

Mr. Pearson acknowledged with a wave and a grin some effective heckling from among 4,500 University of British Columbia students during his noon-hour speech in the university gymnasium.

Example: When Mr. Pearson was reading some old statistics on university financing, a student called out: "What's new, Pussycat?" the gym echoed with laughter.

The prime minister ignored shouted interruptions which didn't raise a single laugh during his 35-minute speech Friday night in the packed 2,300-seat Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

MENTION VIET NAM

The shouts were chiefly expressions like "Go back to the U.S., Mike," "Canada for Canadians," "People are dying in Viet Nam" and "Yankee patsy."

In 1962, then prime minister Diefenbaker couldn't make himself heard at a Forum rally here which turned into a near-riot. Mr. Pearson had a similar experience in 1963.

This time, Liberal organizers confined hecklers to the balcony and side seats of the theatre by issuing tickets to the party faithful for nearly all the orchestra seats.

Ushers carried walkie-talkies and about a score of policemen were stationed throughout the theatre. The doors were closed 20 minutes before the prime minister's arrival.

There were only two minor disturbances apart from the shouting and booing. A policeman calmed down a man who began pummelling a heckler and another politely ushered to the rear a burly man who strode down a main aisle proclaiming that Canada needs a deep-sea fleet.

After the latter disturbance, Mr. Pearson commented: "It begins to look like old times."

PRECEDES DIEF

Mr. Diefenbaker is scheduled to speak in the same theatre next week.

Mr. Pearson at his evening rally returned to his main campaign theme of a need for a majority government while he would make further elections unnecessary for four or five years.

"Perhaps our slogan should be 'No more until 1970'," he said.

Mr. Pearson said that if there is another minority government the result would be bound to be the same: Another election.

"This is no threat," he added. It stood to reason that the opposition parties could not vote confidence in a Liberal minority government after what they have been saying about the Liberals in the campaign.

PICKETS MARCH

Outside the theatre, Mr. Pearson saw a scene familiar during his stay here—about a dozen orderly pickets carrying signs asking for an end to the war in Viet Nam.

The prime minister said in his speech that "whining anti-Americanism is not the same as vigorous Canadianism."

Canada's only obligation in Viet Nam was to carry out any instructions from the United Nations "and that is all."

"You can put aside any of the wild stories you have been hearing about sending Canadian troops to Viet Nam. We haven't and we won't."

Earlier, Mr. Pearson was given a firecracker welcome in Chinatown and told more than 1,000 persons the Immigration Act will be brought up to date to remove the last remaining distinctions among Canadians.

Today Mr. Pearson visits five Vancouver area ridings before flying to Winnipeg, where he will spend the weekend and make a speech Monday night.

NDP Leader Opposes Plan On Medicare

By MICHAEL GILLAN

PORT MOODY, B.C. (CP)—T. C. Douglas said Friday night that only the New Democratic Party has proposed a feasible $100-a-month old age pension and a full medical health care plan during this election campaign.

At a coffee-and-cookies reception in his home riding of Burnaby - Coquitlam, the NDP leader rapped Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Pearson for their pensions-and-medicare policies.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal to pay an additional $23 in pensions—based on the Canada Pension Plan fund would result in lower benefits being paid from the new contributory scheme.

But he said he did not know where the Conservative party stands on medicare.

OPPOSES PROPOSAL

Mr. Douglas was opposed to Mr. Pearson's proposal to pay $100 a month or more to the needy because it would put many persons through the "humiliation" of a means test.

He accused the prime minister of "waffling" on the Liberal government's medical care proposal since laying down universality and public control as two of the four requirements needed before Ottawa would contribute.

Similarly, Pearson is saying it will be a long time before any scheme is completely universal and there will be a role for private insurance companies to play in the plan, he said.

About 120 persons turned out for the meeting, scheduled before the election was called.

Coffee parties today and Sunday afternoon are scheduled for Mr. Douglas before he participates in the riding's traditional all - candidate debate Sunday evening.

Diefenbaker Scatters Acid Jabs at P.M.

By BEN WARD

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker worked a fierce 16-hour campaign day Friday to three provinces, scattering acid jibes at what he called Prime Minister Pearson's 'characteristic of forgetfulness when it comes to crooks.'

He wound up just before 1 a.m. today shaking hands with some of the 1,500-plus persons who jammed into the legion hall here for a Conservative rally.

Mr. Diefenbaker had a field day with Mr. Pearson's denial of a tape-recorded statement at Toronto earlier this week which referred to another election in 12 to 18 months if the Liberals do not win a majority Nov. 8.

The Truro crowd rocked with laughter when the Conservative chief offered this version of the Mr. Pearson denial:

"What I said I said, but what I said wasn't what I am reported to have said. But it's the same thing I would have said if I had said what I am thinking of saying."

Earlier, at a press conference in Moncton, he said Mr. Pearson had created the voters like children by threatening to punish them with another election if they didn't give him what he so asked.

CHARGE 'POWER COMPLEX'

He said the prime minister has a "power complex" and an "I am the state" attitude, "amounting to a contempible disregard for the principles of democracy."

Mr. Diefenbaker said repeatedly all day that Mr. Pearson won't have to make any more election decisions because the Conservatives will take over the government after the election.

The Conservative leader began his day with a six-hour tour of Kings riding in the east end of Prince Edward Island, then flew to Moncton where he called an old ball, rode a motorcade through main streets and did some sidewalk handshaking.

The train that was to bring him here arrived two hours late at Moncton but good - sized crowds waited in the bitter cold on station platforms at Sackville, N.B., and Amherst to greet him as he whistle-stopped through.

At Sackville, where 200 turned out, Mr. Diefenbaker and his wife were almost left behind when crowd noise drowned out the conductor's "all aboard" signal.

He told 400 at Amherst: "I almost got left behind at Sackville, but we've not going to be left behind on Nov. 8, I'll tell you."

LOOKED TIRED

Mr. Diefenbaker, wearing a woollen sweater and heavy overcoat against the cold looked drawn and tired when he polled into Truro at 12:30.

Aides on the train expected the Truro rally would be over when the train arrived but it was kept going by Premier Stanfield, area candidates and the Truro concern band.

Rushing from his train to a car, he was almost rolled off his feet by a well-wisher who grabbed his hand and wouldn't let go.

Mr. Diefenbaker glowered at the man and muttered something under his breath.

At the hall, the crowd filled 1,000 chairs, lined the walls and brimmed into the entrance. For a welcoming roar when he strode on stage appeared to lift Mr. Diefenbaker's spirits and the 10-minute speech he had intended to give ran to almost 40 minutes.

"In these days of forgetfulness . . ." he began, and was drowned out by laughter.

". . . Days of forgetfulness, such the prime minister needing a tape recorder to remind him of what he says, I did not forget my appointment here. The train was late. Thanks for

Four Children Given $35,600 At Assizes

PICTON (Staff) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury in Picton on Wednesday awarded a total of $35,000 to the four children of a Wellington couple killed in a triple fatal accident near that village last December 19.

Negligence by Francis Norman Farrington, 19, of Milford, was found 90 per cent to blame for the pre-Christmas crash in which he and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnston were killed. Lloyd Rankin, driver of a dump truck, which Farrington apparently was trying to pass when the accident occurred was found 10 per cent to blame.

The accident occurred just west of Wellington on Highway 33, as the Johnstons were returning from Christmas shopping in Picton.

The jury composed of five men and one woman found that Farrington was negligent in driving while impaired; not judging half the highway to oncoming traffic, failing to keep a sharp lookout; failing to have his car under control and attempting to pass a truck with oncoming traffic approaching.

The children whose ages range from one to ten, will receive sums in trust as follows: Stephen the youngest, $11,000; Natalie, $8,000; Margaret, $8,000 and Lyle, $7,000.

The plaintiffs were Mr. Johnson and Mr. Ferguson, administrators of the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston. They were represented by lawyer K. G. M. Ross of Belleville. R. E. Nourse of Picton was solicitor for the defendant. Douglas Powers Boyle, administrator of the estate of the late Mr. Farrington. T. R. Wilcox of Kingston represented Mr. Rankin.

The Rural Scene

PICTON (Staff) — A very successful Senior Training School for Prince Edward County ladies was held Oct. 21 and 22, at St. Mary Magdalene Parish Hall, Picton. Eighteen women attended this Foods Project "Vegetables with a Flair". The course was sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Home Economics Branch and was conducted by Miss Mary Nugent, Food Specialist.

During the two days the women discussed and reviewed the nutritive value of vegetables as well as the correct methods of preparation and cooking. They were introduced to some of the less familiar vegetables and gleaned many new ideas for serving common ones. Suggestions for using and serving the many forms of canned, frozen and dried vegetables were an important part of the course and considerable time was devoted to vegetable salads.

These women will be teaching this project to interested persons in their communities. Anyone wishing to take advantage of this opportunity should contact the leaders in their area.

Unbeaten Hawks, Habs Clash Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League season is only one week old today but already there is a battle going on for first place.

Barring the possibility of a tie, that battle will be settled tonight when Chicago Black Hawks visit Montreal Canadiens at the Forum.

Both teams have won three games in as many starts this year and are tied for the league leadership with six points apiece.

In other games today, Detroit Red Wings are in Toronto to meet the Maple Leafs, and New York Rangers in Boston for a game with the Bruins.

The New York-Boston contest will also decide—again barring a tie—which team will have last place to itself. Both Rangers and the Bruins have lost their two starts this year.

In Sunday's only scheduled game Montreal visits Detroit where the Canadiens haven't won a game since Feb. 16, 1964. This represents a string of nine losses, including a 4-1 exhibition loss three weeks ago.

Canadiens expect to have their hands full in trying to stop Bobby Hull, Chicago's star left winger. Hull has six goals in three games—the best scoring start of his nine-year NHL career.

Claude Provost, who put a lock on Hull in the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring, is expected to be called on to shadow him.

Hector (Toe) Blake, Canadiens' coach, feels the fine showing of the Hawks to date is due to the rebounding of veteran Glenn Hall, who made several big saves against the Canadiens in the All-Star game 10 days ago.

Chicago coach Billy Reay admitted Hall has been a big factor in the Hawks' success so far but added: "The way Canadiens played in the first period against the All-Stars, it doesn't look as though any team will beat them."

The Leafs will be out to see if their 2-1 decision over Boston Wednesday night was just a fluke or if they've really regained the scoring touch. Toronto went scoreless in their first two starts of the season.

Boston has called up goalie Bcb Ring of Niagara Falls Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League to back up Ed Johnston until the return of Gerry Cheevers, who suffered a knee injury in Wednesday's game.

Flyers Win Five In Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers had the edge in play and won Montreal Junior Canadiens had the margin too, but lost.

That was the difference in the only two Ontario hockey Association Junior A games played Friday night.

A' 5-3 win for the Flyers against Kitchener Rangers moved them into first place with five straight wins. Montreal's 8-6 loss to Toronto Marlboros kept them from moving into a third - place tie with Peterborough.

Going into the third period, Montreal led 6-4 on two goals each by Mike LaPalme, Jacques Lemaire and Lucien Grenier, but Toronto came back with four goals in the third to win.

Toronto scorers were Mike Corrigan and Mike Byers with two apiece, while Tom Martin, Pete Turner, Terry Caffery and Gerry Meehan got the others.

The win for the Flyers was a routine affair with Niagara Falls building up a 3-0 lead on goals by Bud Delbrody, Karl Haggerty and Don Marcotte. Marcotte scored his second in the third period and rookie Tom Webster got the other.

Kitchener scorers were Jim Kruticki, John Beechey and Bob Jones.

Boyle Leads Pack With Four Goals

Juniors Whip Cobourg 9-4 In Opener

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Faced by Bobby Boyle's four-goal performance the Belleville "B's" defeated the Cobourg Cougers 9-4 in their Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League opener here last night.

In other games, Trenton Apple Kings upset the Kingston Frontenacs in Trenton 4-3 while Peterborough edged Oshawa 3-2 in the Motor City.

Carl Boomhour seconded Boyle's effort with two goals and three assists with Peter Fleming scoring twice. Steve White scored the other Belleville goal.

Over 500 fans saw Stu Muirhead's youngsters back up a nine-goal scoring effort with sterling defensive work. They back-checked well and successfully "killed" four Cobourg penalties.

SCORE FOR COBOURG

Harold, Buttar, Massey and Stevenson were the Cobourg goalgetters. Kelly had two assists.

The Cougars proved a fast-skating well-coached club that never game up trying until the final whistle.

Dave Smith, ex-American Hockey League official, now of Trenton, and one of the best officials to show here in years, handed out 10 penalties, six to the B's, in the celanest junior tilt seen here in many a moon. One was a misconduct to Cobourg's Kelly.

The "B's" struck quickly in the opening period, Boyle, Boomhour and White scoring in slightly over six minutes of play.

Cobourg got one back from Harold and Kelly but Fleming scored his first from Boyle and Hagerman to give the "B's" a 4-1 period lead.

Fleming stole the puck near the Cobourg goal and sailed in alone to score early in the second frame. Boyle's second goal was the prettiest of the night climaxing a fine passing play with Boomhour and Townsend.

The Cobourg power play was ineffective when White and Townsend were in the penalty box at different times. At one time a four-man wave of Cougar attackers was foiled by a lone Belleville defenceman.

Near period end Buttar raced in with Johnson and blasted in his own rebound to cut the margin to 6-2.

Boyle racked up his third goal of the night on a neat passing effort with Stewart and Boomhour at at 2:38 of the third period and three minutes later fired his fourth when he took Boomhour's passout from behind the Cobourg net.

With less than six minutes to go Cobourg struck swiftly, Massey scoring from Kelly with Stevenson counting 67 seconds later to bring the count to 8-4.

They drove hard and gave the B's defence a busy time until with less than two minutes to go Boyle and Townsend sent Boomhour away to score the final goal of the night.

Boyle added two assists to his four goals with Boomhour racking up three. Stewart, Hagerman and Townsend each had a pair of helpers with Potts getting one.

The game was a four-pointer for the B's who visit Cobourg Monday for their first away tilt.

The standing at the moment sees Oshawa leading the pack with a 2-1-1 record. Belleville and Peterborough have a 1-0 mark; Trenton 1-2; Kingston 0-1-1 and Cobourg 0-1.

Big Race Suffers Setbacks

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The Washington, D.C., International suffered a double setback Friday when Convamore of England was forced to withdraw and it was learned that the Russian entry Aniline had been shipped back to Moscow.

However, Laurel Race Track officials expressed hope that Aniline, third in the 1½-mile turf classic last year, would be on hand for the Nov. 11 race.

It was also reported that two more foreign entries may join the field for the $150,000 race.

Player Shoots Second 62

ADELAIDE, Australia AP — Gary Player of South Africa won the Australian Open title today by six strokes with a four-round total of 284. Frank Phillips of Australia and Jack Nicklaus were tied for second at 270.

Player, trailing Nicklaus by four strokes at the start of today's 36 holes, passed him decisively by shooting his second 11-under-par 62 of the tournament while Nicklaus got around in 70, giving the South African the four-stroke edge. Player increased the margin by shooting the final round in 69 to 71 for Nicklaus.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Leo "The Lip" Durocher who authored the now famous sports saying "Good Guys Always Finish Last," may live to see the day his "quote" may prove to be his hari-kari weapon.

During recent years, between jobs, Durocher has been knocking at major league front office doors and calling major league brass—among other methods—for get a managerial job only to be met with "Out for Lunch" signs and "Line busy" answers.

But he finally made it. The other day the Chicago Cubs announced they had hired the "Lip" as "Peppa Bear" for the baseball baby brains.

Durocher has been dubbed in some major league quarters as the Casslus Clay of baseball, minus of course, the pink convertibles, garish decorated station wagons and Black Muslim tendencies.

Apparently there is some sort of a code or unwritten law in baseball's top echelons not to hit a guy when he is down but wait until—if he does make it—he becomes a member of the club.

Durocher's appointment as manager of the Cubs—"and don't call me the coach"—took the covers off the gun muzzles of criticism.

The man who pulled the first trigger was Buzz Bavasi, general manager of the Dodgers who once fired his entire coaching staff to get rid of "The Lip". Afterwards he rehired everybody but—guess who?

Bavasi blasted "The game's passed Leo by. He's years behind it. All he is now is a second-guesser and not a good one at that."

The echo of that shot had scarcely died away when Chuck Dressen, an old friend and associate of Durocher mortared his explosion.

"He criticized me for leaving a pitcher in too long. He had his shot at managing and should know better than to do a thing like that. He said some some other things that made—him look ridiculous like when a certain hitter comes to bat. He said "This guy is a dead left field hitter—and the guy hits the first pitch to right field."

This second-guessing occurred after Durocher got a job as commentator on ABC's Game of the Week television program.

Bavasi loosed a verbal blast about this. He said that most of the season Durocher revealed himself as a "know nothing with comments that immediately proved to be incorrect as soon as they were out of his mouth." Bavasi illustrated by phrasing Durocher.

"Oh, there's the situation. Now what can he do? One thing he certainly can't bunt with this setup. Whoops, now there's a bunt down the first base line and Wills is on—and that's the name of the game."

Bavasi charged that Durocher kept "putting the sing" on Dodger manager Walter Alston in a coast radio program. Alston was told about it but laughed it off. Said Bavasi "If it had not been for Alston I would have fired Leo the year before but Walter asked me not to. Leo needs the job and the money."

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll says that near the close of the 1964 season, Gussie Busch, St. Louis Cardinals owner, planned to fire Johnny Keane and replace him with Durocher. Busch and Durocher had an understanding that nothing was to be said about it until Keane was let go.

Soon after his meeting with Busch, Durocher went to Bavasi and asked him if he could have a shot at managing the Dodgers if Alston retired or was let go.

Strangely enough, Bavasi said "No chance, and if you've got a shot at a job somewhere else you'd better take it."

As events proved Keane and the Yankees beat them to the punch. The Yankees fired Yogi Berra after he had won a flag and revealed they had hired Keane as early as September.

Fight Shapes As Underdogs' Battle

Expect 13,000

By ED SIMON

TORONTO (CP) — Regardless of the betting odds, Monday night's heavyweight championship fight between Ernie Terrell and George Chuvalo at Maple Leaf Gardens shapes up as a battle of underdogs.

The World Boxing Association conferred the title on Terrell when he outpointed Eddie Machen March 5. But he is a champion hungry for recognition.

In the eyes of many fight fans, the six-foot-six Chicagoan will remain a committee-room champion until he beats Cassius Clay, the unbeaten titleholder. The WBA stripped Clay of the crown in 1964, for defying its regulations by signing a return-bout agreement before his first meeting with Sonny Liston.

Chuvalo, Terrell's first opponent since he won the title, is getting his best chance at the big money when they enter the ring at 10 p.m. EST.

Ironically, the rugged Canadian champion earned it through a losing fight, his rousing 12-rounder against Floyd Patterson in New York's Madison Square Garden last February. The former heavyweight king, who might have had the shot at Terrell's title, chose to fight Clay at Las Vegas Nov. 22.

WINNERS TO MEET

The WBA hopes to match the winners of the Terrell-Chuvalo and Patterson-Clay fights.

For a man who lost his way into a championship fight, the 28-year-old Chuvalo is getting his share of the breaks.

Fighting before a home-town crowd, expected to number 13,000, Chuvalo figures to earn about $88,000 to Terrell's $110,000. Based on the crowd estimate, gate receipts would total $180,000 at admission prices ranging from $5 to $50 top with closed-circuit television bringing in another $420,000 or so.

It figures to be a contest between a boxer and a slugger with Terrell pitting a five-inch advantage in height and reach and effective left jab against the brawling Chuvalo's two-fisted attack to the body.

The 26-year-old champion has the more impressive won-lost record, 37-4 including 18 knockouts. He was stopped once in 1962 by Cleveland Williams, whom he outpointed in a return bout the following year.

Chuvalo, 33-8-2, has 27 knockouts and has never been knocked off his feet in competition.

Terrell's best-known victim, apart from Machen and Williams, was Zora Folley, whom he outpointed in July, 1963. Folley won a comfortable decision over Chuvalo six months later.

But Chuvalo, although he gained most of his knockouts against little-known opponents, moved up sharply in the ratings by stopping the highly-ranked Doug Jones in 11 rounds in October, 1964. Jones, who had fought most of the top men in the division, had never been knocked out previously.

If Chuvalo wins, he will be the first Canadian to hold the heavyweight title since Tommy Burns won a 20-round decision over Marvin Hart in 1908 and lost by a knockout to Jack Johnson two years later.

Americans Defeat Buffalo

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons, who missed the American Hockey League playoffs last season, are enjoying the opening phases of the AHL's interlocking schedule with the Western League.

The Barons, fourth and last in the AHL's Western Division last spring, won't play an opponent in their own league until they return from a four-game tour of Pacific Coast cities in 5-2.

In the only game of the eight-game card involving two AHL clubs, Rochester Americans came up with four third-period goals to hand the winless Buffalo Bisons a 5-2 defeat, their fourth of the campaign.

Before leaving, Cleveland polished off Los Angeles Blades, the first visitors from the West, 5-2.

ARGENTINA WINS

NEW YORK (AP)—Independiente of Argentina, maintaining their slight edge despite an onslaught by Napoli of Italy in the second half, gained a 1-0 exhibition soccer victory over the Italians Friday night before a crowd of about 10,000 at New York's Downing Stadium. They play again in Toronto Sunday.

Rifles Win Over Bears

TORONTO (CP) — Placker Dick Limerick's fourth-quarter touchdown—his 13th of the season—gave Toronto Rifles 24-20 victory over Newark Bears in a Continental Football League game Friday night.

WATER CONDITIONING SERVICE
ARE MOVING
OCTOBER 30, 1965.

To Our Customers:

Due to circumstances beyond our control, we are forced to vacate our present premises, and so will be operating from temporary quarters for the next few months.

Our temporary office will be located at 37 Bridge Street East — the former Liquor Control Board Store. Our telephone number will remain the same, 968-7700. Both Keane as soap products and water softener salt will be available at this location.

Our regeneration plant will be located in a temporary building on our new property on West College Street, Belleville. However, all accounts should be paid and all inquiries directed to our temporary office location at 37 Bridge Street.

We plan on building a brand new Culligan plant on our West College Street property. It will be the most modern, up-to-date plant of its kind in Canada.

You cannot pick up a newspaper or periodical today without reading about water pollution and the shortage of good usable water. We have planned, and are building, our new plant and facilities so that we can adequately meet this ever increasing demand for conditioned water for homes, commerce and industry, in the Bay of Quinte Area.

During this temporary period of dislocation, we ask for your kind indulgence. We will do everything within our power to provide you with good service, a reputation which has built our business.

Yours very sincerely,
Cam Hitchon, General Manager.

To Our Many Friends and Customers:

Due to circumstances beyond our control, we are forced to vacate our present premises and so have decided to discontinue business.

Mr. Harry Moorman started in the automobile business in 1929 in association with the late Leo B. Riggs, and except for the last year, has been actively engaged in serving the needs of the motoring public since that time.

Mr. Ronald Moorman first entered the automobile business in 1946 with the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, and joined his father, Mr. Harry Moorman, in 1951 at the retail level. In 1961 the ownership of Moorman Motor Sales was transferred from father to son.

During the combined fifty years of service in the business, countless times we have attempted to build our reputation on fairness in dealing with the people we serve.

The most important message we have is closing is to say "Thank You" to all our friends and customers over the years, and to express our gratitude for the privilege of serving you, and for the business with which you have favored us.

Basilio Foresees Tough, Hard Battle

This is the first of three articles written for The Canadian Press by Carmen Basilio, former world middleweight and welterweight champion, on the Ernie Terrell - George Chuvalo World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight Monday. Basilio's second story will be a pre-fight prediction and his third will give his post-fight impressions.

By CARMEN BASILIO

TORONTO (CP)—As one who has been in a few of them, I can say with authority that the battle between Ernie Terrell and George Chuvalo at Maple Leaf Gardens on Monday night is not to be a tough one.

I see this as a fight between contrasting styles—the big good man (Terrell) who is the better boxer against the good little man (Chuvalo) who is always a dangerous puncher. These contrasts make for excitement. This is the dream of every matchmaker.

Of course, you can be fooled. What you put on paper may never happen. With heavyweights, you don't say a fight is going to be good or bad, because it takes only one punch to change the complexion of a fight.

But one thing is certain. These two have reasons for fighting their respective heads off.

Terrell has just tasted the brief glory of being made boxing association champion. He doesn't want to give that up ever. It's a great feeling having people ask for your autograph and yelling "hi, champ" as you walk down a street or through a hotel lobby.

LAST CHANCE?

Chuvalo not only wants to be champion but it could be the last time around the big merry-go-round for him. You don't get too many chances at a title.

I foresee a tough, hard fight, that could end in a knockout but is more likely to go the 15-round distance. At the end, both men will know they've been in a fight.

Terrell is big and strong. His size—six-foot-six — can be a handicap but he moves very gracefully and he has one of the finest left hand. I've seen around. He's also fast for a big man.

Sure, he's had bad fights but against good fighters he's looked good. And now he's the champion, that makes a tremendous difference. I know.

You want to make people like you. You want to be a fighting champion because your pride will not let you do otherwise. Terrell wants to be a pleasing fighter but it takes two to make a fight.

TERRELL'S TOUGH

Terrell must be the most under-rated heavyweight in the world. He's beaten guys like Zora Folley, Eddie Machen and Cleveland Williams, and yet they put the knock on him.

Chuvalo is what we call in the trade a one-track fighter. He is an aggressive puncher who will take three to get one in. They said I was that kind of a fighter. Maybe I was. I couldn't be a boxer. Neither can Chuvalo.

George and I are good friends and we've talked about styles many times. He wants to get in there and get the job done. He's impatient and anxious. And here he's in the ring fighting for the championship and he'll be pressing. He could press too hard. That's happened. But he's a better all-round puncher than Terrell and if he's in the proper mental frame of mind, he's got a terrific chance of doing it.

Ask Full College Draft

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos will present a motion calling for a complete college draft at a Canadian Football League meeting in Toronto next month, a club official said Friday.

Norm Kimball, Eskimo assistant general manager and minor football co-ordinator, said the common draft would apply to all Canadians playing college football, whether in Canada or the United States.

"The new draft would come close to equalizing pro teams," he said. "Right now there is no way we can compete with Vancouver or the East in producing talent."

Kimball claimed that some CFL teams send prospects to United States colleges primarily to hide them from the draft.

"The new draft would come close to equalizing pro teams," he said. "Right now there is no way we can compete with Vancouver or the East in producing talent."

TORONTO BEATS GUELPH

Toronto of Toronto moved into sole possession of first place in the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association rugger standings Friday by defeating Guelph University 32-3. The victory was the fourth against one loss for U. of T. while second-place Queen's University has a 3-1 record.

Quinte Football Finish

Quinte Secondary School won the Bay of Quinte Football League senior championship with an unbeaten record of five wins and no defeats.

They will represent the OSSA Quinte District in the OSSA championships scheduled for November 25th.

BCI finished in second place with three wins and two defeats with Brighton, Trenton, and Moira S.S. hanging up 2-3 records.

Napanee High School won one game in five starts.

Moira's Junior Trojans also chalked up an undefeated record of five wins.

Brighton High School finished on their heels with four wins and one defeat. They will play off with Moira for the district junior championship and COSSA participation.

Trenton, Quinte and Napanee schools finished with 1-4 records.

Larry Robinson, Martin Fabi, Tommy-Joe Coffey and Calgary Stampeders could be the big winners when the Western Football League ends its regular season with two weekend games.

Then again, it could be Peter Kempf, Randy Kerbow, Hugh Campbell and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

A number of individual winners as well as the WFC play-off structure will be decided when Saskatchewan Roughriders play Edmonton Eskimos Saturday and the Stampeders play British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Sunday.

Among the more interesting duels will be Robinson of the Stamps against Kempf of B.C. for the scoring title; Fabi of the Roughriders against Kerbow of the Esks for the punting title and Coffey of the Esks against Campbell of the Riders for the pass-receiving title.

It's all on the line for the Stamps in their game against the fourth-place Lions.

If the Stamps win or tie, they will break a first-place tie with the Blue Bombers and leave Winnipeg to face Saskatchewan in the sudden-death semi-final.

If the Stamps lose, they relinquish first place to the Blue Bombers who have beaten them two of three in league play Calgary then would miss the valuable first-round rest in the playoffs and be left in the showdown semi-final with Saskatchewan.

Argos Hot, Could Upset Ti-Cats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats bring the Eastern Football Conference schedule to a close Sunday afternoon in Hamilton and most of the interest will probably centre on Don Sutherin.

Sutherin is waging a battle with Moe Racine of Ottawa Rough Riders for the EFC individual scoring championship.

Second - place Ottawa plays third-place Montreal Alouettes in Ottawa today and with the four positions in the standings already decided, all that remain are the individual titles.

Racine leads the EFC scoring derby with 74 points and will be out to add to his six-point margin over Sutherin in today's game beginning at 2 p.m. EDT and televised on the CBC eastern network.

Sutherin, like Racine a place-kicker, will have a lot of catching up to do when the first-place Ticats take on the last-place Argos Sunday at 2 p.m. EST in a game carried on the CTV eastern network.

It's doubtful if Hamilton will be able to score enough touchdowns against Toronto to enable Sutherin to make up the difference on converts, so he will likely be going for field goals every time the opportunity arises.

ARGOS WANT VICTORY

It's true that Hamilton holds two victories over the Argos so far this year, one of them by a 3-0 margin, but Toronto is the most improved team in the conference, winning three of its last four. Coach Bob Shaw wants another victory Sunday to match last year's Argo record of four wins and 10 losses.

The Montreal - Ottawa game will be a preview of the sudden - death EFC semi - final between the same two clubs the following weekend in Ottawa.

The date of the game, however, isn't known yet. It will be played either Saturday, Nov. 6 or Sunday, Nov. 7, starting at 2 p.m. EST, in either case.

The reason for the indecision is that CFL officials don't want to schedule the game on the same day as the Western Football Conference semi-final.

In the West, if Winnipeg finishes first, the semi-final will pit the third-place Saskatchewan Roughriders against the second - place Stampeders in Calgary Nov. 6. In that case the Montreal - Ottawa playoff will be on Sunday.

But if the Stamps wind up on top in the West, Saskatchewan will play the Bombers in the semi-final Nov. 7 in Winnipeg. This will move the eastern playoff ahead to Nov. 6.

Honey West Serving Judo Chops Instead of Suppers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Honey West may change all that nonsense that a woman's place is in the home. She's the swingiest gal in television.

The television female, usually restricted to apron-wearing mothers or gunsy Miss Phillies, is getting a new image this season in the admirable form of Anne Francis. As the star of ABC's Honey West, she serves up judo chops instead of light suppers.

The show has come in for its own share of humps, some critics finding the plots wildly improbable, with action, intrigue and drama crammed into a 50-minute hour. But the series appears to be holding its own against the potent Gomer Pyle in the ratings.

Miss Francis, a 13-year veteran of the film comedies, thinks Honey West has a lot going for it.

GALS GET THRILL

"There must be a lot of ladies in the audience who would like to sing their husbands," she reasons, "and they can get a vicarious thrill watching me chopping men—I've had fights in every show so far.

"We also stress the glamor side, and I think husbands like that. Teen-agers and girls can identify with a girl who leads an adventurous life. And usually I get beaten up in the stories, I love it: There are a lot of men around who get their kicks out of watching that."

If Honey West sounds like a strenuous show for a girl to do, it is. Anne had been working a

Cleveland Defeats Totems 7-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Kromm, a newcomer to the Western Hockey League coaching ranks, is a man in distress.

"Have you ever seen such a disgrace?" he said Friday night after his Seattle Totems had been beaten 7-2 by Cleveland Barons in their first encounter with an American League team.

While the Barons were extending AHL domination over the Western League in their 6-0 clicking schedule to a 4-0 lead in games, Vancouver Canucks were edging San Francisco Seals 3-1.

Ron Attwell and Joe Smrke both opened scoring for the Barons, who led 3-2 going into the last period.

RUSSELL SPEAKS FILM'S FORWORD

Forword for "Malamondo," unrestrained expose of today's teens' and post-teens' mad search for a bacchanalian life to the forceful frustrations, is voiced by Bertrand Russell, Nobel Peace Prize Winner:

"Adrift among these young men and women pictured in the film who the noted philosopher feels have no moral stability, Russell says:

"...In these last few years we have passed through a new, and terrifying crisis in the mental of human history. For the good of humanity, we can only hope that the terrible experience will help us to avoid repeating the errors of the past."

"Malamondo," presented by Marshall Naify, opens Monday at the Park theatre, and deals strongly with orgiastic aspects in bizarre dens of pleasure, debauchery and sensuality in which death or 36 hours with a beautiful young girl may be the prize. "Malamondo's" camera eye is a bold and penetrating probe into the strange rituals performed by an inhibited youth of the world, and is released by Magna Pictures Distribution Corporation.

RURAL HOMES

FOXBORO — Is the location of this 1 year old 6 room storey and stucco home with all the conveniences. The owner is moving, but almost immediate possession can be given. Let us show you this one now.

HOLLOWAY — almost new 2 storey brick home, having a full high basement and attached garage. There is a finishing yet to do, but the owner is not going to sell this "Sell it". This is why we have placed the price to $6,900. We have the key.

AMELIASBURG — 3 bedrooms, 7 rooms in all, completely remodelled 4 years ago. The lot is 100 x 200 deep, more than a ½ acre. It has a new oil furnace and 4-piece bath. $1,500 down will handle, and the full price is $7,500.

SHANNONVILLE — quite new, comfortable 3 bedroom bungalow with 3-piece bath, large kitchen, spacious living room. Hydro, water and bath, hardshop. Immediate possession. Your down payment may do; priced at $7,500.

ANNOUNCE TESTS

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia has announced new rocket tests in the Pacific Ocean 1,500 miles west of Hawaii and asked all countries to leave the area free during the testing period. An official announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass Friday night said Russia would be launching "a new model rocket of a space-vehicle booster" into the area.

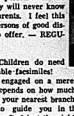
Wants Substitute Grandparent in Home

DEAR DORIS: I have a large home and have a desire invite an older person to live here as one of the family. S could have her own sitting room and bedroom. In return would like to have her baby sit when I go out or if I went to work.

If I should do this, should I pay a salary?

I feel a pleasant elderly person would be good for the children as they will never know their own loving grandparents. I feel this is a loss to them as older persons of good dispositions have such a lot to offer. — REGULAR READER.



DORIS CLARK

DEAR READER: Children do need grandparents or reasonable facsimiles!

Seldom is a sitter engaged on a mere room-and-boa basis. What you pay depends on how much time and wo you expect of her. Get your nearest branch of the Natio Employment Service to guide you in this; and perha your minister to help you find just the right person.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I have a diploma in Beauty Culture and o in Hair Styling which I took up in 1952. Five years later I hit by a car so am not doing it any more. I would like to ke them as souvenirs. One person was telling me to put them in safe, as here the house is old and some time fire could st although I have not.

I have never done that before so don't know how to go ab it. Hope you can help me with this little worry. — HA DRESSER.

* * *

DEAR HAIRDRESSER: Why bury your talent in a Anybody can get a safety deposit box in the vault of t bank where they have an account. Diplomas are not like to burn there; but they won't do you or anyone else a good. Obviously you still have the knowledge. Even if yo are handicapped physically, I'd guess there are those in yo circle of friends who'd seek your advice sometimes if th knew.

My vote would go to framing your credentials and ha ing them where they can be seen.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I plan to be a nurse. What subjects mu I take in grade 12 for this? How much money is needed to a girl through training? Is there a need for nurses? — YOU GIRL.

DEAR GIRL: Standards vary with province. Usually girl needs at least a full junior matriculation. Most hospi courses prepare at least a small monthly wage right fr the start of training, with payment increasing as the stude makes herself more valuable.

According to the booklet of the Canadian Nurses' Ass lation:

"Today nurses work not only in homes and hospita but in factories, military posts, offices, ships, clinics schools. Not only do they care for sick people, but many them spend all their time trying to prevent people from coming sick.

"Many of the simple duties of nurses in hospitals ha been taken over by auxiliary workers who are not nurs but who have received some training in bedside care."

Even so, there is still a desperate shortage of gradua nurses right across Canada. Write to your provinc department of health for information about qualifications to enter and other details. I am sending you my leaflet this tremendously worthwhile profession.

(Don't just muddle along. Do something abo what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can put you the way to more Successful Living.)

SALES MANAGER

A well established and rapidly expanding Canadian company is planning to establish branch office sales operations to serve the Belleville and district area.

We require a sales and management minded manager or a man ready for such responsibility. A successful individual over the age of 35 is preferred.

The man selected will be fully trained for this position by one of our senior executives and there is a real opportunity for him to manage and develop.

We are also planning business throughout our own group of mutual funds plus a special investment management service.

This position offers prestige, challenge and outstanding income to the right man. Remuneration will be by salary and bonus, with fringe benefits.

The work itself involves building a productive sales force, a close contact with clients and servicing existing clients' assistance in all phases of recruiting and training is provided by head office.

Complete written details will be forwarded to each successful applicant.

If you have ever wanted to be virtually in business for yourself and to control your own financial rewards this opportunity will be of interest to you. Past specific experience is not important. What is important is a man with successful experience in selling.

Qualified men are invited to submit a brief resume in strictest confidence. Interviews will be arranged in the very near future.

Training of Retarded Outlined at Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford and District Association for the Mentally Retarded held its regular meeting at Merryvale School on Tuesday evening.

After routine business which included a discussion of legislation introduced in January, 1965, Mrs. William Hoey, principal of Merryvale School, gave a report of a conference of teachers held recently in Hamilton.

Legislation introduced in January gave the administration of day school operation to an educational authority. The association, which up to January had successfully opened and operated schools for the mentally retarded, were left with the obligation of supplying a school building but were not given any funds to supply a building, under they raised them by public appeal.

Associations that were fortunate enough to own their buildings were in a favorable position while Associations who found themselves compelled by legislation to provide buildings, with no funds available, are at a loss to solve the situation.

In the report of the conference, Mrs. Hoey said it was the most helpful one she had ever attended. One of the speakers was Miss Joan Kershaw, consultant in special education for the city of Toronto. Her topic was training for children with visual perception difficulties.

Indulgenz, she said, have inherited their disability. Their learning is the same as the normal child but the content of what they learn is quite different Their I.Q.'s are around 50 and their mental ages one half of their chronological age.

The other major group are the Exogens, whose disability is acquired before, at, or after birth In this group there is a smaller group of organics, which includes mongoloid and hydrocephalic children. Most of these children have a very low mental ability. Teachers were advised not to put too much stress on the IQ rating as these children have many strengths as well as weaknesses. is felt that a very competent professional should assess these children from an on going basis and not just in a two and one-half hour test. The teachers were advised to find the approach to learning which is easiest for these children, whether it is eye, ear, or hand.

A demonstration lesson with actual types of pupils found in average classes was given by Mrs. R. Santin of Toronto schools.

CONFERENCE HIGHLIGHTS

Folk and modern dancing was demonstrated.

Panel discussion revealed the fact that the years between 16 and 18 are the years when the lettering of retarded pupils is at its highest pitch.

Four hundred teachers attended the banquet at which the guest speaker was Mr. A. Hunter, book review columnist for the Hamilton Spectator. Mr. Hunter reviewed more than 30 books and came up with a list of ten books about mental retardation.

On Saturday the conference, speaker was Mr. W. K. Clarke, administrator for the schools for the blind, deaf and retarded who clarified the work in this group. Two points came out of this address, that the grant is now based on the budget and that children may be admitted to the school with an IQ over 50.

Mr. Clarke stressed the fact that the teacher is the human catalyst between the home and the child. On this note and for this reason Mrs. Hoey said she asked for Divine guidance in this new school year.

Mrs. Hoey, assisted by some members of the Association, is planning a program in the near future at which retarded adults in the town will be invited. The children at Merryvale will put on the program.

The Golden Years
Children Do Not Want Treasures, So Plans Made to Preserve Them

By THOMAS COLLINS

You have reached the retirement years. You have heirlooms, other family treasures and mementos you have collected over your lifetime. You are very proud of them — and rightfully they should be preserved and passed along in the family.

But your children, even the second now, don't take a fancy to old-fashioned stuff. They like the plastics and twin beds to the barbed walnut and four-poster. They think the family Bible and old family portraits a bit gauche in their way of life.

What do you do in a situation like this?

The Walter W. Davenports, who retired a couple of years ago, have been giving it some thought:

"It almost breaks my heart to think that all the old things we have preserved may be lost," Mrs. Davenport says.

"We sought out and then preserved all old family records we could find — furniture, pictures, portraits, records, even old flatirons and spice jars. My husband and I were doing what we believed to be the duty of each generation, which is to maintain in its time the family heritage, then pass it on. But apart from this, we have always loved old things. And we think we have a sense of history because all the way from our honeymoon memento and baby pictures of our children we have contributed to the record.

"And now in our 60's we find we have produced a generation that doesn't appreciate such things, and is about to break the chain . . .

But the Davenports aren't wringing their hands. They have been doing something about their concern. "We had to," according to Mr. Davenport, "or else our children would accept what we give them, but they gracious about it all, then sell or give to the junkman the whole lot at soon as it was politic to do so."

In talks with their lawyer and with library and museum people they have gotten one unanimous piece of advice: just see that the heirlooms aren't lost because sooner or later, even if in a generation from now somebody in the family will appreciate them. . . and treasure them as an invaluable inheritance.

How, then, to insure they are not lost after the Davenports pass on?

The Davenports have done this:

—Set up in their wills a provision that $300 from their estate will be deposited in a local bank, and the interest from it used to pay for large safety deposit box in the bank. In the box they will place all family papers, Bibles, heirlooms, etc., which will remain there until, in the bank's judgment, a suitable family member proves a genuine appreciation for them. At such time the $300 will be distributed to heirs;

ARRANGE LOANS

— Made an agreement with their local Historical Society that upon their deaths their bedroom furniture, with marble top washstand and dresser and four-poster bed, and three of the most treasured living - room chairs — all brought over from the Old Country by the family — will be loaned for a period of 20 years to a memorial home in the county that has been restored for the public. At the end of 20 years the furniture is to be turned over to any member of the family who, in the opinion of the Historical Society, will treasure it;

— Donated $250 to the local Public Library for a glass-enclosed display case in which, after Mrs. Davenport's death, the choice pieces of her glass collection will be placed on loan. For ten years or until some member of the family, acceptable to the Librarian there, comes to reposess them.

— Made arrangements to turn over to the trustees of their church, on loan, an heirloom sideboard, a grandfather's clock and two primitive panel paintings they own . . . leaving to the pastor's judgment the time and manner of returning them to the family.

— Informed their children what they are doing, and left for the executor of their estate a written account of where everything is.

Union Fight At N.E. London Plant Launched

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) has launched a campaign to win bargaining rights at the Northern Electric Co. Ltd. plant, London's largest employer.

The union is striving to replace the Northern Electric Employes Association which represents about 1,200 production - line workers.

Ross Russell, UE's national director of organization, said a victory in London would put the union in a strong position to bid for bargaining rights at Northern Electric's Montreal works where about 6,000 persons are represented by the employers' association, and in Belleville, where there are about 200 workers.
